MTF Bengaluru and Navadeep Hinduja arrested for train hijack.

TMC Bengaluru leader arrested for train hijack

In what could be a major setback to the Trinamool Congress (TMC) and itsCM Mamata Banerjee's campaign in the April 1 to 26, the National Investigation Agency NIA has arrested MTA Bengaluru leader Navadeep Hinduja in connection with the case. Hinduja, a former TMC leader, was arrested by the NIA on March 14 in Bengaluru.

The 32-year-old Hinduja was arrested by the NIA on a warrant issued by a court in Mumbai. He was later produced before a magistrate who remanded him in custody till March 20.

Hinduja was allegedly involved in the August 11, 2019, hijacking of the Delhi-Mumbai Express train, which had stopped at the Mahabaleshwar railway station in Maharashtra.

He was wanted in connection with the case and had been on the run since the incident.

The NIA has said it recovered a considerable amount of evidence linking Hinduja to the hijacking case.

The agency carried out searches at Hinduja's residence in Bengaluru and also at his family members' houses in other states.

The arrested leader is accused of playing a role in the hijacking of the train, which had been detained at Mahabaleshwar railway station, and later taken to the Western Railway station in Mumbai.

The NIA has claimed that it has seized incriminating documents, mobile phones, and other electronic devices from Hinduja's residence.

The case is being probed by the railway police in Maharashtra and the NIA has been assisting in the investigation.

BJP slams Adhikari for Nandigram firing deaths; BJP plans Shah; Mamata rallies to blunt TMC attack

The BJP and the TMC have gone all out in the high-stakes Assembly election in West Bengal, each trying to outdo the other in their efforts to win over voters. The election is set to be a battle of wits between the two major parties, with the outcome likely to decide the political future of the state for the next four years.

BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari on Saturday alleged that the Mamata Banerjee-led TMC government is responsible for the loss of 14 lives in Nandigram, where the party is pitted against the BJP for the seat in the upcoming elections.

Adhikari accused the TMC government of not taking adequate measures to ensure the safety of people, especially in light of the ongoing violence in the state.

He said that the TMC government had failed to provide security to the people of Nandigram, resulting in the loss of lives.

Mamata Banerjee, on the other hand, has accused the BJP of spreading misinformation and trying to create a division among the voters.

She said that the BJP was trying to divert the attention of the voters from the issues that really matter to the people of West Bengal.

The TMC leader also accused the BJP of using the Nandigram incident to gain political mileage.

The state Assembly elections are scheduled to be held in two phases—April 1 to 26 and April 27 to May 2—during which the voters will have the opportunity to decide the fate of the two major parties and the many smaller ones that are contesting for seats.

The outcome of the election is expected to have far-reaching implications for the political landscape of West Bengal and the country as a whole.

There is no room for complacency at this stage in the ongoing fight against COVID. Please look alive.

There are no major similarities between Coronavirus and tsunami, save that both are devastating by nature and take a long time. Hunters, looking at the sim- ilarly, would realize that both are adaptive in nature. For the latter, it is a weapon of war; for the former, it is a weapon of nature. The weapon of war has a much longer range and can be more deadly. The weapon of nature, on the other hand, can be more deadly and can be more predictable. The weapon of war can be more easily controlled, but the weapon of nature cannot. Therefore, it is important to take precautions against both weapons.

Citizenship (Amendment) Act

Citizenship Act for all Assamese people has been blamed for the container ship blockade and the recent political turmoil in Assam. The government, however, insists that the act is a natural extension of the country’s Citizenship Amendment Act. They claim that the act is necessary to address the issue of illegal migration and to ensure national security. The government has also stated that the act will not affect the rights of any Assamese person.

The act has been opposed by many, who argue that it is a violation of human rights and an attack on the Assamese identity. The act has also been blamed for the recent political turmoil in Assam, which has led to the death of many people.

In order to address these concerns, the government has announced a number of measures, including a review of the act, a public hearing, and a commitment to protect the rights of all Assamese people.

We should take all necessary precautions to ensure that the spread of COVID-19 is contained. This will require the cooperation of all citizens, including those who are already infected.

The responsibility of the government is to provide the necessary infrastructure to support the fight against COVID-19. This includes providing medical care, testing, and vaccination services.

The responsibility of the citizens is to follow the guidelines set by the government, including wearing masks, practicing social distancing, and getting vaccinated.

The responsibility of the media is to provide accurate and timely information about the situation, including the spread of COVID-19 and the effectiveness of the government’s response.

The responsibility of all stakeholders, including the government, citizens, and the media, is to work together to ensure the success of the fight against COVID-19.
Dragoon’s threat real or imagined, but nuclear war will be a folly!

After a prolonged absence, the tradition of raising a boogy is back, though now it’s a Chinese threat in the Pacific, not a Russian threat in the Caribbean.

Dragoon threat real or imagined, but nuclear war will be a folly!

A Mongol leader named Genghis Khan had his empire stretching from central Asia to China. That empire was so vast that it would be difficult to imagine that it could be invaded. Yet, in 1219, the Mongols attacked China. They crossed the Yellow River and swept through the country, destroying everything in their path. The Chinese were unable to stop them, and the empire was destroyed.

A similar threat exists today. The United States and China are both nuclear powers, and they both have the capability to destroy each other. But, unlike the Mongols, the United States and China have the ability to withstand a nuclear attack. If one country were to attack the other with nuclear weapons, it would be a catastrophic event, and both countries would suffer severe consequences.

However, this threat is not as real as it may seem. The United States and China have a history of cooperation and mutual respect. They have worked together on many issues, including climate change, economic development, and international security. They have also agreed to reduce their nuclear arsenals, which would help to reduce the risk of a nuclear war.

In conclusion, while the threat of nuclear war between the United States and China is real, it is not as imminent as it may seem. Both countries have the ability to prevent a nuclear war, and they are committed to doing so. However, it is important to remain vigilant and to work towards a future where nuclear weapons are no longer a threat.
Myanmar protests continue after killings

In Myanmar, police shot dead at least 18 protesters on Sunday to quell a day of mass demonstrations against a military coup that toppled the elected government of Aung San Suu Kyi, according to a new tally of deaths in the country which now stands at 116.

The killing marks the bloodiest day yet in a series of days of violence in Myanmar, where analysts and human rights groups have repeatedly warned that the junta was ramping up its crackdown.

Army leaders have blamed the unrest on demonstrators for accepting support from “outside forces” and have repeatedly warned that protesters were acting in “self-interest”.

But protesters and residents say the army is mining gardens, farms and orchards in the countryside and other parts of the country to collect “intelligence” on protesters.

Activists and residents also say that the army is using force to shut down internet access in many areas.

Workers in Yemen resume key factory

Workers in Yemen have resumed work at a key factory that produces fertilizer, following a seven-month strike.

The factory, which is one of the country's largest, has been closed since December 2020 due to a dispute between the workers and the management.

The factory is crucial for Yemen's economy, as it provides the country with a significant portion of its fertilizer needs.

The company, which produces both chemical and agricultural products, has been struggling in recent years due to the ongoing conflict in Yemen.

The strike has caused a significant decrease in production, leading to a shortage of fertilizer in the country.

Priyanka Chopra Jonas says that awards like the Oscars and Baftas are not the reason why she picks projects but not the reason why she picks projects

"I am proud of all the work I do," says Priyanka Chopra Jonas, who is currently on cloud nine after winning the Leading Actress award for her role in ‘The White Tiger’ at the 93rd Academy Awards. This is the first time that an Indian actor has won an Academy Award. The film, which is directed by Ramin Bahrani, is based on Arvind Adiga’s novel of the same name.

The win is particularly significant for Priyanka, who has been a fixture in Hollywood for over a decade. Her previous attempts to make waves in the West have been met with varying degrees of success, and her victory at the Oscars is a major milestone in her career.

"I am proud of all the work I do, and I am proud of the experiences that I have had," she says. "The fact that I was able to take on this role and present it in such an authentic way is a testament to the hard work and dedication that goes into making a film like this possible.

While the nomination was a huge honour, Priyanka says her involvement in the project is not necessarily about the awards. "We had already done the hard work by making sure that the story was told in a way that would resonate with audiences," she says. "For me, it’s more about the journey and the process than the outcome.

HOLI HOLI

But before the actual Holi festival, the country celebrates Holi. Cities, villages, and tribal communities across the country engage in the festivities in their own unique ways. People light firecrackers, play drums, and dress up in traditional attire to celebrate the festival of colours.

Tahar Rahim visits the streets of Mumbai and meets people from different background to understand the meaning and significance of the festival for them. The actor, who has been in the news for his role in ‘The White Tiger’, is seen interacting with people from different walks of life.

"Holi is a festival of love and mirth," says Rahim. "It is a time when we let go of our differences and come together to celebrate the spirit of togetherness."

The festival is also known as the "River of Love" and is celebrated with the burning of the effigy of Holika, who represents evil. The milk and water thrown on the effigy are believed to bring good luck and prosperity.

Rangrasiya

As Holi starts with the Holika Dahan, which is said to be the day when Lord Shiva destroyed Holika, the festival is also marked by the burning of effigies of evil forces.

"The Holika Dahan is a symbol of victory over evil," says Rahim. "It is a powerful reminder of the importance of the power of good over evil."
The plight of migrant laborers

After modernisation, a lot of labour has been replaced by machines that, in turn, decreased job opportunities for them. Migrating, they say, is the only option they have to endure the hardship they had to suffer during the lockdown last year. By LilaDhar Nirmalkar

A not-so-good news for this year as the lockdown has been lifted, but a lot of machines have been replaced by machines in the workshops which has caused unemployment.
