Only unimpressive performance in the local body elections and the higher risk of a 'wave' in the current elections, the TDSP has to wait for its next turn.

It was a surprise to the party leaders that election was held on Saturday and all the efforts that were taken up on Sunday were not enough. The results were not enough to win in just 41 seats.

The Congress, with a large number of leaders, including K Muraleedharan and K Muraleedharan, was wiped out by the BJP.

The Keralite people have to vote for a new face in the next election. The party is in dire need of a new face to lead the state.

Tamil Nadu has a new leader in the form of TTV Dhinakaran, who led the AIADMK in the assembly elections and is currently leading the anti-BJP Opposition camp at the national level.

FIR IN KOLKATA

The Lalbazar police on Monday registered a case of rioting against the Trinamool Congress and Bharatiya Janata Party in the city, a day after police and polling agents were allegedly beaten up, and the results of the state Assembly elections were announced. The police lodged a case under sections 146, 147, 148, 149, 307 and 309 of the Indian Penal Code.

The police registered the FIR against a father-son duo and four others who had allegedly beaten up the officials of the two parties and damaged their vehicles.

The police said that the two parties had clashed near the Lalbazar Police Station and the incident had occurred due to the Annadwar campaign of the Trinamool Congress, during which the party had alleged that the BJP had speedy trials in the Bengal police force.

India's image has taken a severe beating globally. It's time to show the world our true mettle.

Lurching from one crisis to another, the Oli-led unformed Govt. has engaged the list both at home and on the foreign policy front.

Hospitals most fail safety norms

It is well known that oxygen, hospital beds and essential medicines are the two most important factors in the fight against COVID-19. The Oli-led Government has failed to provide the citizens the-shot they need to beat the virus. As a result, despite the ash heavy by clouding India to get the jab, the drive has begun in its last stage. While States like Uttar Pradesh and Gujarat began introducing a lucky few, some announced vaccination for different age groups (also such for those above 35 years) while others told the people not to line up outside vaccination centres as they have not received stocks of the shots. Chief among the latter were Jharkhand, Uttarakhand, West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh, and Punjab, who plan to launch the drive later this month. In the meantime, the Centre, trying to be fair, has assured the people that the campaign will soon be operational across India as “every sooner possible."

Even though the Union Health Ministry remains unsigned, the media reports that the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) and the Centre are working on a phased vaccination programme across the country.

Nations replay India's goodness

The world has witnessed the efforts made by the Oli-led Government to help in the fight against COVID-19. The Government has expressed its solidarity with the affected countries by providing medical aid and supplies.

The Government has announced that it will provide medical aid to countries that have been affected by the pandemic. This includes sending medical personnel, medical supplies, and equipment to help in the fight against the virus.

The government has also announced that it will provide financial assistance to countries that have been affected by the pandemic. This includes providing loans and grants to help in the fight against the virus.

The government has also announced that it will provide technical assistance to countries that have been affected by the pandemic. This includes providing expert advice and guidance to help in the fight against the virus.

While the world has praised India's efforts to help in the fight against COVID-19, some countries have expressed concern about the adequacy of the support provided by India.

In conclusion, India has shown its commitment to helping other countries in the fight against COVID-19. The government has provided medical aid, financial assistance, and technical assistance to countries that have been affected by the pandemic.

The government has also taken steps to ensure that the vaccine is distributed fairly and equitably across the country. This includes providing the vaccine to vulnerable groups, such as elderly people and those with pre-existing medical conditions.

Mizos cloister for closure so that the burden of ‘Zoram Day’ and life in PPVs can be relieved. Closure and dismantlement would sow the seeds for a deep reconciliation in the future.

H is century ago, on an elite populace of which Israel is a member, many Israelis no longer derive a sense of security from the collective memories of those days. Several prominent historians have identified the 1930s as a period when the memories of all Israelis who remained in the Haganah (the underground) were beginning to fade, as the generation that witnessed the 1936-1939 Arab riots declined in numbers. By the 1960s, the last of the survivors had passed away, and the collective memory of the violent past was replaced with the stories of the post-1967 war era, which many Israelis now see as the golden age of the state.

The anti-settlement move finally came to an end in 1986 when the Mifraz Peace Accord was signed. This was a significant moment in the history of Israel, as it marked the beginning of a new era, where the peace process in the region finally began to take hold.

Many elders still talk of the events of those days through histrionic songs and stories that are still told today. But it is the elders who have a personal connection to the past and who can bring a sense of the past to the table.

The moment is reminiscent of the American Civil War, where the elderly who were still alive in the 1860s and 1870s became the main storytellers of the past, passing on the memories to the younger generation.

The widespread human rights abuses in the PPVs continue to evoke strong opinions among the old residents. Many still want to talk about it, and the PPVs are a reminder of the past, helping to keep the memory of those days alive.

Israel has few parallels in modern Indian history, and the Mizoram Peace Accord was a major turning point in the country's history. In 1986, the PPVs were handed over to the MNF and the Government of India, and the process of closure began.

In the words of a Mizoram historian, Zoram, who was present at the signing of the Peace Accord, "It was a momentous event in the history of Mizoram, and it marked the beginning of a new era of peace and development in the region."

North Korea on Sunday said it will take "very grave" steps if the United States were to make "great blunders" in its policy toward the North, in a statement by the government that called for addressing the North’s security threat and resolving the issue through diplomacy.

The statement was issued in the wake of the visit by US foreign policy advisor Wendy Sherman to South Korea last week, in his first overseas trip as US special envoy for North Korea. The North’s announcement came a day after the Chinese government said it will work with other partners to adopt "stern measures" against North Korea.

The statement read: "The DPRK stands in a security threat and will face "a very grave situation" if the US rolls out a "yellow card" against North Korea.

"A very grave situation" means that the US administration would seek a regime change to its liking, "an equivalent of Donald Trump’s "grand bargain" and Roh Moo-hyun’s "strategic patience."

"Kwon’s statement didn’t record any commitments, but it’s certain that the US布莱克 administration made a big blunder in their policy toward North Korea.

"North Korea and its nuclear program will evolve with new steps as the US DPARK policy has demonstrated," the statement went on, saying that the US will have to press for own programs, and that the US will find itself in a "very difficult and unidentifiable situation."

The second wave of Covid-19 is on its way. This time, it has brought with it a wave of daily positive cases of the virus that has its roots in the local Mohalla Committee level to be noticed. With April 1, when there were only 2,160 cases of Covid-19 reported by the Hospital posted on social media.

We are all aware of the fact that the second wave of Covid-19 is imminent, and we should be prepared for it. This time, it is expected that the second wave will be even more severe than the first one. The government has already taken various measures to control the spread of the virus, but we need to remain vigilant and follow the guidelines to prevent the spread of the virus.

Some of the measures that can help prevent the spread of the virus include:

1. Wearing a mask: Wearing a mask is one of the most effective ways to prevent the spread of the virus. It can help reduce the transmission of the virus by blocking respiratory droplets that contain the virus.
2. Social distancing: Maintaining a safe distance from others can help prevent the spread of the virus. It is recommended to maintain a distance of at least 6 feet from others.
3. Regular handwashing: Regular handwashing with soap and water can help prevent the spread of the virus. It is recommended to wash hands for at least 20 seconds.
4. Avoiding large gatherings: Large gatherings can increase the risk of transmission of the virus. It is recommended to avoid gatherings and maintain small groups.
5. Getting vaccinated: Getting vaccinated can help prevent the spread of the virus. It is recommended to get vaccinated as soon as possible.

These measures can help prevent the spread of the virus and reduce the severity of the second wave. We need to remain vigilant and follow these guidelines to prevent the spread of the virus.
