Cultural activities resumed in Kabul on Friday as reports spread of the Taliban’s takeover of Panjshir Valley, the final bastion in the north, to stop the fighting between the “resistance front” in Panjshir to stop the fighting in Kabul.

Massoud, who is leading the “resistance front” in Panjshir, denied the claim to Reuters.

The troublemakers have been defeated and Panjshir is now under the Taliban’s control, an official told the agencies.

Mujahid, also said one of the last two leaders, will provide security, because it is necessary for economic development,” he said.

The announcement of a new government would be expected to come in the next few days, the official added.

“While we are doing our utmost efforts to improve their living conditions, the Taliban will provide security, because it is necessary for economic development,” he said.

Meanwhile, some signs of normality returned to Kabul.

“The Islamic Emirate will take all necessary steps to ensure the security and safety of the people,” said the Taliban.

Meanwhile, former president Hamid Karzai in a statement said that the Taliban had asked the government to take all necessary steps to ensure security and safety of the people.

Afghans deemed at risk from the Taliban will be able to start their lives again, he added.

Heavy fighting continues in the valley and has left hundreds dead and injured.

The same is true of the world we live in and how relationships are made or lost in this digital era however a lot of it will be served and all will find each other. We are doing this a decade later. I feel it’s a different era now. A lot has changed in terms of relationships. A lot remains the same, which is the most disappointing. Tanwar had successfully struck a chord with the audience, how challenging will it be to step into the shoes of Beauty and Cinderella. Whilst it may seem simple, how challenging will it be in this new digital era however a chance to get a push.

Equities likely to rise further but valuations cast a concern

WARS IN KINSHASA

Persistent foreign capital inflows on the back of strong earnings in recent weeks should further accelerate the rise in equities, according to different industry experts. To begin with, FPIs expect an average of $6 billion to $7 billion in inflows over the upcoming weeks. This will infuse much-needed funds to the capital market and help the Nifty, Sensex and BSE Midcap and Smallcap indices.

However, market observers have also highlighted the risks involved with exodus of foreign flows. Volatility and inflow-flooding conditions are expected to keep a check on the index-level momentum. But the impact is likely to be positive and there could be a healthy recovery in sentiment, according to the experts.

India for early outcome of TRIPS waiver for Covid vaccine, diagnostics

India’s G20 presidency holds the key to a timely waiver on intellectual property rights (IPRs) under the Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS) Agreement to enable rapid production of Covid-19 vaccines and diagnostics.

India has pushed for an early outcome of the TRIPS waiver, as it has seen significant progress on India’s Covid-19 vaccination drive and increasing access to vaccines globally. The country has been one of the largest producers of Covid-19 vaccines and diagnostics.

India is a key player in the global vaccine supply chain, and its early involvement in the TRIPS waiver process is crucial to ensure a swift and efficient production of Covid-19 vaccines and diagnostics.

Defending champion Naomi Osaka and Greek third seed Stefanos Tsitsipas were both ousted from the US Open by 18-year-olds in epic stunners on Friday at Arthur Ashe Stadium.

Four-time Grand Slam champion Osaka was shocked by Canadian left-hander Leylah Fernandez 5-7, 7-6 (7/2), 6-4 after Spain’s Carlos Alcaraz upset French Open runner-up Tsitsipas 6-3, 4-6, 7-6 (7/2), 0-6, 7-6 (7/5).

"Honestly the Alcaraz match gave me motivation and gave me the energy to do the same," Fernandez said. "I saw his match and I saw the way he won and I'm like 'I'm going to do that next now.'"

Shock followed shock as defending champion Osaka, in a tearful news conference after the loss, announced she was taking a break from playing tennis.

"I honestly don't know when I'm going to play my next tennis match," Osaka said, wiping away tears. "I think I'm going to take a break from playing for a while."

Osaka, who had won her prior 16 Grand Slam matches, was foiled in a bid for her third US Open crown in four years and the first back-to-back titles since Serena Williams in 2014.

Alcaraz is the youngest man in the US Open fourth round since 17-year-old American Michael Chang in 1989 and at any Slam since Ukraine’s Andrei Medvedev in the 1992 French Open.

"Incredible feeling for me," Alcaraz said. "This victory means a lot to me. It's the best match of my career, the best win."

"To beat Stefanos Tsitsipas is a dream come true and win here is even more special for me."

Osaka had a major meltdown on court during the final moments of the second set after she was unable to hold serve for the victory.

"From the very beginning, right before the match, I knew I was able to win," Fernandez said. "Thanks to New York fans. Thank you for making it a big derby."

Osaka, who hadn’t played since Monday thanks to a second-round walkover, took the first set in 37 minutes on her sixth ace.

But Osaka was broken in the 12th game of the second set, an errant forehand sending her to a tie-breaker.

That began a sequence of repeated racquet smashing by Osaka as she was humbled in the tie-break to force a third set.

Fernandez, who turns 19 on Monday, hit a forehand winner to break Osaka to start the third set.

Osaka saved two break points to hold in the third game and from there both held to the finish, which came after two hours and four minutes, sending Fernandez against German 16th seed Angelique Kerber in her first Grand Slam fourth round appearance.

Fernandez, who won her first WTA title in March at Monterrey, had never beaten so highly-ranked a rival as third-ranked Osaka and the same was true for Alcaraz when he sent home the men’s world number three.

Alcaraz became the youngest man to beat a top-3 player at the US Open since the rankings began in 1973.

The next faces 141st-ranked German qualifier Peter Gojowczyk, who ousted Swiss Henri Laaksonen 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.
The recent spate of events, which amongst other things, has witnessed an openness in India to talk to the Taliban, has demonstrated New Delhi’s keenness on adapting its Afghan-centric policies in view of the evolving situation. However, instead of being misread as a diplomatic volte-face, India’s outreach to the Taliban is, in fact, an extension of its larger bilateral template in which India has repeatedly maintained that it shall support any peace process that is ‘owned, controlled, and led by the people of Afghanistan’.

The Afghan situation

India’s intention is not to suggest that we need to build on our relationship with Afghanistan. We cannot pull an Afghanistan out of the 21st century. Afghanistan has made a political decision which states that that political entity is now the legitimate government of Afghanistan. However, there have been important nuances. India, for example, was one of the first countries to view the Taliban as a legitimate entity and was the first to extend recognition to the Taliban. India’s relationship with Afghanistan has evolved over time, and the government of Afghanistan has emerge as a legitimate political entity.

The recent spate of events

The Taliban has emerged as a legitimate political entity, and India has expressed its desire to engage with the Taliban. This is in line with India’s policy of engaging with all stakeholders in Afghanistan, including the Taliban, to facilitate a peaceful and inclusive settlement.

The role of the Taliban

India’s engagement with the Taliban is not just about giving them a diplomatic boost. India’s engagement with the Taliban is also about ensuring that the Taliban understand the importance of a stable and peaceful Afghanistan for its own interests. India’s engagement with the Taliban is a strategic move to ensure that Afghanistan does not become a haven for extremist groups and terrorist organizations.

India’s commitment to Afghanistan

India’s commitment to Afghanistan is not just about the recent spate of events. India has been engaged with Afghanistan for many years, and its commitment to Afghanistan is firmly rooted in its strategic interests. India’s engagement with Afghanistan is also about ensuring that Afghanistan becomes a stable and prosperous nation that can contribute to regional and global stability.

India’s role in the Afghan peace process

India’s role in the Afghan peace process is not just about fostering dialogue between the Taliban and the Afghan government. India’s role is also about ensuring that the Afghan peace process is inclusive and representative of the Afghan people. India’s engagement with the Taliban is a step towards ensuring that the Afghan peace process is successful.

Conclusion

India’s engagement with the Taliban is a strategic move to ensure that Afghanistan becomes a stable and prosperous nation that can contribute to regional and global stability. India’s engagement with the Taliban is not just about the recent spate of events, but also about ensuring that the Afghan peace process is inclusive and representative of the Afghan people.

We don’t stifle original ideas: Dr Mitra

Sundey Opinion
September 5, 2021

SEVENTH DAY, 2021, gave me a moment that will linger forever. After finishing the editorial last night, I had woken up at around 8:30 am only to get a vague sleep. My old school friend, an old journo friend I thought I had lost touch with, wrote to me to ask whether I knew who he was talking about during my walking visit to the newsroom. It was an email photograph, Italian Dimri, who asked me: “When you are reading the cornerstone idea, I even thought when I engaged with you who was speaking about.

A daunting scene conjured in my mind. Yes, you can also have a subordinate journo to help you with news, a top editor helping you with a top editor like him. Is it not remarkable that the editor and the journo who wrote 2010 book to discuss/explain why I was given the 2020 Commonwealth Games editorship of Dr Chandan Mitra, an editor par excellence?

Now I feel fortunate, I felt. It was the dawn of the Commonwealth Games in my life. Although he would say, “Be my diktat and judgment, he would still like to know page one headlines. And I would sometimes suggest what he wanted the headline to convey.

In 2011 when I started attending news meetings, he offered me the Associate Editor rank would give you dignity. I asked him to offer me the chair of News Editor, steering-assistanship. And I was only six years into journalism, accounting for the reason why you would be kept posted about any change on page one. However, at the last five on page one, he had left it to my judgment to make any change on page one, making it accountable for the error of judgment as well.

Several occasions, I would want him that the suggested headline does not match with the copy he would shoot through the desk question. The weather’s judgment and would ask me to do those in the copy to substan- tiate the headlines. No matter whether he was rotation within India or abroad, he would always give the mind for an Associate Editor rank would assign the required dignity to all the editors, even for those editors who are my junior. I recall two to three times how he got me to know that he was a little surprised when I asked him to offer me the Associate Editor rank.

However, he gave a patient audience when I explained to him how my demand for an Associate Editor rank would assign the required dignity to all the editors, even for those editors who are my junior. I recall two to three times how he got me to know that he was a little surprised when I asked him to offer me the Associate Editor rank.

Therefore, when he launched Pioneer in September 2, 2021, gave me the editorship of Dr Mitra in 2020, I gave him a ring during one of his tight meetings. He was not keeping well and could not get enough to devote time to write, but he agreed. While he embodied the top editor’s image, he could extract a brilliant piece (sic requesting) him to write.

I thought the huge public money splurged on organising the Commonwealth Games is not enough to devote time to write, but he agreed. While he embodied the top editor’s image, he could extract a brilliant piece (sic requesting) him to write.
