India warns UK of tit for tat on Covishield stand

UK quarantine rule for Indians 'discriminating', says New Delhi

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Taking strong exception to the UK Government not recognising the Covishield vaccine and mandating even those Indians who received both its doses to undergo 10 days of self-isolation after their arrival to that country, India on Tuesday termed it as a "discriminating policy" and warned of a "reciprocal" action.

Sounding this stern note, Foreign Secretary Harsh Shringla also said External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar discussed the issue with his British counterpart Liz Truss in New York on Monday. The issue was likely to be resolved soon following certain assurances, Shringla said. "Urged early resolution of quarantine issue in mutual interest," Jaishankar tweeted after he met Truss.

Enunciating India's position, Shringla said the UK decision to not recognise Covishield is a "discriminating policy" thereby creating trouble for the Indians travelling to England.

In an announcement on Monday, the UK said Indian travelers, who have received both doses of the Covishield, will be considered unvaccinated and will have to undergo self-isolation for 10 days there.

"The non-recognition of Covishield is a discriminating policy and impacts our citizens travelling to the UK. The External Affairs Minister has raised the issue strongly with the new UK foreign secretary," Shringla said.

Adopting a tough stance, he also cautioned the UK that India is well within its rights to resort to reciprocal action over the new Covid rules.

Addressing a news conference here, the Foreign Secretary said, "The basic issue is that, here's a vaccine — Covishield — which is a licensed product of a UK company manufactured in India of which we have supplied five million doses to the UK at the request of the Government. But if we don't get satisfaction we would be within our rights to impose reciprocal measures."

The new UK rules said the current "traffic light system" of red, amber, green countries based on levels of Covid-19 risk will be replaced by one red list of countries from October 4. India is currently on the amber list and the expanded list of countries whose vaccines are recognised in the UK does not include India.

The British High Commission in New Delhi has said the UK is working with India on ways to resolve the issue of the Covid-19 vaccine certification issued by Indian authorities.

"We are engaging with the Government of India to explore how we could expand UK recognition of vaccine certification to people vaccinated by a relevant public health body in India," a British High Commission spokesperson said.

"The UK is committed to opening up international travel again as soon as is practicable and this announcement is a further step to enable people to travel more freely again, in a safe and sustainable way, while protecting public health," the spokesperson added.

Chhattisgarh needs air cargo facility: CM

STAFF REPORTER ■ RAIPUR

Chhattisgarh can play an important role in the country's exports but it will need facility for air cargo, Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel said on Tuesday.

Commerce and Industry Minister Kawasaki Lakhma was a

NDA to open doors for women in 2022

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Moving towards gender parity, the elite National Defence Academy (NDA), which trains young boys to become officers, will open its doors for women cadets from May next year. The authorities are establishing suitable infrastructure for the new entrants.

It will be for the first time that women cadets will be admitted to the NDA set up in 1954 in Khadakwasla, Pune, to groom male cadets to be officers. It is the only tri-services training institute in the world.

Three Services chiefs — including General MM Naravane, Admiral Karambir Singh and IAF chief RKS Bhadauria — visited the NDA on August 21 this year to review preparations made to induct women cadets. The visit came days after the Supreme Court allowed women cadets to appear for the NDA entrance examination.

As regards the latest development, the Defence Ministry has informed the Supreme Court that a notification allowing women candidates to appear for the entrance examination to the NDA will be out by May next year.

Keeping the timeline in mind, deliberate planning and meticulous preparation is needed to ensure smooth induction and seamless training of such women candidates, the Ministry said.

"The Government of India, in line with its commitment, hereby place on record its clear and categorical stand that the women candidates shall be considered for entry in the three defence services, in the existing streams, through National Defence Academy," said in an affidavit filed before the top court.

The NDA entrance examinations are conducted by the UPSC twice a year and the Government proposes to have necessary mechanism in place by May 2022, the time by which UPSC is required to publish the first notification next year, for the examination, it said.

A study group has been constituted by the defence services, comprising experts to expeditiously formulate the comprehensive curriculum for women cadets at NDA, it said, adding that a Board of Officers has been convened to give a holistic and futuristic proposal for training of women Cadets at NDA incorporating all relevant aspects.

The Centre had earlier told the top court that the Armed forces have decided to induct women into the NDA. Additional Solicitor General Aishwarya Bhati, appearing for the Centre, had told that a decision has been taken at the highest level of the armed forces as also the Government that women will be inducted for permanent commission through the NDA.

DEATH DUE TO MEDICAL OXYGEN SHORTAGE DURING COVID

HC gives AAP nod to set up probe panel

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court Tuesday said it saw no difficulty in the constitution of a high powered committee (HPC) by the AAP Government to probe the deaths caused by an alleged medical oxygen shortage during the second wave of Covid-19 pandemic.

The court, dealing with a plea to operationalise the HPC, noted Delhi Government's stand that the committee would not attribute any fault to any hospital and any compensation will be paid and absorbed by the Government alone.

It further recorded that as per Delhi Government, the criteria for determining compensation will be open to scrutiny and its task would not overlap with that of a sub-group constituted by the Supreme Court on allocation and utilisation of oxygen.

"In light of the aforesaid, we see no difficulty in the HPC constituted by GNCTD in discharging its assigned role," said a bench of Justices Vipin Sanghi and Jasmeet Singh which opined that it was not necessary to await the order of the Supreme Court in relation to the grant of ex gratia compensation in terms of guidelines issued by National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA).

"The intent of the GNCTD in issuing the May 27 order (on constitution of HPC) is not to grant ex gratia amount to Covid-19 victim. A perusal of the order would show that the purpose is to examine each complaint/ representation received by the committee in relation to the death of a Covid-19 patient due to lack of oxygen... We do not think it is necessary for us to await the order of the Supreme Court with regards grant of ex gratia compensation to be paid to a victim as decided by NDMA," the court stated.

The court clarified that in case an amount larger than what is being paid presently as ex gratia compensation is fixed by the NDMA, the "same would also be payable to the victim".

The court went on to record that after keeping its decision to constitute a HPC in abeyance, the Delhi government has "expressed its intention to reinstate" it, however, "due to the difference in opinion (with regards the scope of its mandate) between the council of ministers and the LG, the stalemate is continuing."

During the course of the hearing, the bench said that it would "permit it (HPC) to go on" only if the Delhi government clarifies that the compensation would be paid by them, without fixing any liability on the hospitals.

"The issue here is a legal issue. Can you determine a fault based liability by a committee (and) fix liability on a third party, which not only puts financial liability but tarnishes professional reputation," the court questioned.

"(If) you say you will fix liability, you are entering into the domain of judiciary and medical council. You can't do it," it added. Senior counsel Rahul Mehra and lawyer Gautam Narayan, representing Delhi government, clarified that the HPC was only a "fact-finding committee" which would not attribute any fault or negligence to a hospital and "compensation was purely going from the government".

Compensation of up to Rs 5 lakh would be calculated by the HPC on the basis of an objective criteria decided by it, which would be open to a challenge by any party, the court was informed.

The lawyers distinguished the compensation awarded by HPC from ex gratia compensation of Rs 50,000 already being paid by the Delhi government and said that the scope of work of HPC would be different from that of the Supreme Court constituted committees on issues with respect to oxygen allocation and other related aspects.

Kejriwal promises 80% pvt jobs in Goa for Goans

₹3,000 per month to one youth of every family

NEW DELHI/GOA: Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) national convener Arvind Kejriwal on Tuesday announced that the AAP will bring in a law to reserve 80 per cent private jobs in Goa for Goans.

Kejriwal also said that every youth will be given employment after the formation of the AAP Government and till the employment is not provided; one youth of every family will be given ₹ 3,000 per month. He announced that ₹5,000 would be provided monthly to families who lost employment due to the shut-down of tourism and mining.

The AAP Government will also establish a Skill University in Goa on the lines of Delhi's DSEU, he said. The Delhi Chief Minister further said that AAP will bring an end to nepotism in government jobs in Goa and the jobs will be made available to the common man.

Kejriwal also attacked the BJP Government in Goa for their "ill-governance" and insensitivity towards the people of the state. The Delhi CM further said that he was happy that the BJP is copying the Delhi Model in Goa to give free water and doorstep delivery of services as the elections come near; and the people should only elect the original and not faulty duplicates.

Talking about the youth of Goa, the AAP National Convener said, "The youth of Goa are very disturbed as they do not have employment opportunities. Their parents heavily invest in their education, but they are running from pillar to post for jobs. So many poor families who could not afford education got their kids educated somehow by struggling, yet even such kids do not have jobs. We have to create jobs in Goa which only an honest government can do," he said.

"We have made a very elaborate plan for Goa. I will keep coming to Goa to share with you how we will establish schools, hospitals, village clinics, doorstep delivery of services, and how we will fix the roads and the governance system of Goa. Through sheer willpower, we will bring back tourism and mining to their full potential," he added. SR

Cong demands scrapping of new liquor policy

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Delhi Congress president Anil Kumar demanded the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Government to consider scrapping a new liquor policy in the national Capital.

Kumar said that the Delhi High Court has asked the AAP Government to consider scrapping the law for home delivery of liquor in the new liquor policy. "The court made this observation while hearing a petition questioning the AAP Government's move to make home delivery of liquor, and asked for the Government's response by September 24, 2021," he said.

"Delhi Chief Minister Arvind has been touring poll-bound States like Uttarakhand and Goa, offering free power up to 300 units, and unemployment allowance ranging from ₹ 5000 to ₹3000 per month, while the youth of Delhi are getting no such financial relief despite suffering job loss, loss of livelihoods after the Covid-19 pandemic ravaged their lives, with most families losing one or more members to the pandemic, and some families losing their sole breadwinners," he said.

Meanwhile Delhi Congress vice-president Jai Kishan said that a 'dalit' mahapanchayat on 25th September will be organized to protest against rising number of crime and atrocities against people belonging to the 'dalit' community.

"The centre and the AAP government in Delhi have turned a blind eye towards the plights of the marginalized community. Thousands of intellectuals from dalit organizations of dozens of states including Delhi will participate in large number to protest against both the governments," he said.

No liquor vends to open in 105 of 272 municipal wards in Delhi from Oct 1

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

With new retail licences coming into force from mid-November, no liquor vends will open in 105 of the 272 municipal wards of Delhi from October 1, officials said on Monday.

Under the new excise policy of the city Government, retail liquor sale licences have already been allocated to the highest bidders in 32 zones, each having around 10 wards and 27 liquor vends.

The bidding process for the 32 zones, concluded by the excise department in two phases in August and September, earned a revenue of over Rs 8,900 crore to the government. The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government in the national capital has decided to close down around 260 private liquor vends after September 30. There are a total of 849 liquor vends in the city, a majority of which are run by three agencies of the Delhi government.

The excise department, in an order issued earlier this month, allowed the Delhi government-run liquor vends to continue with the retail sale of liquor till November 16 after furnishing the requisite licence fee.

The firms that have been given licences in the 32 zones under the new excise policy through bidding will start retail sale from November 17, the order said.

The officials said there are around 80 wards in the city without any liquor vend. In 26 wards, there are presently only privately-owned liquor vends that will close down from October 1, they added.

"Practically, the 105 wards in the three municipal corporations in the city will have no functional liquor vend after September 30," an officer said.

The closure of privately-owned vends from October 1 may lead to a "temporary shortage" of liquor as only the government-run liquor stores will open for a month and a half prior to November 17, the officials said.

The new excise policy seeks an equitable distribution of liquor stores in the city by segmenting it into 32 zones. Currently, the spatial distribution of liquor vends is skewed with some wards having as many as 10 liquor vends and others having none, the officials added.

Delhi CM updates citizens on air quality by posting daily AQI, PM levels

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal has started tweeting daily updates on air quality in the city, with his Government shifting its focus to combat expected high levels of pollution during the winter months.

"Air pollution data for 21 Sep (safe limit in brackets)- AQI- 83 (0 to 50 - Good, 51 to 100 satisfactory) PM 10- 81 (0 to 50 good, 51 to 100 satisfactory) PM2.5- 31 (0 to 30 Good, 31 to 60 satisfactory)," Kejriwal tweeted on Tuesday.

The Chief Minister had started posting updates on air quality index (AQI) and particulate matter (PM) levels from Saturday.

He had also said that air quality in Delhi will start deteriorating from mid-October with crop residue burning and claimed that neighbouring states have not done anything to support farmers.

Kejriwal has been tweeting daily updates on air quality on his official handle.

"The move is indicative of the Kejriwal government's efforts to combat winter air pollution levels this year on a war footing by taking together all stakeholders, including people of the city as well as neighbouring states," said a government functionary.

The air quality tweets by the chief minister make people aware about the issue of pollution and emphasise the need for timely action to take the steps to check it, he said.

Delhi faces high levels of air pollution with onset of winters, the season coinciding with paddy straw (parali) burning in the fields in Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh.

The Delhi government is pressing for adoption of a biodecomposer developed by Pusa Institute and demanding that the Centre direct states to support their farmers for using it.

Earlier, Kejriwal said that a third party survey by the central government agency WAPCOS has found that use of biodecomposer is effective in getting rid of crop residue and thereby prevent its burning by the farmers.

Student groups mount pressure on Jamia to reopen campus

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Various student groups have urged Jamia Millia Islamia to reopen its campus in view of the improved Covid-19 situation in Delhi.

Although other central varsities like the Delhi University and Jawaharlal Nehru University have initiated phase-wise reopening of their campuses, Jamia Millia Islamia has not yet made any announcement in the regard.

In a joint statement, student groups like the All India Students' Association (AISA), Campus Front of India, Students' Islamic Organisation of India (SIO), Students' Federation of India and others have demanded that the campus of Jamia Millia Islamia be reopened at the earliest.

"For almost two years since the establishment of a lock-down due to the coronavirus pandemic, students have been facing serious problems due to closure of schools, colleges and university campuses. At a point in time, it was necessary to close all campuses due to increasing Covid cases and health issues. But now, the situation has totally changed.

"Most of the institutions and public places have already opened and with adequate sanitisation and social distancing, people have started using all the public facilities," the statement said.

An official of the varsity, however, said it was decided in a meeting that students of courses like Bachelor of Physiotherapy (BPT) and science courses which require practical work should be allowed to access libraries and laboratories.

It was also decided that PhD students who have to submit their thesis by the end of the year be allowed to enter the campus, provided they have received at least one dose of anti-Covid vaccine, he said.

A notification is likely to be issued soon on reopening of the campus, he claimed.

Meanwhile, the student groups said some of them met the Proctor of the university, but in vain.

Intersectoral meeting held to contain dengue

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Concerned over the rising number of cases of vector borne diseases in the national Capital, North Corporation's Rohini Zone called an inter-sectoral meeting with various central and Delhi Government's departments and institutions and issued a series of directions to contain the cases.

At least 348 cases of dengue have been reported in Delhi so far till now while 71 cases of malaria and nearly 148 cases of chikungunya have also been reported till August 21 this year, according to a report issued by civic bodies on Monday.

The meeting was chaired by Rohini Zone Deputy Commissioner Vivek Prakash and attended by district health officer Dr Pramod Verma and representatives from 140 organisations or institutions such as Delhi Development Authority, Public Works Department, Delhi Jal Board, Delhi Transport Corporation, MTNL, social welfare and flood irrigation department.

Deputy Commissioner

Vivek Prakash directed nodal teachers to ensure water storage tanks in all schools are covered as dengue mosquitoes breed in freshwater.

Prakash also directed officials of horticulture departments to repair all leakages in water hydrants already provided in the gardens and other green areas.

He also requested to depute one police personnel in each police station as the nodal officer to ensure that no breeding takes place in their premises. "The 'Malkhanas' of most of the police stations are notorious for breeding of dengue mosquitoes because old vehicles, old utensils and other seized items retain rainwater. These items should be kept covered," he said.

Cases of vector-borne diseases are usually reported between July and November, but the period may stretch till mid-December

Chhattisgarh has set an example for cow protection, promotion and service, Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel said on Tuesday.

As the cow is called as 'Kamdhenu', the Godhan

Nyay Yojana is now known as 'Kamdhenu Yojana'. Thus, a simple scheme is bringing extraordinary benefits and happiness, he said.

The Chief Minister spoke after transferring payment for cow dung procurement to the cattle farmers, Gauthan committees and self-help groups, an official communication said. An amount of Rs 5.24 crores was transferred.

He said it is not just a scheme to procure cow dung and sell it as a manure but one to empower women, develop entrepreneurship, increase farmers' income, hike productivity, reduce farm input cost, develop livestock and end open grazing.

The other goals achieved are crop protection and increase in milk production, he added.

The Chief Minister said so far 51.27 lakh quintals of cow dung have been procured and Rs 102.54 crores have been paid.

A total of 6.11 lakh quintals of vermi compost and 166,370 quintals of super compost have been sold.

Small initiatives can lead to great heights: Sahu

State-level convention of Congress's Other Backward Class (OBC) wing held

STAFF REPORTER ■
RAIPUR

Small efforts and initiatives lead a person to great heights, and humility is a must to achieve honour, Chhattisgarh Home Minister Tamradhwaj Sahu said on Tuesday.

Never be arrogant when you achieve success, failing which you will crash, he said.

Sahu was addressing a state-level convention and oath taking ceremony of the Congress party's Other Backward Class (OBC) wing here.

Sahu, the National

President of the Congress OBC wing, chaired the concluding session of the convention, inaugurated by Food Minister and tribal leader Amarjeet Bhagat.

Bhagat said the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe community are deeply connected with the Congress. It is the OBC, represented by 54 percent population of the state, that swings and decides who forms the government, he said.

New office bearers of the OBC wing took oath after getting their appointment letters.

BJP alleges Pandos neglected, Baghel denies

STAFF REPORTER ■
RAIPUR

Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel on Tuesday refuted allegations by Leader of Opposition Dharamlal Kaushik that the government was neglecting the Pando tribe.

It was neglect of the community which led to alleged deaths due to malnutrition, the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader said.

Baghel demanded to know the BJP's policy for Pandos during the 15 years it ruled Chhattisgarh.

Kaushik, alleging that the deaths of Pando tribals due to multi-organ failure were actually caused by malnutrition, said the BJP will approach the Chhattisgarh Governor and the Indian President over the issue.

Baghel said in a statement that the Congress government had taken up initiatives to battle malnutrition, which has fallen by 13 percent in the past one year. The decline was a mere 1-3 percent during BJP rule.

"I am repeatedly saying right from the first day that malnutrition is a big problem in Chhattisgarh, even bigger than Naxalism," he said.

Pandos are designated a Particularly Vulnerable Tribal Group (PVTG).

Their population stands at around 4,000 and they mainly live in some 30 villages of Balrampur and Surajpur districts in northern Chhattisgarh.

Pandos are mostly small farmers, forest dwellers or labourers working in Chhattisgarh and Jharkhand.

Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel on Tuesday opened in Raipur a two-day 'Vanijya Ustav' jointly organised by the Department of Commerce, New Delhi, Director General of Foreign Trade, Govt of Chhattisgarh, and Shellac and Forest Products EPC (SHEFEXIL).

Taliban replace Pak planted Guv in Kunar

RAKESH K SINGH ■ NEW DELHI

In a rebuff to Pakistani designs, the Taliban have replaced governor of Kunar province Qari Osman, a Pakistani national, with an Afghan citizen Maulvi Mohammad Qasim Khan.

As reported earlier by The Pioneer, Pakistan has been planting leaders of its terror affiliates as governors and at senior positions in the governance structure there with an ulterior motive to control the decision making process in Afghanistan that was taken over by Taliban on August 15.

Before being unseated, Osman had sold 10 howitzer guns left over by the US forces to opposition groups in Kunar in lieu of money, sources on the ground said.

The development signals Taliban's resolve to get rid of the country from Pakistanis occupying key positions there.

Afghanistan Republic Salvation Front founder and counter-terrorism expert of Afghan origin Ajmal Sohail said, "It is a good sign that the Taliban is seized of the Pakistani plot and has begun replacing foreigners from key positions with local leaders as was the case with removal of Kunar governor Qari Osman who is a Pakistani national."

As part of the plot to control administration across provinces in Afghanistan, the Pakistan Army-ISI (Inter-Services Intelligence) combine has been planting its home-grown terror commanders as Governors of Afghan provinces bordering Pakistan.

The ISI is also foisting its men in the National Directorate of Security (NDS), Afghan intelligence agency, and other such offices of the Government to have a significant leverage in strategic planning and action by the new regime in Kabul where Pakistan has already installed the Haqqani Network as a key player in Kabul.

Earlier, the ISI had planted 50,000 jihadis in the ranks of Afghan national defence force by providing them bogus refugee cards portraying them as Afghan residents residing in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa region of Pakistan, before recruitment into Afghan national defence force that subsequently melted away amid the Taliban onslaught last month.

The Governor for

Afghanistan's Kunar province, popularly known as Qari Osman, was originally a resident of Gabri in Mamondo Tehsil, Bajaur Agency of Pakistan. Osman was educated at Inayat Qala Government School, Bajaur (Pakistan) till ninth standard and had married twice. He has one house and family in Bajaur and the other in Peshawar.

Osman's younger brother Shahidullah is the Taliban district Governor for Marawara of Kunar province. His other brother is Zabihullah who is an ISI operative and works in Peshawar's Bala Hissar.

Osman's elder brother, Najibullah, works for ISI in Bajaur.

In addition to posting Osman and his brother as Governors in Afghanistan's Kunar province and districts, the ISI has also supplanted its men in other provinces along the Tajikistan border, eastern and northern Afghanistan besides Nuristan province as reported earlier.

The ISI's game plan is a deliberate plot aimed at having a firm and effective grip over Taliban to achieve its strategic agenda through the regime in Kabul. However, the Taliban has taken the first step of weeding out such plants within the administration, Sohail added.

NIA searches 8 places in J&K in Bathindi IED recovery case

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The National Investigation Agency (NIA), in conjunction with Jammu and Kashmir police, and CRPF, conducted searches on Tuesday at eight locations in Anantnag, Baramulla, Kulgam, Srinagar, Doda and Kishtwar districts of the Valley in connection with the probe into J&K Bathindi IED recovery case.

The case was initially registered by Jammu and Kashmir police on June 27 at Bahu Fort police station in Jammu district relating to recovery of 5 kg IED from a Lashkar-e-Taiba terrorist in Bathindi, Jammu.

The conspiracy by LeT was aimed at causing an explosion in Jammu using the IED. The NIA had re-registered the case on July 19.

The NIA had earlier arrested three persons in this case.

"Investigation revealed that Pakistan based handlers of proscribed terror outfit LeT and their associates based in J&K are planning terrorist activities in J&K using the pseudo-acronym TRF so as to maintain plausible deniability and evade law enforcement agencies," the NIA said in a statement.

During the searches conducted during the day, many digital devices and other incriminating materials have been recovered from the premises of the suspects. Further investigation in the case is continuing, it said.

Meanwhile, the NIA has arrested a charge sheeted absconding accused Tabrez, 35, of Bengaluru Layout, Bengaluru City, Karnataka in connection with DJ Halli police station rioting case of 2020.

This case was originally registered on August 12, 2020 at Devarajeevanahalli Police Station, Bengaluru city under various sections of the Indian Penal Code, Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act Karnataka Prevention of Destruction & Loss of Property Act.

The case had arisen from the incident on August 11, 2020 wherein a mob protesting against the alleged derogatory social media (Facebook) post about Prophet Mohammed posted by one Naveen, had turned violent and attacked the Police Station with dangerous weapons and stones and burnt police vehicles and damaged government and private properties.

The NIA had re-registered the case on September 21 last year and took up the investigation.

Gadkari for fixed driving hours for truck drivers to reduce road mishaps

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Minister was conducting the first meeting of the new members appointed in NRSC

To reduce road accidents, Union Minister Nitin Gadkari on Tuesday pitched for fixed driving hours for commercial truck drivers similar to that of pilots, as well as on-board sleep detection sensors in commercial vehicles.

Gadkari said driving hours for truck drivers should be fixed similar to pilots' to reduce fatigue-induced road accidents.

"Have directed officers to work on a policy to include On-Board Sleep Detection Sensors in Commercial Vehicles, at par with European standards," Gadkari said at the National Road Safety Council (NRSC).

European countries have fixed duty hours for the Trucks drivers ranging from five to 12 hours whereas in India the drivers are under pressure to reach destination driving single handedly with no rest in between leading to fatigue, nausea and other sleep related disorders causing road fatalities.

The Minister also said he will also write letters to chief ministers and district collectors to ensure that district road committee meetings are held regularly and regular monitoring are done and updates shared religiously.

Gadkari through a Press statement said he has directed the council to meet every two months and share their updates. The Minister was conducting the first meeting of the new members appointed in NRSC.

The Centre formed the National Road Safety Board under the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MoRTH) as an initiative to contribute in the government's plan to bring down road fatalities in the country as over 1.5 lakh individuals lose their lives on Indian roads every year.

India accounts for nearly 11 per cent of all road deaths in the world.

The National Road Safety Board acts as an advisory body to the government and establish policies for road safety.

The committee looks into improving road infrastructure and adding new innovations for traffic control.

CBI files one more case in Bengal post-poll violence

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The CBI on Tuesday registered one more case in connection with the post-poll violence in West Bengal.

With this, the number of cases taken over by the CBI in poll-related violence in the State stands at 38.

The case relates to allegations by the complainant that on April 18, 2021, her husband was returning home. The accused allegedly surrounded him and beat him up brutally.

The CBI is taking over probes into post poll violence in the State at the behest of the Calcutta High Court that entrusted investigation of such cases to the Central agency after hearing a clutch of writ petitions.

AIIMS report shows girl rescued by Delhi Police minor, says SC

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday said that a girl who went missing from Gorakhpur in Uttar Pradesh in July and was later recovered by the Delhi Police earlier this month, is "still a minor" as per the report of age determination received from the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), New Delhi.

The apex court was informed by the counsel appearing for the Delhi Police that as per the medical report, the girl is not pregnant.

SC stays NCDRC order against Yash Raj Films to pay damages

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court Monday stayed an order of the National Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission (NCDRC) directing Yash Raj Films Pvt Ltd to pay Rs 10,000 along with litigation costs as compensation to a consumer being aggrieved by exclusion of the song Jabra Fan in Bollywood movie Fan.

Rahul: India facing new border challenges

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Citing a media report on China ramping up its border infrastructure,

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday said India is facing a new war paradigm on its borders and ignoring it won't work.

His remarks came over a media report which quoted sources in the security establishment as saying that China appears to have built at least 10 new air bases along the Line of Actual Control in Ladakh, Uttarakhand and Arunachal Pradesh besides ramping up infrastructure close to the Indian frontier.

"We are facing a new war paradigm on our borders. Ignoring it won't work," Gandhi tweeted with a screenshot of the media report.

He has also repeatedly criticised the government for its handling of the border standoff between the Indian and Chinese militaries that erupted on May 5 last year following a violent clash in the Pangong lake area.

Both sides gradually enhanced their deployment by rushing in tens of thousands of soldiers as well as heavy weaponry.

India facing acute shortage of medical professionals

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

India suffers from an acute shortage of medical professionals, particularly doctors and nurses, whose ratio is estimated to be 1.7:1 on the basis of NSSO data, while the ratio of allied health workers to doctors is estimated to be 1:1, according to a report by the WHO and the Public Health Foundation of India which has put out some appalling statistics about the chronic shortages in India's health system. This is also one of the reasons that about 70 per cent of expenditure on health is out of pocket, one of the highest globally.

Although there was no standard skill-mix ratio of different health workers, most OECD countries reported approximately 3-4 nurses per physician, the report stated. The Indian High Level Expert Group (HLEG) recommendation for the nurse-doctor ratio in India stood at 3:1, it said.

Moreover, there was also a need to strike a balance (right skill-mix) between doctors and allied health workers, it added.

The nurse to doctor ratio is estimated to be 1.7:1 in India on the basis of NSSO data, with Punjab (6.4:1) and Delhi (4.5:1) on the higher side even as the states of Bihar, Jammu and Kashmir and Madhya Pradesh have less than one nurse per doctor, the report stated.

It recommended that India needs to invest in human resource for health (HRH) for increasing the number of active health workers and also to improve the skill-mix ratio which requires investment in professional colleges and technical education.

New dementia case emerging every 3 seconds, says WHO

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

As the number of people living with dementia in India is expected to touch 7.6 million within the next 10 years, early detection is a key to ensure early treatment, experts have said here as they pointed out that Alzheimer's is the most common cause of dementia and accounts for over 60 per cent of cases of dementia.

According to the World Health Organisation (WHO) there are more than 55 million people living with dementia across the world, with a new case developing every 3 seconds.

However, despite being the 7th leading cause of death and a major cause of dependency amongst elderly, public awareness about early signs and symptoms of dementia remains incredibly low, says

Dr Jayashree Dasgupta, Project Director and Co-Founder, Samvedna Senior Care.

Prof. (Dr.) RK Dhamija, Head of Neurology Department, Lady Hardinge Medical College, New Delhi noted that national policies and programmes specifically targeting epilepsy, neuro infections, dementia and neuro-degenerative diseases need to be planned by the government. He also said that neurological diseases and mental disorders are becoming a serious public health crisis and are emerging as major challenges to health care systems across the world.

He was speaking at an event organized by the ASSOCHAM, as part of its 'Illness to Wellness' campaign with an objective to cascade and raise awareness about Alzheimer's disease (AD), Asserting that it is painful to see the loved ones not recognizing you, Dr Ritu Rana, Heading Mission-Health, HelpAge India Rana stated that while AD can be quite harsh to deal with, care together with love and affection can help the patients live with dignity.

Sharing her views, Dr. Suvarna Alladi, Professor of Neurology, National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences, Bangalore wisdom termed dementia as a common brain disease among older people with loss of memory being a major problem which might lead to agitation, suspiciousness and other distressing behavioural problems.

"Thus it is very important to consult a doctor in the early stages of the disease, so that the best can be done for persons with dementia," she added.

SP mulls pre-poll pact with Cong

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Following the dramatic change in political discourse after the elevation of little known Dalit Congress leader Charanjit Singh Channi as Chief Minister of Punjab, Samajwadi Party is mulling over the idea of entering into pre-poll alliance with the Congress for the 2022 UP Assembly elections.

The last such electoral experiment by the Samajwadi Party ahead of 2017 UP Assembly elections had ended in a disaster for it as its tally was reduced to 48 seats in the UP assembly having a strength of 403. The SP had left 115 seats for the Congress and it could win only seven seats.

The Congress is confident that it's electoral prospects in UP have got a boost after the masterstroke in Punjab with Dalit leader Charanjit Singh Channi taking oath as the new Chief Minister of Punjab. Channi's appointment as the chief minister is being touted as a very significant step in Punjab politics that will likely have a huge bearing on national politics.

The Congress is seen to have played a masterstroke by making a leader from the Scheduled Caste community the chief minister of a state for the first time, especially a north Indian state. This development has dominated the discourse across political circles. Leaders from the Samajwadi Party, Aam Aadmi Party and other opposition parties have welcomed the appointment of Channi as the Chief Minister of Punjab.

The recent meeting of Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra with Bhim Army chief Chandrashekhar Azad was part of a strategy planned by the Congress days before choosing a Dalit Chief Minister for Punjab.

This political development in Punjab comes amid talks of wooing Brahmins and Dalits by SP president Akhilesh Yadav through political mobilisation and Dalit outreach programmes. The Samajwadi Lohia Vahini has started a 'Village to Village Dalit Samvad' programme from September 19 in various districts across Uttar Pradesh. In the coming days, Priyanka Gandhi Vadra will be holding election rallies and visit poll-bound constituencies from September 29 to October 23. During this time the talk of forming an alliance between the SP and the Congress will become clear.

SP chief Akhilesh Yadav has come up with a fresh political slogan 'Nayi Hawa Hai, Nayi SP Hai' to win the 2022 Uttar Pradesh polls. With this slogan, Akhilesh has made a shift from the MY (Muslim-Yadav) caste equations used by him and SP founder and his father Mulayam Singh Yadav, to win state elections in the past. Akhilesh Yadav is upping the ante by following a soft Hindutva approach to counter the Hindutva ideology of the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party.

Samajwadi Party sources, however, said, "The party has learnt from its mistakes in 2017 elections and this time if the party decides to forge alliance with the Congress it will be after detailed deliberations on seat sharing."

A SP leader said, "There will be no last-minute change of constituencies and everything will be decided much ahead of the elections in 2022."

Maha CM asks Guv to request Centre for spl session

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Turning the tables on Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari over his request to convene a two-day special Legislature session to discuss the ghastly Sakinaka rape and murder incident, Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray asked the Governor to convene a four-day session of Parliament to discuss similar atrocities against women across the country where even the Sakinak incident could be discussed.

In a fresh "war of words" broke out between him and the Governor - this time over the Sakinaka brutal rape and murder incident, the chief minister for joining the Opposition BJP's clamour for a Special Legislature session to discuss the issue. He said that the Governor echoing the Opposition's sentiments in a manner he was doing was "detrimental" to the Parliamentary democratic system.

Turning down indirectly the Governor's requests for a Special Legislature session to discuss the Sakinaka rape and murder incident, Uddhav stated in his four-page letter to Koshyari: "We share the sentiments expressed by you over the atrocities against women in the context of the Sakinaka incident. This issue is not confined to Sakinaka alone, but involves the entire nation. The victim women in the entire country are looking up to the Centre".

"We request you as the Governor to take up the matter with Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah so that they can convene a special Parliament to discuss atrocities against women in the country. At this session, the Sakinaka incident can also be discussed," the Chief Minister wrote.

The Chief Minister was responding to a letter from the Governor seeking a two-day special session of the State Legislature to discuss the Sakinak incident, Uddhav hit out at Koshyari politely for writing a letter over the incident after a women political (read BJP) met him.

"Today you're holding the constitutional post as the Governor. But, we know you grew up as a political worker. (You should know) The responsibility of maintaining law and order and also protecting women and ensuring their rights lies with the government headed by a chief minister. You have also come up from four corners of the same precedents and traditions. We have all along benefitted from your experience," the chief minister while reminding Koshyari not to overstep his brief.

Endorsing the sentiments expressed by the Governor and saying that the issue of women's safety was not confined to Maharashtra also alone, Uddhav touched a raw nerve, when he cited a slew of incidents of atrocities on women in the BJP-ruled states like Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Uttarakhand, BJP-supported Bihar and also Delhi where the

Didi should stop eyeing PM's post: State BJP chief

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Dropping ample hints that during his tenure the BJP would go back to the basics the new Bengal BJP president Dr Sukanto Majumdar on Tuesday warned the Trinamool Congress against perpetrating Taliban rule and vowed to protect the State from Talibanisation that the ruling Trinamool Congress was aiming at.

"We will together resist the desperate attempt by some forces to Talibanise Bengal ... we will stop that at any cost ..." the new BJP president said less than 24 hours after the party central leadership in a surprise move replaced former State president Dilip Ghosh with Dr Majumdar a university professor and MP from Balurghat.

Though there was no immediate comment from the Chief Minister senior TMC leader Tapas Roy said "it is not the Trinamool but the BJP which is creating a Taliban raj in the country."

According to inside sources after the electoral debacle in 2021 the BJP would not experiment further with defection politics. Instead of engineering defections from other parties the saffron outfit would now concentrate on gross Hindutva politics — that has been its main forte — during Majumdar's tenure one was told. Majumdar a politician of the RSS breed has been promoted to the State presidential post with the same clear message from the high command, insiders said.

On the alleged ambition of Mamata Banerjee to become the next Prime Minister of India by uniting the opposition forces and replacing Narendra Modi, he said the Bengal Chief Minister should stop dreaming of winning the prime ministerial chair.

"Our honourable Chief Minister is thinking of becoming the next Prime Minister. But let me tell her with due respect that Narendra Modi will continue serving the country as the Prime Minister after 2024 Lok Sabha polls... even for a moment we assume that TMC will win all the 42 seats from Bengal ... from where will she bring the other seats ... so it will be better if she stops dreaming ... we will gift Modiji more seats from Bengal than we did in 2019"

Majumdar ducked controversial questions on whether his appointment had anything to do with the continuing exodus from the party during Ghosh's tenure and said "Dilip da carried forward the task of the previous state presidents to a level when we won 77 seats and not my task is to take that further and I can promise you that in the next Assembly elections Bengal will witness a change of power."On Babul Supriyo's quitting the party he said, "his leaving the party is unfortunate ... and I will expect him to reconsider his decision." After quitting BJP Supriyo had joined the TMC.

He said that there could still be some people who were thinking of switching sides but added "some people may think that they will do the BJP great harm by quitting the party but it is not so because the workers are our main strength and they will continue to be with the BJP"

K'taka Govt considering law to regulate religious conversion: Min

Bengaluru: The Karnataka Government was considering enacting a law to regulate religious conversion, as a ruling BJP MLA said his own mother has converted to Christianity falling prey to inducement, state Home Minister Araga Jnanendra said on Tuesday.

Hosadurga BJP MLA Goolihatti Shekhar, raising the issue during zero hour in the assembly, said religious conversions by force or through inducement have become rampant in the State, quoting the example of his own mother.

"The issue (of religious conversions) has come to the Government's notice, converting people from one religion to another by inducing them is a punishable offence. We will keep vigil on such activities. There is a wide network working on religious conversions across the country," Jnanendra said in his reply in the assembly.

There have been serious discussions regarding controlling such religious conversions, by bringing in a bill or in any other form. "To increase the followers of a particular faith, people being converted through inducements or by misusing their health condition, is not right," he said, adding that there is freedom to voluntarily follow any religion. Indulging in religious conversion with inducement or under pressure is an "unpardonable offence", the Minister further said adding, it may also lead to disturbance of peace in the society.

"The government is aware that it needs to be controlled..." he added. Claiming that religious conversions were rampant in the state, Shekhar said 15,000 to 20,000 people have been converted in his constituency and his own mother has converted to Christianity. He said under the anti superstition law certain religious practices among Hindus in rural areas have been banned, while certain Christian missionaries and Churches are luring innocent people and those ill to visit their religious places, with an assurance to cure their diseases, where they are "brainwashed". PAPER WITH PASSION

Overreaction

The UK's decision to quarantine even vaccinated Indians has stirred a hornet's nest, and doubts

There is consternation in India after the UK said that travelling Indians, even if fully vaccinated with Covishield, will have to undergo quarantine for 10 days. The rule is part of new guidelines as travel restrictions are being eased from October 4. The Indian Opposition leaders termed it bizarre and racist. The Indian Government asked the UK to resolve the issue at the earliest. In the melee that followed, there was no immediate response from the one agency that should have been the first to question it — the Indian Council of Medical Research or the National Expert Group on Vaccine Administration for COVID-19. The first thing the country needed to know was whether the UK guideline cast any doubts about the efficacy of Covishield. This is because the maximum vaccine doses being given in India are of Covishield. Over 230 million doses have been administered so far. No such clarification was forthcoming. Leading microbiologist and virologist Gagandeep Kang told this paper that there is nothing wrong with Covishield. "It is fine," she asserted. The scientist's assurance, however, does not reduce the worries of hundreds of Indian students planning to commence studies in the UK or waiting for the travel restrictions to end to return to their places of study. Why is the UK making an exception to Covishield? Is it not a fact that Covishield is the biologically identical version of Vaxzevria, the European brand name for the AstraZeneca vaccine? The only difference between the two is that Covishield is manufactured in India by the Serum Institute.

It is claimed that the entire controversy stems from some technical issues in the CoWin certification process. Earlier, the UK had a system that slotted countries into three lists for purposes of allowing entry. From October 4, there will be only one list; travellers from a country omitted from it will have to be quarantined for 10 days even when fully vaccinated if that vaccine is not in that country's approved vaccines list. If so, the question arises why the Serum Institute of India did not ensure that Covishield was in that list? If the UK follows the approval procedure of the European Medicines Agency (EMA), the body for scientific evaluation, supervision and safety monitoring of medicines in the European Union — even though it is out of the EU — the Indian manufacturer should have applied for approval. The EMA approved only four COVID-19 vaccines so far: Comirnaty, Moderna, Vaxzevria and Jansen. The Serum Institute's Adar Poonawalla did say in July that he had taken up the issue of exclusion of Covishield from the approved vaccines list at the highest level. The British Government also said in the same month that the UK health regulator had approved the Serum Institute's vaccine, but that EMA was yet to give its nod. The EMA website says it is currently reviewing the following vaccines: NVX-CoV2373, CVnCoV, Sputnik V, Vero Cell and Vidprevtyn. Where is Covishield?

The Govt must not rush into sending COVID doses abroad before inoculating all Indians

The Union Government's decision to resume exporting and donating the "surplus" COVID jabs beginning October, after a three-month hiatus since it was launched on January 20, has raised eyebrows in the political and healthcare circles, with several people taking a swipe at it in private as to what else could be expected of an "insensitive dispensation" which didn't even dare acknowledge hundreds of deaths caused by the paucity and unavailability of oxygen in several hospitals across States during the second wave of the COVID-19 pandemic. Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya had on Monday announced that India's vaccine manufacturers were expected to produce more than 30 crore doses in October for the domestic drive — and that the surplus supply would be used to fulfil the country's commitment towards the global fight against COVID. All this is being envisaged despite the fact that a large number of Indian citizens, especially in the young adults bracket, is still bereft of the benefits of inoculation. For example, even in Uttar Pradesh, where Prime Minister Narendra Modi had in Varanasi praised Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath this July for his "dexterous tackling" of the COVID-19 pandemic and the "successful" vaccination drive, the situation on the ground is such that the State Government is unable to provide adequate number of jabs to people.

At one such ongoing drive in the State earlier this month, meant especially for media personnel and their immediate family members, the first-dose vaccine-seekers were turned away with the explanation that, for now, only a limited number of jabs were available for those awaiting their second shot. There were not enough vials or trained staff to inoculate all hopefuls, especially those queuing up for the first shot. If this is the state of affairs in the country's most populous State, and also the one which is governed by the party that also rules at the Centre, one can easily imagine how things must be panning out in the nation's remote areas or in those States that are being run by the Opposition parties. The threat of the pandemic's third wave is still very much looming and the powers that be must ensure that all Indians are vaccinated well before the Government considers exporting even the "surplus" jabs or acts upon lofty thoughts like 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam' and 'Vaccine Maitri'.

India's wavering stand on Taliban

India will do well to reposition itself geopolitically to ensure Afghanistan becomes a neutral State and buffer to Chinese penetration of South Asia

India has always wavered on the recognition, reconciliation and reintegration of Taliban. This goes back to more than a decade ago when India categorised it into 'good' Taliban and 'bad' Taliban and reluctantly agreed to reconciliation and integration of 'good' Taliban. At the London conference in January 2010, attended by 69 Foreign Ministers including India's SM Krishna to find a political solution in Afghanistan, India's 'good' and 'bad' Taliban were replaced by the innovative "non-hardcore rebels". When the Americans signed the Doha peace accord, the deal was titled 'Agreement between USA and Taliban which calls itself the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan'. The MEA has neither modified its position on Taliban nor its undisguised revulsion for it.

Engagement with the Taliban similarly has been a story of twists and turns. At the Raisina Dialogue in 2018, Army chief Gen Bipin Rawat, when asked whether India should talk to the Taliban, without batting an eyelid replied in the affirmative: "We have talked to rebel groups earlier." The very next day, GoI issued a clarification noting that Gen Rawat had spoken in his personal capacity and his views did not reflect those of the Government. It is not clear precisely when the back channel or direct talks started with the Taliban but earlier this year, Qatar's Foreign Minister confirmed that engagement with Taliban had taken place in Doha. The first known public contact with the Taliban occurred in Moscow when two retired Indian officials attended as observers the Troika Plus engagement with Taliban of the US, Russia, China and Pakistan in 2020. Rumours of Indian contact with Taliban go back to 2017/18. Many columnists, including myself, have advocated for years that India should officially engage with the Taliban. But that did not happen.

India has rested on its laurels of being voted by multiple polls in Afghanistan as the most favoured nation. Nearly 70 per cent of Afghans polled for India, way ahead of other countries. India's contribution to development and capacity building is simply outstanding. India has completed or was working on more than 500 projects in 34 provinces in Afghanistan, utilising upwards of $2bn of the $3bn allotted to the latter. Hundreds of students are studying in civilian and military institutes and will remain in India till the completion of their assignments. India is second home to many Afghan leaders, something Taliban has resented. The Taliban have asked India to return to complete its unfinished projects. KEC International and Kalpataru Power Transmission will complete their infrastructure projects when the green flag is shown. WAPCOS, which completed Salma Dam, is not sure about its return. Tata Motors and Hyderabad-based BSCPL Infrastructure exited in 2015.

Mixed messages from Taliban suggest that Indian business and the embassy should not be in any hurry to return to Kabul as some diplomats and political leaders have advocated. Evacuation of Indians and Afghan nationals of Indian origin has been the priority. In April 2020, India withdrew its consulates from Herat and Jalalabad, scaled down the Kabul Embassy the same year, closing the old Chancery and moving into the new embassy in the green zone. On July 11, India withdrew its Kandahar Consulate and, a month later, Mazar-e-Sharif. India has quit Kabul to Pakistan's glee. This tragic predicament has been created by India's persistence with "wait and watch" over the years even after signing the strategic protocol with Afghanistan in 2011. Little effort was made to convert goodwill into political and strategic influence despite military assets in Tajikistan. More lately, India put all its eggs in the US basket though a last-ditch effort was made to salvage relations with Iran and Russia. The Americans say: "We do not look at Afghanistan through the Indian prism." Strategic patience has failed, leaving India out in the cold.

At the second SCO summit last week, Prime Minister Narendra Modi stated that India was in no hurry to recognise Taliban. This was the first official statement by the Government. Modi called for the Taliban to eschew radicalisation and drug running to ensure Afghanistan did not become sanctuary for cross-border terrorism. He also observed that the Government was not inclusive and had come up without negotiations but India would be ready to provide humanitarian aid and join any regional/global initiative to help people of Afghanistan. Former NSA, MK Narayanan, has advised India to reposition itself geopolitically and even mediate a proposal to ensure Afghanistan becomes a neutral State and buffer to further Chinese penetration of South Asia. The neutrality project has been attempted by, among others, the UN and will not work due to Pakistan's interference. China is likely to become the lead player in Afghanistan, securing its strategic corridor to the Indian Ocean via Pakistan. The China-Pakistan-Taliban nexus will constitute a new threat for India from Af-Pak. India has lost its privileged intelligence cooperation with Afghanistan's National Directorate of Security and leverage over Pakistan. At the UNSC, while presiding over it in August, India could have done a lot more on its three statements on Afghanistan, including Resolution 2593. New Delhi must find its feet and wings to claim its legitimate place in the Hindukush where the new Great Game is only just beginning.

KEJRIWAL'S FREEBIE PRACTICE

Sir — Arvind Kejriwal is playing "the freebies trick" for upcoming Assembly elections in Goa and Punjab to gain the confidence of voters. Ahead of Goa elections due next year, Kejriwal made seven promises to the coastal State which is a big gamble that may pay or may not pay in the end. His promises for Goans include 80 per cent private job reservation for the State's people, ₹5000 per month for Goans unemployed in the tourism sector due to COVID-19 and ₹5000 per month to mining ban-affected people. Finally, the AAP leader promised to set up a skill-building university in Goa and make the whole system transparent, if elected to power in the upcoming election.

Having tasted some success in the Punjab elections previously, he is trying to woo the voters with freebies once again. Taxpayers' money is given as dole and the people will be taxed in other ways later on. Thus, the public is not benefited but the tax burden will go on increasing every year. This is just an eye-wash and nothing else. He is trying to build castles in the air for the youth and looking for a majority vote bank from these two States.

DOES HINDI FAVOUR DEMOCRACY?

Sir — There lies nothing objectionable in taking pride in speaking Hindi; but Hindi speakers should also learn to take pride in speaking Bangla, Tamil, Marathi, Assamese and all other languages of the Union. But amusingly, in the name of "love towards Indian languages", why only Hindi gets emphasised? It is high time it needs to be accepted that the Constitution has not declared Hindi as the "national language" and the Division Bench of the Gujarat High Court consisting of Chief Justice SJ Mukhopadhyaya and Justice AS Dave has categorically stated that there is no national language in India.

Moreover, since India is a conglomeration of different regions, Hindi cannot ideally enjoy more importance

A different kind of vaccine hesitancy

A new travel advisory by the UK, saying that people from India and a few other countries will be considered "unvaccinated" even after two doses of AstraZeneca's Covishield, has sparked off a controversy over freedom of international travel. Asking fully vaccinated Indians to quarantine is a mockery. Given that Covishield was originally developed in the UK; and the same vaccine has been used by them, this advisory suggests racism. India has not yet been included in the 'green-list' countries whose vaccines are recognised by the UK. As per the new directive, passengers not vaccinated as per the rules in the UK, Europe or the US will have to self-quarantine for 10 days and pay for two COVID tests. It is ironic that these rules exclude a few countries where the same AstraZeneca vaccine is used.

Covishield is widely used in India. What is the logic of its non-recognition by the UK when its Government is using the same drug under a different name? The new advisory is a cause for concern for India as it will hinder the travel plans of a large number of people in India. The fact that a dozen European nations have approved India-made Covishield notwithstanding, the UK Government is unwilling to recognise it. It should be recalled that in July, there was a controversy over Covishield's recognition by the European Union as well. All these illustrate the West's unfair treatment of vaccines used elsewhere.

than the languages of the concerned regions. As if brute imposition of Hindi over non-Hindi speaking regions is not philistine enough, the linguistic fundamentalists even have the audacity to declare through posters, displayed at railway stations and banks, that only the knowledge of Hindi will enable all to appreciate the essence of India. That means those who are ignorant in Hindi are completely in the dark about national affairs. If this is not an insult to the non-Hindi speakers and their languages, then I don't know what is.

BIRDS NEXT-DOOR AT RISK

Sir — We all know crows as "birds with brains". But the population of this bird has been on the downside for the last five-six years. There are many articles on the internet giving a list of challenges that crows are facing: Loss of habitat, high-rise buildings and climate change, to name a few. But crows as we know are smart birds, they can adapt to changes quickly. Then why is their population dwindling? A reason that these articles do not point out is that our lifestyle has changed completely since the advent of the internet and social media.

Earlier, we used to spend our time outdoors and there were people who used to eat outside in the summers. Crows are birds that stay close to human settlements. They like to interact with humans as they are accustomed to the proximity. They know we are not going to hunt them down but now with digitalisation, our interaction with nature has lessened. We should make it a point to spend some time outside in our garden or in our backyard or read a newspaper or have breakfast outside. The crows really need our attention before they fly off into an unknown world.

BREASTFEEDING IS THE BEST FEEDING

ARUN GUPTA

Adequate breastfeeding to infants can reduce the mother's diabetes and cancer chances

India ranks at 79 out of 98 countries that have policies and programmes for protection, promotion and support of breastfeeding and infant and young child feeding. An international study estimates that India could prevent 100,000 child deaths and more than 37 million episodes of diarrhoea and pneumonia if breastfeeding was adequate. Other benefits include reducing obesity and increased IQ in children, reduced cancers and Type 2 diabetes in women who breastfeed. But the infant and young child feeding practices are far from optimal. The NFHS-5 data revealed that 88 per cent women deliver in hospitals, 51 per cent are able to begin breastfeeding within an hour of birth, 61.9 per cent breastfed exclusively during 0-6 months, 56 per cent received timely complementary feeds at 6-8 months and only 16.1 per cent received adequate diet during 6-23 months. It shows 26.9 per cent children are underweight, 31.9 per cent stunted, 18.1 per cent wasted and 5.5 per cent obese. The World Breastfeeding Trends Initiative (WBTI) measures support to women for breastfeeding on 10 parameters. India lags behind 78 countries. The 10 parameters include governance and funding, support to women in hospitals, the enforcement of relevant infant feed legislation, maternity protection, and counselling services for the pregnant and breastfeeding mothers. India scored 1.5 out of 10 because it does not have an officially adopted policy, which hinders a dedicated plan of action and attached budgets. Giving priority to the policy and having coordination mechanisms can change the game.

The Government did launch the Mothers' Absolute Affection programme but early breastfeeding has gone down by 2.5 percentage points because of dwindling quality of care in the hospitals and increasing caesarean sections. Other challenges are lack of enforcement of the law that controls marketing, inadequate human resources, overburdened health facilities, weak monitoring and evaluation mechanisms, and inability to involve private hospitals. India can bridge these gaps by institutionalizing lactation professionals in each hospital providing maternity services and assessment and monitoring of the hospitals against a benchmark of WHO's programmes. Involving key organizations working in this field and public health organizations, Association of Healthcare Providers of India (AHPI) can make a difference. There is a lack of readiness for supporting women and children during the disasters that occur frequently in the country. The National Disaster Management Plan, 2016 made a provision for 'baby foods' without even addressing its safety during feeding. It did not address the supply issue for supporting breastfeeding. This has changed now but remains to be implemented as per the revised plan of 2019. To bridge this gap State and district administration can prepare at least 50 breastfeeding/lactation counsellors, who will act as responders to provide emotional support to women with young infants to breastfeed and reduce the risk of artificial feeding. Ensuring adequate funding and coordination is another area that needs to improve. Funding estimates include approximately ₹5 lakh for each hospital, about ₹1 crore per district for human resources. Additional funds are needed for adequate, good quality and diverse diets for children. The private sector should be asked to make provisions and focus on maternity packages. In 2022, WBTi will do its sixth assessment and it is an opportunity for India to jump the rank by investing in critical and foundational intervention in child health and nutrition.

Deforestation in India during British rule

The British aimed to corner a fair share of India's lucrative trade and considered small patches of forests as wastelands as these were not a source of revenue

Although there is an abundance of writing on the history of deforestation in India, the absence of an objectively written history is painfully felt by one who intends to gain an impartial perspective of Indian forestry and its causes of degradation and deforestation.

The approaches of current writers are not uniform, and they have biases and leanings. For example, most Indian historians view the British as timber pirates, land thieves, and soil wreckers. In their opinion, there used to be a harmonious relationship between the community and the forest and no significant deforestation had taken place prior to British rule. The British were lauded for unifying the subcontinent, settling rights and concessions to the communities, and demarcating the reserve forest boundaries with a skilled foresters praised throughout the developing world.

Both views are subjective assessments. In fact, the motivation of the British was never altruistic, although they left behind a cadre of well-trained and organized forestry professionals. The reason might have been to keep the geese alive which were laying golden eggs for them. European invasions and conquests of India were originally motivated by trade in highly prized commodities such as silk, textiles, spices, jewels, which found their way to Europe via trade in these goods, mostly via the sea from small kingdoms to giant empires. The primary objective of the East India Company was to gain a substantial share of this lucrative trade and then to raise revenue in every way possible. The East India Company was also supported by the British monarchy. Thus, the increasing collection of wealth from peasants and cultivators, coupled with the deforestation to get more land tilted. In reality, it neither began nor ended with the British. It may be recalled that deforestation in north India was the primary cause of the shift from Indus Valley civilization to Gangetic plain in ancient India.

During the reign of Ashoka (268 to 232 BCE), the subcontinent was united under a single ruler. At the time of Ashoka and Chandragupta Maurya, the so-called golden period of Indian history, the forests were the property of the state. Hence, those claiming that the forests were managed by local communities are far from historical fact. After Ashoka, the empire collapsed under invasion from the north and the nomadic invaders burned forests for pasture. This regime was followed by Islamic revival when India again became united. It was only in the second half of the 16th century that Akbar cemented Mughal dominance that had begun in the previous one. The Mughals came from the desert and had no particular interest in forests except for their game. During this time, the British used their South American colonies to acquire silver so they could consolidate their maritime profit-making trade in spices.

Britain gradually swallowed the subcontinent in stages, through a series of treaties and annexations backed by military support. When compared with local rulers' revenue, the silk and spices trade seemed small to British traders. They started searching devices by grabbing some of these revenues and expanding them. India by that time had a non-uniform mass of subsistence cultivators living in village communities. The responsibility for collecting revenue in cash or in kind lay with big landlords (zamindars) or the government's designated employees. It was the peasant producers' responsibility to till their land and share their produce with the king either in cash or in kind. Revenue in kind was established during Akbar's regime.

In decan Maharashtra, small cultivators grew cotton, wheat, indigo, opium, oilseeds, and tobacco for cash sale. The villages had small patches of forest interspersed throughout them, which helped to maintain their productivity. British authorities considered all these patches as wastelands because they did not give revenue, regardless that they were the source of fuelwood, fodder and medicinal plants that shifting cultivators and villagers relied on for their subsistence. Because they came from temperate zones, they were unfamiliar with the land ecology of the tropics, nor did they have any grasp of the role of forests in sustaining and maintaining the productivity of the land.

Dietrich Brandis was appointed Inspector General of Forests by the government in 1864 for laying the foundation of the Indian Forest Department. Most of the upper-level staff were British who received their training at the Royal Engineering College at Cooper's Hills. To manage the forests, Brandis thought of training the people in the science of conservation as well as introducing a legal system. Brandis then set up the Imperial Forest Service in 1864. Indian Forest Act was brought in accordance with Lord Dalhousie memorandum. In 1855, Lord Dalhousie circulated a memorandum on forest conservation proposing that teak be treated as state property, and its use strictly regulated. The Forest Act 1865 was amended twice, in 1878 and 1927. The Forest Act 1878 classified the forests as reserved, protected and village forests. The best forests were called "reserved forests," and the villagers could not take anything from these forests except as permitted under the Act. Villagers could take wood for their use from forests in village or protected areas. The Indian Forest Act of 1927 affected the lives of forest-dependent communities. The penalties and procedures in this Act aimed to extend state control over forests and to diminish the rights of people to use forests. The rules were stricter and the department was given police powers.

Brandis developed his forest management model based on his experiences with German and European forests. However, forest in the Indian continent were very diverse in their species composition, unlike the temperate forest. Each acre of tropical forest is home to dozens of tree species and thousands of micro-organisms forming a complex food web that maintains the food chain for a sustainable ecology. This was a prerequisite for the livelihood of the rural poor.

The Act created "a deep feeling of injustice and resentment among small farmers (R.C Guha). A resentment among farmers culminated in the Sepoy Mutiny of 1857, which was suppressed by strong military force but the seeds of movement against the British Raj was sown.

World history is littered with farmer's revolts against reserving forests for sustainable management, whether in France, Britain, or Mexico. The poor man's overcoat is a European expression which reflects the dependence of the rural population and artisans to ensure their survival. It is also a hard reality that, if it is left to itself these public goods will be ruined, as someone rightly said, "everybody's property is nobody's property". However, there are examples in the world where the public has been educated through the proliferation of books and pamphlets authored by prominent intellectuals urging the public to assist the government in protecting forests. Japan, which was never colonized, adopted a different strategy to regenerate its devastated forest that was based on public awareness.

In the end, it all came down to public awareness, which is a necessary component in all these lessons to save the Forests. However, widespread public awareness can only be achieved through environmental education and demonstration projects, for which India is still far from its milestone.

The 'high command' diktat in Punjab

Punjab is the story of ascending power of the two Gandhis who persuaded their mother to replace the Captain with a weak leader

KALYANI SHANKAR

(The writer is a senior journalist. The views expressed are personal.)

After months of suspense, Punjab chief minister Captain Amarinder Singh has been replaced with Dalit leader Charanjit Singh Channi this week. Punjab being a border state affected by militancy in the eighties, anything happening in there is sensitive. The change could have been smoother, but the high command in its wisdom decided to change the guard just months before the assembly elections. While three months ago, it was a sure shot that Congress would win Punjab because of the weak opposition but the Captain's exit might change the situation. The new chief minister has many challenges before him and he is only a stop-gap arrangement. One of the prominent practices that Indira Gandhi conceived and practiced throughout her leadership was the 'High Command' concept in the party set-up. During Jawaharlal Nehru's time, Congress had no high command because there were other, equally solid national leaders like Patel and G.B. Pant. Indira Gandhi installed or removed her party men in influential positions as and when she wished. An old Congress leader recalls how she would call the chief minister she intended to sack and convey her decision, saying: "There is no hurry, you may resign today or tomorrow. Take your time." That was the indication for him to quit.

Rajiv Gandhi too followed the high command culture, but the party was strong then.

Even during the UPA time, Sonia Gandhi followed this tradition.

One wonders why Congress might want to destabilize the few states where it is comfortably placed. Both Rahul and Priyanka think that they can emulate their grandmother in dealing with the party. The party is not in power either at the centre or in many states. In such a situation, Congress high command needs to protect what is left of its turf. Indira Gandhi's style of functioning will not work now. Rahul and Priyanka are impatient to change the old guard and replace them with younger faces loyal to them. Strangely, they openly side with the rebels in all the three Congress-ruled states seeking change. The result is more splits, more rebellion, indiscipline, and erosion in the party.

Solving one problem in Punjab has created other problems. The echo of rebellion is also heard from Rajasthan and Chattisgarh.

In Rajasthan, the 'Family' openly supported the rebel faction headed by Sachin Pilot, but chief minister Ashok Gehlot had dug in his heels.

Pilot was temporarily pacified, but his supporters are getting impatient.

In Chattisgarh, Rahul Gandhi had agreed to power-sharing between chief minister Bhupesh Baghel and rebel leader TS Singh Deo. After two-and-a-half years, Deo is demanding the chair.

Why is the Congress high command not as powerful as it used to be? The simple answer is that times have changed and power equations have changed, and Congress is just living in its past glory. Sadly, the Gandhis have not realized that the power of the high command has been shrinking.

Congress faces a leadership crisis at the national level, with Sonia Gandhi acting as an interim president.

Rahul Gandhi is the de facto ruler of the party, even after resigning his presidency in 2019. Priyanka Gandhi is also emerging as a power centre, as is seen from the Punjab decision. The story of Punjab is the story of ascending power of the two Gandhis who persuaded their mother to change the Captain and replaced him with a weak leader. It is they who promoted the ambitious Navjot Sidhu who aimed to replace the Captain. The story is not over as Sidhu is still dreaming of becoming chief minister. The Congress gamble may or may not work in Punjab as the time is too short.

The moral of the story is that high command culture can be a success so long as the leadership is strong. It might have clicked with Indira Gandhi, but the present administration comes nowhere near her political acumen. The same medicine does not work at all times.

The regional satraps like Mamata Banerjee behave in an authoritarian manner.

The BJP, too, has changed with the party adopting the high command culture. For instance, the BJP has changed three chief ministers in Karnataka, Uttarakhand, and Gujarat in the past few months. Today Prime Minister Narendra Modi and his Home Minister Amit Shah are all-powerful. The BJP's tactics are similar to the Indira Gandhi era. Ultimately it is the vote catcher who matters in any political party, which is why they succeed.

US Prez declares world at 'inflection point' amid crisis

AP ■ UNITED NATIONS

President Joe Biden used his first address before the UN General Assembly on Tuesday to declare that the world stands at an "inflection point in history" and must move quickly and cooperatively to address the festering issues of the Covid-19 pandemic, climate change and human rights abuse. Amid growing China tensions Biden also declared the US is "not seeking a new Cold War."

Without mentioning China directly, Biden acknowledged increasing concerns about rising tensions between the two nations. But he said, "We are not seeking a new Cold War or a world divided into rigid blocs."

All-male Taliban Cabinet

Taliban double down on a hard-line course despite global outcry

AP ■ KABUL

The Taliban expanded their interim Cabinet by naming more Ministers and Deputies on Tuesday, but failed to appoint any women, doubling down on a hard-line course despite the international outcry that followed their initial presentation of an all-male government lineup earlier this month.

The international community has said that it will judge the Taliban by their actions, and that recognition of a Taliban-led government would be linked to the treatment of women and minorities.

In their previous rule of Afghanistan in the late 1990s, the Taliban, who adhere to a harsh interpretation of Islam, had barred girls and women from schools, work and public life.

At a news conference Tuesday, Taliban Government spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid held out the possibility of adding women to the Cabinet at a later time, but gave no specifics. He also said the Taliban are preparing rules for allowing teen-age girls and women to return to schools and jobs in line with Islamic law, but did not say when that might happen.

Mujahid defended the latest additions to the Cabinet, saying they included members of ethnic minorities, such as the Hazaras. He said the deputies were chosen for their technical skills.

He bristled at international conditions for recognition, saying there was no reason for withholding it. "It is the responsibility of the United Nations to recognize our government (and) for other countries, including European, Asian and Islamic countries, to have diplomatic relations with us," he said.

The Taliban seek interna-

Taliban Government spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid held out the possibility of adding women to the Cabinet at a later time, but gave no specifics tional support as they grapple with the daunting challenges of governing a nation shredded by four decades of conflict. The US-backed Government deposed by the Taliban in a rapid military campaign last month had depended heavily on foreign aid. Even before the Taliban takeover, the economy was in deep trouble. Now Afghanistan's new rulers face an economic meltdown and growing poverty.

Mujahid played down the financial problems, saying that much of the foreign aid to the previous government — widely seen as corrupt — was spent on funding America's 20-year war against the Taliban.

UK Police charge third Russian in poisoning of ex-spy

London: In a development expected to further strain UK-Russia relations, Scotland Yard on Tuesday named and charged a third Russian military intelligence officer in the murder conspiracy case involving nerve agent poisonings in the UK town of Salisbury back in March 2018.

The Metropolitan Police counter-terrorism officers said Denis Sergeev — under the alias Sergey Fedotov — is wanted in connection with the attempted assassination of former Russian spy Sergei Skripal and his daughter Yulia with a Novichok nerve agent, along with two other Russian suspects. AP

Trudeau's party wins Canada vote But fails to get majority

Toronto: Prime Minister Justin Trudeau's Liberal Party secured victory in Parliamentary elections but failed to get the majority he wanted in a vote that focused on the coronavirus pandemic but that many Canadians saw as unnecessary.

Trudeau entered Monday's election leading a stable minority government that wasn't under threat of being toppled — but he was hoping Canadians would reward him with a majority for navigating the pandemic better than many other leaders. Still, Trudeau struggled to justify why he called the election early given the virus, and the opposition was relentless in accusing him of holding the vote two years before the deadline.

In the end, the gamble did not pay off, and the results nearly mirrored those of two years ago. The Liberal Party was leading or elected in 158 seats — one more than they won 2019, and 12 short of the 170 needed for a majority in the House of Commons. AP

Indo-Canadians secure victories in Canada polls

PTI ■ TORONTO

Seventeen Indo-Canadians, including NDP leader Jagmeet Singh and Defence Minister Harjit Sajjan, won Canada's Parliamentary elections on Tuesday with Liberal Party leader and Prime Minister Justin Trudeau returning to power in the snap polls.

Canadians gave 49-year-old Trudeau's Liberal Party a victory in Monday's parliamentary elections, but his gamble to win a majority of seats failed and nearly mirrored the result of two years ago.

The Liberals won the most seats of any party. Trudeau's Liberals were leading or elected in 156 seats — one less than they won in 2019, and 14 short of the 170 needed for a majority in the House of Commons, according to Canadian media reports.

This is Trudeau's third federal election win, but his critics say the poll was a waste of time. The Conservatives have held onto their main opposition status and are expected to win about 122 seats, BBC reported.

"There are still votes to be counted but what we've seen tonight is millions of Canadians have chosen a progressive plan," Trudeau told supporters in Montreal in the early hours of Tuesday morning.

In meeting with Modi, Harris to 'reinforce' strategic partnership between India, US: White House

Washington: US Vice President Kamala Harris will meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the White House on Thursday to "reinforce" the strategic partnership between the two countries, as they plan to discuss various issues, including democracy, human rights and climate, a White House official said on Tuesday.

"This meeting will build upon their June 3 telephone conversation addressing the Covid response. They plan to discuss democracy, human rights, climate, and global health issues," the official said. "On Thursday, the Vice President will meet with Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi to reinforce the strategic partnership between the United States and India," the White House official said.

According to the official, as Biden delivered his first speech before the UN's General Assembly on Tuesday, Harris plans to continue her work to advance the Biden-Harris Administration's agenda to rebuild "our alliances and restore America's global leadership. PTI

Nerves on edge on Spanish island as quakes, lava threaten

El Paso: Several small earthquakes shook the Spanish island of La Palma off northwest Africa, keeping nerves on edge as rivers of lava continued to flow toward the sea on Tuesday and a new vent blew open on the mountainside.

After moving downhill across the island's countryside since Sunday's eruption, the lava is gradually closing in on the more densely populated coastline. Officials said a river of lava was bearing down on the neighbourhood of Todoque, where more than 1,000 people live and where emergency services were preparing evacuations.

About 6,000 people on La Palma have been evacuated so far and 183 houses damaged, government spokeswoman Isabel Rodriguez said after a Cabinet meeting in Madrid. AP

Sebi drops adjudication proceedings against RIL

Alleged incorrect financial disclosures matter

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Markets watchdog Sebi has disposed of adjudication proceedings without imposing any penalty on Reliance Industries Ltd in a matter related to alleged incorrect disclosure of diluted earnings per share in its financial results more than 13 years ago.

Sebi decided not to impose any penalty for the alleged violations mainly on two grounds, including that the amendment to the relevant fact that made incorrect disclosure of information by a listed company punishable came into force prospectively from March 2019.

Besides, the regulator mentioned about its pending appeal before the Supreme Court against a Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT) order.

The quarterly financial statements submitted by Reliance Industries Ltd to the NSE for six consecutive quarters beginning June 2007 to September 2008 contained the same figures for basic as well as diluted Earnings Per Share (EPS) despite existence of share warrants, according to Sebi.

RIL had issued 12 crore warrants to its promoters on April 12, 2007 which were convertible within 18 months with an exercise price of ₹1,402 per warrant entitling its holders to subscribe to equivalent number of equity shares.

On October 3, 2008, the company's board of directors allotted 12 crores equity shares of ₹10 each to the allottees, upon exercise of warrants.

In a 39-page order, dated September 20, Sebi said the amendment with regard to furnishing false, incorrect or incomplete information, document, books, return or report, made punishable under the provisions of Section 23A of SCR Act, 1956 effected by the Finance Act, 2018 with effect from March 8, 2019 came into effect only with prospective effect.

SCRA refers to Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act.

In addition, Sebi's Adjudicating Officer Biju S mentioned about the SAT order, passed in May this year, wherein it was ruled that failure to comply with the listing agreement under clause 36 attracts penalty under Section 23A(a) of SCRA and not under Section 23E of the Act.

Sebi has filed an appeal in the matter before the Supreme Court but no stay has been granted by the court.

Against this backdrop, Biju said he was of the view that "no penalty is warranted in terms of the said provisions in the present adjudication proceedings. Hence, the present adjudication proceedings are disposed of without imposition of penalty".

In terms of the listing agreement, companies are required to disclose both basic and diluted EPS in the quarterly financial statements filed with the stock exchanges. This financial information is required to be prepared and disclosed after complying with all the accounting standards.

According to Sebi's order,

RIL has inter-alia contended that even if it is assumed (without admitting) that the diluted EPS computed is incorrect, the difference between the diluted EPS as computed by the regulator and the company is very negligible and that the difference was to the extent of 0.45 per cent to 3.71 per cent.

"In this regard I note that the noticee (RIL) was disclosing the same figures for the diluted EPS and Basic EPS in its financial statements for six consecutive quarters between June 30, 2007 to September 30, 2008, essentially portraying that there was no dilution in the earnings per share, when in fact the same was not the case," the order said.

Amazon spends ₹ 8,546 cr in legal expenses during 2018-20 to maintain presence in India

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

US e-commerce giant Amazon, which is said to be investigating alleged bribes paid by its legal representatives in India, spent a staggering ₹8,546 crore or $1.2 billion in legal expenses for maintaining a presence in the country during 2018-20, sources said.

Sources aware of the firm's public account filings said entities of Amazon - including Amazon Retail India Pvt Ltd, Amazon Seller Services Pvt Ltd, Amazon Transportation Services Pvt Ltd, Amazon Wholesale (India) Pvt Ltd, and Amazon Internet Services Pvt Ltd (AWS) - paid Rs 3,420 crore in India during 2018-19 and Rs 5,126 crore during 2019-20 towards legal fees.

Amazon is locked in a legal tussle over the takeover of Future Group and is facing a probe by the Competition Commission of India (CCI). While the company declined to comment on the legal fee issue, traders body CAIT claimed that Amazon spending 20 per cent of its revenue on lawyers was questionable.

"The whopping amount spent under legal professional fees clearly shows how Amazon and its subsidiaries are misusing their financial muscles to bribe and manipulate Indian government officials," CAIT National Secretary General Praveen Khandelwal wrote to Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal.

Without offering any proof for his claim, he demanded a CBI inquiry.

On Monday, a report by Morning Context stated that Amazon has initiated an investigation against some of its legal representatives for allegedly bribing Indian government officials. Its senior corporate counsel has reportedly been sent on leave in this matter.

The company had stated that it takes allegations of improper actions seriously and investigates them fully to take appropriate action. While it did not confirm or deny the allegations, Amazon had said it has "zero tolerance for corruption".

"Which company over the globe while spending more than 20 per cent of its accrued revenue on paying to lawyers is able to sustain in business and that too even making losses year by year but yes it is global e-tailer Amazon in India which is a living example of this mind-boggling acrimony," CAIT alleged on Tuesday.

GST panel to consider giving waiver on 1 day interest, late fee

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

As some taxpayers faced difficulties in filing GST return on Monday, the tax department on Tuesday said the IT grievance redressal committee would consider giving interest and late fee waiver.

The Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) in a tweet said a few taxpayers have reportedly faced difficulty in updation of Electronic Cash Ledger on September 20.

September 20 was the last day for filing GST return and paying taxes via GSTR-3B for August.

"To mitigate their difficulties, GSTN has been directed to take up the issue of waiver of late fee and interest for one day for such taxpayers, before the IT Grievance Redressal Committee," the tweet said.

Kotak Mahindra Bank forays into healthcare lending, not to use RBI's liquidity window

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Kotak Mahindra Bank on Tuesday announced its foray into the healthcare lending space, where it will be taking exposures of up to ₹ 15 crore apiece.

The private sector lender, however, will not be seeking funds from the Reserve Bank's on-tap liquidity scheme for the sector, as its cost of funds is very low, its President and Head of Business Banking Assets, Sunil Daga, said.

In May this year, the RBI had announced an on-tap liquidity window of ₹50,000 crore for on-lending by banks to the healthcare sector, where they can take exposures of up to three years and access funding at the repo rate.

BECOME GOBALLY COMPETITIVE

There is a growing demand to reshape business education in the country due to digitalisation. PROFESSOR KIRTI SHARMA tells how Indian B-schools can prepare students to become globally competitive

A lot of times when I read about business and business education related articles these days both online and in mainstream print media, some of the keywords which I come across are: sustainable, impactful, society, talent, value, nurturing, entrepreneurial, creativity, distinctive, excellence, research, policy, practice, decision-makers, leaders, performance, culture, digital, AI-M/C learning, autonomy and design-thinking. This made me think what should be the ingredients and the recipe to make an Indian student compete in a globally competitive environment?

This further brings me back to the basic essence of gaining a business degree. In a generalised manner most people have two primary goals when they come to a B-school – “I want to be wealthy” and “I want to make some difference in the world which matters”. The current generation is more concerned about the second one, hence this makes it almost mandatory for Indian B-schools to have a relook towards the traditional curriculum to more contemporary curriculum.

In the medical colleges, doctors teach students and senior post graduate students teach juniors, similarly in a Law school – practicing lawyers teach the budding lawyers. But in a B-school, not all the faculty have experience with hands-on leadership and decision-making in the industry. Hence there is a need to address these challenges in the Indian B-school education and curriculum. I would like to propose the following six solutions for Indian B-schools to prepare their students to be globally competitive where the future is shaped by technology and innovation.

Technology focus: B-schools don't have an option anymore to not have technology related topics across functional courses. We are living in the era of Ed-tech, health-tech, HR-tech, Fin-tech etc. As we witness technology's increasing pervasiveness, the same should cut across all functional domains in a B-school like marketing, finance, operations, strategy, economics, public policy and of course information management.

Industry-institute immersion: To overcome the limitation of faculty not having hands-on leadership or decision making experience, curriculum should allow to have this intervention beside mandatory summer-internship. This will also help to get them exposed to various problems and improve their analytical skills.

Incubation centre: There is a GOI MSME incubation scheme under which they provide financial support to Institutions to develop Entrepreneurial and Managerial skills. B-schools can provide an opportunity to innovate new prod-

Business schools should introduce new contemporary electives as per the global skill demand like electives in machine learning application in marketing and finance, block-chain service, healthcare marketing and real estate management ucts and ideas. In fact this can be introduced as a 'course of independent study' and can be assessed. This will give freedom to students to craft their own learning and growth trajectory.

Boot camps: We have seen the technology bootcamps becoming popular among recruiters. Almost every company today is becoming a technology company. Hence B-schools should include Boot camps focusing on specific skills to replace traditional methods of teaching concepts like product development, value creation, delivery models to name a few. Hence, B-schools, which can offer a few Boot camps in the wide-range of courses will create a competitive edge for their students as these will have sanctity because of the assessment criteria and will be part of the degree at completion.

AI-data science focus: From banks, restaurants, government office to hospitals every business has some or the other sort of technology cutting across. Hence, Indian B-schools should include some input across functional domains of marketing, finance, operations and strategy. Some such topics should include: Artificial Intelligence, Machine learning applications, block-chain, cyber-security, e-commerce implementation, innovations etc. Field courses should be included where students who wish to get into a specific industry can understand the real problems and use of technology in those industries such as production units of FMCG or medical equipment, banks, refinery, power company.

Specialised electives: Business schools should introduce new contemporary electives as per the global skill demand like electives in machine learning application in marketing and finance, block-chain service, healthcare marketing, food innovation, real estate management and private equity management and doing business with India to name a few.

There is a growing demand to reshape the business education in India in this digital era. Almost one-third of the world population is Gen Z. These are also the future workforce and leaders.

The B-schools should focus beyond just advertising and scholarships to create a global competitive edge for students. It requires courage to chart new routes, which can vary for different B-schools owing to their capabilities, resources and location. But due to digital technologies this is not impossible. India has an advantage that we are in the midst of the whole economic activity. Doing business with India is a popular course across summer-schools in Europe and the US. Students should have a competitive edge as they are sitting right there to see how business is growing in India, how new unicorns are taking birth in India. So, one of the most important advantages Indian B-schools have is that they are located where the action is. This is the right time when business schools need radical innovations if they have to stay relevant.

Take advantage of golden programme

The so-called Golden Visa Programmes, offering Residence Rights by Investment, allow foreign nationals to acquire legal residence in a European country and the leads to citizenship of that nation when some conditions are met. These programmes require investing capital in specific assets and jurisdictions to meet the investment goals of the country. The investments are usually to be made in real estate or regulated investment funds. These programs are increasingly becoming attractive for Indians as they unlock many benefits that are otherwise not accessible to Indian Nationals. While there has been sustained demand for these programs from India, the Covid-19 pandemic has further instigated affluent Indians to consider this route more seriously than before.

The wealthy, ambitious and entrepreneurially driven society invest in Residency by Investment programmes as an investment in their future generations. They plant the seeds for their next generation to have greater mobility and global business access to make India prouder and stronger as an economy. As per the global Wealth Migration Report of 2020, over 7000 Indian HNWI were keen to make investments overseas.

For Indians, the higher perceived value of education, employment, business prospects, rewards, infrastructure, quality of life, and more have been attractive selling points for migrating to the West. Amongst the investment migration options available, European programs have increasingly become more sought-after in the subcontinent. In 2020, there was a 62 percent increase in inquiries from Indians for European residency by investment programs and a subsequent 30 percent rise until May 2021 according to a leading report.

Rightly so, because 500 years ago, the West looked to the East for more trade. This trend is now reversing when the East, including China and India continue to look for more trade in the West. Such trade has driven China to become at-par with the United States and the European Union in under 30 years. And there is no doubt that India must take the same route for global dominance.

The attraction

Investors securing their European Golden Visa open up their route to European Citizenship. This gives the investor and their family members easy access to all 27 EU countries – to live, work and retire wherever they want. The investor's children are free to travel, study, settle, and work in any EU country of their liking. For Indians, the EU is warm and welcoming, and a strategic partner in peaks and troughs. English is widely spoken across the EU and each country represents a new shot of culture and heritage, unlike the United States. Indian food, cultures and festivities are celebrated by Indian expats and local Indian embassies. For instance, the Indian High Commission in Cyprus encourages and arranges community-driven festive celebrations for the Indian diaspora, amongst other things as per our conversation with them.

Europe has a rich, unparalleled heritage to offer for international students. One is usually amazed when visiting Portugal, Greece, Spain, France or Italy. Like India, Europe's history dates back to over 2000 years, again unlike the United States. From culture to some of the best universities, accessible at no or lower costs – investing in residency programmes allow them to stay ahead of the curve. Europe's golden Vsa programmes are also significantly more cost effective than others, and less time consuming.

Requirement

The requirements for the Golden Visa Program vary depending on the country of application. For example, Portugal Golden Visa which is currently the most popular among Indian Nationals, requires a property purchase of at least 500 thousand Euros or an investment in a regulated investment fund of at least 350 thousand Euros.

Countries like Spain, Portugal, or Greece provide residency by investing foreign capital in real estate, alternate investment funds, companies, government bonds, and specific industries. In contrast, EU countries like Switzerland, Italy, and Austria require more active investment methods, such as generating job opportunities.

Portugal Golden Visa is one the easiest methods to embark upon the European Citizenship path. In addition to the investment, one must prove the legality of the source of funds, a clean criminal record, and the ability to sustain themselves and their dependents for the specified investment period. Applicants have full rights to live and work in Portugal and apply for citizenship after 5 years. Minimum stay requirements are very moderate and achievable at just seven days annually.

Process

Most of the processes are now digitally fulfilled. However, it's advisable to retain a credible investment advisor and immigration lawyer to help with the application process to avoid disappointment. The application and approval process is usually completed within six to nine months. After the approval of the application, the investor receives a biometric residence permit, which subsequently leads to citizenship when certain conditions are met.

Validity

It varies across countries. While the renewal process is purely administrative, the renewal seeks to check that the investment is being held as per the regulations and hasn't been liquidated upon receiving the permits. Portuguese and Spanish permits must be renewed every 2 years, while Greek and Cypriot permits must be renewed every 5 years.

Test your aptitude

Students are often presented with diverse career options. At times, choosing the right career path can be confusing. An aptitude test helps students understand the area of interest and strengths better. It provides clarity to students on which career path is most suited based on their skill sets.

Aptitude Tests are designed to determine an individual's skill or ability to succeed in a particular niche/field. Its importance has grown over the years and has helped mould innumerable careers.

Know Your Career Options: Aptitude tests are usually taken with the aim of identifying students' potential. The test scores help the aptitude experts in assessing and suggesting the right career options based on the skill-set of the students. Besides, the result also boosts their confidence in striving hard to achieve their career goals.

Unbiased Tests: Aptitude tests remain completely unaffected by external factors and are now powered by Artificial Intelligence. Students' raw intelligence and their potential are the key driving indicators in the aptitude test. For instance, the Toppr Scholarship Test for Aptitude and Reasoning (T-STAR) is a consistent and standardized measure of ability, making it the biggest online test in India.

Understanding strengths:

Identifying and mapping one's strengths to career goals is undeniably the first step towards success. The right aptitude test helps students understand their skill sets and choose the right career path based on their strongest skills.

Know your personality: An aptitude test does not only help in deciding the right career interest, but also plays an important role in understanding the test taker's personality. Once students are aware of their personalities, career options and strengths, they can make informed decisions. Students can acquire the right education or the requisite skills based on the aptitude test's outcome, which in turn helps them succeed in their careers.

Aptitude Tests are Not definitive: One of the key aspects of an aptitude test is - that it is not definitive. Students can attempt multiple-aptitude tests to assess themselves. The results can be used as comparative parameters to track a person's intelligence level between two different points of time.

To sum it up, an aptitude test is a reflection of students' current abilities, though not solely restricted to their educational performance. It covers a broad spectrum - career, strengths and personality, and could go a long way in helping students assess themselves during various time intervals.

FOR HEALTHY FUTURE

The present pandemic has created several lucrative opportunities for the public health practioners in the national and international market. DR HANNAH JORDAN tells you more

We are encountering new challenges in public health like the COVID-19 pandemic and the health impacts of climate change and an aging population in many countries. This means that demand for highly skilled public health professionals is growing.

With new challenges come more opportunities to improve population-level health and public health practitioners require a broad range of knowledge and skills across a range of disciplines including epidemiology, the control of communicable diseases, disaster management, leading health service organisations, and health economics.

Training is usually undertaken at postgraduate level and it's important to do your research before committing to a master's programme- choosing the right programme can unlock the door to a wide range of career opportunities.

The World Health Organization (WHO)'s Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are a key focus for public health policy and practice globally. SDG 3

Epidemiology is the discipline underpinning both effective public health practice and research into the causes, control and prevention of disease. Knowledge and understanding of epidemiological concepts and methods is a basic requirement for effective public health practice and an essential component of any good public health degree.

Assessing health needs and tackling health inequalities are also key to public health work at the local, national and international level. Public Health graduates require an understanding of programme planning, and the monitoring and evaluation of programmes.

Health protection is one of the cornerstones of public health. The control of communicable diseases is one of the major functions of health protection and in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, health systems globally are re-evaluating their policies and processes, requiring

ing input for talented and skilled public health practitioners

Public health practitioners also have a role to play in strengthening public health systems through influencing and shaping health policy at the regional, national, district, and community levels.

Developing understanding of how to apply management and leadership theories and styles in different health care contexts can be extremely useful for those wishing to pursue careers in health policy. Public health is a complex and multifaceted discipline- it is both an art and a science, and has the power to underpin social change and promote health and wellbeing for the wider benefit of society.

Qualified public health practitioners are in demand in a variety of areas. There is growing demand for information analyst roles, senior public health management positions, experts in health promotion and for public health specialists in local, regional and national health services. Internationally, public health graduates can find excellent opportunities in Governments, health departments, universities, hospitals, as well as non-governmental organisations, undertaking leadership roles, public health programme interventions and evaluations, research and policy-making.

If you are considering a career in public health, look for a PG programme that will help you develop the research, evaluation and analytical skills you need to understand and undertake a wide range of public health activities, in national and international contexts.

Some institutes offer online programmes for those looking to combine study with work, whilst others allow for more intensive full-time study, leading to a Masters in just one year.

Look for programmes accredited by the Agency for Public Health Education Accreditation this ensures a high quality programme that is well aligned with the needs of employers globally.

‘Important to build global experience’

Remote international internship is the new normal which has many benefits. SACHIN GUPTA shares a few of them

The Coronavirus has disturbed traditional method of learning. With the rising uncertainties turning education and work online is the new normal and also the best alternative to bridge the learning gap. What does remote working look like? Remote working refers to attaining international experience from a remote location, without being physically present at the office during office hours and gaining global exposure.

Remote international internship is the new normal which has innumerable benefits. It helps students to create global market and connect to the like minded peers who can be their future partners, stakeholders etc., anyone can kick-start his international career from anywhere. International virtual internships can help to build global experiences.

Sachin Gupta
Chancellor, Sanskriti University

Higher chances of employability

Remote internship with a global company will help you attain the career relevant skills that can help you to become valuable asset to future employers, such as time management, cross-cultural fluency and self-discipline and creativity. Having cognitive skill-set in your resume can boost up your resume which eventually will lead to higher chances of your employability.

Boosts global connectivity

Participating in a remote global internship can help you broaden your own network and encourage you to grow and nurture your own global perspective. You'll become part of a global community of peers from different countries. You will learn according to the new global requirements and develop a greater understanding and appreciation of another culture and their distinct working practices, find inspiration and new ideas through connections.

Learn leading international career relevant skills

As we can notice the drastic changes in operation of every sector. Many employers around the world are changing their traditional working systems to the new digitalized work-

Mould your career goals

Virtual global internship can bring up the clarity to your career goals and helps you choose what industry is meant for you? How your chosen industry works? You can define your goals and decide where and why to invest your time and efforts.

Save travelling time and expenses

Remote internship eliminates commuting. If you're interning abroad in a global city, it's often normal to commute up to an hour or more each way. Working from home cuts down the huge travelling costs and also saves time.

Following the surge of the second wave, the daily average of COVID-19 cases in India are finally depicting a downward trend. While things are starting to look better, it is imperative that we continue to be careful and vigilant as we move ahead.

Much like most other sectors, the education industry was deeply impacted by the pandemic that gripped the world. In order to ensure that learning did not stop, institutes needed to rethink and reshape the way knowledge was imparted. As we rapidly embraced the unprecedented demands of these times, we also came to realise the multifarious benefits of online education.

However, with schools and colleges now gearing up to open once again, we can look forward to a hybrid and blended education system that will combine the best of both worlds and ensure students receive a learning environment that we had possibly not even conceptualised before.

While the hurdles and challenges were many as traditional concepts of education had to be reworked and adapted to the present times, what also came to light was various ways we can leverage technology and online tools to our advantage and make the best of the situation. Virtual classes meant that students and teachers could interact from anywhere across the globe. It provided a new sense of flexibility and fluidity. Classrooms were no longer limited to physical locations. Online teaching paved the way for a model of learning where both students and teachers broke out of predefined roles and took initiatives to experiment, explore and engage with one another. Digital portfolios, virtual assessment and review methods were quickly incorporated by institutes. It not only gave rise to greater collaboration amongst peers and between students and professors but also provided the space for the growth of an entrepreneurial mindset and a problem-solving and practical outlook to life.

While the benefits of virtual education have been many, it is hard to deny certain constraints that accompany it. With institutes across the national capital gearing to reopen their doors, students will now have access to the benefits of both offline and online learning. With the new state guidelines in place, offline classes are now once again becoming a lived reality. The advantages of being on campus are multifarious and wide ranging. Not only will students have the opportunity to experience college life in all its vibrancy but they will also have the chance to utilise the facilities and infrastructure that are provided especially for their use and to assist their learning. There are diverse facets that make the entire college experience truly memorable and worthwhile. With colleges reopening, students will have the opportunity and the space to explore the campus, interact and learn from their peers, benefit from the close guidance and mentorship of their professors and have the chance to actually experiment in a hands-on learning environment. In our journey to nurture and develop critical thinkers, innovators and problem-solvers, it is essential that students are exposed to all the facets of education - both theoretical and practical. Being on campus and having the opportunity to learn by doing and to put to practice theories and concepts is vital for a well-rounded education. The fact that most college students are above the age of 18 implies that they are eligible to get their vaccine doses. As we move ahead, it is vital that we all take our wellbeing into our own hands. By being fully vaccinated, students will help in making the campus a safer space for everyone.

IIT GUWAHATI ADDRESS ENVIRONMENT CRISIS

The Indian Institute of Technology Guwahati researchers have developed a highly porous and water repellent superhydrophobic cotton composite material containing Metal-Organic Framework (MOF), which can absorb oil selectively from oil-water mixture.

The MOF composite has capability for selective separation of the oils from oil-water mixtures. The separation efficiency lies between 95% and 98%. Besides, the MOF composite is also able to absorb large volumes of oils and can be reused for minimum 10 times so sorbents have more recovery.

76% DELHI PARENTS AGREE TO SEND KIDS TO SCHOOL

At a time when state governments are relaxing lockdown restrictions and schools are reopening after almost 18 months in a phased manner, the LEAD conducted a survey among parents to learn their views about sending children back to school.

The findings revealed that 59% of respondents felt that their children suffered learning loss due to the pandemic, and 76% Delhi parents are willing to send their children back to school. They believe that a complete school experience is possible only with reopening.

The survey was conducted amongst 10,500 metro and non-metro parents whose wards study in Classes I-X.

The survey indicated that for 22% of parents, vaccination of school staff is a top priority. Besides, 55% of metro parents rated social distancing as most critical, followed by healthcare facilities (54%); whereas parents from non-metros said sports and social distancing were equally important (52%).

Voicing challenges faced by children and parents during the pandemic, recalled how they used to juggle between work from home and school from home in the initial days. The study found that 47% of metro parents spent between 3-4 hours a day in their children's school as compared to 44% in non-metros.

The survey indicated that majority of parents (63%) feel that engagement in a physical classroom leads to better social interaction amongst children.

Sumeet Mehta, LEAD CEO said: "The last year and a half has not been easy for teachers, principals, schools and students. Children belonging to the lowest income strata faced the maximum learning loss due to inaccessibility of data and devices. Schools need to be treated as essential utilities and parents must send their children back to school. Let us prepare to welcome them back to school by undertaking all necessary precautions."

Data also indicates that the virtual learning environment of children has been a more worrying factor for non-metro parents than metro parents when it comes to skillsets for the future.

LIDO LEARNING ANNOUNCES THE ACE PROGRAM

The Lido Learning has emerged as one of the most important players in the edtech space, with its small-group tuitions in Maths, Science, English and Coding for students from KG to Grade XII. The company now guarantees that its students will show better exam results, or their entire course fee will be waived off — within just eight months of taking classes.

Speaking about the ACE programme, Sahil Sheth, CEO Lido Learning said: "The programme is the culmination of a lot of research and experiments to build a model that delivers on our promise of making success a habit for each Lido-er, in all aspects of life. Our small-group tuition classes give students the perfect opportunity to truly absorb their learning, understand it, and apply it in real life.

"They are neither restrictive like prolonged one-on-one tuitions, nor unstructured like large group tuitions can be, with no child getting the attention they deserve. We can guarantee success with ACE — to the extent that we're willing to return course fees if the child doesn't show measurable improvement — because we know it works."

PUNJAB RESTRICT ROYALS TO 185

Dubai: Opener Yashasvi Jaiswal (49) and Mahipal Lomror (43) starred with the bat but Punjab Kings pulled things back in the rear end to bowl out Rajasthan Royals for 185 in their IPL match here on Tuesday.

Arshdeep Singh returned with a five-wicket haul after Mohammed Shami claimed three as the duo restricted Rajasthan inside the 200-mark after they were going hammer and tongs at one stage.

Put into bat, Jaiswal was part of in two vital partnerships, adding 54 with his new opening partner Evin Lewis (36) and then sharing another 48 off 28 balls with Liam Livingstone (25).

Lomror then smashed his way to a 17-ball 43, studded with four sixes and two fours.

However, Punjab pulled things back in the end with Shami claiming two wickets to restrict RR inside 200. Earlier, Jaiswal smashed two successive fours in the first over off Shami, while debutant Lewis sent Ishan Porel, also playing his first match, sailing over for a six as RR had a fly-ing start.

The West Indies batsman punished Porel for bowling short and wide, blasting four boundaries in the fourth over. Deepak Hooda was then taken to the cleaners as he bled 13 runs. Left-arm pacer Arshdeep Singh then produced the breakthrough, deceiving Lewis with a slower ball as Mayank Agarwal took a fine low catch.

After the powerplay, RR were at 57 for one. Jaiswal then reverse swept England spinner Adil Rashid for a six, before depositing him over long off for another maximum.

RR skipper Sanju Samson failed to make any impact as a terrific one-handed catch by KL Rahul ended his stay and gave Porel his maiden wicket. Livingstone then joined Jaiswal, who picked up another maximum off Rashid in the 9th over.

Jaiswal raised the team hundred with another four off Harpreet Brar in the 11th over.

Livingstone also tried to match his partner as he scooped one fine over KL Rahul and then smacked one over mid-wicket off Arshdeep.

A sensational catch at deep mid-wicket by Fabian Allen sent Livingstone back to the hut with RR slipping to 116 for 3. Jaiswal couldn't complete his fifty as his leading edge was held on to by Mayank at short cover. New man Lomror then went on a six-hitting spree, blasting two maximums off Rashid before sending Hooda for a couple more in the 16th over as RR crossed the 150-mark. Lomror also smashed two fours as Hooda conceded 24 runs off his second over.

However, Shami and Arshdeep restricted their opponent to a competitive score in the end.

Delhi Capitals to face laggards SRH

PTI ■ DUBAI

Bolstered by Shreyas Iyer's return, Delhi Capitals will look to maintain the form they showed in the first half of the season as they resume their IPL campaign against a struggling Sunrisers Hyderabad here on Wednesday. Delhi are currently sitting on the second spot, with 12 points from eight games. On the other hand, Sunrisers are placed at the last spot, with just a solitary win from seven games and six losses.

The Rishabh Pant-led side ended the first half of the IPL with a win and would be keen to start on a winning note.

And to do that, the Capitals have enough power-hitters in their line-up, who can take any good attack to cleansers and Sunrisers won't be an exception.

Opener Shikhar Dhawan (380 runs), would be keen to prove the selectors wrong after being axed from India's World T20 squad, while his partner young Prithvi Shaw (308 runs), would also like to get some runs under his belt. DC boast of a strong middle-order comprising Shreyas Iyer, skipper Rishabh Pant (213 runs), Australians Steve Smith (104 runs) and Marcus Stoinis (71 runs) and Shimron Hetmyer (84 runs). They will have to play their roles well if the Capitals need to keep winning and in case the opener's fail, the middle-order will need to take responsibility.

Iyer, who is making a comeback after recovering from shoulder injury that he sustained in March, would also be keen to start the tournament well. Delhi also have a settled bowling attack and they could go in with Avesh Khan (14 wickets) and Kasigo Rabada (8 wickets), who have been lethal at the start and at the death.

Delhi have array of spinners to choose from – be it wily old-fox Ravichandran Ashwin, experienced campaigner Amit Mishra, Axar Patel, Lalit Yadav or Pravin Dubey. For Sunrisers, a win would boost their confidence and help them stay afloat in the tournament.

However, their season's leading run-getter Johnny Bairstow, has decided to pull out and responsibility. The likes of Kane Williamson, Manish Pandey, Wriddhiman Saha, Kedar Jadhav, Abdul Samad and Vijay Shankar, will also need to chip in and contribute.

TEAM SQUAD

DC: Rishabh Pant (Captain), Ajinkya Rahane, Prithvi Shaw, Rupal Patel, Shikhar Dhawan, Shimron Hetmyer, Shreyas Iyer, Steve Smith, Amit Mishra, Anrich Nortje, Avesh Khan, Ben Dwarshuis, Ishant Sharma, Kagiso Rabada, Kulwant Khejroliya, Lukman Meriwala, Pravin Dubey, Tom Curran, Umesh Yadav, Axar Patel, Lalit Yadav, Marcus Stoinis, Ravichandran Ashwin, Sam Billings and Vishnu Vinod.

Sunrisers Hyderabad: Kane Williamson (Captain), David Warner, Manish Pandey, Sherfane Rutherford, Wriddhiman Saha, Shreevats Goswami, Rashid Khan, Vijay Shankar, Mohammad Nabi, Abhishek Sharma, Bhuvneshwar Kumar, Siddharth Kaul, Khaleel Ahmed, T Natarajan, Basil Thampi, Sandeep Sharma, Shahbaz Nadeem, Abdul Samad, J Suchith, Jason Holder, Virat Singh, Priyam Garg, Kedar Jadhav, Muejeb-ur-Rahman, Jason Roy.

Taliban ban broadcast of IPL matches in Af

IANIS ■ KABUL

Cricket fans in Afghanistan will not get to watch the UAE leg of the Indian Premier League (IPL) as the ruling Taliban has banned the broadcast of the matches in the country terming the content as "anti-Islamic".

The second leg of the IPL started on Sunday but the cricket fanatic people of Afghanistan did not get to watch the matches as the Taliban has issued a diktat to the local media against showing the IPL because of the presence of women as cheerleaders and among the watching public in UAE.

Former broadcaster and journalist Fawad Aman, who has served as spokesperson of the Ministry of Defence, termed the ban imposed by the Taliban on IPL as "ridiculous".

"Ridiculous: Taliban have banned the broadcasting of Indian Premier League (IPL) in Afghanistan. Taliban have warned that Afghan media outlets should not broadcast the Indian Cricket League due to Journalist and former Afghanistan Cricket Board media manager M Ibrahim Momand said the live broadcast of the IPL matches was banned because the content was deemed to be "anti-Islam". "Afghanistan national (TV) will not broadcast the @IPL as usual as it was reportedly banned to live telecast as the matches resumed tonight due to possible anti-Islam contents, girls dancing & the attendance of barred hard women in the Stadium by the Islamic Emirates of the Taliban," he tweeted before the opening match of this leg of IPL.

Humiliating loss has got nothing to do with Virat's statement: Hesson

IANIS ■ DUBAI

Royal Challengers Bangalore (RCB) coach Mike Hesson categorically said that the humiliating loss to Kolkata Knight Riders in the team's opening match in the IPL second leg here had anything to do with skipper Virat Kohli's statement about quitting captaincy at the end of the season.

KKR registered a comfortable nine-wicket win with RCB able to put only 92 runs on the board and the winners notching up the target in only 10 overs for the loss one wicket.

Kohli, who has been with RCB since the inception of IPL in 2008 and became captain of the team in 2013, announced on September 19 that he will step down as the captain of the team after the end of IPL 2021 season.

"No, I don't think so (it's got to do with Kohli's statement). I think it was important to get any form of distraction out of the way early and we spoke about making that announcement as soon as possible so all players were aware of it. It certainly hasn't had an impact on tonight's performance. We weren't as sharp as we needed to be with the bat, we didn't adapt to conditions, we lost wickets in clumps -- everything that you can't do as a batting group. But I'm still confident in this group that we'll turn it around quickly," Hesson said during a post-match virtual press conference after the nine-wicket loss.

On KS Bharat taking up the wicket-keeping duties as against the RCB's regular keeper, AB de Villiers, Hesson said it was a move to preserve the South African.

"I think you saw that AB de Villiers didn't have the gloves. So certainly we've got to look after AB. He's a very important player for us and not one that we can risk at the moment behind the stumps. To be fair to KS Bharat, he's been outstanding in the camp leading up to this game. Certainly deserves his inclusion," said Hesson.

Hesson added that

Kohli will continue to play with same intensity: Agarkar

IANIS ■ NEW DELHI

Former India pace bowler Ajit Agarkar feels that Virat Kohli will continue to play with the same energy and enthusiasm despite deciding to step down from T20 captaincy after the T20 World Cup and the IPL 2021 season.

"I think one of the things we've seen throughout his career, even when he wasn't the captain and when he played under MS Dhoni quite a bit, the energy and the passion still seemed the same. I can't imagine it changing just because he's not the captain and just being one of the guys," Agarkar said on Star Sports after RCB's nine-wicket loss to KKR on Monday night.

Former India wicket-keeper-batsman Parthiv Patel said Kohli must be feeling relieved after relinquishing the RCB captaincy given the workload coupled with prolonged stays in bubbles.

"I think he looked more emotional than happy. I think when you're playing for one franchise for so many years, you get that emotional connect which was there in RCB. I think RCB actually invested in Virat Kohli's talent in 2008 and then showed a lot of trust in him as well because if you look at his and RCB's journey, it has been a rollercoaster one.

Mithali retains number one spot in ODI Rankings

PTI ■ DUBAI

India skipper Mithali Raj continued to hold on to the number one spot while New Zealand's Amy Satterthwaite returned to the top five in the latest ICC women's ODI rankings for batters released on Tuesday.

While skipper Mithali, who has 762 rating points, retained her top spot, opener Smriti Mandhana was placed seventh.

Satterthwaite made her way back into the top five on the back of her unbeaten 79 in the first ODI against England.

South Africa opener Lizelle Lee, who had caught up with Mithali last week to share the mantle at the top, has slipped by a position at number 2 — one rating point behind — after missing the final two ODIs against West Indies.

England captain Heather Knight also made significant gains. Her match-winning 89 off 107 deliveries against New Zealand helped her enter the top ten, jumping five places to share the ninth spot with Natalie Sciver and Laura Wolvaardt.

Veteran Indian pacer Jhulan Goswami moved up a spot to fourth while senior spinner Poonam Yadav remained static on ninth among bowlers.

India's Deepti Sharma moved a rung to be fourth in the all-rounders' list led by Australia's Ellyse Perry.

In the bowling rankings, the England pair of Sophie Ecclestone and Katherine Brunt climbed up the ladder one position each at sixth and seventh respectively, shifting Ayabonga Khaka of South Africa down to number eight who missed the final two outings of the series against South Africa.

Kate Cross snared five wickets in the first two ODIs while Natalie Sciver picked up three. Effectively, Cross moved up two places to 15th and Sciver advanced up three places to 18th.

Ramiz: Disappointed in England's withdrawal but was expected

IANIS ■ LAHORE

Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) chairman Ramiz Raja was left fuming after the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) announced that the tour of Pakistan in October by their men's and women's teams had been cancelled due to "increasing concerns about travelling to the region."

New Zealand too had called off their white-ball tour of Pakistan recently hours before the start of the opening match in Rawalpindi citing security threats.

ECB's decision to cancel the Pakistan tour has dealt a massive blow to the country's busiest home season in nearly two decades. In a video message released by the PCB on Tuesday, Ramiz said, "I am severely disappointed in England's withdrawal but it was expected because this western bloc gets united unfortunately and tries to back each other.

"So you can take any decision on the basis of security threat and perception. There was a sense of anger because first New Zealand got away without sharing information about the threat they were facing. Now, this [England] was expected but this is a lesson for us because we go out of our way to accommodate and pamper these sides when they visit. And when we go there, we undergo strict quarantines and we tolerate their admonishments, but there is a lesson in this.

We will not only survive but thrive: Babar

IANIS ■ NEWDELHI

After England announced the cancellation of their tour of Pakistan, skipper Babar Azam said that his nation has "always tried to accommodate the interests of the game" while "others simply don't".

England withdrew from the proposed tour of Pakistan by its men's and women's teams in October.

The decision came just days after New Zealand cancelled their tour just hours before the start of the 1st match, citing security reasons.

To this, Babar Azam expressed his anguish. "Disappointed, yet again. We have always tried to accommodate the interests of the game but others simply don't. We have come a long way in our cricketing journey and it will only get better with time. We will not only survive but thrive as well. InshaaAllah," said Babar in his tweet.

Knee injury rules Messi out of PSG-Metz game midweek

AP ■ PARIS

Lionel Messi will miss Paris Saint-Germain's next French league game at last-placed Metz after a knock to his left knee.

A scan confirmed "the signs of bone contusion," PSG said in a statement on Tuesday. Another assessment of Messi will be made in 48 hours.

Messi was taken off in the 75th minute of his home debut on Sunday, when PSG beat Lyon 2-1 in the league.

PSG coach Mauricio Pochettino said he took the decision to replace Messi after noticing the six-time Ballon d'Or winner repeatedly touched his knee. Messi, who hit the crossbar with a curling free kick, looked angry at being taken off.

"I'm really happy with what he did during the match, he played a great first half," Pochettino said during a news conference.

"All the great champions don't want to leave the pitch." Messi is still chasing his first PSG goal following his shock move from Barcelona this summer.

PSG's win against Lyon extended the club's perfect start to the season ahead of Wednesday's trip to Metz. PSG has won its first six league matches to open a five-point lead over second-placed Marseille, which has one match in hand.

Araujo saves a point for struggling Barca against Granada

IANIS ■ MADRID

FC Barcelona defender Ronald Araujo headed home an 89th-minute equaliser for his side to save a 1-1 draw at home to Granada, but the goal and an excellent performance from the Uruguayan does little to hide the fact that Barca are a club desperately struggling for form and confidence.

Under pressure after his side's 3-0 defeat at home to Bayern Munich six days ago and with a host of injuries in his squad, Barca coach Ronald Koeman gave starts to B-team players, Yusuf Demir and Alejandro Balde, who covered for the injured Pedri and Jordi Alba respectively.

Barca needed a good start to the game but got just the opposite after just 90 seconds when Granada left-back Sergio Escudero crossed for Domingos Duarte to head home unopposed at the far post. The goal made an already nervous Barca more nervous and they were close to falling 2-0 behind when Jorge Molina volleyed just over in the 11th minute, Xinhua reports.

Sergi Roberto hit the post for Barca with a snap-shot following a corner in the 11th minute, but Barca were struggling to find any fluency against a rival that looked to waste time at any opportunity and the visitors again went close when Marc Andre Ter Stegen produced a flying save to deny Monchu.

Barca's best chance of the first half came through an Araujo header which was denied by a flying save from Granada keeper Luis Maximiano, but prior to that Koeman drew the ire of the crowd by replacing Balde (who appeared to be suffering from a back problem) with Oscar Mingueza.

Luuk de Jong replaced Sergi Roberto at the start of the second half as Barca looked for an equaliser, but although they were pegging Granada back, their only chance was an effort from Memphis Depay that went over the bar.

Eye on AFC Cup inter-zone final, ATKMB take on FC Nasaf

IANIS ■ QARSHI

Indian Super League (ISL) side ATK Mohun Bagan will eye a place in the AFC Cup inter-zone final when they take on Uzbekistan's FC Nasaf in their inter-zone semifinal at the Markaziy Stadium on Wednesday.

ATKMB last played in August in their Group D-South Zone campaign in the Maldives and despite insufficient training in the lead-up, they gave a good account of themselves.

They beat fellow ISL side Bengaluru FC 2-0, Maldives' Maziya Sports & Recreation 3-1 and drew 1-1 with Bangladesh's Bashundhara Kings to top the group and advance to the inter-zone semifinal.

However, the tie against the Uzbek side is going to be their toughest challenge yet. While they had only a week-long training camp in Dubai ahead of the all-important game, their opponents have been busy with the Uzbekistan Professional Football League since March early this year where they play once every week.

Since March 13 when they featured in the 2020/21 ISL final against eventual winners Mumbai City FC, ATK Mohun Bagan, on the other hand, have played just three games.

This is the reason why FC Nasaf striker Andrija Kaluderovic -- who paired with ATK Mohun Bagan forward Roy Krishna at Wellington Phoenix in the A-League a few years ago -- is confident of his team's chances.

"If we win against ATK Mohun Bagan we have another home game, so we have a good chance to be in the final," Kaluderovic, who also spent a season in the ISL with Delhi Dynamos FC in 2018/19, told the-afc.com ahead of the game.

"I think we're the favourites in this game. We play in the league every week, we're in good form? they didn't have a league game for a long time.

"We have an advantage -- but this can mean nothing, maybe they'll play their best game, you never know, but if you ask me, we are the favourites for this game," he added.

In a big setback to the 2020/21 ISL finalists, attacking midfielder Hugo Boumous won't be part of this match on account of injury.

Jaipur to host int'l matches after 8 years; RCA chief thanks Ganguli, Shah

IANIS ■ JAIPUR

As the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) selected Jaipur as one of the venues for its matches, Rajasthan Cricket Association president Vaibhav Gehlot extended his gratitude to BCCI president Sourav Ganguly and secretary Jay Shah for giving the desert state a chance to host New Zealand and Sri Lanka teams in November this year and February 2022.

The first T20I between India and New Zealand will be played on November 17 and the 2nd ODI between India and West Indies (50 overs) will be played on February 9, 2022 in SMS Stadium.

International matches will be played in the Pink City after a gap of eight years and would come as a shot in the arm for the RCA which is looking to revive cricketing culture in the state.
