Biological E Ltd to get mRNA technology

In an effort to address the growing global need for mRNA vaccines, Biological E Ltd, an Indian pharmaceutical company, has been investing in mRNA technology. This move is aimed at expanding manufacturing capabilities to meet the rising demand for vaccines.

Surprisingly, many state governments are lagging behind in adopting the short duration crops, which is bad news for their farmers. Farmers, particularly those who rely on traditional farming methods, are experiencing a decrease in profits due to lower yields and increased costs. To combat this, the state government has introduced schemes to support farmers by providing them with financial assistance, access to market, and technological inputs. The government is hoping that these initiatives will help farmers adopt new agricultural practices and increase their yields.

The state government of Andhra Pradesh has declared its plan to implement organic farming across the state. The state government aims to reduce the use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides by promoting organic farming practices. The government is providing financial assistance to farmers who adopt organic farming practices, along with training and infrastructure support.

The government is also promoting the production of fruits and vegetables through organic farming. This will not only help in reducing the use of chemical inputs but also improve the quality and taste of the produce. Public opinion ignored in creating new districts: Pawan

This, he noted, was not the first time that the government had failed to take public opinion into consideration. "The government has failed to take into consideration the public opinion in the creation of new districts," he said.

Speaking on the occasion, TDP chief K Chandrashekar Rao said that the TDP had been working for the creation of new districts for a long time.

The people of submerged villages have expressed their grievances regarding the formation of new districts. The TDP has raised the issue of the formation of new districts and has demanded that the government take the necessary steps to rectify the anomalies.

"The government has to clarify how it has dealt with the grievances of the people," Chandrashekar Rao said.

He said that the TDP would not allow the government to create new districts without the consent of the people.

Agitating CPM activists held

Further to the call given by the CPM, several activists staged a dharna before the Andhra Pradesh Assembly on Monday in protest against the government's policies.

The CPM activists demanded the release of all political prisoners and an end to the repressive measures taken by the government.

They also protested against the government's decision to deport five political prisoners to Saudi Arabia.

The CPM activists claimed that the government was using repressive measures to suppress the legitimate rights and aspirations of the people.

They further stated that the people's right to freely express their opinion and to participate in political life was being denied.

The CPM activists also demanded the withdrawal of the government's decision to deport the five political prisoners.

They emphasized the importance of democracy and freedom of expression.

The CPM activists demanded that the government take immediate steps to address the concerns of the people.

The CPM activists
warned that they would continue their struggle until their demands were met.

The pivot?

Pawar has given the Congress a leg up by underlining its importance in Oppan space.

India seems to be an oasis as one or the other crisis envelops all our neighbours. This is not to deny any of our neighbours' rights, which Pawar reminded that while they are strong in their respective regions, the Congress is only ‘a pan-India person’. It has ‘a whole base and taking it along would be a practical decision’.

In striking contrast is the case of Afghanistan, which suffered under the Taliban rule from 1996 until October 2021. Almost similar was the situation in Ukraine, where he now seems caught in a cleft stick. 5 habits people with great skin have

Stay healthy this summer

Want to keep healthy and avoid the scorching summer heat, which is a common concern at this time of year? Summer heat is not only physically exhausting and uncomfortable, but it also puts us at risk for ailments like skin irritations, rashes, heat exhaustion, and heat stroke. While the summer heat is enjoyable, it is vital that we take steps to protect ourselves. Extra care must be made to battle the heat and stay fit and healthy during this season. Summer heat and heat stroke can also dehydrate your skin. Protecting your self from the sun’s rays is the first step. For protection against the sun’s rays, wear sunscreen with at least an SPF of 15 and broad-spectrum protection. This means it shields you from both UVA and UVB rays. Avoid Alcohol and Caffeine: Alcohol, fizzy drinks, and coffee can all contribute to dehydration. Drinking enough water is the simplest way to keep your skin healthy and hydrated, as our bodies are made up of 70 percent water. In addition, most sweetened drinks, such as soft drinks, fruit juices, and alcohol intake which further dehydrate your skin, should be limited to the cooler parts of the day, such as early mornings before 11 a.m. or late evening after 7 p.m. Stay healthy and drink plenty of water.

With an aim of “Democratizing design,” Gita Ramaswami, who is the founder and CEO of Design Cafe, a Bangalore-based interior design and architectural firm, is revolutionizing the world of design. “As an architect, I was brought up on brands that oversimplify the complexities of life and touch on trends that reinforce the same, hence, I felt the need for something experienced and inspirational design,” she shares. The duo, Gita, along with her partner, started Design Cafe in 2012. “Since then, we have worked on various projects in the residential and commercial segments,” she shares. “We have showcased our projects in India and overseas and have been awarded several awards over the years. Our ethos is to add meaning to each project we undertake, and we are committed to providing our clients with design solutions that are both inspiring and functional.”

Gita is also a renowned speaker who has been invited to give talks at TEDx, NID, Wade Asia, Design Open and its related lockdowns. The last two years forced sands of designers to bring forward to is building solutions so that they can help mold the world into the expert she is today. “I love working on every project, no matter how small or large. All of these different challenges, whether they are functional, aesthetic, or architectural, make up the most stimulating things something that I never forget. What inspires me to look at a different perspective of sustainability, from economic growth to designing solutions where it’s not just a dollar, but also, food, fuel, and air that is also my challenge. And that’s why, whether it is transforming the interior design into sustainable spaces, designing affordable solutions for the community, or helping build solutions that are more engaging and inclusive, Gita says about what inspires her to be here.”

A self-diagnosed woman of diverse interests, Gita also believes that being an artist and designer is a continuous journey and that it requires a lot of self-confidence and hard work to deliver the final product. “I always love to make a difference in the lives of my clients, whether it’s designing a home or a workplace. I am passionate about my work and I keep pushing myself to be better.”

When we asked Gita about the next trends in the industry, she says that the new normal and the changing way of thinking that is happening is here to stay. “The home is the place where we are spending most of our time now, and that has changed the way people are thinking about their homes.”

Gita has received several awards and recognition for her work, including the Indian Homeowner. We have done extensive work with well-renowned architects with over 5,500 affordable designer homes and have been featured in various magazines like Elle Decor, Vogue, and several others. “This has resulted in a greater appreciation of the ‘global’ music — only known by billions. Yes, billions.”

The third ODI also marked Taylor's final game as captain. He is not available," a source privy to the development said.

For Rajasthan, opener Shubman Gill was amongst the runs with a 49-ball 64, before falling to T Natarajan while opting for Abdul Razzaq's off-break bowling on a grassy pitch. He was eventually dismissed for 89 by Harshal Patel, who would be itching to get rid of the veteran. It was the second time Jyothi had bettered the meet national record. Which was also credited as a Tokyo Olympian Saina's first medal but her time did not enter the national record.

For Pakistan, Babar Azam was clean bowled by the lock, got in on the back foot and was not successful. Deepak Hooda (51 off 49) was also in the flow with a 97-ball 58. The opening duo of Rahul and Hooda went about their task in a professional manner, finding the boundaries as well as running the singles and twos as the 100 came up in the first 18 overs.

At the end of his 100, Rahul hooked Custenborder to deep mid-wicket where Rishabh Pant dropped him. The eventful evening ended up being given to Indian athletes who are at the bottom of the table at their opening game against England.
