Dolo gave docs ₹1K cr to push tablet, SC told

I was also asked to have same (medicine) when I had Covid, this is a serious matter, says Justice Chandrachud; Medical sales representatives' body seeks statutory backing to marketing practices

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELH

 ${f I}$ n a sensational revelation, the Federation of Medical & Representatives Association of India on Thursday told the Supreme Court that the Central Board for Direct Taxes has accused makers of the Dolo-650 tablets of distributing freebies worth ₹1.000 crore to doctors as consideration for prescribing the tablet for Covid related treat-

Justice DY Chandrachud, who was heading the bench also comprising Justice AS Bopanna, said it is a serious issue and even he was prescribed the same during Covid.

"This is not music to my ears. I was also asked to have the same when I had Covid. This is a serious issue," Justice Chandrachud remarked on the usage of Dolo-650 tablet, an anti-fever drug prescribed to patients

The Central Government represented by Additional Solicitor General KM Natraj was directed to file a reply within 10 days. The Supreme Court was hearing a PIL seeking directions to make pharmaceutical companies liable for giving freebies to doctors as an incentive to prescribe their drugs.

Senior advocate Sanjay Parikh, appearing for the association of medical representatives, pointed out the example of the excessive sale and pre-scription of the drug Remdisivir during the Covid-19 pandemic

The plea by the Federation of Medical & Sales Representatives Association of India sought direction to give statutory backing to the Uniform Code of Pharmaceutical Marketing Practices (UCPMP). There is currently no law or regulation that prohibits such practices in the absence of any statutory basis for the UCPMP, a voluntary set of rules for the sector, Pharmaceutical marketing practices is unregulated in India despite the country being a signatory to the UN Convention against corruption, said the petition.

the petition said.

This leads to a situation where the consumer pays a lot for branded medicines that is over-prescribed or irrationally prescribed by doctors in exchange for gifts, entertainment, hospitality and other advantages, it contended.

The potency of such drugs and poisons pose a danger to the life and health of people even as doctors can be penalised for misconduct facilitated by the pharmaceutical companies that walk away scotfree, said the plea.

Alarming rise in Covid deaths in Delhi, Maha

PNS NEW DELHI

 $A^{\rm mid\ warning\ from\ the}_{\rm World}$ Organization (WHO) that the Covid virus is here to stay, populous States like Maharashtra and Delhi have witnessed an alarming rise in coronavirus deaths.

Overall fatality surged to touch 72 on Thursday, the highest so far in the last one month even as countrywide infection tally remained within a daily range of 8,000 to 20,000 cases. While the country saw 72 deaths on Thursday, the previous day death was just 29 on a caseload of 8,000 plus.

Delhi on Thursday reported 1,964 cases and eight Covid deaths in the past 24 hours.

India saw a single-day rise of 12,608 new coronavirus infections on Wednesday taking the total tally of Covid-19 cases to 4,42,98,864, while the active cases declined to 1,01,343 according to the Union Health Ministry data updated on Thursday. The national death toll climbed to 5,27,206 with 72 fatalities, including 29 fatalities in Kerala.

Speaking on whether the reason for the spike in Delhi is a new Omicron subvariant, Dr Soumya Swaminathan, chief scientist of the WHO, said, "All these numbers basically indicate a combination of different mutations?

"In India and about 15 to 20 other countries, BA.2 (Omicron sub-variant) has further evolved and we have BA 2.75 and also BA 2.74, BA 2.76 and by studying the mutations, scientists have a very good idea of what each variant is doing. BA 2.75 has certainly become more efficient at transmitting itself, and is able to evade the immune response," said Dr Swaminathan was quoted by NDTV.

Boat with weapons seized off Raigad, probe ordered

Fadnavis rules out terror angle

TN RAGHUNATHA MUMBAI

Tn a development that revived the shocking memories of the manner in which a huge cache of arms, ammunition, and explosives were off-loaded along the Konkan coast ahead of the 1993 Mumbai serial blasts, a crew-less foreign-origin speed-boat with three AK-47 rifles and ammunition on board was seized off the Raigad coast in coastal Maharashtra.

The 16-metre-long boat "Lady Haan", owned by an Australian couple had been adrift for 52 days during which it came floating from the Oman coast to Harihareshwar-Shrivardhan coast in Raigad district in the Konkan region.

The suspicious speedboat was first sighted by some local fishermen in the choppy Arabian Sea on Thursday morning, resulting in a sensation in the sleepy. Before long, the villagers alerted the local police. The local police in turn sounded an alert to the Indian Coast Guard and the Maharashtra Police, who seized the vessel.

Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis, who holds the Home portfolio, ruled out any terror angle, notwithstanding the fact that the incident has given rise to questions of maritime and coastal security.

Giving details of the circumstances leading to the sighting of the boat, Fadnavis told the Maharashtra legislature that the boat was on a voyage from Muscat to Europe. "On June 26, around 1,000 hrs, the engines of the boat failed after which the crew sounded a distress call. Around 1300 hrs, a Korean warship, which was in the vicinity, rescued the crew and handed them over to Oman authorities".

Owing to the rough seas, the Australian couple reportedly could not arrange to tow the vessel and after remaining adrift for over seven weeks in the choppy Arabian Sea waters, finally landed up Harihareshwar Beach on Thursday.

Fadnavis said that because of tidal waves at that point of time, the boat could not be towed. "The Raigad Police have recovered 3 AK-47 guns and some quantities of ammunition from the speedboat," Fadnavis police, and Anti-Terrorism Squad are carrying out investigations into the incident.

Not wanting to take any chances, the Maharashtra Government has sounded a high alert in Mumbai, Raigad, Ratnagiri, Pune and other places as a precaution in view of the festivities tomorrow. The seized speedboat, named "Lady haan" is owned by an Australian woman Hannah Laundergun and her husband Captain James Horbert. Horbert was navigating the boat.

The questions that have cropped up include: as to whether the sophisticated arms and ammunition belonged to the Australian couple and why they were carrying the arms and ammunition. The place where the boat was sighted is the vicinity of vital Indian offshore installations like the Mumbai High Fields.

BJP leader moves SC after HC order

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE

The Delhi High Court has ordered that an FIR be registered against BJP leader Shahnawaz Hussain on a woman's rape complaint in Hussain moved the Supreme Court after the Delhi HC order. The SC will hear the case next week, but it has not restrained the police from filing the FIR.

The Delhi HC noted that there was a complete reluctance on the part of the police even to register an FIR. Justice Asha Menon said there was no perversity in the 2018 trial order directing the registration of the FIR and vacated the interim orders of the court staying its operation.

There is no merit in the present petition. The petition is dismissed. The interim orders stand vacated. The FIR be registered forthwith. The investigations be completed and a detailed report under Section 173 CrPC be submitted before the learned MM (metropolitan magistrate) within three months," said the court in its order on Wednesday. A Delhi-based woman had moved the lower court seeking registration of an FIR against Hussain on her allegation of

In its order, the HC said while reference is made in the police status report to the recording of the statement of the prosecutrix on four occasions, there was no explanation as to why the FIR was not lodged. The FIR only puts the machinery into operation. It is a foundation for investigation of the offence complained of. It is only after investigations that the police can come to the conclusion whether or not an offence had been committed and if so by whom. In the present case, there seems to be a complete reluctance on the part of the police even to register an FIR," said the court.

₹11 cr coins missing from Raj SBI branch, CBI raids 25 places

PNS NEW DELHI

The CBI on Thursday conducted searches at 25 locations across the country in connection with the disappearance of coins worth ₹11 crore from the vaults of an SBI branch in Karauli in Rajasthan.

The searches were conducted in Delhi, Jaipur, Dausa, Karauli, Sawai Madhopur, Alwar, Udaipur, and Bhilwara on the premises of around 15 former bank officials, branch manager/joint custodian and cash officers among others in the ongoing investigation in the

The matter came to light after the State Bank of India (SBI) branch decided to carry out the counting of money after a preliminary enquiry indicated discrepancies in its cash reserve at the Mehandipur branch in the Karauli district in August 2021. Alarmed bank officials had roped in a Jaipur-based private vendor to do counting of coins supposed to be ₹13 crore according to account books.

To their shock, the vendor found only 3,000 bags carrying coins worth about ₹2 crore, while coins of ₹11 crore were missing from the branch. It is also alleged that the employees of the private vendor who were doing the counting were threatened in the night of August 10, 2021, at the guesthouse where they were staying and were asked to refrain from the counting, the FIR has alleged

Era of coalitions is over, country now wants a strong Govt at Centre, says BJP

Against the backdrop of the Opposition's claim to take on the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) in the 2024 Lok Sabha polls, the BJP on Thursday responded that the era of "short-lived" coalition Governments was over and the country now wanted a strong and stable Government

The party also hit-out at the recent cases of crimes in Bihar and alleged involvement of some of the state ministers in criminal cases to claim that criminals have become "fearless" after the grand alliance headed by Nitish Kumar came to power in the state following the JD(U)'s split with the BJP.

Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar is being projected by JDU and RJD as the PM candidate vis-à-vis Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the next Lok Sabha polls which are only about 18 months away.

Reacting to Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav's comments that the change of government in Bihar was a "positive sign" to provide a strong alternative at the Centre, former Union minister and BIP leader Ravi Shankar Prasad said the era of the likes of V P Singh and H D Deve Gowda. who headed short-lived coalition governments, was gone and the country now wanted stability, development and effective leadership. In an interview, Yadav had also claimed that the BJP's allies in Uttar Pradesh are not happy with the saffron party and will also break free in the future.

"People of India know that the era of Deve Gowda, I K Gujral and V P Singh is gone. The country now wants stabileffective leadership.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has provided it and enhanced India's prestige," Prasad said in a retort to the SP leader. He said 2024 is far away and it remains to be seen how much understanding develops among opposition

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee and Telangana Chief Minister Chandrashekar Rao are other two leaders being seen as Prime Ministerial candidates, besides Nitish Kumar. It is also speculated in the political circles that opposition may try to settle for a single opposition nominee for Prime Minister in the run-up to 2024

Taking on to the Nitishled-'Mahagathbandhan', Prasad pointed out that two persons, a class 12 girl student and a solider, were shot dead in Patna, his Lok Sabha constituency, in the last 24 hours.

"The state is returning to jungle raj," he alleged.

Prasad also lashed-out at the newly constituted Bihar government over the row involving Bihar minister Kartikeya Singh's who is reported to have kidnapping case with an outstanding warrant against him and alleged the state's agriculture minister was earlier linked to a rice

8 rare disease hospitals to set up panel to vet patients' pleas for aid

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW

The Union Health Ministry has asked each of the eight designated hospitals that treat rare diseases to set up an expert committee to decide on providing a cash aid of Rs 50 lakh within a month of receiving an application for financial assistance from a patient.

The eight Centres of given one-time financial support up to Rs 5 crore for procurement of equipment for strengthening patients care services for screening, diagnosis and prevention (prenatal diagnosis) for rare diseases based on a gap analysis, according to the new guidelines issued by the health ministry.

Also, more CoEs will be added for regional outreach if they are found to be suitable in terms of infrastructure and human resources based on recommendations of the Technical Committee of the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, the guidelines said.

The Ministry on August 11 issued the guidelines and procedures for granting financial assistance to patients suffering from rare diseases as thalassemia, haemophilia, and sickle cell anaemia under the National Policy for Rare Diseases (NPRD), 2021. The ministry on May 19 increased the financial support from Rs 20 lakh to Rs 50 lakh for patients belonging to all categories of rare diseases. According to the guidelines, a 'Rare Disease Committee' is to be constituted in each CoE. The nodal officer for rare disease of the hospital will be the member secretary of the committee and the CoE may also opt for an outside expert on the panel, if required.

The applications received will first be scrutinized by the nodal officer, and thereafter placed before the committee for consideration and approval.

There will be no reimbursement of expenditure already incurred. Families covered under Ayushman Bharat -Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojna (AB-PMJAY) will also be eligible for financial assistance as per NPRD, 2021, if the disease is not covered under AB-PMJAY packages.

Keeping in view the resource constraint and compelling health priorities, it will be difficult for government to fully finance treatment of high cost rare diseases. The gap will be filled up by providing financial assistance through crowdfunding, the guidelines said, adding a crowdfunding portal "http://rarediseases.Nhp.Gov.In/ "http://rarediseases.Nhp.Gov.In has already been created for receiving such fund, the guide-

HC-appointed panel will not take over affairs of IOA: SC

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■

The Supreme Court on Thursday ordered a status quo and said the Delhi High Court-appointed three-mem-Committee Administrators (COA) will not take over the affairs of the Indian Olympic Association (IOA).

Justice NV Ramana and CT Ravikumar took note of the submissions of Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Centre and the IOA, that the world sports body does not recognise any unelected bodies like the CoA and consequently, India may be barred from taking part in international sports events.

"The Indian Olympic Association (IOA) is a unit of the International Olympic Association and they have their own rules and according to them, if any national-level body like petitioner IOA here is represented by a non-elected body then it is treated as a third party interference," the law officer

Every country is bound by the rules of the international body, Mehta said, adding that the high court's intervention may or may not be for valid reasons which can be gone into by the bench at a later stage.

"But the moment they (CoA) 99 per cent chance of being suspended from participating in any Olympic and international event," the Solicitor General

The CJI said that Justice Hima Kohli, the third judge of the bench, did not want to hear this case which originally arose from the Delhi High Court's order. The law officer said that the interim relief can be awarded by the two judges on the bench. "The counsel for the petitioner (IOA) and as well as the Solicitor General submitted that by virtue of the present order (of the high court), there is a possibility of India losing the chance of participation in the Olympic and all international events..

"We direct the parties to maintain the status quo. It is made clear that the charge is not handed over to the CoA. We direct the matter to be listed before an appropriate bench on Monday (August 22)," the bench said in its order. Consequently, the Delhi High Court-appointed COA, com-prising former Supreme Court judge Justice Anil R Dave, for Chief Commissioner S Y Quraishi, and former Secretary of Ministry of External Affairs Vikas Swarup, will not be able to take IOA over.

August 16 ordered the setting up of a three-member CoA to manage the affairs of the IOA. The high court had said the persistent recalcitrance" of the IOA to comply with the Sports Code made it imperative that its affairs be put in the hands of the CoA.

HC had directed the executive committee of IOA to forthwith hand over the charge to the newly appointed committee and said that the members of the CoA will be assisted by three eminent sportspersons, namely, Shooter Olympian Abhinav Bindra, Long Jump Olympian Anju Bobby George, and Archer Olympian Bombayla Devi Laishram.

The High Court's order was passed on a petition by senior advocate Rahul Mehra seeking strict compliance by the IOA and National Sports Federations with the Sports Code and judicial dicta

CZA setting up zoo network for preserving genetic material

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Central Zoo Authority (CZA) is setting up a consortium of network of zoos, beginning with five zoos, as a pilot project to serve as biological repositories for preserving genetic material of wildlife species in the form of cryo-banking of genetic material, semen, oocytes, tissues, and cells for future applications in case the animal gets extinct.

The five zoos are Padmaja Naidu Himalayan Zoological Park, West Bengal, Nehru Zoological Park, Telangana, Sakkarbaug Zoological Park, Gujarat, Bannerghatta Biological Park, Bengaluru, Karnataka and Sepahijala Zoological Park, Agartala in Tripura. These zoos will serve as genetic resource banks (GRB) for Hyderabad-based Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology's Laboratory for the Conservation of Endangered Species (CCMB-LaCONES), which is the country's only facility for conservation of endangered species.

A dedicated facility of CSIR's Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology (CCMB) in Hyderabad, the Laboratory for Conservation of Species Endangered (LaCONES), since 2018 has been using modern biotechnologies for conservation of endangered wildlife. Till now, the CCMB-

LaCONES has been collecting tissues of various wild animals which have died naturally or due to medical reasons to preserve cells, gametes and gonads with the cooperation of National Zoological Park at Hyderabad.But the need for setting up the consortium was felt as collection at the LaCONES has been very dismal due to various reasons when compared to the wide species found in the country. Despite being one of the most biodiverse countries in the world, nearly 14% of all species in India face serious threat of extinction.

These identified zoos will have highly-sophisticated labs with best of equipments to serve as biological repositories for Hyderabad Centre which will then preserves species in the form of cryo-banking of genetic material, semen, oocvtes, embryos, tissues, and cells for future applications," said an official from the Union Environment Ministry.

CZA is the autonomous body under the Ministry, engaged in supervising the functioning of the zoos in the country. "The large amounts of various biological samples have to be systematically collected from different regions of the country and preserved in optimal conditions and then easily accessible to scientists for future studies or applications.

In view of the potential benefit of bio-banking of wild animals, zoos are being asked to donate biological samples of valuable wild animals to these identified five genetic resource banks," said the official about the ambitious pilot project. Soon more zoos will be brought under the ambit of the Consortium.

Genetic resource bank [GRB] involves the systematic collection of genetic material, tissues, gonads, gametes and cells, and preserved at subzero temperatures without altering their integrity and viability, he

GRBs could be one of the promising options for future species management or research by preserving spermatozoa, eggs and embryos of threatened populations, he said.

Correct decision

The government blocks eight YouTube news channels, one Facebook account, and two Facebook posts

The Narendra Modi government has done well by blocking eight YouTube-based news channels, one Facebook account, and two Facebook posts. While seven blocked YouTube channels are Indian, one is run from Pakistan. The government has said it has proscribed the platforms spreading disinformation related to India's national security, foreign relations, and public order. A quick look at some of the posts, screenshots of which are in the official press release, suggests that they were indulging in something worse than fake news. Fake news can also be the result of a lazy reporter's credulity, but some of the stories these folks have been posting were, to put it mildly, preposterous. Loktantra Tv, for instance, gave the 'news' that Modi has banned Bakr-eid celebrations. Also, a holy war has started in India and Shankaracharya Nishchalananda Saraswati will lead the attack on Mecca and Medina. Another YouTube channel U&V TV posted that Modi is facing treason charges. AM Razvi's YouTube channel reported about not just disturbances in Ajmer Dargah but also that the Army had to be deployed. Gouravshali Pawan Mithilanchal, another YouTube channel, reported even more sensational and incredible: that India and Egypt have attacked Turkey. Pakistan's News ki Dunya posted that 100 crore Hindus will kill 40 crore Muslims, and that Muslims should go to Pakistan or Bangladesh. Another post showed that India's Qutub Minar mosque has been demolished. No journalist, however incompetent, would run such outlandish 'news' stories without checking several times the source and the authenticity of such 'news.'

The government has correctly pointed out that the purpose of the content published by some of these YouTube channels was to spread hatred among religious communities in India. Free speech is a right that needs to be protected everywhere, but it is also constrained by the harm principle: that is, you cannot use freedom of expression to hurt others. The content mentioned in the press release is capable of causing a great deal of harm to people by creating disharmony in society, even triggering communal riots. The YouTubers should also learn a lesson from the government action. Social media platforms offer a lot of opportunities to non-journalists to present news and views; many of them have also gained in the process. However, they must remember that while Article 19 of the Constitution grants the freedom of speech and expression, it also imposes reasonable restrictions "in the interests of the sovereignty and integrity of India, the security of the State, friendly relations with foreign States, public order, decency or morality or in relation to contempt of court, defamation or incitement to an offence." There is another problem: if the users of social media platforms don't behave themselves, it gives the authorities a pretext to come up with restrictive rules and regulations. It is time that irresponsible YouTube-based news channels, and even some mainstream media channels, didn't abuse free speech.

Confusion at highest level

Government's stand on refugees remains ambiguous, especially on the Rohingyas

■ ndia's refugee policy remains confused and rudderless, to say the least. Often the ministry and the minister are at a cross purpose giving a red face to the government. An unnecessary controversy erupted over providing residential flats to the Rohingya refugees living in Delhi in the Bakkarwala area of Delhi. In fact, Hardeep Puri, minister for Housing and urban affairs tweeted several times on Wednesday morning flaunting the government's decision to provide the flats to the Rohingyas. However, the Ministry of Home Affairs in a press release reverted Minister's decision saying that all the Rohingya were illegal immigrants who were to be returned to their home country and that the refugees would continue to stay at their present location. The Home Ministry communique said that the Delhi government has been asked not to move the refugees who would remain in their present location. The MHA calls the present location of Rohingyas a' detention center' and Rohingyas 'Illegal foreigners'. In fact, it went on to direct the government of Delhi to declare officially the present address of Rohingyas as a detention center. The MHA decision left him no choice but to chew his words. Puri had gone on to say that it was a landmark decision and that the refugees would be provided with the basic amenities, identity cards (issued by the UNHCR), and security. So the government raised the hopes of Rohingya refugees in the morning and dashed them by the evening.

Rohingyas made their way to India to escape the Myanmar Army's pogrom that has been termed by the UN as one of the worst genocide in history.In Delhi, After a mysterious fire broke out in the Okhla settlement of the Rohingyas, KalindiKunj area in New Delhi they were shifted to their present location. Curiously Rohingya refugee camps in India have witnessed four fires in 2021 alone. Between 2016 and 2021, 12 mysterious fires broke out in Rohingya camps. Most of these fires show a trend, they broke at night and were preceded by threats of eviction or bigotry but are blamed on the short circuit. Whether we should allow these refugees to live in our country is subject to debate and a policy decision of the government but till they are deported it is the duty of the government to provide them basic amenities and safety and security which are enshrined in the UN. Each individual even an illegal immigrant has the right to life and it is our duty to safeguard it, regardless.

Surviving in the times of zealotry

The attack on Salman Rushdie raises many questions. Love is perhaps the only way to deal with hatemongers, hate begets hate alman Rushdie lives! Stit-ched up and sedated, he does talk and hasn't lost his sense of humour. But there is some question India@75 must answer. How do we react when one of the most famous Indian-origin people alive is brutally stabbed in a public event in the US? We must begin to question.

After watching the video a few times and reading a dozen articles with eye-witness accounts the picture got murkier. But let's do a quick recap, to get the fact clear. Rushdie is no ordinary writer, he has been under threat for decades due to a death fatwa issued against him by a religious leader in Iran. He was living in Britain then, and for years under the protectorate of the British secret service. The British government no doubt used him as a pawn in the geo-political cat and mouse with Iran and the EU, but nevertheless protected his life from assailants in Britain and the world at large. Even Rushdie salutes the heroic efforts of security personnel that protected him over the years. Meanwhile, the British foreign office along with concerned citizens and nations successfully pressured Iran to not enforce the Fatwa.

Post the non-enforcement stance taken by Iran, Salman Rushdie began returning to his normal life and eventually moved across the pond to the US. He was even been allowed into India

But let's go back to the attack now. First question if the attacker wanted to kill Rushdie, why didn't he use a gun? Thank god he didn't use it, but why didn't he? Buying a small caliber weapon is as easy as buying candy in many parts of America, so why didn't the attacker use one? If the attacker was not a 'lone wolf' his handlers would have no trouble getting the attacker a gun. One can easily wonder was the attacker just trying to injure Rushdie.

The Attacker wouldn't have gotten the bounty if Mr Rushdie vas merely injured. So the use of the knife was quite ill-thought, the brink of war" with "Russia especially as there were almost no and China", the Biden admin-security checks at the institute. He could very easily carry a gun inside. The second question stems from the first, why didn't the policeman on Rushdie's security detail, take preventive disarming actions? Especially when the attacker ran across the hall and climbed the stage to attack Rushdie. The US police system has gained much notoriety for being a trigger-happy force. So why didn't the policeman on duty shoot the assailant? If not on the body, at least on the leg? What happened in Chautauqua Institution in western New York, is a flagrant violation of every security protocol, especially by American standards. Rushdie is a high-profile target who addressed the Uber-liberal democrats, it was only SOP to have some security there.

So now the question is was this an intentional lapse? Let's move away from Rushdie for a minute now and focus on the US foreign policy agenda. Despite even Henry Kissinger calling Anthony Blinken's foreign policy driving the US to

BUT WHAT SHOULD

WE DO? JOIN THE HATERS AND CELEBRATE THIS ATTACK. DO WE BLAME RUSHDIE FOR WRITING HIS HEART OUT OR EMBRACE RUSHDIE AND SUPPORT HIM AND ADD TO THE IRAN BASHING? istration has been making all the right moves to antagonise them further and also

strengthen their ranks. This attack on Rushdie may be a coincidence or a mad-hatter conspiracy, but this public stabbing brings Iran back into the news cycle and reinforces the negative public opinion against Iran suddenly. Iran has been US's favourite punch bag for some time now, and with the Salman Rushdie attack, the US foreign policy politickers can add Iran to the "new axis of evil" — Iran, Russia, and China. The debate is slowly shifting away from Rushdie and more towards Iran bashing. It is regretful that yet again Rushdie has become a pawn in the great power politics.

But what should we do? Join the haters and celebrate this attack. Do we blame Rushdie for writing his heart out or embrace Rushdie and support him and add to the Iran bashing? The answer is not a straight one. A Muslim didn't attack Salman or an Iranian. It was an individual Let's keep the blame where it belongs and not allow the machinations of warmongers to piggyback on it.

India and her people, our civilization is a major theme of Rushdie's books. And any readers of Joseph Anton, Rushdie's memoirs will verify his love for this land. Yet we banned his books, canceled his visas, and made him a pariah, at a time he needed his people the most. The armed assailant didn't only attack Rushdie, he attempted to destroy the stories and ethos of the subcontinent that Rushdie writes, about and will fictionalize in the future. And the only way to beat the attacker is to love Rushdie. We need to unban all his books, so the people of our country can make a decision for themselves. We need to battle hate and violence with love, for without it neither Rushdie nor us have any chance. That's why perhaps Allah made the good Muslims live and sent

JANMASHTAMI CELEBRATIONS

Sir — Janmashtami 2022 will be marked on the eighth day of the dark fortnight in the month of Bhadrapada (July - August) in India. This year, there has been a lot of confusion about whether Krishna Janmashtami will be celebrated on August 18 or August 19. The Hindu festival of Janmashtami, which is also known as Krishna Janmashtami, Krishnasthami, or Gokulashtami, marks the birth of Lord

As per the Vedic Panchang, Ashtami Tithi will begin at 9.21 PM on August 18 and will end at 10.59 PM on August 19, 2022. So, Janmashtami 2022 will be celebrated on both days while the Nishith Puja time will begin at 12.02 am on August 18 and ends at 12.48 PM on the same day. As per Hindu Mythology, Lord Krishna loved curd, white butter, and milk during his childhood days.

Krishna along with his friends used to steal it from the neighbours. The villagers went to his mother to complain about this. She advised villagers to hide the freshly churned Makhan in an earthen pot at some height. However, the idea did not work as Krishna and his friends started making human pyramids to reach the handi. To celebrate Krishna's mischievous tricks, every year on Janmashtami, people organize Dahi Handi and make a human pyramid to break the earthen pot kept at height. The charm of Krishna is forever!

AN EGREGIOUS REMISSION

Sir — The remission leading to the premature release of 11 Bilkis Bano case convicts from prison has come in for a lot of flak from people and rightly so. It was apparent that the Gujarat government facilitated remission for political reasons without sparing a thought to what Bilkis Bano underwent and without empathizing with her. The grant of remission sends the wrong message that even gang' rape and mass murder convicts become eligible for

Kashmir have gunned down a Kashmiri Pandit Sunil Kumar in an apple orchard in the chotigam area, Shopian district of South Kashmir, This dastardly and gruesome killing of an innocent Kashmiri Pandit has shattered the whole KP community. The government has miserably failed to protect the precious lives of Kashmiri Pandits and other non-locals in Kashmir. Since the abrogation of article-370 leniency at the hands of the state if they belong to the 'right' religion and committed the felonies in 'a certain context'. The gravity of the felonies of rape and murder during the 2002 Gujarat pogrom for which the convicts were sentenced to life imprisonment is incontestable. The horrible nature of the crimes - gang rape of a fivemonth pregnant woman and killing of her three-year-old daughter were among them does not bear thinking about. 'The convicts were not certified to have expressed remorse for their heinous crimes.

volatile as the attacks on Hindu minorities are happening day in and day out without any respite. Selective and targeted killings of Hindu minorities and other nonlocals have created an atmosphere of fear and insecurity among all Hindu minorities. Thus rightly the PM package migrant employees are protesting for the last 100 days in favor of their one-point demand of relocation outside the valley as they feel very apprehensive about their safety and security in Kashmir. Since the martyrdom of Rahul Bhat, these hapless and unfortunate Kashmiri Pandit package employees are on the roads and are agitating for their survival and existence. It is high time now that the central government must immediately relocate/deploy all PM Package employees to Jammu province to stop any further bloodshed. BAD NEWS FOR INDIAN FOOTBALL

Sir — The suspension of the All India Football Federation (AIFF) by the world governing body FIFA will likely have serious implications on Indian football. The national teams become ineligible to participate in continental tournaments. The AIFF is in a state of topsy-turvydom due to the mismanagement of its administration after long-serving former chief Praful Patel stayed in office beyond the maximum term of 12 years, without holding fresh elections. This needs to be addressed ed quickly for the AIFF, so that elections can be held immediately and play This is the first time that the AIFF has received suspension by FIFA in its 85-vear history. It is unfortunate that soccer turns sombre for Indian football, and let us hope it resurrects itself

EXTERNAL CHALLENGES GROW IN AMRIT KAAL

Foreign policy must evolve to meet economic clouts

mran Khan, the ousted Prime Minister of Pakistan, recently praised India's autonomous foreign policy in a political meeting. He complimented India for choosing a path of calibrated diplomacy in the aftermath of the ongoing war in Ukraine. While Khan's praise may not be the most sought after accolade for India's foreign policy strategy, it does reflect the directional shift in our external relations, in the nearly 75 years of being an independent democratic republic.

India's foreign policy stance in the last 75 years has been a matter of careful choices made as result of its colonial past and a cold war era world order cleaved in the middle. India in 1947 was an infant republic, which had almost overnight chosen the path of democracy to govern one of the largest, diverse crowds of citizens around the globe. It meant, laying the foundations of democracy first, thereby bringing in political empowerment, before economic prosperity.

The founding architects of the Indian republic also had socialist bent of mind and believed in the idea of a welfare state. That meant the state would be the biggest job creator and would be present in every domain of public life. This inward focus of the state meant India's foreign policy remained an ambiguous bunch of principles, better left for the most seasoned bureaucrats and statesmen to tackle.

Jawaharlal Nehru was the longest serving external affairs minister of India, besides being a Prime Minister. All his successors in the next 50 years were in the hot seat of managing external relations for less than four years.

However, this changed in 2014 when the Narendra Modi-led BJP government came to power and an articulate Sushma Swaraj occupied the seat for five years. The change and the willingness to showcase India's diplomatic prowess had started somewhere in the early 2000, when India realised it must have an independent foreign poli-

The 1960s hangover of the nonaligned era, which was the underlying template for India's foreign policy, was slowly beginning to wane. India had chosen nonalignment along with a few other like minded countries as the stated strategy to engage with the external world, which had been split between the US and the USSR blocs

The neutral stance underscored India's bilateral, and plurilateral engagements on the global stage. It also meant India never tried to engage with its global counterparts beyond a couple of issues (such as Kashmir and relations with its neighbour Pakistan)

India and China had a bitter military faceoff in the 1960s, but it didn't leave a lasting dent in the bilateral relations beyond the decade. In fact, many subsequent leaders since the first faceoff, tried to bunch India China as two Asian powers which could be a formidable force for the rest of the world. An aggressive

China gobbling up islands in the Indian Ocean Region, coercing smaller nations into binding aid for development of infrastructure (Belt and Road Initiative), the growing distance between China and the US and finally the military faceoff between China and India in 2020 in Galwan ensured India's foreign policy architecture has a permanent

India in 2022 is a nearly $3 trillion economy and making steady progress towards being the third largest economy in the world by 2030. This economic power means a vociferous say in global affairs and an assured seat on multilateral high tables. India in the 75th year of its Independence has to keep realigning its foreign policy to match the changed status.

Wrong to call welfare schemes 'freebies'

State governments must work for the welfare of the poor, for their empowerment and providing them with basic amenities elivering the Independence Day address at the Historical Golkonda Fort in Hyderabad, Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekhar Rao (KCR) criticized the Center for insulting States' welfare schemes by labelling them as 'freebies'. He added that public welfare is the foremost responsibility of the government and hence Center's remarks are highly objectionable.

Disagreeing vehemently with the Center's concept of freebies, KCR said that it also amounts to weakening the nation's cooperative federal spirit and running down welfare schemes of States. Centre, which is supposed to fulfill that social responsibility, has done miserably over a period, observed KCR.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's recent remark on 'revdi culture' perhaps is at the center of CM KCR's observations similar to some of his counterparts in the country. According to Modi, attempts are being made in the country to bring a culture of garnering votes by distributing revdis, a sweet popular in North India, distributed during festivals, which is very dangerous for the development of the country.

Criticizing some opposition parties for engaging in the politics of freebies, the PM said that they are obstacles to India's efforts to become self-reliant while also being a burden on taxpayers. Notwithstanding this, the Independence Day was celebrated across the country with several chief ministers making a slew of welfare scheme announcements and countering Prime Minister Narendra Modi's 'revdi culture' remark.

Unfortunately, PM Modi seems to have failed to take into account that social welfare schemes that subsidize the populace are a universal phenomenon now and, in a democracy, these are but natural. For instance, in the USA, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as the Food Stamp Program, is the largest federal nutrition assistance program that provides food-purchasing assistance for low and no income

Similarly, the Singapore Government provides financial aid to any family making less than $1,900 a month, besides providing aid in other forms such as making education more affordable, tax exemptions for impoverished families and more affordable nousing. Its system of social security is based on enabling self-reliance, supported by strong family and social networks. These are a few examples only. Would these fit into the concept of freebies?

We defined our country as a welfare state, which is a form of government in which the state protects and promotes the economic and social well-being of the citizens, based on the principles of equal opportunity and equitable distribution of wealth. The welfare state is a way of governing in which the state or an established group of social institutions provides basic economic security to its citizens. By definition, in a welfare state, the government is responsible for the individual and social welfare of its citizens. A fundamental feature of the welfare state is social insurance and social security. This is exactly or perhaps even more as envisaged in the definition of a welfare state. Welfare encompasses those government programs that provide benefits and economic Welfare programs of Government of Telangana aims to improve the quality of life and living standards of the poor and underprivileged. People are able to stand on their own feet with an assured monthly or annual income making them prosperous. KCR's preference is social insurance. It may sound a bit philosophical, but the schemes conceived and being implemented by the KCR Government takes care of every stage of a human being's life true to the saying caring from 'cradle to grave'.

In the letter and spirit of the welfare state, the Telangana Government implements a number of welfare programs. To name a few identified priority areas of welfare of Ielangana Government, there is Kalyan Laxmi, Shaadi Mubarak, Aasara pensions, Rythu Bandhu, Rythu Bhima, Sheep distribution, Fish breeding, Free Double bedroom houses, Residential school education, Dalit Bandhu, etc.

Despite spending huge amounts on these schemes, Telangana has emerged financially strong in the country. The Government's top priority has been to extend a real helping hand to the needy, helpless and poorest of the poor strata and

This social security pension scheme is now extended to 10 lakh new beneficiaries from August 15 for a total of 46 lakh beneficiaries. Should this be called a freebie or a social security measure? The large-scale distribution of sheep substantially enhanced the livestock wealth of Golla and Kurumas communities. The investment support scheme for agriculture, the Rythu Bandhu meant for providing financial assistance to farmer towards crop investment enthused the hearts of farmers. These are not freebies but welfare aimed at social security for the poor farmer.

The Dalit Bandhu Scheme, yet another welfare measure, is bound to change the life and financial status of Dalits in Telangana forever. In the long run, it will become a model policy for other states to emulate. It will herald a sea change in the lives of Dalits and will become torchbearer for Dalits elsewhere in the coun-

The Telangana Dalit Bandhu Scheme would help Dalits to define their own development and become partners in the development. This is certainly not a freebie but by all means a social security measure.

Empowerment is the degree of autonomy and self-determination in people and in communities, enabling them to represent their interests in a responsible and self-determined way, acting on their own authority. It is the process of becoming stronger and more confident, especially in controlling one's life and claiming one's rights.

CM KCR is laying a strong foundation for future generations' prosperity and making all sections of the society become economically self-reliant. Why call them freebies?

In a democratic society like India, people have several hopes, purposes, aspirations, ambitions, desires, requirements, passions, problems, needs and so on. People from time to time elect the party, which in their view will fulfill their needs. The contesting parties make promises in the form of election manifestos keeping in view the people's welfare in focus.

Voters consider them and choose a particular party and elect it to power. The Government thus elected by them to keep their promises has to initiate and implement a number of welfare programs and they cannot be dubbed as freebies. Unfortunately, most of the parties after coming to power fail to keep up their promises. In the case of KCR, he has not only fulfilled all tne promises and even s though not mentioned in the election manifesto.

CM KCR firmly believes that mere growth has no meaning and even legitimacy, if the deprived sections of the society are left behind. Inclusive growth should not only ensure a broad flow of benefits and economic opportunities, but also encompass empowerment and participation. And hence it's all public welfare, please don't call them freebies, Modiji.

How to promote information processing by students

The 5 strategies for better student engagement are - visuals, simple language, procedures, analogies, and organised content

→ ffective student engagement and classroom management are two important pedagogical strategies that teachers learn about in teacher education programmes. With technological advances, there are innumerable new ways of keeping students engaged. By sticking to basics, five fundamental strategies are seen that reduce the sensory and cognitive loads on students to promote better processing of instructions and information. Any teacher can use these strategies to retain the attention of students

According to the Information Processing Theory, during the learning experience in the classroom, first, students receive information through their senses by listening, seeing

(The author is school Director,

The Green Acres Academy.)

information visually on the screen or board or through the teachers' gestures and demonstrations and when hands-on experiences are used through

Secondly, all this information is being processed mentally by students: What does this word mean? What should I do next? What should I remember? How do these items connect? Finally, when students have processed and made sense of the information, with repeated recall and practice, some of it may get stored in the longterm memory.

Thus, three aspects are key to student attention; students first receive information through their senses; if there is too much sensory information coming in at the same time, some of it may be lost because it is too much for the brain to attend to at the same time; students then process this information taken in through the senses using the short-term memory or working memory in their brains.

Students make sense of the information by decode it, make connections, decide what is important, etc. Here too, there is a limit to how much information can be processed at one time, which is called cognitive load. Both sensory and cognitive overload can have negative effects on students' attention and engagement.

Therefore, teachers should recognise that sensory and cognitive overload is undesirable and should incorporate strategies that reduce the load on students. Broadly, there could be five strategies that can reduce senso-

Visuals: Never underestimate the power of a good visual to anchor classroom instruction such as a digital presentation, a chart or well-structured board work. Visuals that organise the most important instructions or information can reduce cognitive load on the brain by making it available for students instead of requiring them to hold all of it in their minds, i.e., use their working memory. Reading about design principles beyond just the educational field - for example gestalt principles, colour, and sizing - can be very helpful in creating visual aids that promote student engagement.

Simple and Concise Language: Planning instructions and the specific language can reduce understand what needs to be ry and cognitive overload for cognitive load for students. This ensures that student attention is focused on the learning instead of all of it being exhausted on trying to understand complicated instructions. Teachers should keep their sentences simple and concise when giving out instructions and avoid sharing too many instructions in one go. Thinking about which specific terms you will use beforehand and using the same terms consistently help reduce cognitive Routines and procedures: Having regularly used routines or 'classroom protocols' in place of things like getting into groups, taking resources out, doing classwork, etc., is another teacher strategy for reducing cognitive load. Teachers can get students to done just by using a single sentence or routine name. This means that students are listening to fewer instructions and using less cognitive load to understand the instructions leaving more for attending to the learning that is happening. Analogies: Using analogies to explain new content aids information processing because students can attach the explanation to a model that they are familiar with instead of trying to make a sense of something that is completely new. Using analogies or even prior knowledge to make connections to something that students already know leads to greater storage of information in the brain with less cognitive load.

Organising content: The way we organise information can impact cognitive load and therefore engagement. Chunking content into logically arranged sections when presenting with clear titles is much better for cognitive processing than presenting it as one giant paragraph. This can be further extended by providing students with graphic organisers to help organise and process the content. The strategies listed above are all focused on reducing sensory and cognitive load to aid attention and engagement. There are many other great teacher strategies that increase student attention by using emotional engagement strategies like using stories as a hook, asking questions to keep students actively engaged, providing opportunities for students to work with peers and aligning content to areas of interest for krainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy is due to host the UN chief and Turkey's leader Thursday for talks on the recent deal to resume Ukraine's grain exports, the volatile situation at a Russian-occupied nuclear power plant and efforts to help end the nearly sixmonth-old war.

UN Secretary-General António Guterres arrived Wednesday in Lviv, near Ukraine's border with Poland, where he will meet Zelenskyy and Turkish President Recep Tayyip

UN deputy spokesman Farhan Haq said that among other issues, Guterres will discuss "his overall efforts to do what he can to essentially lower the temperature as much as possible with the various authorities."

Last month, Turkey and the UN helped broker an agreement clearing the way for Ukraine to export 22 million tons of corn and other grain stuck in its Black Sea ports since Russia invaded February between Russia and the UN aimed to clear roadblocks to shipments of Russian food and fertilizer to world markets.

The war and the blocked exports significantly exacerbated the global food crisis because Ukraine and Russia are major suppliers.

Grain prices peaked after Russia's invasion, and while some have since returned to prewar levels, they remain significantly higher than before the COVID-19 pandemic.

Developing countries have been hit particularly hard by supply shortages and high prices. Even though ships are now leaving Russia and Ukraine, the food crisis hasn't

UN spokesman Stephane Dujarric told reporters this week that Guterres' trip to Ukraine will allow him "to see first-hand the results of an initiative ... that is so critically important to hundreds of millions of people."

Dujarric added that he expects "the need for a political solution" to the war to be raised in Thursday's talks.

He said the three leaders

Russia has rejected the demand.

Erdogan's office has confirmed that he would discuss the grain deal during the talks as well as ways to end the war through diplomatic means.

Earlier this month, the Turkish leader met on the same issues with Russian President Vladimir Putin.

In March, Turkey hosted a round of talks between Russian who discussed a possible deal to end the hostilities. The talks fell apart after the meeting in Istanbul, with both sides blaming each other. Erdogan has engaged in a delicate balancing act, maintaining good relations with both Russia and Ukraine. Turkey has provided Ukraine with drones, which played a significant role in deterring a Russian advance early in the conflict, but it has refrained from joining Western sanctions against Russia over the war. Facing a major economic crisis with official inflation near 80 per cent, Turkey increasingly relies on Russia for trade and tourism. Russian gas covers 45 per cent of Turkish energy needs, and Russia's atomic agency is building Turkey's first nuclear power

During their meeting in Sochi this month, Putin and Erdogan agreed to bolster energy, financial and other ties between their countries, raising concerns in the West that Ankara could help Moscow bypass the US and European Union sanctions.

China, Japan officials meet US to hold trade talks with Taiwan in new show of support amid Taiwan tensions hinese and Japanese officials have met in northern China amid renewed tensions over Beijing's military threats against Taiwan and after Tokyo protested China's firing of missiles into Japan's exclusive economic zone during recent military drills.

The meeting Wednesday between senior foreign affairs advisor Yang Jiechi and the head of Japan's National Security Secretariat, Akiba Takeo, followed China's cancellation of a meeting between the foreign ministers of the two countries after Japan signed on to a statement from the Group of Seven industrialized countries criticizing China's threatening war games surrounding Taiwan earlier this month.

Japan issued diplomatic protests over China's firing of missiles into its exclusive economic zone during the drills, which saw Chinese warplanes and navy ships cross the middle zone of the Taiwan Strait that has long been a buffer between the sides.

China claims Taiwan as its own territory, to be annexed by force if necessary. The former Japanese colony has been under Chinese military threat since Chiang Kaishek's Nationalist government fled to the island in 1949 as Mao Zedong's Communist Party seized control of the Chinese main-

In his comments to Takeo, Yang said "the Taiwan question bears on the political foundation of China-Japan relations and the basic trust and good faith between the two countries," China's official Xinhua News Agency reported Thursday.

"Japan should ... Shape up a right perception of China, pursue a positive, prag-matic and rational China policy, and uphold the right direction of peaceful development," Xinhua quoted Yang as saying.

China's nearly two weeks of military exercises surrounding Taiwan followed US House Speaker Nancy Pelosi's visit to the island in defiance of Beijing's threats.

China announced further drills in response to the visit by another Congressional delegation this week, but has not said when or where they will take place.

The exercises appear to have had little impact among Taiwan's more than 23 million people, who overwhelmingly favor the status quo of de facto independence while maintaining robust economic ties with

Takeo met earlier this month with US National Security Advisor Jake Sullivan in Washington, during which they "reiterated the importance of maintaining peace and stability across the Taiwan Strait and reinforced their resolve to stand united against Russia's unjust and unprovoked war on Ukraine and united in support of the Ukrainian people," the State Department

China's threats against Taiwan have been likened to Russia's invasion of its neighbor. Shortly before Moscow dispatched troops in February, Russian President Vladimir Putin and his Chinese counterpart Xi Jinping met in Beijing, where they declared their relationship had "no limits" and Russia supported China's claim to Many Chinese also resent Japan over its brutal invasion and occupation of parts of the country during the 1930s and 1940s, sentiments kept alive by Communist Party propaganda.

The announcement on

The US Trade Representative's office made no mention of tension with Beijing but said the "formal negotiations" were meant to enhance trade and regulatory cooperation, which would entail closer official interaction

President Joe Biden's coordinator for the Indo-Pacific region, Kurt Campbell, told reporters last week that trade talks would be part of efforts to "deepen our ties with Taiwan," though he said US policy wasn't changing.

Taiwan and China split in 1949 after a civil war. The island never has been part of the People's Republic of China, but the Communist Party says it is obliged to united politically with the mainland, by force if necessary political activists plead guilty amid crackdown

A uthorities in Hong Kong say 29 out of 47 pro-democracy activists charged with "conspiracy to commit subversion" under a tough National Security Law entered guilty pleas on Thursday, as the Beijing government seeks to further silence opposition voices in the regional financial hub.

Thursday's court proceedings came amid a sweeping campaign against those speaking out against demands for absolute loyalty to China's ruling Communist Party.

The 47 democracy activists, aged 23 to 64, were charged with conspiracy to commit subversion under the Beijing-imposed National Security Law and detained last year over their involvement in an unofficial primary election in 2020 that authorities said was a plot to paralyse Hong Kong's government. The primary showed strong support for candidates willing to challenge the Beijingbacked local government.

Among those making guilty pleas were well-known political activists including Joshua Wong and Benny Tai, Hong Kong media said.

Media reporting restrictions were lifted for the cases, which will start next month at Hong Kong's high court. Hong Kong was handed

 $M^{\text{ali's foreign minister is}}_{\text{accusing France of having}}$ colluded with the same Islamic extremists that it spent nearly a decade fighting until its troops departed earlier this week, an allegation sharply denied by the French government.

The inflammatory letter sent to the president of the UN Security Council is the latest effort to undermine support for France, Mali's former coloniser, at a time when some fear the French military departure could pave the way for militants to intensify their attacks.

The last French troops from Operation Barkhane left a Mali on Monday after relations sharply deteriorated with the Malian junta leader who seized power two years ago.

The French military declined to comment on the Malian foreign minister's letter, calling it "a diplomatic and political issue."

In 2013, France led a military operation to oust Islamic extremists from the major towns across northern Mali where the militants had seized power and begun imposing harsh penalties on civilians who violated their strict interpretation of Islamic law known Shariah.

When French troops liberated the northern towns, they were welcomed by many Malians waving hand-sewn French flags. The extremists, though,

He bought a pass to the Chautauqua Institution grounds and then slept in the grass the night before Rushdie's planned talk.

'Death toll in Afghan capital mosque bombing now 21'

Abombing at a mosque in the Afghan capi-tal of Kabul during evening prayers killed at least 21 people, including a prominent cleric, and wounded at least 33, eyewitnesses and police said Thursday.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack Wednesday night, the latest to strike the country in the year since the Taliban seized power. Several children were reported to be among the wounded.

The Islamic State group's local affiliate has stepped up attacks targeting the Taliban and civilians since the former insurgents' takeover last August as US and NATO troops were in the final stages of their withdrawal from the country. Last week, the IS claimed responsibility for killing a prominent Taliban cleric at his religious center in Kabul.

Khalid Zadran, the spokesman for Kabul's police chief, gave the figures to The Associated Press for the bombing at the Sunni mosque.

According to the eyewitness, a resident of the city's Kher Khanna neighborhood where the Siddiquiya Mosque was targeted, the explosion was carried out by a suicide bomber. The slain cleric was Mullah Amir Mohammad Kabuli, the eyewitness said, speaking on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to talk to the media. Taliban spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid also condemned the explosion and vowed that the perpetrators of such crimes will soon be ought to justice and will be punished." There were fears the casualty numbers could rise further. On Thursday morning, one witness to the blast who gave his name as Qyaamuddin told the AP he believed as many as 25 people may have been killed in the blast.

Telecom Min asks telcos to gear up for 5G launch

New Delhi: Telecom Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on Thursday asked telecom service providers to gear up for 5G launch, post the issuance of spectrum allocation letters.

In a first, the Department of Telecom (DoT) has issued spectrum assignment letters on the same day the successful bidders of radio waves made upfront payments.

"5G Update:Spectrum

The DoT has received payment of around ₹17,876 crore from service providers—Bharti Airtel, Reliance Jio, Adani Data Networks and Vodafone Idea for spectrum they won in a recent auction.

The country's biggest ever auction of telecom spectrum received a record ₹1.5 lakh crore worth of bids, with Mukesh Ambani's Jio cornering nearly half of all the airwaves sold with a ₹87,946.93 crore bid. Bharti Enterprises founder and chairman Sunil Bharti Mittal said that his company Bharti Airtel received a spectrum allocation letter within a few hours of making upfront payment to the DoT.

Airtel acquired 19,867.8 MHz spectrum by securing a pan-India footprint of 3.5 GHz and 26 GHz bands and selected purchase of radio waves in low and mid-band spectrum for ₹43,039.63 crore.

"Airtel paid ₹8,312.4 crore towards spectrum dues and was provided the allocation letter for the designated frequency bands within hours. E band allocation was given along with spectrum as promised. No Fuss, No Follow Up, No running around the corridors and No tall claims. This is ease of doing business at work in its full glory," Mittal said.

Airtel has said that it will launch 5G service this month.

While all telecom operators have opted to make payments in 20 annual installments, Bharti Airtel paid ₹8,312.4 crore equivalent to four annual installments.

Borna Coric spoiled the return of Rafael Nadal after a five-year absence from the ATP and WTA Cincinnati Masters on Wednesday with a 7-6 (11/9), 4-6, 6-3 upset victory in the second round.

The 36-year-old Spaniard, who won the Cincinnati title in 2013, was playing his first match in well over a month after withdrawing with an abdominal injury from his Wimbledon semi-final against Nick Kyrgios. Nadal began the season with three titles and 20 consecutive wins but will head into the US Open after only one summer hardcourt match. The night appearance by points of his own and had to save two set points for Coric. But on the Croat's third opportunity, Nadal handed over the set after an hour and a quarter on court with a costly double-fault.

Nadal then took another 75 minutes to square the match thanks to a break in the seventh game of the second set.

World Cup ticket sales approach 2.5 million total of 2.45 million tickets have been sold for Athis year's World Cup in Qatar after over half a million were snapped up in the latest sales period, organisers announced on Thursday.

World football's governing body FIFA said 5 and August 16, with Qatar, the United States, England, Saudi Arabia, Mexico, the United Arab Emirates, France, Argentina, Brazil and Germany the leading countries of residence for those purchasing match tickets.

FIFA stated that the most popular games for ticket sales include Brazil's group-phase encounters against Cameroon and Serbia, Portugal's meeting with Uruguay, Costa Rica's clash with Germany, and Australia against Denmark.

In June organisers said there had been "record-breaking" demand for tickets at a time when 1.2 million had been sold.

That figure has now more than doubled, with total ticket sales including those going to partners of FIFA, federations and for hospitality, as well as to the general public.

There are 3,010,679 tickets available altogether, with FIFA saying a "last-minute" sales period will open in the run-up to the start of the tournament at a date still to be confirmed.

We'll continue to oppose tenure guidelines of draft 2017 Sports Code: IOA

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Indian Olympic Association (IOA) on Thursday "welcomed" the interim relief granted to it by the Supreme Court, saying it will continue to challenge the "contentious" clauses of the National Sports Code, primarily related to "tenure guide-lines" for officials and voting rights" of state bodies.

Ordering status quo, the SC on Thursday said the Delhi High Courtappointed three-member Committee of Administrators (CoA) will not take over the affairs of IOA.

The SC took note of the submis-Mehta, appearing for the Centre and the IOA, that the IOC (world body) does not recognise any un-elected bodies like the CoA and consequently, India may be barred from taking part in international sports events.

The Apex court has posted IOA's appeal for further hearing on It is a welcome order by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The IOA and the government jointly approached SC. We had the full support of the government. We are happy that the Court took into consideration our submission," IOA secretary general Rajeev Mehta told

According to the draft National Sports Code 2017, the age and tenure restrictions will be applicable to all officials and not just the president, secretary and treasurer of the nation's sports bodies.

While the tenure of an official can be a maximum of three terms, 12 years to be precise, including a cool-off period, the upper limit of age is kept at 70 years.

But as per the current IOA Constitution, an official can hold his or her office for 20 years without any cooling-off period.

The IOA said it will continue to oppose these "contentious" guide-

"Our main objection is on tenure guidelines. The Sports Code has already reduced the tenure of a sports administrator from 20 years to 12 years. After two terms of four years each, an official has to go for this," Mehta said.

"The Sports Code also took away the voting rights of state associations and non-Olympic sports federations, which is not fair. We want the Hon'ble Supreme Court to rectify the erroneous guidelines of the Code. We can only appeal, rest depends on the Court. We just hope a favourable order comes on August 22," Mehta added.

The Delhi High Court had on August 16 ordered the setting up of a three-member CoA to manage the affairs of the IOA.

The high court said the "persistent recalcitrance" of the IOA to comply with the Sports Code made it imperative that its affairs be put in the hands of the CoA, comprising former Supreme Court judge Justice Anil R Dave, former Chief Election Commissioner S Y Quraishi, and former Secretary of Ministry of External Affairs Vikas Swarup.

INDIA THUMP ZIMBABWE BY 10 WICKETS

Pacer Deepak Chahar made an impressive comeback to international cricket with an incisive spell and openers maintained their consistency as India out-classed Zimbabwe by 10 wickets in the opening One Day International, here on Thursday.

Donning the blue jersey for the first time in six months after a long injury lay-off, Chahar hit the straps right away with figures of 3/27, which was instrumental in India restricting Zimbabwe to a sub-par 189 in just 40.3 overs.

With very little scoreboard pressure, it was a walk in the park for the Indians as the in-form opening pair of Shikhar Dhawan (81 not out) and Shubman Gill (82 not out) knocked off the target in just 30.5

With skipper KL Rahul foregoing his spot at the top of the order to let the in-form pair maintain its momentum, Dhawan and Gill scored their third half-centuries in last four games. Not to forget that it was also their third century-plus stand from the start of the West Indies series. Their lowest opening partnership had yielded 48 runs in second ODI in Caribbean.

On a track that had something for the bowlers, the Indian openers did start in a sedate fashion but with very little on the board, it did not take them much time to accelerate.

Dhawan played his signature square cuts off seamers and lofted shots off the slow bowlers during his 113-ball knock while Gill played within himself for the first 30 deliveries before starting to chance his arms and surpassed his senior partner in terms of strike-rate, facing only 72 balls.

He played some eye-catching strokes on either side of the wicket, including a huge six over deep mid-wicket off Wessly Madhevere.

Between them, they hit 19

It didn't take long for Chahar to find his rhythm on a Harare Sports Club track that offered steep bounce. The balmy morning conditions aided quality swing bowling.

He was well supported by Mohammed Siraj (1/36), who worked up brisk pace while bowling the ideal Test match length.

Prasidh Krishna (3/50) and Axar Patel (3/24) also got their share of middle and lower-order victims while Kuldeep Yadav (0/36) was restrictive despite going wicket-less.

It was the record ninth-wicket stand of 70 runs between Brad Evans (33) and Richard Ngarava (32) that took Zimbabwe close to the 200-run mark.

None of the Zimbabwe batters looked comfortable during those opening overs as Chahar got a lot of deliveries to dart back late while some straightened after pitching.

Opener Innocent Kaia (4 off 20 balls) saw a ball climb up from back of length and Sanju Samson caught it on second attempt. His left-handed partner

Tadiwanashe Marumani (8 off 22 balls) drove a fuller-length delivery that swung late and Samson had an

Chahar's best delivery was the one that got Wessly Medhevere (5) which seemed like drifting on pads but swung away late squaring up the right-hander, who was found plumb

Once Siraj had Sean Williams caught at first slip by Shikhar Dhawan, there wasn't much resistance left in the Zimbabwean batting although skipper Regis Chakabva (35 off 51 balls) tried to put up a brief fight before Axar cas-

Just at the start of his spell, Chahar was struggling a bit with his run-up but once he got his first wicket, it seemed that he could take wicket with every delivery he bowled.

The banana inswing was back and more importantly, he was get-ting to move the ball late, causing a lot of doubt in batters' mind.

While Chahar has been kept on stand-by for the Asia Cup with Bhuvneshwar Kumar in the first 15, the tables could well turn once the Indian team touches base in Australia. This is because there will be at least one spinner less in the final composition of the squad as side's won't require four spinners for pitches Down Under.

Good to see bowlers putting balls in right areas: Rahul

India captain KL Rahul was very impressed with his bowl-ing unit which fashioned a 10wicket victory over Zimbabwe by restricting the hosts to under 200 in the first ODI here on Thursday.

Rahul, himself was making a comeback to international cricket after more than two months but decided to continue with the crack opening pair of Shubman Gill and Shikhar Dhawan, who added 192 runs for an unbroken opening stand.

"Picking up wickets was crucial. There was swing and seam movement as well. But it was good to see them (bowlers) put the ball in right areas and be disciplined, the skipper said at the postmatch presentation ceremony.

Three players in the first XI, Rahul, Deepak Chahar and Kuldeep Yadav were making a comeback after long rehabilitation

"As good as it can be, I am on the field and I am happy. We do play a lot of cricket, injuries are going to be a part of it," Rahul

"Being away from the game is hard. Rehab and everything everyday gets boring. We'd rather be playing 365 days than be with the physio. For a few of us, it is great to be back in the Indian dressing room."

"I am enjoying batting with the youngster (Gill) and I feel like a youngster too. I enjoyed the consistency from the West Indies. I knew that once I was set, I would go after the bowlers," Dhawan said after scoring unbeaten 81 off 113 balls.

Rabada takes five wickets as SA dismiss England for 165

South Africa fast bowler Kagiso Rabada completed a five-wicket haul as England were dismissed for just 165 on the second day of the first Test at Lord's on Thursday.

Rabada, who had been doubtful for the opening match of the three-Test series, finished with figures of 5-52 in 19 overs — the 12th time he has taken five wickets in an innings.

Only Ollie Pope, with 73, offered prolonged resistance among England's top order.

Rabada, 27, did the early damage in England's innings by removing openers Alex Lees and Zak Crawley for single-figure scores on the rain-shortened opening day.

South Africa captain Dean Elgar won the toss on a green-tinged pitch and in overcast conditions that aided his four-man pace attack but his quicks backed up that call with a skilful display. Express quick Anrich Nortje had followed up

Rabada's initial good work by taking three wickets, including the prized scalp of in-form Jonny Bairstow for a duck. England have won all four of their Tests under their new leadership pairing of captain Ben Stokes and coach Brendon McCullum after switching to a mode of all-out attack. But the policy did not work against a quality four-man pace attack that has helped South África climb to the top of the World Test Championship table.

England resumed on 116-6 on Thursday, with Pope 61 not out. Pope, who had reached a 69-ball fifty on the opening day, was quickly into his stride on Thursday, pulling the third ball of the day, from Rabada, for four. But he should have been out three balls later for 67 when he edged Rabada straight to first slip, only for Sarel Erwee to floor a routine chance despite four juggled attempts to keep hold of the Stuart Broad, nought not out overnight, got

Pope chopped on to a full-length ball for 73 to end a 102-ball innings, leaving England 134-7. Rabada showed there was more to his game than sheer speed when he undid Broad (15) with a clever slower ball that the tailender lobbed to
