TWO ELEPHANTS TO BE DEPLOYED TO CHASE AWAY LEOPARDS FROM CHEETAH ENCLOSURE

Two elephants are being deployed to chase away four leopards from an enclosure in Madhya Pradesh's Kuno National Park meant to house cheetahs during an acclimatization phase after they arrive here from Africa as part of an ambitious reintroduction project, officials said on Sunday. The elephants, along with their mahouts, embarked on the 800-kilometre journey to KNP from Sitapur Tiger Reserve on Sunday morning on trucks stocked with all essential items, STR Director L. Krishnamurthy told PTL. As per forest officials, such trained elephants are used for a variety of tasks, including encircling animals for tranquilization, driving away invasive animals, spotting amid monsoon and overgrown thicket etc.

'YOU ARE NEXT': AUTHOR JK ROWLING RECEIVES DEATH THREAT

The police in Scotland on Sunday said they are investigating an online threat, believed to be from Pakistan, made to Harry Potter author J. K. Rowling in the wake of her support for Mumbai-born writer Salman Rushdie following his stabbing at a literary event in New York state. Rowling, 57, shared screenshots of a Twitter message stating: "Don't worry, you are next". The same Twitter account, believed to be based in Pakistan, also posted messages praising the man who attacked Rushdie, 75, on stage at the event in New York state. We have received a report of an online threat being made and officers are carrying out enquiries, Police Scotland said.

75 YEARS AFTER PARTITION, 94-YEAR-OLD WOMAN RECALLS CARNAGE

There was bloodshed everywhere... every other person on the train was mourning the loss of a loved one," says 94-year-old Kailash Rani, recalling the day she and her family were forced to flee their home in Pakistan's Rawalpindi during Partition. "Some of our close relatives accompanying us were killed in cold blood by some youths," Rani said here on Sunday. The independence of India from British colonial rule in 1947 coincided with Partition that triggered widespread communal violence and resulted in an insurmountable refugee crisis. Rani said her husband, Suraj Prakash, a businessman, faced communal violence and mindless hate before the family decided to leave Rawalpindi for somewhere safe.

MOOSEWALA'S FATHER ALLEGES FRIENDS BEHIND SINGER'S MURDER

Singh Punjabi singer Sidhu Moosewala's father on Sunday said his son could not decipher that those who were claiming to be his friends would become his enemy one day, and stressed that he will soon reveal their names. Shubdeep Singh Sidhu, popularly known as Sidhu Moosewala, was shot dead in Punjab's Mansa district on May 29. Addressing a gathering in Mansa, Moosewala's father Balkaur Singh said his son made his name worldwide with his singing. Some black sheep became enemies of his career, said Singh. "It was his misfortune that people whom he met at the beginning (of his career) were not the right persons."

"When I travel abroad and meet investors from various parts of the world, sometimes they make simplified comparisons. Many of them bring up this comparison between China and India."

IT WILL BE PRIYANKA VS BANSAL IN TELANGANA UP scene may repeat

SNCN ACHARYULU ■ HYDERABAD

After Uttar Pradesh now it may be the turn of Telangana to witness a fight between Sunil Bansal and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra.

The BJP which is determined to come to power is tightening its grip over Telangana. The BJP appointed its General Secretary Sunil Bansal as its in-charge in Telangana as part of this game plan. Sunil Bansal is the right-hand man of Union Home Minister Amit Shah. After the appointment of Sunil Bansal as the BJP's in-charge, the Congress leadership is thinking of appointing its General Secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra as its Telangana in-charge.

During the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections, Sunil Bansal and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra fought each other as the in-charges of their respective parties.

INCREASED INTERACTION WITH GOI

Sarkari meetings are few and far between. That was clearly the case at least before the Covid-19 pandemic. Covid moved many things to the virtual mode so much so that virtually many things could be packed in a day even in sarkari daftar. Post pandemic, normalcy has been restored in all walks of life, though with some notable exceptions. For babus, the number of meetings with Government of India officials has increased, though the number of occasions for travel in connection with such meetings has come down. Bureaucratic circles are discussing on how some of the in-person meetings which used to happen once in two months or so are now happening virtually every month. A little bird told us even GOI wants to showcase that it has done some review. Covid has shown the true power of technology; for, even though video conferencing was in vogue before the pandemic, there was always an option (or excuse) to travel.

TS DIGITAL DIRECTOR FOLLOWING AP COUNTERPART

They say "Time changes people". TS Digital Media Director Dileep Konatham is an example. On Sunday, not only TRS social media, but also the Digital media wing director had a melt-down after scholar Anand Ranganthan posted tweets to Minister K T Rama Rao. Official circles are now discussing the winds of change. A few months ago, it was suggested in this column that TS Digital Media director stayed away from directly engaging in political activity, though his AP counterpart Devender Reddy Gurrampati had no qualms about being more of YSRCP spokesperson than a government servant, at least on Twitter. Now the Telangana Digital Media director seems to be toeing the line of his AP counterpart. Netizens are however critical of the TS director, saying he is not sticking to his job as chief digital director, Government of TS.

LADY IAS OFFICER'S MIDNIGHT WALK!

In bureaucracy, good work will take you to places; even if that means you are made a guinea pig when the situation demands. A lady IAS officer, who had been to Singapore along with a delegation accompanying Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao, was a guinea pig so to speak for testing the soundness of security systems. KCR, who normally names officers, did not name her. He merely said that one good thing that had happened during his Singapore trip was that he was accompanied by Rajashekhar Reddy (his secretary) and one lady IAS officer. Since Singapore businessmen took pride in proclaiming that even during midnight women there can walk wherever they want and do their work, this delegation wanted to 'test' it. The 'lady IAS officer' and Rajashekhar Reddy made each other walk on either side of the road there. The 'lady IAS officer' went and returned happily, the CM observed. Interestingly, now this 'lady IAS officer' is the only bureaucrat to have changed her display picture to Tricolor on social media after a call given by Prime Minister Narendra Modi to mark 75 years of Independence. The lady officer is reportedly the longest standing bureaucrat in Telangana appointed immediately after formation of the state.

TWO BUREAUCRATS JOINING BJP

Of late, babus do not shy away from taking a plunge into politics. Before quitting All India Services, they tilt towards either the ruling party or an ascendant opposition party, making their choices clear. Less than a year after P Venkat Ram Reddy took VRS and joined TRS to become an MLC, a couple of more officers are going to join the league. A little bird told us that two officers, who have been at loggerheads with the current regime, are likely to take VRS soon and join the BJP. The two officers have already spoken to the saffron party's leadership. The buzz is that one of them, an IPS officer, may join the party this month itself during Amit Shah's visit. This apart, a few retired bureaucrats have met the BJP leadership over joining the saffron brigade. Evidently, not just TRS, now even BJP can claim that there are intellectuals and IAS/IPS officers in their party.

WHEN THE AREA OF OPERATION SHRINKS!

In Sanskrit, there is a saying 'Yadha Raja, tadha praja'. This perhaps can be modified as 'Yadha Raja, tadha babus' in the context of Telugu states. Post bifurcation, the Telugu states have raked up several issues relating to the utilization and sharing of river waters. Leaders of ruling parties in the both states have been making allegations over utilization of river waters, creating an impression that after all they are fighting in the interests of their state. Although this has happened in other states too, what stands out in Telugu states is that, following in the footsteps of their political bosses, bureaucrats, though expected to think like 'all India' officials, have also started criticising one another to safeguard the interests of the ruling parties in their respective states. Mind you, until bifurcation these officers had worked together in the combined Andhra Pradesh state. Post bifurcation, their 'area of operation' has shrunk, running counter to their sense of professionalism.

President hails nation's progress

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

India has helped the world discover the true potential of democracy and the keyword for the country today is compassion for the downtrodden, needy and those on the margins, President Droupadi Murmu said on Sunday.

In her maiden address to the nation on the eve of the 76th Independence Day, Murmu said major economic reforms are being accompanied by innovative welfare initiatives and the world has seen "a new India rising in recent years, more so after the outbreak of COVID-19".

The president said when India won independence, there were many international leaders and experts who were sceptical about the success of the democratic form of government in India due to poverty and illiteracy at that time.

"But we Indians proved the sceptics wrong. Democracy not only grew roots in this soil, it was enriched too," she said as she asked citizens to pledge to give everything for the sake of the safety, security, progress and prosperity of the country.

The president, in her 17-minute address, also complimented the policymakers for ensuring the growth of the country that has become more inclusive with reduced regional disparities.

"Our response to the pandemic has been appreciated everywhere. We launched the biggest vaccination drive in human history with vaccines manufactured in the country itself. Last month we crossed the 200-crore mark in cumulative vaccine coverage," said Murmu who took over the presidency last month.

She said in combating the pandemic, India's achievements have been better than those of many developed countries. "For this feat, we are grateful to our scientists, doctors, nurses, paramedics and the staff associated with vaccination," she said.

The president said that the pandemic uprooted lives and also economies in the entire world. "When the world has been battling the economic consequences of the great crisis, India got its act together and is now moving forward. India is among the fastest growing major economies in the world" whose start-up ecosystem ranks high in the world.

The president said "our existence will become meaningful only in building a glorious India" and quoted a poem of poet Kuvempu I will pass, So will you, But on our bones will arise the great tale of a new India'.

She said this is a clarion call of the nationalist poet for making a complete sacrifice for the motherland and the uplift of fellow citizens.

"To follow these ideals is my special appeal to the youth of the country who are going to build the India of 2047," she said. In most other well-established democracies, women had to wage long-drawn struggles to get the right to vote. But India adopted universal adult franchise rights since the beginning of the Republic, she said. Thus, the makers of modern India enabled each and every adult citizen to participate in the collective process of nation-building, she said adding India can be credited for helping the world discover the true potential of democracy. She said the success of start-ups, especially the growing number of unicorns is a shining example of industrial progress and credited the Narendra Modi government and its policy-makers for beating the global trend and helping the economy flourish.

"During the last few years, unprecedented progress has been made in the development of physical and digital infrastructure...For the vibrancy of growth visible in our country, credit must also be given to workers and farmers whose hard work has made it possible and entrepreneurs whose business acumen has created wealth.

DMK may contest in Munugode

K VENKATESHWARLU ■ HYDERABAD

The Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) is going to enter Telangana in a full-fledged manner starting with the Munugode by-poll.

The Southern Political Academy (SPA) has been moving in that direction and clarity regarding this will come within a week. SPA head Prof. Gali Vinod Kumar will meet DMK chief Tamil Nadu Chief Minister MK Stalin regarding this after getting an appointment. It is learnt that SPA representatives had a meeting with DMK Telugu States in-charge KK Murthy on Sunday.

Murthy had informed the SPA representatives that he would finalise an appointment with Stalin within a week or two.

SPA head Prof. Gali Vinod Kumar had a meeting with ticket hopefuls in 17 Parliament constituencies on Sunday. They discussed merging the SPA with the DMK in case DMK President Stalin accepts SPA's conditions.

The 17 LS ticket hopefuls expressed their willingness to merge the SPA with the DMK.

It is learnt that Prof. Gali Vinod Kumar will immediately merge his SPA with the DMK if Stalin accepts the Academy's proposals. Gali Vinod Kumar will float a new party if Stalin doesn't accept the SPA's proposals.

The main proposal is that Stalin must give a free hand to SPA representatives after the merger of the SPA with the DMK as they have to work in tune with the local people's aspirations. The second proposal that the SPA is going to place before Stalin is the 'BC Chief Minister' slogan. Another proposal is to field a candidate in the Munugode by-poll.

The SPA will field its candidate in Munugode in case the DMK does not accept the proposal to field a candidate as DMK chief Stalin is a friend of Telangana Chief Minister K. Chandrasekhar Rao.

Speaking to 'The Pioneer', Gali Vinod Kumar confirmed that they had a meeting with Telugu States DMK in-charge Murthy on Sunday.

He said that he will take up full responsibilities of the DMK in Telangana after his voluntary retirement on January 13, 2023.

Congress appoints in-charges for Munugode by-poll

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

After the lines TRS, the Congress too has appointed mandal in-charges for the Munugode by-poll on Sunday.

TPCC Campaign Committee Chairman Madhu Yashki Goud revealed that Telangana Congress affairs in-charge Manickam Tagore headed the committee that appointed the in-charges.

The in-charges are Ramreddy Damodar Reddy and Naini Rajender Reddy for Choutuppal Mandal, Balaram Naik and Gandra Satyanarayana for Narayanapur mandal, Danasari Anasuya and Vijaya Ramana Rao for Munugode mandal, Anjan Kumar Yadav and Dr Mallu Ravi for Nampally mandal, SA Sampath Kumar and Adi Srinivas for Ghattuppal mandal, Eravatri Anil and Dr Vamshi Krishna for Chandur mandal, Cheruku Sudhakar and Vem Narendar Reddy for Marrigudem mandal.

Revanth tests corona positive

TPCC President Revanth Reddy has tested Corona positive. He tweeted regarding this on Sunday, "Suffering from mild flu-like symptoms. I got myself tested for Covid-19 and tested positive on Saturday." I urge all those who had come in contact with me to get themselves tested, isolate and follow the covid-19 protocol.

Revanth posted his test result also along with his tweet.

Sunil Bansal is one of the BJP's chief strategists and had played a key role in scripting the BJP's spectacular win in 2017 in the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections.

Bansal was also the key person in the BJP's victory in the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections in 2022 too.

The Congress leadership had appointed Priyanka Gandhi Vadra as the in-charge of Uttar Pradesh to take on the BJP in the 2022 Assembly elections. Congress workers had expected Priyanka Gandhi Vadra to turn around the fortunes of the party in Uttar Pradesh. But Priyanka Gandhi Vadra failed to revive the Congress in Uttar Pradesh.

Speaking on the occasion, Mahesh Bhagwat expressed happiness over receiving the award and extended his sincere gratitude to all his superiors who reposed confidence in him and his colleagues at the Rachakonda Police Commissionerate and in the units he had worked in earlier.

The Commissioner has received two President's medals earlier, the President's Police Medal for Gallantry in 2004 and the Police Medal for Meritorious Service in 2011. Telangana DGP Mahender Reddy congratulated the award winners and said that the awards would be recorded in their service books.

Revanth's apology puts the ball in Komatireddy Venkat's court

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

TPCC Chief Revanth Reddy's faction is happy as Revanth has thrown the ball into the court of TPCC Star Campaigner Komatireddy Venkat Reddy by apologising unconditionally on Saturday.

One may apologise for committing a mistake and apologies may save those who have committed mistakes. Revanth solved the problem he had with Venkat by apologising.

However, Venkat made it clear that he will join the Munugode by-poll campaign only after the expulsion of TPCC's official spokesperson Addanki Dayakar as he had used very abusive language. It is up to the TPCC Disciplinary Action Committee (DAC) to decide the action it is going to take as Revanth had said that the DAC will act against Addanki Dayakar.

But some SC, ST, BC and minority leaders are angry with Venkat. They expressed unhappiness saying that it is not justified for Venkat to target Addanki Dayakar as he had apologised to Venkat twice.

Non-violence and non-co-operation: Gandhiji's weapons of mass uprising

Seventy-five years ago, India became free from the British rule, on the historic day of 15th August 1947, as a culmination of several movements and struggle for freedom. The hard-fought Independence was achieved through the efforts of many revolutionary freedom-fighters.

Mahatma Gandhiji is revered as the Father of the Nation for his immense contribution and sacrifice for India's Independence.

He not only ushered the country towards freedom, but also became an inspiration for many freedom struggles and rights movements across the world.

Mahatma Gandhi introduced the doctrine of nonviolence in India as he believed that Independence could be achieved through mass uprising with a combination of non-violent movement and non-co-operation with the British rule. The historic Non-Cooperation Movement, Dandi March and the Quit India Movement were all started under his leadership.

The notion of non-violence attained a special status, after it was propounded by Mahatma Gandhi. He not only theorized on it, but also adopted non-violence as a philosophy and an ideal way of life.

He made us understand that the philosophy of non-violence is not a weapon of the weak; it is a weapon, which can be tried by all.

The notion of non-violence attained a special status, after it was propounded by Mahatma Gandhi. He not only theorized on it, but also adopted non-violence as a philosophy and an ideal way of life. He made us understand that the philosophy of non-violence is not a weapon of the weak; it is a weapon, which can be tried by all.

It is often said that truth and non-violence are as old as the hills. Even though non-violence was not Gandhi's invention, he is called the father of non-violence because he led the movement to a level never thought of, or achieved in the past.

Gandhi objected to violence because it perpetuates hatred. When it appears to do 'good' temporarily, it cannot do any good in the long run. A truly non-violent activist accepts violence on himself without inflicting it on another. For Gandhi, perpetrators of violence are products of social disintegration.

During the freedom movement, Gandhi felt the need for a perfect weapon to combat violence and this is non-violence.

Gandhi derived non-violence from its Sanskrit root 'ahimsa'.

Ahimsa implies total non-violence. Gandhi treated ahimsa as love.

For Gandhi, non-violence is the greatest force at the disposal of mankind and considered it as mightier than any weapon of mass destruction. It is a living force of power and no one has been or will ever be able to measure its limits or its reach.

Gandhi's non-violence is the search for truth as he found that truth is the most fundamental aspect in Gandhi's philosophy of non-violence. He dedicated his whole life for "experiments with truth" and it was in the course of this pursuit of truth that Gandhi discovered non-violence, which he further explained in his autobiography, as "Ahimsa is the basis of the search for truth. I am realizing that this search is vain, unless it is founded on ahimsa as the basis." Gandhi always believed that non-violence contained a universal applicability.

In one of his letters, Gandhi wrote: "I have no message to give except this that there is no deliverance for any people on this earth or for all the people of this earth except through truth and nonviolence in every walk of life without any exceptions."

When Gandhi launched the Quit India Movement by giving an ultimatum to the Britishers to quit India, certain people ridiculed how a naked fakir could ask the great British Empire to quit India. Gandhi's call for Quit India led to a great turmoil all over the country, from Kashmir to Kanyakumari, and led to people joining the movement in huge numbers. Britishers became aware of the power of Gandhi. The entire world was surprised that Gandhi chose non-violence as his weapon to fight against the mighty British Empire. They did not realise then the power of non-violence unleashed by Gandhi as a weapon of mass uprising.

The doctrine of non-violence is Gandhi's greatest contribution to the world.

GOV ON ROBOTIC SURGERIES

Disheartening to see insurance companies having reservations

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

It is disheartening to see that insurance companies have reservations in approving latest medical procedures, said Telangana Governor Tamilisai Soundararajan, while speaking at the conference on Gynaecological Robotic Surgeries in Hyderabad.

"It's not easy to initiate new technology. My thoughts go back to 40 years ago when we were practicing ultrasound and foetal therapy.

At that time interventional ultrasound was not thought of. So when we came forward to perform some of the procedure through ultrasound, there was resistance. In our country it is expected that whatever latest technology is introduced, it has to be patient oriented and even if there is a small complication, it would be difficult for the next patient because of the bad name it earns. Robotic surgery will soon be popular

Technology should also make the services economically feasible for all the sections of the society. I request insurance companies to come forward and include all robotic surgeries and approve them due to rapid growth of technology and the aspiring medical professionals have to develop their skills in the area. Technology should also make the services economically feasible for all the sections of the society. I request insurance companies to come forward and include all robotic surgeries and approve them. Even the government insurance schemes should include such latest procedures in their approval list."The two-day conference with the theme "Gynecological Robotic Surgery-Innovations and surgical revolution" was held on August 13 and 14. It was a unique opportunity for endoscopic surgeons to interact with eminent international and Indian faculty to gain insights on use of clinically relevant robotic technology for gynaecology related surgeries.

FIRST TIME IN INDIA

Researchers develop 3D printed artificial cornea

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

For the first time in India, researchers in Hyderabad have successfully 3D printed an artificial cornea and transplanted it into a rabbit eye. Researchers from LV Prasad Eye Institute, IIT Hyderabad and the Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology (CCMB) have collaborated to develop the 3D printed cornea from the human donor corneal tissue.

The cornea is the clear front layer of the eye that helps focus and aids in clear vision. Corneal damage is a leading cause of blindness worldwide with more than 1.5 million new cases of corneal blindness reported every year. Corneal transplantation is the current standard of care for cases with severe disease and vision loss. Unfortunately, there is a huge gap between the demand and supply of donor corneal tissue worldwide, which is further complicated by lack of adequate eye banking networks, especially in developing countries. Human tissue based 3D printed corneas are not only safer but are also more affordable for patients with corneal blindness in India. Each donor cornea can aid in preparation of three 3D printed corneas. In addition, the cornea can be printed in various diameters from 3 mm to 13 mm and can be customised based on the specifications of the patient. This can potentially offer a solution to the shortage of donor corneas for transplantation and has great clinical significance.

However, printed corneas will need to undergo further clinical testing and development before they can be used in patients, and this may take several years.

PR director seeks details of Grama Kantham lands in two days

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

Panchayat Raj Director Hanumantha Rao has directed district panchayat officers to send details of Grama Kantham lands in their districts in two days.

However, it seems that delay is likely to take place in sending details as the government announced holidays for three days and in view of rallies being taken out all over the state to celebrate diamond jubilee.

Since the people are facing problems to build homes in village kantham lands, the Chief Minister assured constitution of a committee at a recent Cabinet meeting.

Therefore, the panchayat raj department has focused on collecting details of the grama kantham lands.

A special format has been prepared by officials for sending details. The format requires information like name of the village, district and mandal and total area of the gram panchayat (houses, habitats and lands), the number of houses in Gram Kantham lands, details of lands being enjoyed by public without having any patta, the area of land used to meet panchayat needs like roads, water tanks, schools and village parks and so on, vacant land and other details.

Panchayat Raj secretary Sandeep Kumar Sultania and Panchayat Raj Director Hanumantha Rao decided to hold a meeting with panchayat raj officers on Aug 17. Therefore, the district panchayat officers have been asked to send details of grama kantham lands by then.

They will seek suggestions from the DPO at the meeting. The reports to be sent by the DPOs are to be submitted to the Chief Secretary and to the CM. It has become difficult for those who have built homes earlier without securing permission from the NALA to get title deed for their lands. Since the land is not included in Grama Kantham lands or in Aabadi, the details of the land was not recorded in local bodies' files.

Since houses were built in the land, it could not be included under agriculture lands. The local bodies are not giving permission to build homes in such lands. The then government went on record stating that it will allow NALA up to construction of a building in agriculture land. The government gave options for the same in Dharani portal too.

Why freedom at midnight? To avoid inauspicious start!

On the occasion of the 75th anniversary celebrations of our Independence or Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav, some of us may be reminded of the celebrations during the Golden Jubilee 25 years ago. One may recall the many midnight functions organised then to mark our 'Freedom at Midnight'! But the question that continues to be asked is: Why on earth did we choose to be free at an unearthly hour? Was it by choice or by compulsion? What was special about that midnight hour for our 'Tryst with destiny'?

To answer the foregoing questions, I need to jog my memories back to the 1980s, when as a research scholar in JNU, I had a gap year. Having completed the course work for M Phil with a high grade point, I was eligible for direct Ph D, but underage to appear for the Civil Services Exam. As I was relatively free, my Professor and guide asked me to help the internationally celebrated authors Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre (of 'Freedom at Midnight' fame) to edit the personal papers and private documents of Lord Louis Mountbatten, the last Viceroy, which they had collected for their best seller publication. That's how I was swamped by huge loads of material which I had to ferret out for new publications, later brought out in two separate volumes, viz. 'Mountbatten and the Partition of India' and 'Mountbatten and Independent India'.

That is when I stumbled upon an interesting interview of Lord Mountbatten by the authors of the book during the course of their research for the international al best seller Freedom at Midnight. The recorded interview was published in the first part of the new publication Mountbatten and the Partition of India.

As per the Hindu calendar tithis (days as per solar/lunar cycle) begin at the sunrise; while as per the Western (Gregorian) calendar, the date begins at midnight. This crucial difference afforded a slim window of opportunity to work out an astrological solution (upay) to this difficult dilemma.

Let's hear from the horse's mouth, as it were, as Mountbatten recounts in these excerpts from his interview, characterised by his trademark arrogance and insouciance:

"Q. The ceremony of August 15 had no precedent. Who invented it, engineered it? A. Well, I discussed it with Nehru. The first and most amusing thing, of course, is that I had selected August 15 because it was the date of the Japanese surrender (to me as the Commander of Allied forces at Singapore) - which had only taken place, do not forget two years ago - but I had not consulted the astrologers.

As you know, the Indians are riddled with astrology. I did not realize it. On an inauspicious day, one could do nothing. Well, Nehru did not believe in astrology but, he said so many people did, and that I had chosen an unpropitious day. I suppose it was silly of me not to consult the astrologers, but I had forgotten.

He said, "Never mind. If you agree that we can have a midnight meeting and just before the midnight strikes, we'll transfer power, that'll be all the more auspicious."

And I thought - what a marvellous, dramatic idea, having a midnight meeting while the rest of the world sleeps - and you'll remember ... This was done, not because we wanted a dramatic moment, but because I'd chosen the wrong day! Because the astrologers said it was not propitious!"

So there you are ... That is how we were saddled forever by freedom at midnight, as an uncomfortable compromise between Viceregal arrogance and astrological adjustment or upay, as it is often called. While the date was fixed arbitrarily by an egotistical Viceroy, what is surprising is that the Indian leaders rather meekly submitted to his whims and fancies! When Nehru broached it with other leaders, apparently there was stiff resistance particularly from Sardar Patel and JB Kripalani who wanted to avoid the inauspicious day. Eventually, it was left to an ingenious astrological subterfuge to resolve this conundrum.

As per the Hindu calendar tithis (days as per solar/lunar cycle) begin at the sunrise; while as per the Western (Gregorian) calendar, the date begins at midnight. This crucial difference afforded a slim window of opportunity to work out an astrological solution (upay) to this difficult dilemma. As per the astrologers, the 15th August, 1947, which fell on the 14th day (chaturdashi) of dark fortnight (Krishna paksha), with the most inauspicious new moon day (amavasya) setting in too had to be avoided by all means. Thus, as per the innovative compromise formula, this could be achieved by avoiding the sunrise of the 15th August, thereby avoiding the inauspicious dark chaturdashi/amavasya. But as per the Gregorian calendar, the 15th would begin after midnight. So, it was an ingenious tightrope walk that necessitated this midnight ceremony and the rest is history.

Thus, freedom at midnight became our 'Tryst with destiny', and, over time, became a symbol of dramatic transfer of power emulated in some other colonial countries like the Hong Kong. For us, however, it remains a story of peculiar compromise.

TRS MLAs, Ministers have become licensed goons: Sanjay

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

TRS MLAs and Ministers have turned into licensed goondas reminding the people of the Nizam's dictatorship which was run by Razakars, Telangana BJP President Bandi Sanjay Kumar said on Sunday.

"TRS ministers are firing in the air. The TRS has become a haven for murderers, rapists and sand and drug mafia dons," Sanjay said while interacting with the media in Mothkur village where he was camping during his Praja Sangrama Yatra padayatra.

He said that even advocates are being killed in broad daylight. "In the last 15 days, two lawyers have been killed. Last year, senior High Court lawyer Gattu Vamana Rao and his wife were killed in Manthani," he pointed out and demanded that the government must enact legislation to protect advocates.

Sanjay accused the police and bureaucrats of becoming TRS stooges and harassing BJP leaders, workers and the public. "We are preparing a list of such police officials. Once the BJP comes to power they will be shown their place," he said.

When asked why the BJP government at the Centre has not ordered an investigation by the CBI and the Enforcement Directorate into the alleged acts of omission and commission by Telangana Chief Minister K. Chandrasekhar Rao and his family, the BJP leader said that his party will not interfere in the functioning of investigating agencies.

"If the BJP government wants to misuse authority by ordering ED investigations, not even a single TRS minister or MLA will be safe and everybody will have to go to jail. If the Centre does it the media will accuse it of witch-

hunting political rivals. Let the law take its own course. Why hurry?" he asked. Sanjay said the Munugode by-election will endanger the political careers of many TRS ministers and MLAs as the BJP is going to win hands down. "Gone are the days when TRS leaders could win by projecting KCR," he said. Stating that the Congress and the TRS had thrown up their hands much before the by-election, the BJP leader lashed out at the Communist parties saying that they had always sold themselves out to one party or the other. "Nobody knows which way they would go in the elections. The Left has a committed cadre but their leaders are sold out," he said. Sanjay said the Congress had lost public confidence. During the Dubbaka by-election, Congress cadres supported the BJP. Replying to a question, he said that Komatireddy Rajagopal Reddy had never criticized the Congress but only its TS leadership. "I have talked to Rajagopal several times, but we never talked about politics.

I never said his elder brother Venkat Reddy has been in touch with me. He is a strong political leader," he said. The BJP leader said the KCR government was hastily announcing pensions, Chenetha Bima and other schemes after seeing the tremendous response to his padayatra. Replying to another question, Sanjay said the conditions in state government schools were hopeless.

"There is no money even to buy chalk or chocolates for distribution to students during Independence Day celebrations," he said.

BJP takes exception to KTR taking moral high ground

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

State BJP unit official spokesperson J Sangappa on Sunday took exception to Minister for Industries K T Rama Rao taking moral high ground.

In a statement here, Sangappa claimed that KTR was criticising Prime Minister Narendra Modi to divert the people's attention from the failures of the State government. He felt that KTR was feeling threatened by the huge response to the third phase of Praja Sangrama Yatra launched by State BJP unit president Bandi Sanjay Kumar.

The BJP spokesperson sought to play down the significance of the reports of the Prime Minister criticising the State government for offering 'freebies'. He denied that the Prime Minister had at all objected to the governments or political parties offering 'freebies'.

The BJP State unit president, during his first phase of Yatra, promised to provide free education and health care. The TRS leaders could have felt threatened that the people would turn against them. The promise made by the BJP could shake the foundations of the TRS in the next elections, he felt.

He accused KTR of distorting the Prime Minister's statement to derive political mileage. The Prime Minister announced the government's resolve to build 20 crore houses for the poor. The Centre has been implementing several welfare schemes for the poor, he claimed.

Cong files complaint against Srinivas Goud with DGP, NHRC

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

AICC member Bakka Judson has filed a complaint with the Director General of Police (DGP) and the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) alleging that Tourism Minister V. Srinivas Goud had flouted rules by firing a police gun in the air during a crowded event at the freedom rally in Mahbubnagar on Saturday.

He said in his complaint that firing a police gun is illegal and that the police officer who allowed it is also liable for punishment along with the Minister.

Judson told the DGP that TRS leaders should not get away after breaking rules and endangering the public. It is shameful on the part of the Minister to say that "he had fired only a rubber bullet. I am a member of the Rifle Association. The SP gave the gun to me." Judson asked the DGP to prosecute the SP also regarding the issue.

PM may announce 'Heal in India', 'Heal by India' projects on I-Day

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is likely to announce a host of initiatives for the health sector on Independence Day with the highlights being the 'Heal in India' and 'Heal by India' projects and a roadmap to eliminate sickle cell disease by 2047, official sources said.

Inclusion of the Quadrivalent Human Papillomavirus vaccine (qHPV) against cervical cancer in the National Immunisation Programme and the expansion of the National Health Mission under a new name 'PM Samagra Swasthya Mission' may also figure in Modi's speech from the Red Fort on Monday, they said.

Under the 'Heal in India' initiative that aims at positioning the country as a global hub for medical and wellness tourism, medical infrastructure at 37 hospitals in 12 states will be ramped up to boost medical tourism, the sources said.

Interpreters and special desks at 10 identified airports, a multilingual portal and simplified visa norms for international patients and their companions are also among the highlights of the initiative. Official sources told PTI that the government has identified 44 countries, predominantly African, Latin American, SAARC and Gulf nations, from where a large number of people visit India for medical purposes. The cost and quality of treatment in these nations were also taken into account, they said. Under the 'Heal by India' initiative, which aims to project the country as a global source of trained and competent manpower in the health sector, the Health Ministry is developing an online repository of health-care professionals, including doctors, nurses and pharmacists, which will also have a provision to mention which nation they wish to render their services.

Through the portal, external stakeholders such as patients and recruiters from India or abroad will be able to search for a required professional based on the speciality or system of medicine, languages known and the country they prefer to work in, an official had told PTI. About the prime minister's expected announcement of expanding the National Health Mission for developing tertiary care capacities at district-level hospitals, an official source said that five per cent of the resources allocated for every state will be earmarked for tertiary care. Along with the expansion, the National Health Mission is expected to be rechristened PM Samagra Swasthya Mission, the source told PTI.

This overhauled mission will provide an integrated platform for the convergence of the four pillars of Ayushman Bharat PM Jan Arogya Yojana, Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission, and PM Ayushman Bharat Health Infrastructure Mission.

Elaborating on the strategic roadmap drawn up by the Union Health Ministry in collaboration with the Tribal Affairs Ministry to eliminate sickle cell disease by 2047 when India will be celebrating the 100th anniversary of Independence, an official said a roadmap has been prepared to screen around 7 crore people under the age of 40 years in 200 districts of 17 states in three years to eliminate the disease in the next 25 years.

As for the Quadrivalent Human Papillomavirus vaccine (qHPV), it has been indigenously developed by Serum Institute of India. At present, India is fully dependent on foreign manufacturers for the vaccine.

World looks towards India for managing diversity: RSS chief

PNS ■ MUMBAI

Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) chief Mohan Bhagwat on Sunday said the whole world looks towards India for managing diversity.

Speaking at a function on 'Bharat@2047: My Vision My Action' in Nagpur city of Maharashtra, Bhagwat also said an 'Akhand Bharat' will happen when people stop being scared.

"The world points at India when it comes to managing diversity efficiently. The world is full of contradictions but managing dualities will only come from India, he said.

Bhagwat said there have been many historical events which were never told to us nor taught in a proper way.

For instance, the place where Sanskrit grammar was born is not in India. Did we ever ask a question why? he said. "It is chiefly because we first forgot our own wisdom and knowledge and later the land was conquered by foreign invaders who mainly came from north west region," he said. We unnecessarily gave importance to caste and other similar structures," Bhagwat said. The systems which were formed for work were used to create differences between people and communities, he said. We do have small differences in language, dress, cultures, but we need to have a mind that will see the big picture and not get stuck into these things, the RSS chief said.

"If we want Bharat to become big, we should understand that all languages in the country are national languages, people from various castes are mine, we need to have such affection, he said.

He said "why should we be afraid when we talk about Akhand Bharat."

People wonder when will it happen. "It will happen when we stop being scared. What was there will happen again. But we will need to become that Bharat and dream about that Bharat," he said. Bhagwat also emphasised on knowing what is Bharat. He said Bharat gives the entire world the mantra of unity and non-violence. At the same time, Bharat can forgive and punish also. The RSS chief further said that in the modern world, Germany became powerful and Hitler was born. When America became powerful, Hiroshima and Nagasaki (atomic bombings) happened.

"Now when China is getting a little powerful, we can see what is happening across the world. But when India is powerful, it uses its powers to save the world. India is the worshipper of non-violence and not a worshipper of weakness," he said. Speaking on the importance of the country's Constitution and citizen discipline, he said there is a system and a Constitution made by representatives selected by people. "The Constitution should be followed properly. The Constitution is so generous there is already a system in it for amendments. We all should faithfully obey the Constitution and laws which have been made," he said.

India well-equipped to handle challenges: Minister

PNS ■ CHENNAI

Union Minister Sarbananda Sonowal on Sunday asserted that India is well equipped to handle any kind of challenges that may arise in the wake of Sri Lanka allowing a high-tech Chinese 'research' ship to dock in its waters.

His statement comes a day after the island nation said that it has allowed a Chinese military ship to anchor at the Hambantota port from August 16 till 22 for "replenishment purposes," amidst India's concerns over the presence of the vessel in the neighbourhood. "We are well equipped and well prepared to handle any kind of situation effectively under the dynamic leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. That is clear," Sonowal said. The Minister of Ports, Shipping and Waterways was responding to a question from reporters here.

To another query regarding Indian cargo ships depending on Colombo port, which acts as a transshipment hub in the Eastern coast, he said, "The Ministry is very much committed to developing a transshipment hub on the Indian coasts. We have declared it earlier also."

Chennai Port Trust Chairman Sunil Paliwal intervened to say, India already responded strongly on the issue relating to the Chinese ship and cautioned that "security situation of a country should not be discussed like this."

On the development of infrastructure at Ports across the country, the Union

Minister said, "We have already started to develop our infrastructure in Paradip, Vishakapatnam and also in Chennai Port. We are also planning to develop infrastructure in Tuticorin port..."

Sonowal said his Ministry has planned to set up a new fishing harbour in Paradip Port, Vishakapatnam and also Chennai Port 'within a short span of time'.

"We have already sanctioned Rs 99 crore to Chennai (Port Trust) for the fishing harbour", he said.

Looking for issue-based solution' to Naga problem: NSCN-IM

PNS ■ KOHIMA

The NSCN-IM on Sunday claimed that negotiation (with the Government of India) is meaningless if it cannot deliver a solution to the Naga political problem.

NSCN-IM general secretary Th Muivah said Nagas are looking for an issue-based solution and not imposition of the Centre's will. A framework agreement was signed between the Centre and the Nationalist Socialist rounds of negotiations since a ceasefire pact was sealed in 1997 to solve the decades-old problem. The final solution is still elusive as NSCN-IM has been persistent in its demand for a separate flag and constitution for the Naga people. Nagas are looking for peace, but peace without freedom is wishful thinking, Muivah said. Indeed, we are for agreement, but it would be a form without content if it cannot bring a solution, he said. He was speaking at an event in Hebron on the outskirts of Dimapur.

Council of Nagalim (Isak-Muivah) in 2015 after over 80

In addition to Home and Finance and Planning, Fadnavis will also handle Law and Judiciary, Water Resources, Housing, Energy and Protocol portfolios. ## AZADI KA AMRIT MAHOTSAV

ITBP to scale 75 peaks, undertake 75-day patrol

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Personnel of the Indo-Tibetan Border Police (ITBP) will scale 75 peaks on Independence Day and complete a 75-day-long 'relay long range patrol' along the LAC with China to mark the 'Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav' celebrations, a senior officer said Sunday.

The mountain expedition named 'Amritarohan' will take place at various locations along the eastern front on August 15, ITBP spokesperson Vivek Kumar Pandey told PTI.

The peaks to be climbed are located in the vicinity of 75 ITBP border posts spread along the India-China Line of Actual Control (LAC), he said. Out of these, 33 peaks are located in Ladakh, 16 in Uttarakhand, 11 in Sikkim, 10 in Himachal Pradesh and five in Arunachal Pradesh, Pandey said. "Himveers of the force will climb these 75 different peaks on August 15, 2022, and create a unique record of hoisting the Indian flag simultaneously," he said. The tallest peak among these is at a height of 18,750 feet and is located in Sikkim. Simultaneously, the border force has also started a 75-day long 'relay range patrol (LRP)' by its troops along the 3,488 km of the LAC. "The relay LRP started from Karakoram Pass in Ladakh on August 1 and will terminate at Jachep La in Arunachal Pradesh on October 14 after completing a 75-day journey, covering a distance of about 7,575 km across the borders," Pandey said.

The about 90,000 personnel-strong ITBP was raised in the aftermath of the 1962 Chinese aggression and it is deployed for rendering a variety of internal security duties apart from guarding the LAC.

Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal on Sunday said with the initiative of installing 500 high-mast national flags across the national capital, Delhi has become the "City of Tricolours".

He was addressing thousands of students at an event to celebrate the 75th anniversary of India's independence at Thyagaraj Stadium here.

"Delhi has become the City of tricolours. We have installed 500 high-mast national flags across Delhi with the objective that people should see the national flag everywhere they go and do not forget the country," he said. He said he spotted as many as nine high-mast tricolours on his way to the venue of the event. The chief minister also asked everyone to pledge to take India to greater heights. "Indians are the most intelligent and industrious people in the world."

India survives

India has proved the doomsayers wrong; it has progressed a lot in the last 75 years, but it has to do a lot more

The Narendra Modi Government is celebrating the 75th anniversary of Independence with massive fanfare, calling it Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav. Patriotism is in the air—quite literally—as competing with the Prime Minister in the display of tiranga is Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal. Then there are intellectuals, most of them Left-liberal, who are sullenly watching the march of Modi’s nationalism which they intensely dislike. But if one objectively looks at the three quarters of a century of India as an Independent nation, one has to recognise that, despite all the failings and shortcomings, it has been a successful journey. The very fact that our nation still has the same boundaries and the same Constitution is itself a very comforting fact. When India became Independent, not many people in the world gave much of a chance to it to survive for too long as a democratic republic; and the fears and misgivings were real, not the results of conspiracy theories. It was a poor country, beset with all kinds of problems; it was even struggling to feed its teeming millions—a situation that continued for more than two decades after Independence. From the net per capita availability of food-grains ranging from 127 to 145 kg in 1946, it was 180.3 kg in 2018. Life expectancy was just 31 years, which has now crossed 70 years. The infant mortality and maternal mortality rates were very high, while education levels were very low.

Besides, there were mind-boggling diversity and divisive forces; apart from the eternal bane of caste, there were Hindu-Muslim communal tensions, militant regional/sub-nationalist movements, and other disruptive elements. But India survived in the early years, which was attributed to the towering personality of Jawaharlal Nehru, so people asked ‘who after Nehru.’ He died 58 years ago, the years in which the country faced humungous problems, from the Malthusian prospects in the 1960s to a brush with dictatorship (the Emergency, 1975-77) to militancy in Punjab and jihadist separatism in Kashmir to economic crisis in 1991. But India has not perished, neither as a nation nor as a democratic republic. This is not to say that all is well with our democracy and our republic. Our democracy has been weakened by several insidious mechanisms, the prominent among them being the anti-defection law. The republic has been undermined by all governments by way of introducing illiberal changes in the Constitution itself, beginning with the First Amendment in 1951, which curtailed the Fundamental Rights to Freedom of Expression and Property; the later eventually ceased to be a Fundamental Right, getting reduced to a legal right. Similarly, while a lot of economic development has taken place in the last 75 years, India remains a poor country; with its per capita income around $2,300, its rank in the world is 144. India has progressed a lot in the last 75 years, but it has to do a lot more.

A cowardly attack

Attack on Salman Rushdie opens up the debate on banning books in a democratic society

In a shocking incident, author Salman Rushdie was stabbed 10 times at an event in New York and was seriously injured. The attacker Hadi Matar follows Shia extremists on social media and is an admirer of Iran’s Islamic Revolutionary Guard (IRGC). He has pleaded not guilty. Rushdie’s book ‘The Satanic Verses, published in 1988 was considered by Muslim clerics as disrespectful of Islam and the Prophet Mohammad. The novel led to a fatwa, a religious decree, by Iran’s leader Ayatollah Khomeini. The threat forced him into hiding for several years. The author is likely to survive but may lose one eye. He was stabbed 10 times at Chautauqua Institution, where Rushdie was about to speak at the event. The suspect rushed onstage and stabbed him before being wrestled to the ground by staff and other people in the audience. Many world leaders condemned the attack and called it vicious and cowardly.

Back home, the Congress is drawing flak for banning the book. Rajiv Gandhi-led Congress Government was quick to ban the book on the pretext of disturbing law and order. Indeed banning a book or for that matter any work of art is tantamount to negating the very premise of democracy, to give everyone space to speak and express himself without any fear. However, certain reasonable restrictions apply. For instance, no sane society would allow books promoting child pornography or violent actions or drug abuse. Being blasphemous is a little different. It is debatable and should be debated within the boundaries of blasphemy. Satanic Verses is not the only book banned in free India. ‘Rama Retold’ or ‘Ramayana’, a spoof of the Ramayana by Aubrey Menen, was banned in 1955. ‘The land of Lingam’ 1937 Arthur Miles is still banned for being critical of Hinduism and phallic worship. ‘Rangila Rasul’, 1924, which dealt with Prophet Mohammad’s relationships is banned to date. ‘The Jewel in the Lotus’, 1968 by Allen Edwardes for being oriental erotica The list is long; it even includes ‘The Da Vinci Code’, banned in Nagaland for its uncharitable comments on Jesus, and ‘An Area of Darkness’ by Nobel prize winner VS Naipaul, and even classic DH Lawrence’s ‘Lady Chatterley’s Lovers’. The books are frozen thoughts and when they melt in the reader’s mind, they trigger a thought process. Needless to say, it depends upon the maturity of the individual or society if it can handle it. We can judge for ourselves how mature we are. We cannot be selective in banning books. Let there be a debate about it.

Saving India from unruly neighbours

India has two not-so-friendly neighbours in China and Pakistan; though India has moved on, they haven’t Pakistani rulers suffer from several obsessions; the Olympic torch passing through Srinagar before eventually reaching Chennai is one of many. How unfortunate that so many of their aspiring chess players were denied the opportunity to play on this world platform at the recent Olympiad at Chennai. This was a fleeting whim but now to trade with India is a chronic denial of so many needed items. Why? Presumably to teach India a lesson. Just because India and Pakistan were born simultaneously, in August 1947, Islamabad has taken it for granted that the two countries are comparable if not equal. How presumptuous to believe that a country and its rulers are, more or less, equal to a neighbour seven times larger. What is more remarkable is that India, at least until 2014 when the BJP came to power, also played along with the Pakistani mania of comparability, if not equality. Irritated by this mania, an Indian writer wrote that when a lion treats a rat as an equal, what else do you expect the world to feel? Perhaps take the lion to be a cat! The damage done to India’s image over the years was far greater.

An expert on Strategy: Edward Luttwak years ago innovated the concept of ‘Armed Suatation’ which, if pursued, would make one’s country appear stronger than it was. His favourite example was pre-World War II Italy which was then widely believed to be the most powerful air power in Europe. Foreign affairs become easier to conduct with Armed Suatation than without it. The most recent example was that of China which appeared too powerful to be challenged in Taiwan. But when Nancy Pelosi, the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives decided to visit Taipei, against Chinese wishes, and did visit, the Chinese government could not do anything to prevent her. But until her airplane landed in Taipei, she attended the required official functions in the city and flew out, there was tension. India, as brought up by the Nehru government, was the opposite. India and Pakistan were bracketed together.

When war came, as in 1947, 1965, and 1999 with Pakistan, the question on most lips was: who would win? Why should there have been any questions? For a Pakistan chess team to indicate to the world in Chennai that Islamabad does not still accept that Kashmir is an integral part of India is a show of defiance. It is the result of 74 years of inaction or weak action. To offer only one blunder of inaction as an example was the Simla Conference of 1972 between Indira Gandhi and Zulfikar Bhutto following the 1971 war. It was settled between the two leaders that the Line Control, that divides Kashmir and its part that Pakistan had gobbled up in 1947/48, would be the international border. There was to be no dispute in Kashmir left after India returned the 93,000 prisoners of war taken in Bangladesh the previous year.

“THE LOGIC OF THIS SITUATION WAS TO THINK. ANY ENEMY WHO WISHES TO CONQUER AND KEEP TERRITORY WOULD NORMALLY LAUNCH HIS ATTACK IN SPRING AND NOT AUTUMN

We promptly returned the prisoners but let the LOC be until Bhutto could consolidate his position in his country. He had become prime minister only after the 1971 war ended. If this is how we run foreign affairs, instead of Armed Suatation, India would be known for its Disarmed Suatation and be pushed about by any of its neighbours and adversaries; not to say that the current government in Delhi is pursuing such a weak-kneed policy. To this day not a single POW has remained in India. The LOC is as it was.

How our government mishandled the China policy from the beginning until 1962 is well known but there was a way out even after all the mishandling. Our officers knew in the first few days that the Indian forces had not been prepared or equipped to be able to cope with either the enemy or the terrain or the cold weather. Moreover, any additional troops that the Army could send up to the mountains were going to be wearing their flimsy woolen pullovers, thin socks, and no gloves and many of the soldiers had no better than canvas shoes. How on earth could such ill-equipped troops fight?

The logic of this situation was to think. Any enemy who wishes to conquer and keep territory would normally launch his attack in spring and not autumn. The Chinese invasion commenced on the 20th of October 1962. The opportunity for India was to withdraw to the plains of Assam where the terrain, the weather, and the clothes would be congenial. The Chinese would have had to occupy the Arunachal or NEFA then hillside through the bitter cold. Meanwhile, our Army would have gained time and got more ready and capable for a spring battle in conditions more of our choosing. But we did not do any of this and were slaughtered flat-footed or were caught frostbitten.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HAPPY INDEPENDENCE DAY

Sir — What an excellent way to start the 75th platinum jubilee independence year (from 15th August 2022 onwards). Around 1 crore students in Rajasthan set a world record by singing patriotic songs (in the presence of world records officials from London, England) by singing songs such as ‘Sare jahan se accha...’, ‘Vande maataram...’, national anthem ‘Jana gana mana...’ for 25 minutes, (at Sawai Mansingh stadium in Rajasthan).

This must be declared the 1st wonder of this excellent world. Because of harmony, inspirational acts, and good words of peace and unity. However, this should be followed by good deeds and good implementation. Congratulations to all the 1 crore participants and the entire India too. Let every nation emulate other nations only in good things. Not just words, but speedy implementation too.

IMPACT OF FREEBIES ON THE ECONOMY

Sir — The Supreme Court made it clear that political parties cannot be banned on the pretext that they distribute freebies. Though it maintained that it is a financial strain on the country’s economy.

The BJP and our PM are now talking about Freebies and now say that the freebies are akin to ‘revdi culture’. They have forgotten that BJP has promised 15 lakhs to give freely to every person and afterward they said that it is an election jumbala. The party which tried to fool the public with promises which were not fulfilled is now talking against the freebies. What about BJP boasting that it is giving free ration to 80crores people with their fund, is it not freebies?

The freebies situation has now escalated into a full-fledged political crisis. According to AAP MP Sanjay Singh, the central Government committed bank frauds of around 12,40,000 crores and waived off loans of Rs crores of rupees to corporate friends. He further said that if the government would not waive off

THE BIG BULL IS NO MORE

The demise of an ace stock market investor Rakesh Jhunjhunwala often referred to as India’s Warren Buffett is a huge loss to the Indian financial markets. He began investing with Rs 5,000 in 1985 when the Bombay Stock Exchange’s benchmark index Sensex was at 150; it now trades at over 59,000. How the son of a civil servant came to the market in 1985 with almost nothing and turned it into a fortune, while he made a killing by investing in Titan. Going forward, it is the authenticity of his success story that makes it so powerful. Investors lapped up every word he said on markets and the economy. Company management regularly pitched to him in the hope that he invests with them. They know only too well the value of having him as an investor.

While investor appetite has waxed and waned over the years, the Big Bull has always been an incorrigible India optimist. Over the years, he’s been out there talking about what makes him so bullish—the skillset of its population and its favourable demographics being the two main reasons - more than any time in the past, he believes India’s time has come. While he had plans to give away a large portion of his wealth to charity, the country, too, has lost a wealth creator.

loans to corporate persons then there would have been no necessity in increasing the GST on essential commodities. Is waiving loans of corporates, not a freebie and Revdi culture?

We have to make a distinction. If offering free education, free healthcare, or free power is a freebie?

These political parties should seek the trust of voters only on those promises which are possible to be fulfilled. The Supreme court’s stand on this issue is thus laudable.

A SALUTE TO MARTYRS

Sir — At his funeral, the pathetic sight of his inconsolable mother and the relatives of our soldier Lakshman killed by the terrorists must have moved the hearts of even strong-willed persons.

It is unfortunate that invariably every day we are losing our valiant soldiers in our army camps in Jammu and Kashmir to terrorist attacks. If we count the number of precious lives of our army men lost right from the Pulwama massacre to date, the figure will be nothing but alarming.

While abrogating Article 370 to do away with the special status given to Jammu and Kashmir and dividing Jammu and Kashmir into three states, the ruling dispensation assured that this move would bring the curtain down on any more terrorist attacks. Alas! The subsequent terrorist attacks that are frequent now and the death of our soldiers regularly have disproved this assurance given by the Government. The government might have taken such a move with good intentions but the results appear unproductive.

One wonders how the government is going to stall the gruesome death of our poor soldiers at the hands of the terrorists. It is time some serious action is initiated by the government to stall the sacrifice of our soldiers at the altar of those hard-core terrorists.

METHOD OF WORK IS KEY TO ORGANISATIONS

Internal leadership shapes judgement and processes

VINAYSHIL GAUTAM

Any institution needs a framework of reference to grow. Institutions have their own typologies, like anything else. Institutional typologies can be classified according to their size—large, medium, and small. They can be institutional types by their form of ownership.

They can be proprietary, partnerships, or limited to certain types of people. They can be constituted by people who have invested money in them, and the list can go on.

Besides the types of categories listed in the preceding paragraphs, there can be other types of institutions. The purpose of this text is not to focus on the types of institutions that exist or can exist. The purpose is to highlight how the institutions work. Conventionally this role is performed by a statutory body or a federating body, which decides the method of work. A statutory body determining how institutions work would have a legal status duly enshrined by the process of approval of the statutory body itself, in a legislative system. This legislative system can be an Assembly or a Parliament. Somewhere, a legal framework would come in. The important thing is to understand how it would all work. It is a method of work which will ultimately decide the probity, or indeed, the effectiveness, of the system.

There is a moral dimension also, because in the ultimate analysis, unless it is a private single proprietary ownership, every contributing stream of people who provide money and resources to the organization has a right to know how the institution they have provided money to, is functioning. There is a need to think about corrective measures. There is also a need to ensure that a basic commonsensical fair play is at the root of the institution. It is the system of monitoring which is at the core of organizational and institutional effectiveness. It is here where empirical data on orderly and deviant institutions becomes necessary. So far, it has been the responsibility of the consensus of the social segment where this institution is embedded to determine this. Thus, it is that the general public opinion becomes determinant of ultimate efficacy of the functioning of the institutions. In this the media plays an important role, because it has the responsibility of spreading facts and contributing to a healthy and fair opinion system. Internal leadership of the institution plays a crucial role, because between a flagrant violation of institutional probity and a very rigid form of framework of the institution lies the space for judgment and processes. When it comes to process, there are several indicators of assessing how well or not so well the institution is working. These process issues can be listed, enumerated, and explained. There can be several of them, including size of the institutional bodies, the focus of their sub-objective within the overall objective; how the central figure in that unit is identified, and the list can go on. For purposes of illustration, one could just focus on defining the objectives of the sub-body or indeed, the number of times it meets.

To begin at the top, just the number of times the board of an organization meets is a good example. In streams of organization, say, in education where the statutory systems are not equally rigorously articulated aberration can take place. There have been cases of several educational institutions where the Governing Body neither meets regularly nor for a given span of time. There have been examples in national chains where a newly set up institution in that chain did not meet for as much as nine months. It did not bother anyone particularly. To put it more simply, for the healthy running of institutions, there is a need to establish, observable, actionable, and cognizable method of work.

India@75: Unshackle political bondages

Indian democracy must become attractive to skilled people such as those who have domain expertise

SUMET BHASIN

Last month, the YSR Congress elected Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Jagan Mohan Reddy as its chief for lifetime. In China, Xi Jinping has such credentials. India is a democracy. China is a one party nation and a totalitarian state. What kind of democracy the YSR Congress fosters is not just the business of Jagan Mohan Reddy, but also of those who have stakes in the Indian democracy.

The president of the Rashtriya Janata Dal has invariably been from within the Lalu Prasad Yadav family. Same is the case with the Samajwadi Party. Similar is the story of the Shiromani Akali Dal, the Shiv Sena, the Telangana Rashtra Samithi, and some others. On a closer look, the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam also fits in the same slot. Even the Congress presents no different story in the last few decades.

The Representation of the People's Act has failed to stop some political parties becoming family-owned enterprises. India abolished the practice of Zamindari in 1951. Yet, their political avatars have mushroomed in many states, carving out territories by cashing in on identity politics, to imprison democracy to a few families.

At a time when India celebrates 75 years of Independence, while the world applauds the depth and diversity of democracy, lawmakers must introspect that under their watch the political zamindari has taken a large space, which should have otherwise been with the genuine leaders, who would have come from the political grinding to command leadership of a large base of the population.

That makes it incumbent for radical reforms to be carried out immediately by holding discussions with stakeholders in a time-bound manner to blank out any prospect of any family usurping a political party.

To put this to effect, the RPA Act can be suitably amended to prohibit a person from holding more than two terms of the post of the president of a political party. It should also be ensured that when that person leaves the post, it cannot be held by anyone who has family relations with him for not less than 10 years.

There is no denying the fact that politics in the country has become more caste-centric. This calls for a review of the reserved seats for the Lok Sabha, State Assemblies, Zila Panchayat and Local Bodies. Why should only a scheduled caste or tribe politician represent a reserved seat, and what stops a general category politician from working for such constituencies who have been disadvantaged for decades.

The Directive Principle of the Constitution and the teachings of Mahatma Gandhi call for social amity, and politics is the foremost means of achieving such aims. The aims for Samajik Samrasta (social inclusiveness) make it incumbent to shuffle reserved seats without attaching them to demographic profile, while also not impacting on the number of such seats. This will bring true inclusiveness. This will make the candidates from the reserved constituencies win from the general seats, which will boost their political profiles, and also make them take up more meaningful roles in the socio-economic progress of the nation than just being stereotyped as an SC or ST leader.

The reforms should also aim for provisions which will ensure that there is a larger participation of the political workers from the disadvantaged sections of the society in the Indian democracy to genuinely address aspirations of all the sections.

The Election Commission can be mandated to shuffle the reserved seats in each election so that there is a larger pool of leaders available to serve the nation in the true spirit of social democracy.

In this context, reforms should also take a closer look at the participation of women, scheduled caste and tribe leaders in all wings of democracy, and statutorily ensure that anomalies are addressed.

More than 90 per cent of the political workers are not known to have any means of livelihood. Still, they aren't seen begging anywhere, and rather they move around in sports vehicles. This is the story from Gram Panchayat to State capitals and the national capital. People don't pay much attention to their means of income, taking for granted that they must be hailing from well-off family backgrounds.

This brings to the attention the backgrounds of the likes of Akhi-lesh Yadav or Aditya Thackeray, for there's no public records to show their sources of incomes to justify their lavish lifestyles. They are prominent names of Indian politics, but there would be millions of political workers who never had enough education to find jobs and so they found it convenient to join politics.

This is indeed India's paradox that we aspire for the country to be free from corruption but the life and breath of democracy are ensured by an army of workers who have no known sources of incomes. They may engage in ways which may not be appropriate for their livelihoods, while also incurring necessary expenditure on behalf of their political parties.

This again calls for deep reforms in electoral politics, and we should not be apologetic to admit that we need to pay a respectable salary to a political worker who is working full time. This salary has to be paid by political parties, but they have to be bound under the suitable law, which should be auditable by a government agency, with the oversight to be vested with the Election Commission. That will be the serious attempt to get rid of political corruption, as it will also pave the way for a close monitoring of the assets of the political leaders.

Additionally, the Election Commission must breathe fresh air and admit that there is no rationality in the expenditure ceilings in the Lok Sabha and the Assembly elections, and also on the grounds of the geography, as well as the size of the constituencies. There must be rationalization of expenditure ceilings, for this again is a ground for massive electoral corruption, as dummy candidates are put up to cover additional expenses of candidates, besides also being the reasons for more vices in the election system in the country.

In the 1990s, the political leaders brainstormed about India of the 21st century. We have been two decades old in the 21st century and our electoral democracy remains rugged and outdated, not rising to the challenges of the new era, where the people are educated, besides being aspirational, along with India aiming to take a prominent position on the high table in the international arena.

Until we shake off the dust that the electoral democracy has gathered over several decades, no genuine gains can go to the deserving people. India at 75 must ensure that anyone with fire in his or her belly to serve the nation can join politics without worrying for his or her livelihood and progress in politics.

Indian democracy must become attractive to skilled people such as those who have domain expertise of law, international relations, economy, social science, arts, informational and technology and so on. India at 75 must also be of skilled and honest politicians, and zero tolerance for the new-age zamindars.

Indian pharmaceutical industry poised to take off

Ever since the economic reforms of 1991, the domestic pharma industry has grown by leaps and bounds

The 75th Independence Day holds a lot of significance for the pharmaceutical industry in India. Over the past few decades since India's Independence, the industry has witnessed immense growth and emerged as one of the leading providers of drugs/medicines to countries worldwide.

From being non-existent in the 1970s to supplying crucial drugs to more than 200 countries in the fight against the pandemic, the Indian pharmaceutical industry has shown its prowess in its commitment to better health of people across the globe. With the government's strong push towards an 'Atmanirbhar Bharat', several initiatives both at the business and policy levels have been implemented to propel the pharmaceutical industry towards further heights.

NIKKHIL K MASURKAR

Presently, the Indian pharmaceutical industry caters to more than 60 per cent of the global demand for different vaccines as well as ARV drug supplies, 30 per cent of UNICEF's annual supply worldwide and almost 60-80 per cent of UN purchases of medicines come from India.

Additionally, India also contributes nearly 57 per cent of APIs and 69 per cent of FPP (Finished Pharma Products) to the WHO's Pre-Qualified list. Furthermore, about 40 per cent of generics drug requirements in the US are met by India. All this is possible due to various initiatives that were taken to boost the domestic pharmaceutical industry. Here's a look at the significant ones that aided in the strong growth of the industry:

The Patent Act, 1970

This was the first patent act introduced after India became independent. It made the way for process patents and restricted patenting of end-products, which enabled manufacturers to develop alternative processes for proprietary products that were already there in the market.

The Drug Policy, 1978

The introduction of this policy along with the Price Control Order of 1979 turned out to be landmark events for the pharmaceutical industry in India. It not only enabled the setting up of a National Drug Authority but also provided a 'directional push' to the sector. The policy aimed at increasing the local production of bulk drugs, providing leadership to the PSUs, reducing imports of bulk drugs, encouraging the growth of the local industry and reducing the selling prices of important drugs along with their formulations.

Hatch-Waxman Act 1984

Even though this Act was passed in the US, it helped in the proliferation of generic drugs and assisted a lot in the growth of the Indian generic industry. The Act established the economic and legal foundation for the present-day generic pharmaceutical industry.

The 1991 economic reforms

The Indian government in 1991 launched some major economic reforms and entered the world of globalisation. The economic reforms helped in market liberalisation, linking the Indian pharmaceutical industry with the world economy. It also ensured the end of the 'License-Raj', which allowed the pharma industry to enjoy more freedom in the market. This created more leverage for domestic players and allowed market competition to produce better products. By liberalising the economy, the government increased business opportunities in the country. As a result, a number of entrepreneurs seized the opportunities and grew their pharma business from a small firm to a big company. Ever since the inception of these reforms, the domestic pharma industry has grown by leaps and bounds and currently exports medicines and drugs worth $19 billion throughout the world.

Recently, the Cabinet also approved two schemes, namely the Production Linked Incentive (PLI) scheme and the scheme on Promotion of Bulk Drug Parks, to promote domestic manufacturing of critical key starting materials/drug intermediates and APIs (Active Pharmaceutical Ingredients) in India.

The government has plans to develop three mega bulk drug parks in India in partnership with states. A sum of Rs 3,000 crore has been approved for this scheme for the next five years. Under the PLI scheme, financial incentives will be provided to eligible producers of identified 53 critical bulk drugs on their incremental sales over the base year (2019-20) for a period of six years.

The scheme will reduce the country's import dependence for critical KSMs/Drug Intermediates and APIs.

Conclusion

In the recent past, digitisation has also emerged as a key driver for the pharmaceutical industry, helping to deliver top-quality and hyper-personalized customer experiences and also improving business resilience and performance. Without any doubt, digitisation will play an active role in driving agility across the pharmaceutical value chain by bringing the sector closer to patients and doctors.

Most importantly, the pharma industry must work towards further innovation, by manufacturing effective new medicines/ drugs for emerging and unmet healthcare needs. Steps like these will enable the industry to transform into an innovation hub for the future.

Finmin plans to review exemption-free tax regime

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The finance ministry is proposing to soon review the exemption-free new tax regime with a view to making it more attractive for individual income taxpayers, sources said.

Eventually, sources said, the government aims to establish a system where there are no exemptions and the complex old tax regime with exemptions and deductions is terminated.

The Union Budget 2020-21 introduced a new tax regime. Taxpayers were given the option to choose between the old regime with various deductions and exemptions and the new tax regime that offered lower tax rates without exemptions and deductions.

The intention behind the move was to provide significant relief to the individual taxpayers and to simplify the income-tax law.

Asked about the experience of the new tax regime, sources said, there are clear signs that people who have finished their home and education loans are willing to shift to the new tax regime as they have no exemptions to claim.

Sources further said that lowering of taxes in the new regime would make the new tax regime more attractive.

A similar tax regime for corporate taxpayers was introduced in September 2019 by significantly lowering rates and removing exemptions.

The government had announced a cut in base corporate tax for then existing companies to 22 per cent from 30 per cent; and for new manufacturing firms, incorporated after October 1, 2019, and starting operations before

March 31, 2024, to 15 per cent from 25 per cent. Companies opting for these new tax rates will have to forego all exemptions and incentives.

Under the new tax regime for individual taxpayers announced on February 1, 2020, people with an annual income of up to Rs 2.5 lakh do not pay any tax.

For income between Rs 2.5 lakh to 5 lakh, the tax rate is 5 per cent.

Inflationary impact on FMCG price & margin to continue

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Inflationary pressure on some raw material inputs for the FMCG industry is abating but the manufacturers expect its impact on price and margins to continue in the current quarter.

In the April-June quarter, listed FMCG companies including - HUL, ITC, Godrej Consumer Product, Nestle, Dabur and Britannia delivered mixed results, reporting impact on their margins and mostly, a drop in volume in some categories.

FMCG companies also expect volume decline to continue in the rural side but see some stabilisation in the business and recovery in demand, starting from the third quarter of FY23.

Companies such as Britannia Industries said that it has taken necessary price increases in Q1 which were really not covering inflation at this point in time but a good part of this will be covered by the July-September quarter.

"We were not able to take the entire price increase during this quarter. We have taken some price increases in the first quarter and we will complete that in Q2 of this year, said Britannia Industries Managing Director Varun Berry during recent earning while responding to a query on near-term price increase.

In April-June, Britannia reported a 13.24 per cent decline in consolidated net profit to Rs 335.74 crore while its sales were up 8.74 per cent to Rs 3,700.96 crore.

When asked about the inflationary scenario, Dabur India CEO Mohit Malhotra in his post-result analyst call said inflation would not abate in the second quarter.

LIC keen to re-enter mediclaim segment, says Chairman

PNS ■ MUMBAI

Insurance behemoth Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) is keen to re-enter the mediclaim segment as and when the regulator provides clarity on the issue, its chairman has said.

"We are already doing a lot of long-term health protection and guaranteed health products. And we are evaluating the suggestion that the regulator Irdai made recently," LIC Chairman M R Kumar told PTI when asked about the same during its earnings call over the weekend.

The chairman further said, "I don't think it will be difficult for us as we already offer some of the health products."

Mediclaim policies, which are indemnity-based health plans, are the best-selling health insurance products in the country. However, in 2016, the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) had asked life insurers to withdraw indemnity-based health plans from the market. Life insurers since then have been allowed to offer only fixed benefit health plans. Under indemnity-based health insurance plans, the insurer provides reimbursement for the money spent on medical treatment up to the sum insured. For fixed benefit health insurance plans, a fixed amount is paid out of the sum insured for pre-determined illnesses or medical conditions.

Recently, the new Irdai Chairman Debasish Panda had said it was time life insurers re-entered the health vertical as he had given a mandate to the industry to ensure that every citizen has a health insurance policy by 2030. However, Panda later clarified that the regulator was only evaluating the pros and cons of allowing life insurers to sell health insurance policies and that no decision has been taken yet.

Indian toy manufacturers eye global markets

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Government policies such as increasing customs duties on imported toys and mandating BIS certification requirement for imports not only boosted domestic manufacturing but also helped the industry to explore global markets and enhance exports.

The demand for toys based on Indian mythological characters, desi movie characters and superheroes such as Chota Bheem are on the rise as the domestic players break away from the dominance of China and some other countries, according to industry experts.

Now the 'made-in-India' toys have a very clear edge in the domestic markets and the manufacturers are scaling up their production capacity to meet the growing local as well as international demand.

The import of toys into India has declined sharply from USD 304 million in 2018-19 to USD 36 million in 2021-22, said a data from the Ministry of Commerce & Industry.

On the other hand, exports have increased from USD 109 million in 2018-19 to USD 177 million in 2021-22, it added.

According to the industry, the sector is also going global, as manufacturers are scouting new markets and increasing exports to the Middle East and African countries.

The Indian toy industry is growing as the government has mandated the domestic players to have BIS (Bureau of Indian Standards) certification for import and also increased customs duty, said Toy Association Of India president Ajay Agarwal.

"These are the two reasons as import of toys has declined," Agarwal told PTI.

Encouraged by these supporting initiatives, the Indian manufacturers are now scaling up their production and investing to augment their capacity, he added. "Now several makers are manufacturing toys based on Indian ethos and culture. Icons like Chota Bheem are very popular and several manufacturers have the licence to manufacture them," he said, adding that more manufacturers are entering this category of toys.

According to a joint report by industry body FICCI and KPMG, the Indian toy market was estimated to be around USD 1 billion in 2019-20 and is expected to double to USD 2 billion by 2024-25.

"Three years back 80 per cent of the toys were imported and the rest 20 per cent was from the domestic manufacturers but now the situation has changed," said Aggarwal, adding, "Imports have been reduced by 60 to 70 per cent and many players are only importing components and assembling the toy in India."

Rajeev Batra, promoter of Panda International, said that the government's move to prohibit the sale of non-certified toys in the country played a "game changer" role in boosting domestic manufacturing and reducing imports from China.

Commerce Ministry proposes host of incentives to revamp Special Economic Zones

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The commerce ministry is proposing a host of direct and indirect incentives such as deferral of import duties and exemption from export taxes to revamp Special Economic Zones through a new legislation, an official said.

In the Union Budget this year, the government proposed to replace the existing law governing Special Economic Zones (SEZs) with a new legislation to enable states to become partners in 'Development of Enterprise and Service Hubs' (DESH).

The official said the commerce ministry has sought views of different ministries, including finance, on the new bill.

After collating the feedback, the ministry would seek approval of the Cabinet and then introduce the new bill in Parliament.

Bank of India sees 10-12 % growth in advances

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

State-owned Bank of India expects advances to grow by 10-12 per cent in the current fiscal year with corporate loans yet to pick-up, top official said in an analysts call. The bank's year-to-date (YTD) loan growth stood at about 5 per cent mainly driven by Retail sector advances, Agricultural and MSME loans (RAM). "Advances growth guidance will be in the range of 10 to 12 per cent for the full year. So far up to June, we had YTD growth of about 5 per cent, but that is mostly on the back of good RAM growth. Corporate is yet to pick up. We believe that from this quarter onwards, there could be some movement in the corporate book," A K Das, Managing Director & Chief Executive Officer (MD&CEO), told analysts in post Q1FY23 earnings conference call.

FPIs invest Rs 22,452 cr in Indian equities

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

After turning net buyers last month, foreign investors have become aggressive shoppers of Indian equities and have invested Rs 22,452 crore in the first two weeks of August amid softening inflation concerns.

This was way higher than a net investment of nearly Rs 5,000 crore by Foreign Portfolio Investors (FPIs) in the entire month of July, data with depositories showed.

FPIs had turned net buyers for the first time in July, after nine straight months of massive net outflows, which started in October last year.

Between October 2021 till June 2022, FPIs sold Rs 2.46 lakh crore in the India equity markets.

Going forward, foreign fund inflow is expected to improve in the emerging markets on account of fading concerns of rising inflation and tightening of monetary policy by central banks, Shrikant Chouhan, Head - Equity Research (Retail), Kotak Securities, said.

According to official figures, India's retail inflation softened to 6.71 per cent in July due to moderation in food prices but remained above the Reserve Bank's comfort level of 6 per cent for the seventh consecutive month.

US inflation slowed down from a 40-year high in June to 8.5 per cent in July on lower gasoline prices, indicating that the US Fed might be less aggressive in hiking interest rates.

"As long as energy prices remain low and there are no surprises from the war zone, foreign flow is likely to continue," Vijay Singhania, chairman at TradeSmart, said.

Brent crude futures, the global oil benchmark, is hovering around USD 98 per barrel.

According to data with depositories, FPIs infused a net amount of Rs 22,452 crore in Indian equities during August 1-12.

The sentiments in the equity market have turned bullish due to sustained buying by FPIs. "Depreciation in dollar (dollar index declined from above 109 during late July to around 105.26 on August 12th) is the primary driver of capital flows to emerging markets," VK Vijayakumar, Chief Investment Strategist at Geojit Financial Services, said.

Jhunjhunwala: The RARE big bull; unabashed wealth

PNS ■ MUMBAI

Stock market investments are always said to involve risks and people who made big fortunes often made headlines as scammers, leading to Dalal Street always being looked at with suspicion, but Rakesh Jhunjhunwala was broadly an exception.

Jhunjhunwala, a partner at RARE Enterprises, who rose to amass a USD 5.8 billion fortune and earn the tag of the country's biggest individual investor, leaves behind a relatively cleaner slate, as was seen in the most common description for him - 'India's own Warren Buffett'.

Unlike names like Harshad Mehta and Ketan Parekh, whose rise in fortunes in post-liberalised India was tainted with scam links, the newest 'Big Bull' in the more-regulated market had lesser baggage on this front.

Jhunjhunwala was unabashed about wealth creation and strutted his connections flamboyantly, a sign of the shift to a market-based economy in early 1990s taking root.

While he did not make big headlines for scams,

Jhunjhunwala did feature in some cases of insider trading and was also speculated to front-run on stock trades ahead of big news events. In 2021, he and others settled an insider trading case related to Aptech by agreeing to pay Rs 37 crore under the consent route, where an individual can close a pending matter without admitting or denying the charges.

A Rs 70-crore gain on an investment in Zee Enterprises in a short time, by investing in the stock days ahead of its board deciding on a merger with rival Sony Pictures Networks in 2021, had also led to chatter around his conduct.

However, it was Jhunjhunwala's long-term, research-based bets on stocks like Titan and Indian Hotels Company which made him one of the biggest names in the Indian markets.

Every move in his portfolio was tracked closely by the growing number of investors in India, who wanted an early entry into scrips which would eventually break out.

Some of the bets, especially in the infrastructure space, did not pay off for Jhunjhunwala. But the proverbial 'humbling effect' was missing, as he would often succeed in some other stock, showcasing his Midas touch. People in the know say behind the value creation was an operation of deep research carried out by him and analysts at the Nariman Point office of RARE Enterprises (which is named after the first two letters in the name of Rakesh and his wife Rekha). And when companies underperformed, Jhunjhunwala was unsparing, like the iconic character of Gordon Gekko in the movie 'Wall Street'. Managements of quite a few portfolio companies faced questions from an irate Jhunjhunwala himself on analyst calls.

In an exclusive interview with The Pioneer, Suhani Shah, who is a mentalist and a YouTuber, takes us through her journey in the content world, mentalist being a specific genre of magic and much more.

SHIKHA DUGGAL

How do witches, after all, find their place in the modern world? Do we adapt to their beliefs or wait for the magicians to release their secrets?

Whatever it is, for a girl from Ahmedabad, magic is less about secrets and more about awareness. But when she was a child, like many other mentalists around the world, Suhani Shah also baffled audiences with her incredible mental and intuitive abilities. She started from the city of Mahatma Gandhi and went onto a global stage in no time.

Though she knew that only modern audiences knew about this new branch of magic and realism, Suhani, who actually left her education at a very early stage only to pursue her passion, put us on the inter-continental map really.

When we had an entertaining chat with the mentalist, she began to share, "I was hooked on watching magical programmes on television as a kid. It was so fascinating. I was not just any other kid. It irked me to start performing those tricks and to know the revelations behind them. My father really encouraged me in that small city to do something big on my own. He took the realm of magic well too seriously for me, even as a six-year-old kid. But he propelled me that I'd not be wasting my talent performing in schools or at birthday parties; he wanted some huge gigs to happen to me. None of the locals knew about it then. People didn't usually watch movies back then either. How will they accept something like wizardry? He started on a spree to find magic trainers for me and, mid-way, it taught us the bitter truth: nobody will teach you the real magic, and neither did I possess some outwardly gift."

She further adds, "For youngsters today, YouTube is the real trick. For me back then, it took seven months of rehearsals to learn what it was from an assistant group. Another challenge that sprung up was that due to the possibility of me not being able to read or write, somebody else was reading the dialogues for me. In 1997, I performed my first ever stage show, and it brought me wide-scale publicity. There was praise coming in from the then Chief Minister too. Contracts started to pour in and there was no looking back. From Ahmedabad to Bombay to overseas, I was out there."

Suhani continues, explaining that mentalism is a specific genre of magic and it is one of the many genres that magic offers — illusions, street magic, parlour magic, and so on. She continues, "People only understand that Suhani does magic; they have no idea about what mentalism is, but it's seriously very powerful. I heard things that kids shouldn't be hearing. I didn't go to school, didn't attend college, but devoted my whole life to this profession.

Nobody noticed that earlier. They were worried about who would marry me. Neither did anyone find this to be a legitimate career. But hello, you can play a trick on hundreds of people into believing you have crazy mental abilities with the simplest of tricks and trust me, I have. Some even thought of me as 'madari', but who cares."

Nevertheless, in her opinion, it is not advisable to directly start with mentalism as it requires some level of expertise and showmanship.

"I am more into corporate shows, but people all over the world are the same. What stood out as a memory for me was when I was performing at Soho Theatre in London and there were no Indians in the audience. I was there translating my Hindi gigs into English for the Britishers, which in turn killed the gig. I became slower in my performance. What I loved was that there were foreign spectators who wanted to watch me on a ticket. It brought a wide smile to my face."

She never took it as a challenge to go into an industry dominated by men. But she hoped she had opened a new door of career choices for girls out there easily.

Moreover, she adds, "I am here to eradicate superstitions. People were making documentaries about me. I have had incidences when people walked up to me and asked me to cure their illnesses or check for robbery cases. That made me realise I needed to simultaneously educate the masses and that in turn converted me into a TEDx speaker too. This is a prevalent problem across the globe! Mentalism is the 21st century's coolest, creative, and reputation-making art to pursue, but one has to be thorough about it. Fear is the biggest business running across the country, there are self-proclaimed godmen around us. I started doing workshops and writing books on human psychology. Adding an extra 'A' in your name will not bring you success; the belief in you will. There is no red v/s black going on in this era. It's all bogus theories. And, all of this was while I didn't know how to read and write. I learned how to speak English proficiently and that's my asset."

Prediabetes: Not as Benign as Once Thought

Your pancreas produces a hormone called insulin. Insulin allows blood sugar (glucose) into your cells so your body can use it as energy. In prediabetes, your cells don't respond to insulin as they should.

Prediabetes can be diagnosed with a fasting plasma glucose test (100 to 125 mg/dL), oral glucose tolerance test (140 to 199 mg/dL), and Hemoglobin A1c test (5.7 to 6.4%). It is important to know that you could have prediabetes and still have no symptoms. However, there are several risk factors including being overweight, age being 35+, family history of type 2 diabetes, sedentary lifestyle, and history of GDM in women that could help you recognize the advent of prediabetes.

What happens in the prediabetes cycle?

- The cells become sluggish or have a low response to insulin causing insulin resistance.
- The pancreas tries to get the cells to respond by producing more insulin.
- For a while, the extra insulin makes up for the weak response. Blood sugar levels stay normal.
- Eventually, your pancreas can't keep up production. Extra glucose stays in your blood instead of entering your cells.

• Your blood sugar keeps rising. At this point, a blood test may show

• If you ignore prediabetes you are likely to develop Type 2 diabetes in the future.

Healthy choices of lifestyle can help manage the condition of prediabetes or at least keep it from rising toward the levels seen in type 2 diabetes.

If you are at risk for prediabetes, those same lifestyle changes (losing weight, regular physical activity, and a healthy eating plan) may prevent you from getting it.

TEJAL SINHA

Tum aagye ho Noor aagaya hai is one of his many songs. Anyone who has seen his incredible acting will remember him as one of the iconic stars of the Golden Age and classic Hindi cinema. He's been the 'Noor' of the Hindi film industry, even after his death. Yes, we are talking about the legendary actor Sanjeev Kumar. Not only does the film fraternity remember him, but his fans still remember him through his iconic films like Sholay, Trishul, Khilona, Manchali, and other countless films.

What more can a fan ask for than to be able to get to know more about their favourite actor? Author Reeta Ramamurthy made it possible for all the fans and also the near and dear ones of the actor.

The Pioneer connects with the author for an exclusive interview, in which she takes us through her journey, her love for writing, the idea behind the biography, and a lot more.

Reeta Ramamurthy Gupta, an author, a researcher, and a mother, says she's been someone who likes to simplify complex things and make them easily understandable, someone for whom writing and breathing are the same and deeply spiritual.

Taking us through her journey of being an author, she shares a horrific incident with us and says, "My whole family was on a road trip in December 2016, when we had a nightmarish accident. These are moments when your life flashes before your eyes. I knew it was time to start doing what I wanted to do for the rest of my life, which was to write. I had been procrastinating about when to make the switch from running a very successful PR firm to becoming a full-time writer. But after that accident, I knew it was time."

With a desire to help people fulfil their latent potential, Reeta was highly inspired to begin writing. She continues, "I have this great desire to help people fulfil their latent potential. My first book was titled Rescript Your Life. The message in the book is that being unkind to yourself is a form of violence. Part of the reason I write biographies is to tell stories of people who have re-scripted their lives, successfully."

Thanks to her, Sanjeev Kumar comes alive in a biography that tells the story of the actor and the man. She shares about how she got the idea of writing the biography, "Sanjeev Kumar's book came alive through a set of divine coincidences. My mother asked me once 'So many actors have books about them, why doesn't Sanjeev Kumar have one?' Another media professional, Hema Upadhyay, asked me the same question again. I started seeing this as a signal from the universe. Since Sanjeev Kumar's real name was Harihar Jariwala, I first called actor Darshan Jariwala, who said that he wasn't related to him. Then I got the number of Sanjeev Kumar's nephew, Uday Jariwala, from the Surat Municipal Corporation, they had built the Sanjeev Kumar auditorium. Udayji, of course, became the force behind the book."

For the biography, some of the biggest names from Bollywood, like Paresh Rawal, Shatrughan Sinha, Rakeysh Omprakash Mehra, Tanuja, Pratik Gandhi, Sarita Joshi, Anju Mahendru, and Sachin Pilgaonkar, have supported the effort and given their special inputs about Sanjeev Kumar in the biography. She says, "Most of them were Sanjeev Kumar's friends, and they loved him dearly. They gave me their time and their memories, almost 40 years after his death, for which I'm eternally grateful. Perhaps I could make a special mention of Rakeysh Omprakash Mehraji, he was the subject of my first biography, The Stranger In The Mirror, and he graciously became a part of my second biography, even though he did not know Sanjeev Kumar personally."

Sharing with us her most memorable moments while writing the biography, she says, "Even after all these years, I could sense their fondness for him. I could see the kinship in Tanuja ma'am's eyes and I could detect the heaviness in Moushmi Chatterjee ma'am's voice. There was a genuine admiration in Paresh Rawal Sir's foreword and an honesty in Vidya Balan's afterword. A biography takes shape from personal emotional narratives, historical context, secondary published material, and photographs. It was my great privilege to piece these together and allow the story to emerge."

As an actor, Sanjeev Kumar's legacy is impeccable, Shatrangh Ke Khiladi features in Martin Scorsese's 40 films you must watch before you die. Be it Amitabh Bachchan, who had worked with Sanjeev Kumar in films like Trishul, or Shatrughan Sinha, who had worked with the actor in films like Haathkadi, these actors had remembered their very own dear friend through the biography and also appreciated Reeta for the same. Sharing her feelings on the same, she says, "All of them are responding to someone who was their own. So, when Amitabh Bachchan Sir tweeted about the book, he paid homage to his friend. I really cannot take any credit for the response the book has received—it is Sanjeev Kumar's great blessing. The book has had a global impact too, I have received fantastic reviews from London and Manchester as well."

Lastly, on the work front, Reeta is soon going to come up with another biography with Harper Collins and another international project.

"They are not film-based but about people who have had a massive impact on our lives," she signs off.

In an exclusive interview with The Pioneer, Reeta Ramamurthy Gupta, the author of Sanjeev Kumar: The Actor We All Love, takes us through her journey and her experience of writing the biography of the late veteran actor Sanjeev Kumar.

For OTT, Malayalam genre is a good example to follow: K V Guhan route. You wanna know why? He says, "Everyone knows I started off as a cinematographer and then turned into a director. So I have always been part of this cinematic expedition. The crew operates under me now. But while I was so preoccupied with cinematography, I learnt the director's vision."

Taking the movie into a completely thrilling genre, he joined the chords and said, "Theatres were becoming an impossible streak for the near future when pandemic struck us. This concept wasn't made for the theatrical experience anyway, OTT helped us try new formats and jump into new genres like this. Then you are answerable to your viewers also. I have a lot in the bank for 70mm screens too, I want commercials to run well in theatres. As a novice in this industry, I know the strength and weaknesses of a commercial and how can I run it successfully in theatres. And when it comes to OTT, Malayalam content is the primary example to follow. They set some bars. It's not that earlier we didn't have taboo concepts to explore in Telugu cinema, but I had seen some egos clashing, that's the difference. Our industry has a bit of a shaky mindset, but I saw the vein in Anand to experiment and that made me cast him. And he had no interest in playing a heroic role either, he's here to try out versatile roles. It's okay to lose sometimes in a movie, according to me."

As per the director's roar, you'll see Anand Deverakonda for a very mediocre screen-time in the first half and slowly four characters will connect on a highway. He made sure all the four actors get their equal amount of screen-time in an ensemble cast like this, leaving none to any inequalities. With Abhishek Banerjee's debut here, he went all excited only because, "I am a mad fan of Paatal Lok series the way Abhishek helms the psychotic character blew my mind. I find him an idiosyncratic film personality in this showbiz, he's fit to be in Telugu cinema. I also knew he was trying to connect with the south audiences for quite a while, so this is his chance. He's also having a Chennai background, that connects us both."

The plot completely shot on a highway seemed like an easy task for the cinematographer turned director at the beginning, but relatively in no time, he realised, "It wasn't as easy to bring four actors in a frame just exactly the way you want. We all were travelling, it wasn't a cakewalk. There were very less days to shoot due to the dates of the actors, but we sailed the boat through for Highway. It's our experimental version of OTT. Because highways are really an integral part of our lives because who doesn't travel? The real crisis-cross happens between the people! In some scenes, Anand went a little confused wherein stepped in and explained to him the importance of that scene."

Telling us about his overall experience over the past 20 years, he elaborated, "My film-making style is very different from others. Even as a newcomer, I felt Anand let himself completely immersed in his craft. Kalyanram is as similar to Anand Deverakonda when it comes to their reactions on camera. As an old hand, let me tell you it's an everyday challenge in this industry. There will be egoistic people around you but you continue to fight to be in the film! As a cinematographer, from the point one keeps the shot issues of self-esteem begin. There can be potential classes between a cinematographer and a director but what ends well, goes well."
