RIJJU TARGETS SC COLLEGIUM AGAIN

Present system is at odd with spirit of Constitution: Law Minister

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The ongoing face-off between the Supreme Court and the Government escalated further on Thursday with Union Law Minister Kiren Rijju flagging concerns over the Government's "limited role" in appointing judges and stressed that it is at odds with the spirit of the Constitution. Rijju told Parliament that the issue of vacancies and appointments in the higher judiciary would continue to linger till such time a new system is created for the same. "Currently, the Government has limited powers to fill the vacancies (in courts)," he said and added that the Centre cannot look for names other than those recommended by the collegium. Rijju was responding to a question in the Rajya Sabha on the large number of pending cases when he doubled down on his criticism of the system of judges being appointed by a collegium or panel of senior most Supreme Court judges. He said it was worrying that more than five crore cases were pending across the country and the basic reason for the pendency he attributed was to prevailing judges' vacancies. "The Government took many steps to reduce the pendency of cases, but the Government has a very limited role in filling vacancies of judges. The collegium chooses names, and apart from that, the Government has no right to appoint judges," Rijju said on the floor of the Parliament's Upper House. Several Rajya Sabha members like Pramod Tiwari, Akhilesh Prasad Singh, L Hanumanthaiah, Jebi Mather and Syed Nasir Hussain all from Congress, Shiv Sena's Priyanka Chaturvedi, AAP's Raghav Chadda had given adjournment notices on subjects related to concern over the Government's alleged attempt to interfere in appointment in higher judiciary. The adjournment notices also mentioned other subjects like "misuse" of CBI, ED and other Government agencies, situation arising out of farmers' strike and "subversion" of democratic system and "threatening" of electoral process. Rijju's statement of the floor of the Upper House of Parliament has come days after the Supreme Court reacted sharply to the maiden speech of newly-appointed Vice President of India and Rajya Sabha Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar. The Vice-president referred to the manner of judges' appointments and appeared to support the demand for a greater say for the Government. "Speeches made by the high constitutional functionaries in public, making comments on the Supreme Court Collegium, are not very well taken. You have to advise them," the Supreme Court had reacted. The Rajya Sabha was informed that as on December 9, 777 judges are working in the High Courts against the sanctioned strength of 1,108, leaving a vacancy of 331 (30 per cent). In the Supreme Court (as on December 5), against the sanctioned strength of 34 judges, 27 are working, leaving seven vacancies.

Union Minister for Law and Justice Kiren Rijju speaks in the Rajya Sabha during Winter Session of Parliament in New Delhi on Thursday

Pilibhit encounter: HC cuts 43 cops' life term

7-year RI for convicts

PTI ■ LUCKNOW

The Allahabad High Court on Thursday commuted life imprisonment awarded to 43 policemen in the 1991 Pilibhit fake encounter case, in which 10 Sikhs were killed after being branded terrorists, to seven-year rigorous imprisonment. The court set aside the conviction of the police personnel by a trial court under Section 302 (murder) of the Indian Penal Code, saying the case falls under Exception 3 to Section 303 of the IPC which provides that culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant or aiding a public servant, causes death by an act which he thinks is lawful. The Lucknow bench directed that the convicts serve their sentence in jail and also imposed a fine of ₹10,000 each on them. The bench held all 43 policemen guilty under Section 304 (culpable homicide not amounting to murder) of the IPC. Undoubtedly, the bench of Justices Ramesh Sinha and Saroj Yadav said, the police have to arrest accused persons and make them stand trial. "It is not the duty of the police officers to kill the accused merely because he is a dreaded criminal," it said. "In the present case, there was no ill will between the appellants — police personnel and the deceased persons. The appellants were public servants and their object was the advancement of public justice. "No doubt, the appellants exceeded the powers given to them by law, and they caused the death of the deceased by doing an act which they, in good faith, believed to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of their duty. In such circumstances, the offence that was committed by the appellants, was culpable homicide not amounting to murder," the bench said. "The case of the appellants is covered under Exception 3 to the section 303 of IPC which provides that culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant, or aiding a public servant acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law, and causes death by doing an act which he, in good faith, thinks to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of his duty as a public servant without ill will towards the person whose death he has caused," it said. On July 12, 1991, the convicted policemen stopped a luxury bus carrying Sikh pilgrims and forced 10 passengers to get off. A chargesheet filed in the case said the passengers were divided into groups, taken to different areas in a jungle and killed in "cold blood". The policemen claimed the next day that 10 Khalistani terrorists had been killed. They claimed that some of the Sikhs in the bus were facing criminal cases and were armed. The trial court had on April 4, 2016 found 47 policemen guilty of killing the Sikh men in fake encounters and sentenced them to life imprisonment. The policemen filed appeals against their conviction. During the pendency of appeals, four of them died.

Nirav Modi loses appeal in UK HC, extradition to India likely

PNS/AGENCIES ■ NEW DELHI/LONDON

In a setback to fugitive diamond merchant Nirav Modi, wanted in India to stand trial on fraud and money laundering charges, the High Court in London on Thursday denied him permission to appeal against his extradition before the UK Supreme Court. In its order, the Royal Courts of Justice in London, Lord Justice Jeremy Stuart-Smith and Justice Robert Jay ruled that "the Appellant's (Nirav) application for permission to appeal to the Supreme Court is refused". The judges also ruled that the "certification of a point of law be refused" that would have allowed his plea to progress to the Higher Court. An appeal on the grounds of a point of law of general public importance is a high threshold that is not met very often. This refusal significantly limits Nirav's remaining legal options in the UK against his extradition to India. The latest High Court order also directs Nirav to pay the legal costs related to the latest application, assessed to be $150,247.00. Last month, Nirav lost an appeal on mental health grounds when the same two-judge High Court bench ruled that his risk of suicide is not such that it would be either unjust or oppressive to extradite him to India to face charges in the estimated USD 2 billion Punjab National Bank (PNB) loan scam case. Meanwhile, Nirav remains behind bars at Wandsworth Prison in London since his arrest on an extradition warrant in March 2019.

Jo piyega woh marega, ban response to cries of women, says unfazed Nitish

Hooch toll 26

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ PATNA/NEW DELHI

After Bihar's hooch tragedy Atoll climbed to 26, and Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Thursday made a controversial matter of fact statement that if people drink spurious liquor they will die, his liquor ban policy came under sharp attack from the Opposition and even one of the allies of the Bihar's ruling Grand Alliance backed the demand to end the prohibition. Unfazed by his growing criticism for the failure of the liquor ban, Nitish quipped that "jo piyega woh marega" (those who drink spurious alcohol will die), and defended the liquor ban law saying that prohibition was "not my personal wish but a response to the cries of the women of the State".

He said when he brought in prohibition had won praise from many women's groups who felt it would save their men-folk from the "curse of drunkenness and save homes from financial ruin". He also expressed displeasure over criticisms from the Opposition BJP which has raised the issue "even inside Parliament". The BJP MPs from Bihar raised the hooch tragedy issue in Lok Sabha on Thursday and demanded "immediate action against the Bihar Government" and sending of a central team there to review situation in the State. Raising the issue during Zero Hour, BJP's Paschim Champaran MP Sanjay Jaiswal claimed spurious liquor sale has been flourishing in Bihar under the protection of police officers despite a prohibition in place. But the Chief Minister does not take any action against any of them, he charged. BJP's Aurangabad MP Sushil Kumar Singh termed the hooch tragedy deaths as "mass murder" and held the Bihar Government responsible for it. "There is no hope from Bihar Government," he said. "More than 15 such incidents have taken place so far. But he (the Chief Minister) says those who drink liquor would die or go to jail, and those selling the poisonous liquor would become his party's candidate to contest elections on his party ticket," Jaiswal alleged. "I urge the Central Government to take cognizance of the (prevailing) law-and-order situation and also take immediate action against the Mahagathbandhan Government of Bihar which is responsible for the murder of 37 people (in hooch tragedy)," he demanded.

1,400 more CISF personnel at IGIA to ease congestion

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Centre has sanctioned deployment of additional 1,400 CISF personnel to provide security and regulate passenger traffic flow at the Indira Gandhi International Airport where expansion is going on at three terminals — 1, 2 and 3 — apart from its cargo hold area. The decision was conveyed at a high-level meeting chaired by Union Home Secretary Ajay Bhalla along with the representatives of the Civil Aviation Ministry, the Bureau of Civil Aviation Security (BCAS), Bureau of Immigration among others. The meeting was called to review measures taken to ease the recent congestion reported at large airports, particularly in Delhi, Mumbai and Bengaluru. The home secretary discussed with stakeholders, including CISF and airport operator, continuous complaints from passengers about the rush at the entry gates, luggage drop and security check areas. The Terminal 1 renovation and expansion was scheduled to be completed by December next year or January 2024 but the Government wants it to be expedited and finished by November 2023, the start of the holiday season. More CISF personnel will be required to secure the expanding areas of the IGIA leading to the sanction of additional manpower.

2002 Godhra train carnage: SC bail to convict after 17 yrs

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Thursday granted bail to a convict serving life imprisonment in the 2002 Godhra train case, noting that he has been in jail for the last 17 years. A bench comprising Chief Justice DY Chandrachud and Justice PS Narasimha took note of the submission of a lawyer, appearing for one of the convicts Faruk, that he be granted bail considering the period undergone till now. Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Gujarat Government, termed the offence as the "most heinous" in which 59 people, including women and children, were burnt alive and sought hearing of the appeals of the convicts at the earliest. The top law officer opposed the bail plea and said usually stone pelting is an offence of minor nature, however, in the instant case, the train coach was bolted and stones were pelted to ensure that passengers cannot come out. Moreover, stones were thrown at fire tenders also, he added. "The High Court had dismissed his appeal on October 9, 2017. The applicant has sought bail on the ground that he has been in custody since 2004 and has undergone imprisonment for about 17 year," the bench observed.

It's Messi greatest vs Mbappé superstar in Qatar WC final

AP ■ AL KHOR (QATAR)

Kylian Mbappé vs. Lionel Messi. Soccer's latest superstar against perhaps the sport's greatest player in the World Cup final just about everyone was hoping for. France and Mbappé are headed back to the biggest game in soccer, and to a much-anticipated matchup with Argentina, after ending Morocco's historic run at the World Cup on Wednesday. In front of the country's president, Emmanuel Macron, France beat Africa's first ever semifinalist 2-0, with Mbappé playing a part in goals by Theo Hernandez in the fifth minute and substitute Randal Kolo Muani in the 79th. Mbappé became a global phenomenon by leading France to the title in Russia in 2018 and has a chance to emulate Brazil great Pele as a champion in his first two World Cups when he comes up against the 35-year-old Messi, who has dominated the game with Cristiano Ronaldo for the past 15 years. It's the dream final for many, with France looking to become the first team to retain the title since Brazil in 1962 and Argentina on a mission to win soccer's ultimate prize for the third time in what is likely to be Messi's last World Cup. Messi has carried his team to the final, almost in the same way Diego Maradona — the man with whom Messi is so often compared. "We need all our strength, all our energy to face a very competitive team with one of the legends in the sport with Messi," France goalkeeper Hugo Lloris said. Morocco has been widely lauded for breaking ground for Africa and generated an outpouring of pride among Arab nations after topping a group containing Croatia and Belgium and eliminating two more European powers — Spain and Portugal — in the knockout stage.

Indian PhD student in UK solves 2,500-year-old Sanskrit puzzle

PTI ■ LONDON

A grammatical problem which has defeated Sanskrit scholars since the 5th Century BC has finally been solved by an Indian PhD student at the University of Cambridge, it emerged as his thesis was published on Thursday. Rishi Rajpopat made the breakthrough by decoding a rule taught by Panini, known as the father of linguistics, and is now encapsulated in his thesis entitled "In Panini, We Trust: Discovering the Algorithm for Rule Conflict Resolution in the Astadhyayi". According to the university, leading Sanskrit experts have described Rajpopat's discovery as "revolutionary" and it could now mean that Panini's grammar can also be taught to computers for the first time. "I had a eureka moment in Cambridge," recalls Rajpopat. "After nine months trying to crack this problem, I was almost ready to quit, I was getting nowhere. So, I closed the books for a month and just enjoyed the summer, swimming, cycling, cooking, praying and meditating. Then, begrudgingly I went back to work, and, within minutes, as I turned the pages, these patterns started emerging, and it all started to make sense. There was a lot more work to do but I'd found the biggest part of the puzzle," said the 27-year-old scholar. Over the next few weeks, he was so excited that he couldn't sleep and would spend hours in the library, including in the middle of the night, to check what he'd found and solve related problems. It would take another two and half years before he would get to the finish line. "Panini had an extraordinary mind and he built a machine unrivalled in human history. He didn't expect us to add new ideas to his rules. The more we fiddle with Panini's grammar, the more it eludes us," says Rajpopat.

Actor files plaint over photo mix-up in report on senior citizen's murder

PTI ■ MUMBAI

A non-cognisable case for defamation was registered on the complaint of an actor who said her photograph was used in a news report in place of that of a senior citizen who was murdered allegedly by her son in Mumbai's Juhu area, a police official said on Thursday. Complainant Veena Kapoor (73) has claimed the photograph, which appeared in a news report on some social media sites, had distressed her, the Dindoshi police station official said. The senior citizen who was killed allegedly over a property dispute and the actor share the same name, which may have caused the mix-up, he said.

GUEST COLUMN India and G20: agenda for action

Ajay Seth Michael Deabrata Patra

India assumes the presidency of the Group of 20 (G20) amidst a daunting global environment riddled with policy challenges. A 'polycrisis' landscape confronts the G20 with headwinds from slowing global growth and trade, high inflation, aggressive monetary policy tightening and associated spill-overs, geopolitical tensions, debt distress, climate change and the lingering pandemic. Amidst centrifugal forces pulling at the fabric of globalisation, the role of the G20 in fostering global policy cooperation is crucial. As the third largest economy in the world in purchasing power parity (PPP) terms and the fifth largest in terms of market exchange rates, India accounts for 3.6 per cent of G20 GDP in nominal terms and 8.2 per cent in PPP terms. The IMF projects that India's GDP will grow at 6.1 per cent in 2023, which would be the highest among G20 nations. India's G20 presidency priorities envision a balance between responsibility and ambition, encapsulating the vision of unity and interconnectedness. Our progress in digital technologies and our experiences drawn from a thriving fintech ecosystem uniquely position us in expanding financial inclusion, leveraging technology to buttress productivity and economic integration, and in dealing with challenges developing countries face in mitigating the effects of climate change. In these areas, we believe our presidency can make substantial contributions. Accepting the presidency of the G20, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said, "India's G20 priorities would be shaped in consultation with not just our G20 partners, but also our fellow travellers in the global south, whose voice often goes unheard." India's key Finance Track (FT) priorities translate his commitment into action. They include strengthening global financial safety nets, managing global debt vulnerabilities, assessing macroeconomic implications of food and energy insecurity, and financing sustainable and resilient cities of tomorrow. We will also work on mobilising timely and adequate financial resources for climate action, as most G20 countries have declared their net-zero target dates. On international taxation, we will build upon significant progress made by the G20, including addressing tax challenges, capacity building and enhancing tax transparency. We will continue developing G20-driven finance and health coordination for identifying and addressing risks and vulnerabilities associated with pandemics and improving preparedness to mobilise in response to new pandemic threats. Within financial sector regulation, we would focus on risks and opportunities offered by technological developments. The recurring turmoil in crypto markets, the de-pegging of some stable coins and the fall of broader crypto markets have raised apprehensions about threats to financial stability from cryptocurrencies. It is, hence, necessary to broaden the G20 crypto-asset dialogue by addressing aspects such as monetary policy and macroeconomic concerns, data privacy, market integrity, competition policy and taxation by synthesising the work of various international organisations. Rapidly growing digital financial services and increased dependence on third-party services expose the financial system to operational, liquidity and concentration risks. We seek to promote international cooperation in risk management frameworks to manage these risks. As the economy becomes more digitised, cyber risk poses a threat to the financial system – an outage anywhere in the chain may cause cascading effects impacting the entire financial system. A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. During our presidency, we would also like to see increased global cooperation in mitigating system-level vulnerabilities from cyber risk. To supplement the sustainable development goals (SDG) of reducing transaction costs of migrant remittances to less than three per cent by 2030, our approach will be to reduce both high transaction costs and the time between origination and settlement of payments through interoperability of national fast payment systems. We will leverage digital public infrastructure to advance financial inclusion and harness productivity gains. Constructive and actionable policy recommendations for developing a sound and vibrant digital financial ecosystem would help to achieve these goals while contributing to economic development. In this milieu, the G20, which owes its genesis and raison d'être to the conviction that global problems need globally coordinated solutions, offers hope to the world as it brings together the world's major economies in a renewed effort to achieve its mandate of strong, sustainable, balanced and inclusive growth. Every crisis affords an opportunity. Therefore, let us hope that the current polycrisis leads to the reinvigoration of global policy cooperation to meet emerging challenges, repair the multiple fractures the global economy faces and position the global economy on a trajectory that fulfils the G20's mandate. Equitable and inclusive human progress hinges on "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam" – One Earth, One Family, One Future. (Seth is secretary, Department of Economic Affairs, Ministry of Finance and Patra is deputy governor, Reserve Bank of India. Views expressed are personal)

Child Commission to hit at nexus of coaching centres and schools

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

The State Commission for Protection of Child Rights (SCPCR) will take action against schools that collude with coaching centres for enrolling students in the board exams without any attendance. The member of the commission Vinod Kaparwan said that SCPCR has received complaints against some schools that follow such illegal practice for their monetary profit. He said that several parents recently complained to the commission that their children had taken admission in Lucent International School in Dehradun for class XII but the school administration failed to enrol them for board exams in 2023.

He said that the commission scheduled a meeting with the school in which the officials of the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) revealed that an investigation is already underway since 2019 for the alleged irregularities

The SCPCR member Kaparwan said that the commission will soon start inspections in such schools that make illegal alliances with coaching institutes to allow students to appear for board exams without atten-

Considering this, the SCPCR chairman Geeta Khanna recommended the education department to revoke the affiliation of the school and appealed to Director General Police (DGP) Ashok Kumar to file an FIR against the school administration to take stringent action against them. She directed the officials concerned to arrange board exams of such students through open board and ensure the school compensates the respective parents aply.

Such students study in those coaching institutes but are allowed to appear in exams without a proper attendance record in school which is against the rules. The SCPCR has directed the education department to take action against all such new schools and coaching centres that started operating in the past five years. # SC rejects petition of the terminated employees of Vidhan Sabha

Speaker Ritu Khanduri terms the decision as victory of justice

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

Dashing the hopes of the 228 ad-hoc employees terminated from the Uttarakhand Vidhan Sabha, the Supreme Court (SC) on Thursday rejected the Public Interest Litigation (PIL) challenging their removal. The hand and the unemployed. Earlier also I had said that I would not hesitate to take tough decisions and would even go to the Supreme Court if needed. The report submitted by the Kotia committee has been vindicated," she said pointments made in Vidhan Sabha during the tenure of past speakers. In its report the committee found that the appointments were made in gross violation of all norms. It said that no selection committee was set up for making the ad hoc appointments, no advertisement was issued, no competitive examinations were held, the names of eligible candidates were not sought from the employment exchange and no applications were invited.

Acting swiftly on the recommendations of the committee, the Speaker cancelled the appointments of 228 ad-hoc workers on September 23. These ad-hoc appointments were made in the year 2016, 2020 and 2021 when Govind Singh Kunjwal (Congress) and Prem Chand Agarwal were the speakers of Vidhan Sabha. The terminated employees knocked the doors of the court to challenge their removal but with the decision of the SC on Thursday their efforts have received a major setback.

It is pertinent to mention here that on November 24 the double bench of the HC had quashed the stay granted by the single bench on the removal of 228 employees from VS secretariat and had upheld the decision of their removal.

Speaker Khanduri had appointed a three-member committee headed by former bureaucrat DK Kotia to investigate the controversial ap-bench of Justice Sanjeev Khanna and Sundersh rejected the petition filed by the counsel of the terminated employees. It upheld the decision of the double bench of the Uttarakhand High Court (HC) in this respect. Reacting to the order of SC, the Speaker Ritu Khanduri said that order is the victory of justice. She said took a decision which was free from prejudice. "It is the victory of the people of Uttarak-

Health dept terminates services of 61 absconding doctors

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

The State government has terminated the services of 61 medical officers in the health services for absconding from their duties. These doctors were posted in different hospitals and health centres and were missing from their place of appointment for a large period of time. On the orders of the senior officers of the medical health and family welfare department, the chief medical officers (CMO) of the different districts had issued notices to these doctors in the local newspapers to report immediately to their places of posting. However they failed to respond to the notice.

On Thursday the Additional secretary Amandeep Kaur issued termination orders of these doctors. The order also directs the director general (DG) state health services to issue notices to the absconding medical officers who had entered into a bond with the health department in the past and ask them to submit the bond amount within a week. The department has also been asked to recover the bond amount from such doctors.

The bonded medical officers are those young medicos who at the time of admission in the medical colleges enter into a bond with the state government that they would serve in the health department of state after completion of their education. In lieu of this bond they have to pay highly subsidised fees during the period of their stay in the medical colleges. However instead of fulfilling the condition mentioned in the bond many medicos become absconding.

Doon district admin endeavours to collect winter clothes for poor

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

Considering winters and biting cold affecting poor people, homeless or those living in shelter homes to survive a cold night, the Dehradun district administration has taken an initiative to collect warm clothing from local residents through the municipal bodies.

Sonika has issued orders to the officials of several departments to ensure people in need get necessary help like warm clothes or firewood for bonfire as per the requirement, to survive the winters.

during winter. The district administration gets at least 50 calls daily from those in need of warm clothes and many local residents also approach to donate warm clothes. He said that to ensure more people can help and contribute, the DM ordered the municipal bodies to play a jingle in their garbage collecting vehicles appealing locals to donate warm clothes for people in need. She has ordered an additional staff member along with municipal vehicles like during door to door garbage collection service to collect warm clothes from those interested to donate, said Mishra. He said that though people do approach the administration to donate clothes daily, municipal bodies have more reach to locals who are interested in donating warm clothes to poor. He said that the collected clothes are kept in storage units across the district which are later distributed by officials like sub divisional magistrates (SDMs) and Tehsildars in their respective areas as per the need. He said that those who want to donate their warm clothes can also call at a toll free number 18001802525.

Sanitation workers still deprived of full honorarium in U'khand despite CM's order

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

Most of the sanitation workers of municipal corporations in the State are yet to receive honorarium at the rate of Rs 500 per day as announced by chief minister Pushkar Singh Dhami earlier this year. The outsourced agencies deployed by the corporations who primarily hire the sanitation workers are allegedly not paying this amount to them despite CM's orders. An RTI activist and Kashipur resident, Nadeem Uddin has made these allegations on the basis of the reports received from all municipal corporations under Right To Information (RTI) act.

He said that he has asked the corporations about compliance of CM's order of paying sanitation workers honorarium at the rate of Rs 500 daily and none of them provided complete information. He said that some corporations have provided no information at all on the matter but he has appealed for it again. According to information provided by the Municipal Corporation of Dehradun (MCD), the outsourced employees are getting paid as per old rates of Rs 350 per day by the outsourced agencies. Provident fund (PF) of 13 per cent and 3.25 per cent under Employees' State Insurance (ESI) are also deducted from their honorarium.

He said that all sanitation workers under the municipal corporations of Kotdwar and Rishikesh are also getting paid the honorarium as per the RTI report. The PF and ESI are being paid separately by the outsourced agencies. However the agencies are profiting hugely from the increased allowance of workers too as they are getting paid more service charges by the corporations, said the activist. He said that many have alleged such irregularities besides exploitation of sanitation workers several times and the government should discontinue this outsourcing system in corporations.

Medical colleges rose from 387 to 648 in 8 yrs of Modi Govt: Min

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Asserting that the NDA Government under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi has taken several steps to ease access to quality medical education in the country, Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya on Thursday said that the number of medical colleges has increased from 387 to 648, MBBS seats by 87 per cent and that of PG by 105 per cent in the last eight years.

He said, change can be seen happening at every nook and corner of the country. With this momentum and coordination among stakeholders, a holistic ecosystem of education will be created in the country.

Highlighting the change in the medical education sector, Mandaviya said, "While India had a limited number of 387 medical colleges in 2014, the system was riddled with far too many problems."

"There is a paradigm shift from input-based to outcome-based approaches and reforms under the Modi government. Consequently, we now have 648 medical colleges in 2022 with a whopping 96 pc increase in the number of Government Medical Colleges (GMC) alone and a 42 pc increase in the private sector, since 2014," he said.

"At present, out of 648 medical colleges in the country, 355 are government and 293 are private," Mandaviya said adding that, "MBBS seats have also seen a massive 87 per cent increase from 51,348 in 2014 to 96,077 in 2022. Similarly, PG seats have observed an increase of 105 per cent with 31,185 seats in 2014 to 63,842 in 2022."

He said with a vision to create 10,000 MBBS seats in government medical colleges, 58 colleges across 16 states have been approved with an increase of 3,877 MBBS seats.

Similarly, to increase PG seats, 72 medical colleges in 21 states and UTs have been approved in phase I, with an increase of 4,058 PG seats, he said adding that similarly, to create 4,000 PG seats in the GMCs, in phase II, a total of 47 colleges have been approved with an increase of 2,975 PG seats.

To correct regional imbalances in the availability of affordable and reliable tertiary healthcare, Pradhan Mantri Swasthya Suraksha Yojana (PMSSY) was launched, which targets the establishment of All India Institute of Medical Science (AIIMS) like institutions and the upgradation of existing GMCs by establishing super-specialty blocks in a phased manner, the minister said.

22 new AIIMS and projects for the up-gradation of 75 government medical colleges were taken up under the scheme, he said. A common entrance test- National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) for 'one country, one examination, one merit' system introduced in 2016 with a common counselling system allowed students from anywhere in India an opportunity to study in any medical college in the country based on merit, he said.

The National Medical Commission (NMC) was also created to replace the highly corrupt body of the Medical Council of India (MCI). Before the NMC Act, there was no legal mechanism to regulate the fee charged by private colleges.

"Now the guidelines in respect of fees for 50 per cent seats in all colleges including Government, Private and Deemed Universities have been released by the NMC," Mandaviya said.

Parallely, reforms are ongoing in the sectors of nursing education, dental education and allied and healthcare professions, he said.

Furore in RS as Chair rejects Opp demand for LAC stand-off debate

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Proceedings were affected for the second-consecutive day on Thursday in Rajya Sabha which faced several adjournments over Opposition members' uproar after the Chair disallowed adjournment notices on several issues including Indo-China border face-off, Government's alleged misuse of probe agencies and interference in appointments in higher judiciary. The Opposition has been demanding a discussion on these issues. Lok Sabha functioning was, however, normal with only a minor face-off between the Congress and the Government on different issues.

After the Congress led Opposition parties' strategy meeting, members from the entire Opposition Benches have been raising issues jointly. Soon after laying of papers in the Rajya Sabha, Opposition members sought clarifications on why their adjournment notices were not taken up and demanded discussions on various issues. This led to uproar following which Rajya Sabha Deputy Chairman Harivansh adjourned the proceedings for 15 minutes first and then again for another 15 minutes when the House met.

While opposition members created uproar over not being allowed discussion on issues raised by them, BJP members were also on their feet raising the issue of the Bihar hooch tragedy. As the Deputy Chairman urged members to allow the Zero Hour to function, members raised strong objections leading to disruption of the proceedings.

Congress' leader in Lok Sabha Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury attacked the Centre over the recent Arunachal border face-off in the House and asked when will it show "red eyes" to China. Raising the issue during Zero Hour, he said while China is trying to "destroy" India, the Modi government is letting the imports from the neighbouring country rise.

Citing a media report, Chowdhury also said that the recent cyber attack on some of the servers of AIIMS in Delhi had been carried out from China, and demanded that the Centre come out with a white paper in Lok Sabha on these issues. While there is a decline in trade between India and the US, it is always "profitable" for China when it comes to India's trade with the neighbouring country, the Congress member charged, saying such a trend makes him wonder what is the "intention" of the Modi government.

"When the Chinese government is an aggressor and trying to destroy India, what is the need of extending such help to China? When will you show the red eyes (to China)," Chowdhury asked the treasury benches.

The Congress accused the central government of evading a debate on India-China border face-off and asked why the Modi government has been running away from the issue.

Earlier, outside the house,

AICC head of media and publicity department Pawan Kherra wondered why Prime Minister Narendra Modi is silent on China, and that whenever he does speak on it, he gives the country a clean chit.

Kherra alleged that when Modi was the Chief Minister of Gujarat, he was very keen on introducing Mandarin in its government schools, a proposal that was opposed by the Congress. He also made the allegation that the BJP used a Chinese company in elections which, the central government had said, was a threat to Indian sovereignty.

A company which was blacklisted by World Bank, USA, and Europe was given the contract to install smart metres in the border district of Jammu and Kashmir, he alleged.

Public servant can be convicted for graft on circumstantial evidence: SC

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Thursday said in cases charged under the Prevention of Corruption Act, a public servant can be convicted for illegal gratification on the basis of circumstantial evidence when there is no direct oral or documentary evidence against them.

A five-judge Constitution bench headed by Justice S A Nazeer said complainants as well as the prosecution should make sincere efforts so that corrupt public servants are brought to book and convicted so that the administration and governance become unpoluted and free from corruption.

"In the absence of evidence of complainant (direct or primary), it is permissible to draw an inferential deduction of culpability," said the bench, also comprising justices B R

Gavai, A S Bopanna, V Ramasubramanian and B V Nagarathna. The top court said that even if direct evidence of the complainant is not available, owing to death or other reasons, there can be conviction of the public servant under the relevant provisions.

"In the event the complainant turns hostile or has died or is unable to let in his evidence during the trial, the demand of illegal gratification can be proved by letting in the evidence of any other witness either orally or documentary evidence or the prosecution can prove the case by circumstantial evidence. The trial does not abate nor does it result in an order of acquittal of the public servant," said the judgment.

The apex court's verdict came while examining the issue whether in the absence of direct or primary evidence of demand of bribe, inferential deduction of guilt of a public servant can be drawn based on other evidence.

Cong-led Opp walks out of LS on fuel price hike

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Dissatisfied with Petroleum Minister Hardeep Puri's reply on petroleum price hike, the Congress led the Opposition in walking out from the Lok Sabha on Thursday.

Claiming that currently the petrol price in India is one of the lowest, Puri said six non-BJP ruled states — West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Telengana, Kerala and Jharkhand— have not reduced the VAT on petroleum products, leading to higher prices of petrol and diesel there.

His remark was met with vocal protests by the opposition members. Not satisfied with his response, the Congress, DMK, TMC and NCP, staged a walk-out.

Puri said the Central government has reduced excise duty on petroleum products and some other states, following cues, and reduced their Value Added Tax (VAT).

He said the Oil Marketing Companies (OMC) together suffered losses of Rs 27,276 crore due to high prices of crude in international markets. "I suggest MPs from the opposition impress upon their state governments to reduce the VAT so that they can also join the celebrations," he said.

Puri said India imports more than 85 per cent of its crude oil requirements. Therefore, the prices of petrol and diesel in the country are linked to their respective prices in the international market.

He said the retail prices of petrol and diesel depend on various factors like crude oil purchase price, exchange rate, shipping charges, inland freight, refinery margin, dealer commission, central taxes, state VAT and other cost elements.

While the average price of the Indian basket of crude oil increased by 102 per cent (from USD 43.34 to USD 87.55) between November 2020 and November 2022, the retail prices of Petrol and Diesel have increased in India by only 18.95 per cent and 26.5 per cent during this period respectively. The minister said prices of petrol and diesel have not been increased by public sector OMCs since April 6, 2022, despite record-high international prices. "As a result, against the combined 'Profit Before Tax' of Rs 28,360 Crore in H1 of the financial year 2021-22, the three OMCs IOCL, BPCL and HPCL have booked a combined loss of Rs 27,276 Crore in H1 of the current financial year 2022-23," he said.

Puri said to insulate Indian consumers from the impact of high international crude oil prices, the central government reduced the central excise duty twice on November 21, 2021, and May 22, 2022, effecting a cumulative reduction of Rs 13 and Rs 16 per litre for petrol and diesel respectively, which was fully passed on to the consumers.

Following these reductions in central excise duty, some of the States and UTs also reduced Value Added Tax (VAT) rates on petrol and diesel. He said India imports more than 60 per cent of its domestic LPG consumption. The price of LPG in the country is based on the Saudi Contract Price (SPC), the benchmark for the international price of LPG. Saudi CP rose from 236 USD /MT in April 2020 to 952 USD /MT in April 2022 and continues to prevail at elevated levels currently.

Rebuff Centre's bid to centralise administration, power via co-op route, CPI(M) urges States

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The CPI(M) has urged State Governments to come together to "rebuff" the Centre's attempts to centralise administration and power through the multi-state cooperative society route.

The editorial of the party organ People's Democracy has said that one of the ways in which the Narendra Modi Government attempted to violate the constitutional powers of the States was by forming a Ministry of Cooperation.

The party stated that after the Supreme Court ruled in October 2022 that the 97th Amendment would not be explicitly intended to insert multi-state cooperative societies into the cooperative structures of states. This will allow the central government to strain and strangle local cooperatives and take control of the whole cooperative structure in states through penal actions, mergers, board takeovers, and interventions in elections," the party said.

The CPI(M) organ also raised the issue of how under the Central Government's directions, AMUL is either joining hands, or being merged, with five local cooperatives to form a multi-state cooperative society. "This society would be engaged in certification of products of 'natural farming' and export of milk. Such politically motivated steps will only weaken state-level dairy cooperatives as well as a professionally run cooperative like AMUL," it alleged.

The editorial also alleged that the government was infusing funds into defunct multi-state cooperative societies based in Gujarat and Maharashtra and sending them to establish new bases in far-away States like Kerala.

"With centralisation, as attempted in the proposed 2022 Bill, the objective appears to be to undermine and destroy them. States must join hands — both politically and legally — to rebuff this unconstitutional step," it said.

and export of milk. Such politically motivated steps will only weaken state-level dairy cooperatives as well as a professionally run cooperative like AMUL," it alleged.

The editorial also alleged that the government was infusing funds into defunct multi-state cooperative societies based in Gujarat and Maharashtra and sending them to establish new bases in far-away States like Kerala.

"With centralisation, as attempted in the proposed 2022 Bill, the objective appears to be to undermine and destroy them. States must join hands — both politically and legally — to rebuff this unconstitutional step," it said.

IAF carries out exercise in Northeastern region as last of 36 Rafales join force

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Indian Air Force, bolstered by its full complement of Rafale combat jets, on Thursday launched a major exercise covering the Northeastern region amid a fresh spike of border tension with China along the Line of Actual Control in Arunachal Pradesh.

The two-day mega exercise is involving almost all its front-line fighter jets and other assets deployed in the region, people familiar with the drill said.

In a tweet, the IAF said the last of the 36 Rafale jets joined the force. The IAF inducted the Rafale aircraft into its 101 Squadron of the Eastern Air Command at the Hasimara in July last year. The first Rafale squadron with around 18 jets is based in Ambala air base.

"FEET DRY! The Pack is Complete! The last of the 36 IAF Rafales landed in India after a quick enroute sip from a UAE Air Force tanker," the IAF said.

Sources said the French-manufactured jet joined the second Rafale squadron in Hasimara that increased its strength to 18 aircraft.

Life-threatening infections rising due to drug-resistant bacteria: WHO

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

A new World Health Organisation (WHO) report has revealed high levels of resistance in bacteria, causing life-threatening bloodstream infections, as well as increasing resistance to treatment in several bacteria causing common infections in the community based on data reported by 87 countries in 2020.

For the first time, the Global Antimicrobial Resistance and Use Surveillance System (GLASS) report provides analyses for antimicrobial resistance (AMR) rates in the context of national testing coverage, AMR trends since 2017, and data on antimicrobial consumption in humans in 27 countries. Within six years, GLASS achieved participation from 127 countries with 72% of the world's population. The report includes an innovative interactive digital format to facilitate data extraction and graphics.

AMR is already a global threat that contributes to almost 5 million deaths per year, while disproportionately affecting low- and middle-income countries. It poses serious threats to human, animal, plant and environmental health, and severely undermines the sustainability of agri-food systems.

The report shows high levels (above 50%) of resistance were reported in bacteria frequently causing bloodstream infections in hospitals, such as Klebsiella pneumoniae and Acinetobacter spp. These life-threatening infections require treatment with last-resort antibiotics, such as carbapenems. However, 8% of bloodstream infections caused by Klebsiella pneumoniae were reported as resistant to carbapenems, increasing the risk of death due to unmanageable infections.

Common bacterial infections are becoming increasingly resistant to treatments. Over 60% of Neisseria gonorrhoea isolates, a common sexually transmitted disease, have shown resistance to one of the most used oral antibacterials, ciprofloxacin. Over 20% of E.coli isolates — the most common pathogen in urinary tract infections — were resistant to both first-line drugs (ampicillin and co-trimoxazole) and second-line treatments (fluoroquinolones), said the report.

BJP-ruled States have seen worst hooch deaths: Tejashwi

PTI ■ PATNA

Bihar Deputy Chief Minister Tejashwi Yadav on Thursday launched a counter-attack on the BJP, claiming that States ruled by the saffron party had the worst track records in terms of spurious liquor deaths.

The RJD leader gave a statement before the media, outside the Assembly which is in session, claiming that Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka stood at the top in terms of the number of hooch deaths while even Gujarat, a dry state, fared much worse than Bihar which is under the spotlight over the Saran hooch tragedy that has killed over 20 people.

A victim of Saran hooch tragedy being treated in Patna Medical College and Hospital (PMCH), in Patna on Thursday

The RJD leader also asserted that the BJP had “no moral right to raise the issue of violation of prohibition in Bihar” and recalled the alleged involvement of a brother of Ram Surat Rai, then a minister in the cabinet, in liquor trade, “which I had raised while I was in the opposition.”

The young leader also sought to make light of the remark of his septuagenarian boss that “jo piyega woh marega (whoever drinks is doomed to die)” which has come under criticism from many quarters. Political strategist turned activist Prashant Kishor had said at a press conference in Sheohar: “I challenge Nitish Kumar and his ministers to share their wisdom in any of the places where people have lost their lives because of hooch. They will get a taste of the public anger.”

Yadav said, “What the CM is implying is that a wrong deed has unwarranted consequences. It is also not proper to link hooch deaths with prohibition. We must not lose sight of the fact that even in states where liquor is not banned, hooch tragedies do take place.”

statement in response to a query from MP Danish Ali who sought to know the number of deaths caused by the consumption of spurious liquor. The minister had quoted NCRB data to submit that between 2016 and 2020, Madhya Pradesh accounted for the highest number of 1,214 hooch deaths followed by Karnataka where the number was 909. Both states are ruled by the BJP,” he said.

Another BJP-ruled state,

Haryana, stood at number four. Even in Gujarat, a dry state from where the Prime Minister also hails, the number of hooch deaths during the period was 50 while for Bihar it was only 21, Yadav said.

The deputy CM said, “BJP MLAs have been demanding Chief Minister Nitish Kumar’s resignation over the Saran hooch tragedy. Would they make similar demands with respect to CMs of states ruled by their own party?”

‘Drug smuggling on rise since BJP came to power at Centre’

Maha Cong takes on BJP after Centre files affidavit in SC, saying 1.58 cr kids between 10 and 17 years addicted to substances

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Expressing serious concern over the Centre’s submission in the Supreme Court that a staggering 1.58 crore children aged between 10 and 17 years were addicted to substances in the country, the Maharashtra Congress on Thursday charged that the drug smuggling had increased considerably during the BJP’s regime at the Centre.

Alluding to an affidavit filed by the Centre in the Apex court on Wednesday, Maharashtra Congress president Nana Patole said that the drug situation had worsened after the BJP came to power at the Centre. “In the last few years, there has been a large increase in cases of drug smuggling under the BJP’s rule,” he said.

Commenting on the findings of survey conducted by the Centre in line with a directive given by the Supreme Court, Patole said: “India is seen as a country of youth and 50 per cent of the country’s population is in the age group of 16 to 40. The youth is the future of the country. It is not good for the future of our country that the young generation is latching on to drugs.

Alleging that the BJP – which rules the Centre and the states like Gujarat, Maharashtra and Karnataka – had failed to control the drug trafficking in the country, Patole said: “Drug trafficking has increased significantly in the last few years. The country has seen thousands of tonnes of drugs arrive at the private port of Mundra in Gujarat, not just once but many times. A container containing narcotics was also seized from the JNPT port.”

“Even in Bangarulu, the incident of the young generation getting addicted to drugs has recently come to light. These incidents show that the central government has failed to control the rising drug trafficking in different types in the country,” he said.

Accusing the BJP government was trying to malign the previous Shiv Sena-led MVA, Patole said: “The current IBJP government, which has failed to bust the drug racket in the state was earlier creating an image that Mumbai is a city of drug addicts when small quantities of ganja was found in the homes of some celebrities in Mumbai, during the MVA government.”

growing number of drug addicts in the country and the failure of the government to control it is a matter of concern. This is a question of the country’s future rather than politics and the central government should immediately look into this matter and work to discourage the young generation who are addicted to drugs,” the State Congress chief said.

In its affidavit filed in the apex court based on data collated survey conducted through the National Drug Dependence Treatment Centre (NDDTC) of the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), the Centre had said that alcohol was the most commonly used psychoactive substance by Indians followed by Cannabis and Opioids. The Centre’s affidavit said that about 16 crore people consume alcohol and more than 5.7 crore individuals were affected by harmful or dependent alcohol use and need help.

The Government told the apex court that 3.1 crore individuals used cannabis products and about 25 lakh suffer from cannabis dependence, while 2.26 crore people use opioids and approximately 77 lakh individuals require help for opioid use problems.

TMC leader takes swipe at Calcutta HC judge

Justice Mantha provides judicial safety to Adhikari against FIRs, says TMC gen secy Kunal Ghosh

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Making a contemptuous remark against a sitting Calcutta High Court judge, senior Trinamool Congress leader Kunal Ghosh on Thursday said that it was due to the orders passed by the said judge that Opposition Leader Suvendu Adhikari was getting increasingly reckless in his actions.

Ghosh a general secretary of TMC and also its spokesperson attacked Justice Rajsheshkar Mantha for allowing judicial protection to Adhikari against FIRs and arbitrary arrests by the police.

Ghosh’s statement came a day after three persons died in a stampede at Asansol where thousands of people had gathered in a programme where Adhikari was to distribute blankets to the members of the weaker sections of the society. Drawing instant criticism from the legal fraternity Ghosh said the manner in which Justice Mantha had given protection to Adhikari from all FIRs was anything but judicious.

Saying that he had full respect for the judiciary Ghosh said “the manner in which Justice Mantha has given immunity — from all past and future FIRs — to Suvendu Adhikari is undemocratic and biased.”

The court’s protection had made Adhikari reckless a big example of which was the Wednesday’s stampede that killed three persons, Ghosh said.

“Justice Mantha will have to take responsibility for the tragedy,” Ghosh said wondering “in which law a court can stop actions from being taken against a person who is at fault ... what kind of law it is ... I am not criticising the judicial system but I am with hope that the Judge will review his order in the Court.”

Hearing a petition, the Judge had early this month directed the police not to take any action on past or future FIRs lodged against Adhikari. The State Government has moved the Division Bench to get the order providing judicial immunity to Adhikari vacated.

The Opposition Leader — who has been a senior TMC leader with number of important portfolios in Mamata Banerjee cabinet changed sides just ahead of the last year’s Assembly elections — has been engaged in a fierce turf war with Abhishek Banerjee the Trinamool Congress national general secretary and nephew of Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee.

Ghosh’s Thursday statement is seen against the backdrop of the ongoing battle between Adhikari and junior Banerjee. Slamming Ghosh advocate Sabyasachi Bhattacharya said “whatever Mr Ghosh has said is contemptuous.”

Panchayat elections curtain raiser for maiden State polls in Valley

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Ahead of the much-awaited Assembly polls the mainstream political parties have first started gearing up for the Panchayat polls in Jammu and Kashmir.

Though Opposition parties have been demanding early Assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir, it appears the Centre is keen on testing the political waters by first holding the Panchayat polls.

The election commission is expected to gather feedback from the UT administration before finalising the election schedule. The Panchayat polls are expected to take place during April-May 2023.

The possibility of holding maiden Assembly polls in the summer season looks bleak even after the completion of the special summary revision of electoral rolls in the backdrop of fresh delimitation exercise.

Previously, the local bodies elections were held in nine phases between November-December 2018, months after the fall of the PDP-BJP alliance government. The Panchayat elections are actually due in October 2023.

The election machinery in the Union territory has already set in motion the marathon exercise for revision of Panchayat Electoral rolls before announcing the schedule.

The special drive is being launched from December 21 with January 1, 2023 as the qualifying date for eligible voters.

On ground zero, the political parties too have started holding mass contact programs with their supporters.

District Panchayat Election Officers (DPEO) have been entrusted with the responsibility to engage the government functionaries and other stakeholders to actively participate in the Panchayat Electoral Roll revision exercise to ensure enrollment of all eligible voters in the Electoral Roll.

Special arrangements have been made across all the 20 district headquarters to hold special camps at block level. Political observers claimed during the local bodies elections in 2018 the two opposition parties namely the National Conference and Peoples Democratic party had decided to boycott the polls.

100 days of Bharat Jodo Yatra: Rahul, leaders walk on road to Cong’s revival?

PTI ■ JAIPUR

As the ‘Bharat Jodo Yatra’ enters its 100th day Friday, Congress watchers feel it has found some answers the party had been looking for on the road for 2024 but questions remain whether it will yield electoral dividends going forward. The Kanyakumari to Kashmir foot march has also courted many controversies and led to several fiery exchanges between the Congress and the BJP including on Rahul Gandhi’s ever-growing grey beard. With over 2,800 km under his belt, Gandhi has managed to catch the attention of his supporters as well as detractors and seen quite a few celebrities including from the tinsel town and academia walking alongside him from time to time. A clearer picture of the impact on the party’s electoral fortunes would emerge in the Assembly polls next year, including in Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan, which were covered well by the Yatra.

Former Congress leader Sanjay Jha, who had also been a party spokesperson, said the Bharat Jodo Yatra could become a “game-changer” for the Congress in the long term.

“For one, it has revived the political brand of Rahul Gandhi. The BJP cannot ridicule him anymore using their ‘fake news malicious campaign’. Secondly, the Congress has at last connected directly with the people through this mass movement,” he said.

Noting that it will definitely percolate to the grassroots, Jha stressed that the critical part from now on is for Congress to sustain the mobilisation through its workers who are galvanised.

“The Himachal result shows that the Congress can still pull off a win against BJP if it demonstrates the hunger to win. Next year, the electoral impact of BJY will be more visible in Karnataka, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh, etc.,” he said.

PAPER WITH PASSION

Data punctures pride

Twenty women were killed by dowry seekers every day in India between 2017 and 2021

Statistics is a subject that has often attracted the ridicule of great thinkers and writers. "There are three types of lies—lies, damn lies, and statistics," wrote Benjamin Disraeli. "Facts are stubborn things, but statistics are pliable," said Mark Twain. Yet, it still does something that many journalists and intellectuals don't do these days: it speaks to power. So, the Government said in Parliament on Wednesday that twenty women are killed by dowry seekers every day in India. Between 2017 and 2021, as many as 35,493 dowry deaths took place in the country. Do the sanctimonious nation-worshippers, who keep extolling the great and glorious Bharat ad nauseam, ever look around themselves? Don't they ever come across such horrible murders? Have their dogmas numbed their cognitive capabilities? Jinhe naaz hai Hind par woh kahaan hain? Typically, backward states Uttar Pradesh and Bihar top the list. UP had 11,874 dowry deaths during the five years, followed by Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Bengal, and Rajasthan. In fact, UP and Bihar had almost (48 per cent) of the total dowry deaths in India. On the other hand, Gujarat, Mizoram, Himachal Pradesh, Nagaland, Sikkim, Goa, Kerala, Tamil Nadu, Meghalaya, and Manipur had fewer than 50 annual cases in the five-year period.

It is quite evident from the data that there is a correlation between prosperity and literacy on the one hand and poverty and illiteracy on the other. In general, the Hindi-speaking belt, often coterminous with what were earlier called Bihar states, doesn't appear to be very enlightened in social terms. Which is not very surprising, given the fact that the socio-religious reforms of the 19th century were not very influential in this belt. But we cannot ignore the fact that the problem of dowry and murders related to it are also reported from those parts which are relatively more prosperous and literate. There are laws to curb dowry, but the use of laws to eliminate social ills is not without limitations. At best, laws can be force multipliers, not prime movers. Even the efficacy of laws to catalyse social change is directly proportional to the soundness of policing and the justice system. It is a well-known fact that both the police and justice systems are in urgent need of large doses of reforms. Owing to the inadequacies of policing and courts, misuse of dowry laws, which are quite harsh, has widely been reported. The need of the hour is police and judicial reforms, but the problem is that reforms are not politically sexy; emotive issues are. The Bharatiya Janata Party does that all the time; when it's not Gyanvapi Mosque, it is the name change game. Mandalite politicians keep focusing on caste. Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar has found a new vocation for himself: uplifting the moral standards of Biharis. This is surely easier than raising their living standards. Making women safe, however, is not an easy job, so our netas are not very keen on it.

Governors' slugfest

It is most unfortunate that the governors are denigrating their office by their conduct

The stand-off between the Centre and the three southern States of Kerala, Tamil Nadu, and Telangana took a new turn early this week with P S Sreedharan Pillai, Governor of Goa jumping into the fray by indirectly admonishing his Kerala counterpart Arif Mohammed Khan for breaching the Lakshman Rekha. Arif Mohammed Khan during the last two years spent a staggering 223 days outside Kerala making him the Non-Resident Governor. He is waging a legal battle against the CPI(M)-led Government for its impropriety over the appointment of vice-chancellors and senior faculty members to the universities in the State. The Governor, instead of playing the role of a match referee, surges ahead with the ball and starts firing shots at the Marxists' goalpost.

Neighbouring Tamil Nadu is witnessing a similar scenario as the Governor, a highly venerated former Indian Police Service officer, returned/kept in abeyance many Bills passed by the DMK Government. The Dravidians had the shock of their lives when the Governor described the Aryan-Dravidian theory as bunkum because this was the only raison d'etre for the DMK's existence. The party reacted most violently by lampooning the Governor. Its senior leaders sang in unison that a sheep does not need a beard and similarly the State does not require a Governor. The party forgot the fact that it was in power at the Centre for almost 15 years and could have forced the then governments to do away with the post of Governors. The Sarkaria Commission appointed by the Indira Gandhi regime had termed the then Tamil Nadu Chief Minister as the epitome of scientific corruption. R N Ravi is not a run-of-the-mill Governor, unlike Arif Mohammed Khan or Pillai. The last named was the Kerala BJP chief and has not won even a panchayat election. The Telangana Governor too was a former chief of Tamil Nadu BJP and occupies the Hyderabad Raj Bhavan only because of the blessings of Sangh Parivar. It is commendable that Pillai has come out in the open lambasting Khan though it should be seen as the former's far-sightedness to ensure his survivability in the post-2024 landscape of the country. It is time the policymakers held a review on the relevance of Governors and their roles. The Governors, whether recommended by Sangh Parivar or Congress should get the respect due to them. Otherwise, the best thing to do is to shut down the Raj Bhavans which would save the exchequer of crores every year.

Hidden gems of rare language cinema

Rare Language Indian Cinema section of the 28th Kolkata International Film Festival cherishes good cinema made in lesser known languages.

SANTANU GANGULY

The journey of the section Unheard India - Rare Language Indian Cinema was started in 2015 at the Kolkata International Film Festival (KIFF). The veteran filmmaker Gautam Ghose, who is also an active member of KIFF, has always encouraged it and took the great initiative to approve the proposal of the Unheard India.

In our childhood days, around late 80s, every Sunday afternoon there was screening of films made in regional languages, like - Assamese, Bengali, Odiya, Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam, Kannada, Marathi on Doordarshan, the only available TV channel at that time. Once in a while, films on Konkani, Bodo languages were also shown.

Language always fascinates me and the diversity we see in the Indian languages is amazing. It is sad that many languages are going to be extinct due to lack of patronage and the influence of other languages. Besides the literature, it is also important to describe the local folklore and fables to be documented in audio visual format. So, it is my effort to convey the due respect to all the Indian languages through cinema.

Days after I chose Film Festival Curation or Programming as my profession, I discovered that many filmmakers were making films in various lesser known languages. There are some languages which are spoken only among some small communities or in a very small region, like - Mising, Sherdukpan among several tribal languages from Arunachal Pradesh. Filmmakers from the northeast are making short and feature length films in many languages like- Rabha, Mizo, Khasi, Garo, Nagamese, Dimasa, on a regular basis. In the southern part of India, Karnataka states presents a bouquet of Bayri, Konkani, Tulu, Kodava, Banjara languages apart from Kannada, from Kerala Paniya, Irulu and Adivasi languages are also there. Jasari from Lakshadweep is another example.

In north India filmmakers are making films on various dialect like Haryanvi, Rajasthani, from

FROM THE HEART OF NORTHERN INDIA, FILMMAKERS ARE MAKING FILMS ON VARIOUS DIALECTS LIKE HARYANVI, RAJASTHANI, FROM UTTARAKHAND - KUMAONI, GARHWALI, FROM JAMMU AND KASHMIR, LADAKH, AND HIMACHAL PRADESH REGION

Uttarakhand -Kumaoni, Garhwali, from Jammu and Kashmir, Ladakh, Himachal Pradesh region- Dogri, Kashmiri, Ladakhi, Gaddi, Pahari, etc. From the tribal part of West Bengal, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh - Santhali, Kurmali, Rajbanshi, Chhotanagpuri, Chhattisgarhi etc, are regularly making good quality feature films to tell their stories and trying to keeping alive their art - culture - rituals - traditions and of course their dialect and language. So many good quality films are coming from these invisible parts of India, but very few of them get their due recognition. Unfortunately our system is not allowing those incredible creations to reach the film loving audience. Some of the filmmakers are not even aware about the procedure to participate in film festivals. Phalke is considered as a piece of history then why not "Tanyabi Firti" as the first Chakma language film in the history of Indian Cinema?

The Chief Minister of West Bengal Mamata Banerjee has been very supportive since the beginning, she has requested the audiences to come to watch the Unheard India section at the Opening Ceremony of KIFF. Veteran filmmaker Mahesh Bhatt particularly mentioned about the Unheard India section. As he described how important the section is. "Through the feature length cinema made in the rare or aboriginal Indian languages, one can preserve their own mother-tongue, literature, culture, heritage," Bhatt said from the stage where the galaxy of stars were present - from the legendary Amitabh Bachchan to iconic Kamal Hasan to the heart throb Shah Rukh Khan, as well as the stars of Bengali film industry.

In the bouquet of the Unheard India: Rare Language Cinema of the 28th Kolkata International Film Festival this year there will be three aboriginal languages - Rajbanshi, Kurmali and Santhali from host state West Bengal itself, other languages are Maithili, Byari, Sanskrit and Rabha.

The Rajbanshi film Mansai directed by Ashutosh Das, Kurmali film Tusu by Biswajit Roy, Shishir Jha's Santhali film Dharti Latar Re Horo (Tortoise under the earth), Praatiek Sharma's Maithili film Lotus Boom, Aditya R. Chiranjeevi's Byari film Dharyan, Yadu Vijaykrishnan Parameshwaran's Sanskrit film Bhagavadajjukam and National Award-winning filmmaker Hiren Bora's Rabha film Nasimai (Darling) the only representation from the North East would also be screened.

Interestingly three films made in the rare languages - Deepankar Prakash's Rajasthani film Naanera, selected for the Indian Language Competition Section, while Kodava film Pommale Kodagu (Incredible Coorg) directed by Kottukattira Prakash Kariappa, produced by Yeshoda Prakash and Tulu film Munnid directed by Ismail Moodushekke and produced by Venkat Gowda has been selected for the prestigious Asian Select NETPAC Award section of the forthcoming 28th Kolkata International Film Festival to be held between 15 & 22 December 2022.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OIC HAS NO LOCUS STANDI ON KASHMIR

Sir - India has rightly condemned the visit of Organisation of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) secretary general Houssein Ibrahim Tahar's visit to Pakistan Occupied Kashmir (PoK). This amounts to interference by a third country on bilateral matters of India and Pakistan. Jammu and Kashmir is an inalienable part of India. In the past many countries including the US and the UK have offered to mediate in the matter for resolution of the 'dispute' on Kashmir which India has rejected outright. India has rightly termed that the 57-member group of largely Muslim majority nations has lost its credibility by taking a blatantly communal, partisan and factually incorrect approach to important issues. The support is not based on any merit. Pakistan sowed the seeds of cross-border terrorism. It has now grown as a very big tree. India has been cutting that tree for the benefit of not only India but to the world as a whole. Taha says that the OIC has been working on a plan to find a channel of discussion. India is never averse to the channel of discussion on issues of bilateral importance. But India's condition to Pakistan to desist from the activities supporting and nursing terrorists and terrorism has not yet been met with.

NITISH KUMAR CALLING IT A DAY

Sir - It is better to call it quick rather than being kicked off from the Grand alliance leader. Nitish Kumar has taken a wise decision in getting out of the grand alliance. The combination of 7 parties may break away any time and put the leader in his place by showing the door once results are not forthcoming. Thus Nitish Kumar put to rest all speculation to rest on his political heir, declared that his deputy and RJD leader Tashvsvi Prasad Yadav will lead the 7 parties grand alliance in the 2025 Assembly elections. He confided that enough is enough. So the leader of the so-called Grand Alliance or the Ghatbandan will be

Ruckus in Parliament

After the ruckus in Parliament over the recent clashes between Indian and Chinese troops in the Tawang sector of Arunachal Pradesh, 17 opposition parties staged a walk-out to protest the government's refusal to allow discussion on the matter. Led by former Congress president Sonia Gandhi and senior leader Adhir Ranjan Chaudhary, Congress MPs of the Lok Sabha walked out of parliament after the government denied discussion on the matter on Wednesday December 14. Similarly, in the Rajya Sabha, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge led a similar walkout for members of the upper house. The opposition repeatedly asked for a debate on the Chinese transgression, but the government refused to allow it. The defence minister left without giving any clarification to the House. The senior Congress leader said there was "no point" sitting inside the House if the government refuses to give any clarifications. The Opposition sought clarification after defence minister Rajnath Singh's statements, but the government rejected this demand.

MESSI'S EARLY RETIREMENT

Sir - 35 years old Lionel Andrés Messi, also known as Lionel Messi, world's one of the greatest football players who has won six FIFA world player of the year awards, has announced that the FIFA World Cup final will be his last game for Argentina. Though the World Cup football final will be held on Sunday 18 December, even then after the retirement announcement Messi said, "I feel very happy to be able to achieve this, to finish my World Cup journey by playing my last game in a final."

Messi now has 11 goals to his name in 25 matches. Not only with goals, but also with assists, Messi set a new record. He is the first player in World Cup history to score a goal and provide an assist in the same game in four matches. He has done this three times in the ongoing World Cup and once back in 2006 against Serbia. He led Argentina to the final in which Messi, who is playing his "record-equaling" fifth FIFA World Cup in Qatar this year, will play the FIFA World Cup final for the second time in his career. The 2014 edition as well, but had to settle for a second-place finish. But this year, he will hope to end the 36-year wait for his country and win the first ever World Cup title. Besides, Messi has been on fire in this edition of the FIFA World Cup. He has won four Player of the Match awards and has found the back of the net in five out of the six matches played so far. Compared to modern day players, Messi's decision of retirement may be slightly too early. True legend of the game, we will miss his magic. But still all the best to Messi. He deserves a legendary farewell.

ASSET ALLOCATION KEY IN HEATED EQUITY MKT

Neither falling nor rising markets should be chased

S KALYANASUNDARAM

On December 1, the Bombay Stock Exchange equity index Sensex reached a peak of 63583 points and closed at 63284 points, which is an all-time high. The NSE NIFTY index also peaked correspondingly.

Experts attribute many reasons for the current uptrend of Indian equity market. Broadly, it may be because of heavy investments on the part of the foreign portfolio investors, which in turn is due to positive outlook of the Indian economy in comparison to other emerging markets.

The Indian economy is perceived as a better managed one with best productivity in terms of GDP growth and also with better managed inflation compared to other countries.

Bull and bear markets are nothing unusual. From our experience we have also seen that the bull market or bear market will also have its own peak and reverse from there. Wrong entry or exit will ruin the investors' wealth. There are standard tools to manage one's investments during such phases.

Asset allocation is an investment strategy by which an investor attempts to balance risk versus reward by adjusting the percentage of amount invested in an asset of a portfolio according to the risk tolerance of the investor, his/her goals and the investment time frame.

When the equity market is rising, your equity investment balance will go up. To maintain the original asset allocation plan (as percentage), there should be diversion of funds from equity investment to fixed income securities. But investors generally get impressed by the equity portfolio performance and start pumping more funds towards equity when the market is rising.

This will be a risky proposition as the original purpose of asset allocation based on risk parameters will be defeated.

Any person may be holding some dud stocks. It is time to get rid of such stocks when you perceive the price is far above its intrinsic value.

On seeing the market galloping and some friends are making money, some people who have never invested in stocks are tempted to invest afresh. Mostly they do this based on tips from share brokers and friends. This is a very dangerous way to invest. Peter Lynch will say that investing in a falling stock is like catching a falling knife. In the same way, trying to catch the rising market is like catching a moving train. Slow and steady investment will only win in the long run.

When we analyse the Sensex for the last 25 years, we can notice that out of 25 years, barring six years, all the years a new peak was reached. In all these years, the previous year's peak was not fully maintained in the subsequent year and there were always lows (less than the previous year's high). For example in 2021-22, the high was 62245 but in the current year the low was 50921.

Out of 25 years, in three years the low was less than the previous year's low. In the long term, the market will go up. A year's peak may not sustain throughout next year. Ups and downs are part of the market and new highs and new lows are nothing unusual. One need not enter an overheated market in a hurry. One need not get out when the market falls. Investment time in the market is more important than timing the market. Regular and periodical investment based on one's risk appetite is important and discipline in maintaining the asset allocation will be crucial to reduce risk for optimum return.

Pak can follow UP on the cottage industry

One District One Product Scheme has transformed the cottage industry in UP, while it languishes in Pakistan

BISWAJEET BANERJEE

TAHIR AMIN

Quasar Jahan, 28, throws a glance at the design of foliage and starts embroidery, humming a Hindi movie song that talks about a better future. She is part of a group of women who are busy with embroidery work. She looks around and says: "Everyone here is giving shape to their future through these designs."

Anum, 26, sitting near Quasar, responds to her with a smile radiating the courtyard with positivity. Both are among thousands of women who work as 'chikankari' artisans in Lucknow, who embroider intricate designs on clothes that are much in demand in big cities like Delhi, Mumbai and Kolkata, and even in Europe and the US.

Quasar has a traumatic past, which she wants to forget. Married at the age of 15, she was divorced when she was 22, while she was a mother of two children - a son aged five years old and a daughter, who was three years old. Quasar never went to a school. She was pushed into an early marriage, and then had to go through the heartbreak of a broken relationship. She took up chikankari to support herself and her children. She learned the centuries-old art of embroidery and with practice and perseverance, she now works magic with her nimble fingers.

Chikan embroidery is not new for Quasar as she has seen women at different centres, which could even be the courtyard of a house, where women sit down to embroider after finishing their chores. She learned the artwork painstakingly and started working with the ladies. Initially, she earned Rs 100-125 per day after almost 8-10 hours of work.

As per the government record, chikan embroidery provides employment to over 350,000 artisans, mostly Muslim women, around Lucknow. Besides, close to a million people are associated with the chikan trade, as raw material suppliers, contractors, manufacturers and retailers.

"Poverty liberated me. It forced me to come out of the confines of the four walls of my house to earn money. This gave me confidence and I used my earnings to educate my son and daughter," said Shahida Khatoun, another chikankari artisan.

The transformation in her life came in 2017 when the chikan embroidery work was adopted by the provincial government of Uttar Pradesh under the 'One District One Product (ODOP)' Scheme, which aims to preserve, develop and boost the demand of local arts and crafts.

Quasar and women like her have now found a market and even have learned new words like "exhibition" and "boutique" - and now they know their chikan embroidery is much in demand. Last week she went to Pune, a city in western India, and returned home earning a profit of Rs 27,000.

UTTAR PRADESH IS HOME TO 230 MILLION PEOPLE, EQUIVALENT TO THAT OF PAKISTAN. UNDER ODOP SCHEME, ITRA (PERFUME) OF KANNAUJ, CARPETS OF BHADOHI, BRASSWARE OF MORADABAD, KALA NAMAK RICE FROM KUSHINAGAR, ARE BEING TAKEN TO THE GLOBAL MARKET

(Biswajeet Banerjee is based in Lucknow and Tahir Amin in Islamabad)

Almost at the same time, Seema Babar, an embroidery artisan in the Nowshera district of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa in Pakistan, rues that despite getting appreciation for training illiterate women in embroidery there is no government support. "Different government departments have appreciated our efforts in imparting vocational training to women but are reluctant in releasing funds," she said.

Seema, an Islamic scholar, had started a skill training centre in the verandah of her house. They impart training in tailoring and embroidery. She used this centre to provide employment to women.

"Most of these women are illiterate housewives. Some of them have diplomas (in embroidery) from government centres. Still, they come here because they do not have employment opportunities in those centres," Seema said.

The centre takes tailoring and embroidery orders from garment shops. These women complete the orders and this way they earn some money. "Had the government supported us, we would have done better. What we need is cheap raw materials and government help in finding buyers. It is a big struggle to keep this trade afloat without any support," she said.

Mehreen, another artisan, has been in this trade for the last four years. Her intricate designs have won laurels across Pakistan. "People like my embroidery and I am getting orders from people. Now, I am planning to export readymade garments to the Middle East and Europe. The problem is I do not have a space where I can make women sit and work for me. I have hired eight women who work from their homes. I get orders and pass it on to these women. Once I complete the order, I get money. The profit margin is very less as the middleman takes the major portion of the profit," she said.

She recounts that once a non-governmental organisation (NGO) approached her with the proposal that it would finance and provide the raw materials but the profit would be shared. She rejected the offer.

"We are facing a severe challenge in the form of high input costs, bad transportation, and unavailability of raw material, frequent power outages, and lack of skilled workers. No government institution extends a helping hand," Mehreen said.

Nazeer Ahmad Ansari who runs his power loom in Tando Adam Khan in Sindh province of Pakistan, is now thinking of closing down his shop because of high input costs and load shedding.

The attitude of the governments of the two countries - India and Pakistan - reflects their approach. On the one hand, the Indian government is alive to the problems of the people involved in small-scale industries and has formulated policies, on the other, the government in Pakistan is still grappling with the issue and it still uses Small and Household Manufacturing Industries (SHMIs) census of 2015 to formulate its cottage industry.

The Federal Board of Revenue

(FBR) in Pakistan in its report says that cottage and small-scale industries have a great scope in Pakistan. It generates employment for the nation and improves the balance of trade in the country and employs about 81 per cent of the total labour force.

Government officials vouch that the cottage industry has a job creation potential which in turn can help in the reduction of poverty, but no government in Pakistan has taken this sector seriously.

"The negligence is evident from the fact that Pakistan still uses the census of 2015," said an official. Uttar Pradesh is home to 230 million people, equivalent to that of Pakistan. Under this ODOP scheme, Itra (perfume) of Kannauj, carpets of Bhadohi, brassware of Moradabad, Kala Namak rice from Kushinagar, are being taken to the global market.

"More than 20 million ODOP products worth $12.19 billion have been sold in 2020-21 on the Flipkart portal which has helped artisans of UP in a big way," Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath said.

In ODOP more than 10 lakh beneficiaries were given loans of about Rs 30,000 crore (US dollars 368.45 billion) through four online fairs.

Quasar is one of the beneficiaries of the ODOP scheme. "Initially, I did not have funds. The loan provided by the government helped me purchase raw materials. The government initiative also helped me find a market. Now, I can say with pride that I too am an entrepreneur who has a business of my own," she says.

BJP to focus on UCC and other emotional issues

BJP has begun setting the tone for 2024 elections, ensuring that emotional issues, not economy, will be in limelight

Prime Minister Narendra Modi helped the Bharatiya Janata Party with a record victory of 156 seats in Gujarat. Now it may be an intense Hindu makeover surpassing the economy to continue the spree till 2024 Lok Sabha poll

SHIVAJI SARKAR

The party prefers to go beyond economics and politics. It is setting the agenda for an open debate before the poll process begins in February 2023. The BJP starts methodically to pave the pitch for the national elections to be preceded by elections to nine state assemblies and four with the Lok Sabha.

The economic rhetoric of a $5-trillion economy would remain there as it was also in Gujarat for a state GDP of one trillion, though it could not create the mood that the party may have liked. That led its leaders to walk the extra - 50 km and 10 km patch for the astounding victory. The magic attraction of Modi finally did the trick as also the party's capability to muster over 16 lakh people at the polling stations in a jiffy in the second phase on December 5. The party's financial and manpower strength virtually wiped out the opposition parties, particularly Congress and the AAP.

The 2024 elections once again may not be contested on economic blueprints. India may be doing better with over six per cent growth, but it may not be enough to lure voters.

The BJP proceeds with the cafeteria approach of campaigning. It would be different in each of the nine states in 2023 in North East - Meghalaya, Nagaland, Mizoram, Tripura; South - Karnataka, Telangana; centre - Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh and west - Rajasthan. Andhra, Arunachal, Odisha and Sikkim are likely to go to polls with the Lok Sabha elections in April 2024.

The controversies, the BJP poll organisers know, are vote catchers. It may again gamble on polarisation, population or the divide with unique packs in each state.

It has almost now centred on the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) to create a wave all over the country. The discussion on the issue of personal laws touches almost all Indians. A small instance of larger import was witnessed in the Rajya Sabha on Friday, December 9, with introduction of a private member's Bill by BJP MP, Kirodi Lal Meena. He demanded a panel to prepare and implement the UCC. It divides the house. Expectedly the Congress, TMC, DMK, CPI-M, CPI, IUML, MDMK, Samajwadi Party and RJD lodged strong protests amid uproar.

Chairman Jagdeep Dhankar called for division and the motion was cleared with 63 votes in favour and 23 against.

The UCC would be garnished with the population control policy for sharpening the campaign. If the BJP concentrates on scrapping the junking of ten-year-new cars, started by UPA-Congress, in all the states, it would touch the hearts of several crore people and families. It can be a game changer as Switzerland has taken the first step to do away with improper tech electricity guzzler electric vehicles -EV. Seething anger against the forced junking of cars and tractors is witnessed among kisans of UP, Haryana, Uttarakhand, Odisha, West Bengal, Punjab and several other states.

Once again there may be freebies or not, the free food dole is likely to get an extension till the Lok Sabha polls along with many other programmes for the tribals, and disadvantaged groups. The programme is likely to be extended to May 2024, in phases.

The minorities are to be given special favour in allotments of PM Avas Yojana houses, jobs in EWS quota, allocations to religious schools, madrasas and some other programmes. It is interesting to note that backward minority communities are gradually being attracted to the Hindu party. The subtle campaigning among minority groups of different religions by RSS leader Indresh Kumar has caught the fancy.

The minority denominated constituencies in the North East, Telangana, Andhra and Karnataka would be approached by party cadres for the next year continuously to lure them to vote for the BJP. It is in touch with different churches. Various programmes tailored for each of the states are aimed at swinging the mood for the saffron party. The approach, packaging and methods are special to each state concentrating on welfare and popular imaging.

The local religious icons too would be projected in many ways. In Arunachal, Donyi-Polo, the Sun-Moon Temple, is getting keen attention. Modi opened the Donyi-Polo airport sometime back. Nagaland is varied and so are other states in the region. An RSS leader says that the Sangh had been catering to NE tribals groups for decades.

The novel campaign plank has been designed to surpass the economic issues and capture the electorate's imagination to win over the elections with a mix of emotions, connect and divide to perpetuate its rule till 2047 or centenary of Independence.

Russia warns 'consequences' if US missiles sent to Ukraine

AP ■ KYIV

Russia's Foreign Ministry warned Thursday that if the United States confirms reports that it plans to deliver sophisticated air defense missiles to Ukraine, it would be "another provocative move by the U.S." that could prompt a response from Moscow.

Ministry spokesperson Maria Zakharova said in a weekly briefing Thursday that "the U.S. Has effectively become a party" to the war in Ukraine, following reports that it will provide Kyiv with Patriot surface-to-air missiles, the most advanced the West has yet provided to help Ukraine's military repel Russian aerial attacks.

Zakharova added that growing amounts of U.S. Military assistance, including the transfer of such sophisticated weapons, "would mean even broader involvement of military personnel in the hostilities and could entail possible consequences." She did not specify what the consequences might be.

U.S. Officials said Tuesday that Washington was poised to

A Patriot battery can need as many as 90 troops to operate and maintain it, and for months the U.S. Was reluctant to provide the complex system because sending forces into Ukraine to operate it is a non-starter for the administration of President Joe Biden.

as many as 90 troops to operate and maintain it, and for months the U.S. Was reluctant to provide the complex system because sending forces into Ukraine to operate it is a non-starter for the administration of President Joe Biden.

Yet concerns remain that even without the presence of U.S. Servicemen to train Ukrainians on how to use the system, deployment of the missiles could provoke Russia or risk that a fired projectile could end up hitting inside Russia, further escalating the conflict.

Even before reports emerged on the delivery of Patriot systems, Dmitry Medvedev, deputy head of Russia's Security Council which is chaired by President Vladimir Putin, warned that if Patriots enter Ukraine "along with NATO personnel, they will immediately become a legitimate target for our armed forces."

Asked Wednesday whether the Kremlin backs that threat, Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov answered yes, but added in a conference call with reporters that he would refrain from more detailed comment until the U.S. Officially announces the Patriot delivery to Ukraine. White House and Pentagon leaders have said consistently that providing Ukraine with additional air defenses is a priority, and Patriot missiles have been under consideration for some time. Officials said that as the winter closed in and the Russian bombardment of civilian infrastructure escalated, that consideration took on increased priority. Ukraine's electricity provider said Thursday that the country's energy system was suffering a "significant deficit of electricity," and that emergency shutdowns had been applied in some areas of the country as temperatures hover around or below freezing.

Lawmakers reviewing Qatar files: EU Parliament chief

AP ■ BRUSSELS

The European Union's Parliament is reviewing its files involving Qatar to see if any pressure was exerted on lawmakers, the assembly's president said Thursday as a corruption scandal rocked the EU's only directly elected institution.

Parliament President Roberta Metsola said the work under review includes an agreement to allow Qataris with biometric passports to have short visa-free stays in the EU. On Monday, the agreement was "sent back to committee for a full investigation," she said.

Metsola said questions also have surfaced about a separate EU-Qatar air agreement on which the European Parliament must be consulted. Talks have started with the EU's executive branch, the European Commission, to assess whether the accord should be suspended.

The agreement, signed in October 2021, would allow all EU airlines to operate direct flights to Qatar from any airport in the 27-nation bloc and give Qatari airlines the same access to European capitals. EU member countries have yet to approve it.

Metsola vowed that this would not be all. "We will look into everything. We will look into any undue pressure and any undue influence that we see that takes place," she told reporters after talks with EU leaders in Brussels.

Belgian prosecutors have charged four people with corruption, participation in a criminal group and money laundering on suspicion of trying buy political favours at the parliament with money or gifts.

They include a former vice president of the European Parliament and her partner. Greek lawmaker Eva Kaili remains in custody awaiting a hearing on December 22 and whose term in office was terminated by lawmakers this week. Her partner, Francesco Giorgi, who is a parliamentary advisor. The heads of two charity groups have been charged. Pier Antonio Panzeri, head of the Fight Impunity campaign group and a former member of the EU parliament, and Niccolò Figatellanica, secretary-general of another non-governmental organisation, No Peace Without Justice.

Metsola promised sweeping reforms in coming months to crack down on corruption and influence peddling at the assembly.

Referring to the institution's transparency register, she said: "Yesterday, an NGO called No Peace Without Justice, which is allegedly connected to this investigation that is ongoing, which had 11 persons accredited on it, was suspended.

Home-grown supply operation outfits Ukraine's women soldiers

AP ■ KYIV

When 25-year-old Anastasia Mikhina donned fatigues and rushed off with her husband to help Ukraine defend itself as Russia invaded on February 24, she quickly realised the military wasn't well prepared for an influx of women volunteers.

So her elder half-brother Andrii Kolesnyk, who was prevented from doing military service by a childhood disability, and his wife, Kseniia Drahaniuk, mobilised at home to ship her needed items.

Word spread fast inside the ranks that amateur quartermasters were focusing on women's particular needs, and a home-grown supply operation for female soldiers was born.

Now, a volunteer group called "Zemliachky" — roughly translated as "women compatriots" — is serving many of the 57,000 women in the Ukrainian military with boots, uniforms, stand-to-pee tubes, wireless bras, thermal underwear, medicines, right-sized bulletproof plates for their flak jackets, and care packages with items like lotions, shampoo, toothpaste, and feminine hygiene products.

In short, the group fill unanticipated gaps in the Ukrainian military's own supply operation.

"Our army was not prepared for the fact that so many women would appear in the army," said Drahaniuk, a 26-year-old journalist from Yalta, in now-occupied Crimea, sitting in front of metal shelves stocked with army boots and uniforms.

Today, at least 6,000 Ukrainian women have deployed on or near the front lines, in roles like paramedics and intelligence officers — but also snipers and artillery gunners.

They have joined the fight in a country where all men aged 18 to 60, with some exceptions, have been barred from leaving under martial law enacted after Russia's invasion.

When it got started, the association outsourced manufacturing of uniforms for women, but has since designed and produced them from a factory in the northeastern city of Kharkiv.

It all began with a need expressed by Mikhina, recalled Drahaniuk: "I need lip balm and hand cream, because my hands crack in the cold, and it's a pain."

Zemliachky has helped distribute more than USD 1 million worth of support — about one-fifth of that through direct donations, the rest in in-kind support.

Its corporate contributors include medical supply firms, beauty salons and the gaming industry, Drahaniuk said.

All Ukrainians have been impacted by President Vladimir Putin's war in their country, which widened a conflict that began in 2014 when pro-Russian separatists in the eastern Donbas rebelled against the Kyiv government, and Russia illegally annexed Ukraine's southern peninsula of Crimea.

Women, in ways large and small, have borne the brunt: Millions fled the country, often with children or elderly relatives in tow.

Human rights monitors say some who remained were raped, sexually abused, or otherwise brutalised. As with many Ukrainian civilians, an untold number were injured or killed in Russian attacks.

"I didn't know what to do. I just wanted to do something," said Mikhina, who has worked as a signals and communications specialist and with territorial defence units in Kyiv.

"We just wanted to fight back. So my father and I said, 'We will go' — and went straight to the nearby army post."

After the war broke out, Ukraine's military outfitted many women with small-sized men's uniforms or boots. In recent months, as part of its response, Zemliachky has crafted its designs to account for women's bodies, sizes and needs.

Dozens of orders come in and go out by truck, train and courier daily, and a converted two-room warehouse stall in northeastern Kyiv serves as a showroom where women on leave can pick up the wares — made available for free — themselves.

Once, Drahaniuk recalled, she got a call indicating that an order for 10 uniforms and pairs of shoes needed to be reduced to five — after a Russian attack one night cost five lives.

"They really give their lives for the freedom of our country," she said. Last week, a pair of women in fatigues drew a joyful hug from Drahaniuk as they entered the supply room to collect new gear, raving about Zemliachky's support, which goes beyond equipment — like posting personal portrait stories of women soldiers or training videos online.

"Kysusha gave us everything we wear. ... She is our saviour," said Maria Stalynska, who joined the military in August and has been on an unspecified front line, using a nickname for Drahaniuk.

"There are even cases when we need medicine or a hospital. We immediately go to Kysusha."

"We are really grateful. These people really do a lot for us women, for the army, for protection," she added. "They support us in everything."

Kateryna Pryimak, co-founder of Ukraine's Women Veteran Movement, says groups like Zemliachky and another whose name translates roughly as "Arm Women Now" provide a crucial role because for years, "material support of women in the army" — uniforms, shoes, underwear — "was a problem."

"Our organisation, as a community of military women and veterans who have been taking care of these issues for a long time, is very glad that we have allies," she said.

The military activities of volunteers like her could reshape the image of women in what many see as a male-dominated society.

"After the victory of Ukraine, the behaviour of men toward women will change," said Drahaniuk.

"In civilian life, there will be the women who fought, and the men who didn't, and it could change things like professional advancement, salaries, even the culture of women in society."

Jesuit case underscores secrecy, leniency for abuse of women

AP ■ ROME

Revelations that the Vatican let a famous priest off the hook twice for abusing his authority over adult women has exposed two main weaknesses in the Holy See's abuse policies: sexual and spiritual misconduct against adult women is rarely if ever punished, and secrecy still reigns supreme, especially when powerful priests are involved.

The Jesuit order, to which Pope Francis belongs, was forced to admit Wednesday that its initial statements about the Rev. Marko Ivan Rupnik, an internationally recognised religious artist, were less than complete. The order had said Rupnik was accused in 2021 of unspecified problems "in the way he exercised his ministry" but that the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith determined the allegations were too old to prosecute.

But under questioning by journalists, the Jesuit superior general, the Rev. Arturo Sosa, acknowledged the Congregation had prosecuted Rupnik for a separate, prior case from 2019 that ended with his conviction and temporary excommunication for one of the gravest crimes in the church's in-house canon law: that he used the confessional to absolve a woman with whom he previously had sexual relations.

The case dates from 2015, when Rupnik was in Rome, and also included an accusation of false mysticism that wasn't prosecuted, according to a person familiar with the case who was not authorised to speak about it. Rupnik quickly admitted to the confession-related crime and formally repented, and the Congregation immediately lifted his excommunication from the church, Sosa said in response to a question from The Associated Press.

While the Jesuits barred Rupnik from hearing confessions or giving spiritual direction, the restrictions on his ministry did not prevent him from celebrating Mass or preaching. He continued writing and making his art without the public, the consecrated women in his community or even his own Jesuit confreres knowing the truth.

Rupnik is unknown to most Catholics but is a giant within the Jesuit order and the Catholic hierarchy because he is one of the church's most sought-after artists. His mosaics depicting biblical scenes decorate the basilica in Lourdes, France, the Vatican's own Redemptoris Mater chapel and the John Paul II institute in Washington, and are due to grace the new basilica in Aparecida, Brazil. He designed the Vatican logo for the 2022 World Meeting of Families, and was featured in a Vatican News television interview to describe the religious inspiration behind it.

Explainer: What can Patriot missile do for Ukraine?

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Patriot missile systems have long been a hot ticket item for the US and allies in contested areas of the world as a coveted shield against incoming missiles. In Europe, the Middle East and the Pacific, they guard against potential strikes from Iran, Somalia and North Korea.

So it was a critical turning point when news broke this week that the U.S. Has agreed to send a Patriot missile battery to Ukraine — something Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy has sought for months to augment his country's air defenses. U.S. Officials have confirmed the agreement, and an official announcement is expected soon. But experts caution that the system's effectiveness is limited, and it may not be a game changer in the war.

A look at what the system is and what it does:

WHAT IS THE PATRIOT?

The Patriot is a surface-to-air guided missile system that was first deployed in the 1980s and can target aircraft, cruise missiles and shorter-range ballistic missiles.

Each Patriot battery consists of a truck-mounted launching system with eight launchers that can hold up to four missile interceptors each, a ground radar, a control station and a generator. The Army said it currently has 16 Patriot battalions. A 2018 International Institute for Strategic Studies report found those battalions operate 50 batteries, which have more than 1,200 missile interceptors.

The U.S. Batteries are regularly deployed around the world.

In addition, Patriots also are operated or being purchased by the Netherlands, Germany, Japan, Israel, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Taiwan, Greece, Spain, South Korea, the United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Romania, Sweden, Poland and Bahrain.

The Patriot system "is one of the most widely operated and reliable and proven air missile defense systems out there," and the theater ballistic missile defense capability could help defend Ukraine against Iranian-supplied ballistic missiles, said Tom Karako, director of the Missile Defense Project at the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

PATRIOT COST Over the years the Patriot system and missiles have been continually modified. The current interceptor missile for the Patriot system costs approximately $4 million per round and the launchers cost about $10 million each. CSIS reported in its July missile defense report. At that price, it's not cost effective or optimal to use the Patriot to shoot down the far smaller and dramatically cheaper Iranian drones that Russia has been buying and using in Ukraine. "Firing a million-dollar missile at a $50,000 drone is a losing proposition," said Mark Cancian, a retired Marine Corps reserves colonel and senior adviser at CSIS.

DEPLOYMENT CONCERNS A Patriot battery can need as many as 90 troops to operate and maintain it, and for months the U.S. Was reluctant to provide the complex system because sending forces into Ukraine to operate it is a non-starter for the Biden administration.

But there were also concerns that deployment of the system would provoke Russia, or risk that a missile fired could end up hitting inside Russia, which could further escalate the conflict. According to officials, the urgent pleadings of Ukrainian leaders and the devastating destruction of the country's civilian infrastructure, including loss of electricity and heat as winter drags on, ultimately overcame U.S. Reservations about supplying the Patriots.

A key hurdle will be training U.S. Troops will have to train Ukrainian forces on how to use and maintain the system. Army soldiers assigned to Patriot battalions get extensive training to be able to effectively locate a target, lock on with radar and fire.

The U.S. Has trained Ukrainian troops on other complex weapons systems, including the High Mobility Artillery Rocket Systems, known as HIMARS. In many cases they've been able to shorten the training, getting Ukrainian troops out to the battlefield in weeks. Officials have declined to provide details on how long the Patriots training would take and where exactly it will be done.

PATRIOT CAPABILITIES Ukraine faces a range of Russian threats, and the Patriot is good against some and not that useful against others.

One former senior military official with knowledge of the Patriot system said it will be effective against short-range ballistic missiles and it represents a strong message of U.S. Support, but one battery isn't going to change the course of the war.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the Ukraine deal has not yet been made public, noted that one Patriot battery has a long firing range, but can cover only a limited broad area. As an example, Patriots can effectively protect a small military base, but can't fully protect a large city such as Kyiv. They could only provide coverage for a segment of a city.

Patriots are often deployed as a battalion, which includes four batteries. This won't be the case with Ukraine, which officials said would be receiving one battery.

Covid curbs in Chinese iPhone factory to be eased

AP ■ HONG KONG

The company that assembles Apple Inc.'s iPhones has announced it is easing COVID-19 restrictions at its largest factory in China that led thousands of workers to quit and drastically slowed production.

Foxconn Technology Group said in a statement on one of its official WeChat social media accounts that it would end the so-called "closed loop" system at the facility in Zhengzhou, central China, that required workers to say in their workplaces and dormitories to prevent the spread of coronavirus infections.

The move announced Wednesday came about a week after China began easing harsh COVID-19 curbs despite signs the number of infections is rising.

Following a spate of protests across the country last month many "zero-COVID" restrictions were lifted. That means people no longer need to take frequent COVID-19 tests to travel on public transport. If they do test positive for the virus, they can isolate at home if they have only mild or no symptoms instead of being sent to a quarantine centre.

Chinese President Xi Jinping's government is still officially committed to stopping virus transmission. But the government's latest moves suggest authorities will tolerate more infections without quarantines or shutting down travel or businesses.

Thousands of workers at the huge factory in Zhengzhou walked out in late October over complaints of unsafe working conditions — such as food shortages due to closed cafeterias — and a virus outbreak at the plant.

The last quarter of the year is typically a busy season for companies like Foxconn as they ramp up production ahead of the end of year holiday rush. Apple has warned that iPhone 14 deliveries would be delayed due to manufacturing disruptions.

Foxconn, headquartered in New Taipei City, Taiwan, has been trying to rebuild its workforce after the massive walkout in late October. The company then ended up apologising after a pay dispute triggered protests by workers who said Foxconn had changed the terms of wages offered to attract them to the factory.

In its announcement, the company said it would no longer provide free meals to workers because factory cafeterias would reopen. Instead, meal expenses will be deducted from employees' wages as usual, though workers who must quarantine after testing positive for the virus will still get free meals.

'Wheat stocks seen at 159 lakh tonnes on Jan 1, 2023'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Government on Thursday said wheat stocks in the central pool will be about 159 lakh tonnes on January 1, 2023 as against the buffer norm of 138 lakh tonnes.

“Government of India has sufficient food grain stocks under central pool to meet the requirement of NFSA (National Food Security Act) and its other welfare schemes as well as for additional allocation of PMGKAY (Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana),” an official statement said.

About 159 lakh tonnes of wheat will be available as on January 1, 2023, which is well above the buffer norm requirement of 138 lakh tonnes. As on December 12, around 182 lakh tonnes of wheat is available in the central pool.

“Government of India is well aware of the price scenario of wheat and is constantly monitoring it regularly on weekly basis along with other commodities and taking corrective measures, as and when required,” it said.

The Centre has taken proactive steps to ward off any further price rise and export regulations were imposed with effect from May 13, 2022.

Further, the allocations under the NFSA as well as PMGKAY have also been revised in favour of rice for having sufficient wheat stock in the central pool to cater to the requirements of welfare schemes, the statement said.

The Centre has enhanced the MSP (minimum support price) of wheat crop this year to ₹2,125 per quintal against the last year's MSP of ₹2,015 per quintal for RMS (rabi marketing season) 2022-23.

Thus, an increase in MSP of ₹110 per quintal coupled with fairly good climatic conditions, it is expected that the production and procurement of wheat during the next season will remain normal.

“Procurement of Wheat next season would commence from April 2023 and as per initial assessment, there has been a fair increase in the sowing of wheat crop as compared to last year,” the statement said.

The government said it has ensured that sufficient stock of food grains are available in the Central Pool to meet the requirement of all the welfare schemes and prices remain under control.

“Though procurement of wheat during last season was on lower side due to lesser production coupled with selling by farmers at prices higher than MSP in the open market consequent to geo-political situation, yet enough stock of Wheat will still be available in central pool to cater to the needs of the country till the time next Wheat crop arrives,” it added.

Wheat procurement in rabi marketing season (April-June) of 2022-23 fell to 187.92 lakh tonnes as against 433.44 lakh tonnes in 2021-22 as market price of wheat was higher than the ruling MSP.

India's wheat production declined to 106.84 million tonnes in the 2021-22 crop year (July-June) from 109.6 million tonnes in the previous year due to heat waves in certain states like Punjab and Haryana.

Sensex slumps 879 pts as hawkish Fed floors global markets

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The Sensex plummeted 879 points while the Nifty crashed below the 18,415 mark on Thursday, in tandem with a global sell-off after the US Federal Reserve increased the interest rate and signalled more hikes in its fight against inflation.

A depreciating rupee added to the gloom, traders said.

Reversing its two-day winning run, the 30-share BSE Sensex tanked 878.88 points or 1.40 per cent to finish at 61,799.03.

The broader NSE Nifty plummeted 245.40 points or 1.32 per cent to end at 18,414.90.

Tech Mahindra was the biggest laggard among Sensex components, tumbling 3.98 per cent, followed by Infosys, Titan, HDFC, ITC, HDFC Bank, Tata Steel and TCS.

Only Sun Pharma and NTPC managed to close in the green, rising up to 0.08 per cent.

The US Fed on Wednesday increased interest rates by 50 basis points on expected lines and signalled more hikes ahead to fight inflation even as the world's largest economy stares at a possible recession. The US central bank raised the interest rate to 4.25-4.50 per cent to the highest level in 15 years.

“The Fed has startled the market by maintaining its hawkish tone, as investors were expecting a softer approach after the release of better-than-expected inflation numbers.”

“IT stocks led to pessimism in the domestic market as recession fears grew in the global economies following the Fed's comments. The market now awaits the BoE (Bank of England) and ECB (European Central Bank) decisions, which are likely to follow a half-point hike,” said Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services.

Elsewhere in Asia, equity markets in Seoul, Tokyo, Shanghai and Hong Kong ended lower.

India growing faster than official data shows, says Credit Suisse

PTI ■ MUMBAI

India is growing faster than what is captured by the country's official data, and it presents a case for an upgrade of equities outlook, a Swiss brokerage said on Thursday.

Upgrading Indian equities to ‘benchmark’ from ‘underweight’, Credit Suisse said there is a scope for a growth of up to 14 per cent on the benchmark indices. The brokerage firm's head of research Neelkanth Mishra said the country will grow at 7 per cent in FY24, as against the consensus estimates which peg the real growth to slip below 6 per cent. Mishra told reporters that the consensus estimates are based on official data alone, whereas the brokerage analysis has taken into account a broad data set to arrive at its expectation.

Mishra said the growth in dense fuels -- which is typically below the real GDP growth as fuel efficiencies go up -- is over 4 per cent per annum for the last three years. Similarly, revenue growths of the BSE500 companies also point out to a faster growth, he said.

“We are expecting a stronger acceleration in India's GDP growth in 2023 owing to several domestic growth drivers. Revival in government spending, increase in low-income jobs and easing of supply-chain bottlenecks should partly offset the impact of rate hikes, a slowing global economy and the need to reduce the balance-of-payments (BoP) deficit,” he said.

The risk factors continue to be dependent on imported energy, reliance on foreign capital and a slowing global economy, he said. The present inflation situation and outlook does not necessitate more rate hikes, but the RBI may hike purely to thwart any damage on the balance of payments front, he said.

Petronet LNG to set up floating LNG terminal at Gopalpur

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Petronet LNG Ltd, India's largest liquefied natural gas importer, will set up a floating LNG receipt facility at Gopalpur port in Odisha at ₹2,306 crore.

The company has signed an agreement with Gopalpur Ports Ltd for the facility that will have a capacity of about 4 million tonnes per annum, it said in a tweet.

“We are pleased to inform that @PetronetLNGLtd is heading forward in establishing its presence on the east coast of India by signing a term sheet with Gopalpur Ports Limited on 14th December 2022 for establishing and operating LNG terminal at Gopalpur port in Odisha,” it said.

Last month, the company's board had accorded investment approval for setting up the floating storage and regasification unit (FSRU) based LNG terminal at Gopalpur.

LNG is natural gas that has been supercooled, changing it from a gas into a liquid that is 1/600th of its original volume. This helps in easy transportation through ships. At the receipt facility, it is turned back into gas before being supplied to factories to produce fertiliser, generate electricity at power plants, or turned into CNG for running automobiles.

Petronet's project in the Ganjam district in Odisha, which is expected to be operational before the end of 2025, will be financed by a combination of debt and equity.

Gopalpur will be the third LNG terminal on the east coast -- Indian Oil Corporation (IOC) operates a 5 million tonnes a year facility at Ennore in Tamil Nadu while Adani Group in partnership with TotalEnergie of France is building a facility at Dhamra port.

Petronet management had previously stated that the FSRU-based receiving and regasification scheme has the provision to be converted in the future to a land-based terminal - with an expected capacity of 5 million tonnes per annum.

The firm is planning to charter hire an FSRU for the Gopalpur terminal with a target to meet the increasing gas demand of the eastern and central parts of the country.

It, currently, operates the 17.5 million tonnes per annum terminal at Dahej in Gujarat and a 5 million tonnes facility at Kochi in Kerala. The Dahej terminal is undergoing expansion to a capacity of 22.5 million tonnes.

At the interbank foreign exchange market, the rupee opened sharply lower at 82.63 against the greenback and witnessed a high of 82.41 and a low of 82.77.

It finally settled at 82.76, down 27 paise over its previous close of 82.49.

NBFCs grow at 10-12%, to keep momentum

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Led by retail-focused players, non-banking financial companies (NBFCs) are likely to close the current fiscal and the next with a loan growth of 10-12 per cent and see around 50 basis points improvement in profitability, a report said.

According to Ica Ratings, retail-focused NBFCs are expected to grow 12-14 per cent while the housing finance companies may grow at 10-12 per cent. The forecast is based on the asset quality improvement and the overall pick up in credit demand.

However, microfinance and personal loans, which together constitute a quarter of the ₹25-lakh crore shadow banking sector, will continue to grow at high pace.

Sectoral profitability will improve by 40-50 basis points (bps) this fiscal, supported by stable margins and lower credit cost, and will reach the pre-pandemic levels, the report said.

While growth will be broad-based across various sub-sectors, microfinance and personal loans will be leading the growth chart. On the other hand, vehicle financing loans (commercial vehicle finance, passenger vehicle finance), which has remained significantly subdued since FY20, are also expected to report higher growth numbers, following an improvement in the operating environment.

Manushree Sagar, a vice-president and sector head - financial sector ratings at the agency, said, disbursements of NBFCs (excluding infra-NBFCs) and HFCs (Housing Finance Companies) have been higher than the pre-pandemic levels for three consecutive quarters, indicating that the industry has finally come out of the long trough.

The government's research organisations ICAR and IARI have developed drought tolerant variety of chickpea 'Pusa JG 16' that has potential to boost yield of chickpea in central India.

Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR)-Indian Agricultural Research Institute (IARI), in collaboration with Jawaharlal Nehru Krishi Vishwa Vidyalaya (JNKVV) Jabalpur, Rajmata Vijayaraje Scindia Krishi Vishwa Vidyalaya, Gwalior and ICRISAT, Patancheru, Hyderabad have developed drought hardy and higher yielding chickpea variety 'Pusa JG 16', according to a statement.

The variety will enhance productivity in the drought prone areas of Central Zone consisting of Madhya Pradesh, Bundelkhand area of Uttar Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Southern Rajasthan, Maharashtra and Gujarat, where terminal drought is a major problem and sometimes leads to 50-100 per cent loss of yield.

“Pusa JG 16 variety was developed by using genomic assisted breeding techniques that allowed precision transfer of drought tolerant genes from ICC 4958 in the parental variety JG 16. The drought tolerance of this variety was affirmed through national level testing by the All India Coordinated Research Programme of Chickpea,” it added.

This variety is resistance to fusarium wilt and stunt diseases, having short duration maturity (110 days) and a yield potential of 2 tonnes per hectare under drought stress conditions over the recurrent parent JG 16 (1.3 tonnes/hectares).

THEO STEPS UP IN BROTHER'S ABSENCE

AP ■ DOHA

Theo Hernandez's goal against Morocco on Wednesday set France on their way to a second successive World Cup final. But it could have been very different if his brother had not been injured minutes into the tournament.

Lucas Hernandez tore an anterior cruciate ligament in France's opening 4-1 victory over Australia, ruling the Bayern Munich defender out for several months.

The injury blow came days after Les Bleus lost Ballon d'Or winner Karim Benzema to a thigh problem, with France coach Didier Deschamps already deprived of first-choice midfielders Paul Pogba and N'Golo Kante.

But it could have been a blessing in disguise of sorts for Deschamps, who ditched his experiment with a three-man defence and reverted to a 4-3-3 formation just before the World Cup in Qatar.

Playing behind Kylian Mbappe down France's left, he gives the team added potency in attack — contributing two assists in the group stage, but has at times also been exposed defensively. Theo, 25, who once considered playing for Spain, did not make his international debut until September 2021 but he scored the winning goal in just his second match.

He dropped in and out of the team before earning a run in the side in Qatar because of his brother's misfortune.

Let off the hook after Harry Kane blazed over a penalty he needlessly conceded in the previous round against England, Hernandez scored in just the fifth minute on Wednesday.

QUICK REACTIONS

Quickest to react to a looping deflection from Mbappe's shot, he expertly finished past Yassine Bounou to put France ahead and silence the pro-Morocco crowd.

"I was all alone. I saw Kylian wanted to shoot, there was a rebound and I pounced on it to score," said Hernandez.

Substitute Randal Kolo Muani doubled France's lead in the 79th minute, giving them a welcome cushion.

Deschamps' team now have the chance to become the first side in 60 years to successfully defend their World Cup title.

"I'm proud to have won the game and it's a very proud moment to have scored the goal," said Hernandez. "It's amazing to play two World Cup finals in a row, we've done a great job." But his task is only going to get harder, with Lionel Messi and Argentina lying in wait on Sunday.

"It's a huge match. We're going to work hard to win the final," said Hernandez, who revealed his brother, watching from Munich, had called to congratulate him after the game.

"The most important thing now is to recover well in the next four days and be ready for the final. Argentina are not just Messi, they have loads of players, they're a great team."

Regragui salutes Morocco effort after semis defeat

AP ■ DOHA

Morocco coach Walid Regragui had only praise for his team's efforts after their fairytale run at the World Cup ended in a 2-0 semi-final defeat to France on Wednesday.

"We gave our all, that's the most important thing. The boys fought until the last minute," said Regragui, whose team shocked Spain and Portugal in the previous two rounds. Theo Hernandez put France ahead in the fifth minute of the match and Regragui said that early blow had a huge impact on the match.

"If I have any regrets about this game, it would be mainly conceding that goal quickly — it gave the French team even more certainty to stick with their approach," he said.

Morocco had progressed through the tournament in Qatar by winning games despite often ceding possession.

It was a different story at the Al Bayt stadium, where Regragui's team enjoyed 51 percent possession but were unable to break through the French defence.

"We said that if they gave us the ball, we would take it. We did that but we made too many technical mistakes in the first half," said the Morocco coach.

"In the second half we were smarter, we gave away fewer balls and we caused them problems, creating a lot of opportunities but we weren't decisive in that final 30 metres.

"We wanted to get a goal and give them some doubts. But with their attacking talents, we knew we could be punished at any moment and that's what happened with the second goal."

Regragui had to deal with a number of injury concerns. Centre-back Nayef Aguerd withdrew after the warm-up, with Achraf Dari stepping in.

Fellow defender and captain Romain Saiss, who had been a doubt, started but had to go off in the 21st minute.

"We lost a lot of players who did their best. (Noussair) Mazraoui was ill but he played, Saiss too. I have nothing to say when the players give their maximum," Regragui said.

"We could have scored, but unfortunately a goal didn't come. May the Moroccans forgive us. We wanted to go to the final but... next time, God willing."

Regragui, born in France, was proud that his team had made their presence felt on the biggest stage.

"We gave the maximum, that's the most important thing," he said. "The most important thing is to have given a good image, to have shown the world that Moroccan football exists and that we have beautiful supporters."

"To reach the very, very highest level, to win a World Cup, we still have to work but we are not very far away."

Jubilation on Paris Champs-Elysees after France makes World Cup final

AP ■ PARIS

There were jubilant scenes on the Champs-Elysees avenue in central Paris on Wednesday as French supporters waved tricolour flags and let off flares to celebrate the win over Morocco which put Les Bleus into the World Cup final.

Some 10,000 police were mobilised across France to ensure the match and its aftermath went off peacefully, given the potential of a tension between French supporters and those backing France's one time North African colony.

But there was little sign of tension as supporters thronged the end of the avenue leading up to the Arc de Triomphe in impassioned but largely good-natured scenes with Moroccan supporters accepting defeat.

"We are in the final. We are in the final," hundreds of French supporters chanted as drivers sounded horns and anti-riot police lurked in vans lining the area.

"What pleasure it will be to play Argentina in the final," said Sylvain Badin, 24, clutching a French flag. "I came to share a moment of joy," he added.

Dozens of Moroccan fans had also made themselves heard during the match in the area, swathing themselves in the national flag and following the match on their phones.

"We lost but it's only football and we made history by making the semi-finals. We are proud of our country and happy for France," said Kamal Seddiki, a Morocco student, 22.

There had been 170 arrests nationwide, including 100 in Paris, when both Morocco and France made the semi-finals at the weekend.

But celebrations appeared free of tension and a van of the French anti-riot police even used one of its sirens to mark the moment when Kolo Muani scored the goal to give France a decisive 2-0 lead.

Anti-riot police did however move to disperse a group of fans who were setting off fireworks around the Arc de Triomphe.

In the southern city of Nice, trash cans were however set on fire after the game where thousands had gathered in the centre of the city.

In Lyon, police also used tear gas when supporters began to let off firecrackers in the central Place Bellecour.

The relationship France has with Morocco is not nearly as traumatic as with neighbouring Algeria, which fought Paris in a bloody seven-year War of Independence that scars both nations to this day.

But as in any post-colonial relationship, Morocco, which won independence in 1956, has its grievances with France, most notably over the question of visas.

Over a million Moroccans are believed to live in France and security forces had been on alert for any clashes like those in Brussels that marked Morocco's shock win over Belgium in the group stages.

Dream of World Cup final is over but Moroccans hail heroes

AP ■ DOHA

They may have fallen just short of reaching the World Cup final, but Moroccans on Wednesday hailed their team's historic run as it ended with a 2-0 defeat to reigning champions France.

"They played a great game but luck wasn't on our side," said supporter Oussama Abdouh in Casablanca.

"Still, we stood up to the title-holders, that was great."

"Beyond the World Cup, this team made us dream until the end and just for that I raise my hat to them."

But for Hakim Salama, the 2-0 defeat to France was too much.

"We missed the opportunity of the century," he said.

Rain lashed the capital Rabat on Wednesday evening and the atmosphere was far from the exhilaration of the historic victories that brought the Lions of the Atlas to within sight of a World Cup final — the first Arab or African team to ever get so far.

This time, the car horns and the drummers were muted. "The national team has been performing miracles since the start of the World Cup," said Rachid Sabbiq, a street trader in the working-class Derb Sultan district of Casablanca before the match.

"It doesn't matter whether they win or lose — they've won the respect and admiration of all Moroccans, and that's priceless," he said.

Sabbiq had swapped his usual fare of sweets to sell Moroccan flags.

All over Morocco, shops have been selling team jerseys and flags.

"Not only have the Lions made us happy but they also allowed us to get business going again" despite rough economic times for many Moroccans, said trader Khalid Alaoui.

Touria Matrouguy braved cold and torrential rain to buy jerseys for her four nephews. "They held the Moroccan flag high and for that, we can never thank them enough," she said.

The team's success has also won it support far across the continent.

"Morocco has made an entire continent proud," said Sidibey Zoumana, from the Ivory Coast, who has lived in the country since 2018.

"I've been watching their progress as if it was my own country."

From Gaza to Senegal, the team's success has transformed the image of Morocco.

"They proved that an African team can go places, and really compete," said Said Mouhssine, 48, after the match.

Williamson steps down as New Zealand Test captain

AP ■ WELLINGTON

Kane Williamson stepped down as New Zealand Test captain on Thursday after more than six years in charge but will remain skipper of the ODI and T20 teams.

Cricket New Zealand said that the 32-year-old will be replaced as Test captain by veteran fast bowler Tim Southee.

"Captaining the Black Caps in Test cricket has been an incredibly special honour," said the 32-year-old Williamson who has led New Zealand since 2016.

"Captaincy comes with an increased workload on and off the field and at this stage of my career, I feel the time is right for this decision."

He said that following talks with New Zealand Cricket, he will remain captain of the white-ball team with two World Cups looming in the next two years.

He will also continue to play all three formats.

Williamson signs off as skipper having led New Zealand to 22 wins in 40 Test matches.

Eleven of his 24 Test hundreds came when he was skipper — a record for a New Zealand captain.

Southee, 34, will lead the team on their forthcoming tour of Pakistan with Tests in Karachi, starting on December 26, then in Multan beginning January 3.

Tom Latham has been confirmed as Southee's vice-captain having previously leading the side in Williamson's absence.

Southee has played 346 internationals and has skippered New Zealand's T20 team on 22 occasions. He is New Zealand's 31st Test captain.

"It's been a surreal few days and it's just a massive honour to be appointed as Test captain," said Southee.

"I love Test cricket, it's the ultimate challenge and I'm really excited by the opportunity to lead the team in this format."

Like Michael, Mick Schumacher goes from Ferrari to Mercedes

AP ■ MARANELLO

Mick Schumacher is leaving Ferrari for another of the teams his father raced for.

Mercedes announced on Thursday that Schumacher will be its reserve driver for 2023 behind Lewis Hamilton and George Russell.

He had been racing in Formula One with Ferrari-powered Haas.

"I take this as a new start, and I am just excited and grateful to Toto (Wolff, Mercedes team principal) and everybody involved for putting their trust in me," Schumacher said.

"F1 is such a fascinating world, and you never stop learning, so I look forward to absorbing more knowledge and putting in all my efforts for the benefit of the Mercedes team."

The move ends Schumacher's four-year association with Ferrari, the team for which his father, Michael Schumacher, won five Formula One titles.

Michael also drove for Mercedes from 2010-12.

"Mick is a talented young driver and we're delighted to have him join the team," Wolff said.

"We also know that with two years of experience racing in Formula One under his belt, he will be ready to step into the car at short notice to replace either Lewis or George, should that need arise."

The move came two days after Ferrari announced Frédéric Vasseur as its new team principal, replacing Mattia Binotto.

"Scuderia Ferrari and Mick Schumacher have mutually decided not to extend their collaboration," Ferrari said.

The 23-year-old Schumacher joined Ferrari's young driver program in 2019 and competed in Formula Two for two seasons with the Prema Racing team. He won three races and secured the 2020 title.

Mick Schumacher then made his Formula One debut with Haas and started 43 races but scored just 12 points. His top finishes came this year with sixth in the Austrian Grand Prix and eighth in the British GP. He was also Ferrari's reserve driver.

'Oz will pose big challenge for India in hockey WC'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

in Adelaide on November 30.

The World Cup will be played in Bhubaneswar and Rourkela from January 13 to 29 with 16 teams vying for the trophy. India are clubbed in Pool D with Wales, Spain, England.

"The Indian men's team should consider every single game as extremely important. Yes, Australia is a difficult team, but they must play to their full potential. Winning or losing is a part of the game, but you do your best at all times," said Ajit Pal, the captain of the gold-winning team in the 1975 World Cup in Kuala Lumpur.

"And India can do it if they play well and together as a unit. And I wish they can do it because many years have passed since we have touched the World Cup trophy."

Hockey great Ajit Pal Singh believes Australia will likely pose the biggest threat to India's quest for World Cup glory at home, saying the hosts will have to play to their full potential to overcome the challenge of the Kookaburras.

Australia had thumped India 7-0 in the gold-medal match at the 2022 Birmingham Commonwealth Games and Singh said the hosts can counter the Kookaburras' challenge by "playing together as a unit".

India ran close against Australia in the recent five-match series though they lost the rubber 1-4 (4-5, 4-7, 4-3, 1-5, 4-5). India recorded their first win (4-3) in six years against the Kookaburras in the third match

KULDEEP'S DREAM COMEBACK PUTS B'DESH ON MAT

PTI ■ CHATTOGRAM

Kuldeep Yadav sizzled with an all-round performance as he put India in the driver's seat on day two of the opening Test against Bangladesh here on Thursday.

Playing his first Test after more than 22 months, Kuldeep continued his 'birthday' party a day after turning 28, in his sensational run with the bat and ball.

Batting at number nine, the left-hander first came up with a career-best 40 from 114 balls (5x4) in a 92-run eighth wicket partnership with veteran Ravichandran Ashwin (58; 113b) to push India to 404 in their first inning from an overnight score of 278/6.

Coming into bowl in the 25th over, the left-arm wrist spinner struck off his second ball as he flummoxed the Bangladesh batters with his wrong ones to end the day with figures of 10-3-33-4, a performance that is certain to regain his confidence.

At stumps on day two, Bangladesh were 133 for eight, trailing India by 271 runs. With two wickets in hand, the hosts still need 72 runs to avoid a follow-on.

First, it was Indian quick Mohammed Siraj who was on a song, as he rattled the Bangladesh top-order, dismissing the left-handed opening duo of Najmul Hossain Shanto (1), Zakir Hasan (20) and Litton Das en route to 9-1-14-3.

Siraj struck in the very first ball when he induced an edge off Shanto with an away going delivery.

Leading the pace department in absence of Mohammed Shami and Jasprit Bumrah, Umesh Yadav then reduced Bangladesh to 5 for 2 inside the fourth over after inducing an inside edge off Yasir Ali.

Litton Das (24) showed glimpses of his form with some fluent drives but Siraj had the last say.

Both teams were also involved in a bit of banter especially after Das gave a 'I can't hear you' gesture after an elegant drive off Siraj.

The Indian pacer cleaned him up of the next delivery as he along with Kohli gave him a fiery send-off.

On a roll, Siraj also ended the dogged resistance of Hasan to reduce Bangladesh to 56/4.

The stage was just apt for Kuldeep to make inroads and the Indian did just that, dismissing Shakib Al Hasan when the Bangladeshi senior all-rounder played against the spin.

He then surprised newcomer Nurul Hasan with a wrong one and in the next ball nearly dismissed him LBW but the 'umpire's call' rule gave a breather to the Bangladeshi wicketkeeper.

It was not a rank-turner but he spun the ball square, extracted awkward bounce and the Bangladeshi batters looked all at sea negotiating Kuldeep at the fag end of the day.

"I was a bit nervous, I was very lucky to get the first wicket in the first over. Got the momentum back. After a couple of overs, I started feeling well, mixed my pace and variations, tried both the angles - over the wicket and round the wicket," Kuldeep said.

"I was getting proper turn, I was actually loving it. After I got injured, I started working on my rhythm, trying to be a bit quicker - that's helping me a lot. I am not compromising with the spin.

"I didn't face any discomfort while batting. I thought it'll be good for batting. When you're a wrist-spinner bowling with the Kookaburra ball, you'll definately get turn and bounce on such wickets," he added.

The opening session was all about Ashwin and Kuldeep who seized the opportunity with both hands coming up with an all-round show in absence of Ravindra Jadeja.

Kuldeep, who has a century and six fifties averaging 22-plus in first class cricket, got off the mark after 18 balls as he looked solid with his defence.

His slog sweep and reverse sweep shots also caught the attention in his knock off 114 balls with five fours.

Ashwin, who has five Test centuries including four against the West Indies, showed a lot of composure and maturity en route to his 13th Test half-century. Ashwin smashed two sixes and two fours in his 113-ball knock.

Ashwin made his intent clear stepping down to Mehidy for a six. Luck also favoured Ashwin when he survived an 'umpire's call' after left-arm spinner Taijul Islam had him trapped in front of the leg stump when he was on 34.

The duo hardly took a foot wrong pushing India past the 400-mark after the visitors resumed the day at 278 for 6 and lost overnight batter Shreyas Iyer (86) with the addition of just four runs to his total.

Having batted India out of a tricky spot on the opening day, Iyer once again failed to get to a well-deserved hundred.

That pace spearhead Ebadot Hossain was taken out of the attack after his impressive spell of 4-1-7-1 in the morning also helped the Indian cause.

Kuldeep also oozed confidence as Ashwin was happy to take singles and give him the strike.

My approach was to bowl consistently at one spot: Siraj

PTI ■ CHATTOGRAM

India fast bowler Mohammed Siraj on Thursday said his approach to bowl consistently at one spot yielded rich dividends for him in the opening Test against Bangladesh here.

The Indian bowling unit, led by left-arm spinner Kuldeep Yadav (4/33) and Siraj (3/14), reduced Bangladesh to 133 for 8 in their first innings at stumps on the second day on Thursday. India had posted 404 in their first innings.

Siraj attributed his success to bowling consistent line and length.

"Ed ball is my favourite. I'm more consistent in red ball because it's all about concentrating on line and length. The credit goes to all the bowlers," he said in the press conference after second day's play.

"My approach was to bowl consistently at one place because it is such a wicket that if you try more there are chances to leak runs. My only plan was to hit one spot and get successful."

The 28-year-old said a fast bowler needs to bowl stump-to-stump to get success in five-day cricket.

"I think the more you bowl stump line it is better, because sometimes it is getting lower from there as well as turning. For a fast bowler, it is better to bowl stump line because then you can have LBW chances," he said.

Siraj is known for bowling with a wobble seam often and the speedster said he went for the option after discovering that his deliveries stopped coming in four years ago.

"In 2018, my balls stopped coming inside, I started bowling outswingers more. I got confused why balls are not coming in and that time I discovered wobble seam because it is difficult for a batter to tackle an outswing that comes in."

"Wobble seam is a type of an off-cutter and I got success with that," he said.

The Indian lower-order wagged admirably with Ravichandran Ashwin (58), Kuldeep (40) and Umesh Yadav (15 not out) putting up impressive displays to take India past the 400-run mark in the first innings.

"Runs from the lower-order is always good for the team, so everyone is showing interest in practice sessions. They (lower-order batters) want to do well," Siraj said.

Bhambri enters Tata Open Maharashtra qualifying event

PTI ■ PUNE

Indian tennis player Yuki Bhambri will compete in the qualifying event of the Tata Open Maharashtra, country's only ATP 250 event, by using his Protected Ranking of 127, the organisers said on Thursday.

The 30-year-old Yuki, who is now placed outside top-500 in the ATP singles chart, still has to chance to make the singles main draw in case there are withdrawals. The qualifying event, beginning on December 31 at the Balewadi stadium, has two wild cards to offer and it being an Indian event, the organisers are expected to award them to the home players. The organisers are also expected to award wild card entries to other top singles players from the country in the singles main draw.

Sasikumar Mukund is the top-ranked Indian at number 342, followed by Prajnesh Gunneswaran (349), Ramkumar Ramanathan (437), Sumit Nagal (506) and Bhambri. It remains to be seen who gets the wild card out of these players. The last edition's semi-finalist Elias Ymer will also battle it out in the qualifiers along with American Christopher Eubanks and the former World No. 39 Peter Gojowczyk.

Kohli knows when to be aggressive and when to control the game: Dravid

PTI ■ CHATTOGRAM

Virat Kohli, with his incredible understanding of the game, can easily decipher when to switch gears and when to control the proceedings, said head coach Rahul Dravid, who was also mighty impressed with the way the Indian premier batter maintains his intensity during training.

Kohli found form during the Asia Cup in the UAE earlier this year after enduring an extended lean patch. He continued his magnificent run in the T20 World Cup in Australia. Last week, the former India captain brought up his 44th ODI hundred.

"He (Virat) knows when to be aggressive and when to control the game, it's incredible to watch and a good sign for us if he can build up," Dravid said in a video released by the BCCI on its website.

"Virat has an incredible template in 50-over cricket. His record speaks for itself. It's phenomenal the number of games he's played."

Dravid added that Kohli's training intensity never wanes whether he is in form or not, and that's something the youngsters in the team can learn.

"He feels he's back and is training as hard as I have ever seen him. For me, that has been a stand out, watching him train this past year, that never changes irrespective of whether he is doing well or not and that is a great lesson for a lot of the young players in the group," added Dravid. The former Indian batter felt teams have become more aggressive and are pushing for results as the race for the World Test Championship final spots heats up.

"Teams have already been more aggressive over the last bit; we have seen a lot more results. Teams are playing for results a lot more now, especially with the World Test Championship points at stake."

Dravid believes teams must be able to adapt to every situation to succeed in Test cricket.

"I still think adaptability is going to be very important in Test cricket, the ability to play aggressively when you need to... Or you can play aggressively with the kind of squad you have or the position you find yourself in the game... And then the opportunity to play a difficult period or day of Test cricket either with the bat or ball and knuckle down and play some hard cricket."

"The teams that have that adaptability or the ability to switch even in between a Test match are the ones that are going to be very successful," he added.

India missing bowling coach: Harmanpreet

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The Indian women's team is badly missing a bowling coach, skipper Harmanpreet Kaur said after her team lost the third T20I against Australia to concede a 1-2 lead in the five-match series. The captain, though, is pleased with the way bowlers are stepping up and taking charge of the situation.

India don't have a full-time bowling coach as Ramesh Powar was moved to National Cricket Academy (NCA) and Hrishikesh Kanitkar was named the batting coach of the side two months before the T20 World Cup in South Africa.

Playing Australia is part of team's preparation for the T20 showpiece. India won the second T20 via Super Over but lost the third game by 21 runs on Wednesday. "I know we are definitely missing a bowling coach but our bowlers are taking charge," Harmanpreet said in the post-match press conference.

"They are participants in the meetings. They have full responsibility and today (it was) all their plans and they were leading the way, I was just supporting them in the middle."

India conceded more than 170 runs in each of the last three T20s. Medium pacer Pooja Vastakkar's injury ahead of the Australia series has only added to the team's woes. ("We are missing) Pooja for sure. On these tracks you need a medium pacer," Harmanpreet said.

"Definitely when you bowl back-to-back spin bowling, it allows opposition batters to settle easily. We are definitely missing Pooja because she has the experience of death-overs bowling. We tried Meghna in the first two games but it didn't click."

In Pooja's absence, Renuka Singh, who has played 30 international since making her debut just over a year ago, is leading the pace attack.

"Renuka has the experience because she has done well in the past six-seven months and has got good results. Whenever we set plans for pace bowlers she takes the lead and our video analysts give us a lot of information," Harmanpreet said.

"Talking about spin bowlers, almost all spinners have played a lot of T20 cricket like Deepti, Radhya, Rajeshwari. Devika (Vaidya) is new to the team but she also has the experience of international cricket and has done a lot of homework with respect to international cricket."

India also handed a debut to left-arm pacer Anjali Sarvani in the series. She snapped up two wickets in the third T20 after going wicket-less in the first T20 games. In fact, Australia could manage just 26 for 2 in the first four overs with Sarvani and Renuka bowling in tandem.

"The way we bowled in the powerplay, especially Renuka and Anjali (was commendable). They were swinging the ball and bowled according to the plan. They were not giving easy runs to the batters," the India skipper said.

BENGAL CLOSE IN ON OUTRIGHT WIN OVER UP

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Opener Koushik Ghosh hit an unbeaten 69, while Anustup Majumdar also remained not out on 44 as Bengal closed in on an outright win over Uttar Pradesh in a Group A Ranji Trophy match here on Thursday. Bengal were 156 for 2 in their second innings at stumps on the third day, still needing 101 runs on the final day on Friday.

Ghosh hit 10 boundaries during his 121-ball unbeaten knock, while Majumdar struck six fours.

Besides the duo, Sudip Kumar Gharami made 22. Right-arm pacer Shivam Mavi (2/46) picked up both the wickets.

Earlier, resuming Uttar Pradesh's second innings at 122 for 4, Rinku Singh added 45 runs to his overnight score before being dismissed for 89, while Akashdeep Nath made 53.

Opener Madhav Kaushik (19) was the only other Uttar Pradesh batter to register a double-digit score.

UP added 105 runs for the loss of six wickets in their overnight score to be bowled out for 222 in 65.3 overs.

to the fastest ODI double century against Bangladesh, Kishan was a picture of grit and determination in a 195-ball 132 (9x4) as he led Jharkhand's recovery from being 114/4 to 340 all out.

Giving him support was Saurabh Tiwary who missed out on a well-deserved century by just three runs after being cleaned up by Jalaj Saxena.

The duo put on 202 runs for the fifth wicket to revive Jharkhand after Basil Thampi (3/55) and Vaisakh Chandran (2/81) rocked the top-order to have them reeling at 56/3.

For Kerala, Jalaj Saxena grabbed a splendid 5/75. At close, Kerala were 60/1 with an overall lead of 195 runs as the match hung in balance at the JSCA International Stadium here.

In other game, a day after scoring a century in his maiden first-class match to emulate his legendary father, left-arm seamer Arjun Tendulkar grabbed 2/77 on day three of Goa's match against Rajasthan.

Arjun dismissed a well-set Mahipal Lomror (63) and Salman Khan (40) in his four overs. Mohit Redkar returned with 3/46 as Rajasthan ended the day at 245/6, trailing Goa by 302 runs.

Goa earlier declared their first innings at 547 for 9.

MAHA HOLD EDGE OVER DELHI
Pune: Maharashtra hold the edge over Delhi with their bowlers restricting the Yash Dhullled side to 233 for 5 on the third day of a Group B match.

With a lead of just 100 runs and five batters in the dugout, Delhi could find themselves in trouble if they lose the remaining wickets early on day four.

Maharashtra bowlers would look to utilise the early-morning freshness of the wicket on the last day to keep Delhi's lead to below 200 runs and then make a strong push for victory.

Earlier on day three, Maharashtra could add just 19 runs to their overnight score before losing the three remaining wickets to be bundled out for 324.

However, 33-year-old Ashay Palkar, who was on 94 at stumps on day two, completed his maiden first-class century before being dismissed on 100, caught by Lalit Yadav off Simarjeet Singh.

Pace bowler Simarjeet emerged as the most successful bowler for Delhi, claiming four wickets for 69 runs, while Mayank Yadav and Vikas Mishra took two wickets apiece.

MP THRASH J&K

Jammu: Madhya Pradesh bowlers, led by Avesh Khan, produced yet another impressive performance to notch up a massive innings and 17-run win over Jammu and Kashmir with a day to spare in their Group D match.

Khan took three wickets for 53 runs to help MP bowl out J&K for 193 in 60.5 overs in their second innings on the third day after following on.

J&K were all out for just 98 in their first essay on Wednesday in reply to MP's 308.
