Man fatally injects wife with pesticide after hammering her in rage

_The Dehradun police have laid charges against an alumnus of IMA in the New Tehri area, Rajul Singh, for allegedly putting his wife in a bag and later injecting her internal organs with a pesticide._

Manjula Devi's brother had filed a complaint with the police on Dec 13 that she had seen Rajul and his sister-in-law in front of his house. They had a quarrel and he later called him on the phone and asked him to take him to his house. His wife was waiting there with a bag. He had knocked the bag on the floor and it was found full of pesticide. She died on the spot.

Rajul Singh had brought the wife and children to his house on Dec 13. Soon after her arrival, he started fighting with her. She returned in the morning when police reached his house. She said that her husband had beaten her with a hammer and had thrown her into the stairs if somebody asked her something. He also started threatening that she would die soon. When he was brought to the police station, he said that his wife was not moving. Police reached their residence where they found his wife and the children. Diary of an Indian Night Owl

On Monday night, I was visiting a friend’s house and noticed a banner on the side of a building. It was about raising awareness about single-use plastic. The banner had pictures of a bag and a plastic bottle with the message “Reusables are better.”

It was a bit confusing to me as the message conflict with the reality. The banner was placed near a busy part of the city and people were passing by it without even noticing it.

I found it ironic that while people are facing issues like pollution and waste management, the government is spending money on creating awareness about single-use plastic. It seems like a waste of resources and money. The government should focus on solving the bigger issues and not on such trivial matters. This kind of awareness campaign is not having any impact on people’s behavior. People still use plastic bags and bottles every day.

'2 Judges don't decide: BJP MP opposes same-sex marriages

The Supreme Court, in a landmark verdict in 2020, struck down a colonial-era ban on same-sex marriages, but two judges on the bench did not agree, leading to a division within the apex court. This has led to a legal vacuum around same-sex marriages in India, with some states legalising it while others have not.

The government has been working on a bill to legalise same-sex marriages, but it has faced resistance from various quarters, including the BJP, which has been led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

The Supreme Court has ordered the government to file a reply to a petition challenging the decision of two judges on the bench, which would then be heard on December 23. The court has also asked the government to ensure that no same-sex marriage takes place during this period.

INDIAN HEALTHCARE COMES OF AGE

Our healthcare is evolving with increased accessibility to modern technology.

Rajeev Bajaj

Digital influence and technological intervention are breaking barriers in the Indian healthcare industry, leading to a dynamic transformation. This is evident from the recent announcement by the government to increase the number of doctors and nurses in rural areas by 2025.

The government has set a target of doubling the number of doctors and nurses in rural India by 2025. This move is in line with the vision of Prime Minister Narendra Modi to make India a hub for medical tourism.

India has a young and growing population, which means a higher demand for healthcare services. The government is focusing on improving the quality and accessibility of healthcare in rural areas, where access has been a major challenge.

The new Indian economy is driven by growth in sectors like agriculture, manufacturing, and services. The government's focus on these sectors is likely to lead to an improvement in the overall health conditions of the population.

Healthcare is a critical component of economic development. Improved healthcare can lead to higher productivity and a better standard of living.

The government has announced several initiatives to improve healthcare in rural areas. For example, the National Health Mission (NHM) is a major initiative that aims to provide primary healthcare services to all rural and urban areas.

The government has also announced the Ayushman Bharat scheme, which aims to provide health insurance to 100 million vulnerable families. The scheme covers hospitalization, preventive, and primary healthcare services.

In conclusion, the Indian healthcare sector is on the cusp of a major transformation. With increased accessibility to modern technology, improved infrastructure, and better training of healthcare professionals, India is well poised to provide quality healthcare to its citizens.

India AIM TO SIGN OFF WITH WIN

PTI NAGALAND

Hitting the streaky margins of the triangle in every game, the series, India will look to bring its best over the last two games and win some of the crucial moments in the fifth and final women’s T20 against Bangladesh on Tuesday.

India has pushed Australia to a 2-1 lead in the series after a lacklustre game one and a super-fast game two. However, the Indians need to take the series with a win over the Windies to return home with a series victory.

India will be looking to consolidate its position in the series as well as to gain confidence in the bowling department for their main series against England. The bowling unit will look to find some form in the upcoming game as well.

Bengaluru’s fast-bowling duo Allan Donald and Lookingal Thais would not be the most appealing pair for the Australian management. Donald’s unique quickness and pace will not be the least bit easy on the batsmen.

The 59-year-old O’Donnell, a former Australia Test cricketer, has planned a range of tributes for Philips, who had been omitted from the team in March. Donald has said that Philips will be remembered for his four years at the side, which included his two Test centuries this year.

Philips was an Australian Test cricketer who played for Australia from 1998 to 2002. He completed his time in the team with a batting average of 54.39 in his 13 Test matches.

Rohit had travelled back to Mumbai to see a specialist for his injury. "It’s very likely to happen. Rohit being out will be a big concern in this situation," a BCCI source told PTI.

In Rohit’s absence, Shikhar Dhawan will lead the side in the upcoming Test against Bangladesh. Dhawan has been in an impressive form for India in recent times.
