Kejriwal returns to terror sympathiser barb: Added 13,420 classrooms

NEW DELHI, FEBRUARY 26, 2022: "The televised debate, which was held by the rebels each accused the other of being involved in the conflict, sparked widespread outrage.

During the debate, the two leaders traded barbs, with each accusing the other of being a "terrorist" and "sympathiser" of others. They also accused each other of failing to address the concerns of the people in the region.

Meanwhile, top Ukrainian officials, including President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, have condemned the attack.

The officials fled to a bomb shelter during the shelling attack during a tour of the area.

The attack, which left many injured and caused widespread damage, is believed to be an act of revenge by Russian-backed separatists.

Following the attack, the Ukrainian armed forces have imposed a curfew in the region and are reportedly preparing for further attacks.

On March 16, Zelenskyy announced that the country's military had retaken control of the area, indicating a possible turning point in the conflict.

However, despite the announcements, the situation remains tense, with both sides accusing each other of perpetrating atrocities.

The situation in the region continues to be closely monitored by international organizations and governments, who are calling for an immediate ceasefire to allow for humanitarian aid to reach those in need.
BJP alleges link between blast convicted, SP

A day before 55 Assembly constituencies are to go to polls, the Bihar Police on Wednesday arrested two members of a convict conv. linked with the Janata Dal United, one of them associated with SP chief Akhilesh Yadav.

Dubbing the Opposition as a terrorist sympathiser, BJP Leader Union Minister Anurag Thakur shared photographs proving that a member of a convict was associated with SP chief Akhilesh Yadav.

He was the mastermind of the Parliament attack, Thakur stated that not only the convicts of 2008 were arrested, but those of 2002 and 2005 were also arrested, and they have got their hands, the BJP leader told the media. Including in his statement, that he could not have been arrested, as he is being ‘bottled’ by the MRP Government in Delhi.

On a Court in a state, a convicted criminal was arrested, being involved in a Benegal blast, and his name was referred to his red caps as ‘red tops’. Thakur said, “There will be more than this, and then the whole story will come out.”

The BLP leader alleged, “Both of them are involved in the activities of many of the convicts, therefore, PFI and Ministers report that they are all members of the same organisation.

There has been a casting process evolved over the years?
Finding casting that fits and justice to roles has brought a significant part of the filmmaking process and with acting is always the most challenging. In the last couple of years, the process has become a crucial part of the filmmaking process. Casting directors use various methods for an intensive experience to a rough task and get a constant have to keep upbeat. The 'why' is not an issue, that is casting directors do it to find their way into the characters written. Individual actors or the entire ensemble has to hold the context together for the audience. India is in the throes of state elections & the buzz is gathering momentum. With the high interest to consume views and topics on this subject, it is very important to get the marketing and branding aspects right, writes JAYSHREE M SUNDAR

BUILDING A POWERFUL POLITICAL BRAND IS A HUGE CHALLENGE ONE THAT TAKES YEARS AND SOMETIMES GETS DESTROYED IN ONE FELL SWOOP, AND THERE ARE MANY CHALLENGES TO CONTINUING THE BRAND VALUES AND CORE MESSAGES AS THIS DOES NOT BELONG TO THE USUAL WORLD OF FAST-MOVING CONSUMER GOODS

ENGAGING THE PUBLIC VIA LIVE VIDEO

For many, the 8th of June prime time is a fixture. Politicians are now empowered to break their own rules and engage in conversations with their constituents real-time. For example, many politicians regularly live stream on Facebook and Instagram as a way to interact with voters and provide insights into the US. Rather than talk at voters, live videos encourage both meaningful and personal conversations. This is more prevalent in western world - but it is likely to cause the India frazz in a big way.

ALMOST INVISIBLE LEAD-TIMES

Political parties must keep the conversation going with the voter base. Unlike the usual rate of engagement twice or thrice a week, these videos are live streamed throughout the day. Sometimes there is no choice. There are rebuttals, counterpoints. There are new ideas. And you must keep diversing material till it reaches the customer.

MOBILE IS THE PRIMARY MEDIUM

India’s population is young. Approximately 65% to below 35. Coupled with their 700 million smartphones in the country growing at 25 million per quarter, this is the key to look at in the current elections and going further. Most young people consume news via online articles, news letters, new, other social media and mass media. Also, the younger age uses technology to both access and create. Creating for the younger screen is key. Youtube, memes, music videos and memes are what get real buzz and viral very quick.

MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE IS CRAFTING THE STRATEGY CAREFULLY

This is not a region or a sub-set. This is the whole country you are dealing with. In an assembly election, a full slate. Some of the key to understand the European countries is to put together first. For example, a party must decide its election game plan. What will the approach be? Locally, which political party will you reach out to? Also what is the language you will use? Hindi, English or other?

THIS WILL LEAD TO THE BRAND PROMOTION

Every brand should be built on a strong, differentiated consumer proposition. Through their propositions, brands must have points of parity which are necessary to be in the playing field (for instance, every political brand stands for the Indian voter) and also need to have compelling points of difference (Party that talks to the youth or party that is secular or party that drives growth). Political brands, usually offer economic development, attractive monumen ts domestic and foreign, creating rapid and massive employment, improving poverty. These are promises we find every political party makes as its election stand. The point of difference lies in how long does he remain there, and a political brand that does not offer them, therefore, does not stand a chance. Hence, the point of difference has to arise from an entirely different dimension — which could be commitment to growth, the needs of a particular region or group or a track record of superior performance.

SELECTION

It would be every party’s wish to target the voter base. But what’s possible? That means endless budget to get the voter to see your message till they register. In media savvy, this would mean heavy expenses. So usually, a Target segment-wise exercise must be undertake. Who are you talking to? Who is prolif- erating it far to you?

BRAND ADVOCATOR

Regular brands sometimes use a celebrity or a spokesperson to endorse a product to give it impetus. In Political Brands, this is a must. Regular brands can get away with it. In a Political scenario this is an absolute must. Because they embody ideologies that the consumer relates to. In the 2023 US elections, the Republicans were represented by the incumbent President Donald Trump. To his popularity the democrats needed to build the right candidate to counter the political narrative with Trump. The party sought candidates. Once Joe Biden became the face for Political Brand wars began. As it is the beginning — when brands are at way the consumers resonate with the most. They keep them on track. The way brands can keep them on track is through leadership and in India it’s important for the leader to connect across age groups, the parti cularly the youth. Saini is in the throes of state elections and the buzz is at its peak. This will all lead to the general elections in 2024. With the high interest to consume news and views on this subject, it is very important to get the marketing and branding aspects right.

Making India world’s top economy

Although China’s high saving rate, better infrastructure, and its manufacturing being away ahead of India, cannot match the prowess of its services-driven industry and its institutional stability, deeply interwoven in pluralism and democracy.

The recent economic data shows a growth rate of 4.2% per cent against 4.9% in the last year. The government wants to achieve growth rate of 6% in the next five years. The services sector accounts for 65% of India’s GDP. It has the potential to be higher growth sectors in the near future, with the agriculture sector contributing around 15% and industry around 20%.

In recent years, India has witnessed rapid growth in the services sector, driven by factors such as globalization, outsourcing, and technological advancements. The services sector includes industries like information technology, business process outsourcing, finance, and insurance.

Rahul Sood, Managing Director of Accenture India, said, “India’s services sector has been a key driver of the country’s economic growth. The sector has shown resilience during the pandemic, and we expect it to continue growing.”

India’s services sector is home to several global companies, and it has emerged as a preferred destination for outsourcing and offshoring. The sector employs a large number of people and contributes significantly to India’s GDP.

The services sector’s growth is driven by factors such as the country’s strong English-speaking population, the availability of skilled labor, and a favorable business environment. The sector’s growth is also supported by the government’s initiatives, such as the Make in India program and the Digital India initiative.

India’s services sector is expected to continue growing in the coming years, with the potential to create more jobs and contribute further to the country’s GDP. The sector’s growth is expected to be driven by factors such as the increasing globalization, the growing demand for outsourcing, and the advancement of technologies.

However, the sector also faces challenges such as the need for skilled labor, the need for better infrastructure, and the need for a favorable business environment. The government needs to address these challenges to ensure the continued growth of the services sector.

It is important to note that the services sector is not only limited to India’s domestic market but also has a significant presence in the global market. India is considered a leader in the services sector, and its services sector is expected to continue growing in the coming years.
