India-UAE trade pact to boost apparel exports and employment

Implementation of the comprehensive trade agreement between India and the UAE will open up business opportunities for the two countries' exports and create jobs in the apparel sector, aiming to expand India-UAE trade. The agreement strengthens India's dominant position in the UAE’s trade and paves the way for India-UAE trade to reach $10 billion.

With India supplying USD 5.1 billion in 2021, the UAE as an agro commodity destination and Dubai as a key destination for agro commodities, we expect a significant jump in the trade value. This will result in a drop of 5 per cent import duty for India ready-made and semi-finished garments. This will also help localised small and medium enterprises (SMEs), who cater to the needs of the UAE. The agreement will also benefit the local SMEs in Dubai, Abu Dhabi, Oman and the UAE.

Honda India President & CEO Takuji Tsumura said, "We are aware the UAE opens doors to us as our trading partner. Efforts by the government and private organisations have also contributed significantly to promoting the manufacturing sector. It is a huge opportunity for us as the company is planning to explore the UAE market."

India is in the throes of state elections & the buzz is gathering momentum. With the high interest to consume news and views on this subject, it is very important to get the marketing and branding aspects right. writes JAYSHREE M SUNDAR

"A slogan is of utmost importance. Every voter is equally important. It's just one day that counts. If the consumer understands your proposition, brands must have points of difference. Hence, the point of difference which could be commitment to growth, parity which are necessary to be in the playing field, not in the political world— but is likely to enter. In the 2021 US elections, the Republicans were represented by the incumbent President Donald Trump. To light up his popularity the Democrats needed to field the right candidate. For a long time, there were no announcements. The party won the presidency. Once the Biden became the face the political brand wars began.

India's population is young. Approximately 65% is below 35. Grouped with this 740 million smartphones in the country growing at 25 million per quarter, this is the key tool to look at in the current elections and going forward. For political parties, it was to get their points of difference on social media here it is recommended to talk daily. Sometimes there is no choice. There are new ideas. And you must keep creating material all the time to interact with voters and non-voters."

Brand ambassadors
Regular brands sometimes use a celebrity or a spokesperson who helps their brand. Political Brands, in a similar manner, can get away with it. As I said in the beginning— when brands are using social media for their image projection, contenders are radio, wall paintings, stickers banter. More than news they want opinions and views. Creating for the smaller screen is a key. Posters, memes, music, videos and music as what get viral and widely very quick."

Engaging the public via live video
For fast moving goods like soaps and shampoos it’s very important to be on television. The US army and newspaper. Advertising secrets of an impossible election."

Path less traveled
A political party needs to know how to appeal to mid-voters, not just those who are already convinced. glove. Politicians are now empowered to break the usual rule of engaging twice or thrice a week and instead talk daily. This will all lead up to the culmination of your strategy into a few midnight votes."
