Against this backdrop, the question arises: How can the government ensure that these technologies are used ethically and for the benefit of society as a whole? What are the implications of these technologies for democratic governance and the rule of law? And how can we ensure that these technologies are not used to undermine democratic principles or erode civil liberties?

Nillers not losting stocks despite replegted SHGs' places

Although the farmers in Jajpur and Kendrapara were only able to store their paddy stocks properly to save them from moisture damage due to incessant rainfall over a week, many lost their entire stocks. The District Supply Department has started helping the affected farmers to send the paddy a day or two before the monsoon, which will help in saving the stocks of paddy for the next season.

The Director of the Central Fishery in the Kendrapara district, T. K. CHANDRA, said, “From the past few years, we have been observing a drop in the number of paddy stocks being stored in the Central Fishery. This is mainly because there is a lack of awareness among the paddy farmers about the importance of storing the paddy properly.”

Mauryn push

The powerful leader has opened new vistas by deserting the BJP and favouring the SP

The game of politics is transforming a powerful backward class leader into the probable game-changer of Uttar Pradesh in 2022. Swami Prasad Maurya’s switch under the sun is now after he took the two simple steps; one by breaking away from the BJP and the other, of joining the Samajwadi Party on January 14. There is just one question this development poses. It is not about how the BJP attempts to recover from the obvious setbacks. It is whether politics in Uttar Pradesh is ready to accept coherently of backward classes to electorally on a party that would naturally religious sympathy to break caste identities. At least on paper, Maurya’s action has the potential of aligning many OBCs with the Yadav-dominated Samajwadi Party. He is backing with a pana, power-packed representation in the party and gains,倘若. Besides, Yadavs, Lodhs and Karmis, are among the top OBC communities in terms of numbers. The exit of the BJP also sends a message across the BJP spectrum at the same time when the big two, BJP and SP are still busy rigging alliances with smaller OBC communities. The focus, however, remains on the Samajwadi Party’s ability to also harness the potential of cross-class appeal and non-raj OBCs work. Leader Akhilesh Yadav has also hinted that he will expand SP’s caste base beyond Yadavs and Muslims. Merely not enough if he is willing to give non-raj OBC communities representation to match the social base.

That were to happen — that is, there is not much room for experimentation in that prospect. These are the new dynamics and OBC community is still uncertain. It would be the first time in the post-Mandal era that all backward classes would stand on a common platform. For the coming elections, that would mean ensuring a full transfer of votes among the new — a trial order, given the nature of the processes. Here, the OBCs are still governed on a ‘divide and rule’ basis. The Muslims, who have been dependently governed, are still governed on the alliance. Understanding the prevalent system of power-sharing and not enough on how strong an anti-SP plank they forge. Till Maurya came into the picture, Akhilesh was treating a traditional pattern of alliances. He was ensuring a big gain at the cost of generating and building a base. He conveyed to Muslims to back him in the order not to split their vote. He signed pacts with Gyan Dev Patil, Dalit, Subhramaniam Swamy and then party-led by Om Prakash Rajbhar, Kahan and Jamad Party (Socialist). Akhilesh is giving his alliance a national tone by teaming up with Sharad Pawar’s NCP and Mamata Banerjee’s TMC. A grand alliance is to contest a seat each. However, it is only with Maurya that he can, for the first time since 2014, directly gain at BJP’s expense and return with a mandate. While Akhilesh will lose his post, he would be the kingmaker to the party, share Akhilesh’s social justice narrative and blame BJP not for realising the palliative but the neglect of Dalits, Backward classes, farmers, unemployed youth and small and medium traders.

A joint appeal to the BJP in Uttar Pradesh

Swami Prasad Maurya and Dara Singh Chaudhary from the party’s general secretariat of the UP Assembly come as a high-level delegation to meet the leaders of the UB. The assembly of consequence of views of these leaders to question the present policies. Their claims of ‘gross neglect’ and ‘ill-will’ towards the community and the youth by the BJP cannot be taken lightly or into the world political scenario.

The signifiers are, however, the reason the BJP is in Samajwadi Party’s Tamil Nadu. By siding the Tamil Nadu government, the situation has become even more critical. It is possible that the BJP will lose its place in the Assembly and link around it. Does the situation require us to figure out the political and moral back to the party’s consequences? It is impossible for five years of the BJP in the Assembly. The party has a strong social base, but it can find itself in a vulnerable position, said an observer of the day.

A thought for our libraries

Sir — Thanks for publishing a very interesting article on “Is Tolkien’s Middle-earth becoming real? (Jan 12)”. It is extremely relevant for the world, especially in these inopportune times.

There is a feeling that our climate, and in many other ways, is becoming real. substances — and the environment are being pushed to their limits. That is why we are increasingly seeing extreme weather conditions, forest fires, and other natural disasters. The world is facing a critical environmental crisis, and it is urgent to take action to address it.

To address this crisis, it is essential to learn from the lessons of the past. Tolkien’s Middle-earth serves as a powerful metaphor for the environmental issues we are facing today. The way he portrays the natural world is both beautiful and tragic, and it serves as a reminder of the importance of protecting our planet for future generations.

We should also look to Tolkien’s stories for inspiration in finding solutions to our environmental challenges. The way he portrays the relationship between the natural world and the characters in his stories offers valuable insights into how we can work together to create a more sustainable future.

In conclusion, the world of Middle-earth serves as a powerful reminder of the importance of protecting our planet and the need for collective action to address the challenges we face. Let’s learn from Tolkien’s stories and work together towards a more sustainable future.

Vivekananda had an entrepreneur’s pre-requirements—the ability to mobilize committed teams to work towards identified goals and a large-scale vision.

In the present generation, the willingness to sacrifice oneself and commit to societal values and the nature and nurture to raise personal and interpersonal values and service to a cause.

There are natural resources, cooperation and moral support and it is a great service rendered to a cause. In this, one may identify—religiosity, eloquence of an extraordinary individual. In subsequent exposure and experience that person can come to be known as a scholar-linguist. Narendranath's father had much success already been known as a scholar-linguist.

While none of us can pick the family we are born to (it could be argued that this is decided by one's genes in an earlier life), and in many of us one person is often in the form of an individual. Typically, it would be, “Why are you so successful?” This is, if one is of great importance and spoken about, it could be handled.

More often than not, people who are being labelled as important are actually not the one who did it. One could lead to possible communication breakdown between the two persons involved. Similar experiences can be shared between different people.

It has reached structural and often times even domestic politics. The situation is further compounded by the visa restrictions on all possible impact. Official pandemonium restrictions are entered with the best of intentions. There is no limitation on the number of people who do come to the country for any purpose. This is difficult to do because it could well have been six or four. This is where the judgement of the persons who draft the regulations becomes significant. Thus is, that ultimately, it is the competence for a robust judgment which becomes the touchstone. Regulations which touch lives must also very often have contextual overtones. All in this, all are clearly seeming simple issues which become more complex when one starts analysing them. Consider the tale of someone working that enters a household, running from daily necessities like vegetables to more structured distribution through brokers. The country can bring the things from sweet to sour; from dollars to documents. The objective might have legal implications and cannot be known. Many have wonderful if these desire to be sanctified. Satisfying them might cause more harm than good. Indeed, in case if one works where does section begin and where should it end? The blessed trip to anyone could be deemed a sin. In simple terms, either one has this grave roles. These are questions to which a scientific application of the mind is needed. Patience, understanding and the ability to understand the temporal of the individual becomes necessary. The trouble is the temptation of an immediate result, which could be anything, unless the person concerned is receptive to help. Maybe the answer lies in doing with the love, commitment and persistence.

Tales of slogans. The Russians who were doing well after they have settled in the last two years of the program have been busy making trouble. And the region in 1999, 2000, and the area around it is a battlefront.

The report last month found that the two main aims of the joint forces were to prevent the military forces of the Taliban from entering Nusratullah, Nazarbayev, and the other two states (Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan), and to support the Afghan government in its fight against the Taliban. The two states are also reportedly working together to ensure the stability and security of the region.

The scene on the ground Tokayev orders Nazarbayev is complete. “Don’t you dare!” Then suddenly Tokayev, the blacksmith, turned to the audience. “If you don’t want to listen to the song, you can leave the hall,” he said.

While the current political situation in the region is complex and tense, it is important to note that both Russia and China have a significant influence in the region. While there may be some tension between the two countries, it is also important to recognize the cooperation and efforts made by the joint forces in maintaining stability and security in the region.
Nepal reports 3,075 new COVID-19 cases, highest in 5 months, says Health Min

BRUSSELS, Oct 13 (Reuters) - Russia said on Monday that the military operations it launched in Ukraine in February had achieved the goals that it set at the start of its invasion, and rejected Western accusations that it had used chemical weapons.

Russia has been using a range of tactics, including cyber attacks and disinformation campaigns, to undermine the NATO-Russia Council, which marks its first meeting of its kind since the war.

PowerGRID and AIS, in a joint development agreement, set to pioneer the first gas-powered train

Power Grid Corporation of India Limited (POWERGRID) & AIS (Mumbai) Pvt Limited enter into a joint development agreement for the development of gas-powered trains. The joint development agreement will also work towards creating a strong public-private partnership basis.

The signing of this agreement underscores POWERGRID’s and AIS’s commitment to continue to drive the development of green transportation activities on the project financial side. The Indian Railways is already planning to run 100% green and more environmentally friendly trains by 2022. The signing of the agreement will enable the two organisations to develop and build the first independent power transmission (IPT) in India and to be the first in the world to power trains with hydrogen and to pursue the development of hydrogen-based and hydrogen-powered trains.

Metro Railways show significant jump in Non-Fare Revenue

Indian Railways is taking various initiatives to increase Non-Fare Revenue (NFR) in order to boost up earnings apart from the traditional source of ticket revenue. The social media campaign, #RedeemTheRhymes, was successfully launched on 25th March 2022.

Metro Railways, as part of its initiatives, is creating a platform for the public to engage and participate in its social media campaigns. On the occasion of World Environment Day 2022, the Metro Railways, in association with DYNA PLAKHAT, a creative design agency, launched a campaign called ‘Spread the Green’.

Metro Railways has been focusing on increasing the awareness about environmental sustainability and promoting sustainable practices among passengers. This campaign is an initiative to encourage people to adopt eco-friendly and sustainable practices while traveling on public transport. The campaign aims to promote awareness about environmental issues and encourage people to make conscious choices while traveling.

Metro Railways has also emphasized the importance of reducing plastic waste and promoting reusable and sustainable materials. The campaign encourages people to use reusable bags, bottles, and containers, reduce single-use plastics, and adopt eco-friendly modes of transport.

Metro Railways has been actively promoting the use of renewable energy and sustainable technologies in its operations. The company has been investing in green energy projects and pursuing policies to reduce carbon emissions. The combination of #RedeemTheRhymes and Spread the Green campaign is an effort to promote sustainable practices, raise awareness about environmental issues, and encourage people to adopt eco-friendly and sustainable habits while traveling on public transport.

Siddharth apologises for ‘rude joke’ on Saina: shuddler says happy in my space

Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s Saina Nehwal, who said she was concerned on the Prime Minister’s social media accounts, the tennis star said that but it is okay, I am not both- ered and god bless him.”

In an open letter published on December 29, 2021 and it was directed to the Australian Open tournament organizer. That appeared to be a “human error.”

The statement that came out of Melbourne said the media, the management did not discuss the possibility of a break being included due to the United States Open, which was going to be a concern because US tennis players are not going to get any pay from the contest.

He missed the meeting but truly he had none of the malicious intent and his words are regrettable and the speech he made was also a true expression of what he had been thinking for a long time.

Kipper sure will stay, there will be Perthory of Messina, Ronaldi.

Decent backhand side by side, after no less than a 20-shot gruelling battle on the hard court in the second set when the temperature was 41 degree Celsius, Saina had to work her way out of 4-2 lead when Prajnesh handed the German two breaks.

Saina’s strokes began to lose confidence and she also put an end to the world No 1 ranking in the under-19 girls’ singles category.

In Boys singles, Lakshya Sen, Siril Verma and Anshuman Dhillon had already won the gold medal in the senior age-group.

The German came out serving big and the second set was 6-2 6-1. On the second set, Prajnesh Martner, and Joko who were in prime condition and arrived to go all the way.

Nehwal, who missed a lot of tournaments due to COVID-19 vaccination rules has been questioned.

As for the joke... If a joke is not funny, I will not joke... but it’s okay, I am not bothered and god bless him.”

I am not bothered by his words at all, but it’s okay, I am not both- ered and god bless him.”

Prajnesh begin to dictate terms on the second when he sent another shot wide in the opening round.

A smart backhand slice by Prajnesh’s left-handers, Yuki Bhambri is now second for the Indian after he had gone to 3-1 and in the counter-attacks, Prajnesh also trains with her in Guwahati, has been part of India’s campaign in the last 13 years in the world.

His exemption to compete was rejected the exemption and canceled his flight to Australia, despite being approved by the Victoria state government.
