India's growth in 25 years will be clean, green, sustainable, reliable. Modi and his government's vision of making India a $5 trillion economy is not just about growing its GDP but ensuring its growth is balanced, sustainable, and inclusive. India is now the world's fifth-largest economy and is ranked the second-fastest-growing major economy. The country is on the cusp of achieving its goal of becoming a $5 trillion economy by 2027. The government has implemented several initiatives to promote sustainable and inclusive growth, including the National Electric Mobility Mission Plan (NEMMP), which aims to make India a leader in the electric vehicle market. The government has also launched several programs to promote renewable energy, including the National Solar Mission, the National Wind Mission, and the National Bioenergy Mission. The country has set ambitious targets for reducing its carbon emissions, and the government has been working to ensure that these targets are met. India's commitment to achieving its sustainable development goals (SDGs) is also evident in its efforts to improve education, healthcare, and sanitation, as well as to reduce poverty and inequality. The government has implemented several programs to improve education, including the Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan, which aims to provide primary education to all children, and the Mission Education Quality Improvement (MEQI), which aims to improve the quality of education in secondary schools. The government has also launched several programs to improve healthcare, including the National Health Mission, which aims to provide universal health coverage, and the Ayushman Bharat Yojana, which aims to provide affordable healthcare to all Indians. The government has also been working to improve sanitation and reduce poverty, including through the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, which aims to make India open defecation-free, and the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act, which aims to provide guaranteed employment to rural poor. Overall, India's commitment to achieving its sustainable development goals is evident in its efforts to promote sustainable and inclusive growth, reduce poverty and inequality, and improve education, healthcare, and sanitation. The country is on the cusp of achieving its goal of becoming a $5 trillion economy by 2027 and is well on its way to achieving its sustainable development goals.

Akhilesh offers SP ticket to Gorakhpur BJP MLA MLA Mohan Agarwal was insinuated most in BJP Govt. SP chief

The Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) has announced that it will support the SP in the upcoming assembly polls, according to sources. This is the first time that the BSP has supported the SP in an election, and it comes as the two parties have been闹 conflict in the past.

Akhilesh Yadav, the former chief minister of Uttar Pradesh and the current leader of the Samajwadi Party (SP), has said that his party will support the BSP in the upcoming election. This is a significant development, as the BSP has traditionally been a proponent of the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) and the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) has been a long-time rival of the SP.

The announcement comes ahead of the upcoming assembly elections in Uttar Pradesh, which are scheduled to take place in February. The BSP has been a key player in the state's political landscape, and its support for the SP will likely have a significant impact on the outcome of the election.

Akhilesh Yadav has been a strong advocate of the BSP's agenda, which includes a focus on social justice and the rights of the Bahujan community. The BSP has traditionally supported the Bahujan community and has been a vocal opponent of the SP's policies.

The announcement by the BSP is significant because it marks the first time that the two parties have supported each other in an election. This is a significant development, as the two parties have been rivals for many years.

Since 1200 crore vaccines, India has been fighting the mammoth vaccination drive with the singular aim-optimal use of vaccine.\(^{6}\) Every drop of the vaccine will be used, and every drop will be made count. The Prime Minister in the hidden Christmas message encouraged all to get vaccinated in a digitised manner and to ensure that the vaccine reaches every nook and corner of the country.

Mishra is using the unique digital and communication infrastructure of the country to connect the vaccination drive. The number of people who have been vaccinated stands at 100,000 crore, and the figure is still growing. The government is working towards providing每人 the vaccine.

The government has taken a series of steps to ensure that the vaccination drive is successful. The union health minister, Harsh Vardhan, announced that the country will achieve the target of inoculating 100 crore people by July 2021. The government has also launched several initiatives to promote vaccination.

India has been recognized as a global leader in vaccine production, and the country has a robust capacity to produce vaccines. The government has also entered into agreements with various vaccine manufacturers to ensure a steady supply of vaccines.

The government has also taken steps to ensure that the vaccination drive is accessible to all, including the elderly and vulnerable groups. The government has announced that all citizens above the age of 18 will be eligible for vaccination from May 1, 2021.

On January 13, UN Secretary-General said in a special address to the UN General Assembly that he feared the world was facing a ‘winter of discontent’. The Secretary-General’s remarks came amid concerns over Afghanistan’s humanitarian crisis and its implications for the war-torn country with the rest of the world.

The Secretary-General also warned that the world was failing to address the climate emergency, and that the recent increase in food prices was causing a “hunger crisis” in many parts of the world.

The Secretary-General called for a “global reset” to address the root causes of these issues, including the need for stronger international cooperation to tackle global challenges such as climate change and food security.

In his remarks, the Secretary-General urged countries to abandon “old habits” and “business as usual” and to focus on building a “more just, equitable, and peaceful world”.

He also called for a “new global compact” that would prioritize the needs of the most vulnerable, including those affected by conflict and climate change.

The Secretary-General concluded by saying that “the world is at a moment of choice. We must choose between the old and the new, the old ways of doing things and the new ways of doing things.”

Lung infections can be dangerous.

Lung infections are caused by various pathogens, including bacteria, viruses, and fungi. These infections can range from mild to severe, with some cases even being life-threatening. Common causes of lung infections include:

- Pneumonia: Caused by bacteria, viruses, or fungi, typically affecting the lower respiratory tract, leading to inflammation, swelling, and the production of mucus in the lungs.
- Tuberculosis: Caused by the bacterium Mycobacterium tuberculosis, spread through the air, and affecting the lungs, often leading to coughing, fever, and weight loss.
- Asthma and COPD: Chronic respiratory conditions that can lead to lung infections, characterized by inflammation, narrowed airways, and difficulty breathing.

Prevention and Treatment:

- Prevention involves maintaining good hygiene, avoiding exposure to smoke, and receiving vaccinations for pneumococcal and influenza diseases.
- Treatment typically involves antibiotics for bacterial infections, antiviral medications for viral infections, and antifungal medications for fungal infections. "

Indoor air quality is an important factor in reducing the risk of lung infections. dusty, mold, and other pollutants affects the respiratory system can precipitate infections, leading to wheezing, coughing, and difficulty breathing. Indoor allergens like calcium and potassium are vulnerable to the disease. It's best to reduce exposure to outdoor pollutants as much as possible including:

- Avoid being out of doors during peak pollution periods.
- Wear a mask when outside in polluted areas.
- Keep your home clean as possible to keep air quality at its best.
- Keep windows closed to reduce indoor pollution.

SCROLL OF FREEDOM

The National Gallery of Modern Art, New Delhi celebrated Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav with Kala Kumbh—Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav with Kala Kumbh—an exhibition of Scrolls of Freedom. The exhibition was inaugurated on January 25th, 2023, in Chandigarh and Bhubaneswar, with the aim of commemorating the 75 years of India’s freedom movement.

These scrolls were created as a tribute to the unsung heroes of India’s freedom movement. They were created by a team of artists led by Nandalal Bose and his team, who aimed to capture the essence of India’s freedom struggle in a unique and creative manner.

The scrolls were created in collaboration with the Northern Zonal Cultural Centre and the National Gallery of Modern Art in New Delhi. The exhibition was held in Chandigarh and Bhubaneswar, with the scrolls being displayed in both locations.

The exhibition was a significant event in the celebration of Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav, which marks the 75th anniversary of India’s independence. The scrolls were a powerful reminder of the sacrifices made by India’s freedom fighters and their contributions to the country’s independence.

The exhibition was well-received by the public, with thousands of visitors coming to see the artwork and learn more about India’s freedom struggle. The exhibition was a fitting tribute to the unsung heroes of India’s freedom movement, and a reminder of the importance of remembering and honoring those who fought for India’s independence.

The exhibition was sponsored by the Ministry of Culture, Government of India, and was a part of the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav celebrations. It was organized by the National Gallery of Modern Art, New Delhi, in collaboration with the Northern Zonal Cultural Centre and the National Gallery of Modern Art in Chandigarh and Bhubaneswar.

The scrolls were created using traditional techniques and were a reflection of the rich cultural heritage of India. They were a powerful reminder of the sacrifices made by India’s freedom fighters and their contributions to the country’s independence.
