The length and cumbersome process of approval and bureaucratic red tape undermines the process

With the financial year ending in two months, the Government has to direct the target of 1,775 crore vaccines and is very close to achieving it. The Union Budget for 2021-22 had stated that the country would be able to make 600 million doses per annum and vaccine production will become a game-changer for the country. However, the Government is in the process of achieving this target and is facing several challenges.

The process of vaccine approval is very time-consuming and bureaucratic. The Government has to go through several rounds of meetings and discussions with various stakeholders, including regulatory bodies, to ensure that the vaccine is safe and effective. This process can take several months or even years, depending on the complexity of the vaccine.

Furthermore, the Government has to deal with the supply chain and distribution of the vaccine. The country has to ensure that the vaccine is stored at the correct temperature and transported to the right location. This requires a significant amount of logistics and coordination.

In addition, the Government has to deal with the demand for vaccines. The country has a large and diverse population, and ensuring that everyone receives the vaccine is a major challenge.

The Government has to balance the need for a quick response with the need for safety and efficacy. It is a complex process, and the Government has to work closely with various stakeholders to ensure that the vaccine is produced and distributed efficiently.

It is crucial for the Government to continue its efforts to meet the targets set for vaccine production and distribution. The country has made significant progress so far, but there is still a long way to go. The Government needs to continue its efforts to ensure that everyone receives the vaccine and that the process is as efficient as possible.

Budget 2022: FADA seeks GST rate cut on two-wheelers

FADA requests for a 5 per cent GST cut

The Indian Auto Dealers' Association has sought a 5 per cent reduction in the GST rate of two-wheelers, from 18 per cent to 13 per cent, to boost the number of units sold and help manufacturers recover from the pandemic-induced downturn.

In a letter addressed to the Finance Minister, the Association said it is crucial for the industry to address its growing inventory problem, which has been driven by the surge in costs and a sharp decline in demand due to the ongoing pandemic. The current 18 per cent GST rate has led to a rise in vehicle prices, making it unaffordable for many customers, while also putting pressure on manufacturers to offer discounts and other incentives.

FADA said it is committed to supporting the government’s efforts to achieve the national agri-focus and the roadmap for a carbon-neutral India by 2070. It also noted that the industry has been a key contributor to the country’s economy, with around 70 per cent of vehicle sales in rural areas.

The Association further highlighted the importance of two-wheelers in India’s market, noting that they account for around 60 per cent of the country’s total two-wheeler sales. It said that a GST rate cut would help reduce the overall cost of ownership and make two-wheelers a more attractive option for a larger number of consumers.

FADA urged the government to consider the industry’s request and make the necessary adjustments to the GST rate. The Association also called on the government to ensure that the changes do not lead to an increase in the overall cost of the vehicle, and that it adequately compensates for the expected revenue loss.

According to FADA, the industry is facing a severe challenge due to the ongoing pandemic, which has led to a decline in demand and a rise in costs. It said that a GST rate cut would help the industry to recover from the pandemic-induced downturn and support the government’s efforts to achieve its national goals.

In conclusion, FADA requested the Finance Minister to consider the industry’s request and make the necessary adjustments to the GST rate, in order to support the industry’s recovery and contribute to the government’s national goals.

Gemma Arterton on her The King’s Man character

British actress Gemma Arterton, who plays the character of Villanelle, in the upcoming film The King’s Man, has revealed that she was initially hesitant to accept the role.

“Villanelle is such a complex character, and I really wanted to do something that was different for me,” Arterton said. “I was afraid that people would recognize me as Villanelle, and I didn’t want that to be the first thing people think of when they see me.”

However, she was persuaded to take on the role by the film’s director, Matthew Vaughn, who promised to give her character depth and complexity.

“I was skeptical at first, but I trusted Matthew’s vision,” Arterton said. “I’m really glad I said yes, because it’s been a incredible experience.”

Referring to the character’s role as a spy, Arterton added: “I love playing a character who’s clever and manipulative. It’s a challenge to bring depth and humanity to a character who’s often portrayed as a one-dimensional villain.”

Arterton also spoke about the film’s emphasis on diversity and inclusion. “Javier Bardem’s character, for example, is a wonderful addition to the cast,” she said. “He brings a great deal of nuance and depth to the story.”

Commenting on her performance, Arterton said: “I think my character is a great foil for the other characters. She’s a strong, independent woman, and I think audiences will respect her.”

The film, which is the first in a planned prequel series to the Kingsman franchise, is scheduled for release in February 2023.
