MUMBAI/NEW DELHI

Minutes after the Supreme Court refused to stay Maharashtra Governor's direction to the Shiv Sena-NCP-Congress Maha Vikas Aghadi Government to take a floor test in the Assembly on Thursday, Uddhav on Wednesday announced his resignation as the Maharashtra Chief Minister.

"I am also quitting as the member of the Legislative Council," Thackeray said in a webcast, on Thursday night while appealing to the workers of his party not to take to the streets in protest. He said he was not interested "in playing the numbers game".

"Let the rebels who grew politically because of Shiv Sena and Balasaheb Thackeray get joy and satisfaction of pulling down his son from the post of Chief Minister," Thackeray said.

Earlier, after hearing all sides for more than three hours on Wednesday on Governor's order for a floor test by the Sena-led Government in Maharashtra, a Supreme Court Bench comprising Justices Surya Kant and JB Pardiwala delivered the order around 9 pm, refusing to stay the floor test. However, the court issued notice on Shiv Sena Chief Whip Sunil Prabhu's petition to all parties to respond and tagged the case with rebel MP's case against disqualification notice, scheduled on July 11.

The apex court said the final outcome of the floor test will be subject to the disqualification case. The court allowed jailed Ministers Nawab Malik and Anil Deshmukh to attend the floor test.

"We are not staying the floor test. We are issuing notices. You can file counter. We will hear on merits along with other cases on July 11. The result of tomorrow will depend on the final outcome of this petition," the court directed, adding that the results of tomorrow will be subject to the final outcome of the petition before the court.

Senior Counsel Abhishek Manu Singhvi, appearing for Prabhu, said the entire voting pool will change if the floor test is held after disqualification. "The decision of the Speaker will change the pool who will be voting. Before plunging into the pool, the size has to be noted," he said.

"If on July 11, the court decides the petition, say the Speaker's bar is lifted, and certain MLAs are disqualified, then the test could have concluded the next day," said Singhvi arguing that the case before the top court will become infructuous.

Singhvi questioned the act of the Governor in showing undue haste in calling for floor test. "The Governor is bound to act on the aid and advice of the Council of

Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray with Maharashtra Minister Aaditya Thackeray leaves after attending a Cabinet meeting, in Mumbai on Wednesday

Ministers. Here he may act on the advice of Ministers or not, but definitely cannot act on the advice of the Opposition," he contended.

Senior Counsel Neeraj Kishan Kaul, appearing for Eknath Shinde, said the Speaker cannot decide disqualification proceedings when no-confidence motion against him is pending. "You (Speaker) are seized of a matter, you know there are proceedings against you. You cannot proceed at all. It is a jurisdictional issue," Kaul said.

"When the CM has lost confidence in the House, the moment the CM shows reluctance, it shows that he knows he has lost the majority. This is all the more reason to have a floor test," Kaul argued.

"Assuming a floor test takes place, who are competent to participate," asked Justice Kant.

Udaipur killer has links with Pak outfit: PolicePNS/AGENCIES ■ JAIPUR/
NEW DELHI

One of the two prime accused in the brutal killing of a tailor in Udaipur has links with the Pakistan-based organisation Dawat-e-Islami and had visited Karachi in 2014, the Rajasthan Police chief said on Wednesday.

A day after the brutal murder of Hindu tailor Kanhaiya Lal Teli in Udaipur by two radical Muslims, the National Investigation Agency (NIA) took over the probe into the terror incident from the Rajasthan Police.

The police have detained three more people in connection with the killing so far, Director General of Police (DGP) ML Lather said at a press conference in Jaipur.

"One of the accused, Ghouse Mohammad, has links with the Karachi-based Ismailist organisation Dawat-e-Islami. He had visited Karachi in 2014. So far, we have detained five people, including the two prime accused," Lather said.

Meanwhile, a policeman was slashed with a sword during a protest march in Rajsamand district's Bhim town, where police used tear gas to stop a stone-pelting mob from advancing towards a mosque. In Udaipur, hundreds took part in a funeral procession for Kanhaiya Lal.

Stones were hurled at a burial ground and some people tried to vandalise its gate as the procession passed by. Elsewhere in Rajasthan, markets were closed in Sojat (Pali), Bhinmal and Sanchoor (Jalore) and Reodar (Sikar) in protest over the Udaipur murder.

Two men, identified as Riaz Akhtari and Ghouse Mohammad, allegedly hacked Kanhaiya Lal to death with a cleaver at his shop in Udaipur on Tuesday and posted videos online saying they are avenging an insult to Islam.

The duo was taken into custody on Tuesday and booked under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act and the various sections of IPC, the police chief said.

When asked whether both the accused had links with Dawat-e-Islami, Lather said that it cannot be ruled out as both of them were equally involved.

Lather said that looking into all the perspectives and on directions of the Chief Minister, it was considered as act of terror, so investigation was started after registering a case under the UAPA.

Lather said Ghouse Mohammad in 2014 had visited Dawat-e-Islami, Karachi. The outfit has its offices in Mumbai and Delhi, he said.

Detained accused Riaz works as a welder and Ghouse is into some petty works. "It is also found that the distinct weapon used to hack Kanhaiya was made by Riaz around four-five years ago," said the DGP.

On the trans-border connection of the two prime accused, he said all digital evidence is being looked into.

A case has been lodged under IPC sections 302, 452, 153 (A), 153(B), 295(A) and 34, and sections 16, 18 and 20 of UAPA, 1967. Lather also said a case was lodged against Kanhaiya Lal on June 10 by one Nazim at Dhan Mandi police station over an alleged objectionable post hurting sentiments of a community.

VP election on August 6,
nomination from July 5PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

The election to the post of Vice President will be held on August 6, the Election Commission (EC) on Wednesday announced.

As per the poll panel, the notification for the election to decide the successor of M Venkaiah Naidu will be issued on July 5 and the last date for filing of nomination papers will be July 19. The votes will be counted on August 6.

Naidu's term as Vice President ends on August 10. The BJP-led NDA has a clear edge in the poll in which the members of the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha, including nominated members, are eligible to vote.

As per Article 68 of the Constitution, the election to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of office of the outgoing Vice President is required to be completed before the expiration of the term. At a meeting also attended by Election Commissioner Anup Chandra Pandey, Chief Election Commissioner Rajiv Kumar finalised the schedule for the Vice Presidential poll.

The scrutiny of nomination papers will be done on July 20 and the last date for withdrawal of candidature is July 22.

For the 16th Vice-

Presidential Election, the Electoral College consists of 233 elected members of the Rajya Sabha, 12 nominated members of the Rajya Sabha and 543 elected members of the Lok Sabha. The voting is done by the secret ballot.

Open voting and showing the ballot to anyone under any circumstances in the case of presidential and vice-presidential elections are totally prohibited, the EC cautioned, adding that parties cannot issue whip to its MPs in the matter of voting.

A nomination paper of a candidate has to be subscribed by at least 20 electors as proposers and by at least other 20 electors as seconders. An elector can subscribe to only one nomination paper of a candidate as either a proposer or a seconder. A candidate can file a maximum of four nomination papers. The security deposit for the election is ₹15,000.

5% GST on pre-packed flour, papad, paneer, curd28% tax on casino, online gaming put off for deliberation

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

In what will further hurt the middle class, pre-packed and labelled wheat flour, papad, paneer, curd, and buttermilk will be taxed at 5 per cent after the GST Council on Wednesday decided to stop allowing exemptions on such items while raising rates on a host of others.

The GST Council, at a two-day meeting here, accepted recommendations for rate rationalisation made by different groups appointed by it, resulting in tax changes, Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman told reporters. The tax rate changes will come into effect from July 18.

However, the council decided to refer the report of the GoM (Group of Ministers) on casinos, online gaming and horse racing back to the panel for further deliberation.

The Finance Minister of Goa wanted further discussions on the GST rate to be applicable on casinos and in that context both online gaming and horse racing too would be relooked. The panel had recommended 28 per cent GST levy on all three activities and equalled them to gambling. The report is expected to be ready by July 15 and would be taken up by the council in its next meeting in August.

The ending of the exemption would mean the pre-packed and labelled meat (except frozen), fish, paneer, lassi, honey, dried leguminous vegetables, dried makhana, wheat and other cereals and puffed rice (muri) will now attract a 5 per cent tax.

Monsoon Session: Assembly to run till 7 pm

House

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Odisha Assembly Speaker Bikram Keshari Arukha on Wednesday informed that the duration of House business has been revised from five hours to six hours a day.

Following an all-party meeting ahead of the Assembly's Monsoon Session scheduled from July 2, the Speaker said the House would run from 10 am to 1 pm in first phase and the second phase would be held from 4 pm to 7 pm. Earlier, the second phase used to last till 6 pm.

The Speaker further said all members of the Assembly have unanimously agreed for smooth running of the House, which would run in adherence to the Covid-19 guidelines.

At the meeting, Congress Legislature Party Leader Narasingha Mishra and senior BJP MLA Bishnu Sethi demanded that unlike in the last two years during the Covid pandemic journalists be allowed to enter the Assembly. They also demanded that Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik remain physically present in the House during important discussions.

The Assembly session will continue till August 4. The full Budget for the year 2022-23 will be presented on first day of the session on July 2. The session will have 24 working days. The House will be adjourned from July 7 to 13. The second phase of the session will begin on July 14.

Dubai

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Odisha has attracted $50-billion (Rs 3,75,000-crore) investment in the last two years despite the Covid-19 pandemic, said Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik at the Odisha Investors' Meet in Dubai, organised by the FICCI and the Embassy of India in UAE on Wednesday.

Patnaik said Odisha holds the lion's share of India's mineral reserves with 96 per cent of the country's chromite reserves, 92% nickel, 53% bauxite, 45% manganese, 35% iron ore, and 23% coal reserves of India. This has made Odisha the largest producer of steel, stainless steel, ferro alloys, alumina, and aluminium in India. Odisha also has 11% of India's water resources. The State has a 480-km long coastline making it a natural choice for setting up ports, and for international trade.

He said the State is home to a large and highly skilled workforce and 11 of India's top 100 Industrial training institutes are in Odisha. The Government of Odisha has recently established the World Skill Centre in Bhubaneswar to prepare the Odia workforce for modern and new age Industry.

Patnaik also announced that the State would be conducting the third edition of its flagship Global Investors Meet, "Make in Odisha 2022", during November 30 to December 4 at the State capital Bhubaneswar. Patnaik extended the invitation to businesses in the MENA region to attend the meet and witness the opportunities Odisha offers.

The companies expressed their interest to invest in the State and Investment intents worth more than Rs 21,000 crore and employment potential of more than 19,000 were received across sectors such as infrastructure, hospitality, logistics, chemical and food processing. The CM also assured all the companies of unmatched facilitation and support in Odisha

State logs 161
new Covid cases

Active cases now 629

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

In an upward trend, the State on Wednesday registered 161 new Covid-19 positive cases in five districts and the State pool, with which the total tally increased to 12,89,602.

Among the freshly-infected were 24 children in the age group of 0 to 18 years.

Notably, the State had recorded 113 Covid cases on Tuesday.

Out of the new cases, 95 were from quarantine and 66 local contacts.

Khordha district reported the highest 60 cases followed by Cuttack with 32, Sundargarh 13, Saharanpur eight and Puri five. Besides, 15 cases were reported from the State pool. The active cases numbered 629. So far, 12,79,794 patients have recovered from the disease and 9,126 have succumbed to it in the State.

Devotees witness Nabajauban Besha in Puri

After 2 years

PNS ■ PURI

Thousands of devotees witnessed the Nabajauban Besha of Lord Jagannath, Lord Balabhadra and Devi Subhadra at the Shreemandir here on Wednesday.

The Nabajauban Darshan had been cancelled for the last two years due to the Covid-19 situation. On this day, the deities appear in youthful forms after recovering from fever due to the bath on the occasion of Snan Purnima and emerging from the Anasar Ghar, where they had stayed for 14 days for treatment.

As per the schedule, Parimanik (paid) darshan of the deities in Nabajauban Besha was held for one hour from 8 am to 9 am followed by general darshan from 9 am to 10.30 am, from 2 pm to 3 pm, from 6 pm to 6.30 pm, from 9 pm to 10.30 pm and from 11.30 pm to 12.30 am.

Meanwhile, the Shree Jagannath Temple Administration (SJTA) has released the schedule for darshan of deities on the occasion of Ubha Yatra on Thursday (June 30), a day before the Rath Yatra on Friday.

The devotees can have glimpse of deities at the temple from 4 am to 6.30 am, from 12.30 pm to 1.30 pm and from 3.30 pm to 5 pm on Thursday.

‘Cong to provide free 200-unit electricity if in power’

Pattanayak slams Naveen Govt for no industry in B’swar

UBACHAK MOHANTY ■ BALESWAR

The Congress would provide 200 units free electricity if voted to power in the 2024 elections. Besides there would be a lot more social security and welfare schemes benefiting all sections including woman, youth and senior citizen, said State Congress president Sarat Pattanayak while addressing a gathering here at ITI field during its ‘Jan Sampark Abhiyan’ of the party on Wednesday.

Pattnayak asserted that Congress fulfills what it commits. In Baleswar, several industries came up in the nineties during the regime of then Chief Minister JB Patnaik. Buy today several of them have been closed including large scale industries like Birla Tyres and Balasore Alloys as they went sick and workers are jobless, he said.

He further claimed that major institutions were established during Congress MP period included CIPET, AIIMS and Nocci business park etc in Baleswar. However targeting the BJD Government, he said the incumbent Government in power for 24 years has not established even a needle factory in the district.

The Subarnarekha port , about which the Government boasts, undermines the interest of Baliapal as they would lose fertile land forever, Pattanayak said.

He besides stating that some of their leaders in the hunger for power have deserted Congress appealed them to return home. He appealed to the voters not to sell their votes at Rs 500 each, around Rs 28 paise daily during elections, which the beggar even won't accept.

“We will rise from 9 to 90 in the Assembly, that is why the Jan Sampark Abhiyan is undertaken and workers should go to the people and strengthen the base of the party,” he maintained.

Pattanayak further pointing out the deteriorating law and order situation of Baleswar also demanded for establishment of an agriculture college and research centre and Revenue Commissioner office in the district.

Many senior party leaders of the district were present.

‘BJD failing to provide basic amenities’

We’ll ensure it if voted to power: AAP

BIKASH KHEMKA ■ BHAWANIPATNA

Delhi Cantt MLA from the Aam Admi Party Birendra Singh Kadian said the BJD Government has failed to provide basic amenities to the people in Odisha and the AAP has come forward to fulfil it.Kadian, State convener of Odisha, was here at Bhawanipatna on Tuesday to strengthen the party.

Kadian said," We are demanding free electricity up to 200 units to the consumers from the Odisha Government as it is a surplus State for producing the energy." He asked when it was applied by the Delhi Government why the BJD Government was reluctant. He said around 40,000 youths have joined the AAP in the State and the aspirants will be given tickets from all the constituencies in Odisha in the upcoming elections.

Taking a swipe at the ruling BJD Government in Odisha, he said private schools and colleges in Odisha are mushrooming leading to privatization of education. But in Delhi, there is a reverse trend as 3.75 lakh students from private schools returned and studied in Government schools because the model was changed. He said in Odisha even schools under 5T are reeling under shortage of teachers.

State president Nishikant Mohapatra said patients are forced to visit hospitals out of the State as the districts have no facilities for treatment. "We will provide multi specialty hospital in each district," he added. He assured to provide employment to the youths by setting up industries in the local area. Though Kalahandi is famous for paddy and cotton production, youths are still unemployed, he lamented.

In the meeting Nuapada district convener Soknath Senapati and district convener Krutibas Mund among others were present.

CTO held taking Rs 2L bribe

Rs 2.76-cr assets of Asst Engineer detected

PNS ■ CUTTACK

The Vigilance police on Wednesday caught Prakash Chandra Sahoo, Additional Commercial Tax Officer, CT and GST, Enforcement Unit, Paradip in Jagatsinghpur red-handed while accepting a bribe of Rs 2 lakh from a person. Later, he was arrested and forwarded to court.

Sahoo had demanded the bribe from a glass and ply dealer following an inspection of his business site on May 22.

In another operation, simultaneous house searches were carried out on the office and houses of Pravat Kumar Rout, Assistant Engineer, Dampada Panhayat Samiti in Cuttack district on the allegations of possession of assets disproportionate to his known sources of income.

So far, movable and immovable assets worth Rs 2.76 crore were detected in the name of Rout and his family members. In another case, Himansu Sekhar Panda, Junior Assistant, Badampahad CHC in Mayurbhanj district was apprehended while accepting a bribe of Rs 25,000 from a Multipurpose Health Supervisor for drawal of his arrear salary. He was arrested and forwarded to court.

Med student death

NHRC team begins probe; visits college

PNS ■ BALANGIR

A team of the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) team visited the Bhima Bhoi Medical College in Balangir on Wednesday to investigate the death of a first-year MBBS student.

A native of Haryana, Nishant Kumar of the institute died after falling off the hostel roof on April 22. His parents alleged he was a victim of ragging. Later, the surfacing of Nishant's mobile chats with his friends had led to suspicions of ragging.

As per reports, the team comprising Bimal Jeet Ippal, Chandra Sekhar and Madhabananda Rout is staying at the Circuit House and continuing the investigation into the case till July 1.

The team would also question the Dean of the medical college, head of all the departments and other employees in this regard. The district administration and police have assured the team to extend all sorts of help during their investigation process. Earlier, taking cognisance of the death of the student, the NHRC had issued a notice to Odisha Chief Secretary and the Vice-Chancellor (VC) of Sambalpur University to submit a action taken report.(ATR)

‘BJD, BJP playing tribal card on Murmu Prez choice’

Cong asks why no TAC meet in last 4 yrs; Modi Govt stopped funds for tribal dev?

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The Congress on Wednesday sharply criticised the way both BJD and BJP were attempting to champion the cause of tribals by nominating former Odisha Minister Draupadi Murmu as NDA's Presidential candidate.

Party media convenor

Satya Prakash Nayak alleged that while tribals of the State were reeling various problems, in the name of 'mati' and 'party' both the ruling parties at the Centre and State were playing politics of credit.

Rather than highlighting who became from which community, they should concentrate on welfare of the tribal community, he added.

Nayak alleged that presenting one Murmu as tribal representative, you cannot deceive millions of tribals.

Presidential election is a political process and it would happen after end of term of incumbent President but in name of Presidential elections both the BJD and the BJP are trying to outsmart each other, Nayak told.

Chief Minister Naveen Patanik who is the Chairman of the State Tribal Advisory Council(TAC) has never called a meeting or chaired a meeting during the last four years; similarly the BJP rather than questioning the ruling BJD on

State executive meet

BJP terms State 5T scheme as a hoax

--Hails Murmu’s candidate as PM’s gift to State

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The BJP State executive on Wednesday termed the State Government's 5T scheme as a clear hoax for the people, saying the scheme has been launched to hide facts and to undermine the real issues confronting the people of the State.

The meeting was held with party State president Samir Mohanty in the chair.

The party's political resolution stated that in a resources-rich State where people are deprived of safe drinking water and farmers are not getting water for irrigation, the so-called 5T is designed to deceive people.

While the per capita income of the farmers at the national level is Rs 10,248, it is only Rs 5,112 in Odisha because of the nexus of millers, brokers and Government officials. Farmers are not getting the Minimum Support Price (MSP) for paddy which the Centre has increased to Rs 2,040. Due to non-submissions of the list to the Central Government, 18 lakh farmers in the State are deprived of getting Rs 6,000 annually from the Central Government.

Taking a potshot on the law and order situation in the State, the party resolution stated that the State reports four rape cases daily. In the last five years, 27,000 children have gone missing. BJD leaders are involved in a number of criminal cases.

The electricity bill in the State is skyrocketing and 92 lakh consumers are suffering as the Government has handed over the sector to a private company. More than 1,800 school headmaster posts are lying vacant.

The party questioned the claim of the State Government on Mission Shakti and women empowerment.

The party welcomed the decision of Prime Minister Modi and party president JP Nadda in nominating tribal woman leader from Odisha Draupadi Murmu as the NDA Presidential candidate.

The party hailed Agnipath as an ambitious scheme for youths of the country.

HITTING THE BULL’S EYE

Pope revered only by half the Christian world

Christianity, a major religion of the world, stemmed from the life, teachings, and death of Jesus of Nazareth, the Christ, or the Anointed One of God in the 1st century common era. Constantine made Christianity the official religion of Rome. On February 27, 380, in Thessaloniki, the Eastern Roman Emperor Theodosius I (347 - 395) signed a decree in the presence of the Western Roman Emperor Valentinian-II that made Christianity the religion of the state and punished the practice of pagan rituals. As the capital of the empire, Rome was the natural centre for the growing church which put a name to every bishop in an unbroken line back to the 1st century of the Christian era. St Peter was the first pope.

The Catholic Church weakened by the late middle ages by corruption, political struggles, and humanist ideas. Many Catholics were dismayed by extreme worldliness and immorality in the Church where the sale of indulgences was rampant and the practice of simony huge. Simony means the buying or selling of spiritual or sacred things such as ecclesiastical offices, pardons, or consecrated objects. Much later, the Protestant Reformation began in Wittenberg, Germany, on October 31, 1517, when Martin Luther, a teacher and a monk, published a document called 'Disputation on the Power of Indulgences, or 95 Theses'- a series of 95 ideas about Christianity that he invited people to debate with him.

The Catholics and Protestants worship the same God, but the principles of their faith are different. Five hundred years after the Reformation, there are still painful divisions between Protestants and Catholics.

In Germany, the country of the Reformation, a deep animosity divided Catholic and Protestant Christians up until a few decades ago. This division had deepened over the centuries through religious conflicts and wars, and the church Reformation began 500 years ago as Martin Luther tried to reform the Catholic Church. His attempt led to a schism in the church. On October 31, 1517, the publication of his Ninety-Five Theses, which outlined various abusive practices of the church, is considered the founding event that led to this division in Germany and the creation of the Evangelical Church. In the past, Protestant churches had celebrated major Reformation anniversaries by worshipping Martin Luther as a hero; but in recent years that approach changed. The Evangelical Church in Germany sought to turn the celebrations of '500 Years of Reformation' into a common celebration of Christ with the Catholic Church.

Through various events, both sides paid tribute to Martin Luther while emphasizing their will to overcome divisions. On March 11, 2017, a central reconciliation service was held in the city of Hildesheim to jointly mark 500 years since the Reformation.

Fortunately, the goal in recent years has been to reach better understanding and find common ground between the two churches. All the same, a new united church is far from being realised. To describe their relationship, the expression "reconciled diversity" is used by both sides. The basic differences between the two Christian communities: Interpretation of the Bible

Catholicism and Protestant Luther made clear that the Bible is the 'Sola Skriptura', God's only book, in which He provided His revelations to the people, which allows them to enter in communion with Him. Catholics, on the other hand, do not base their beliefs on the Bible alone. Along with the Holy Scripture, they are additionally bound by the traditions of the Roman Catholic Church. Catholics and Protestants have a different view on the nature of the church. 'Catholic' means 'all-embracing'. The Catholic Church sees itself as the only true church worldwide, under the leadership of the pope. In contrast, the Protestant Churches which have emerged from Reformation, also called 'Evangelical' meaning 'according to the Gospel' do not make up one united Church. There are rather several tens of thousands of different denominations around the world. Officially, all of these many churches are considered equal.

Protestants do not care for the papal primacy. This dogma contradicts statements in the Bible. Catholics consider the pope as the successor of the Apostle Peter, the first head of their Church, who was appointed by Jesus. The papal office justifies this by an allegedly unbroken chain of consecrations, ranging from the first century to the present.

This continuous chain, known as the apostolic succession, is significant for different spiritual offices in the Catholic Church. With the Sacrament of Holy Orders, bishops, priests and deacons receive a lifelong seal of God giving them sacramental authority over Catholic folks. But this consecration is given only to men. Protestants do not consecrate specific persons into office, but rather accept the principle that priesthood can be transferred to every believer including women.

The Catholics' spiritual views are reflected in the Eucharist or Holy Communion, a rite commemorating the Last Supper of Jesus with his disciples before his crucifixion. Once consecrated by a priest in the name of Jesus, bread and wine become the body and blood of Christ. Non-Catholics may not participate in Communion. In the Protest Church, every baptised person is invited to share and is allowed to lead the Lord's Supper. This approach is not accepted by Catholics.

Additionally, Eucharist has a different meaning for Catholics and Protestants. The bread, known as the Host, embodies Jesus and can, therefore, be prayed to. For Protestants, the ritual only serves to commemorate Jesus' death and resurrection.

In the Roman Catholic Church, there are seven solemn rites, called sacraments: baptism, confirmation, the Eucharist, matrimony, penance, holy orders and extreme unction, all this believed to have been instituted by Jesus. Most Protestant churches only practice two of these sacraments: baptism and the Lord's Supper. The Roman Catholic Church reveres Mary, the mother of Jesus, as 'Queen of Heaven'. There are few biblical references to support these dogmas. These are rejected by the Protestants though they believe

Mary was the mother of Jesus.

The Catholic Church also practises the veneration of saints through canonization. There are now over 4,000 saints. This veneration is also vehemently opposed by the Protestant Church as unbiblical. In the Catholic Church, celibacy is obligatory for priests. The Protestant Church rejects this obligation for priests. Martin Luther demanded its abolition in 1520. The former monk married a former nun Katharina von Bora only to please his father, rile the pope, cause the angels to laugh, and the devils to weep.

Interestingly today, most of the leading industrialised nations including USA, UK, Germany and France are protestants. The three Western Europe catholic countries Italy, Spain and Portugal are very poor economies with huge debt burdens.

Though 50% Christians of the world are Catholics, the protestant communities rule as masters. Only the Pope makes money from archaic traditional practices. He has long ceased to be the sole master of the Christian world. But Vatican City is, of course, a great tourist destination today for Christians.

‘Let’s vow to implement CM’s ideals’ clean and green and also protect the environment from degradation. Meanwhile, Public Works Department Chief Engineer and Odisha Engineers' Service Association president Tarapasad Mishra congratulated Das on his birthday. Mishra said because of Das, the development of Jajpur has been possible and lots of welfare projects have been taken up for benefit of the people. He said with strong political and administrative will, development of the masses is possible.

BJP terms Udaipur murder as ‘terror attack’

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The BJP on Wednesday accused the Congress-led Gehlot Government in Rajasthan of pursuing “vote bank politics of appeasement” and termed the killing of tailor Kanhaiya Lal in Udaipur as a “terror attack”.

The party also saw a pattern in the State Government’s failure to prevent f such terrorist incidents in the past. BJP leader and Union Minister Anurag Thakur lashed out at Ashok Gehlot over the killing saying the State Government remained a “mute spectator” as the Congress’ internal rivalries affected law and order. The Information and Broadcasting Minister was responding to reporters’ questions on the killing of Lal Monday.

At a separate Press conference, BJP spokesperson and former Union Minister Rajyavardhan Rathore said Lal’s killers filmed the incident and made the video viral in an attempt to terrorise society and accused the State police of not acting on the complaint of the deceased and allowing a free-run to the ‘jehadi nexus’ in the State. He said the Chief Minister who is also Home Minister is treating the terrorist act as a “simple murder” and accused the Congress Government of pursuing “vote-bank politics of appeasement”. Rathore charged the Congress Government in Rajasthan was responsible for Lal’s killing and that it has taken many steps during its tenure to appease one community.

“Festivals of different religions are given different treatment by the State Government,” he said while leveling charge of appeasement on the Gehlot government. “Not a single week has gone by in the last six months when terrorist, jihadi incidents have not happened in Rajasthan. The Government of Rajasthan is solely responsible for this,” he said adding the Gehlot Government is seen as “giving support to terrorist organisations”.

The BJP spokesman said fundamentalist are running a free-run and “sleepers cells” have penetrated the state and “law and order has turned zero”. “Police intelligence is being used for political intelligence”, he alleged and sought to know as to why the Chief Minister was there if he was to look at the Prime Minister to do everything. On a question that the opposition has blamed BJP for creating a negative atmosphere, Rathore hit-out at them saying such arguments are dished-out to justify ‘Jehadi’ killings. BJP spokesman, however, said National Investigation Agency is “competent enough” to unravel conspiracy and terrorist nexus and will investigate as who was giving protection to them in state.

Former Rajasthan Chief Minister Vasundhara Raje also slammed the Gehlot government over the beheading incident in Udaipur saying “policies of incitement and appeasement” led to the Communal violence in state. “..it has become clear that due to the instigation and appeasement of the state government morale of criminals is high .

Due to this policy of the state government , a situation of communal frenzy and violence has arisen in the state “. Raje tweeted. The tailor was killed on Tuesday by two men, who had posted videos online that said they were avenging an insult to Islam.

Tailor’s killing un-Islamic, say Muslim bodies

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Prominent Muslim organisations on Wednesday condemned the brutal killing of a tailor in Udaipur, calling it “un-Islamic” and asserting that no person has the right to take law into one’s hands.

Bodies like All India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIMPLB) and Jamiat Ulema-e-Hind issued statements condemning the murder of Kanhaiya Lal by two men who had posted videos online that claimed they were avenging an insult to Islam.

Delhi Jama Masjid Shahi Imam Syed Ahmed Bukhari called the killing an “act of cowardice” and “an act against Islam”. Islam is a religion of “peace and tranquillity,” he said.

In its statement, the AIM-PLB said such acts were against the principles of Islam and no one should take law in their hands.

“Insulting holy personalities of any religion is a serious crime. BJP spokesperson Nupur Sharma made derogatory remarks about the holy Prophet of Islam, which is very sad for Muslims.

“The Government not taking any action against Nupur Sharma is like rubbing salt on the wounds. But despite this, taking the law into one’s own hands and killing a person by declaring him a criminal is a condemnable act,” the statement issued on behalf of AIMPLB general secretary Maulana Khalid Saifullah Rahmani.

“Neither the law allows it nor does the Islamic Shariah justify it. Therefore, the All India Muslim Personal Law Board strongly condemns the incident in Udaipur (Rajasthan),” the statement said.

The board also urged the Government to make stringent laws regarding disrespectful comments against holy personalities and take immediate action in such cases.

The board also appealed to the Muslim community to act patiently and not take law into their own hands as well as not indulge in any such action that might disturb communal harmony in the country. Both the Arshad Madani and Mahmood Madani factions of the Jamiat Ulema-e-Hind condemned the incident and called it “un-Islamic”.

In a statement, Maulana Arshad Madani said that just as “we had opposed mob-lynching in many places, we also consider this an inhumane act”.

“We are always against anyone taking the law into their own hands. The Udaipur incident is a very tragic, un-Islamic and inhumane act, it is highly condemnable. The law of the state would work accordingly in this case as well,” he said.

Madani also said that whatever happened “due to derogatory words” was bad, but in order to maintain law and order and communal harmony in the country, it is necessary to show tolerance and patience.

“Just as we oppose this incident, we are strongly opposing insulting the dignity of any religious figure,” Arshad Madani said.

“We once again demand the government to immediately arrest those who have insulted the Prophet and punish them severely according to the law so that no one will dare to do so again in the future,” he said.

India’s desi mRNA Covid-19 vaccine approved for 18+

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Drugs Controller General of India (DCGI) has approved country’s first indigenously developed mRNA vaccine GEMCOVAC-19 against Covid-19. The vaccine has been given approval for restricted emergency use for those aged 18 years and above.

Gennova Biopharmaceuticals Ltd., a subsidiary of Emcure Pharmaceuticals Ltd., announced that its mRNA vaccine — GEMCOVAC-19 — against Covid-19 received the Emergency Use Authorization (EUA) from the office of the Drugs Controller General of India (DCGI),” said a statement from the vaccine manufacturer Gennova Biopharmaceuticals on Wednesday. It is a two dose vaccine to be administered intramuscularly at 28 days apart.

The vaccine will be sold under the brand name GEMCOVAC-19. GEMCOVAC-19 is the very first mRNA vaccine developed in India and only third mRNA vaccine to be approved for Covid-19 in the world.

“These vaccines are highly efficacious because of their inherent capacity of being translated into the protein structure inside the cell cytoplasm. mRNA vaccines are considered safe as mRNA is non-infectious, non-integrating in nature, and degraded by standard cellular mechanisms”, said the vaccine manufacturer.

Those talking of appeasement forgot Shambhu incident: Congress to BJP

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI/JAIPUR

The Congress on Wednesday asserted that the Ashok Gehlot Government in Rajasthan was aware of its “raj dharma” and said action in the brutal killing of a tailor would be taken in accordance with law, unaffected by the religion or caste of those involved.

Two men with a cleaver murdered a tailor in Udaipur and posted videos online, claiming that they are avenging an insult to Islam.

Gehlot said the Rajasthan Police has booked the two men who brutally murdered Kanhaiya Lal in Udaipur a day before under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA).

The case will be investigated by the National Investigation Agency (NIA) and the Anti-Terrorist Squad (ATS) of Rajasthan Police will fully cooperate with the probe agency, he said. Gehlot made the remarks after chairing a high-level meeting in which he reviewed the situation in Udaipur. Gehlot also convened an all-party meeting at his residence over the Udaipur incident. Congress’ media department head Pawan Kherra said the party condemns the incident and said the Gehlot Government had acted swiftly in the matter.

“The Ashok Gehlot Government got the accused arrested within six hours. An all-party meeting has been called in the evening. This whole matter has been fast-tracked. On the basis of what came up during the probe, Ashok Gehlot has assured all help to the NIA,” Kherra said at AICC Press conference.

“With the atmosphere being vitiated in the entire country for the last two months, Gehlot has been urging Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah that they address the country, take steps to stop the spread of hatred in society, and appeal for maintaining peace,” he said.

Kherra alleged that polarisation is evident in every nook and corner of the country, and asked why this was not the case earlier. The Congress spokesperson asserted that whoever is found guilty in the probe, strictest action will be taken against that person “There should be no doubt regarding that.

Hitting out at the BJP over its claim that terror outfits are flourishing in the Rajasthan due to its ‘appeasement policy’ towards one community, Kherra said, “Those talking of appeasement forget that in 2017 in Rajasthan’s Rajsamand district, Shambhu Lal Regar had made a video while murdering someone and people of a particular party had climbed atop a court complex in his favour and hoisted their flag after removing the tricolour.”

Those talking of appeasement forget the murder of inspector Subodh Singh and that his murderers were garlanded, Kherra said.

India slams UN Human Rights for comments on Teesta, calls it unwarranted

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Taking exception to a comment by the UN Human Rights office regarding the arrest of social activist Teesta Setalvad and two others, India on Wednesday termed them as “unwarranted.” It also said it constitutes an interference in India’s independent judicial system.

The sharp reaction by the ministry of external affairs(MEA) here came a day after the UN Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR)voiced concern over the arrest and detention of Setalvad and called for her immediate release. “#India: We are very concerned by the arrest and detention of #WHRD @TeestaSetalvad and two ex-police officers and call for their immediate release. They must not be persecuted for their activism and solidarity with the victims of the 2002 #GujaratRiots,” the UN Human Rights office said in a tweet on Tuesday.

Making India’s stand clear, MEA spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said, “We have seen a comment by the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) regarding legal action against Teesta Setalvad and two other persons. The remarks by OHCHR are completely unwarranted and constitute an interference in India’s independent judicial system. Authorities in India act against violations of law in accordance with established judicial processes. Labelling such legal actions as persecution for activism is misleading and unacceptable,” he said.

JD(S) indicates support to Murmu in presidential poll

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Janata Dal (S) leader and former Chief Minister of Karnataka H D Kumaraswamy on Wednesday indicated support to BJP-led NDA’s candidate for Presidential polls Droupadi Murmu.

“Already she (Murmu) has discussed with our national president (H D Deve Gowda) over phone twice and has requested support. Also, she had sought time to come and meet. I requested our national President that there is no need for her to come personally in the current situation,” Kumaraswamy said.

Speaking to reporters at Bengaluru, he said Murmu already has the majority on her side and she has expressed her desire to seek Gowda’s support out of goodwill and generosity.

“She has already won...She need not come so far...We will decide in the party...You (media) may have understood by now what our decision might be. Before taking a final decision, we will look into the background of both candidates. There is no question of Congress or BJP or any B-team here,” he said, adding that he has gone through Murmu’s background and her struggle.

Recently calling Murmu, as a “suitable” and “non-controversial” candidate, Gowda had noted that he doesn’t want to refer to her as merely a tribal candidate, but wants to say that she is “competent” for the post of President.

Jharkhand Chief Minister who recently met Union Home minister Amit Shah is also to decide whether his party JMM, would switch its support to the NDA nominee backing-out from the opposition side.

Meanwhile, as many as 115 nominations were filed till Wednesday, the last day of the filing papers for the July 18 presidential election, the Rajya Sabha Secretariat .

The scrutiny of the nominations would be done on Thursday. Those who filed their papers include NDA nominee i Murmu and joint Opposition candidate Yashwant Sinha, who are the main contestants.

Besides them, a host of commoners have also filed their papers for the top constitutional post in the country, which include a slum dweller from Mumbai, a namesake of RJD founder Lalu Prasad Yadav, a social activist from Tamil Nadu and a professor from Delhi.

SC stays Tripura HC order seeking scrutiny of security cover of Ambani, family

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Wednesday stayed the orders of the Tripura High Court on a PIL challenging the grant of security cover to industrialist Mukesh Ambani and his family members in Mumbai.

A vacation bench of Justices Surya Kant and JB Pardiwala issued notice to the PIL petitioner before High Court on Centre’s plea by which it had challenged the two orders of the High Court dated May 31 and June 21.

“Issue notice that is returnable on July 21.

“Meanwhile, implementation of orders dated May 31 and June 21 shall remain stayed”, the bench said in its order.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for Centre, said further proceedings before the High Court on the PIL shall also be stayed as Tripura has nothing to do with the security of individuals provided in Mumbai.

He said if the proceedings are not stayed, then again he will have to knock on doors of the top court.

The bench told Mehta, “When we have stayed the orders of High Court do you think there will be a need for you to come here. Even if the need arises, we are here”.

The Tripura High Court had on a PIL filed by one Bikash Saha had passed two interim orders on May 31 and June 21 and had directed the Central Government to place the original file maintained by the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) regarding threat perception and assessment report of Ambani, his wife and children based on which security has been granted to them.

‘Rotavirus survives for up to 3 days in lake water’

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

As pollutants, microplastics can be harmful to the environment and animal health. But now a team of scientists have found that the microplastic also acts as a potential surface for the lethal virus to move into the freshwater.

For instance, they found that Rotavirus, which causes diarrhoea and an upset stomach, was surviving for up to three days in lake water by attaching itself to the surfaces of microplastics.

Microplastics are tiny plastic particles that result from both commercial product development and the breakdown of larger plastics. As a pollutant, microplastics can be harmful to the environment and animal health Previous studies have focussed only on the spread of such viruses in sterile hospital settings, however, the new study published in the journal Environmental Pollution has shown how they are present in the fresh water as well.

This study has come close on the heels of an almost similar report by researchers at IIT-Bombay which has found the presence of microplastics in food, air and water at the institute’s Powai campus.

The study conducted by the Centre for Environmental Science and Engineering, published on June 24 in the Elsevier journal Environmental Research, analysed 35 samples each of ambient air and drinking water, and 10 samples of food and deduced that an individual at the campus may be ingesting between 1,414 to 2,610 microplastic particles per day, with cooked food being the dominant mode.

Professor Richard Quilliam, lead researcher from the varsity whose study has been published in journal Environmental Pollution said, “We found that viruses can attach to microplastics, which allows them to survive in the water for three days, possibly longer,” said “Even if a wastewater treatment plant is doing everything it can to clean sewage waste, the water discharged still has microplastics in it, which are then transported down the river, into the estuary and end up on the beach.

We weren’t sure how well viruses could survive by ‘hitchhiking’ on plastic in the environment, but they do survive, and they do remain infectious.” The researchers tested two types of viruses – those with an envelope, or “lipid coat” around them, such as the flu virus (they tested bacteriophage Phi6), and those without: enteric viruses, such as rotavirus and norovirus (they tested rotavirus strain SA11).

They found that in those with an envelope, the envelope quickly dissolved, and the virus was deactivated, whereas those without an envelope successfully bound to the microplastics and survived.

“Viruses can also bind to natural surfaces in the environment. However, plastic pollution lasts a lot longer than those materials,” said Quilliam.

“This research is very much a proof-of-concept for conducting more research into how long pathogens can survive by binding to microplastics, as we only tested for three days, and what happens to them next.”

Global warming to impact water resources, agriculture: Study

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Global warming is expected to increase the intensity and frequency of future drought in several global regions, adversely affecting the water resource, agriculture, and energy sectors, as per a study by the National Institute for Environmental Studies (NIES).

“Given that the current water management practices and existing infrastructures in these sectors are based on historical statistics or experiences, under a changing climate, these practices and infrastructures may eventually become insufficient. “Therefore, it is critical to better understand when severe drought conditions expressed as “unprecedented” will become frequent,” said the study. The projected impacts of warming show significant regional disparities in their intensity and the pace of their growth over time,” said the corresponding lead author Yusuke Satoh, a research associate professor at Korea Advanced Institute of Science & Technology. “Regarding precipitation and temperature, preceding studies report the timing at which the impact of climate change emerges.

However, no study had successfully estimated the timing in terms of drought focusing on river discharge at a global scale,” added Tokuta Yokohata, a coauthor and a Chief Senior Researcher of the Earth System Risk Analysis Section at the Earth System Division, NIES. “A temporal evaluation about future drought conditions in comparison to our historical experiences is essential to take appropriate climate change strategies, especially for climate adaptations, in the long term and in time.”

The paper published in Nature Communications estimates the periods when drought conditions will shift to an unprecedented state in a warmer world. The research group evaluated changes in drought day frequency for 59 global subcontinental regions until the end of the 21st century. They estimated the time of first emergence (TFE) of consecutive unprecedented drought, which is the first onset of exceedance beyond the maximum bound of the historical climate variability during the reference period (1865-2005) that occurs consecutively for a certain number of years.

“Appropriate and feasible climate mitigation and adaptation plans are essential for overcoming the expected extraordinarily severe dry conditions. Particularly regarding adaptation, it is crucial to improve our preparedness in the given time horizon before unprecedented drought conditions emerge,” said Satoh.

Lightning claims 2 dozen lives in UP

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Rains and thundershowers gave the much needed relief to the people but also played havoc in the eastern parts of the Uttar Pradesh, where lightning and thunderstorms claimed about two dozen lives.

According to information received here, the spire of a temple built in Kashi Vishwanath Dham also collapsed due to rain and lightning on Tuesday.

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath has expressed grief at the death of people due to lightning and expressed condolences to the bereaved families. He also directed senior officers to extend all possible help to the family members of the victims.

Two deaths were reported from Kanpur and one from Fatehpur due to lightning. A minor girl died after being struck by lightning in Prayagraj. The girl was in the house of her maternal grandfather.

Two minor children died due to lightning in Varanasi.

These incidents took place in Mirzamurad police station area where 11-year-old Hemant and 15-year-old Prabhat, residents of Adamapur village, died after being struck by lightning. In Varanasi, a former cook of a government school working in a field was also struck by lightning, and died on the spot.

A 15-year-old boy and a 50-year-old woman died due to lightning at two different places in Bhadohi. Besides, three more people, including a teenager, died after being struck by lightning late in the evening on Tuesday in Bhadohi. Additional Superintendent of Police Rajesh Bharti said that Shashi Bhushan Dubey (45), Sukhna Devi (60) and Ankit Gautam (45) died of burns.

Two children died due to lightning in the Baldi Rai area of Sultanpur district on Tuesday. Police officer Rajaram Choudhary said that three children were grazing their buffaloes on Tuesday afternoon in the Dihwa village under Baldiray police station area when suddenly it started raining with thunder, during which all the three children were scorched after being struck by lightning. He said the relatives of the victims and villagers took the three children to the hospital where Shatrughan (11) and Amit (13) died during the treatment while the third child Aham (8) was undergoing treatment.

According to a report received from Maharajganj, Raghuvvar Nayak (45) and Khushi (16) died after being struck by lightning in the field in Badi village under Nichlaur police station. Additional District Magistrate Satya Prakash Mishra said that two other people also sustained burns in this incident.

Three people lost their lives in Ballia's Bairia, Dokati and Sikanderpur due to lightning. In Mirzapur's Lalganj, two people, including a teenager, died after being hit by a thunderstorm while one person each died in Siddharthnagar and Basti due to lightning.

Meanwhile, as many as 26 passengers were injured, three of them seriously, when a private bus hit a road divider and overturned on Agra- Lucknow Expressway on Wednesday. The injured were admitted to a community health centre and three of the injured were referred to the district hospital.

According to reports, the bus was coming from Chhapra in Bihar and was on its way to Delhi. Most of the passengers were sleeping when the accident took place. It is presumed that the driver had dozed off and lost control of the vehicle.

Mamata, Bengal clerics condemn Udaipur killing

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee too joined the group of leaders in condemning the brutal murder of a tailor at Udaipur in Rajasthan by some religious fanatics.

Taking to the Twitter the Chief Minister wrote "violence and extremism are unacceptable, no matter what! (might be the provocation). I strongly condemn what happened in Udaipur." She further appealed for calm saying "as the law takes its own course of action, I urge everyone to maintain peace."

Two men from a particular community carrying a cleaver murdered a tailor and posted online videos of the brutal act saying that they were avenging the insult to Islam by eliminating the tailor belonging to another community.

The victim has made a social media post where he had supported BJP leader Nupura Sharma for her alleged remarks against Prophet Muhammad.

Curiously the Chief Minister who had from a public rally attacked Sharma for her offensive statements promising legal action against her would not condemn the Udaipur attack in a similar manner.

Banerjee had on Tuesday told a public rally at Asansol that "those who are spreading hatred and creating animosity among communities in the country are let off ... they are not being touched ... they are even being given protection whereas those who are criticizing such acts are being arrested," adding in reference to Nupur Sharma case that "we will not spare her ... my Government has already taken action and she had been summoned."

She also condemned the arrest of journalist, Md Zubair and social activist Teesta Sitlvald for fighting the cases of the victims of Gujarat riots.

Meanwhile, a group of Bengal Imams too condemned the Udaipur killing saying Islam never permitted taking someone's life.

Md Yahia Chairman of Bengal Imams Association an organization of Muslim clerics on Wednesday condemned the killing of the Udaipur tailor saying "no true Muslim will support a heinous crime as this," and asked for exemplary punishment for the perpetrators of the crime.

"There are people who are out to malign religions ... no religions preach violence ... there is no issue that cannot be settled through legal way ... such acts must be condemned and strict actions must be taken against the perpetrators of such crimes," he said.

Another cleric from Nakhoda Masjid however said, "an entire community must not be judged by the acts of a few persons."

Mumbai building collapse: Owner who had rented out flats arrested

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Police on Wednesday arrested a 40-year-old man who had allegedly rented out his flats in the ill-fated building in suburban Kurla which collapsed and claimed the lives of 19 persons.

A case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder was registered earlier in the day against some flat owners and others at Nehru Nagar police station in connection with the Monday midnight's incident.

Most of those who died in the incident were tenants.

Dilip Vishwas, the arrested man, was a contractor by profession, and named in the First Information Report, said a police official.

He had allegedly rented out his flats in the building, located in Naik Nagar Housing Society, he said.

As per the FIR, flat owners including Rajni Rathod, Kishore Chavan, Balkrishna Rathod and Vishwas rented out their flats even though the building had been declared as dilapidated by the civic body BMC.

A case under Indian Penal Code (IPC) sections 304 (2) (culpable homicide not amounting to murder), 338 (causing grievous hurt by act endangering life or personal safety of others) and 34 (common intention) has been registered against them.

Senior BMC officials had claimed that residents of the building, constructed in 1973, had undertaken to carry out repairs, but apparently no repairs were carried out.

High tea at Raj Bhawan at J&K

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ JAMMU

Reaching out to the leaders belonging to different political parties Jammu and Kashmir Lieutenant Governor, Manoj Sinha Wednesday hosted them over high tea at Raj Bhawan, Srinagar.

During the meeting, the Lieutenant Governor held deliberations focusing on the smooth conduct of the Amarnath yatra with these leaders.

National Conference President Dr Farooq Abdullah, Peoples Democratic Party Chief Mehbooba Mufti, BJP unit Chief Ravinder Raina, Peoples Conference Chairman Sajjad Lone, President of Jammu and Kashmir Apni party Altaf Bukhari, CPI(M)

leader Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami, JKPC president G A Mir, PDF president Hakeem Mohammad Yaseen and several others were invited for the high tea.

Significantly, PDP Chief Mehbooba Mufti chose to stay away from the meeting.

During the meeting, it is learnt, JKNC President Dr Farooq Abdullah advised Lt-Gov Manoj Sinha to separately convene another meeting to deliberate on the prevailing political situation in Jammu and Kashmir.

Hope Cong fades away paving way for new political era: Owaisi

PTI ■ BHOPAL

AIMIM leader Asaduddin Owaisi on Wednesday said Congress is losing its relevance fast and should wither away which will pave the way for the beginning of new politics in the country.

Taking a swipe at Congress, the All India Majlis-E-Ittehadul Muslimeen (AIMIM) chief also said Narendra Modi could become the prime minister twice because of Congress' (performance).

He dismissed the allegation that the AIMIM cuts into the votes of Congress in elections.

".....If that is the case then it seems Pragya Thakur (BJP MP from Bhopal) won the election and also the 22 legislators of Congress joined hands with BJP to bring Shivraj Singh Chouhan to power again due to AIMIM," he said sarcastically.

"You see that Congress is going down. We expect the Congress will not only be weakened but should fade away so that a new politics can begin in the country. Narendra Modi became the prime minister twice due to Congress," Owaisi told reporters.

The Hyderabad MP said Congress's politics will finish if Muslims understand the exact share of their representation in political leadership.

He said the poor condition of Congress could be gauged from the fact that it failed to gather even 100 people when its leader (Rahul Gandhi) was summoned by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) for questioning.

Owaisi appealed to Muslim residents of the Hindi heartland to ensure their adequate representation in local bodies and the Assembly, and create leadership in alliance with Dalits and STs.

He said some legislators have been representing their respective constituencies for three decades but have failed to develop the education infrastructure, resulting in the lowest literacy among Muslims.

Queried on a proposal before the Maharashtra government demanding that Aurangabad city be renamed Sambhaji Nagar, Owaisi said the Maha Vikas Aghadi should first face the floor test in the state Assembly (on Thursday as directed by the state governor).

The Shiv Sena should take care of its flock and the government instead of Aurangabad, which is facing a water crisis, he said referring to the political crisis in Maharashtra.

Muslim bodies in UP demand stern action against Udaipur killers

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Muslim clerics and organisations in Utttar Pradesh have condemned the beheading of a tailor by Islamic extremists at Udaipur in Rajasthan on Tuesday and have demanded stern action against the accused who have been arrested.

Prominent Shia cleric Maulana Kalbe Jawwad said the murder of a person at his shop by criminal elements was most dastardly and condemnable. He said the government should act fast and take tough action against those who had violated the law.

Maulana Jawwad added that Islam does not permit such acts and Muslims condemn this act.

Maulana Jawwad said the government should also take action against anti-social elements who were in the habit of making provocative statements and vitiating the atmosphere. He said that had action been taken against those making provocative statements, such a situation would not have arisen.

The Shia cleric said under the prevailing circumstances in the country it was the first duty of every citizen of the country to maintain peace and harmony in the country.

Imam of Aishbagh eidgah, Maulana Khalid Rashid Farangi Mahali, also condemned the incident and demanded stern action against the accused. He appealed to the people to maintain peace and social harmony.

UP Madarsa Shiksha

Parishad chairman Ifitikhar Ahmed Javed also condemned the incident. He said such incidents in the cover of religion tarnished religion as well as the image of the country at the global level. Bunkar Beradrana Tanzeen, an organisation of the weavers' community of Muslims, also condemned the Udaipur incident. Its president Sardar Ikramuddin said, "We condemn this incident. There is no place for such persons in Islam who commit violence against innocent people."

Ally Rajbhar attacks Akhilesh

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Continuing his tirade against the senior ally Samajwadi Party, Om Prakash Rajbhar, who heads the Suheldev Bhartiya Samaj Party, said on Wednesday that "can Akhilesh Yadav point out one election that he has won on his own?"

Akhilesh Yadav has drawn flak from allies after the Samajwadi Party's debacle in the by-polls to Rampur and Azamgarh Lok Sabha seats.

Rajbhar said Akhilesh Yadav had become the chief minister of UP in 2012 because of his father Mulayam

Singh Yadav's "largesse".

"The 2012 election was fought under Mulayam Singh Yadav's strong leadership," he said, listing out a string of losses under Akhilesh Yadav -- the assembly elections in 2017 and earlier this year; and the Lok Sabha polls in 2014 and 2019.

He added, "Akhilesh Yadav could not retain even the strongholds of his party."

"The Samajwadi Party is harming itself. A party whose chief does not campaign in elections, what election will that party fight? He should step out of air-conditioned rooms and go to the ground.

No one will join you if you sit in AC rooms," Rajbhar added.

The SBSP chief has been repeatedly using the "AC room" jibe against Akhilesh Yadav. However he has repeatedly clarified that he would not quit the alliance.

Continuing with his jibes, Rajbhar added, "How many villages has Akhilesh Yadav visited? How much grassroots leadership has he built? Let him ask Mulayam Singh Yadav and his uncle Shivalp Singh Yadav and they will tell him about blocks and villages they had visited in last couple of decades." Rajbhar's party has considerable influence among the non-Yadav Other Backward Classes in eastern UP. He was part of a rainbow coalition stitched by Akhilesh Yadav ahead of the UP assembly elections to add to his party's Yadav-Muslim core base. With 125 seats -- Samajwadi Party won 111-- the opposition alliance improved its position but could not unseat the Bharatiya Janata Party-led National Democratic Alliance in UP.

In 2017, Rajbhar had contested the assembly polls as part of the BJP-led coalition. But he left the coalition in May 2019 -- after the Lok Sabha elections.

Driven by property greed, toddler 'sacrificed' to appease deity

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

A self-styled exorcist killed a two-and-a-half-year-old boy in the name of "sacrifice" in Kheragarh tehsil of the Agra district.

The accused, Bhola alias Hukam Singh, a self-styled exorcist who was arrested by the police on Tuesday night, killed Hritihik "to please Chamad Mata" in the village.

As per the police, the accused confessed that on June 15, he kidnapped the son of Ramavatar, a resident of Barigwan, after seeing him playing alone near a well and took him to his room and strangled him to death and placed the toddler's body at the feet of the deity.

The self-styled exorcist later put Hritihik's body in a sack and hid it in the bushes. The body was recovered by the police and the villagers on June 16 last. The police, however, zeroed in on the accused on Tuesday night, and he told the police that at 4 o'clock in the morning of June 16, he had thrown the child's body in the dry river Kibar.

It is learnt that one Sheru of the village saw Bhola taking Hritihik with him but was threatened by the exorcist of dire consequences if he disclosed it to anyone. Despite the threat, Sheru mustered courage and provided a tip-off to the police which finally led to the arrest of the accused.

Agra's Superintendent of Police (West) Satyajit Gupta said that the victim's father had filed a missing complaint on June 16. Gupta said that the accused had killed the boy "for sacrifice" after his exorcism was not working.

Sources also confirmed that Bhola tried to take advantage of a property dispute between two families. He believed that offering a young child to the goddess would solve his problems. He chose the kid from the opposing family itself for the sacrifice. After murdering the child, he offered the child's blood to the goddess, wrapped the body in a sack, and dumped it in the river.

The property dispute involved Ramavatar and his stepfather, Gareeba. Bhola had thought that after Ritik's death Ramavatar would leave the village and he would purchase Gareeba's property at a throw-away price.

UP CM stresses safety of people during floods

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Stressing on the safety of people during floods, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath ordered field officers to be on their toes to provide relief to the people affected by floods and asked them to ensure that relief reached the people at the earliest.

"The highly sensitive embankments should be inspected by the district magistrates and district police chiefs while the remaining embankments should be inspected by officials of the level of deputy collector and deputy superintendent of police. For a quick response, assistant engineers should be made in-charge of embankments and they should be put on 24x7 alert mode. Keep an eye on the condition of the breach in embankments during the initial days of rain so that major damage can be prevented," Yogi said during a review meeting held here on Wednesday.

There are 523 embankments of 3,869 kilometre length constructed on various rivers in the state.

The chief minister said efforts had been made in the last five years to find a permanent solution to the problem of floods, which was a factor in extensive loss of life and property in the state. He said good work had been done by inter-departmental coordination in the last five years for the protection of public life from floods and this year also, with better coordination, quick action and better management, the safety of people should be ensured in the event of floods.

As per the government record, there are 24 districts which are in the 'very sensitive' category from the point of view of floods. They include Maharajganj, Kushinagar, Lakhimpur Kheri, Gorakhpur, Basti, Bahraich, Bijnor, Siddharthnagar, Ghazipur, Gonda, Ballia, Deoria, Sitapur, Balrampur, Ayodhya, Mau, Farrukhabad, Shravasti, Budaun, Ambedkar Nagar, Azamgarh, Sant Kabir Nagar, Pilibhit and Barabanki.

Saharanpur, Shamli, Aligarh, Bareilly, Hamirpur, Gautam Buddha Nagar, Rampur, Prayagraj, Bulandshahr, Moradabad, Hardoi, Varanasi, Unnao, Lucknow, Shahjahanpur and Kasganj are in the 'sensitive' category.

"We have to make concerted efforts to prevent water-logging. By June 30, the work of cleaning drains should be completed," the chief minister said.

1 held in connection with Meerut house blast

PTI ■ MEERUT (UP)

One person has been arrested in connection with the blast in a house here that left a woman dead and seven others injured, a senior official said on Tuesday. Police, however, did not disclose the name of the arrested accused.

Senior Superintendent of Police (SSP) Rohit Sajwan said on Tuesday that one person has been arrested in connection with Monday's blast.

Earlier in the day, police had said the blast took place as firecrackers being illegally manufactured inside the house in Summer Garden Colony caught fire.

Sajwan said during an on-site investigation by a field unit of police, evidence of firecrackers being manufactured in the house was found.

2 LeT terrorists killed

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ JAMMU

On the eve of the start of Amarnath yatra two more terrorists belonging to the Pakistan based Lashkar-e-Tayyeba terrorist outfit were gunned down by the joint team of the security forces in Nawapora area near Mir Bazar in South Kashmir district of Kulgam on Wednesday.

Inspector General of Police Kashmir Vijay Kumar said both the terrorists have been identified as categorised local terrorists of proscribed terror outfit LeT.

He said it was an important encounter as the operation site was very close to the National Highway (Yatra route).

Murder most foul

The Udaipur incident is another reminder that timely action can prevent a situation from unravelling

The gruesome murder of Kanhaiya Lal, a tailor in Udaipur, is a reminder to all, especially the political class, that there is a lot that is rotten in the statecraft and politics of India. The killers, Gos Mohammad and Riyaz Akhtari, not only slaughtered Lal in his shop but also shot a video of their misdeed. They cut his throat with a cleaver and, according to the police, wanted to behead him but couldn't. In another video, the murderers not only gloated over the killing but also threatened to kill Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The case has been handed over to the National Investigation Agency (NIA). Meanwhile, in Udaipur, after a few violent incidents, curfew has been imposed; in entire Rajasthan, large gatherings have been disallowed for a month; mobile internet services have been shut down for 24 hours across the State. The authorities are alert now, but a little action and some alertness earlier by the local cops could have preempted the murder and the unfortunate situation that has arisen now. What led to the murder is still not quite clear. There are reports that Lal supported former BJP spokesperson Nupur Sharma, who was recently in the news for her controversial remarks about Prophet Muhammad. But it has also been reported that Lal did not know how to operate a mobile phone. When he was arrested following a complaint against him, he told the police that it was his child who, while playing a game, had shared an objectionable post by mistake. Lal was arrested but was bailed out the next day, that is, June 11.

Whatever be the truth, it is undeniable that he had informed the police that he was receiving death threats, and yet no action was taken. ADG (Law and Order) Hawa Singh Ghumaria told a newspaper, "Then, on June 15, he submitted a written complaint that he is getting death threats and sought police protection. The SHO concerned called the persons who were allegedly issuing the threats. And then, five-seven responsible persons from both the communities sat down and reached an agreement. In a handwritten note, Kanhaiya Lal said he doesn't need any more action against anyone. Hence, the police did not proceed on the security threat." All this may be correct, but what was local intelligence doing? That Gos Mohammad and Riyaz Akhtari were quite radicalised is evident from not just their crime but also their belief that anyone offending their Prophet has to be executed. As they said in their video, "Gustakh-e-Nabi ki ek hi saza, sar tan se juda (There is only one punishment for disrespect to the Prophet, beheading)." This is a favourite slogan of Pakistan's Muslim fundamentalists. Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot has denounced Lal's murder, as also have other prominent leaders. Typically, they appeal to people to maintain peace. There is something that our political masters also need to do: Strengthen the law-enforcement apparatus and detox politics.

A soldiers' soldier

Sam Bahadur, the architect of the 1971 victory against Pakistan, deserves the Bharat Ratna

He is the only military commander in modern times who can be described as the "soldiers' soldier". Sam Hormusji Framji Jamshedji Manekshaw, or Sam Manekshaw, led India in the 1971 war against Pakistan which resulted in the birth of Bangladesh. How he won the war despite odds like shortage of weapons and manpower has been recorded in golden letters in military history. He was the country's Chief of Army Staff from 1969 to 1973 and was promoted as India's first Field Marshal in January 1973. An Army commander who never hesitated to speak his mind to the highest political leadership, Sam Manekshaw is not a name to be remembered only on his birth or death anniversaries because he was much more than a military chief. Born as the son of a doctor in a middle class family, Sam could have opted for any profession of his choice but he ended up in the military academy. The story of Manekshaw as a soldier, officer and commander is folklore. Bravery, gallantry, intelligence and the willingness to go to the extra mile to realise his mission endeared him to his officers and subordinates.

The best example of his professional prowess was the decision of his British commander Major General David Cowan honouring a critically injured Manekshaw, then a captain fighting on the Burma front in 1942, with a Military Cross. The award was in recognition of his valour and fighting spirit against the Imperial Japanese Army. Since a dead man cannot be awarded the Military Cross, the British commander decorated Manekshaw, who was fighting for his life after being felled by Japanese bullets. The appointment of Manekshaw as CoAS was a morale booster to the Indian Army which has not looked back since. India owes a lot to Sam for the win in the 1975 World Cup Hockey Championship at Kuala Lumpur. It was Sam who asked MAM Ramaswamy, an industrialist in Chennai, to pay for the air tickets of the Indian team with the day's Government looking the other way. Each person who has met him at least once has many things to reminiscence about this legendary soldier. This great son of India is a real Bharat Ratna and it would be ideal to honour him with the top civilian award during the 75th anniversary of India's freedom.

Unsettled queries in l'affaire Nupur

There's no merit in demands to lynch anybody without first appreciating the circumstances under which the person may have uttered angry words

PRADEEP BAJPAI

In the emotional thrust and parrying of viewpoints over Nupur Sharma's remarks, some fundamental points have been lost sight of. Now that an authentic video of the TV programme is no longer available, we can only go by inferences and deductions and try to answer some fundamental questions based on these. What exactly did Nupur say that sparked this outrage both domestically and in Islamist nations? Indications are that she alluded to some details of the Islamic Prophet's life. Did she invent these details to malign Islam and mock its followers? If so, she deserves the strongest condemnation and a harsh punishment. If, however, what she mentioned was derived from Islamic sources, then her misdemeanour falls in the category of an unfortunate choice of words or a tactless iteration in the heat of debate. In that case, her immature simplicity was her only sin, quite understandable in somebody in her 30s. And that requires at best a reprimand from her party, the BJP, and an admonition to be more circumspect and to avoid such indiscretions.

The veracity of the above scenarios notwithstanding, was the overblown reaction to an off-the-cuff remark on national TV discussion, in response to provocation, proportionate and justifiable? Are the rabid chants of sar-tan-se-juda asking for her beheading, in Kanpur and elsewhere, condonable in civilised society? Should it be par for the course for any community to make children hold up posters asking for somebody's head? And all this when Nupur had already apologised unconditionally?

Something forgotten in the present overcharged discourse is what Nupur stated in a video flicker, since gone missing; that she cannot remain silent when her Mahadev is insulted and that she had made the remarks in anger. What did her Muslim interlocutor on the TV debate say about Lord Shiva that she was referring to? And why are his comments muted and lost in the din of her universal condemnation by the secular lobby in India and the Islamist one abroad?

In the pan-India protests after Friday prayers, the posters at different locations had an eerie commonality — of image, banner text. The similarity across distant locations points to coordinated planning and execution. Were the protests orchestrated by vested interests out to undermine the Modi Government by sowing discord between communities? Were these instigators, inimical to Indian national interest, inspired and funded by foreign agencies?

Now about the protests abroad. Does Qatar have any right to demand a public apology from the Government of India when in 2010 it had given shelter and honorary citizenship to artist MF Husain who, after painting Hindu goddesses in the nude, refused to appear before court and fled the country? Almost every Islamic nation, as well as the 57-member OIC, initially lambasted India for the intemperate remarks by somebody not holding any Government position. The Pakistan press lamented that "the idea of India was facing an existential crisis", presumably because the idea was secular, quite forgetting that the country itself is a theocratic State that unabashedly persecutes minorities.

An Arab newspaper pointed out that Nupur's Muslim copanellist was not blaspheming Ram or Sita when in anger she uttered the offending remarks. While that may well be true, she was instead provoked probably by the worst blasphemy possible for Hindus — the ritual washing of feet, Vazoo, by Muslim worshippers at Gyanvapi mosque. That surely is an offence much greater than a tactless, angry remark.

Why was the reaction overblown? The Grand Mufti of Oman exhorted all Muslims to rise as one nation, there were calls in the Gulf countries for boycott of Indian goods, and there were reminders of India's dependence on the Gulf countries for oil imports and inward remittances.

Under Modi, India has tried its best to improve relations with the Gulf countries and obtained significant success. Modi himself has paid several visits to the region, been received warmly and had national honours bestowed on him. Pakistan often invokes the Islamic Ummah for undermining India; it did so this time also, especially with OIC. However, since its credibility is rather low, many Islamic countries did not take long to recover from the initial kneejerk reaction. The Iranian Foreign Minister after his recent visit to New Delhi approved of the Indian Government's handling of the controversy and its fallout. The Kuwait Government has taken strict action against the anti-India protesters, even deporting some expatriates and banning them from entering the country again.

Domestically, it was a god-send opportunity for the Opposition to malign Modi and BJP. Though religious figures like the Shahi Imam of Jama Masjid in Delhi distanced themselves from the unruly protests and violent rioting, leaders who cultivate the simple, unaware Islamic vote bank played to their gallery and feigned righteous indignation. The fact that major rioting started 10 days after the TV episode lends credence to the allegation that mob anger was built up over time deliberately by leaders like Owaisi. One of the downsides of democracy is that unscrupulous politicians may pander to the rabble's irrational sentiments for electoral gains at the cost of social cohesion; this episode illustrates it vividly.

THE SIMILARITY IN PROTESTS ACROSS DISTANT GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATIONS POINTS TO COORDINATED PLANNING AND EXECUTION. WERE THE PROTESTS ORCHESTRATED BY VESTED INTERESTS OUT TO UNDERMINE THE MODI GOVERNMENT BY SOWING DISCORD BETWEEN COMMUNITIES?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PROBE SHOULD BE FAIR, UNBIASED

Sir — The reports suggest that the PMO has responded to a letter by the Contractors' Association of Karnataka, in which the body alleged that the Ministers and MLAs demand hefty commissions of about 40 per cent for giving approval to development projects in the State. Meanwhile, the contractors' association president has said the relevant documents pertaining to the case have been submitted to the officer sent by the Union Home Ministry. It's a positive development as the Centre has taken an initiative to dig out the truth in the serious charges of corruption.

However, the Centre's initiative to probe the menace of corruption among Ministers making headlines shouldn't become an eyewash and a ploy to give the clean chit to the BJP leaders — just to blunt the Opposition attack. The corruption deals between the Ministers and contractors executing Government projects are an open secret. The investigation shouldn't end up as an image makeover exercise ahead of the Assembly elections. Also, the Prime Minister's oft-repeated public statement "Na khaunga, na khane doonga" should hold good universally. Transparency and fairness should be the prime criteria to make the investigation convincing and justifiable.

31% RS MPS FACE CRIMINAL CASES

Sir — It's a big shock to the citizens that 31 per cent of the Rajya Sabha members across political parties have criminal cases against them, according to Association for Democratic reforms, National Election Watch. The Members of Legislative Assemblies elect the required number of MPs to the Rajya Sabha. The RS also includes men of integrity excelling in arts, literature, games and social service as they are nominated by the President on the Government's advice. Modi makes a point at G-7

In his address to the G-7 Summit recently, Prime Minister Narendra Modi's concern for global development and its betterment was noteworthy. Through his worthy words, the Prime Minister mentioned the utmost contribution made by India that was aimed at throwing a major light on the ultimate goal of global development. With special emphasis on the contributions made by the country, he further reiterated that we are the country that has been able to transform robustly with the help of concept of women-development to women-led development. The importance of agriculture, thereby availing trusted fertilisers for producing healthy and safe food, were the major aspects of discussion carried out at the Summit.

The special emphasis on the concept of India as the world's first solar-power airport leaves a serious sense of concern towards maintenance of environmental health. The concept of the import-export culture since the ancient times has led to the foundation of robust and resilient relations among the countries. Along with other important topics, this significant Summit also highlighted the importance of alliance among one another other, especially the Indo-Canadian relations, strengthening the platform of companionship and thus combating the terrific global threats like terrorism. This G-7 Summit is surely going to render the message of staunch relations among all the invited nations and, therefore, could prove to be a threat to various ordeals.

Thanks to former Chief Election Commissioner TN Seshan for bringing reforms in election procedures and implementing the existing rules strictly. It gave good results but not totally. Many things still have to be strictly implemented due to interference by politicians of ruling parties as they go by their convenience, resulting in the disappointment of citizens. But when the Elders are sent to the Rajya Sabha, everything should be transparent. When many RS members are involved in criminal cases, how can they feel comfortable with the title of Elders?

THE INTERNATIONAL ASTEROID DAY

Sir — June 30, the International Asteroid Day, will have everyone looking toward the skies. The day was founded after the 2014 release of the film 51 Degrees North, which seeks to explore what would happen if an asteroid were to strike London. The film's creative team (many of whom are actual scientists) wanted to raise more awareness about the threat of asteroids to earth, and how we can help protect ourselves. To make that happen, they formed a foundation, and in 2015, they celebrated the world's first International Asteroid Day. There are over one million asteroids in space that could potentially strike the earth, but modern scientists have discovered only about one per cent of them.

To combat this real and actual threat, the Asteroid Day's founders as well as a host of accomplished scientists, created the 100X Asteroid Declaration. The declaration aims for scientists to work towards increasing the rate of asteroid discovery to 100,000 per year within a decade. The International Asteroid Day focuses on spreading the word of the declaration and helping fellow earthlings prepare for a potential asteroid impact.

LET'S BE THE CHANGE THAT WE WANT TO SEE

We have to develop a culture that springs from non-violence

RAJYOGI BRAHMAKUMAR NIKUNJJI

In the past couple of years, there has been a growing concern across the world with regards to ruthless killings of whistleblowers, most of whom were courageous citizens who fought to secure the truth at the risk of their lives. These whistle blowers play an essential role in exposing corruption, fraud, mismanagement and other wrongdoing that threaten public health and safety, financial integrity, human rights, the environment and the rule of law.

By disclosing information about such misdeeds, these courageous people have helped save countless lives and billions in public funds, while preventing emerging scandals and disasters from worsening. Hence, such violent resistance to truth and its custodians in innumerable cases across the world shows extreme moral degradation of our society and the erosion of values. What kind of society would punish its whistleblowers and stifle the truth? Perhaps that's the question we all need to ask ourselves. When muscle and money power call the shots everywhere, it is obvious that truth will always be on the run and evil on a perpetual chase.

The dictum of might is right has been strengthened by the depiction of violent episodes in history as well as through religious writings. There are many religious scriptures that show that even the Almighty showed His might by decimating the evil forces by means of a violent war to contain unrighteousness in the world. Hence, using force to set a wrong right or to discipline a wrong doer has been adopted as a norm by humans at all levels of existence.

To change this scene, patchwork solutions will no longer suffice. Because we need a complete transformation that can emerge when we change the powers we use. From the power of might, we now have to shift to the power of right and develop a culture that springs from non-violence.

Discarded as a theoretical tool and reduced to a mere embellishment in books, non-violence is actually a magic wand that can protect against the wrong and wrongdoer. One should not forget that we have already witnessed that the policy of an eye for an eye has made the whole world blind, so we need to now make use of the power of values to connect and correct.

The great potential of non-violence needs to be explored—a value which asks its users to refrain from aggression not just in action but also in words and even thoughts. The simplicity of non-violence lies in the fact that it can be used by anyone and at all levels—personal, social and global. Peace, spirituality and self-sustainability will be dominant in a culture nourished by non-violence. It will naturally ooze with security and brotherhood and any anti-social elements will soon be forced to the road of guilt and self-realisation.

Ideals that we struggle and fight for today—freedom, justice and equality—will be natural there. From a place where anything can happen to anyone at any time, the world will be transformed to a place where everything would happen at the right place, at the right time and in the right manner. There, the right would not just be right but right would be right.

Is it all as simple as it sounds? Yes, it is! Together, we all can, through spiritual empowerment, create such a way of life, but the fundamental rule for it is self-change. Most of us have wasted much of our precious time and energy in checking others and the quality of people at the social level, without realising that the creation of a fair society would begin from personal change that would work from the inside out. This change would be contagious which would spread through all of us, thus triggering a social transformation at global level. So, Let's Be the Change.

Higher education has to become meaningful

LN JHUNJHUNWALA

Indians going to the US for education need to be informed about the world-class institutions India has

My mind goes back to 1945 and 1946. I was a postgraduate student in pure mathematics. We were just six students. Shree Satyen Bose was our Professor. He used to wear Dhoti Kurta (snow-white). Our classes were on the 3rd floor and there were no lifts.

Bose and Einstein were collaborating on some research which resulted in the discovery of the Bose-Einstein (Bosen) theory. Bose used to love me and was keen that after finishing studies, I go to study astronomy at Mount Wilson observatory in America. He was disappointed when I did not continue my studies.

I came from a very poor family. My mother died of tuberculosis without proper treatment for want of funds in 1936. My family had great expectations from me, that I would earn money as I was brilliant in education. But I became brilliant in business. I started learning business from my uncle in 1946 side by side with studies.

I came into business full-fledged in 1946 and retired in 2000. I have been very close to the Ramakrishna Mission since 1951. The mission had a splendid educational institute at Narendrapur in the suburb of Calcutta with about 3,000 students. Of the top 10 students in Calcutta University, at least two students were from Narendrapur. I was dreaming of having something like Narendrapur but on a tiny scale run by the Ramakrishna Mission monks.

Shree Arjun Singh was the human resource development minister. He belonged to Madhya Pradesh where I had established a technologically challenging graphite electrode plant. I had become very close to him. He would attend lectures of Swami Atmanandaji, whom we used to invite to Bhopal for lectures.

The mission had a number of educational institutions but no university. They decided to establish one at Belur Math in their large compound on the banks of the Ganges. They decided to send a delegation of monks to meet Arjun Singh. Knowing my closeness with him, they asked me to accompany them. His response was good; the next meeting was fixed after a month.

The Ramakrishna Mission had three subjects in mind for the University: (i) disaster management whose practical experience they had in floods and famines; (ii) rural development; and (iii) poverty alleviation. I was keen that they included mathematics so that their performance could be compared internationally.

I met Arjun Singh alone and requested him, while interacting with them, to emphasise on mathematics. He was enthusiastic. The ministry did their homework. An additional secretary and other officers attended the meeting. Five senior monks of the mission and I attended the meeting. On Singh's emphasis, mathematics was agreed upon.

He was highly impressed that the proposed vice-chancellor was a scholar of physics and was teaching it to graduates of the mission college and another monk, Mahan Maharaj, was a great scholar of mathematics and famous internationally.

The mission pointed out that the mathematics education would be expensive. Faculty will have to be paid liberally. As there are Nobel Laureates in other subjects, mathematics also has able laureates. The mission wanted a grant of Rs 40 crore and Singh agreed to that.

The mission started looking for a mathematics scholar to start this course. Fortunately, there was a Bengali mathematician, Abhijeet Dutt, at the Kyoto University who was engaged in research with Japanese students. He was keen to come to Bengal. With his coming back, the RK Mission University became a hub of mathematics in India. The board of governors included four monks of the mission and four officials of the Ministry. Singh nominated me on the board. He told the mission that I had vast experience in dealing with the bureaucracy and that I would be helpful. Thus I became a board member.

Unfortunately, Arjun Singh passed away in 2011. Dealing with the ministry became difficult.

The senior Sanyasinis of Sarda Math once came to visit the university. Abhijeet Dutt welcomed them in his half pants and a sports T-shirt. The Sanyasinis were not very comfortable. Nobody told anything to the professor but he started feeling uncomfortable. He resigned and went back to Kyoto. This was unfortunate. I wish the mission had handled the professor better.

After the demise of Arjun Singh, I found my name had disappeared from the board without my knowledge. I was not happy.

In 2020, I came across an IIT dean. I informed him that I have four thousand students studying for higher secondary at four places where we have schools. I requested his assistance. He visited one of our institutes and was highly impressed with our research activities. We were looking forward to some kind of association with IIT. But nothing came up.

Recently, my daughter became very enthusiastic for our schools. Therefore, I fixed a meeting with the Dean of an IIT. The Dean was warm and he briefed me about their activities in mathematics research done by postgraduate mathematicians.

Similarly, I am now associated with the Harish-Chandra Maths research institute at Allahabad. With my daughter's involvement and my good health and alert mind, I am hopeful that I will be alive to see India produce an able laureate in mathematics.

I requested the Vice-Chancellor, Swami Atmapiyanadaji, to include artificial intelligence and I donated Rs 15 lakh for that. He was also thinking about artificial intelligence. One of his students is teaching artificial intelligence at the South African University; he has agreed to join soon. I hope something emerges.

I look across at my friends and my own family. My grandson went to the United States to study mathematics. After two years, he wanted to specialise in some branch of mathematics whose expertise was available at Cambridge; he moved to Cambridge. I was hopeful that he would make his mark internationally but he lost interest in mathematics.

It is difficult for me to evaluate whether his education abroad for five years did him some good. He took up music and joined Fayaaz Dagar, where I also joined him to renew my interest in vocal music. He lost interest in vocal music too and joined sarod, and moved to Bombay because his teacher was in Poona.

One of my grandsons from my daughter's side did his graduation abroad and entered the business. It is difficult to conclude whether his foreign education was helpful.

Similarly, my granddaughter from my daughter's side did architecture in the US with great enthusiasm. On her return, she joined an architecture firm where she did well. But she is no longer in the field of architecture.

The younger generation of rich people is not accustomed to hard work for a livelihood.

They are guided by their temporary whims.

The US earns billions of dollars from students coming from China and India. India spends a large amount in foreign exchange on Indians studying abroad. Affluent families send them abroad even after higher secondary education. After graduation, the US is well equipped for studies in artificial intelligence, space travel, mathematics, etc. But what do we get?

The Institute of Science in Bangalore and the Atomic Research Institute are world-class. IITs are growing well. Indians going to the US for education need to be informed about the international status of some such institutions.

Murmu: NDA's choice for inclusive democracy

Draupadi Murmu struggled to raise her children, while also becoming a foremost social and political worker

Democracy serves people best when it's inclusive.

The Bharatiya Janata Party-led National Democratic Alliance, by picking up former Jharkhand governor Draupadi Murmu as its candidate for the July 18 Presidential election, has abided by the inclusive Dharma of democracy.

The two successful candidates of the NDA in the past who made to Rashtrapati Bhavan equally emphasised inclusivity and most suitable to hold the top Constitutional post. APJ Abdul Kalam, India's missile man, not only lived to give the country strategic deterrence but also became a role model for all, particularly youth. His life was a living testimony to the Indian tradition of pursuit of knowledge and humility.

SUMET BHASIN

The author is Director, Public Policy Research Centre (@Sumetbhasin)

In Ram Nath Kovind, India got a President who was most humble and democratic, who opened the doors of Rashtrapati Bhavan for the people while being most courteous in his conduct and discharge of the duty. The political commentators sought to bracket him as the BJP's Dalit bet, but he eventually proved that he could conduct the Constitutional duties most efficiently.

Murmu struggled all her life but beat the odds to raise her children, while also becoming a foremost social and political worker. From being a legislator, she proved her mettle in Odisha as a minister and thereafter as the governor of Jharkhand.

She would be the first tribal President of India since the NDA has the support of the Biju Janata Dal and the YSR Congress for the July 18 election. The BJP has for long been pursuing an inclusive agenda. Even in 1996, when the Atal Bihari Vajpayee government fell in 13 days despite being the single largest party, it had the largest number of the tribal MPs in its ranks. The BJP's foremost commitment to take all sections of society has been an abiding principle.

Murmu will be a candidate in the Presidential election at a time when the Narendra Modi-led government has given a new hope to the tribal population in the country by taking his mantra of 'Sabka Sath, Sabka Viswas aur Sabka Prayas' to every nook and corner of the country, including the tribal areas in Jharkhand, Odisha and Chhattisgarh. During the rule of the United Progressive Alliance, Leftwing or Maoist extremism was at its peak; people talked about the Red Corridor, connecting the hotbed of Maoist violence in Nepal to the deep forests in Sukma in Chhattisgarh. The violence cost several lives of paramilitary forces.

The NDA government set out for course correction right at the outset, and gave hope to the tribal youth that they can see better future in the mainstream of society, as several welfare schemes brought benefits to the people without hassles, without paying bribes. The government's honesty was visible, and the tribals of the country turned their backs to violence.

In the last few years, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh, Telangana and Odisha have largely been peaceful, with a decline in Maoist violence.

When Murmu takes the oath of the office as the President of India, the tribal population will see the fulfillment of their political aspirations. They will see that one from among them is the first citizen of India.

The Aspirational District programme of the Central government was envisioned with clear objective that the gains of the development must reach the poorest of the poor, in accordance with the true of Deen Dayal Upadhyaya.

The tribals have seen that they have been brought in the mainstream of the economy with financial inclusion, pucca houses with toilets, pension schemes and so on. They don't need to fall for the allurements of the evangelists to embrace their religion.

The elevation of Murmu to the post of the President of India will be the firm democratic empowerment of the tribal population, as well as women of the country. She has thoroughly been a spiritual person and her association with Brahmakumaris is well known.

She was sweeping the floor of a temple a day after her name was announced by the BJP president JP Nadga; people have seen how humble a person she is. She stands for simplicity, spirituality.

She is a Constitutionalist, a firm believer in the Indian Constitution's capacity to fulfill the aspirations of all sections of society. Her life is also a living testimony of perseverance. She never lost hope even when she faced personal losses. In her, India will have a President who will give hope to the vast majority of the people that all hardships can be won over with honesty and patience.

While the Opposition parties were busy in elimination rounds to find a candidate for the Presidential election, the BJP was thinking of national interest. When the BJP named Murmu as its Presidential candidate, even the rivals suggested that the contest has become one-sided. The Opposition candidate, Yashwant Sinha, can save his lost reputation by gracefully withdrawing from the Presidential election to pave way for the unanimous election of Murmu as India's President.

AIDE: TRUMP DISMISSED JAN 6 THREATS, WANTED TO JOIN CROWD

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Former US president Donald Trump rebuffed his own security's warnings about armed protesters in the January 6 rally crowd and made desperate attempts to join his supporters as they marched to the Capitol, according to dramatic new testimony before the House committee investigating the 2021 insurrection.

Cassidy Hutchinson, a little-known former White House aide, described an angry, defiant president who was trying that day to let armed protesters avoid security screenings at a rally that morning to protest his 2020 election defeat and who later grabbed at the steering wheel of the presidential SUV when the Secret Service refused to let him go to the Capitol.

And when the events at the Capitol spiralled toward violence, with the crowd chanting to "Hang Mike Pence", she testified on Tuesday that Trump declined to intervene.

Trump "doesn't think they're doing anything wrong", Hutchinson recalled hearing from her boss, White House chief of staff Mark Meadows.

Hutchinson's explosive, moment-by-moment account of what was happening inside and outside the White House offered a vivid description of a Republican president so unwilling to concede his 2020 election defeat to Democrat Joe Biden that he acted out in rage and refused to stop the siege at the Capitol.

It painted a damning portrait of the chaos at the White House as those around the defeated president splintered into one faction supporting his false claims of voter fraud and another trying unsuccessfully to put an end to the violent attack.

Her testimony, at a surprise hearing announced just 24 hours earlier, was the sole focus at the hearing, the sixth by the committee this month. The account was particularly powerful because of her proximity to power, with Hutchinson describing what she witnessed first-hand and was told by others in the White House.

Hutchinson said that she was told Trump fought a security official for control of the presidential SUV on January 6 and demanded to be taken the Capitol as the insurrection began, despite being warned earlier that day that some of his supporters were armed.

The former aide said that she was told of the altercation in the SUV immediately afterward by a White House security official, and that Bobby Engel, the head of the detail, was in the room and didn't dispute the account at the time.

Engel had grabbed Trump's arm to prevent him from gaining control of the armored vehicle, she was told, and Trump then used his free hand to lunge at Engel.

That account was quickly disputed on Tuesday, however. Engel, the agent who was driving the presidential SUV, and Trump security official Tony Ornato are willing to testify under oath that no agent was assaulted and Trump never lunged for the steering wheel, a person familiar with the matter said.

The person would not discuss the matter publicly and spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity.

As the events of January 6 unfurled, Hutchinson, then a special assistant to Meadows, described chaos in White House offices and hallways.

Trump's staff — several of whom had been warned of violence beforehand — became increasingly alarmed as rioters at the Capitol overran police and interrupted the certification of Biden's victory.

Trump was less concerned, she said, even as he heard there were cries in the crowd to "Hang Mike Pence!" Hutchinson recalled that Meadows told aides that Trump "thinks Mike deserves it".

The president tweeted during the attack that Pence didn't have the courage to object to Biden's win as he presided over the joint session of Congress.

The young ex-aide was matter-of-fact in most of her answers. But she did say that she was "disgusted" at Trump's tweet about Pence during the siege.

"It was unpatriotic, it was un-American, and you were watching the Capitol building get defaced over a lie," Hutchinson said, adding that, "I still struggle to work through the emotions of that."

Trump denied much of what Hutchinson said on his social media platform, Truth Social. He called her a "total phony" and "bad news".

Members of the panel praised Hutchinson's bravery for testifying and said that other witnesses had been intimidated and did not cooperate.

"I want all Americans to know that what Ms. Hutchinson has done today is not easy," said Wyoming Rep. Liz Cheney, a Republican who led questioning.

Some of Hutchinson's former colleagues, too, defended her account. Mick Mulvaney, who preceded Meadows as Trump's chief of staff, tweeted that he knows Hutchinson and "I don't think she is lying."

Sarah Matthews, a former Trump press aide who has also cooperated with the committee, called the testimony "damning".

As she described the scene in the White House after the election, Hutchinson depicted a president flailing in anger and prone to violent outbursts. Some aides sought to rein in his impulses. Some did not.

At one point on January 6, Hutchinson said, White House counsel Pat Cipollone barreled down the hallway and confronted Meadows about rioters breaching the Capitol. Meadows, staring at his phone, told the White House lawyer that Trump didn't want to do anything, she said.

Earlier, Cipollone had worried out loud that "we're going to get charged with every crime imaginable" if Trump went to the Capitol after his speech at the rally, Hutchinson recalled.

Before the crowd left for the Capitol, Hutchinson said she also received an angry call from House Republican leader Kevin McCarthy, who had just heard the president say he was coming. "Don't come up here," McCarthy told her, before hanging up.

Hutchinson told the panel that Trump had been informed early in the day that some of the protesters outside the White House had weapons. But he responded that the protesters were "not here to hurt me", Hutchinson said.

She quoted Trump as directing his staff, in profane terms, to take away the metal-detecting magnetometers that he thought would slow down supporters who were gathering for his speech on the Ellipse, in back of the White House.

In a clip of an earlier interview with the committee, she recalled the president saying words to the effect of: "I don't f-in' care that they have weapons."

As a White House insider, Hutchinson told stories of a raging president who was unable to acknowledge his defeat. At the beginning of December, she said, she heard noise inside the White House around the time an Associated Press article was published in which Attorney General William Barr said the Justice Department had not found evidence of voter fraud that could have changed the election's outcome.

She said she entered a room to find ketchup dripping down a wall and broken porcelain. The president, it turned out, had thrown his lunch at the wall in disgust over the article. Trump denied it in his social media posts.

In the days before the attack, Hutchinson said she was "scared, and nervous for what could happen" on January 6 after having conversations with Trump lawyer Rudy Giuliani, Meadows and others.

Meadows told Hutchinson that "things might get real, real bad", she said. Giuliani told her it was going to be "a great day" and "we're going to the Capitol."

Eventually, both men would seek pardons related to what happened that day, Hutchinson said. A person familiar with the matter denied that Meadows had ever sought a pardon. The person spoke on condition of anonymity.

Iran report says nuclear talks in Qatar to end without deal

AP ■ DUBAI

Indirect negotiations between Iran and the US over Tehran's tattered nuclear deal with world powers will end on Wednesday in Qatar, authorities in Tehran said.

A semiofficial news agency reported the talks wouldn't break a diplomatic deadlock over the accord. The US State Department and the European Union, which is mediating the talks in Qatar, did not immediately acknowledge an end of the negotiations in Doha.

However, the semiofficial Tasnim news agency, believed to be close to Iran's hard-line Revolutionary Guard, described the negotiations as finished and having "no effect on breaking the deadlock in the talks". Tasnim claimed that the American position did not include "a guarantee for Iran benefiting economically from the deal," quoting what it described as unnamed "informed sources".

"Washington is seeking to revive the (deal) in order to limit Iran without economic achievement for our country," the Tasnim report claimed.

US Special Representative Rob Malley spoke to the Iranians through EU official Enrique Mora during the talks. Mora then took messages to Iran's top nuclear negotiator Ali Bagheri Kani.

Higher fuel prices spark social unrest in South America

AP ■ DANIEL POLITI

Police in Argentina blocked a major entry point to the capital's centre on Tuesday to keep a group of truckers from joining a downtown protest, adding traffic snarls in Buenos Aires to a series of disruptions caused by anger over rising prices and shortages of fuel across South America, largely as a result of Russia's war in Ukraine.

Cars were backed up for several kilometers (miles) until truckers agreed to open up a lane to regular traffic as they moved to take a protest over diesel shortages and prices that has been going on for weeks to Argentina's capital.

Argentina is one of several countries in South America to see reverberations from increasing fuel prices, largely as a result of Russia's war in Ukraine. In Peru, truckers launched an indefinite strike on Monday to protest higher fuel prices while in Ecuador, at least five people have been killed during more than two weeks of a protest led by Indigenous people that has as its main rallying cry a demand for lower gasoline prices.

The reverberations of higher prices are also hitting executive offices. In Brazil, the chief executive of state-run oil giant Petrobras resigned last week amid political pressure due to curb prices.

Nepal imposes ban on sale of street food items in Kathmandu as cholera cases touches 12

PTI ■ KATHMANDU

Nepal on Wednesday banned the sale of street food items in the Kathmandu valley in an effort to contain the spread of cholera disease in the capital city.

The decision to ban the sale of street food items was issued by the Kathmandu Metropolitan City (KMC) as 12 positive cases of cholera were reported in the area since Sunday.

"As the number of cholera patients have been increasing in Kathmandu at present, the sale and distribution of food items has been banned for the time being," said Balram Tripathi, the Chief of the Health Department of the metropolis.

The KMC has also warned of action against those who breach the order.

Last week, the Lalitpur Metropolitan City decided to stop the sale and distribution of Pani Puri in the metropolis, claiming that cholera bacteria were found in the water used in Pani Puri.

The KMC has also requested the Department of Food Technology and Quality Control to check the level of food hygiene in hotels and restaurants across the city.

Tripathi said that the Kathmandu Upatyaka Khanepani Limited has been urged to keep eye into the condition of the water pipeline and sewage system.

The KMC has also instructed the urban health facilities to prepare for any possible shortage of Oral Rehydration Salt and water purification tablets.

Cholera is a bacterial disease usually spread through contaminated water. The disease causes severe diarrhea and dehydration. Left untreated, cholera can be fatal within hours, even in previously healthy people.

Yemen car bomb targeting security official kills 4

AP ■ SANAA

A car bomb targeting a top provincial security official in the southern Yemen city of Aden killed four people Wednesday and wounded 10 others, Yemeni officials said.

A car carrying explosives detonated while the convoy of a security official from a neighbouring province was driving by, the officials said. Three of his guards were wounded, but the dead were all civilians.

The top security official for Lahj province Brig. Saleh Sayed was not seriously hurt, added the officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorised to brief the media.

Videos from the scene showed the dead and injured lying in a minibus, while a cloud of black smoke rose from the explosion site.

Colombia truth commission gives scathing report on civil war

AP ■ BOGOTA (COLOMBIA)

A Truth Commission presented its final report on Colombia's armed conflict on Tuesday, urging the government, military and rebel groups that are still fighting in the countryside to recognise the suffering victims have endured and ensure that political disputes are no longer solved through violence.

The commission is made up of academics and representatives of civil society groups and was set up as part of a 2016 peace deal between the government and the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia that ended five decades of conflict in which at least 450,000 people were killed.

It was tasked with documenting war crimes and publishing its findings in a digital format that will be available to the public. The commission also issued a series of recommendations aimed at stopping future conflicts from taking root in Colombia, including changes to drug policy and transformations in the nation's military forces.

The commission's final report is based on interviews with 30,000 war victims, military leaders, former guerrilla fighters and five former Colombian presidents.

The 900-page report said 50,000 people were kidnapped between 1990 and 2018 as a result of Colombia's armed conflict, often by rebel groups who kept hostages for ransom.

It also mentioned that more than 7 million people were forced to flee their homes and that 56,000 civilians were killed by Colombia's armed forces, including 6,300 people who were murdered in remote areas and presented to authorities as rebel fighters killed in action.

The report called for major changes to Colombia's military and police forces, which have received more than $8 billion from the U.S. Over the past two decades.

It said the military's objectives should be re-evaluated and that all human rights violations committed by security forces should be tried by civilian courts.

The truth commission's report also discussed drug related violence in Colombia and called on the nation's government to regulate the drug trade so that its profits go to government agencies and not drug trafficking groups. It suggests that Colombia restart peace negotiations with the National Liberation Army, Colombia's largest remaining rebel groups.

The Truth Commission's recommendations are not legally binding. But some will likely be implemented by Colombia's new government which will take over in August. President-elect Gustavo Petro attended the ceremony where the report was presented to the public and said its recommendations would "effectively become part of Colombia's history."

The leftist senator, who was once a member of a rebel group, said during his campaign that he will re-establish diplomatic relations with neighbouring Venezuela whose socialist government is not recognized by the United States. Petro has also called for reforms to Colombia's defense forces, suggesting he police should stop being used for military operations and be placed under greater civilian oversight.

Hong Kong in limbo 25 years after British handover to China

AP ■ HONG KONG

When the British handed its colony Hong Kong to Beijing in 1997, it was promised 50 years of self-government and freedoms of assembly, speech and press that are not allowed Chinese on the Communist-ruled mainland. As the city of 7.4 million people marks 25 years under Beijing's rule on Friday, those promises are wearing thin.

Hong Kong's honeymoon period, when it carried on much as it always had, has passed, and its future remains uncertain, determined by forces beyond its control.

Before the handover, many in Hong Kong worried that life would change when Beijing took over. Thousands rushed to obtain residency elsewhere and some moved abroad. For the first decade or so, such measures looked overly dramatic - this bustling bastion of capitalism on China's southern coast appeared to keep its freedoms, and the economy was booming.

In recent years, Beijing has been expanding its influence and control.

Those moves appeared to be hastened by mass pro-democracy protests in 2014 and 2019. Now, schools must provide lessons on patriotism and national security, and some new textbooks deny Hong Kong was ever a British colony.

Verdict looms in trial over 2015 Paris attacks

AP ■ PARIS

Over the course of an extraordinary nine-month trial, the lone survivor of the Islamic State extremist team that attacked Paris in 2015 has proclaimed his radicalism, wept, apologised to victims and pleaded with judges to forgive his "mistakes".

For victims' families and survivors of the attacks, the trial for Salah Abdeslam and suspected accomplices has been excruciating yet crucial in their quest for justice and closure. At long last, the court will hand down its verdict on Wednesday. Abdeslam faces up to life in prison without parole on murder and other counts, the toughest sentence possible under France's justice system.

The historic trial in Paris is of 20 men suspected of critical roles in the ISIS massacres that killed 130 people on November 13, 2015.

Israeli troops kill Palestinian during West Bank raid

AP ■ JERUSALEM

Israeli forces shot and killed a Palestinian man early on Wednesday in the occupied West Bank during clashes that broke out during an arrest raid, Palestinian officials said.

The Palestinian Health Ministry said that Mohammad Marei, 25, was wounded by Israeli gunfire near Jenin during an arrest raid by the Israeli military and later died.

The Israeli military said that while troops arrested two Palestinians in the northern West Bank city, Palestinians "hurled explosive devices" at soldiers, who responded with gunfire.

It confirmed that a Palestinian was shot, but gave no additional details about the man's condition. The army said no troops were injured in the overnight arrest raids.

Recent months have seen a rise in deadly violence in the West Bank. The Israeli military has carried out near-daily raids following a string of deadly attacks by Palestinians inside Israel that killed 19 Israelis, with several of the attackers coming from the northern West Bank town of Jenin.

Several dozen Palestinians have been killed in Israeli military raids. Most of the dead were alleged to have opened fire on Israeli forces or hurled stones or firebombs at them. The dead also include two apparent passersby.

Nearly 500,000 Israeli settlers live in more than 130 settlements scattered across the West Bank, many of which are fully built up and now resemble suburbs or small towns. Nearly three million Palestinians live in the West Bank under Israeli military rule.

Israel captured the West Bank in the 1967 Mideast war and the Palestinians want it to be the main part of their future state. Israel views the West Bank as the biblical and historical heartland of the Jewish people.

Abortion ban takes effect in Tennessee, paused in Texas

AP ■ WASHINGTON

A federal court has allowed Tennessee to ban abortions as early as six weeks into pregnancy, while a Texas judge temporarily blocked enforcement of that state's decades-old ban on virtually all abortions, in a flurry of activity set off at courthouses across the US by the overturning of Roe v. Wade.

Statewide bans or other restrictions that were either left on the books for generations, tied up by legal challenges or specifically designed to take effect if Roe were to fall are now in play as a result of last week's Supreme Court ruling eliminating the constitutional right to terminate a pregnancy.

Roughly half the states are expected to prohibit or severely limit the procedure now that the high court has left it up to them.

Since Friday, judges have agreed to allow bans or other restrictions to take effect in Alabama, Ohio, South Carolina and Tennessee.

But abortion bans remained temporarily blocked in some states, including Louisiana, Texas and Utah.

Decisions are pending in other places, including Florida and Indiana. Abortion rights advocates also dropped some of their legal efforts in Indiana, Minnesota and Missouri.

Some clinics initially turned patients away soon after the high court ruling came down, but then reopened as judges ruled in their favour. That happened in Louisiana on Tuesday.

In Houston, a Democratic city in a conservative State, a judge blocked enforcement for now of a statewide ban on virtually all abortions.

Abortions in Texas are still prohibited at about six weeks because of a law that took effect last year.

US to boost military presence in Europe for Russia threat

AP ■ MADRID

US President Joe Biden on Wednesday said the US will significantly increase its military presence in Europe for the long haul, including by establishing its first permanent presence in Poland, to bolster regional security after Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

Meeting NATO Secretary-General Jens Stoltenberg at the opening of the alliance's annual leaders' summit in Madrid, Biden said "NATO is strong and united" and that steps to be taken during the gathering will "further augment our collective strength".

Biden opened his participation in the summit by announcing the permanent basing of a US military garrison in Poland.

He also said the US is sending two additional F-35 fighter jet squadrons to the UK and will send more air defense and other capabilities to Germany and Italy.

"Today I'm announcing the US will enhance our force posture in Europe and respond to the changing security environment as well as strengthening our collective security," he said.

Stoltenberg, who earlier on Wednesday said the alliance was facing its biggest challenge since World War II because of Russia's aggression toward Ukraine, welcomed Biden's announcement.

"This really demonstrates your decisive leadership and strength in the trans-Atlantic bond," Stoltenberg said, thanking Biden for the "unwavering support from you and from the US to Ukraine."

Biden said the US will permanently station the US Army V Corps forward command in Poland, a move that he said would strengthen US-NATO inter-operability across the alliance's eastern flank.

The move marks the first permanent basing of US forces on NATO's eastern edge.

Biden added that the US is also stepping up its rotational deployments of troops to Romania and the Baltic region.

Celeste Wallander, an assistant US secretary of defence for international affairs, told reporters that having a permanent presence in Poland will be key to helping NATO navigate the changed security environment in Europe caused by Russia's invasion. The US supplies the bulk of NATO's military power.

US officials emphasised that the permanent basing applied only to headquarters units, not combat troops, and was therefore consistent with a 1997 agreement between NATO and Russia in which the alliance agreed not to permanently base combat troops in Eastern Europe as it aimed to build more constructive ties in the post-Cold War environment.

Poland's Deputy Foreign Minister Pawel Jablonski told Poland's state PAP news agency that the decision to add US command structure was a "manifestation of the ever closer cooperation between the US and Poland" and would give NATO allies a frontline insight into the Russian threat.

The combat units Biden is sending to Romania and the Baltic region are on rotational deployments, rather than permanent assignment, to remain in compliance with that agreement.

"There has been no communication with Moscow about these changes, nor is there a requirement to do that," John Kirby, a spokesman for Biden's National Security Council.

Biden announced on Tuesday after arriving for the summit that the US would base two additional destroyers at its naval base in Rota, Spain, bringing the total number to six.

The US currently has more than 100,000 service-members deployed across Europe, up by about 20,000 since just before Russian President Vladimir Putin's invasion of Ukraine began four months ago.

Biden predicted that meetings this week would make for a "history-making summit" as leaders were set to approve a new strategic framework, announce a range of steps to boost their defense spending and capabilities, and clear the way for historically neutral Finland and Sweden to join NATO.

Biden said Putin thought NATO members would splinter after he invaded Ukraine, but got the opposite response instead.

"Putin was looking for the Finland-isation of Europe," Biden said. "You're gonna get the NATO-isation of Europe. And that's exactly what he didn't want, but exactly what needs to be done to guarantee security for Europe."

Turkey, the last remaining holdout to approve the Nordic countries' accession into NATO, reached an agreement on the eve of the summit late Tuesday to support adding them to the 30-nation alliance.

While the White House said the US was not a direct party to the negotiations, a senior administration official said Biden spoke with Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan on Tuesday to encourage him to clear the way for Sweden and Finland to join. The two leaders are set to meet on Wednesday afternoon to discuss other issues, the White House said.

Biden will also sit down on Wednesday with South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol and Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida, who are attending the NATO summit as the alliance looks to strengthen its ties in the Indo-Pacific region and address challenges from China.

The White House said the three leaders would also discuss North Korea's nuclear and ballistic missile programmes.

Putin has become 'a terrorist': Zelenskyy

■ EDITH M. LEDERER

The Ukrainian leader began his speech listing Russia's attacks in recent days and giving the first names and ages of many of the victims. He ended his address asking the 15 Security Council members and others in the chamber to stand in silent tribute to commemorate the "tens of thousands" of Ukrainian children and adults killed in the war.

All members rose including Russia's deputy UN ambassador Dmitry Polyansky.

When he took the floor later, Polyansky protested against giving Zelenskyy a second opportunity to address the Security Council, a decision by Albanian which holds the council presidency this month.

The Russian envoy said the Ukrainian president's video address violated the council's traditions and existing practices which state that leaders who wish to speak to the council must be present in the chamber.

"The U.N. Security Council should not be turned into a platform for a remote PR campaign from president Zelenskyy in order to get more weapons from participants at the NATO summit" starting Wednesday in Madrid, Polyansky said.

He claimed that there was no Russian strike on the shopping centre in Kremenchuk, saying Russian precision weapons struck hangars in the Kremenchuk road machinery plant with weapons and ammunition from the United States and Europe destined for Ukrainian troops in eastern Donbass.

The shopping center was some distance away but the detonation of ammunition "created a fire which then spread to the shopping centre," Polyansky said.

The Russian envoy told Western nations that by supplying weapons to Ukraine they were prolonging the time when Ukraine's leaders "will sit down at the negotiating table with a realistic position rather than with slogans."

"We began a special military operation in order to stop the shelling of Donbass by Ukraine and so that the territory of this country, which has been turned into anti-Russia at the behest of a number of Western countries, as well as its nationalist leadership, ceases to pose a threat to Russia or the inhabitants of the south and southeast of Ukraine," he said. "And until those goals are achieved, our operation will continue."

US deputy ambassador Richard Mills, like many other Western ambassadors, accused Russia of destroying the shopping center, saying the attack "fits into a cruel pattern, one where the Russian military kills civilians and destroys civilian infrastructure in Ukraine."

He stressed that there is ample publicly available evidence "that Russia, and Russia alone" is responsible for this and other attacks.

Ukrainian survivor: Only 'monster' would attack mall

AP ■ KREMENCHUK (UKRAINE)

The mall was nothing extraordinary, but in the middle of a war it was an escape for those in this Ukrainian city who had decided not to flee. Then it exploded in a Russian airstrike.

In moments on Monday afternoon, a summer hangout became a hellish inferno. Life and death depended on a shopper's decision whether to heed yet another air raid siren and take shelter. Among those who stayed, at least 18 are dead, more than 20 are missing and scores are wounded.

The crowded mall in Kremenchuk, which housed the largest toy store in town, is now the latest shorthand for allegations of war crimes against Russia. As with earlier attacks on a theater, a train station and a hospital elsewhere in Ukraine, authorities in Moscow said the mall was not the target.

One day after the airstrike, the scene still smelled of charred debris. Grit hung in the air, irritating the skin and throats. Visitors laid red carnations, a spot of color in the still-smoking ruins.

Images on social media showed the burned body of a woman, white sneakers still intact, who appeared to have been caught in the blast as she tried to run. In another video, around the time of impact, a man could be heard calling for his mother.

One mall employee, who gave only his first name, Oleksandr, said he had stepped outside with a colleague for a cigarette when the air raid siren went off. He described the moment of impact.

"There was darkness in my eyes for two minutes," he said. "There was a black tunnel, smoke, fire. I started to crawl. I saw the sun up there, and my brain was telling me I needed to save myself."

Everything was on fire, he said. A blast wave threw him under a car. He couldn't hear. Bits of shrapnel were embedded in his leg.

"Thank God that was it," he said. "I was very lucky." He estimated 1,000 shoppers and employees had been in the mall at the time, contradicting Russia's claim that it was empty.

Kateryna Romashnya had just reached the mall on her walk home from work when the explosion threw her to the ground and blew out nearby windows. Stunned, she estimated that 10-15 minutes passed before another explosion occurred.

'Reports of deaths of civilians in ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict deeply disturbing'

PTI ■ UNITED NATIONS

Voicing grave concern over reports of civilian deaths in the ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict, India has said that critical civilian infrastructure in urban areas have become easy targets in situations of armed conflict.

Speaking at the UN Security Council Briefing on Ukraine on Tuesday, India's Deputy Permanent Representative to the UN Ambassador R. Ravindra said the conflict has resulted in the loss of lives and countless miseries for its peoples, particularly for women, children and elderly, with millions becoming homeless and forced to take shelter in neighbouring countries.

Under-Secretary-General for Political and Peacebuilding Affairs Rosemary DiCarlo told the Council that the Russian missile strike on a mall in the Ukrainian city of Kremenchuk killed 18 civilians and injured 59 and the final toll may be much higher.

"India remains deeply concerned over the situation in Ukraine," Ravindra said.

The Council meeting was also addressed virtually by Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, the second time that leader spoke directly to the powerful 15-nation UN organ since the start of the conflict in February.

"Reports of deaths of civilians in the ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict are deeply disturbing and in this regard, we express our grave concern. In recent years, critical civilian infrastructure in urban areas have become easy targets in situations of armed conflict," Ravindra said.

India added that the issue of the protection of civilian objects in armed conflicts should be considered within the framework of applicable international law.

Ukraine's leader pushes for fuller NATO embrace, more arms

AP ■ MADRID

Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelenskyy chided NATO for not embracing his embattled country more fully and asked for more weapons to fight Russia's invasion, as the leaders of the alliance met amid what his chief called its biggest crisis since World War II. Russia's invasion of its neighbour shattered Europe's peace, drove NATO to pour troops and weapons into eastern Europe on a scale not seen since the Cold War and is set to give the defence organisation two new members in Sweden and Finland.

Members of the alliance have also sent billions in military and civilian aid to Ukraine. But Zelenskyy lamented that NATO's open-door policy to new members did not apply to Ukraine. "The open-door policy of NATO shouldn't resemble old turnstiles on Kyiv's subway, which stay open but close when you approach them until you pay," Zelenskyy said by video link. "Hasn't Ukraine paid enough?"

He asked for more modern artillery systems and other weapons and warned the leaders that they either had to provide Ukraine with the help it needed to defeat Russia or "face a delayed war between Russia and yourself".

Zelenskyy has acknowledged that NATO membership is a distant prospect. The alliance is trying to strike a delicate balance, letting its member-nations arm Ukraine without sparking a direct confrontation between NATO and nuclear-armed Russia.

As 30 NATO leaders met in Madrid, Secretary-General Jens Stoltenberg acknowledged the alliance is "in the midst of the most serious security crisis we have faced since the Second World War".

US President Joe Biden, whose country provides the bulk of NATO's military power, said the summit would send "an unmistakable message ... That NATO is strong and united".

"We're stepping up. We're proving that NATO is more needed now than it ever has been," said Biden.

He announced a hefty boost in America's military presence in Europe, including a permanent US base in Poland, two more Navy destroyers based in Rota, Spain, and two more F35 squadrons to the UK.

But strains among NATO allies have also emerged as the cost of energy and other essential goods has skyrocketed, partly because of the war and tough Western sanctions on Russia. There also are tensions over how the war will end and what, if any, concessions Ukraine should make to stop the fighting.

Money could also be a sensitive issue — just nine of NATO's 30 members currently meet the organisation's target of spending two per cent of gross domestic product on defence.

British Prime Minister Boris Johnson, whose country does hit the target, urged NATO allies "to dig deep to restore deterrence and ensure defense in the decade ahead".

The war has already triggered a big increase in NATO's forces in eastern Europe, and allies are expected to agree at the summit to boost the strength of the alliance's rapid reaction force nearly eightfold, from 40,000 to 300,000 troops, by next year.

The troops will be based in their home nations, but dedicated to specific countries on NATO's eastern flank, where the alliance plans to build up stocks of equipment and ammunition. Stoltenberg said NATO was undertaking "the biggest overhaul of our collective defense since the end of the Cold War".

The leaders are also set to publish NATO's new Strategic Concept, its once-a-decade set of priorities and goals.

The last such document, in 2010, called Russia a "strategic partner". Now, the alliance is set to declare Moscow its No. 1 threat. The document will also set out NATO's approach on issues from cybersecurity to climate change — and the growing economic and military reach of China.

For the first time, the leaders of Japan, Australia, South Korea and New Zealand are attending the summit as guests, a reflection of the growing importance of Asia and the Pacific region.

Stoltenberg said China was not NATO's adversary, but posed "challenges to our values, to our interest and to our security".

Biden was due to hold a rare meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida and South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol on the sidelines of the summit, focused on North Korea's nuclear programme.

The summit opened with one problem solved, after Turkey agreed on Tuesday to lift its opposition to Sweden and Finland joining NATO.

In response to the invasion, the two Nordic nations abandoned their long-held nonaligned status and applied to join NATO as protection against an increasingly aggressive and unpredictable Russia — which shares a long border with Finland.

NATO operates by consensus, and Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan threatened to block the Nordic pair, insisting they change their stance on Kurdish rebel groups that Turkey considers terrorists.

After urgent top-level talks with leaders of the three countries, alliance Secretary Stoltenberg said the impasse had been cleared.

Stocks halt 4-day winning run, Sensex down 150 pts

Weak global mkts stir fall

Mumbai: Snapping its four-day winning run, benchmark Sensex declined by over 150 points on Wednesday due to profit booking in IT, FMCG and banking shares following weak global trends and persistent foreign capital outflows.

In a volatile session, the 30-share BSE Sensex settled 150.48 points or 0.28 per cent lower at 53,026.97 as 20 of its stocks ended with losses. During the day, it tumbled 564.77 points or 1.06 per cent to a low of 52,612.68 ahead of the expiry in the derivatives segment on Thursday.

The broader NSE Nifty declined by 51.10 points or 0.32 per cent to 15,799.10 with 34 of its constituents closing in the red. In the four-day rally to Tuesday, Sensex spurted by 2.59 per cent or 1,354 points while Nifty had gained 2.84 per cent or 436 points.

Among Sensex shares, Hindustan Unilever fell the most by 3.46 per cent. IndusInd Bank, Axis Bank, Bajaj Finserv, Wipro, HCL Technologies, Titan, Kotak Mahindra Bank and Bajaj Finance were the other major losers.

However, gains in NTPC, Reliance Industries, Sun Pharma, UltraTech Cement and ITC restricted a major fall in the barometer.

NTPC rose the most by

2.46 per cent while Reliance Industries advanced 1.98 per cent.

“Markets traded volatile for yet another session and lost nearly half a percent. Weak global cues were weighing on the sentiment in early trade which triggered a gap-down start however buying in select index majors trimmed the losses as the day progressed,” Ajit Mishra, VP - Research, Religare Broking Ltd said.

Consumer confidence is declining rapidly due to the uncontrolled and constant rise in inflation, Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services said. India had to bear the double-whammy effect of a dampening global equity market and rising crude prices as major suppliers like Saudi are unable to boost the output in the short-term.

“However, the domestic market was able to recover most of the losses due to the strong movement of index heavyweights, PSUs, metals and oil & gas stocks before slipping some gains by the end of the day due to volatile global market,” Nair said.

In the broader market, the BSE midcap gauge dipped 0.70 per cent and smallcap index declined 0.18 per cent.

Among the BSE sectoral indices, bank fell by 1.20 per cent, while FMCG (1.01 per cent), finance (1 per cent), teck (0.83 per cent), and telecom (0.54 per cent) also declined.

Energy, utilities, auto, metal, oil & gas, power and realty were the gainers. A total of 1,781 firms declined, while 1,521 advanced and 148 remained unchanged.

Meanwhile, international oil benchmark Brent crude gained 0.31 per cent to USD 118.3 per barrel ahead of the meeting of the oil cartel OPEC. PTI

India needs to form Green Hydrogen Corridors: NITI Aayog

New Delhi: India needs to form Green Hydrogen Corridors and governments can look at providing grants to startups as well as support entrepreneurs to promote green hydrogen, NITI Aayog said on Wednesday.

In a report titled ‘Harnessing Green Hydrogen - Opportunities for Deep Decarbonisation in India’, the Aayog also suggested that there is a need to facilitate investment through demand aggregation and dollar-based bidding for green hydrogen.

“Three hydrogen corridors should be developed across the country based on state grand challenges ... The governments can provide grants and loans to startups and projects, support entrepreneurs through incubators and investor networks, and put in place regulations that manage first-mover risks,” the report said. The government can also use public procurement and purchase incentives (for green hydrogen) to create demand in niche markets and crowd in private investment, it added.

The report suggested that the government should promote export of green hydrogen and green hydrogen-embedded products through a global hydrogen alliance.

Green Hydrogen/ Green Ammonia is defined as hydrogen/ ammonia produced by way of electrolysis of water using renewable energy, including renewable energy which has been banked and the hydrogen/ammonia produced from biomass.

Most large economies including India have committed to net zero targets.

Transition to green hydrogen and green ammonia is one of the major requirements for reduction of emissions, especially in the hard to abate sectors. The report predicted that hydrogen demand in India could grow more than fourfold by 2050, representing almost 10 per cent of global hydrogen demand.

In the longer term, steel and heavy-duty trucking are likely to drive the majority of demand growth, accounting for almost 52 per cent of total demand by 2050, it added.

Emphasising that the roadmap should also identify a timeline and scale of manufacturing support for electrolyzers, the report said India may aim for 25 GW of electrolyzers by 2030, while also investing USD 1 billion in R&D to catalyse the development of commercial green hydrogen technologies across the value chain.

It noted that radically improving the speed of regulatory clearances coupled with preferential treatment in public tenders will help catalyse local manufacturing.

The report suggested that grand challenges, public-private venture capital and financing test bench infrastructure could be part of the R&D investments. PTI

EV-bus manufacturers worried after DHI makes sporting FAME logo must in buses

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Months after the Department of Heavy Industries (DHI) notified an order making it mandatory for the Ev-buses operator(s) to place the FAME logo on both the sides of the vehicles prominently, the manufacturers are feeling the pinch with advertisement revenues taking a significant hit, according to sources close to funding agencies/lenders.

The order released by the DHI makes it compulsory for the manufacturers to get the FAME logo on the buses, at the spots which the manufacturers earlier used to lease out to potential advertisers for some revenue.

A couple of industry insiders told The Pioneer on the condition of anonymity that this move has not gone down well with the operator(s) and has caused considerable losses for them as per early assessment.

Earlier in the contracts, advertisements were allowed on the FAME contracts-awarded products, ev-buses mostly, and the revenue generated from them used to go to the manufacturers or the Operator. The latest move has left them squandering for options to deal with it, with little or no mechanism to raise their concerns. According to sources, the new directions have been laid out retrospectively which impact the revenue. Industry experts see the move by the government as its intent to reduce overall cost for the state governments.

A top official of one of the major lending agencies said the manufacturers don't have any issue with keeping the FAME logo on buses but with size and placement of the logo, which directly impacts their revenues. The loss becomes significant in the long run as the buses are to be operated and maintained for 12 years.

“Can the OEMs/Operators manage for 12 years making losses continuously? It might lead to a situation where the manufacturers start showing their inability to operate the buses,” another official said, adding the “purpose of promoting Green mobility is getting defeated in the process”.

The Indian EV sector is seeing a massive boom with both central and governments going full throttle in acquiring electric buses in their bid to ensure clean and green transportation. States after states are placing big orders for electric buses.

Gold declines ₹176 amid weak global trends

New Delhi: Gold price in the national capital fell by ₹176 to ₹50,649 per 10 grams on Wednesday, reflecting a decline in international precious metal prices, according to HDFC Securities.

In the previous trade, the yellow metal settled at ₹50,825 per 10 grams.

Silver also fell by ₹443 to ₹59,725 per kg from ₹60,168 per kg in the previous trade.” Spot gold prices for 24-carat gold in Delhi fell by Rs 176 in line with decline in COMEX gold prices,” said Tapan Patel, Senior Analyst (Commodities) at HDFC Securities. PTI

Sebi issues ₹27 lakh recovery notice to individual in L&T Finance Holdings case

New Delhi: Capital markets regulator Sebi has sent a notice to an individual asking him to pay ₹27 lakh in a case pertaining to violation of insider trading norms in the matter of L&T Finance Holdings Ltd.

The notice came after Uday Agarwal failed to pay the fine imposed on him by the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi).

Sebi has directed Agarwal to pay ₹27.01 lakh, which includes interest, all costs, charges and expenses, within 15 days. In the event of non-payment, it will recover the amount by attaching and selling their moveable and immovable properties.

He will also face attachment of his bank accounts and arrest, Sebi said in an order passed on Tuesday.

The regulator, through an order passed in November 2021, levied a fine of ₹25 lakh on Uday Agarwal.

The regulator observed in its investigation that Agarwal being an insider traded in the scrip of L&T Finance Holdings while having possession of unpublished price-sensitive information during trading window closure period, failed to obtain pre-clearance and failed to make disclosures for his trading and further made contra trades.

The Unpublished Price-Sensitive Information (UPSI) pertained to financial results for the period ended June 30, 2018. The period of UPSI was from July 7 to 20, 2018. PTI

According to a statement, the board has approved Sebi Annual Report: 2021-22. The report will be submitted to the central government. PTI

Ukraine conflict casts shadows on global food situation

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE/AGENCIES ■ NEW DELHI/UNITED NATIONS

Expressing concern over food scarcity in the wake of the ongoing Ukraine conflict, India has said it exported more 1.8 million tons of wheat to countries suffering from shortage. It also flagged the issue of civilian deaths in the military action terming them as “deeply disturbing” and called for cessation of hostilities.

Highlighting these issues in the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) briefing on Ukraine, India's Deputy Permanent Representative to the UN Ambassador R Ravindra also said the conflict has resulted in the loss of lives and countless miseries for its peoples, particularly for women, children and elderly, with millions becoming homeless and forced to take shelter in neighbouring countries.

Making this point, he said on late Tuesday India has all along favoured the path of peace, dialogue and diplomacy to end the conflict which began in February.

“We support all efforts to alleviate the suffering of the people of Ukraine, especially talks” between Ukraine and Russia.

He noted that India has also been sending humanitarian supplies to Ukraine and its neighbours, which include medicines and other essential relief materials.

Underlining that the impact of the Ukraine conflict is not just limited to Europe, Ravindra said the conflict is exacerbating concerns over food, fertilizer and fuel security, particularly in the developing countries. PTI

Marine exports up 30% to nearly USD 8 bn in FY22

New Delhi: Exports of marine products rose 30.26 per cent to USD 7.76 billion during 2021-22 as against USD 5.96 billion in previous fiscal year, the commerce ministry said on Wednesday. India shipped 13,69,264 MT (metric tonne) of seafood worth ₹57,586.48 crore during 2021-22.” During 2021-22, the export improved in rupee term by 31.71 per cent, in USD terms by 30.26 per cent and in quantity terms by 19.12 per cent,” the ministry said in a statement.

K N Raghavan, Chairman, Marine Products Export Development Authority (MPEDA), said India managed to do “all-time high” exports of USD 7.76 billion.

Frozen shrimp remained the major export item in terms of quantity and value. Its shipments stood at USD 5.82 billion last fiscal year. The segment accounts for 75.11 per cent of the total dollar earnings.

The US is the largest market of frozen shrimp, followed by China, the European Union, South East Asia, Japan, and the Middle East.

Frozen fish, frozen squid and frozen cuttlefish, are also major items for exports.

“The US continued to be the major importer of Indian seafood in value and volume terms with an import worth USD 3,371.66 million, accounting for a share of 37.56 per cent in terms of dollar value,” it added. It said China has emerged as the second largest seafood export destination for India in terms of quantity with an import of 2,66,989 MT worth USD 1,175.05 million. PTI

Ease of doing business: UT, States’ ranking to be released on Jun 30

New Delhi: The Government will release the ranking of states and Union Territories (UTs) in terms of ease of doing business on June 30, the commerce and industry ministry said on Wednesday.

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman will release the assessment report of states/UTs under Business Reforms Action Plan (BRAP), 2020 in the presence of Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Thursday, it said.

The exercise is aimed at triggering competition among states to improve the business climate to attract domestic and global investors.

BRAP 2020 includes 301

reform points that cover 15 business regulatory areas such as access to information, single window system, labour, environment, sectoral reforms and other reforms spanning across the lifecycle of a business.

Sectoral reforms have been introduced this time wherein 72 reforms were identified across nine sectors - trade license, healthcare, legal metrology, cinema halls, hospitality, fire NOC (no objection certificate), telecom, movie shooting and tourism.

The Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT), since 2014, has been releasing BRAP for steering business reforms to create an investor-friendly ecosystem across the country.

Till date, state rankings have been released for 2015, 2016, 2017-18 and 2019.

“DPIIT has undertaken a feedback-based exercise wherein feedback was taken from businesses on the quality of implementation of the reforms carried out by the states and UTs. The assessment is based on the feedback obtained from the actual users of respective states/UTs,” it added.

In the last ranking released in September 2020, Andhra Pradesh topped the chart, followed by Uttar Pradesh, Telangana, Madhya Pradesh and Jharkhand. PTI

Housing sales grow 4.5 times in Apr-Jun period in top 8 cities

New Delhi: Housing sales jumped over 4.5 times year-on-year in April-June across eight cities to 74,330 units on lower base effect, while demand was up 5 per cent from the previous quarter, according to PropTiger data.

Housing sales stood at 15,968 units in the April-June period last year and 70,623 units in the January-March quarter of 2022.

The price of residential properties rose 5-9 per cent annually, driven by rise in input costs, inflationary pressures and premium attached with ready-to-move-in inventory. Pune and Chennai saw maximum appreciation at 9 per cent each.

In its latest ‘Real Insight Residential’ report, Australia's REA group-owned PropTiger.Com, said the YoY (Year-on-Year) growth in April-June 2022 is multi-fold due to the low base as demand in April-June 2021 was severely impacted owing to the second wave of the COVID pandemic.

On the sequential rise in sales, Vikas Wadhawan, Group CFO of REA India, said: “Even though the RBI increased the repo rate twice during the quarter, home loans remained largely affordable.”

The biggest booster to housing demand has been the increased importance of owning a property, he said.

This, he said, has been further backed by the consumer confidence in the overall economic scenario and impending income stability.

As per the data, housing sales in Ahmedabad rose sharply to 7,240 units in April-June 2022, from 1,280 units in the year-ago period. Sales were up 30 per cent from 5,550 units in the January-March quarter this year.

Bengaluru saw sales of 8,350 units in April-June, as against 1,590 units in the year-ago period. PTI

Steel prices likely to go up again from July 1 on high input cost: JSPL MD

New Delhi: After back-to-back downward corrections, steel prices are expected to rise from July due to high input costs, an industry executive said on Wednesday.

“While coal price is at ₹17,000 a tonne, iron ore prices by Odisha Mineral Corporation are still high. It is the main supplier of iron ore in Odisha,” JSPL Managing Director V R Sharma told PTI on the sidelines of an event organised by the Indian Chamber of Commerce here.

“The prices have already bottomed out. There is no chance of reducing them further. There will be an upward price correction from Friday, July 1 by (primary players) mainly on account of higher input costs,” he said.

Secondary steel makers have already increased the price of rebars by ₹2,000 to ₹55,000 per tonne in the last four days, Sharma said.

There are various other factors building pressure on steel makers, Sharma said, adding there are issues with the availability of coal. Rakes are also not available for the supply of coal as most of them have been diverted for power sector.

Steel players use iron ore as raw material to make steel and coal to feed their captive power plants.

According to SteelMint, prices of hot rolled coil (HRC) are ruling in the range of ₹59,000-60,000 a tonne from its peak in May at ₹76,000/tonne. PTI

Expect govt to withdraw duties on steel items once inflation moderates: Sajjan Jindal

New Delhi: Terming duties imposed on steel products a “short-term headwind”, JSW Group CMD Sajjan Jindal said he is hopeful of the government withdrawing the levies once inflation moderates. The duties were imposed last month with the objective of controlling inflation, the industrialist said.

Jindal's statement comes days after he along with other top industry leaders met Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in her office.

In a tweet on June 16, office of the Finance Minister, without sharing the details of the meeting had said, “Delegation of Indian Steel Association @steel_indian, including Shri @MPNaveenJindal - Chairman JSPL, Shri @sajjanjindal - Chairman JSW, Smt Soma Mondal - Chairman @SAILsteel & other senior members of the industry, calls on Smt @nsitharaman.” PTI
