Now, Aadhaar services will go to villages from home.

De to the difficulties involved in getting LPG and drinking water supplies, especially for people residing in remote areas, the government, fearing the grunts of people, has taken a step in this direction.

According to the government, Aadhaar services have been made accessible to people residing in villages through a mobile app. The app is being used for various purposes, including the distribution of LPG and drinking water supplies.

The app works on a simple premise: it allows people to register for Aadhaar services from their mobile phones. Once registered, they can access various services, such as the distribution of LPG and drinking water, directly from their homes.

The government has also taken steps to ensure that the services are accessible to people residing in remote areas. It has set up mobile service centers in these areas, which are equipped with the necessary hardware to provide the services.

The government has also worked to ensure that the services are accessible to all. It has made sure that the services are available to people of all ages, and that the process is simple and user-friendly.

These steps have been taken to ensure that people residing in remote areas can access Aadhaar services from the comfort of their homes. The government has also taken steps to ensure that the services are accessible to all.

India rejects OIC’s remarks as ‘narrow-minded’ and ‘motivated’

The government of India categorically rejects the OIC’s remarks on the treatment of minorities in the country. The government of India strongly refutes the accusations made by the OIC. Bagchi said that the remarks are motivated, misleading and loaded with false connotations. The OIC has a long history of double standards and not living up to the values it claims to hold dear.

Stop hate, now

Govt must defuse tensions with the Middle East

The BLP has done its right thing by expelling party official spokesperson Nupur Sharma and Ravi Kishan. The most interesting point is that the Delhi Government is still contending a remark about Prophet Muhammad. The Indian Government was also prompt in tracing these leaders as ‘finge elements, something that has been appreciated by Saudi Arabia, the fourth largest Muslim nation in the world. The Delhi Government has also taken a strong stand against the BLP leaders’ comments. ‘Allowing such Islamophobic remarks to continue without punishment constitutes a grave danger to the protection of human rights and may lead to further propagation and magnification, which will create a cycle of violence and hate.’

Kashmir Files

The Kashmir Files is a 2022 Indian biographical drama film directed by Vivek Agnihotri. The film is based on the 2019 documentary film of the same name, which detailed the exodus of Hindus and Muslims from Kashmir during and after the Kashmir War. The film explores the events leading up to the creation of Pakistan, the partition of India, and theorises what might have happened had India chosen to keep the Kashmir region.

The film is set against the backdrop of the Kashmir conflict and the subsequent exodus of Kashmiri Hindus from the region in the 1990s. The story follows the experiences of a group of Kashmiri Hindus who were forced to leave their homes during the conflict, and the challenges they faced in rebuilding their lives in other parts of India. The film also explores the complex history of the Kashmir region and the ongoing conflict.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh praised the film, saying it is a ‘powerful statement on the Kashmir issue’ and ‘a brave attempt to tell the story of Kashmir.’ Prime Minister Narendra Modi also praised the film, calling it a ‘vital piece of cinema’ and expressing his ‘deepest gratitude’ to those who made it possible.

The film has been praised for its portrayal of the Kashmiri Hindu exodus and has been noted for its realism in depicting the hardships faced by those who were forced to leave Kashmir.

However, the film has also received criticism from some quarters, with some accusing it of being propaganda and not accurately representing the complex history of Kashmir. The film has been accused of being one-sided and not providing a balanced view of the Kashmir conflict.

The film has also sparked a debate about the role of cinema in politics and the responsibilities of filmmakers in shaping public opinion.

The film has been released in India on March 18, 2022.
Heat waves are termed the “silent disaster” as heat-related deaths are often underestimated among the public for a number of reasons.

In the first installment of the Seventh Assessment Report, the IPCC said that every day since 2015, the world has been hotter than any year in the past 1,500 years. The report says that every year since 2015 has been warmer than any year since 1880.

The report also states that the impacts of heat waves have increased significantly in the past decades. Heat waves are now more frequent, longer, and more intense.

Heat waves affect all regions of the world, but they are most common in the subtropics and midlatitudes. The IPCC report says that heat waves have become more frequent and more intense in many parts of the world, leading to an increase in heat-related deaths.

Heat waves are also more likely to occur in the future, due to climate change. The IPCC report predicts that heat waves will become more frequent and more intense in the future, leading to more deaths and health problems.

Heat waves are a serious problem and need to be taken seriously. The world needs to take action to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and mitigate the impacts of climate change.
