Ineligible people told to return ration cards in UP

Praful Sinha said that the BSP government had already made the decision to give ration cards to those who are ineligible. He said that the decision was taken after consultations with the central government.

However, the decision has been met with criticism from various sources. The Congress and the Samajwadi Party have criticized the decision, saying that it is unfair and discriminates against the poor.

The move has also led to a rise in the prices of essential commodities, with inflation rates rising significantly. People are now forced to bear the burden of higher prices, which has led to a decrease in their purchasing power.

Despite the criticism, the government has defended its decision, saying that it is necessary to ensure that the ration cards are being used by the people who are entitled to them. They have also stated that the government is working to ensure that the ration cards are being used in a transparent and fair manner.

The move has also led to a rise in the number of people who are living below the poverty line. The government has acknowledged this and is working to find solutions to address the issue.

However, the decision has been met with mixed reactions from the public. While some people support the decision, saying that it is necessary to ensure that the ration cards are being used by the people who are entitled to them, others批评 it, saying that it is unfair and discriminates against the poor.

India's model

The number of the so-called 'neutral' countries across the globe is shrinking

Russia attacked Ukraine and the world is top-yoing from there. Grounded political theories of how nations conduct and secure themselves are going for a toss. At the time the conflict concludes, the most may be the war may define new hierarchies of systems, as individuals, or groups, behave with one another. The conflict drew the world's attention to India and its stand non-condemning Russia. For weeks, the West pressured India to change its stand by offering both sole and veiled threats. India did not cede from its stand. It abstained from voting on the United Nations resolution condemning Russia. All the time, it defended its sovereignty and its right to territorial integrity. It sent, and continues to send, medical and other aid to Ukraine. Reams were written to understand how India backed its longstanding friendship with Russia while simultaneously associating with the US. The US has been the chief Indian State for decades, and India as an invitee for a guest at the G-7 Summit. It is said that India has shifted from its neo-isolationist stance of non-alignment of the present multi-aligned model. The latest country to change its national status is the US. The West, by Sweden and the EU, determined to neutralize Russia in recent decades, they now want to join NATO because Russia makes them unsure. Their presence and their地, the US. I am not going that into the point. Finland shares a long border with Russia and a memory past the word. To that extent, the Ukraine invasion may be seen as a valid reason for Finland to dump its neutrality. With Finland and Sweden ready to join NATO, the number of Europe's neutrals shrinks. Other countries are also reviewing their neutral status. Switzerland, Europe's most famous neutral, wonders how it can itself neutral when it has backed European Union sanctions on Russia. The US, on the other hand, is seeking to join the European Council and Community as they would weaken their neutral status. India, indeed, argued that the mutual trust between India and Switzerland and BSEC being the two are impeccable and that it was worth paying the political price of joining NATO to encircle the EEC's economic benefits. However, the Soviet Union never influenced their decision. Interestingly, in this era of the Russian threat, the Russian are also concerned about the age of upholding its neutrality and the pressures of maintaining stable world in the face of looming power's wary. Will joining NATO resolve Finland's non-security problems? Time will tell.

India's historic Thomas Cup win will go a long way in giving a new sporting spirit

It is what nothing short of a stupendous achievement for India in the annals of global sports events, our badminton players turned the final match at the Thomas Cup finals into a part of the popularity for the country in the entire region. On the sheer scale of matching the odds, displaying the grit, and living through the proverbial blood, sweat, and tears, our players were not one iota less heroic than the 1988 Olympic World Cup-winning team. What makes this historic victory sweeter — only five countries have so far won the prestigious trophy in the tournament’s 73-year history since it came into existence, and it was India’s maiden appearance in the tournament’s final’s — is that it was clinched against an opponent formidable as formidable India, which is a 16-time champion and six-time runner-up, and the latter was beaten comprehensively by a 3–0 margin. In the past, though, India did manage to its hands on the bronze medal prize, in 1992, 1995 and 1979. For the unbowed, in team sports among badminton-playing countries, a Thomas Cup victory is like a nation winning the Davis Cup in lawn tennis. The win on the Thomas Cup is a record for a country’s efforts in promoting the game. It is certainly a match to be reckoned with in the annals of Indian sports history.

PROTECTION FOR STAVRY SHARIF Sir — Glad to read that the Varamai court has confirmed a conviction against the Jordanian Stavry Sharif for theft. Dear Sir — We are writing to congratulate the Gyanvapi survey team of the Indian Commission and the CRPF commandant who entered the area. The District Magistrate, who heads the NIA, has ordered an inquiry into the incident.

Luis Suarez emotional after final home game: Atlético will remain in ‘my heart’

Luis Suarez said he will always treasure his time at Barcelona after he wore the club’s shirt for the final time at the weekend. Suarez scored twice as Barca beat Real Betis 4-0 in their LaLiga season finale at the Camp Nou.

The 34-year-old Argentine left his mark when he joined the club in a €75m deal in 2014. The Uruguayan went on to score 198 goals in 378 appearances for Barca and won three LaLiga titles with the Catalans.

Suarez said: “I’m going to miss the Camp Nou and the atmosphere here. It’s a place where I’ve grown and where I’ve done important things. I’ll never forget it nor the people who have supported me over the years. It’s going to be very emotional saying goodbye.

“I will always treasure my time here. I want to say thanks to the fans, my teammates, the staff and my family for being with me over the years.”

The forward scored his first European goal for Barca in 2014 and scored again during the 2015-16 season. He will always remember the goal he scored against Real Madrid in 2015 to help the Catalans win the title.

Suarez also scored the winner in the Champions League final against Juventus in 2015 and won LaLiga in 2017-18. He won Barca’s Player of the Year award three times and last year was named in the 2016-20 LaLiga team of the decade.

He also scored Barcelona’s first goal in the 2011 Champions League final against Manchester United, after which he went on to win the title.

Barcelona needed to win the game to keep hope of catching Real Madrid in LaLiga but their nearest rivals dropped two points at home to Villarreal.

Barca are going to the last day of the season knowing that a win or a draw will secure second place and a guaranteed place in the Champions League next season. A defeat would see the Catalans fall to third place and Real Madrid take the title.

The Catalans lost the match to Viktoria Plzen in the Champions League last year but the group stage victory against the Czech side this weekend will give them confidence for the next round.

Suarez has scored 10 goals in 21 LaLiga games this season and has a total of 13 for the season having scored two more goals in the Champions League. He is now Barcelona’s second all-time top scorer, behind only Lionel Messi.

Barca manager Ronald Koeman has thanked Suarez for his contribution to the club and said the striker was an important part of the team.

Suarez is expected to leave Barca this summer and he has been linked with a move to Premier League side Tottenham Hotspur.
