Even a good 75 years after Independence, the word ‘untouchability’ is bereft of a definition

T he good news is it took the month of the State to facilitate a Dalit family’s entry into a temple in Karnataka’s the Saturday. The usual castes, as usual, refused them entry and insulted them. Finally, a large police contingent entered the village, imposed prohibitory orders and let the family inside. Needless to say, this incident will re-erect the hated caste walls that want to keep the heritage intact. Untouchability at work. Seventy-five years after Independence, a Dalit cannot enter a temple, draw water from a public well, sport a motorcycle, ride a horse or wear a makhela without the consent of the Brahmins. It is only after police intervention taken to advantage, the omission a definition “would appear to be deliberate as the intention presumably was to leave no room or scope for the continuation of the practice in any form or shape.” Does that mean something is dead because it stands abolishing and is re-born? And is it not also true that “untouchables” were for centuries exercising welfare measures to them? Can we define or not the other?

TRAGIC FLIGHT

Nepal has an uncanny record of air tragedies on its mountains but course correction is missing

It was a near-wreck of a crash that occurred on May 12, 2014, a plane flying from Koshi to Darchula crashed near the Umbari Airport, killing 16 people. Ten days later, the same month and on the same route, another aircraft hit a mountain, crashed and erupted off 22. The 2014 flight was operated by Air Dolpo, Nepal’s domestic airline, flying a Dornier Do-228 plane. This time, it was a turbo-prop twin-engine aircraft operating to the Tarai area. The plane came into being in 1974 to help develop rural Nepal, and claiming to be the “newest and biggest” airliner service provider in the Nepalese mountains. However, air tragedies are nothing new in Nepal’s history. There are frequent and inquiry commissions are set up after each accident but hardly any task force are taken for course correction. For one, of the aircraft in the service are old planes, some of which have been second-hand buyers. Another reason is the lack of modern navigational and technical facilities to aid the pilots and air traffic controllers during uncertain weather, which is a frequent and unpredictable phenomenon in mountainous areas. The airlines, in their desire to make a quick buck, resort to undertake tricks like hiring semi-qualified and experienced pilots. The pilots are men for life ‘the life of a pilot’ and in a hurry to fly home to the life of the world’s highest mountains. Involving Everest, is as tough an example of a record, but the pilots are also more likely to lose their heads in the event of an accident.}

How Biden, cops, and advocates forged deal on police, race

President Joe Biden has struck a deal to codify police reform, one of his top legislative priorities, in a politically sensitive compromise that includes the Black Lives Matter movement and summoning the support of some Republicans to advance his agenda.

The agreement, expected to be announced this week, would ban police chokeholds, no-knock warrants in most cases, and a dramatic overhaul of the nation’s preeminent civil rights law.

21 bodies recovered from Tara Air plane crash site in Nepal

The search and rescue operation for the missing passengers of Tara Air flight TG801 has concluded with the recovery of 21 bodies from the crash site.

The accident occurred on March 12, 2023, when the plane crashed in a mountainous region of Nepal. The bodies were retrieved through a joint effort by the Nepali Army, the Nepal Police, and the Chinese military.

Israel PM defends march marked by violence, racism

Bibi, the prime minister of Israel, has defended his decision to allow a far-right march in Jerusalem, which led to violent clashes and racism.

Bibi’s statement comes amid growing criticism of his handling of the situation, with international leaders calling for a peaceful resolution.

The March of the Titans was held on Monday, with thousands of people, mostly from the far-right, participating in the march.

Ukraine: Intense battle going on for key city

AP/BERLIN

Germany’s governing coalition and the main opposition group reached a deal to move ahead with a big increase in defense spending that Chancellor Olaf Scholz said was crucial to anchor the special fund in the Union bloc.

Scholz said three days ago that he needed support from the centre-right opposition in the governing coalition, meaning that the Union bloc wanted to anchor the special fund in the governing coalition.

The Union bloc wanted to use an arrangement similar to that used for payments from Russia to defend itself against illegal sanctions.

Germany defense spending will be set for Eurobond holdings in Ukraine.

Germany defense spending will be set for Eurobond holdings in Ukraine.

"It will contribute to the security of Germany and Europe,” Scholz added.

"It is the right answer to the turning point that started with Russia’s attack on Ukraine."

The Vedomosti business daily quoted Finance Minister Anton Siluanov as saying: "It will be a multi-year average." The German government has set the limits of how far the bloc can go to help the war-torn country.

Some countries like Slovakia set their wheat from Russia and Ukraine.

That’s forcing many people to substitute wheat for other grains. The United Nations is warning that the price hikes are coming as part of a lack of supplies and climate damage.

The U.N. already had warned that 232 million people were already facing severe or extreme hunger. The World Food Programme claimed that Russia’s war on Ukraine is “a cataclysm of unparalleled scale” for the world’s poor.

Crisis: Stressed assets of NBFCs—likely declined to 14% as of end-March 2022

PTI

Stressed assets of non-bank financial companies (NBFCs) are likely to have declined to about 14% as of March-end 2022 from 17.9% as on December 31, 2021, helped by recovery in the second half of 2021, particularly in the third quarter, and the impact of the omicron variant on the economy.

However, stressed assets of NBFCs have marginally increased to 15.3% of the assets as of December 31, 2021 from 14.9% as on September 30, 2021, helped by rise in asset write-offs, and an increase in the likelihood of the occurrence of stress.

The report, which is based on a report released in January by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on stressed assets, said that stressed assets of NBFCs are estimated to have declined by 15% from 12% of the assets as on September 30, 2021, to 10% as of December 31, 2021. The report has been prepared by an expert group-headed by S. S. Mundra, former RBI Governor.

The report said that stressed assets by NBFCs and their branches weakened in 2020-21 due to the impact of the pandemic. This led NBFCs to raise capital, by issuing new capital and debt, to strengthen their balance sheets in the post-Covid scenario.

It also said that the gross non-performing assets (GNPAs) of NBFCs have declined from 5.4% as of December 31, 2020 to 2.2% as of December 31, 2021. The net NPAs of NBFCs also declined from 2.6% to 1.4% during the same period.

The report said that the non-banking financial companies’ (NBFCs) stressed asset ratio improved to 15.3% of assets as of December 31, 2021 from 14.9% as of September 30, 2021.

The report also said that the stressed asset ratio of NBFCs has declined from 17.9% as of December 31, 2021 to 14% as of March-end 2022.

Nadal, who tells Time 36 in Paris, said: "I think that’s the reason why I was able to face all sorts of situations in Paris."

The Spaniard was taken to five sets by Russia’s Daniil Medvedev on his way to winning his 13th Roland Garros title in 2019, and suffered a defeat to France’s Gael Monfils during the French Open quarter-finals last year.

In 2020, he pulled out of the opening round of the French Open with injury and has not been able to play since.

It was Nadal’s first return to Paris since his title in 2019.

He said: "I don’t know if it’s going to be my last in Paris, but it’s very special to play here and I don’t want to leave Paris without having given everything and having been able to fight for another title.

"I feel a lot of emotion at the thought of playing here again."

Nadal, who is on the quest for the 21st Grand Slam title, breaking a tie with fellow Spaniard Rafa Nadal for the most Grand Slam trophies in men’s singles, has lifted the Roland Garros crown 13 times.

He first won the tournament as a 19-year-old in 2005.

"I feel very calm and at peace," he said.

"When I arrived in Paris, I had no doubt that I was coming here to fight for the title."

"I don’t know what the future holds, but I want to enjoy the moment and give my best every day."

Nadal said the mood in his team has been "amazing"

"I think that’s the reason why I was able to face all sorts of situations in Paris."

The Spaniard was taken to five sets by Russia’s Daniil Medvedev on his way to winning his 13th Roland Garros title in 2019, and suffered a defeat to France’s Gael Monfils during the French Open quarter-finals last year.

In 2020, he pulled out of the opening round of the French Open with injury and has not been able to play since.

It was Nadal’s first return to Paris since his title in 2019.

He said: "I don’t know if it’s going to be my last in Paris, but it’s very special to play here and I don’t want to leave Paris without having given everything and having been able to fight for another title.

"I feel a lot of emotion at the thought of playing here again."

Nadal, who is on the quest for the 21st Grand Slam title, breaking a tie with fellow Spaniard Rafa Nadal for the most Grand Slam trophies in men’s singles, has lifted the Roland Garros crown 13 times.

He first won the tournament as a 19-year-old in 2005.

"I feel very calm and at peace," he said.
