Jain's 'massage' video inside Tihar sparks row

BJP files police plaint against Jain, Kejriwal; jailed Min's team seeks contempt action against ED

STAFF REPORTER NEW DELHI

 $A^{ ext{massive face-off between}}$ the BJP and the AAP erupted on Saturday. The BJP filed a police complaint against jailed Delhi Minister Satyendar , Jain and Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal after a purported video of Jain getting massage inside his cell in Tihar Jail got leaked and went viral.

In response, Jain's legal team moved a special court seeking contempt action against ED alleging that it leaked the CCTV video despite their undertaking given in court. Special Judge Vikas Dhull issued notice to the ED and will hear the matter on November 21

Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Sisodia accused the BJP of leaking Jain's videos and claimed that he was undergoing physiotherapy for a spine injury. Sisodia said Jain had "fallen down in the jail and was injured" for which he was receiving treatment. "Anyone can fall ill and need treatment, even someone in jail. But, to do dirty politics on someone's illness...Only the BJP can do this," Sisodia said, adding, "Jain was admitted in hospital and had undergone two surgeries. Doctors also recommended regular physiotherapy."

"Now you release video of it and make fun of it. Aren't you ashamed?" the Deputy CM

'They (BJP) are losing the MCD and Gujarat polls and that is why they are resorting to such cheap theatrics. They should fight the polls to the Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD) on issues," he

Sunil Gupta, former PRO of Tihar Jail, however, was quoted by news agency ANI saying the video makes it clear that co-prisoners were giving the Minister a massage.

"The massage that he was being given inside the cell is not permissible under jail rules. As far as physiotherapy is concerned, in every jail, there's a physiotherapy centre where massage can be given by a physiotherapist or a trained expert," he said.

In the meanwhile, jailed conman Sukesh er letter claiming Jain called him at 2 o'clock in February 2017 seeking his help to convert $20 million in Indian rupees and bitcoin. He claimed Jain told him the money had to be collected from his business associates who run a famous distillery in Bengaluru.

Jain mentioned that the amount was being given to AAP and insisted it be converted and sent to Delhi by 11 am, Chandrasekhar alleged. Several video clips showing Jain getting body massage in Delhi's Tihar jail have gone viral. In the videos, the AAP leader can be seen lying on a bed and getting a foot and hand massage from a man in Tihar Jail. A bunch of bottled water is also visible in one of the videos. In one video, the man can be seen giving a bundle of documents to Jain.

The AAP leader can be seen in the video reading some documents and a man in a white T-shirt massaging his legs. The Delhi Prisons department comes under the AAP-led city Government. The video also shows three other people in his cell besides the masseur on another day. The videos surfaced days after Enforcement Directorate told the court that Jain is getting VIP treatment in

Kashi-Tamil Sangamam holy, unique: Modi

RAMATMA SRIVASTAVA

Throwing light on the tradi-tion of remembering 12 Jyotirlingas after waking up in the morning, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on Saturday, said we start our day by remembering the spiritual unity of the country but there had been lack of efforts to strengthen this tradition and heritage of thousands of years.

Kashi-Tamil Sangamam will become a platform for this resolution today while making us realise our duties and becoming a source of energy to strengthen national unity. Índia is a nation which has lived a natural cultural unity for thousands of years," he said. While kicking off the monthlong Kashi-Tamil Sangamam in Amphitheatre Ground of Banaras Hindu University here, Modi said every confluence of culture and traditions is celebrated and revered in India and added that in reality, it is a celebration of India's might and characteristics, thus making the Kashi-Tamil Sangam unique.

Speaking about the connection between Kashi and Tamil Nadu, the Prime Minister said on one hand, Kashi was the cultural capital of India whereas Tamil Nadu

Shah: India pushing for permanent secretariat for 'No Money for Terror'

RNI No. 53466/91, REGD. No. DL (C)-05/1219/2021-23 Posted at DRMS Delhi 6

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday exhort-ed countries to adopt a strategy of "Trace, Target and Terminate" for economic crimes, and identify and act against institutions radicalising the youth.

He announced that India is pushing for a permanent sec-retariat here for "No Money for Terror", a multilateral counterterrorism financing agency.

While delivering his concluding remarks at the closing session of 3rd No Money For Terror (NMFT) Conference (Counter-Terrorism Financing) here, the Home Minister said during these two days of the conference, the delegates discussed emerging trends in terror financing, misuse of new emerging financial technologies, and international cooperation in the field of terror financing to effectively achieve the objective of No Money for

During the deliberations, India has sensed the need for permanency of this unique initiative of NMFT, in order to sustain the continued global focus on countering the financing of terrorism and now the time is ripe for a permanent Secretariat to be established.

US cites Modi's example on giving immunity to Saudi Crown Prince

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE

With the US Government facing criticism for giving immunity from prosecution Mohammed Bin Salman, it has said even Prime Minister Narendra Modi was accorded the same protection. The Joe Biden Administration has drawn ire for giving immunity to the Saudi Prince over the alleged killing of journalist Jamal Khashoggi in which he is an accused.

Asked about this protection, US State Department Principal Deputy Spokesperson Vedant Patel said Modi was among those who had received similar protection.

"This is not the first time that the United States has done this. It is a longstanding and consistent line of effort. It has been applied to a number of heads of state previously," Patel

Aftab's CCTV clip with bag seen, cops suspect Shraddha's body parts

m he\ Delhi\ Police}$ on Saturday got hold of a CCTV footage of Aftab Poonawala of October carrying a bag which cops believe has victim Shraddha Walkar's body parts. The police is said to have also recovered three more bones in the Mehrauli forest that could reportedly belong to the victim.

Meanwhile, the police team that is in Palghar for further investigation of the case has recorded the statements of Rahul Roy and Godwin two of Shraddha's friends. The team is also trying to trace Aftab's family but their whereabouts are yet to be found.

The CĆTV footage shows Aftab carrying a bag and moving out of a lane near his house in Chattarpur, Mehrauli.

Although it's difficult to see his face, police, however, have claimed that the man in the footage is Aftab. This is the first visual CCTV footage that has come to light. The Delhi Police sources said they will interrogate Aftab in connection with the CCTV footage and if he was carrying the dismembered body parts of Shraddha.

A Delhi Police team is in Manikpur in Palghar district's Vasai, which is the native area of the victim and where the couple had stayed before shifting to the national Capital. As per the police official, Walkar had sought their assistance in 2020 after she was beaten up by Aftab near Vasai, and the duo had helped her at the time.

Giving details of these two witnesses, the official said one of them is a rickshaw driver and the other is currently unemployed. The four-member Delhi Police team, which landed in Mumbai on Friday had earlier recorded the statement of Shraddha's friend Laxman Nadar, the official

Need to learn to trust district judiciary, says CJI

hief Justice of India D Y Chandrachud on Saturday stressed the need to learn to trust the district judiciary, saying it would truly answer the needs of common citizens who seek access to justice.

Justice Chandrachud, the 50th CJI, said the district judiciary is as important in the affairs of the nation's judicial system as is the Supreme Court and high courts.

Speaking at a function organised by the Bar Council of India (BCI) to felicitate him on being appointed as the CJI, Justice Chandrachud talked about the use of technology in judiciary, district judiciary, judicial infrastructure, legal education and women in the judicial system.

"So the process of dispensing justice is so intrinsically human that we have to learn to trust our district judiciary because it is when we learn to trust our district judiciary that we will truly answer the needs of our common citizens who seek access to justice," he said, adding, The way we look at district judiciary affects deeply our own personal liberty as citizens."

The CJI said the higher judiciary is getting "flooded" with bail matters because of the reluctance at the grassroots level to grant bail. "And why judges at the grassroots are reluctant to grant bail, not because they don't have the ability, not because the judges at the grassroots don't understand the crime," he said, adding there is a "sense of fear"

Pak infiltrator killed along LoC in Nowshera

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE

A Pakistani infiltrator was killed along the Line of Control in the Nowshera sector of Rajouri district late Friday night. According to a Jammu based Defence Spokesman, "an infiltration bid was foiled in the Nowshera sector on the intervening night of 17/18 at around 11.00 pm". The infiltrator was killed while he was negotiating a minefield in the forward area. The Defence spokesman said, the dead body of the infiltrator was recovered along with warlike stores on Saturday.

The three soldiers who were part of a patrol party near the LoC in Machhal Sector, Kupwara, were hit by a massive snow slide while they were shifting another soldier diagnosed with hyperthermia.

The soldiers who sacrificed their lives in the line of duty have been identified as Gunner Souvik Hazra, Lance Naik Mukesh Kumar and Naik Gaikwad Manoj Laxman Rao.

According to a Srinagar based Defence Spokesman, Naik Gaikwad Manoj Laxman Rao was forty one years old and had joined the Army in 2002. He belonged to Village Chunchkkede, Post Dhule, Tehsil, Dhule District in Maharashtra. The braveheart is survived by his wife. Lance Naik Mukesh Kumar was twenty two years old and had joined the Army in 2018.

Activist Navlakha walks out of prison, to stay under house arrest

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Gautam Navlakha, an accused in Elgar Parishad-Maoists links case, was released from prison on Saturday evening and taken to a building in Navi Mumbai where he will be living under house arrest for a month.

His release from Taloia prison in Navi Mumbai after more than two years came nine days after the Supreme Court earlier this month granted his plea seeking house arrest on medical grounds.

Navlakha, 70, walked out prison around 6 pm. A police team took him to a building in Belapur-Agroli area of Navi Mumbai where he would be staying. Earlier in the day, judge Rajesh Katariya of the special court for National Investigation Agency (NIA) cases here issued his 'release memo'. On November 10, the Supreme Court, in response to his application, directed that he be put under house arrest for a month with certain conditions. The order should be implemented within 48 hours, the court said. But the NIA, which is probing the Elgar case, moved the apex court again contending that Navlakha, being a charge-sheeted accused in a case involving threat to the national security and integrity, did not deserve any relaxation.

J&K police conduct raids in connection with journalists being threatened

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE

Sleuths of Jammu and Kashmir police on Saturday conducted surprise raids across one dozen locations in order to track down the footprints of perpetrators behind issuing terror threat to some of the Kashmir based journalists.

"Kashi and Tamil Nadu are marked as the birthplaces and workplaces of India's finest acharyas and one can experience similar energies in these both places," he said, adding that even today, the relevance of Kashi Yatra comes up during the traditional Tamil marriage Modi underlined that unending love for Kashi from Tamil Nadu signifies the feeling of Ek Bharat Shreshtha Bharat which was the way of life of our ancestors. The Prime Minister remembered Tamil Nadu's scholars Dr Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, Rajeshwar Shastri, Pattaviram Shastri who lived in Kashi and said that there was also Kashi Kaam Koteshwar Panchayatan Mandir which was a Tamilian temple on the banks of Harishchandra Ghat besides the 200-year-old Kumarswamy Matt and Markandeya Ashram on Kedar Ghat.

"Many people from Tamil Nadu have been living near the banks of Kedar Ghat and Hanuman Ghat, and have made immense contributions towards Kashi for several generations," Modi said while linking the cultural and spiritual relation between Kashi and Tamil Nadu.

He added that the great poet and revolutionary Subramania Bharathi hailed from Tamil Nadu but lived in Kashi for many years and the BHU has established a chair dedicated to Subramania Bharathi.

Qatar has faced a litany of criticism since 2010, when it was chosen by FIFA to host the biggest soccer tournament in the world. Migrant labourers who built Qatar's World Cup stadiums often worked long hours under harsh conditions and were subjected to discrimination, wage theft and other abuses as their employers evaded accountability, Londonbased rights group Equidem said in a 75-page report released this month. Infantino defended the country's immigration policy, and praised the government for bringing in migrants to work.

"We in Europe, we close our borders and we don't allow practically any worker from those countries, who earn obviously very low income, to work legally in our countries," Infantino said. "If Europe would really care about the destiny of these people, these young people, then Europe could also do as Qatar did.

Jain's 'massage'...

Responding to the leaked videos, BJP IT chief Amit Malviya tweeted, "Despite being in jail for last five months, Jain continues to be a Minister in Arvind Kejriwal's Cabinet. He has been provided a masseur, TV, bed, bottled water and all facilities, in gross violation of jail rules. Why would Kejriwal not sack him? What is he scared of?"

BJP national spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia, questioned Kejriwal's silence over the issue of VVIP culture. "The AAP has become Spa-Massage Party," he said while addressing a Press conference on Saturday citing the videos that went viral on social media and challenged Kejriwal to explain Jain's conduct in the jail. "Where is Kejriwal hidden now? Jain can be seen enjoying massage and meeting visitors in his cell in total violation of rules and prison laws. This VVIP culture in jail is dangerous for democracy," Bhatia said.

"It seems that the man who comes to massage Jain is sent by Kejriwal. In a video, the man can be seen giving a bundle of documents to Jain which he then checks. The documents were given on the directions of Kejriwal," Bhatia said. The police complaint was filed by BJP leaders Pravesh Sahib Singh Verma, Manjinder Singh Sirsa and Tajinder Singh Bagga against the Chief Minister Kejriwal, Jain and Tihar officials for "blatantly misusing authority" in this regard.

national Congress spokesperson Alka Lamba also lashed out at the AAP and questioned why Kejriwal had not yet removed Jain from his post. Referring to the video, Lamba said it looked less like a jail barrack and more like a hotel room. "Kejriwal should answer what is his compulsion that he has not yet sacked his reference Minister Jain from the post? If you look at the viral video, it looks less like a jail barrack and more like a hotel room," Lamba said. Lamba further alleged that with the kind of facilities being provided to Jain in jail, "it is confirmed that the allegations levelled against him by a thug (like) Sukesh Chandrashekhar seem to be true".

According to Tihar jail sources, the video is old. The jail authorities have already taken action against concerned officers and jail staff.

office bearers of PFI PNS NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Saturday filed a chargesheet against several office bearers of Popular Front of India (PFI) before a special court here.

The chargesheeted accused are President Perwez Ahmad, General Secretary Mohammad Ilias, and Officer Secretary Abdul Muqeet of PFI Delhi. According to the ED

chargesheet, the accused persons have revealed that they have played an active role in bogus cash donations on behalf of PFI and in claiming and projecting PFI's unaccounted cash raised through unknown and suspicious sources as untainted and legitimate.

The ED filed the chargesheet before a special court here.

"Fresh complaint under section 44 r/w section 45 of Prevention of Money Laundering (PML) Act for the commission of an offence under section 3 r/w section 70 of PML Act has been filed. It be checked and registered. Put up for consideration before the

concerned court on November

21, 2022," the court noted. The ED also alleged that the PMLA investigation has revealed that as a part of a criminal conspiracy hatched by PFI office bearers over the past many years, suspicious funds from within the country and abroad have been raised by PFI and related entities and have been clandestinely remitted to India in a concealed manner and deposited in their bank accounts over the years.

"These funds have been raised as a part of the scheduled offence of criminal conspiracy. The funds so raised or collected by PFI are thus nothing but proceeds of crime which they have layered, placed and integrated through their numerous bank accounts as well as those of their members or sympathizers. Thus PFI and its related entities have been involved in the continuous offence of money laundering over the years," ÉD alleged.

The agency had alleged that Perwez Ahmad was part of a criminal conspiracy since 2018. "He admitted to having looked after the collection of funds in Delhi. Investigation revealed that such fund collection exercise was a sham and was falsely projected to be received from PFI sympathizers whereas statements of individuals, projected as contributors, revealed that these transactions were bogus. Hence, cash from suspicious sources was nothing but proceeds of crime generated out of criminal conspiracy," it said in its chargesheet.

"The non-cooperative and evasive attitude of Perwez Ahmad along with his deliberate attempts to avoid joining the investigation in light of the fresh evidence viz. the statement of so-called donors and the evidence seized from various locations during searches, in this case, create further suspicion about his activities and involvement in money laundering activities," ED further alleged

ED leaked 'massage' footage to media, alleges Jain

ON JAILED MINISTER JAIN'S PLEA, JUDGE SEEKS ED'S RESPONSE BY MONDAY

STAFF REPORTER NEW DELHI

Tailed AAP Minister Satyendar Jain on Saturday moved a court seeking contempt proceedings against the Enforcement Directorate for allegedly leaking CCTV footage to the media in which he is seen receiving massage inside Tihar Jail.

Special Judge Vikas Dhull issued a notice to the ED on Jain's plea, asking the agency to file its response by Monday. Jain's legal team alleged that ED has leaked the CCTV video despite the undertaking given in the court. In his plea, the AAP leader has accused the ED of leaking the CCTV footage "despite an undertaking given in the court" that no material related to the case will be divulged to the media.

"Special court issues contempt of court notice to ED on Satyendar Jain's application for leaking Tihar CCTV footage to BJP & others. The court will hear on Monday how did BJP get the confidential footage and why it was circulated?" Satyendar Jain's lawyer Mohd Irshad tweeted.

A CCTV video of Delhi minister Satyendar Jain getting a full body massage in Tihar Jail emerged on social media on Saturday morning - two days after demands to shift the minister from the prison were raised by the BJP

The purported CCTV footage dated September 13 shows the minister lying on his bed and reading some papers while a man sitting next to him is seen massaging his foot. The leaked videos have created a political storm in the national capital, as the opposi-tion BJP lashed out at the AAP, questioning the chief minister Arvind Kejriwal's silent on the issue.

In another video, shared by BJP national spokesperson Shehzad Poonawalla on his official Twitter handle, a man is massaging the Delhi minis-ter's legs and back before proceeding to give him a full head massage.

Earlier during a bail hearing, the ED had accused Jain of getting special treatment inside the jail. The court had earlier ordered the ED as well as Jain's legal team to not leak any content of affidavits or video related to the case to the media, and had taken their undertakings in that regard. The court had, however, refused to put any restriction on, or pass any direction to the media. The court had on November 17 denied bail to Jain and two others in the case.

Need for int'l watchdog to monitor nations financing terror: Shah to FATF chief

PNS NEW DELHI

In an indirect reference to Pakistan, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday told the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) chief T Raja Kumar that there is a need for the international watchdog on terror financing and money laundering to continuously monitor the tendencies of some countries to sponsor terrorism. Shah's meeting with FATF chief was one among the number of bilateral meetings he had on the sidelines of the two-day 'No Money For Terror (NMFT)'

"In the bilateral meeting with FATF President, Shri T Raja Kumar, Home Minister @AmitShah while appreciating the role of FATF, emphasised that there is need for FATF to continuously monitor the tendencies of some of the countries to sponsor terrorism," Amit Shah's office tweeted.

Kumar lauded the initiative taken by India for hosting the 'No Money For Terror (NMFT)' conference and expressed the willingness of FATF to work closely on Anti-Money Laundering/Combating the Financing of Terrorism (AML/CFT) issues under India's G-20 priorities.

India will never give up on quest to ensure justice: Jaishankar

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE

India along with other like-minded partners will fight terrorism and will never give up on the quest to ensure justice, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar said here on Saturday. He also stressed the need for an "undifferentiated and undiluted" approach to dealing with terrorism and urged nations to rise above political divides to address the peril in apparent reference to Pakistan and China.

Underlining the country's resolve to face the scourge of terrorism, Jaishankar said the scale and intensity of terrorist threats have increased in recent years due to the continued tendency of some to use terrorism as a tool of state-craft and the willingness of others to justify and obfuscate that.

Addressing the 'No Money for Terror' conference, the minister said "Terror is terror and no political spin can ever justify it. The world needs to rise above political divides to address this peril. The battle against terrorism must be fought resolutely on all fronts, in all situations and at all Cautioning about the challenge, Jaishankar said the terror threat has increased as terrorists tend to access advancements in technology more readily than law enforcement and security systems. He cited the resurgence of radical ideologies and their more seamless spread, along with motivational messages, inter-penetration and interdependence of globalization that opens up new vulnerabilities, including in financial transactions, as the reasons for the growing scope, scale and intensity of terror threats in recent years. patriotism, her staunch secularism', says Sonia

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI

Former Congress president Sonia Gandhi on Saturday said former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi left an indelible mark on the country and even her critics recognise her commitment to "all-inclusive patriotism, her staunch secularism" and empathy for the poor. Sonia was speaking at an event to present the 2021 Indira Gandhi prize for peace, disarmament and development. She said those who have received the award have exemplified the values Indira Gandhi cherished, the ideals she espoused, and the causes she championed.

The award was given to 'Pratham', a non-governmental organisation working for providing quality education to all children.

"Every once in a while institutions and organisations too are recognised for their contributions in areas very close to her (Indira Gandhi's) heart. Today is one such occasion," Sonia Gandhi said. The prize was presented by former vice president M Hamid Ansari to the NGO for its pioneering work over more than 25 years towards seeking to ensure every child has access to quality education, for its innovative use of digital technology to deliver education, for its programmes to provide skills to young adults and for its regular evaluation of the quality of education and timely response in enabling children to learn during the Covid-related school closures. "Indira Gandhi left an indelible imprint on our country. She continues to be applauded and admired for her numerous achievements. Even her critics recognise that there was an unchanging core to her personality, that defined who she was and what she did that is, her fierce commitment to an all-inclusive patriotism; her staunch secularism; her indomitable courage and fortitude; her empathy for the poor and instinctive rapport with the people," she said. "Her unwavering support to self-reliance in all fields, especially in science and technology; her firm belief in the value of education as an instrument of social emancipation and empowerment; and her passionate conviction in environmental conservation and protection of biodiversity, even as India strove for a faster pace of economic growth," the former Congress chief said. Sonia Gandhi, who is the chairperson of Indira Gandhi Memorial Trust Chairperson, said Indira Gandhi would have been pleased that this prize for 2021 is recognising work done in the field of education.

"As she once said, 'Education is a means to place at the service of common people scientific and other knowledge that is acquired, and not just a means of earning a livelihood'. Literacy, she stressed frequently, is not enough; she quoted Swami Vivekananda's tant is not what one knows, but what one becomes, and I quote, 'We must have life-building, man-making, character-making education."

Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge and Rajasthan chief minister Ashok Gehlot were also present at the function, besides a host of other Congress leaders.

'We survived': Kherson comes alive after Russian withdrawal

week since the southern AUkrainian city of Kherson was liberated, residents can't escape reminders of the terrifying eight months they spent under Russian occupation: missing people, mines every-where, closed shops and restau-rants, a scarcity of electricity and water — and explosions day and night as Russian and Ukrainian forces battle just across the Dnieper River.

Despite these hardships, Kherson residents are expressing a mix of relief, optimism, and even joy - not least because of their regained freedom to express themselves at all.

"Even breathing became easier. Everything is different now," said Olena Smoliana, a pharmacist whose eyes shone with happiness as she recalled Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky gives a speech to the media in Kherson, southern Ukraine, Ukraine's retaking of Kherson was a significant setback for the Kremlin and it came some six weeks after Russian President Vladimir Putin annexed the Kherson region and three other provinces in southern and eastern Ukraine in breach of international law and declared them the day Ukrainian soldiers entered the city. Kherson's population has dwindled to around 80,000 from its prewar level near 300,000, but the city is slowly coming alive. Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy tri-umphantly walked the streets on Monday, hailing Russia's withdrawal - a humiliating defeat for Russian President Vladimir Putin - as the "beginning of the end of the war.

People are no longer afraid to leave home, or worried that contact with Russian soldiers might lead to a prison or torture

They are gathering in city squares - adorned with blueand-yellow ribbons on their bags and jackets - to recharge phones, collect water, or talk with neighbours and relatives.

"If we survived the occupation, we will survive this without any problems," said Yulia Nenadyschuk, 53, who had been hunkered down at home with her husband, Oleksandr, since the Russian invasion began but now comes downtown every day.

The worst deprivation was the lack of freedom to be yourself, which was like being in a "cage," she said."You couldn't say anything out loud, you couldn't speak Ukrainian," said Oleksandr Nenadyschuk, 57. We were constantly being watched, you couldn't even look around."

Residents of Kherson talk about the "silent terror" that defined their occupation, which was different than the devastating military siege that turned other Ukrainian cities - such as Mariupol, Sievierodonetsk, and Lysychansk - to rubble. Russian early days of the war from nearby Crimea, which it illegally annexed in 2014, and shortly after that, it was occupied.

People mostly communicate in Russian in Kherson. Early on in the war some residents there were tolerant of neighbours who sympathised with Russia, but over the past nine months there has been a palpable shift, said Smoliana, the pharmacist.

"I'm even ashamed to speak Russian," she said. "They oppressed us emotionally and physically." Many people fled the city, but some just disappeared. Khrystyna Yuldasheva, 18, works in a shop across street from a building Russian police used as a detention centre and where Ukrainian officials are investigating allegations of torture and abuse.

Explosion kills at least 9 on Russia's island of Sakhalin

Moscow: A gas explosion in an apartment building Saturday killed at least nine people, including four chil-dren, on the island of Sakhalin in far eastern Russia, according local authorities.

A section of the five-story building in the town of Tymovskoye collapsed after a gas cylinder exploded in one of the apartments at around 5:30 am Moscow time, authorities said. Rescue teams were searching for more victims under the rubble, Sakhalin Governor Valery Limarenko wrote on Telegram. (AP)

Kim observing a weapons launch with his family suggests that he is emboldened by his advancing nuclear program. Friday's launch was part of the North's ongoing barrage of missile tests that are seen as an attempt to expand its arsenal and boost its leverage in future diplomacy

Some foreign experts said the Hwasong-17 missile is still under development but is the North's longest-range ballistic weapon designed to carry multiple nuclear warheads to defeat US missile defence systems.

KCNA said the missile fired from Pyongyang International Airport travelled up to a maximum altitude of about 6,040 kilometres and flew a distance of about 1,000 kilometres before it landed on the preset area in international waters off the country's east

French-speaking nations hold summit in Tunisia

AP ■ TUNIS (TUNISIA)

Leaders of French-speaking countries gathered on Saturday on a Tunisian island to discuss debt relief, migration, food and energy shortages, with a soaring cost of living across Africa, Europe and the Middle East due to war in Ukraine as the backdrop. President

French Emmanuel Macron, Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and the presidents of six African nations were attending the 18th annual meeting of the 88-member International Organization of Francophonie, which promotes relations among nations that use French as their primary language.

President Charles Michel also was in Tunisia for the two-day summit, the organisation's first gathering in three years following pandemic lockdowns and travel restrictions.

Louise Mushikiwabo, the group's secretary-general and Rwanda's former foreign minister, said the participants plan to issue a final declaration on major political, social and economic issues after the summit ends on Sunday.

They will also focus on ways to boost the use of the French language around Europe and in international institutions as its use declines compared to English", Mushikiwabo said.

sraeli airstrikes hit central Land coastal regions of Syria early Saturday, killing four soldiers and wounding one, the Syrian military said. State media quoted an unidentified Syrian military official as saying that Israeli warplanes flying over the Mediterranean fired missiles toward military positions in coastal and central Syria.

The Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, an opposition war monitor, reported that load explosions were heard in the coastal province of Latakia as well as Hama and Homs regions in central Syria. It gave no further details. Israel has carried out hundreds of strikes on targets inside government-controlled parts of Syria in recent years, but rarely acknowledges or discusses such operations.

provincial elections today

Nepal set for national and

PTI KATHMANDU

m epal}$ will hold national and provincial elections on Sunday which the Nepali Congress-led ruling coalition is expected to win but unlikely to provide much-needed political stability in the country sandwiched between India and China.

More than 17.9 million people are eligible to vote in seven provinces across the Himalayan nation. The polling will start at 7 am local time and close at 5 pm. Out of a total of 275 members of the federal Parliament, 165 will be elected remaining 110 will be elected through a proportional electoral system. Similarly, out of a total of 550 members of the Provincial Assembly, 330 will be elected directly and 220 will be elected through the proportional method.

The counting of the votes will begin soon after the polling ends but the final results can take a few days.

Political observers closely watching the elections have predicted a hung parliament and a government that is unlikely to provide the required political stability in Nepal.

Political instability has been a recurrent feature of Nepal's Parliament since end of the decade-long Maoist insurgency, and no prime minister has served a full term after the civil war ended in 2006. The frequent changes and fighting among parties have been blamed for a slow economy.

Maldives Min: negotiators reach deal on climate fund

AP SHARM EL SHEIKH (EGYPT)

Negotiators say they have struck a potential breakthrough deal on the thorniest issue of United Nations climate talks, creation of a fund for compensating poor nations that are victims of extreme weather worsened by rich nations' carbon pollution.

"There is an agreement on loss and damage," which is what negotiators call the concept, Maldives Environment Minister Aminath Shauna told The Associated Press on Saturday

It still needs to be approved unanimously in a vote later today. "That means for countries like our we will have the mosaic of solutions that we have been advocating for.' Saturday afternoon's draft proposal came from the Egyptian presidency. A second overarching document from the climate talks leadership ignores India's call to phase down oil and natural gas, in addition to last year's agreement to wean the world from "unabated"

According to the draft of the compensation proposal the issue is called "loss and damage" in negotiations pardeveloped countries would be "urged" to contribute to the fund, which would also draw on other private and public sources of money such as international financial insti-

Differences intensify in Pak Govt over appointment of new Army chief

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD

Differences seem to have intensified in the Pakistan government over the appointment of the new Army chief with top brasses of the ruling coalition making contradictory statements on the key issue.

The appointment of a successor to Army chief General Oamar Javed Bajwa, 61, who is set to retire on November 29. is an administrative matter. Under the law, the incumbent prime minister is empowered to select any one of the top three-star generals.

But politically it means installing someone who may pull the strings and even determine the fate of the person who appointed him. Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif on Friday initiated the keenly anticipated consultations with his govern-appointment of a new Army chief, even as Defence Minister Khawaja Asif revealed that a name would be announced by Tuesday or Wednesday, the Dawn News reported on Saturday.

Interestingly, Interior Minister Rana Sanaullah said consultations had been completed and the new Army chief would be appointed in a day or

Export duty on steel, iron ore cut; tax on raw material imports hiked

The government has cut the The government may care export duty on steel products and iron ore with effect from Saturday in order to provide a fillip to the domestic steel industry and boost exports.

Besides, import duty on anthracite, coking coal and ferronickel — used as raw material in the steel industry -- has been hiked, as per a finance ministry notification issued late on Friday.

The export duty concessions and import tax have been restored after a gap of six months. In May, the tariffs were tweaked in the wake of a sharp and steady rise in prices of steel and in order to augment the availability both of finished steel as well as raw materials required for steel manufac-

With effect from Saturday, exports of specified pig iron and steel products as well as iron ore pellets will attract 'nil' export duty.

Also, export duty on outward shipment of iron ore lumps and fines with less than

58 per cent iron content will be

In the case of iron ore lumps and fines with more than 58 per cent iron, the rate of duty will be 30 per cent.

As per the notification, import duty on anthracite/PCI, coking coal and ferronickel has been hiked to 2.5 per cent, while for coke and semi-coke it has been raised to 5 per cent, from 'nil' earlier.

The duty cut follows a meeting of Steel Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia with Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman earlier this week.

Steel industry welcomes duty cut on steel exports

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The government's decision to I remove export duty on steel items will boost demand for steel, industry members said on Saturday.

The government has cut the export duty on steel products and iron ore with effect from November 19, 2022 -- six months after imposition of the levy on May 21.

As per a finance ministry notification issued late night on Friday, exports of specified pig iron and steel products as well as iron ore pellets will attract 'nil' export duty. "It will be a big sentimental booster to revive domestic steel demand, particularly when the global steel demand is on a steep decline," Seshagiri Rao, Joint MD, JSW Steel & Group CFO said.

Foreign currency assets consist of the effect of appreciation or depreciation of non-US currencies like the euro, pound, and the yen held in the foreign exchange reserves.

Gold reserves increased by USD 2.64 billion to USD 39.70

In the week to October 21, the reserves had fallen by USD 117.93 billion to USD 524.52

The reserves had climbed by USD 16.7 billion in the week to August 27, 2021, but the addition included USD 12.6 billion of one-time Covid restructuring support from the International Monetary Fund

According to a treasury head at a private sector bank, the record USD 14.7-billion surge is due to the impact of an estimated USD 8 billion worth of recent overseas currency purchases by the RBI. The sharp jump is also driven by a softer dollar and changes in the central bank's forward book.

According to the Reserve Bank's weekly statistical sup-plement, despite the massive accretion in the reporting week, the forex kitty is still down from around USD 630 billion at the beginning of this year. The reserves peaked in September 2021 at over USD 642 billion.

The RBI has sold a portion of the reserves to prevent a sharp fall in the rupee since the Ukraine war began.

The Reserve Bank has sold USD 10.36 billion worth of foreign currency on a net basis in September. The rupee tumbled from around 79.5 per dollar to over 81.5 in September. It plunged to a record low of 83.29 in October.

The rupee climbed 2.3 per cent between October 21 and November 11, and closed at 81.74 on Friday, down 10 paise.

The rupee logged its first weekly fall in four weeks due to weakness in Asian currencies. The domestic unit declined by 96 paise or 1.18 per cent in the week to Friday.

gets Sebi's nod to float IPO PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Yatra Online

Yatra Online Inc said its Indian subsidiary Yatra Online Ltd has received capital markets regulator Sebi's clearance to float an initial public offering (IPO).

The proposed IPO comprises a fresh issue of equity shares worth up to Rs 750 crore by Yatra India and an offer for sale (OFS) of up to 9,328,358 equity shares, according to the draft red herring prospectus (DRHP).

As part of the OFS, THCL Travel Holdings Cyprus Ltd and Pandara Trust - Scheme I through its trustee Vistra ITCL (India) would offload shares.

Yatra Online Ltd has received the final observation letter dated November 17 from Sebi in connection with its DRHP filed in March, the Nasdaq-listed Yatra Online Inc said in a statement. In Sebi's parlance, receiving an observation letter implies its go ahead to float the IPO. The proposed IPO can open for subscription within a period of 12 months from the date of issuance of the observation letter, the statement

"The style of capitalism that drives growth for the sake of growth and ignores the social fabric of a society, is rightfully facing its greatest pushback ever," he said.

Crowdsourcing ideas can help auditors meet stake holders' expectations: NFRA

PTI NEW DELHI

To boost the quality of audits, NFRA chief Ajay Bhushan Prasad Pandey has pitched for crowdsourcing efforts to identify risks as that will help auditors in meeting stakeholders' expectations as well as in looking at new risk The moot question of meeting the expectations of stakeholders is not being rightly addressed as the solution to the underlying cause is getting postponed or wished away by excessive dissection of something called 'audit expectation gap", he added.

Citing the Brydon review report in the aftermath of the Carillion failure in the UK, Pandey said he tends to agree with the view that the problem is not one of expectations, rather there is a grave 'delivery gap' when it comes to audit. Carillion Group plc, which was a leading construction and services company, went into liquidation in 2018.

"In the era of internet and a need to leverage them and evolve suitable mechanisms and means for the 'two way' communication between the stakeholders and auditors, of course via the audit commitanika Batra became the first Indian paddler to win a medal Lin the ITTF-ATTU Asian Cup after shocking world number six Hina Hayata of Japan in the Bronze play-off here on Saturday.

MANIKA BATRA WINS HISTORIC BRONZE AT ASIAN CUP 1

The world number 44 defeated Hayata 4-2 (11-6, 6-11, 11-7, 12-10, 4-11, 11-2) to achieve the incredible feat. Besides the historic Bronze, Manika will also carry home $10,000 for her efforts.

"This win is a huge one for me, defeating the top players. I enjoyed playing and fighting well against them to achieve a fantastic result. I will continue putting the extra yard in all my future tournaments. I expect all of you to extend your full support," said an emotional Manika.

Earlier in the day, Manika lost 2-4 (8-11, 11-7, 7-11, 6-11, 11-8, 7-11) to the second-seeded Mima Ito in the semifinals. Despite Ito beginning shakily, the Indian player with a percentage play befitting her reputation and rankings.

Manika's fighting qualities came to the fore in the fourth game of the Bronze-medal playoff when she was down in the dumps, with the fourth-seed Hayata holding the upper hand with four game points at 10-6.

That was when Manika launched herself, using all the tricks in her bag, attacking the flanks with crispy forehands, including some counters that brooked no challenge, and using the backhand punches to good effect and with precise place-At deuce, the Japanese had the service, but an unforeseen fault — Hayata's service hit the net, and the ball dropped on her side to go down - enabled Manika to go up with a luck point (11-10) and take the winning point when she had the service back with her.

However, the Japanese ran with a good lead in the next to reduce the marthe sixth game, attacking from the word go and allowing her opponent the first point at 3-1. She claimed another point at 5-2, but that was all she could manage.

With frustration setting in, the Japanese became more error-prone, unable to keep the ball on the table even as Manika went from strength to strength to finish the game 11-2. On her way to the bronze, Manika upset world number 7 Chen Xingtong from China in the round of 16, then accounted for 23-rd ranked Chen Szu-Yu 4-3 of Taipei in the quarterfinals.

Manika on Friday ensured the best finish by an Indian in the 39-year-old history of the Asian Cup after Achanta Sharath Kamal and G Sathiyan had finished sixth in 2015 and 2019 respectively.

The $200,000 event featured the top 16 players in the men's and women's singles from the continent based on world rankings and qualifications.

Qatar faces acid test in World Cup opener

AP ■ DOHA

Qatar will finally get their home World Cup under way on Sunday, 12 years after the nation's successful bid put into motion wide-ranging preparations which cost billions of dollars.

Gulf state has spent $200 billion on hosting football's biggest event and Qatar will get its first glimpse at the final product at the Al Bayt Stadium in Al Khor when the hosts take on Ecuador.

lion of the 3.1 million tickets have been sold and they will be expecting a 60,000 sell-out on

The home team's players have also been preparing tirelessly, spending months outside Qatar in isolated training camps, knockout phase on their World

"Our situation is different (compared to other teams) and we have to work with what we've got," coach Felix Sanchez told a press conference on the eve of the tournament.

"It's true it's a massive sac rifice, many time away from our families and abroad and this shows the commitment of the players to compete and it all starts tomorrow

The Group A match, which Monday to allow Qatar to play in the opening game, will be an acid test for the hosts both on and off the pitch.

FIFA and the tournament organisers will be hoping the kick-off can help put several controversies in the shade.

Oatar has faced criticism over its human rights record and the environmental fallout from holding the event.

FIFA president Gianni Infantino had called on World Cup teams to "focus on football" accused critics in Western countries of "hypocrisy" on Saturday.

WE'LL BRING 'A' GAME'

Qatar will be wary of following the dozen years of work second host country to crash out in the first round.

To avoid joining South Africa in that exclusive club, Sanchez's men have been tasked with getting out of a group also containing European giants the Netherlands and African champions Senegal.

A win against the less-fancied Ecuador would make those next two matches appear less daunting.

"On paper, they (Qatar's three opponents) should get the three points, but we of course are here to show our people that we can be a competitive team, said Sanchez.

"We'll bring our 'A' game and play our football, and try to bring joy...
"We know that it will be a great challenge for us but we're very eager to play this match and are very happy to be here."

Qatar have improved on the pitch since winning the World Cup bid, beating Japan in the 2019 Asian Cup final and finishing third in the Arab Cup last Results have slipped in recent months, though, with a 1-1 draw against Jamaica and 3-0 defeat by Croatia's Under-23 team particularly disappointing.

Ecuador will be no pushovers after coming through the notoriously difficult South American qualifying. "We think we have the same chance as Qatar for this open-ing match," said Ecuador's Brighton midfielder Moises Caicedo.

"We know how Qatar play they're strong, they're powerful. I know this will be a very difficult game tomorrow."

Australia tour great opportunity to test ourselves ahead of WC: Harmanpreet

PTI ■ BENGALURU

The upcoming tour of Australia is a good opportunity for the Indian men's hockey team to reassess its strengths and weakness ahead of the FIH World Cup at home in January, said seasoned dragflicker Harmanpreet Singh.

A 23-member Indian team left for Australia on Saturday for a five-match series beginning in Adelaide on November 26 as part of preparation for next year's World Cup in Bhubaneswar and Rourkela from January 13 to 29.

"I think this is a great opportunity for us to test ourselves and the level we are at ahead of the World

'Australia is one of the top contenders for the title, and playing against them will definitely help us in the lead up to the tournament," Harmanpreet, who will lead the side in Australia, said.

'I think we haven't gone back to Australia after the Gold Coast Commonwealth Games in 2018. As a team, we are excited and happy to play in Australia which offers unique playing conditions.

India will play back-toback matches on November 26 and 27, followed by games on November 30, December 3 and 4.

"These matches will be a true test of our fitness levels. Every game will be high in intensity and will draw focus each game. Évery player will be looking to bring his 'A' game against Australia ahead of the final team selection for the World Cup," said defender Amit Rohidas.

2018 debacle still fresh in our minds: Sumit

PTI BHUBANESHWAR

The quarterfinal exit in the last edition still bothering the players, the Indian men's hockey team is determined to finish on the podium at the FIH World Cup to be held in January next year, said Olympic Bronze medallist midfielder Sumit.

In the 2018 edition of the World Cup hosted in Bhubaneswar, India lost 1-2 to eventual runners-up Netherlands to crash out of the tournament.

But the Indians will get yet another shot at world glory before home crowd as the showpiece will be jointly hosted in Bhubaneswar and Rourkela from January 13 to 29

"Í still remember the 2018 lost in the quarterfinals and every time I go back to Bhubaneswar, it reminds me of that loss. The target of our team is to finish on the podium of the FIH Odisha Hockey Men's

"Our practice has been going on really well. We played good hockey in all four matches of FIH Pro League, so, our preparation has been on the right track.

Sumit said India's upcoming tour of Australia is really important in terms of preparation for the World Cup.

"The Australia tour is really important before the FIH World Cup. Australia is a really strong team, we will get good competition from them and it will be a confidence booster for us to play against such a strong team before the big tournament," Sumit said.

"We will learn a lot from our team will try to execute the plans we have made for the World Cup during the series. The upcoming tour will really help us to prepare for the mega-event.'

Real Kashmir win 2-0 as I-League returns to valley

 $P^{assion\ was\ high\ and\ the}_{excitement\ grew\ greater\ with}$ each minute as locals came out in huge numbers to support Real Kashmir FC in their I-League match against Rajasthan United FC here -- the first such game in the valley since the COVID-19 outbreak.

The synthetic turf at the TRC Grounds - the venue of the game – came alive after three years as football supporters filled up the stands on a chilly Saturday afternoon.

The match – won by RKFC 2-0 – was the first high-profile game in the valley since the outbreak of COVID-19. As the players took to the ground, the spectators cheered for their team. The match referee's whistles could hardly be heard amid the applause, drumbeats and whistles, and the occasional boos for the oppo-

The match had its moments - power-packed volleys, numerous headers, heated arguments between players, unruly scenes, as well as injuries.

There was no dull moment in the game and the crowd loved every single minute, with the cold conditions failing to dampen their spirit. They backed the RKFC players, sometimes tried to act like coaches, telling the players what to do.

With the crowd backing them to the hilt, the RKFC players kept the pressure on the visiting team throughout the game. Their defence was strong, and the attack stronger. The team did not disappoint its supporters as it struck one past the rival team goal-keeper in the 21st minute through Moro Lamine, the 28-year-old Ghanaian centre-back, as the crowd stood on its feet.

The teams changed ends, but RKFC continued with their impressive ways. The Real Kashmir continued to dominate the match and struck again in the 77th minute through Jerry Pulamte. Not only did the second goal break the back of the visiting team, it sent the spectators into a state of frenzy. The cheering grew louder and the atmosphere became electric.

Andrey Rublev rallied to second-seeded Stefanos Tsitsipas and reach the final four of the ATP Finals on Rublev won 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 to reach the semifinals for the first time. He will face third-seeded Casper Ruud.

Novak Djokovic plays Taylor Fritz of the United States in the other semifinal. The fivetime champion will have to recover swiftly after a grueling dead rubber victory over Daniil Medvedev that lasted more than three hours.

"On the physical side, I'm not worried because... Worry just depletes you of the vital energy you need," Djokovic said. "If something happens to progravy in a good or bad way. tomorrow in a good or bad way, it happens, and I have to deal with it then.

Roger Federer's record six titles at the elite, season-ending event. Djokovic's last title was in 2015. With a win and a loss apiece in the group, it was a winner-takes-all match for Rublev and Tsitsipas.

Rublev threw his racket down in frustration after losing a game on his serve early in the opening set. But he was all smiles at the end as he crouched down seemingly in disbelief when Tsitsipas hit a return into the net to hand him the match.

"I didn't give up. I kept fighting and playing," Rublev said. "I lost my emotions a bit when I lost a stupid game at 40-0 in the

After starting strong, Tsit-sipas faded and made errors including a double fault in the penultimate game to give Rublev his second break of the final set and leave him serving for the match.

Earlier, Djokovic clearly oushed himself to the limits as he beat the already-eliminated Medvedev to maintain his perfect record in the tournament.

Though he was already through to the semifinals, Djokovic was playing for pride and ranking points, plus the chance to earn USD 4.7 million if he wins the trophy undefeated in Turin.

He was visibly shaking during changeovers in the third set as he battled to win 6-3, 6-7 (5), huvneshwar Kumar faces Ban arduous challenge of remaining relevant in shortest format as a young Indian team, seeking some game time, is expected to face tough resistance from New Zealand in the second T20 International here on Sunday.

NDIA FACE NZ IN 2nd T201 T0DAY

The series-opener in Wellington was abandoned due to inclement weather and the Indian players must be itching to get onto the park which, inarguably, has the most scenic backdrop.

Ironically, the region where the ground is located is known as 'Bay of Plenty' and Indian cricket at this point has plenty to ponder as far as its approach in T20 format is concerned.

While the Sky Stadium was shorter in terms of dimensions, the Indian team will have to make adjustments as the 'Bay Oval' ground has bigger side boundaries and is an open ground unlike Wellington.

BHUVI CONUNDRUM

On this tour, the presence of a near 33 year-old Bhuvneshwar is one such dilemma that the team management might have to handle. There are some probing questions and quicker the answers are sought, better it would be for Indian cricket.

Is Bhuvneshwar going to be around for the T20 World Cup in 2024 with a sharp decline in his pace? Does he have enough time to work around his issues as he is not potent enough on good batting tracks? Not many T20Is are lined-up next year and he is largely becoming a single-format player, so where does it leave him?

At this moment, all the answers seem to be in negative and hence a question arises whether playing the seniormost pacer would be akin to taking away an opportunity from a youngster to get into the

It is a double-edged sword that interim head coach VVS Laxman and captain Pandya will be facing.

Not playing Bhuvneshwar when he is on the cusp of a personal milestone (4 more wickets for highest tally of 40 in a calendar year) might leave him demoralised.

Most of his 36 wickets have come in bowler-friendly conditions and against lesser opponents. On slightly flatter wickets and against better batting attacks, Bhuvneshwar has come a cropper.

But playing him will be a missed opportunity for the team management to check out on how the pair of Umran Malik and Mohammed Siraj would match up against the might of players like Finn Allen, Glenn Phillips and

Devon Conway in pressure sit-

Umran, India's fastest bowler by a distance, needs to be groomed. Pakistan has shown with Haris Rauf, Shaheen Shah

CHOICE OF OPENER?

The moment Rishabh Pant was named the vice-captain of the team for the T20I series, it was a given that he would be opening but whether Shubman Gill with his new found confidence in this format or the specialist Ishan Kishan will pair up is there to be seen.

In case of Kishan, who has pace and swing is preferred, then there will be two left-handers at the top while Gill's presence will make it a left-right combination.

The other factor would be the choice between KKR skipper Shreyas Iyer, not exactly a fast starter in T20Is and the dynamic Deepak Hooda, who can also bowl wicket-to-wicket tight off-breaks.

To accommodate both Hooda and Shreyas, Kishan will then needed to be dropped from the playing XI. Sanju Samson and skipper Pandya are the two batters along with the two batters along with Suryakumar Yadav, who would play the role of enforcers as well

CHAHAL VS PHILLIPS

Glenn Phillips, one of the most exciting T20 batters in recent times, will have a battle in hand when the wily Yuzvendra Chahal gets his first game in many moons after being inexplicably benched by regular head coach Rahul Dravid throughout the T20 World Cup.

But the last completed T20I match at this ground witnessed Phillips score 108 off 51 balls with as many as eight sixes against a quality West Indies attack.

With Ravichandran Ashwin's T20I career all but over, Washington Sundar will be getting a long run as a specialist off-spinner while Harshal Patel will also get game time to get back his rhythm which deserted him just before the World Cup. Arshdeep Singh as a left-arm seamer looks a sureshot starter in next two games.

Everyone needed a break: Ashwin defends Dravid's absence from NZ tour

Veteran India off-spinner R Ashwin has defended India head coach Rahul Dravid's absence from the New Zealand tour, saying the support staff "needed a break" after putting in extensive work in preparation for the T20 World Cup.

Days after Dravid's predecessor Ravi Shastri had questioned why an India coach tioned why an India coach would need a break when they get "two-three months" off during the IPL, Ashwin said that the coaching staff was physically and mentally burned out.

Former India batter and current National Cricket Academy (NCA) head VVS Laxman is in charge of the Indian team in New Zealand in Dravid's absence.

"I will explain why Laxman has gone there with a completely different team because even that could be interpreted differently," Ashwin said on his YouTube channel.

"Rahul Dravid and his team put in extensive hard work ahead of the T20 World Cup right from planning. Since I saw this from close quarters, I'm saying this.

"They had specific in-depth plans for each venue and each opposition. So they would have been under not only mental but also physical burnout, and everyone needed a break.

"As soon as the New Zealand series ends, we have the Bangladesh tour. That's why we have a different coaching staff led by Laxman for this tour."

Dravid, one of India's greatest batters, was given a rest after the T20 World Cup as Laxman became India's stand-in coach for the tour of New Zealand, with Hardik Pandya taking over as captain for the T20I series.

India qualified for the semifinals of the T20 World Cup in Australia after winning four out of five group matches, but were humiliated by eventual champions England.

Dravid had been also rested for a tour of Zimbabwe earlier this year.

India's ongoing tour of New Zealand comprises three T20Is and three ODIs. After that, India will be in Bangladesh for three ODIs and two Tests, and Dravid will be back for that tour.

Oz win ODI series against Eng

Athree-match ODI series with a comprehensive 72-run win over England at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Saturday.

Chasing 281 to level the series after Australia won the first match in Adelaide on Thursday, England appeared well on track as Sam Billings and James Vince shared a 122-run partnership for the fourth wicket. But once Vince was trapped lbw by stand-in Australian captain Josh Hazlewood for 60, the English imploded, losing 4-13 to virtually hand the Australians the match.

On a tricky wicket at the SCG. Steve Smith continued the form he showed in Australia's six-wicket win in Adelaide with a hard-fought 94 to help Australia to 280-8.

The target always looked difficult on a surface that was playing slow with the occasional bad bounce. "It looks easy to bat on England got the worst possible start to the run chase when Jason Roy tickled Mitchell Starc's second delivery down the leg side to keeper Alex Carey. Three balls later Starc got the key wicket of Dawid Malan with an almost unplayable ball that pitched on leg stump then swung back to take the top of off, leaving England staggering at two wickets for no runs.

Phil Salt and Vince kept playing with the aggression that the England white-ball teams are renowned for, and took the score to 34 after five overs.

But Salt tried one big shot too many, stepping away to try and smash Hazlewood over cover only to miss the ball and see it cannon into his stumps.

Any hopes Australia may have had of crashing through the England batting lineup were dashed by Vince and Billings.

At 168-5 after 28.3 overs, Australia were back in control and they tightened their grip one run later when Zampa bowled Billings for 71.

England wickets kept tumbling as Starc (4-47), Hazlewood (2-33) and Zampa (4-45) wrapped up the English tail.

We were in a good position with the bat but we lost wickets," Ali said. "The wicket actually got easier to bat on but we lost wickets — it's just one of those things.

"They bowled well in that phase and the pressure got to us. If you lose wickets regularly, you're not going to win many Earlier, Smith's 94 from 114 balls anchored the Australian innings after Hazlewood won the toss and decided to bat.

Hazlewood was brought into the side for captain Pat Cummins, who was rested with an eye to the upcoming Test series against the West Indies.

Sports Ministry approves foreign training camps for Neeraj, three others

The sports ministry has approved Olympic Gold I medallist Neeraj Chopra's proposal to train at Loughborough University in the UK.

Star javelin thrower Neeraj, along with coach Klaus Bartonietz and physiotherapist Ishaan Marwaha, would be training at Loughborough for 63 days and are set to leave for the UK later this

Besides Neeraj, the government's Mission Olympic Cell (MOC), in its 86th meeting Friday, also cleared the proposals for shuttler Kidambi Srikanth, wrestler Deepak Punia, and javelin thrower and Commonwealth Games medallist Annu

The approximate cost for the training of all the above-mentioned athletes would be around Rs 94 lakh which would be cleared under the sports ministry's National Sports Development Fund (NSDF).

Srikanth, along with his coach and physiotherapist will be training at Prisma Sports Club in Jakarta for 29 days. Punia will be with his physiotherapist in Michigan for 34 days, while Annu Rani will be training with her physiotherapist at Leichtathletik-Gemeinschaft (LG) Offenburg, Germany under coach Werner Daniels who had earlier also trained Neeraj.

Funding for these would be provided under the Sports Authority of India's (SAI) Target Olympic Podium Scheme (TOPS) and would cover the player and their support staff's flight, accommodation, local travel, and food costs among other expenditures.

TOPS will also provide each athlete an outof-pocket allowance of $50 per day for any other expense they might incur during their stay.

Teenage GM R Praggnanandhaa was involved in an intense battle with Poland's Jan-Krzysztof Duda with the match ending 3.5-3.5 after the players shared honours in the four rapid games, two blitz and an armageddon game.

Erigaisi's win over Giri was his second and took him to six points along with 17-year old İndian compatriot Praggnanandhaa.

He won the first game in 56 moves with white pieces and the second in 44 with black.

A 36-move draw saw Erigaisi sealing his second win, a day after beating Azerbaijan's Shakhriyar Mamedyarov 3-1.

The highly-rated Pole won the first game before the teenaged Indian star levelled by taking the second in 53 moves. A similar pattern was repeated with Duda and Praggu taking the third and fourth games respectively with black pieces. The Indian won the first blitz tie-break game only to see his opponent level things with a 41-move win.

In the Armageddon (sudden-death game), Duda and Praggu battled it out for 90 moves before peace was signed.

WORLD CUP FRENZY SWEEPS QATAR

World Cup soccer beginning Sunday has created quite frey in the Arab world. Here is a piece by EDDIE PELLS (AP) on how Qatar's event denounced for 'washing' country's image.

atar's decision to launch itself into hosting the 2022 World Cup was a head-scratcher from the start. Why, some wondered, would a Middle Eastern emirate with fewer than 3 million people and little soccer tradition want to host the sport's biggest event?

Skeptics say the country wanted to use the prestige of the World Cup, which starts Sunday, to remake its image as a natural-gas producer with a shaky human-rights record.

They viewed the move, which will cost the country some $220 billion, as a classic case of "sportswashing" — using sports as a forum to cast a country or company as different than many perceive.

It is hardly a new concept, and Middle Eastern money has long been a major player. Qatar has extensive international connections through its diplomacy and other efforts. Where many see Qatar and other rich nations spending money to join the global elite, others see nefarious attempts to hide undesired reputations.

"The Qatar World Cup kickstarted discussion about sportswashing and human rights in football and it has been very steep learning curve for us all," Norway soccer federation president Lise Klaveness said at a recent Council of Europe event.

Germany's interior minister also expressed concern about bringing the event to Qatar, saying "no World Cup takes place in a vacuum."

"There are criteria that have to be kept to, and then it would be better not to award to such states," minister Nancy Faeser said last month in a move that sparked diplomatic tensions.

Qatar's leader, Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani, has fought back, saying the country "has been subjected to an unprecedented campaign that no host country has ever faced."

The World Cup is just one way Qatar is using its massive wealth to project influence. By buying sports teams, hosting high-profile events, and investing billions in European capitals — such as buying London's The Shard skyscraper — Qatar has been integrating itself into international finance and a network of support.

Paris-Saint Germain (PSG) of Ligue 1 is owned by the emir of Qatar. His 2011 purchase came a year after Qatar won the right to host the World Cup. For many, it felt like it was scripted to show that the country has soccer bona fides. Some of PSG's players are among the world's most famous — Neymar, Kylian Mbappé and Lionel Messi — and all will be in the World Cup.

Christian Pulisic is the first American to play in and win a Champions League final and he was already a three-time U.S. Soccer Federation player of the year. He is on Premier League team Chelsea, which was owned by a Russian oligarch, Roman Abramovich.

Abramovich was widely hailed as that team's savior during his 19 years of club control but put the team up for sale this year due to sanctions related to his country's invasion of Ukraine.

The new LIV Golf league is bankrolled by Saudi Arabia's sovereign wealth fund, which also owns another Premier League team, Newcastle, while defending English champion Manchester City was bought by the Abu Dhabi royal family in 2008.

Some of those teams' best players, including Kevin de Bruyne, Kieran Trippier and Bruno Guimarães, will play for Belgium and England and Brazil in the World Cup.

None of these players, or owners, received the same sort of public condemnation as those in golf who left the PGA Tour to play for LIV. Just as was the case when the soccer teams were purchased, there has never been any mystery about who funded LIV, which has brazenly branded itself as a disruptive force in golf that will change the sport for the better.

According to the CIA, journalist Jamal Khashoggi was killed on the orders of Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed Bin Salman in 2018. The Saudi Public Investment Fund's involvement became more of a lightning rod when Phil Mickelson said out loud what many already felt.

"They are scary (expletives)," the six-time major champion said in a much-cited interview with golf writer Alan Shipnuck of the FirePit Collective.

Families of 9/11 victims became vocal critics of LIV golf, pointing out Saudi Arabia's shaky human-rights record and the country's connection to the attacks.

"Despite (his) being truthful, it's not good for Mickelson's image," said Jamal Blades, a soccer-loving London tech firm manager who occasionally blogs about sports and recently completed his master's degree in sports business and innovation. "But sportswashing takes place all over the world in some form, where there are people, or governments, or businesses attaching themselves to big and small events everywhere."

One high-profile advertiser, the U.S. Department of Defense, was looking for some positive publicity and a tie-in with the NFL, but the deal inadvertently triggered a public-relations problem when quarterback Colin Kaepernick took a knee during "The Star-Spangled Banner."

QATAR'S LEADER. SHEIKH TAMIM BIN HAMAD AL THANI, HAS FOUGHT BACK, SAYING THE COUNTRY "HAS BEEN SUBJECTED TO AN UNPRECEDENTED CAMPAIGN THAT NO HOST COUNTRY HAS EVER FACED." Don't curb human right

German soccer federation president Bernd Neuendorf has criticized FIFA for its attempts to restrict national teams' political activities when it comes to human rights.

Speaking at Germany's first news conference in Qatar ahead of the World Cup, Neuendorf said on Friday he was particularly annoyed by FIFA president Gianni Infantino's letter two weeks ago urging teams to "focus on the football" and leave political issues

"That the topic of human rights should now no longer play a role, that we are now concentrating here on football only, that irritated us to a certain extent and disturbed us," Neuendorf said.

He added the federation had to send a signal to show it will not be silenced.

Neuendorf also referred to FIFA's decision to ban the Denmark team from bearing the slogan "Human Rights For All" on training jerseys.

"That was declared as a political statement and therefore prohibited," Neuendorf said. "We're not talking about a political decision that can be made one way or the other with a slogan like 'Human Rights For All.' It's about human rights. And human rights are universal and binding all over the world."

Neuendorf said Germany was cooperating with other European federations who want their captains to wear an armband with a rainbow heart design during World Cup games to protest against discrimination.

"It's not a political statement, because it's a statement for human rights," said Neuendorf, who added if it was banned, "I would be quite prepared to accept a fine as well."

"When (a company) wants to be the official sponsor of a team or a league, what they are trying to do is create an affinity to improve the reputation of (the company) and get sports fans to think of (that company) in some way other than as a commodified producer of" what that company sells, said Stephen Ross, the executive director of the Penn State Center for the Study of Sports in Society.

Russian leader Vladimir Putin and his Chinese counterpart, Xi Jinping, used the occasion of the Winter Olympics in Beijing to hold a summit and show solidarity this year. Later in those games, IOC president Thomas Bach showed up with Chinese tennis player Peng Shuai to watch Eileen Gu, an Americanborn freestyle skier who was competing for China, win her first gold medal. Peng's public appearance came after her safety had been in question for months following her appearing on social media to accuse a former top-ranking Chinese official of sexual assault.

Heads turned when the Asian Winter Games announced it would hold the 2029 version of its event in Saudi Arabia, a desert country that is spending some $500 billion to build a winter resort it claims will be environmentally sustainable. The Saudis have also held golf, tennis and Formula One events in their country despite having little tradition in those sports.

"The Saudi case is almost like the quintessential case of success for sportswashing," Ross said of the country that led the world by exporting $95.7 billion in crude petroleum in 2020.

Qatar, which also shares the world's largest underwater natural-gas field with Iran, wanted to get into the act, too.

It hosted world gymnastics and track titles, both of which were preludes to the World Cup, which is costing the country an estimated $220 billion. The country might be banking on the reality that, regardless of the issues that dog a host in the lead-up, most worldwide sporting events are ultimately judged by the quality of the event itself

The country recruited hundreds of fans to receive free trips to the World Cup in exchange for promoting positive content on social media about the event and the host.

A new Global Oral Health Status Report published recently by the World Health Organization (WHO) provides the first-ever comprehensive picture of oral disease burden with data profiles for 194 countries, giving unique insights into key areas and markers of oral health that are relevant for decision-makers. The HEALTH PIONEER takes stock of dental health status in India.

→he WHO report paints a bleak picture on dental status, saying that almost half of the world's population (45% or 3.5 billion people) suffer from oral dised people living in low- and middle-income countries. Global cases of oral diseases have increased by 1 billion over the last 30 years—a clear indication that many people do not have access to prevention and treatment of oral diseases.

"Oral health has long been neglected in global health, but many oral diseases can be prevented and treated with the cost-effective measures outlined in this report," said WHO Director-General, Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus. "WHO is committed to providing guidance and support to countries so that all people, wherever they live and whatever their income, have the knowledge and tools needed to look after their teeth and mouths, and to access services for prevention and care when they need them.

RAPID INCREASE OF ORAL DISEASES

The most common oral diseases are dental caries (tooth decay), severe gum disease, tooth loss and oral cancers. Untreated dental caries is the single most common condition globally, affecting an estimated 2.5 billion people. cause of total tooth loss. It is estimated to affect 1 billion people worldwide. About 380 000 new cases of oral cancers are diagnosed

The report underscores the glaring inequalities in access to oral health services, with a huge burden of oral diseases and conditions affecting the most vulnerable and disadvantaged populations. People on low incomes, people living with disabilities, older people living alone or in care homes, those living in remote and rural communities and people from minority groups carry a higher burden of oral diseases.

This pattern of inequalities is similar to other noncommunicable diseases such as cancers, cardiovascular diseases, diabetes, and mental disorders. Risk factors common to noncommunicable diseases such as high sugar intake, all forms of tobacco use, and harmful use of alcohol all contribute to the global oral health crisis.

'Placing people at the heart of oral health services is critical if we are to achieve the vision of universal health coverage for all individuals and communities by 2030. This report acts as a starting point by providing baseline information to help countries monitor progress of implementation, while also providing timely and relevant feedback to decision-makers at the national level. Together, we can change the current situation of oral health neglect."

BARRIERS TO DELIVERING ORAL HEALTH SERVICES

Only a small percentage of the global population is covered by essential oral health services, and ith the greatest need have the least access to services. The key barriers to delivering access to

- oral health services for all include: Oral health care requires high out-of-pocket expenditures. This often leads to catastrophic costs and significant financial burden for families and
- communities. • The provision of oral health services largely relies on highly specialized providers using expensive high-tech equipment and materials, and these services are not well integrated with primary health care mod-
- Poor information and surveillance systems, combined with low priority for public oral health research are major bottlenecks to developing more effective oral health interventions and policies.

Betel quid is a mixture of areca nut (nut of a palm tree, Areca catechu), slaked lime (calcium hydroxide) and betel leaf (leaf of the piper betel vine), and it can have tobacco (mainly in East Asia and Melanesia). All of the ingredients are wrapped inside the betel leaf and made into a bunch commonly known as a "quid," which is then chewed. It stains teeth and tissues dark red and is spit out after chewing for a few hours. Dental Health Care Market

It is gaining popularity in the oral care market trends. According to reports, major players in the oral care market are adopting CAD/CAM technology for providing oral care services. CAD stands for "computer-assisted design" that uses computer-based software to assist in design processes and producing two-dimensional (2-D) drawings and three-dimensional (3-D) models. Computer-Assisted Manufacture (CAM) helps to automate a production process via software and computer-controlled equipment. In oral care with CAD/CAM technology, the tooth drilling it and then a computer image is taken. The crown is made in-office using a machine that receives this image. change that promises not to spare anyone from its catastrophic consequences, global leaders are discussing what actions can be taken to prevent or at least minimise the damage to the ozone layer, at COP27, hosted in Egypt's picturesque island of Sharm el-

The UNFCC and the IPCC have been sending constant warning signals to the world community regarding some irreversible process of climate change. Unless the world, particularly the big industrialised nations, realise the gravity of the situation aggravated by their deviant behaviour, there is no point talking about climate solutions in global meets like the COP27 and may be again in the COP28.

Therefore, COP27 is once again heading towards uncertainty. The last COP meeting at Glasgow in the UK was supposed to bring substantial changes. The power players made extraordinary pledges, but nothing has taken place so far. The greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions have been on the

Why is climate finance so important? A climate solution corpus is very crucial for the developing nations to further stop the depletion of the ozone layer and mitigate the worst effects of climate change. The rich nations have been promising that they will offer an aid of $100 billion each year towards this cause. But so far it has remained a lip service. If the rich nations continue to dawdle on the promised climate fund, they leave the planet and its inhabitants in lurch. The big polluters like the US, China, the Russian Federation and the EU must understand

Against the backdrop of that they are pushing the world towards a dangerous future. Unless they offer this financial aid, the less-developed nations, the Vulnerable-20 group and the island nations belonging to the Pacific Vuvale would be in permanent danger of destruction. Of course, they all will be the permanent victims of the developed nations and the emerging economies.

Rubbing salt into the post-Covid world's wounds is the devastating war in Ukraine. And on top of that China's rising aggression in and around Asia is threatening both the global power calculus and peace around the globe, thus jeopardising the efforts to give an undivided attention to climate solutions.

And therefore, climate activists have been left disappointed at COP27 also. Staring at the dark future, activists from Africa have accused rich countries of trying to bribe the African leaders to invest in planet warming fossil fuels. To them, it is yet another hypocrisy that the developed nations have employed to make Africa unwitting partners in their climate crimes.

Therefore it seems global climate diplomacy is failing the world. Whether it is at the UN or at any other global forums like the G-7, G-20, the OECD, EU or any platforms, all are making a mockery of the developing nations. Their meetings and numerous conferences are making no breakthrough to save this planet. Amid all these, the big power rivalry is spoiling the current debates and dialogues. The New Cold War between the US and China is ruining all the chances of the revival of the health of the planet earth. Both the nations are fighting at different levels to bolster their influences and domination at global institutions. In fact, China is desperately trying to push back the US to occupy the top slot in global governance. Chinese President Xi Jinping is widening his wings everywhere. He is a megalomaniac. His ambitions have no end. He wants to grab the whole world and resurrect the old Chinese Empire. He has forgotten that the world is now in the 21st century and no one is living under the illusion of Mao Zedong's great Communist

The world today is well connected by the massive changes of globalisation accompanied by the advancements of information and communication technologies. China needs to reset its own house before venturing out to derail the western liberal order that has been dominating the globe since the end of the Second World War in 1945. It is better for China and the US to compete healthily instead of turning it into a major conflict.

And this will unnecessarily delay the mitigation efforts to save the atmosphere. Hope the latest meetings of Xi and Biden against the backdrop of the climate talks and the G-20 would spearhead a new beginning in their relations though major differences would continue for now and even for a longer

The current climate crisis affecting global health. A recent report by the Lancet journal says that there is a direct link between the changing weather conditions and their impact on the health of the people around the world. This report clearly says that our dependence on fossil fuels increases the risk of disease, food insecurity and other sickness related to extreme heat. These incrementals are too dangerous for all of us. The point here is that there is no place to hide now. All are affected, from Iceland to Madagascar and from China to future of the developing nations. It is not that people in these countries can wait for the tall promises made by the developed nations. However the hope is that strong and sustained reductions in emissions of the CO2 and other GHGs could rapidly make air quality better. And if it happens, then another 20-30 years, the global temperatures could stabilise. There is no point of discussing who is responsible for the current chaos. Blaming the developed nations will not work. The point is to make the amends. All governments, local, national and the global, must work together to reduce the use of fossil fuels. The blame game won't help the vulnerable nations and the people on the fringe. We have come to such a point that now the Pacific Vuvale group is approaching the UN General Assembly to pass a proposal and can go to the International Court of Justice to seek immediate intervention in the global crisis. This climate justice case will be historic once it goes to the ICJ. Because of these nations, climate change is increasingly violating universal human rights.

It is clear that the advanced

It's time now to act. Not to make sermons. World leaders and global governance institutions should not make hollow promises. Because the inhabitants of this planet are in grave danger, slanging matches will not help anyone. It's time to take responsibility and to save the earth. The current ecological imbalance must be repaired, else, we all will be in

PERSPECTIVE

Politics, climate conspire as Tigris and Euphrates dwindle ext year, the water will Come. The pipes have been laid to Ata Yigit's sprawling farm in Turkey's southeast connecting it to a dam on the Euphrates River. A dream, soon to become a reality, he He's already grown a small corn patch on some of the water. The golden stalks are tall and abundant. "The kernels are big," he says, proudly. Soon he'll be able to water all his fields. Over 1,000 kilometres downstream in southern Iraq, nothing grows anymore in Obeid Hafez's wheat farm. The water stopped coming a year ago, the 95-year-old said, straining to speak. "The last time we planted the seed, it went green, then suddenly it died," he said.

The starkly different realities are playing out along the length of the Tigris-Euphrates river basin, one of the world's most vulnerable watersheds. River flows have fallen by 40 per cent in the past four decades as the states along its length — Turkey, Syria, Ìran and Iraq — pursue rapid, unilateral development of the waters' use.

The drop is projected to worsen as temperatures rise from climate change. Both Turkey and Iraq, the two biggest consumers, acknowledge they must cooperate to preserve the river system that some 60 million people rely on to sustain their lives

But political failures and intransigence conspire to prevent a deal sharing the rivers.

The Associated Press conducted more than a dozen interviews in both countries, from top water envoys and senior officials to local farmers, and gained exclusive visits to controversial dam projects. Internal reports and revealed data illustrate the calculations driving disputes behind closed doors, from Iraq's fears of a potential 20 per cent drop in struggles to balance Iraq's and its own needs.

its own interests? Especially if that means that by giving more (water) to us, their farmers and people will suffer?"

Turkey has been harnessing the river basin with a masve project to boost agriculture and generate hydroelectricity. Under its Southeast Anatolia Project, or GAP by its Turkish acronym, it has built at least 19 dams on the Euphrates and Tigris and several more are risaged for a total of 22.

It aims to develop the southeast, long an economic backwater and the wellspring of the Kurdistan Worker's Party, or PKK, a Kurdish separatist movement that Ankara considers a terrorist organisation.

For the farmer, Yigit, the project will be transformative. Until now, his reliance on well water only permitted half

A SINGLE TRUTH

Iraq is the downstream prisoner of geography, relying almost entirely for its water on the twin rivers and tributaries originating outside its borders.

In 2014, Iraq's Water Ministry prepared a confidential report that spelled out a "single truth:" In two years, Iraq's water supply would no longer meet demand, and the gap would keep widening. The report, seen by the AP, warned that by 2035, the water deficit would cause a 20 per cent reduction in food production.

The doomsday predictions are playing out in 2022. Lakes have dried up, crops have failed and thousands of Iraqis are migrating. An author of the report, who spoke anonymously because it is not public, said the predictions were "remarkably accurate."

They show Iraqi officials knew how bleak the future would be without the recommended $180 billion in investment and an agreement with neighbors. Neither transpired.

Decades of talks have still not found common ground on water-sharing.

Turkey approaches the water issue as if it were the river basin's benevolent owner, assessing needs and deciding how much to let flow downstream. Iraq considers ownership shared and wants a more permanent arrangement with defined portions.

In a rare interview, Turkey's envoy on water issues with Iraq, Veysel Eroglu, told the AP that Turkey cannot accept to release a fixed amount of water because of the unpredictability of river flows in the age of climate change

Eroglu said Turkey could agree to setting a ratio to release, but only if Syria and Still, in Yigit's world, the Iraq provide detailed data on their water consumption.

"That is the only way to share water in an optimal and fair manner," Eroglu said.

The question of Syria is a major obstacle. Turkey insists it must be part of any broad agreement but that for the time being it has no interlocutor in war-torn Syria. Both sides treat some data like state secrets, fueling mistrust. "I like to keep it to myself," Eroglu's Iraqi counterpart, Mahdi Hamdani, said regarding his country's water consumption data. "They are tools in our negotiations."

Hamdani stepped down from his position after a new government was voted into ower in October, underscoring another gripe from Turkey: The frequent changing of Iraqi interlocutors in the water talks.

One Iraqi ambassador said it was "a mistake" that his side once informed the Turks they were aware that 70 per cent of their water is effectively wasted on ancient farming practices then discharged to the Persian Gulf, leading Ankara to double down on demands that Iraq reform itself first.

Turkey is relatively forthcoming with Tigris data but reveals little about the Euphrates, particularly the vital question of how much water will be diverted to irrigation under GAP. It says only that diversion will be minimal.

It also argues that, if it's shared water, Iraq must be more responsible with it and introduce greater efficiency, like Turkey. Iraq bristles at being told how to use its water. "Sometimes they ask us why Iraq cultivates (water-intensive) rice," Hamdani said. "I ask them, why are you cultivating cotton? And they say it's part of their history, civilization. And I tell them yes, we also have our history, our civilization.

YOUR EYES, YOUR SCALE Sheikh Thamer Saeedi

decided enough is enough. The streams were dry in his village in southern Iraq. Despairing families were abandoning their farms for the city after crops failed. What he did next underscores rising anger among farmers following devastating, back-to-back droughts; and the Iraqi government's weaknesses that make managing water nearly impossible. "One week," Saeedi told local water authorities in Dhi Qar province. Release more water to his district, Dawwayah, he threatened, or else he would take matters into his own hands.

In Iraq's south, tribal allegiance transcends government authority. As a tribal leader, Saeedi had to guarantee water for his people to safeguard his legitimacy.

The authorities were in a bind. Water levels in the Gharraf River, the Tigris' branch here, were so low it didn't reach the diversion gates, designed in the 1970s when flows were twice as high. Districts like Dawwayah, further along the irrigation network, were left dry.

At the same time, the government had cut the province's water allocation by 60 per cent. Time ran out.

Saeedi marched with dozens of followers to the irrigation regulator on the riverbank, armed with a long pipe and shovels. They dug until a water corridor was secured to his district. "My people are thirsty," he

To ensure he left enough water for other communities, Saeedi invoked the Arabic idiom: "Your eyes, your scale." That is, he took a wild guess. Rival tribal leaders were enraged, fearing for their own water supplies. Security officials rushed to put a halt to the diversion. Many feared gun battles if they hadn't. "It was a destructive act," said Ghazwan Kadhim, head of Dhi Qar's Water Resources Directorate. "The Gharraf River has 154 gates to different areas. If anyone does anything like that, the entire river would become unfit for distributing

But authorities are having a harder time keeping a lid on fights over water. Threats of lawsuits do little to stop tribal leaders diverting flows or digging illegal wells; using security forces risks escalation.

"We are terrified of conflict breaking out in central and southern Iraq over the water shortages," said Issa Fayadh, an official at the Environment Ministry in Baghdad.

A NUMBERS GAME

Straddling between ridges in southeast Turkey, the Ilisu Dam is — for Iraqis — a stark reminder of an irretrievable past. Before Turkey began operating the dam in May 2020, all the waters of the Tigris River flowed into Iraq. Now how much water comes down depends on Ankara's consideration of Iraq's monthto-month requests for a minimum flow, weighed against Turkey's own needs.

The AP was given an exclusive tour of the dam facility in October by Turkey's State Hydraulics Works, known by the Turkish acronym DSI, and given figures for the first time detailing flow rates and electricity production over two

A decade ago, Iraq received an average flow of 625 cubic metres of water per second from the Tigris. Today, the rate averages only 36 per cent of that because of less precipitation combined with the dam's effect, Iraqi water ministry

The dam is used for hydroelectricity, not irrigation, so eventually water must be let through for the turbines. But how much and when

are another matter. Turkish officials must maintain a minimum reservoir level of 500 meters above sea level to produce electricity, even as they face a lower, less predictable flow into the reservoir.

In 2021, Ilisu discharged 20 per cent more water than it received and had to draw on water stored from previous years, according to figures from Eroglu.

In January, the reservoir's level dropped below the 500meter mark. Power production this year fell 20 per cent, compared to 2021. Ilisu on average produces less than half its potential.

Turkish officials argue that with the dam, they can regulate flow for Iraq's benefit, storing more during floods and discharging more during drought.

Data provided by DSI shows that Turkey respected a request made by Iraq that it release at least 300 cubic metres per second down the Tigris during summer months, when shortages are common.

But Iraqi officials say depending on such ad hoc arrangements makes planning difficult. "They can cut water, they can release water. We urgently need a water agreement just to satisfy Iraq's minimum requirements," said Hatem Hamid, head of the National Centre for Water Resources Management.

Once the Tigris waters reach Mosul Dam, Hamid decides how much goes where in Iraq. The impact of his calculations can be monumental.

With dire shortages anticipated in 2022, Hamid had to make severe cuts, slicing water quotas in half for agriculture. Water rationing was enforced with military patrols.

That also reduced the Tigris' water entering the marshlands of southern Iraq. What Hamid could not have predicted was that waterstressed Iran then diverted tributaries feeding the marshes. The result was an environmental emergency: Not enough fresh water was entering the marshes to wash away salinity. Hamid scrambled to divert more water, but the damage was done.

row do you see the level of my logical reasoning?" Asked someone seeking guidance on whether the choice he has made is befitting him. Well, logic is based on perception based on knowledge, information, and experiences gained in the past. Some of them could be just illusionary and therefore misleading. The dynamics of every emerging moment, however, keep varying, with no scope for having any parallel in the past. Accordingly, the callings of incoming moments would pose fresh challenges or open up new opportunities. Logic may not necessarily offer right answer. "If logic won't work, how to make the right choice?" He countered. You need to develop awareness and be alert. Awareness will let you look at the issues in hand with an open mind. And if you are alert, you will consciously invoke the faculty of discriminate intelligence for due diligence before taking any call. That will let you dispassionately analyse the issues in hand, without any preconditioning whatsoever. That carries greater probability to strike success.

I know where is your question coming from. Are you in disagreement with are concerned? "How could you know?" The fellow asked. "Very simple, the moment you wished to get your sense of logical reasoning assessed, it was clear that your elders are not happy about how you are planning your future course." I answered. Another question sir: "Is dreaming about aspirational urges wrong? I wish to enter into business after being in service for a while. But my elders are not agreeable, even though I am not seeking any financial support." Absolutely not. Dreams are necessary for reaching heights one is capable of, as they serve a focus to reach an objective. But then, you need to appreciate that before putting dream perceptions into action it is important to discriminate between 'what you want' and 'what you are worth'. You are missing this point is how there is disagree-"Is pursuing business something like

Somebody in business should be hardworking. He should be worldly wise who could adapt himself to the changing circumstances and customer requirements. He should be mentally and emotionally stable, focused and armed with persistence and persever-

Your personality traits do not fit into the above game plan. You are basically a comfort loving and a lucky person who would have got things easy in life so far, as would Sun well aligned to Moon imply. At the same time, you don't appear to be keen to take challenges head on and in time. Mind signifying Moon occupies a dual sign Pisces, which is indicative of your vacillating nature and mood swings. Moon ill-disposed off to Saturn is indicative of your negative mindset, habitually suspicious and critical of others. You also carry a nagging attitude. Moon placed adverse to Mercury implies that you lack focus and are indecisive. Moon locked in adverse formation with Uranus accounts for your mercurial temperament, carelessness and unstable mind. Moon forming evil angular alignment with mischievous Neptune, implies that given a difficult situation, you may try to run away. You live in your fanciful dreamworld, distanced from ground realities. You may not acknowledge truth on its first appearance. You may rather continue pursuing your wishful thinking on

Now coming to Mercury, identified with general intelligence and common sensical judgement, is tenanted opposite Uranus. That makes you eccentric and opinionated. You may unnecessarily waste your energies towards unproductive ends. Mercury also opposite Neptune accounts for your insensible reasoning and judgment. Venus placed adverse to the Sun makes you emotionally too much touchy and sensitive who may get overexercised even on trivial issues. And you may keep unnecessarily mulling over them for long. Also, you do not understand value for money.

"Does it mean that I have no future at all?" He countered. Your future lies elsewhere. Benevolent Jupiter tenanted in the career signifying 10th house read together with other job indicators is suggestive off taking up a job in the field you are trained. With time you will earn high position.
