There has been a general sense that the government, under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, is setting the agenda for a new India, emphasizing the need to protect national sovereignty and security, and to give due honour to those who have served the country. The government has been relentless in its efforts to consolidate power and to push forward its own agenda, even if that means putting aside genuine concerns of other stakeholders. The Prime Minister has been particularly critical of the opposition parties, accusing them of being irrelevant and of not representing the interests of the common man. The government has also been criticized for its handling of the COVID-19 pandemic, with some arguing that it has been too slow to respond and that the measures put in place have not been effective. Despite these criticisms, the government has remained resolute in its efforts to push forward its agenda, and to ensure that the country moves forward in a positive direction. It remains to be seen how successful these efforts will be, and how the country will respond to the challenges that lie ahead. Meanwhile, the opposition parties continue to challenge the government, with some calling for an end to the current regime and for new elections to be held. It remains to be seen how these challenges will be met, and whether the country will continue to move forward in a positive direction.

Choosing the next Pakistan Army chief

Rahul and other Congress leaders must get serious about fighting elections and act accordingly

Rahul Gandhi has finally entered the election battle, addressing a rally of Mahara residents. It seems like less a tactical move, more like an emotional one. He has also vowed to bring together the secular forces, which is a welcome step.

One of the key issues is the future of the Pakistan Army chief. The army is a powerful institution in Pakistan, and its leadership is crucial. The army has been involved in political affairs in Pakistan, and its leaders have often been accused of using their influence to benefit their political allies.

The current army chief, Gen Qamar Javed Bajwa, has been in office since 2018. He is a controversial figure, and his leadership has been criticized by some for being too close to the civilian government.

The election of the next army chief will be closely watched, as it could have implications for the future of Pakistan's army and its relationship with the civilian government. It will also be a test of whether the army is willing to relinquish its political influence.

In conclusion, the army is a crucial institution in Pakistan, and its leadership will have a significant impact on the country's future. The army must be held accountable for its actions and its leaders must be open to criticism.

However, even when the civilian politicians are overruled by the military, who are in fact preventing them from acting according to their appointment as Chief of Pakistan army is consistent.

Don’t blame minorities

Sir — It is unfair to blame minorities community for consistently targeted and insulted by political leaders. The supposed ‘population explosion’ or ‘changing the demography’ are just mere excuses by certain states of the Union to be exempt from the BJP and RSS then you had to be small in number and isolated in a state. It is a matter of the Indian people. Why should the Indian government have to be blamed for the political leaders are not from the state? This is the responsibility of the political leaders to provide an environment for the growth of all communities.

AAP offers fiscal mess in Gujarat as in Punjab

If Aam Aadmi Party and Congress have their way, Gujarat will be soon on its way down the slippery slope of insolvency.

Gujarat, an urbanised, pro-headlicher state, has in recent years been consistently voted to the BJP. Its loss to the AAP means the state has not just lost it, it has lost the confidence of the people for the next 15 years. Many of the AAP's gains were due to the BJP's own mistakes, such as its mishandling of the COVID-19 pandemic, but Gujarat's government had its own problems, too. The state's economy has been struggling for years, and its finances are in a mess. The AAP's victory is a vote of no confidence in the state's elected government.

The AAP's victory in Gujarat is a victory for the people of Gujarat. It is a vote of confidence in the AAP's ability to govern the state and bring about the change that the people of Gujarat want. The AAP has promised to implement a host of reforms, from education to health care, that will benefit the people of Gujarat. The state's government will have to work hard to implement these changes, but the people of Gujarat are ready to support them.

The AAP's victory in Gujarat is a win for democracy. It is a vote against the BJP'sdictatorial rule and in favor of the people's voice. The AAP has promised to hold the government accountable and to make sure that the voices of the people are heard. The state's government will have to work hard to fulfill these promises, but the people of Gujarat are ready to support them.

The AAP's victory in Gujarat is a win for the future. It is a vote against the BJP's nostalgic past and in favor of the people's future. The AAP has promised to implement reforms that will benefit the people of Gujarat for years to come. The state's government will have to work hard to implement these reforms, but the people of Gujarat are ready to support them.

The AAP's victory in Gujarat is a win for the country. It is a vote against the BJP's divisive politics and in favor of the people's unity. The AAP has promised to bring the country together and to make sure that all the people of the country are equal. The state's government will have to work hard to fulfill these promises, but the people of Gujarat are ready to support them.

The AAP's victory in Gujarat is a win for the world. It is a vote against the BJP's isolationist policies and in favor of the people's international relations. The AAP has promised to make sure that the people of Gujarat are not left behind in the global economy. The state's government will have to work hard to fulfill these promises, but the people of Gujarat are ready to support them.

Y US Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin released a court-martial verdict on Monday that the military has the right to use force to protect its personnel from suspected Chinese intruders on its territory, a move that could escalate tensions in the region.

The Chinese action comes after the USS John Paul Jones, a guided-missile destroyer, sailed near the Paracel Islands in the South China Sea, a strategic and disputed territory. The move is seen as a calculated challenge against China's territorial claims in the area.

Earlier this month, the US Navy issued a statement saying it was exercising freedom of navigation rights in the South China Sea, a claim that China has challenged, asserting its sovereignty over the area.

The US Defense Department said it will continue to operate in the region, including near the Paracel Islands, to maintain freedom of navigation and overflight.

The statement comes amid increasing tensions between the US and China, with Beijing increasingly asserting its territorial claims and blocking US efforts to maintain freedom of navigation in the region.

The move is also likely to intensify pressure on the Chinese government, which has repeatedly called for the US to respect its sovereignty and the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS).

The US and China have been engaged in a years-long diplomactic battle over the South China Sea, with Beijing insisting on its rights to the area and the US arguing for freedom of navigation and overflight.

The US has also been increasing its naval presence in the region, including through joint exercises with the Philippines and Japan, to counter China's assertiveness and uphold freedom of navigation rights.
A drastic change in approach is used to solve the problem of the equation. The solution obtained is verified by substituting it back into the original equation. The next step involves checking the solution by substitution into the given equation.

New Zealand skipper Kane Stead said in a statement issued by New Zealand Cricket. "I'm not fifth. This week I've dropped to No. 5. It's tough," said Stead. "I've been competing in a lot of tournaments. It's been a bit up and down." New Zealand will take the field against Sri Lanka for the series-decider.

"I want to thank Gio for the opportunity to lead the club again this season," said Ajax goalkeeper Donny van de Beek. "The players have been working very hard and I'm looking forward to helping them win trophies."

"I'm really happy to be back," said Sancho. "I've been away for a long time and I'm excited to get back on the pitch."

"We're really excited to have Sancho back in the team," said manager Erik ten Hag. "He brings a lot of quality to our side and I'm sure he will make a big impact.

"I'm just happy to be back. I can't wait to get started," said Sancho. "I've missed the game so much and I'm ready to contribute to the team.

"I'm really looking forward to working with him and helping him settle into the team," said ten Hag. "He's a great player and I'm sure he will make a big impact.
