Lifting ban 'antithesis to secularism' vs wearing hijab 'matter of choice'; larger bench to decide it

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Thursday delivered a split verdict on the hijab ban in Karnataka's educational institutions, with Justice Hemant Gupta holding that permitting a community to wear its religious symbols will be an "antithesis to secularism" and Justice Sudhanshu Dhulia insisting that wearing the Muslim headscarf should be simply a "matter of choice".

Both judges suggested placing the matter before a larger bench for adjudication. As it is a split verdict differing totally from each other, now the matter will go to the Chief Justice of India to form a larger bench to decide the case and the High Court judgment upholding the State Government's decision to ban hijab holds the field.

While Justice Gupta dismissed the appeals challenging the March 15 judgment of the Karnataka High Court which had refused to lift the ban Justice Dhulia held there shall be no restriction on the wearing of hijab anywhere in the schools and colleges of the Writing a separate 73-page judgment, Justice Dhulia said, By asking the girls to take off their hijab before they enter the school gates is first an invasion of their privacy, then it is an attack on their dignity, and then ultimately it is a denial to them of secular education."

Justice Gupta, who was heading the bench and wrote a contrary verdict running into 133-pages, answered the 11 questions framed by him for consideration in the matter and said the Constitutional goal of fraternity will be defeated if the students are permitted to carry their apparent religious symbols with them to the classroom. While pronouncing the judgment on a batch of 26 petitions, Justice Gupta said at the outset, "There is divergence of

"In view of the divergent views expressed by the bench, the matter be placed before the Chief Justice of India for constitution of an appropriate bench," the court said. In his verdict, Justice Gupta said the arguments advanced by the counsel for some of the appellants that this matter involves a substantial question of law and should be referred to a fivejudge bench is "not tenable".

"The practices of each faith have to be examined on the basis of the tenets of that religion alone. The essential religious practices of the followers of Sikh faith can't be made basis of wearing of hijab by the believers of Islamic faith.

India abstains from UNGA vote on Russia annexation

Call consistent with national position: Envoy

NEW DELHI, FRIDAY OCTOBER 14, 2022; PAGES 12 ₹3

PNS/AGENCIES ■ NEW DELHI/ UNITED NATIONS

India has abstained from voting in the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) against Russia's annexation of some parts of Ukraine. China also did not take part in the voting along with Cuba, Pakistan, South Africa, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and Vietnam.

Explaining her country's position, India Permanent Representative to the UN, Ambassador Ruchira Kamboj said late on Wednesday that New Delhi's decision is "consistent" with its "well thoughtout national position."

India stands ready to support all efforts aimed at deescalation while underlining the importance of peaceful solutions through dialogue and diplomacy, she said.

The voting took place on the issue of a draft resolution that condemned Russia's "illegal" referendums and attempts to annex parts of Ukraine.
The 193-member General

Assembly voted against Russia, criticising its "illegal so-called referendums in regions within the internationally recognised borders of Ukraine and the attempted illegal annexation of the Donetsk, Kherson, Luhansk, and Zaporizhzhia regions of Ukraine, following the organisation of the above mentioned referendums".

The resolution "Territorial integrity of Ukraine: defending the principles of the Charter of the United Nations" was adopted with 143 nations voting in favour; Russia, Belarus, North binocular in the UN General Assembly, before it voted on a resolution condemning Russia's illegal referendum in Ukraine on Wednesday at UN headquarters

Korea, Syria, and Nicaragua voting against; and 35, including India, abstaining. Kamboj said India urged that all efforts be made for an immediate cessation of hostilities and an urgent return to the path of dialogue and diplomacy. "The path to peace requires us to keep all channels of diplomacy open. We therefore sincerely hope for an early resumption of peace talks to bring about an immediate ceasefire and resolution of the conflict. India stands ready to support all such efforts aimed at de-escalation," Kamboj said. "There are other pressing issues at play, some of which have not been adequately addressed in the resolution voted today. Our decision to abstain is consistent with our well thought-out national position," she added.

Quoting Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who had last month told Russian President Vladimir Putin that this is not an era of war, Kamboj said with this firm resolve to strive for a peaceful solution through dialogue and diplomacy, India has decided to abstain. She emphasised it is unfortunate that as the trajectory of the Ukrainian conflict unfolds. the entire global South has suffered "substantial collateral damage".

"As developing countries face the brunt of the conflict's consequences on food, fuel and fertiliser supplies, it is critical that the voice of the Global South be heard and their legitimate concerns duly addressed. We must therefore not initiate measures that further complicate a struggling global economy," she said. The resolution declared that the "unlawful actions" of Russia with regard to the illegal so-called referendums held from September 23 to 27 in parts of the Donetsk, Kherson, Luhansk, and Zaporizhzhia regions of Ukraine and the subsequent attempted illegal annexation of these regions "have no validity under international law and do not form the basis for any alteration of the status of these regions of Continued on Page 2

There has been a 60 per cent drop in the pace of highways constructions across the country. From a record 37 km road construction a day for 2020-21, the pace of national highways construction slipped to merely 19.44 km a day in the current fiscal.

The pace of construction had slowed down to an average of 28.64 km per day due to Covid-19 related issues in 2021-2022. Now the construction has to grow at a rapid pace of 55 km a day in the remaining period to achieve the target of building 40 km per day set by the Government for the current fiscal. "The Ministry has constructed 3,559 kilometres of National Highways up to September in 2022-23 as compared to 3,824 kilometres constructed up to September in 2021-22," the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways

(MoRTH) said in its monthly summary for the Cabinet for September 2022.

According to the Ministry data, the contract award figure is 4,092 kilometres during April-September this year, as compared to 4,609 kilometres in the corresponding period a year ago. Reacting to the slow down, Road Transport Minister Nitin Gadkari said problems relating to land acquisition and environmental clearances, apart from Covid-related disruptions, were coming in way of faster execution of projects. Gadkari, who has been regularly credited to give a massive fillip to the highways and expressways constructions in the country, assured that the Ministry and NHAI are trying to meet the target.

Rahul warns BJP-RSS of facing full force if Kannada language attacked

His warning comes days after JDS leader Kumaraswamy alleged that the central Staff Selection Commission (SSC) exam was being held only in Hindi and English and not in Addressing a public meeting in Molakalmuru town in Chitradurga district as part of ongoing 'Bharat Jodo Yatra,' Rahul said unemployed youth asked him why they cannot give their tests in Kannada.

He opined that people > lated by the High Court, including whether wearing hijab or headscarf is part of essential religious practice in Islamic aith protected under Article 25 of the Constitution. "In my opinion, the question of Essential Religious Practices, which we have also referred to in this judgment as ERP, was not at all relevant in the determination of the dispute before the court. I say this because when protection is sought under Article 25(1) of the Constitution of India, as is being done in the present case, it is not required for an individual to establish that what he or she asserts is an

ERP," Justice Dhulia said. "It may simply be any religious practice, a matter of faith or conscience! Yes, what is

'public order, morality and health,' and of course, it is subject to other provisions of Part III of the Constitution," he said. Justice Dhulia said in his opinion, courts are not the forums to solve "theological questions". "Courts are not well equipped to do that for various reasons, but most importantly because there will always be more than one viewpoint on a particular religious matter, and therefore nothing gives the authority to the Court to pick one over the other," he said. Justice Dhulia said the courts, however, must interfere when the boundaries set by the Constitution are broken, or where unjustified restrictions are imposed. He said another question which the school administration and the State must answer in this case is as to what is more important to them: "education of a girl child or enforcement of a dress code

In his verdict, Justice Gupta noted that some of the appellants had also made a comparison with the rights of the followers of the Sikh faith by arguing that since 'Kirpan' is allowed in terms of Explanation I to Article 25, therefore, the students who want to wear headscarf should be equally protected as in the case of the followers of the Sikh religion. He said the issue in these appeals is not the essential religious practices of the people following Sikh faith.

the followers of Sikh faith cannot be made basis of wearing of hijab/headscarf by the believers of Islamic faith," Justice Gupta said. "As discussed above, secularism is applicable to all citizens, therefore, permitting one religious community to wear their religious symbols would be antithesis to secularism," he said.

According to a senior police official, based on a complaint given by Subedar Nazar Mohammed the police have registered a case under relevant sections 295-A, 323,506,147,148 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) related to rioting, trying to cause religious strife and unlawful assembly at Bilaspur Police Station on Thursday. Those named in the FIR have been identified as Rajesh Chauhan aka Babbu, Anil Bhadoriya Sanjay Vyas and 200 other people of the village. The police have started the investigation of the case. The complainant alleged that Rajesh, Anil, Sanjay and 200 people gathered at the mosque and attacked the worshipers and even locked it from outside. By the time police reached, the accused had fled, he said. "The mob of several people beat us and threatened to expel us from the village as we have only 3-4 families residing in the village. On Wednesday night when we offered namaaz they attacked us and few of worshipers injured in the attacked. The attacker was also carrying a pistol," the complainant alleged.

Police have recovered a mobile phone from the spot which may belong to someone part of the attacking mob, he said. "These people were harassing us for the past few days and had tried to disrupt namaaz. We required strict action against those involved in the matter," he added.

NCW chief, Italia trade charges; AAP slams BJP for Gopal Italia's brief detention

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

High drama ensued on Thursday involving the AAP, BJP and the National Commission for Women (NCW) after the Gujarat unit AAP president Gopal Italia was summoned for allegedly using abusive language against Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Just after the NCW hearing ended in the afternoon, Italia, was briefly detained by Delhi Police and taken to Southeast Delhi's Sarita Vihar police station, amid protests from AAP workers.

After that Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, Sanjay Singh, Atishi, Saurav Bhardwaj, Gopal Rai and Durgesh Pathak defended Italia and criticized the BJP. Kejriwal tweeted in Hindi, "After Gopal Italia was held, there is huge anger among the Patel community in the State. Why is the entire BJP after Italia?'

In a press conference, AAP MLA from Kalkaji, Atishi said, "Italia is a youth leader who emerged from the Patidar movement. That's why BJP brings out fake allegations and fake videos against him every day. Crossing all limits, today Gopal Italia was called to Delhi and was arrested by Delhi Police in NCW."

spokesperson, AAPSaurabh Bharadwaj said that Italia has been arrested by Central Government-controlled Delhi Police at the behest of the BJP without any charge. Earlier, addressing a press conference, Italia accused Sharma of abusing him in her cabin. "She scolded me and threatened that she would file an FIR against me and send me to prison. She asked me what status do I have?," said Italia.

"Later, I met my lawyer and told him that the Chairperson treated me very rudely. She did not record my statements nor did she talk about the matter for which I was summoned," Italia said.

"In the meantime, the NCW called the police and I was told, in the presence of police, that I have to sit upstairs," said Italia "There were 8-10 people in civil uniform. I do not know who they were and if they were present in an official capacity? There was a woman who was continuously recording a video, and I asked them if the video was official and was told that it was for official purposes," said Italia.

"But all-in-all, NCW did not have any interest in the notice during the entire pro-ceeding and they made the police take me to the police station," said Italia. Meanwhile, the NCW officials claimed that Italia was detained after the hearing for creating a situation that dis-rupted law and order in the area. Police said that a complaint was received claiming Italia's supporters were creating ruckus outside the NCW building following which a police team reached the spot.

"MCD hopes that the said expedient relaxation to the general public will abridge the approval-processing of such building sanction cases," it said, adding that the civic body is committed to the welfare of services by making compliances easy and minimum. "This decision came after the

Fire tenders, ambulances soon in Chandni Chowk: LG

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

 $F^{\rm ire\ tenders\ and\ ambulances}_{\rm will\ soon\ be\ deployed\ in}$ and around Delhi's iconic Chandni Chowk to deal with emergency situations in the area known for its heritage buildings and old markets.

A stretch of Chandni Chowk has been revamped as part of the Delhi Government's redevelopment project.

Delhi Lieutenant-Governor (L-G) VK Saxena has said an exercise to identify fire-prone locations for deployment of fire tenders as also for deployment of ambulances is being undertaken here by the fire department.

The "initiative will be started from Chandni Chowk before Diwali", he said. Saxena visited Chandni Chowk in old Delhi on Wednesday and interacted with members of various traders' associations, RWAs and a section of visitors in a bid to upgrade amenities in the heritage precinct, facilitate smooth conduct of trade and make shopping a pleasing experience in heritage market, officials said on Thursday.

"They complained about overhanging electric wires that often lead to fire incidents in the area and requested for L-G's immediate intervention to address the issue," the Raj Niwas said in a statement.

They brought to his notice, several restrictions and problems that not only affected their daily businesses but also caused hardships to a large number of people, particularly the elderly, women and children, residing in the area, it said. Delhi Chief Secretary, Special Officer of Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD), Special Commissioner of Police (traffic) and several other senior officers of MCD, Public Works Department (PWD) and Delhi Police accompanied the L-G during the visit, it said.

The L-G was also informed that apart from over 60 'katras' that attract lakhs of people every day, nearly 60,000 people also reside in the narrow bylanes of Chandni Chowk and massive congestion often leads to fire and medical emergencies, it said.

To this, the L-G assured that very soon fire tenders and ambulances will be deployed in and around the Chandni Chowk area to deal with any such emergency situations, the statement said.

'Katras' in Chandni Chowk will also get a facelift, it said.

The L-G instructed officials to identify and develop one 'katra' as a pilot, and later replicate the model to other 'katras' 'in Chandni Chowk, the statement said.

The redevelopment of the 'katra' envisages facade improvement, removing overhanging electric wires, repair of footpaths, drainage and repair and maintenance of street lights among other works, it said.

During his visit, the L'G, accompanied by the officials, took a round of the main market from the iconic Town Hall to Katra Neel, and back to the Red Fort and interacted with several local traders and visitors to the market.

MCD trying to give LG more teeth, BJP has conceded defeat: Kejriwal

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal on Thursday said that the BJP has conceded defeat in the municipal polls even before they have been announced, claiming the Delhi civic body's law department is reworking the MCD Act to give the Lieutenant-Governor (L-G) VK Saxena more teeth.

Taking to Twitter, the Chief Minister exhorted Delhiites to not vote for the BJP and asserted that his Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) will emerge victorious in the civic polls whenever they are

Reacting to the report that MCD Act will be amended to give power to the L-G, Kejriwal said, "This means the BJP has conceded defeat even before the MCD elections.'

"Don't waste your vote by voting for the party that has lost. After winning the MCD elections, the Aam Aadmi Party Government will make Delhi a clean and beautiful city, and get rid of garbage mountains," he said in a tweet in Hindi.

The BJP ruled the three erstwhile municipal corporations in Delhi and the AAP was the main Opposition party till the terms of the civic bodies expired in May.

Elections to constitute a new civic body, which comes under the BJP-led Centre, are yet to be held as an exercise for delimitation of municipal wards is underway in the national Capital.

'MCD studied best civic practices, will revise 1957 Act'

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW

A'study' was conducted by the Municipal Athe Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD) aimed at assessing the best civic administration-related practices across India, and seeking revision of some of the provisions of the old Delhi Municipal Corporation (DMC) Act, 1957 to bring it "in tune with the modern times".

According to a senior MCD official privy to the matter, "We have undertaken a study which began recently, to assess the best municipal practices across India, at corporations in various cities. The idea is to study the best of the municipal laws, and adopt the best practices to give the best deliverables to Delhiites."

Officials said, adding a private legal policy firm has been roped in to assist the MCD in the study. "Laws are dynamic, and it is good to be responsive to present needs of society. And, if there are certain aspects of the law, which are archaic, say related to hackney carriage, then do we need to still carry them? But, we are not the authority, any amendment can be brought in by Parliament or the Delhi Assembly. We are just studying the best practices," the official said.

He claimed it was an "academic study" and has "no connection with the forthcoming civic elections", adding, the study span "will go beyond the election time"

MCD polls are expected to take place at the end of 2022 or early next year.

The Central Government has fixed the total number of seats in the MCD at 250 from the existing figure of 272 as part of a delimitation exercise.

The previous three corporations in Delhi comprised 104 wards each in North and South corporations and the East corporation had 64 wards under their jurisdictions.

"A lot has changed since 1950s when the DMČ Act was enacted," he said. The erstwhile unified Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD) had come into being in April 1958 and it was set up after amalgamating several local bodies and administrative committees, according to archival records.

With support of fellow residents of Delhi and the inspirational guidance of Lt. Governor, Shri V.K. Saxena, we at MCD are striving to provide better civic amenities in the National Capital.

In this direction, efforts are being made to flatten the garbage mounds in Delhi by scientific method and public co-operation. As you all know, the entire garbage of Delhi is dumped into the Ghazipur, Okhla and Bhalaswa sanitary landfill sites. Due to continuous dumping for the last 35-40 years, heaps of garbage at these landfill sites have turned into garbage 'mountains' of 50 to 60 metres height, containing 280 lakh tonnes of garbage.

All units of Municipal Corporation are involved in reducing the height of these unseemly mounds by undertaking the disposal of garbage accumulated there. In this process, while on the one hand, we are using plastic waste in Waste to Energy Plant to generate electricity, on the other hand, we are segregating Construction & Demolition Waste (C&D Waste) and Inert Waste and turning them into useful products which can be used to fill low-lying areas and pot-holes, make foundation of a building, road construction, inter-locking blocks, etc.

It is a matter of pleasure that the appeal made under the guidance of Hon'ble Lieutenant Governor has received tremendous support from the public and we have been successful in disposal of about 21,000 MT of Inert / C&D waste. The garbage at these landfill sites have also been reduced to nearly 203 lakh tonnes.

I appeal to the residents of Delhi and the National Capital Region, Builders, Road Developers, Contractors and related Government Agencies to continue their support to optimally use the C&D Waste and Inert Material for their construction activities and become our partners in addressing this festering problem affecting the National Capital.

It has been decided that any department, agency, individual or contractor, etc. can take the available C&D and Inert material for their use themselves, free of cost from these three landfill sites. In this regard, you can take permission of Municipal Corporation of Delhi by writing to ceprojectmcd@gmail.com giving details of your requirement. UNGA session: India slams Pak for raking up Kashmir issue

India has criticized Pakistan for raising the issue of Kashmir in the United Nations emergency special session on the Ukraine conflict and said such statements by Islamabad deserve the "collective contempt"of the international community.

Taking exception to Pakistan's remarks, India's Permanent Representative to the UN, Ambassador Ruchira Kamboj also said late Wednesday such comments also call for "sympathy for a mindset which repeatedly utters falsehoods.'

She made these observations while delivering the explanation of the vote after the 193-member General Assembly voted overwhelmingly on late Wednesday to condemn Russia's illegal referendum and annexation of the Donetsk, Kherson, Luhansk, and Zaporizhzhia regions of Ukraine.

"We have witnessed unsurprisingly yet again an attempt by one delegation to misuse this forum and make frivolous and pointless remarks against my country. Such statements deserve our collective contempt and sympathy for a mindset which repeatedly utters falsehoods," Kamboj

"It is important, however, to set the record straight. The entire territory of Jammu and Kashmir is and will always be an integral and inalienable part of India irrespective of what the representative of Pakistan believes or covets. We call on Pakistan to stop cross-border terrorism so that our citizens can enjoy their right to life and liberty," Kamboj said.

Her sharp reaction came in response to remarks by Pakistan's ambassador to the UN Munir Akram. He said under international law, the right of self-determination applies to peoples who are under foreign or colonial dom-ination and those who have not vet exercised the right to selfdetermination "as in the case of Jammu and Kashmir". He said the exercise of the right to self-determination should be conducted in an environment free of military occupation and preferably under the supervision of the United Nations.

India has repeatedly told Pakistan that Jammu and Kashmir "was, is and shall forever" remain an integral part of the country. India has said it desires normal neighbourly relations with Pakistan in an environment free of terror, hostility and violence.

SC asks Centre to respond to Ram Setu plea filed by Swamy

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Thursday asked the Government to file its reply in the plea filed by BJP leader Subramanian Swamy seeking Ram Setu to be declared as a national heritage monument. The Bench of Justices DY Chandrachud and Hima Kohli directed the Centre to file its reply when Swamy complained that for the past eight years the Government is evading it.

"Union of India has failed to file its affidavit. The matter is pending for eight years. They should file an affidavit and say when will they decide. It has been going on and on. They should file a counter. If they are opposing they have to say so. Otherwise they are supporting, there is no other way," Swamy told the Court. The bench asked ASG Madhvi Divan to file the reply before the next date of hearing.

Parl panel proposal yet another bid at Hindi imposition, says CPM

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NFW DFI HI

Accusing the BJP-led Government of trying to impose Hindi as the official language of the country, the CPI (M) on Thursday said that the recent report of the Parliament committee on official languages was one such instance.

In the editorial of the party organ People's Democracy said that if the recommendations of the Committee of Parliament on Official Language headed by the Union Home Minister Amit Shah, be implemented it would mean that students of non-Hindi background would have to qualify in the entrance examinations for these institutions in Hindi and also adopt the Hindi medium of instrucdiscriminatory against those with strong opposition from dents. The same would apply to some of the non-Hindi state governments, it was clarified that Hindi would be the compulsory medium of instruction in central educational institutions situated in the Hindi states while in the other non-Hindi states, the respective regional languages would be the medium of instruction," the editorial said.

The party said that this did not solve the problem as Central universities or IITs in Hindi-speaking states would only admit students who are equipped for the Hindi medium of instruction.

Thus these central institutions, which have a pan-India character, will now be open only to Hindi-knowing students, countered the party. "Thus, the Delhi IIT or a ty like the Banaras Hindu tisements should continue to be whose mother-tongue is not University would become out allocated to Hindi language Hindi. If central educational institutions situated in the non-Hindi states adopt the state/regional language as the medium of instruction, then it would serve only students of that state or region. This would mean that the all-India character of these institutions would be nullified," it said. The editorial further stated that a democratic language policy would require that all the 22 languages listed in the Eighth Schedule as national languages are treated on an equal basis. "The recommendations of the official language committee in other matters too militate against this equal-

With the election for Congress president scheduled for October 17, Shashi that there is not a `level-playing field' in the campaign but his opponent M Mallikarjun Kharge, who is considered to be a favourite to win the race to the top post, refused to be drawn into a controversy and played it down saying they are "brothers". During a visit to Delhi Congress office, Tharoor said several PCC chiefs and senior leaders were not available for a meeting with him during his visits to their respective states, but they warmed up to Kharge when he visited them for support. Seeking votes from delegates at the Delhi Pradesh Congress Committee (DPCC) office, Tharoor said he wanted to bring a "change" in the organisation.

He also said he aimed to "bring back" the voters who did not support the Congress in the 2014 and the 2019 Lok Sabha polls. "I want to bring a change in the party. I want to bring back those voters who didn't stand by our side in 2014 and 2019," he told the delegates. Tharoor further rued that he could not meet some delegates as their contact details were "missing" from the list that was provided to him.

"There were incomplete contact details in the list of delegates that we received. Some lists had names but no contact numbers, some had names but no proper address. Hence, it was difficult to reach out to them," Tharoor

He said he doesn't "blame anyone" for the "incomplete" lists and that there are "flaws" in the party's system as no such election was held in 22 years. "There are flaws in the system and we all know that. The problem is that the party's presidential elections didn't happen since the last 22 years," he said.

Tharoor, however, maintained that the presidential election will be held in a "free and fair" manner and that there is no enmity with Kharge. "This elections is about two Congress members focusing to strengthen the party," he said. Kharge is being seen as a favourite for the top party post because of his perceived proximity to the Gandhi family. But Tharoor has reiterated time and again that the Gandhis have made it clear that they will

"We are brothers. Someone can speak in a different manner. can do it in a different way. There are no differences between us," Kharge said.

Congress' central election authority issued a directive that all AICC general secretaries, state in-charges, secretaries and joint secretaries would cast their vote in the party's presidential polls either at their home state or at the party headquarters here and not in their assigned state. "This has been done in order to remain impartial and maintain transparency in the election process", according to the directive issued by CEA chairman

"The Central Election Authority has decided that no AICC general secretaries/state in-charges, secretaries and jt. The Delhi High Court on Thursday sought the Centre's stand on Zee Media's challenge to a Ministry of Information and Broadcasting order withdrawing the permission granted to the media house for uplinking its TV channels in Ku Band on GSAT-15 Satellite. A bench of Chief Justice

Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Subramonium Prasad issued notice on the petition by Zee Media and granted time to the Centre to file its response.

In its petition, Zee Media has sought setting aside the Ministry's September 23 order and urged the court to restore the permission granted to it on October 31, 2019 to uplink its 10 channels simultaneously on Ku band. The 10 channels of Zee

Media Corporation Ltd removed on account of the order are Zee Hindustan, Zee Rajasthan, Zee Punjab Haryana Himachal, Zee Bihar Jharkhand, Zee Madhya Pradesh Chhattisgarh, Zee Uttar Pradesh Uttarakhand, Zee Salaam, Zee 24 Kalak, Zee 24 Taas and Zee Odisha (now Zee Delhi NCR Haryana). The petitioner has contended the Ministry's order was perverse as it was passed in violation of the principles of natural justice and that the complaints on the basis of which it was passed have not been shared till date with the petitioner.

"Without access to these key documents, the petitioner has been put at a grave disadvantage and is unable to exercise its right to a free and fair hearing," it has said. By being on the GSAT-15 satellite, these channels were accessible on DD FreeDish, effectively making them free-to-air. According to the ministry, this gave Zee an unfair advantage over com-

The High Court had then directed the Centre to pass a final order in the matter after receiving the reply from those to whom the show cause notices were issued.

The PIL has claimed losses running into crores of rupees was being caused to the public exchequer because of the illegal placement of the channels uplinked by Dish TV India

The PIL said the participation fee for e-auction also includes a non-refundable processing fee of Rs 25,000 and a refundable demand draft of Rs 1.50 crore in favour of Prasar Bharti. It sought immediate stoppage of "illegal carriage" of these channels on DD Free Dish DTH platform and an investigation into the "scam".

ED files chargesheet against journalist Rana Ayyub for money laundering

PNS NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Thursday said it has filed a Prosecution Complaint (chargesheet in police parlance) against journalist Rana Ayyub on money laundering charges before a Special Court in Ghaziabad.

The ED had initiated money laundering investiga-tion on the basis of an FIR registered on September 7, 2021 by the Indirapuram Police Station. Ghaziabad, Uttar Pradesh, under various sections of the Penal Information Technology Amendment Act and Black Money Act against Ayyub alleging that she illegally acquired funds from general public in the name of charity by launching fund-raiser campaigns on an online crowdfunding platform-'Ketto'.

It was also alleged that Ayyub is a journalist by profession and received foreign contributions without registration under Foreign Contribution Regulation Act that Rana Ayyub launched 3 fundraiser campaigns on 'Ketto platform' starting from April 2020, and collected funds totaling to Rs 2,69,44,680, namely: Help in raising funds for slum dwellers & farmers, Relief work for Assam, Bihar and Maharashtra and Help Rana Ayyub and her team to help those impacted by Covi-19 in India," the agency said in a Ayyub utilized these funds to create a fixed deposit of Rs 50 lakh for herself and also transferred Rs 50 lakh in a new bank account, it said.

The ED investigation revealed that only about Rs 29 lakh was used for relief work.

"In order to claim more expenses towards relief work, fake bills were submitted by Ms Rana Ayyub," it said.

Subsequently, bank balances in the accounts of Rana Ayyub amounting to Rs 1,77,27,704 (including FD of Rs 50 lakh) were attached under section 5 (1) of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) vide a Provisional Attachment Order dated Investigation by ED further revealed that Ayyub illegally raised Rs 2.69 crore by launching three online campaigns in the name of charity by cheating the general public donors. These funds were not used for the intended purpose, instead used for creation of assets for herself, it said.

Ayyub has tried to project these funds as untainted and thus has laundered the funds received from the general public. She also received these funds from foreign countries without any approval or registration from the government which is required under FCRA.

"ED Investigation has established that Ms. Rana Ayyub had launched the aforesaid campaigns with the sole intention to cheat the general public and acquired Proceeds of Crime in form of FD and balances in bank accounts projecting them as untainted. Further proceedings in this case are in progress," it added.

-PAPER WITH PASSION-

Split verdict

It delays resolution of an issue but also underlines the diversity of thought that guides our top judges wo Supreme Court judges, two viewpoints. The split verdict can be seen as problematic, for an important question—whether a ban on hijab in classrooms is justified—remains unanswered. Yet, it also underlines the diversity of thought that guides our top judges. While Justice Hemant Gupta supported the ban on hijab, Justice Sudhanshu Dhulia opposed it, saying that "it's ultimately a matter of her choice." Gupta relied mainly on the essential practices doctrine—that is, the practices which comprise the essential part of a religion. For instance, having uncut hair and beard is regarded as an essential part of Sikhs. This is the reason that Sikh soldiers are allowed to grow beards and wear turbans, because without a beard and turban a Sikh won't be a proper Sikh. But a Muslim from the armed forces is not allowed to have a beard. In December 2016, the Supreme Court upheld the sacking of an Indian Air Force (IAF) man for keeping a long beard. "Every member of the Air Force, while on duty, is required to wear the uniform and not display any sign or object which distinguishes one from another. Uniformity of personal appearance is quintessential to a cohesive, disciplined and coordinated functioning of an armed force," the top court had said. It went on to add that this prohibition didn't infringe upon their fundamental right to religion. Similarly, a Hindu soldier is not allowed to apply tika on his forehead while on duty, for he doesn't lose his faith without a tika. Similarly, a Muslim woman doesn't cease to be Muslim if she doesn't wear a hijab or burga.

Dhulia, on the other hand, laid more emphasis on the Muslim girl child's right to education. He invalidated the Karnataka High Court judgment and quashed the Karnataka Government's order of February 5, 2022, which had empowered college management committees to decide on the matter. "The court probably took the wrong path. It was simply a question of Article 19(1)(a), its applicability and Article 25(1), primarily. And it's ultimately a matter of her choice..." he said. "The thing which was uppermost on my mind while deciding this case was about the education of a girl child," Dhulia said. While his concern for girls' education is admirable, his contention that their "choice" should matter doesn't appear very cogent. For what Muslim or Hindu girls wear mostly depends on their parents, family, and the social environment. Secondly, downplaying the essential practices doctrine, which has been evolved by the apex court only, doesn't seem very good. Common law countries like India depend on precedent rather than prescription. After all, the Supreme Court's Sabarimala verdict of 2017 was based on this doctrine only. Now the matter has gone to Chief Justice UU Lalit for appropriate directions. Hopefully, the matter would be resolved in accordance with the essential practices doctrine but without offending the sensibilities of Muslims, even those who are orthodox.

Is AI intelligent enough?

AI though noteworthy, is still work in progress, as was evident in Ai-Da's address to House of Lords rtificial intelligence or Al as it is popularly known, has come a long way. It is no more confined to rudimentary chores like cleaning or serving but taking up Amore complex tasks such as designing, surgery, creating artworks, etc. which were hitherto impossible for machines to undertake. A demo of the Al power was witnessed by the UK parliament where a humanoid robot, Ai-Da, addressed it. Though, not everything went as planned as Ai-Da, while addressing went to sleep due to a glitch and had to be rebooted. It proved that though technology has advanced significantly, it is still a work in progress. Ai-Da was created in 2019 by Aidan Meller. In the first-ever address of its kind, Ai-Da spoke to members of the 'Communications and Digital Committee' about the scope and nature of Al's creativity and if creativity itself was to undergo a paradigm shift due to Artificial Intelligence. The UK committee asked it: How do you produce art and how is this different from what human artists produce? In response, Al-Da candidly said, that it did not have subjective experiences, despite being able to talk about them. It had to depend on, computer programs and algorithms. That is the truth. Although not alive, it can still create art but that is as meaningless as a parrot reciting Sanskrit Shlokas.

Ai-Da also talked about what constituted art. It said art can be many things, from a painting to a drawing or a poem. And that its art practice includes all of the above. At the end of the day for Al no matter how advance it is just zeros and ones, devoid of any value system whatsoever. Technology has already had a huge impact on the way we create art. Indeed technology is changing the way we think and act and in the future, its impact would be much more profound. However, it would always have limitations. Creativity for is not mechanical it is human emotion reflected on paper or screen. No matter how beautiful an Al painting might be, it would not reflect human emotion, at least for now. Besides, as Al enters more complex domains such as writing medical prescriptions or taking military decisions we would have to tread with caution as it could go wrong as Ai-Da and the result could be catastrophic. Maybe we are creating Frankenstein's monster rechristened Al. The very thought sends shivers down the spine!

Orwellian world of Indian liberals RAVI SHANKER KAPOOR

Liberals are fuelling the pro-hijab agitation-almost transforming hijab, an instrument of misogyny, into a symbol of protest

he contrast between protests over the hijab in Îran and India couldn't be starker. There are valiant women and men in the Islamic Republic of Iran who are protesting against the hijab which they rightly see as a symbol and instrument of oppression of women. On the other hand, there are some very educated liberals, including women, in the secular Republic of India who is proffering very specious arguments, as we shall see, to justify the hijab.

Brave Iranian women and even schoolgirls are openly opposing the hijab. They are protesting over the death of MahsaAmini, a 22-year-old Iranian Kurd woman, who was killed by the notorious morality police last month for allegedly not following the Islamic Republic's dress code.

Since then, dozens have died, but this has not deterred the protestors. On September 27, the Iranian men's football team covered their sports jerseys in black jackets as they sang the national anthem before their practice match against Senegal in Austria, a news report said.

Rafia Zakaria, an attorney who teaches constitutional law and political philosophy, wrote in Pakistan's Dawn on September 28, "Pakistani feminists must make it their business to amplify the voices of Iranian women who are fighting and protesting and showing the world what true feminist courage means."In short, women and men in two prominent Islamic Republics (one of which came into being in the name of Islam) are protesting against the hijab. And, in India, fashionable liberals, including some Muslim women, are justifying the dress code that is intended to domesticate women.

They support the hijab in the name of women's 'choice.' As if the hijab were a badge of honour and not a symbol of misogyny and oppression!It hasn't occurred to our liberals that the so-called women's choices are often the results of religious and was followed by the sec-would be instructive here to know about the horrific impact that religious dogma and age-old customs have on women of all faiths. In a paper for the Indian Journal of Social work, Cromwell Crawford, Professor at the Department of Religion, University of Hawaii, described Raja Ram Mohun Roy's heroic fight for the abolition of sati.

Crawford wrote, "The Raja's anti-sati campaign began in 1811-12 while stationed in Rangpur. The fiery death of his sister-in-law (1812) forged in him a determination to save all the sisters of his land from this unworthy rite. Among his early efforts, he used to frequent the cremation grounds in the Calcutta area to dissuade women who were about to sacrifice their lives. The Asiatic Journal reports that on one occasion he got the priests to light the fire before the woman ascending the pile, hoping that the flames would intimidate her. He insisted that this procedure was directed by the scriptures. Contrary to his expectations, one of the wives courageouswalked into the flames indoctrination for centuries. It ond. As she stood before the

Even in Independent India, social reform was resisted. Hindu Code Bills, for instance, were fiercely opposed by the champions of Hindus in politics. The Hindi satirist Hari Shankar Parsai noted with astonishment that even some women were against the Bills which were intended to, and did, emancipate women!Cognisant of the hijab's nature, the Karnataka High Court rightly upheld the ban on hijab at the Government Pre-University Girls College in Udupi in March. Its verdict was challenged in the Supreme Court which heard arguments of both sides and reserved its judgment.

> The verdict was following the essential practices doctrine that the Supreme Court conceived in 1954 and has applied in many cases. Curbs on any religious practice which is not essential are not regarded as violations of religious rights.Liberals are unnecessarily fuelling the agitation against restrictions on hijab. Almost transforming hijab, a symbol, and instrument of misogyny, into a symbol of protest. In their universe, slavery is freedom and freedom is slavery. A very Orwellian universe indeed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LOCAL LANGUAGES TAKE PRECEDENCE

Sir — The Committee of Parliament on official languages is reported to have recommended that the medium of instruction in technical and non-technical higher education institutes like IITs in Hindi-speaking states should be in Hindi and other parts of India in their local respective languages. The local languages take precedence in non-Hindi speaking states is a good idea. But how far it works in practice is to be seen. Also in this move, I see no language has been thrust on the students.

IITs and IIMs are prestigious institutions in our country. Even in the world rankings, our IITs find a place in the first hundred universities of excellence. What causes concern is that in prestigious higher education institutes English is the medium of instruction. If it is done in the local language, the standard of education will surely come down. Prospects of employment offered in many foreign countries to our students will be certainly deprived. The government should think twice before the recommendations are accepted since it cannot provide jobs to all IITians.

AAP EYES GUJARAT

Sir — The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) is trying to expand its footprint beyond its cradle of Delhi. It is also seeking to capitalize on its success in Punjab, where it formed a government earlier this year, and which boosted that ambition. The party is now eyeing Gujarat, where the contest between Bharativa Janata Party(BJP) and the Congress went down to the wire in 2017, and elections are due later this year.

AAP supremo Arvind Kejriwal is spending a lot of time in the state and counting chickens before they are hatched. His main hope is anti-incumbency favoring his party. But in the past, we have seen the ruling dispensation has an upper hand most of the time garnering the highest

FIRST COLUMN FOREIGN POLICY IN FLUID WORLD ORDER

India takes up G20 Presidency in challenging times

he war in Ukraine, which is getting more violent and gruesome with every passing day, is shaping the new chapter in international relations for all major powers around the globe. The age old adage of "politics makes strange bedfellows can very well be rephrased with the word "War".

India, the world's fifth largest economy, is now slowly beginning to unpack its ambition of taking the leadership position in global high tables of decision making. India is helming the G20 presidency for the next year. The Indian stack, as it is popularly known, consisting of digital platform for delivering healthcare /vaccination services, an electronic interface for digital payment transactions are two distinct products which India is most likely to pitch to the G20 as model of government backed digital delivery model for public welfare, which can be widely adopted across economies.

What would be important is to keep the neutrality, openness of technology platforms at the centre of the conversation when India pitches with its distinct digital delivery models. This is also coming at a time when India's relationship with most of the nations pitched on either sides of the fence in the Russia-Ukraine war is changing almost on a daily basis

The US cleared the sale of nearly $450 million package for what was termed as maintenance of F- 16 fleet for Pakistan last week. It is well known against whom these F-16 would be used in case of a military escalation. However, despite a few measured harsh reactions from the External Affairs Ministry, India did not escalate the matter with the US

The US has proposed an India US emerging defence capability dialogue which will go beyond the existing defence partnership. It could, as many sections from both sides of the government have pointed out, extend to transfer and manufacturing of key technology to India, and include new sections under cyber security, space and artificial intelligence. The second piece would need difficult conversations on the Indian side on harmonisation of standards, in the emerging technology segment.

What it suggests is the US is rethinking its security strategy in the Indo Pacific. It has so far given a privileged status to Pakistan, also place holding it, as the most influential ally of NATO in the region, but given the changed status of the Russia-China "no barriers friendship", it is perhaps time to consider India, in the big picture. India on its part has clearly outlined to the US the need to be suitably empowered or let us say compensated for gradually moving away from its long standing friend Russia in the long run. What may have accelerated India's shifting stance on Russia is similar to what has led the US to rethink its strategy and the China factor, besides the growing proximity between these two neighbours. India actively maintained a neutral stance on Russia's attack on Ukraine, but gradually it is fine-tuning the narrative to sound more and more critical of Russian action.

This shift comes at a time when India has grown to become the second largest buyer of Russian oil. The move has been justified to the world to be able to shield a vast section of its population from "globally imposed" inflation. The West, albeit critical, has started accepting India's stance. It is this agility in foreign policy India needs to deliver on when it takes on the G20 presidency in the next couple of months. (The author is foreign affairs commentator)

Rising dollar will hurt emerging economies

Dollar has gained strongly against global currencies, but this may also harm the US manufacturers badly ike every other major currency in the world except the Brazilian real and the Mexican peso, the Indian rupee has also been in a free fall against the US dollar during the last few months. While the dollar, sometimes described as the "the least-ugly mug in a beauty contest", seem to be gaining strength with every passing day, the British pound, the Japanese yen and the euro have taken most of battering, having lost 22 per cent, 20 per cent and 15 per cent of their values respectively against the dollar on a year-to-date basis. Even the Chinese renminbi has lost 11 per cent of its value.

Compared to these, the Rupee's fall at 10 per cent from Rs 74 to Rs 82 a dollar between October 2021 and October 2022 has been rather modest. The dollar's strength is judged by indexing it against a basket of currencies of the USA's major trading partners like Japan and the Eurozone countries. By that measure, the trade weighted dollar index has strengthened by almost 20 per cent during the last 12 months and is now at a 20-year high - a highest appreciation for an index that typically moves by tiny fractions from day to day.

To prop up the rupee, the RBI has already spent $110 billion of its forex reserves which now stand at $532 billion, equivalent to less than nine months of imports. Even after it announced a fourth consecutive interest rate hike, a widening trade deficit driven by rising oil prices and a slowdown in exports have dragged the rupee down, steamrolled by the US Federal Reserve's aggressive rate-hiking campaign which is drawing global capital into the US, pushing up the dollar. Experts expect the Rupee to be trading at 82-84 against the dollar by the year end.

When global energy prices rise, energy importers like Europe suffer while exporters like the US, Brazil or Russia benefit. The Ukraine war is a major cause of the current mayhem, but even otherwise also, the dollar - the most important international currency - is considered a safe haven in troubled times. With Europe being close to a recession, and repeated lockdowns slowing export growth in China whose contagion effects are spreading to all major Asian onomies, it seems the dollar's neyday will continue for some more time.

All over the world, central banks are raising interest rates to tame inflation, but the US Federal Reserve is hiking the rates much more aggressively than most, with the result that US interest rates are now higher than in many developed economies. Naturally, this is luring the investors since even relatively conservative and safer investments like the US Treasury bonds are now offering attractive interest rates. As money pours into the US economy, the dollar is appreciating against most other currencies by more than what was witnessed during the taper tantrum of 2013. As always, emerging markets are suffering the most from this. For six straight months till August, foreign investors had pulled their funds out of emerging markets in the longest streak of withdrawals on record, and their crucial investment capital had been flying away to the relative safety of the dollar. This is, however, nothing new; earlier also, rapid rate increases by the Fed in the past had thrown the emerging economies into tur-moil, like in Latin America with the "Lost Decade" in the 1980s, and the "Tequila" crisis in Mexico in the 1990s which eventually engulfed Russia and East Asia in a severe financial crisis.

ONLY THOSE WITH HIGHER RESERVES, LIKE CHINA, INDIA OR BRAZIL, CAN ABSORB THE SHOCK. AS THE FORMER TREASURY SECRETARY JOHN CONNALLY FAMOUSLY TOLD HIS COUNTERPARTS. "THE DOLLAR IS OUR CURRENCY, BUT IT'S YOUR PROBLEM"

(The author, a former Director General at the Office of the Comptroller & Auditor General of India, is a Professor at the Arun Jaitley National Institute of Financial Management)

Indeed, a strong dollar is posing serious economic consequences for the entire world as it is squeezing global credit because most countries borrow largely in dollars and as the dollar strengthens, dollar-denominated debts become costlier to repay out of domestic-currency revenues. The rising costs of debt servicing often outweighs the gains from exports in a devalued currency.

While a stronger dollar is expected to ease inflation in the US by making its imports cheaper, there are other factors which are working against it, like the already elevated price levels and the relatively low unemployment rate in the USA pushing higher wage inflation. If the inflation in the US remains stubborn and forces the Fed to raise the interest rates further, the dollar's rise will continue unabated into the next year. The impact of a strong dollar can be especially brutal for emerging economies like India, as foreign capital especially invested in the financial markets like the FPIs - tend to flow out of their countries. Only those with higher reserves, like China, India or Brazil, can absorb the shock. As the former Treasury secretary John Connally famously told his counterparts, "The dollar is our currency, but it's your problem.' But even for the US economy, the impact of a strong dollar may not be all that positive. The US manufacturer and exporters will suffer as their products will face lower demands in other countries due to high prices adding to the already high US trade deficits. As the US economist William Reinsch has pointed out, historically, there have been political backlashes after the dollar has remained strong for an extended period of time which might eventually build up pressure on the Fed to reverse its interest rate hikes to make US goods competitive in the world markets. Profits of US companies like Microsoft and Nike have already nosedived. Apple generates more than 60 per cent of its sales outside the USA like the other tech giants which together dominate many stock indices. All these companies will suffer from the dollar's increased strength. Rise of the dollar is estimated to shave five per cent off the earnings growth of the S&P 500 companies this year, amounting to more than $100 billion.

International institutions and communities must do more to?speed up debt restructuring to put countries back on a more sustainable fiscal path. For the dollar to weaken, global growth must pick up, because otherwise a downturn would only spark a continued flight of scarce capital to the perceived safety of the dollar, the world's most important reserve currency, leading to its further appreciation. Dollar's rise could reverse only if the

The US economy goes into a recession to make the Fed reduce the interest rates, or if a rapid reduction in price and wage pressures in the USA allows the Fed to apply a monetary break. But the dollar is unlikely to weaken unless global energy prices soften, which is again unlikely with out the Russia-Ukraine war finally coming to an end.

All these possibilities now seem to be rather dim and distant, which is why it is ever more important for the world to force Russia and Ukraine to come to a negotiated understanding. The more desperate Mr Putin becomes, the more important it is for the world to force him to see reason and stop the mindless brutality.

India must bank on exports for quick buoyancy The export basket has to be widened but in a shaky globe, opening new markets or selling new products is a challenge

→he critical world situation amid strengthening of dollar calls for a policy stimulation and rethink on being more Swadeshi for maintaining domestic, while predictions of UNCTAD, World Bank (WB) and IMF signal deceleration of world and Indian growth. The WB says 50 million more Indians slipped below the poverty line during the pandemic. Remedies are not easy and need home grown solutions. The UNCTAD expects India to grow at 5.7 per cent in 2022, WB puts it at 6.5 per cent from earlier 7.5 per cent and slashes 2022-23 growth by 80 basis points to 7.4 per cent and the IMF cuts it to 6.1 per cent for 2023-24. The Reserve Bank of India keeps it at seven and 7.2 per cent respectively. India's Chief Economic Advisor mistic that it will become the Anantha Nageswaran on September 20, 2022, said the Indian economy will grow at over seven per cent, down from above eight per cent projections made in January.

Indicators point to a contraction at global level as rupee falls below 81 to a dollar, imports surge and exports fall. The current account deficit is increasing and chances of exports growing looks not easy. The UNCTAD in its Trade and Development Report predicted world growth at 0.9 per cent less than the projections now at 2.6 per cent. It observes 90 developing country currencies weakening against the dollar this year over a third of them by more world's third largest economy. His confidence is based on the parameters of the domestic growth and other favourable pointers. Real GDP grew 13.5 per cent in the first quarter of 2022-23, surpassing the prepandemic level by 3.8 per cent. However, private consumption and investment during July-September in many sectors was sluggish. Possibly, he does not take money circulation into account, which has doubled from about Rs 16 lakh crore in 2016 to Rs 32 lakh crore.

Internationally it is not an easy situation. India has to see how imports are reduced and avoid international purchases like GM farm tech, train rakes and similar other products that the country's sector could produce. The domestic economy has always been a strength even during the 1970s and 1980s. The country was producing enough to feed its people. That is a prescription suggested for reducing income inequality. In January, the Sangh-affiliated SJM, along with seven other right-wing organisations, launched the 'Swavalambi Bharat Abhiyan' (SBA), which aims to make India unemployment-free by 2030. The latest event, 'Swawalamban

Shankhnaad, was part of a series of events being organised under the SBA banner. It is often touted that globalization has improved the development of many countries, including India, by creating has infused investments but there also have been high repatriation. India without making much fuss has initiated petroleum imports cut with ethanol blending programme. The government proposes to blend 20 per cent ethanol in petrol by 2025.

Average output growth of developing countries to reduce by 3 per cent, says UNCTAD and recommends all governments for tighter regulations for price reductions. It has initiated another move to reduce 40 per cent imports from China in 36 sectors. India imported around $87 billion worth of goods from China during 2021 wherein top 10 import product categories comprised around $54 bileconomic interdependence lion. It can reduce imports in 22. Merchandise exports may Globalization 36 sectors including chemicals, automotive components, bicycle parts, agro-based items, handicrafts, drug formulations, cosmetics, consumer electronics, and leather-based goods among others. But it has also to consider how it can reduce some hi-tech imports planned for railways, rapid transit systems and such others.

The government has initiated steps to cut imports carefully to save forex. The exports during April-September rose by 15.54 per cent to $229.05 billion. Imports increased by 37.89 per cent to $378.53 billion. The trade deficit during the first six months of the fiscal has widened to $149.47 billion as against $76.25 billion during April-September 2021range between $470-480 billion compared to $420 billion in 2021-22 and hopes for a trade deficit to remain at a comfortable level.

The export basket has to be widened but in a shaky globe opening new markets or selling new products remains a challenge. The present fiscal may not be that easy but if exports could match the expectations, the rupee may have more stability.

It is a tightrope walk. Global conditions remain difficult. September exports dipped by 3.52 per cent. The present fiscal as per UNCTAD will remain critical. The export trends must improve. Otherwise, the country may slip into a challenging situation unless the internal economy

kraine's capital region was struck by Iranian-made kamikaze drones early on Thursday, officials said, sending rescue workers rushing to the scene as residents awoke to air raid sirens for the fourth consecutive morning following Russia's major assault across the country earlier this

Kyiv regional governor Oleksiy Kuleba said the strike occurred in the area around the capital. It wasn't yet clear if there were any casualties.

Deputy head of the presidential office Kyrylo Tymoshenko said on Telegram that "critical infrastructure facilities" in the area were hit, without offering any details on which ones.

In the southern city of Mykolaiv, overnight shelling destroyed a five-story apartment building as fighting continued along Ukraine's south-

Mykolaiv Mayor Oleksandr Sienkovych said the building's top two floors were completely destroyed in a single strike and the rest of the building was left in rubble. There were no immediate reports of dead or wounded.

West to bolster Ukraine air defence

Unbowed Western powers pledged to supply Ukraine with more potent air defence systems following a furious bar-rage of retaliatory Russian missile strikes, including one that temporarily knocked Europe's biggest nuclear plant off the invaded country's electrical grid

The Russian-occupied Zaporizhzhia Nuclear Power Plant suffered a "blackout" when a missile damaged a distant electrical substation, Ukraine's state nuclear operator said.

The power loss increased the risk of a radiation emergency because the plant needs electricity to prevent its reactors from overheating.

Energoatom said the external power source was repaired after about eight hours and that the plant's emergency diesel generators - which rely on uncertain fuel deliveries in the war zone — provided backup in the meantime, but a similarly hazardous interruption could happen at any time.

"Russia has seized the plant and is not taking any steps to deescalate. On the contrary, it is shelling important infrastructure daily," the company's press service told The Associated Press.

Hundreds of cities and towns across Ukraine lost electricity after Russia launched a wide-ranging missile assault Monday in retaliation for a truck bomb explosion that damaged a bridge linking Russia with the Crimean Peninsula, which it annexed in 2014.

With repairs to the grid still in progress, Ukraine's prime minister asked people to reduce evening energy consumption by 25 per cent and prepare for winter by keeping essentials such as warm clothes, candles, flashlights and batteries ready.

As the barrage that killed dozens of Ukrainians this week continued, Ukraine's Western allies met at NATO headquarters in Brussels to calibrate their response. US Gen. Mark Milley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Ukraine wants its Western partners to provide it with a complete air defence system to contend with Russian warplanes and missiles.

Milley spoke to reporters after a meeting of the Ukraine Defence Contact Group, about 50 nations that meet regularly to assess Kyiv's needs and drum up equipment.

"What Ukraine is asking for, and what we think can be provided, is an integrated air missile defense system. So that doesn't control all the airspace over Ukraine, but they're designed to control priority targets that Ukraine needs to protect," Milley told reporters.

Andriy Yermak, the head of Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy's office, said the meeting was "historic" because decisions to close the sky for Ukraine were being made there.

Ukraine has put a priority on bucking up its air defences, but NATO member nations have worried how to do that without triggering a wider war in Europe. Zelenskyy's office said Moscow's retaliatory strikes killed at least 14 people and wounded 34 over the last day in the Zaporizhzhia region and the Donetsk region to the east. At least 19 died in Monday's opening onslaught, including five in Kyiv.

A day after Ukraine's Defence Ministry announced the arrival of the first of Germany's four promised IRIS-T air defence systems, the defence minister of the Netherlands said her country would deliver USD 14.5 million worth of air defence missiles in light of Russia's latest

NATO holds N-talks amid war tensions, Putin threats

NATO's secretive Nuclear Planning Group met Thursday as the military alliance presses ahead with plans to hold a nuclear exercise next week as concerns deepen over President Vladimir Putin's insistence that he will use any means necessary to defend Russian territory. Defense ministers led the session, which usually happens once or twice a year, at NATO headquarters in Brussels. It comes against a backdrop of high tension as some NATO allies, led by the U.S., supply Ukraine with advanced weapons and munitions to defend itself against Russian aerial attacks. NATO is keeping a wary eye on Russia's movements, but has so far seen no change in its nuclear posture. But additional uncertainty comes from the fact that Russia is also due to hold its own nuclear exercises soon, possibly at the same time as NATO or just after, according to NATO diplomats. That could complicate the

 $T^{\text{he UN General Assembly}}_{\text{voted overwhelmingly on}}$ Wednesday to condemn Russia's "attempted illegal annexation" of four Ukrainian regions and demand its immediate reversal, a sign of strong global opposition to the sevenmonth war and Moscow's attempt to grab its neighbour's

The vote in the 193-member world body was 143-5 with 35 abstentions. It was the strongest support from the General Assembly for Ukraine and against Russia of the four Russian troops invaded Ukraine on February 24.

The Western-sponsored resolution was a response to Russia's announced annexation last month of Ukraine's Donetsk, Luhansk, Kherson and Zaporizhzhia regions.

Moscow acted following Kremlin-orchestrated "referendums" that the Ukrainian government and the West have dismissed as sham votes conducted on occupied land amid warfare and displacement.

Even as Russia intensifies its attacks on Ukraine, its military appears to be suffering setbacks - from mounting casualties to dwindling military sup-

The Group of Seven countries — the United States, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and the United Kingdom convened an emergency meeting on October 11, 2022 and condemned Russia's recent missile strikes on Ukraine.

The latest onslaught began on October 9, 2022, targeting Ukrainian civilian infrastructure and multiple cities. That may indicate a more brutal phase of the nearly eight-month-long military adventure.

But even before those attacks rained down on Ukraine, Russian President Vladimir Putin addressed his insufficient military strength and authorised a partial draft on September 21, 2022 of 300,000 men to help Russia sustain what many experts consider an illegal offensive. So far, Russia reports that an estimated 200,000 new fighters have been drafted into the military. The draft has triggered a new wave of discontent across Russia. Hundreds of thousands of Russians have fled the country. There have also been multiple violent attacks on Russian military recruitment centers.

protests and has arrested more than 2,400 demonstrators. Meanwhile, public opinion polls by the Levada Center, Russia's leading independent polling group, continue to show that Russians overwhelmingly support Putin and the "special military operation," as he has called the war.

But as a scholar of Russia and public opinion, I think that public approval of the president and the assault on Ukraine is nevertheless shifting in light of the mobilization, as more families are torn apart by the hos-

Since the Ukraine invasion was launched in February 2022, Russians largely have been either sympathetic or apathetic toward the war. The public swiftly united behind Putin, and the war gradually became a backdrop to everyday life in Russia.

Russians polled have consistently said they "definitely" support Russia's military actions in . Ukraine, another roughly 30 per cent "rather" support them, and only 20 per cent do not support

The population has mostly accepted the war based on an unwritten social contract with the Kremlin, in which people obey the regime in exchange for better living standards and a lack of interference in their private

Russians generally feel more comfortable subscribing to prevailing narratives about the war espoused by Russian state media than grappling with negative information and difficult news

When Russia annexed four eastern and southern Ukrainian regions on September 30, 2022, Putin spoke publicly about what he called Russia's Western enemies. He blamed them for propping up the "Kyiv regime" and staging "inhumane terrorist attacks" in Ukraine's contested Donbas region. In doing so, Putin sought to justify the war's resulting hardship by arguing that Russians are fighting for their survival. Russians still overwhelmingly believe that the West is hostile to Russia and that the war is defensive. In August 2022, 71 per cent of people surveyed said they hold negative attitudes toward the United States, and 66 per cent reported having negative views toward Ukraine.

Some sociologists contend that polls in Russia may not be fully reliable due to a range of factors, including leading questions, incorrect wording, widespread indifference, and wariness about criticizing Putin and the government.

A survey in December 2021 demonstrated that Russians trusted the military more than any other state institution or official, including the president.

Russian law requires all men aged 18 to 27 to serve in the military for one year. A poll in July 2021 showed that 61 per cent of Russians felt that "every real man should serve in the army." China accuses US of 'Cold War thinking' in security strategy dhe Chinese government on Thursday accused Washington of "Cold War thinking" and appealed for efforts to repair strained relations after President Joe Biden released a national security strategy that calls for "out-competing China" and blocking its efforts to reshape global affairs.

The foreign ministry also accused Washington of trade protectionism after Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen said the United States would reinforce its global supply chains to guard against "geopolitical coercion" by China, Russia and other gov-document Wednesday accused China of trying to "erode US alliances" and "create more permissive conditions for its own authoritarian model." It called for "outcompeting China" in political alliances and "global governance" as well as business, technology and military affairs.

US-Chinese relations are at their lowest level in decades, strained by disputes over technology, security, Taiwan and human rights.

"Cold War thinking and zero-sum games, sensationalising geopolitical conflicts and great power competition are unpopular and unconstructive," said Foreign Ministry spokesperson Mao Ning. She called on Washington to "meet China halfway and promote China-US relations back to a healthy and stable track."

The White House document calls for the United States to "maintain a competitive edge" over China, which has antagonised Japan, India and other neighbours with an increasingly assertive foreign policy and growing military. China's multibillion-dollar Belt and Road Initiative to build ports, railways and other infrastructure across Asia and Africa has fed concern in Washington, Moscow and other capitals that Beijing is trying to build its strategic influence and undermine theirs

China, with the secondlargest global economy and military, is the "only competitor with both the intent to reshape the international order and, increasingly, the economic, diplomatic, military and technological power to do it," the document says.

China quashes social media posts about protest against Xi

China's internet censors moved quickly to scrub social media posts Thursday after reports that banners criticising the Communist leadership were hung from a busy intersection in the capital

Images on Twitter, which is blocked in China, showed smoke spiralling up from a fire on an elevated roadway and banners calling for an end to the hard-line "zero-COVID" policy and the overthrow of Communist Party leader and President Xi Jinping.

Political protest is rare in China, and police are on high alert this week in the run-up to a major Communist Party congress that opens Sunday. There were no banners hanging from the roadway later in the day, but a circular black scar was visible on the shoulder area where the fire would have been.

It was not clear who might have hung the banners or when they were placed.

Dozens of police milled about the area, entering stores. At times, they stopped pedestrians and questioned them. Associated Press journalists were questioned three times and asked to produce identification. Police denied anything unusual had happened in the area.

Three shopkeepers also denied seeing any banners, smoke or any unusual activity. One woman shook her head "no" without even looking up from her sewing

Kim supervised cruise missile tests: N Korea

AP ■ SEOUL

North Korean leader Kim Jong Un supervised tests of long-range cruise missiles, which he described as a successful demonstration of his military's expanding nuclear strike capabilities and readiness for "actual war", state media said on Thursday.

Wednesday's tests extended a record number of weapons demonstrations, this war by demonstrations this year by North Korea, which has punctuated its testing activity with threats to preemptively use nuclear weapons against South Korea and the United States if it perceives its leadership as under threat.

Analysts say Kim is exploiting the distraction created by Russia's war on Ukraine, using it as a window to accelerate arms development as he pursues a full-fledged nuclear arsenal that could viably threaten regional US allies and the American homeland.

South Korean officials say Kim may also conduct a nuclear test in the coming weeks or months, escalating a pressure campaign aimed at forcing the United States to accept the idea of North Korea as a nuclear power that can negotiate economic and security concessions from a position of strength.

'The Iranian nation has invalidated the American military option and, as they themselves have admitted, brought the policy of sanctions and maximum pressure a humiliating failure," Raisi said, according to a transcript of his remarks. "Now, following America's failure in militarisation and sanctions, Washington and its allies have resorted to the failed policy of destabilisation." Raisi did not otherwise directly address the demonstrations, which took place across at least 19 cities on Wednesday.

Gathering information about the demonstrations remains difficult amid the internet restrictions and the arrests of at least 40 journalists in the country, according to the Committee to Protect Iournalists.

Digitisation a game changer for Indian economy, says IMF

pplauding India's digitisation efforts, the chief economist ⚠of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) on Wednesday said the move was a game changer as it had allowed the Indian government to do things that would have been extremely difficult

"Digitisation is helping along a number of dimensions. One is financial inclusion, obviously because there are a lot of people in countries like India that were unbanked. And having access to digital wallets is a way in which they can enter into transactions that are not just cash transactions, which are very inefficient," Pierre-Olivier Gourinchas, the chief economist of IMF, told PTI in an interview in response to a question about India's digitisation efforts.

"I think it (digitization) has

do things that would have been extremely difficult to do otherwise. Yes (it is a game changer). It is certainly something that is a very welcome development," Gourinchas

"So that's a huge plus in terms of bringing people into a more modern economy. That's a factor for growth," he said, adding that your market becomes very different if you are plugged into this digital instrument. "The second one which I think has also been important in the case of India is these digital instruments also allow governments to reach and disburse systems in ways that are much harder to do sometimes with some of the regular pipes of the safety net," he said.

One of the lessons we've learned from both the pandemic and we're learning it again with the energy crisis, is how can we provide the assistance where it's needed.

"In the case of India, one thing that is striking is the use of the unique identification system, the Aadhaar," Mauro said. "But in other countries, also, there is greater use of sending money through mobile banking to people who actually do not have a whole lot of money, but they have a cell phone," Mauro said.

NHAI InvIT looks to raise additional ₹3,800 crore, says Gadkari

PTI NEW DELHI

National Highways Infra Trust (NHAI InvIT) is looking to raise additional Rs 3,800 crore, Road Transport and Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari said on Thursday.

Addressing an event organised by National Highways Infra Trust, Gadkari said that of the additional fundraise, around Rs 1,500 crores are being garnered through an issue of non-convertible debentures (NCDs) with a long-dated maturity of 24 years.

These InvIT bonds will be listed on BSE and NSE providing an opportunity for investors to invest and trade, he added.

NHAI InvIT is the infrastructure investment trust sponsored by the National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) to support the government's National Monetisation Pipeline

Gadkari said that the InvIT, so far, has raised more than Rs 8,000 crore from foreign and Indian institutional investors.Infrastructure Investment Trusts (InvITs) are instruments on the pattern of mutual funds, designed to pool money from investors and invest in assets that will provide cash flows over a period of time.

Gadkari noted that India is one of the fastest-growing economies in the world and the development of highways in the country will play a crucial role in its growth.

The minister said the government is working to connect the North Eastern part of the country to the highways network. "We are working to provide all-weather connectivity to religious and tourist places," he said.

The road transport and high-ways minister said the network of expressways under the Bharatmala Pariyojana has been constructed across the country.

"We are working to reduce our logistics cost to single digit from 13-14 per cent of GDP presently," he said.

Govt not to cancel coal block allocation to Rajasthan despite demand from Chhattisgarh: Joshi

PTI ■ JAIPUR

I Jnion coal minister Pralhad Joshi on Thursday said that the Chhattisgarh government has requested for cancellation of the allocation of coal blocks to Rajasthan but the government has refused

He said that he has spoken to Chhattisgarh and Rajasthan chief ministers and is looking forward to resolving the issue and getting the mining activities resumed so that Rajasthan continues to get 11 rakes of coal from there.

'A resolution from the Chhattisgarh government has come for getting the mine allotted to Rajasthan in Chhattisgarh cancelled, but we have allotted to Rajasthan under a process, therefore we are not cancelling it," Joshi told reporters here.

"The government of India in principle has taken a stand not to cancel that. It will be our effort to get the mining activities resumed so that Rajasthan continues to get 11 rakes of coal from there," he said.

Both Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh are Congress-ruled states. The Union minister said that the demand for energy has significantly increased across the country including in Rajasthan. He said that his ministry will try its best to support the state in fulfilling its coal requirement.

Joshi said that the supply of coal has been increased from 12-13 rakes per day to 16.5 rakes per day so that the power plants in Rajasthan face no crisis of coal.

Earlier, speaking at a programme of MoU signing between Coal India Ltd and Rajasthan Vidyut Utpadan Nigam ltd (RÚVNL) for setting up a 1,190 MW solar plant in Bikaner, Joshi said that the central government has laid special emphasis on promoting renewable energy gen-

Salah scores fastest Champions League hat-trick in Liverpool's 7-1 win at Rangers ohamed Salah came off the bench to score the fastest hat-trick in Champions League history as Liverpool thrashed Rangers 7-1 on Wednesday to put one foot in the Champions League last Roberto Firmino scored twice, while Darwin Nunez and Harvey Elliott also struck in a confidence-boosting win for Jurgen Klopp's men as they moved to within a point of qualifying for the knockout stages.

Liverpool had been forced to come from behind after Scott Arfield fired the Glasgow giants into an early lead.

But Rangers are being schooled on their return to the Champions League for the first time in 12 years as they remain without a point and have conceded 16 goals in four games.

Firmino's double either side of half-time turned the game around before the Brazilian teed up Nunez to kill off the game as a contest.

Klopp had left Salah and Thiago Alcantara on the bench with one eye on Sunday's clash against Manchester City in the Premier League.
But both were brought on for the final 22 minutes and Salah did not miss the chance to cash in against a beleaguered Rangers defence.

The Egyptian's treble arrived in just six minutes to beat the previous record held by Bafetimbi Gomis in Lyon's 7-1 win over Dinamo Zagreb in 2011. Elliott then rounded off the scoring on a sobering night for a Rangers side that only months ago reached the Europa League final.

Goalkeeper Simon Mignolet made a series of impressive saves to deny the likes of Antoine Griezmann and Angel Correa, frustrating the Spanish side, who are on four points from four games, six behind Group C leaders Brugge.

Brugge are four points clear at the Group B summit from Porto, who won 3-0 at Bayer Leverkusen. Galeno gave visitors Porto an early lead, before Kerem Demirbay missed a penalty and Patrik Schick saw a potential equaliser ruled out by VAR for handball.

Gauff defeats Robin in rain delayed match in San Diego

Sixth-seeded Coco Gauff turned back an inspired effort from 294th-ranked Robin Montgomery, 6-3 6-3 in the resumption of a match that was postponed due to rain a night earlier in the San Diego Open Gauff, who earlier this year reached her first major singles final in the French Open, on Wednesday said she did her best to block out the rain delay that stretched the match out over two days and instead focus on the match against a fellow 18-yearold American. Gauff said the match had more significance following Serena Williams' retirement and the possibility that her sister, Venus, will retire as well.

'If Serena and Venus saw this today, two 18-year-olds, both African-Americans, playing at the WTA 500 level, I think they would be proud," Gauff

"Both of us are products of their legacy. I'm grateful that I had those examples to follow. I hope that maybe I can be an example myself."

Gauff will face 2019 US Open winner Bianca Andreescu of Canada in Round 2. It will be their first meeting. Montgomery was unable to add another upset to her list that included beating No. 25 Shuai Zhang and No. 42 Bernarda Pera in the qualifying rounds. Croat qualifier Donna Vekic beat former No. 1 Karolina Pliskova of the Czech Republic 6-3 6-2 to advance to the guarterfinals. It marked a second straight high-profile upset for Vekic, who upended fifth seed Maria Sakkari of Greece in the first round.

"I'm very happy, it's a very good win for me, the best of my career," said the Spanish player, who is ranked 80th.

Carballes Baena will face Mikael Ymer in the quarterfinals of the indoor, hardcourt tournament after the Swedish qualifier eliminated fifth-seeded Aslan Karatsev 6-1 6-7 (6) 6-1.

India to face SL in Asia Cup final dominant India crushed minnows Thailand by ▲74 runs to storm into the final and remain on course for a record-extending seventh women's Asia Cup title here on Thursday.

The win over Thailand took India to their eighth straight Asia Cup final — four each in ODI and T20 formats. Before 2012, the tournament was a 50-over-a-side affair.

The semifinal contest against Thailand was always expected to be a cakewalk for India and it turned out to be so.

India posted 148 for six after being sent in to bat and then restricted Thailand to 74 for 9 in the lop-sided contest.

The Thai women, however, fared much better than their previous outing against India in the league stage, where they were crushed by nine wickets.
In that match, the Indians

Captain Naruemol Chaiwai (21) and Nattaya Boochatham (21) showed some resistance with the bat with a 42-run stand

Once the duo departed, the Indian bowlers just ran through Thailand lower-order

Each team can have no more than five overseas cricketers in the playing eleven.
"To have a well balance of domestic & international players and to have competitive teams, it has been tentatively decided to have five teams for WIPL. Each team can comprise maximum of eighteen players where no team can have more than six overseas players. "Further, no more than

The Women's Big Bash League in Australia and The Hundred in UK don't allow more than three overseas players and have a squad size of 15.

The board also thinks with limited number of teams, the home-and-away format will not be feasible. The event is expected to take place soon after the Women's T20 World Cup in South Africa from February 9-26.

Child prodigy Niemann—a cheat or a genius?

World chess awaits FIDE reports on cheating scandal

BY PRAVIN THIPSAY

Committee.

The chess world has been I rocked by a massive cheating scandal flagged by none other than World champion Magnus Carlson. The scandal has once again underlined the need for putting in place a fullproof mechanism to nab cheaters and manipulators who are giving bad names to a game widely respected for its sportsmanship. It all started with the World Champion losing to a lesser known 19-year-old Grandmaster Hans Niemann in an over the board Chess tournament and then withdrawing from the event. Carlsen's shock withdrawal caused a flutter. Everyone has his own theory about Carlsen's decision to pull out of the event. A fortnight later, when facing the same opponent, (albeit in an online game this time), Carlsen resigned the game after making just one move. This came as a great shock to all, particularly since the Champion continued to play the tournament and even went on to win it. Tongues started wagging and people started tweeting and writing articles about 'Cheating in Chess'. It was widely believed that Carlsen resigned to register his protest against cheating done by Niemaan through the use of technological devices.

World Federation (FIDE) has set up a panel to probe the allegations of cheating. The Panel is yet to submit its findings, but chess.com., a popular and respected website, has compiled a 72-page report claiming that Niemann has cheated in over 100 games during the last two years. Niemann has reportedly confessed to having cheated as a child during the games.

But it is far from clear if the prodigy also took help of technology to hoodwink Carlsen. Going by the game they played, there could be reasons to give him a clean chit. Sports journalists all over the world questioned Carlsen's behaviour, while Chess players took it as an opportunity to draw public attention and to gain what one could call 'undue and attracts a penalty, starting from a minimum of loss of the personal mileage ' by posting silly comments such as "Cheating in Chess must stop".

. Finally, none other than Garry Kasparov, had to step in. Kasparov questioned the behaviour of the World Champion and said, "I understand his frustration and his anger after losing the game and finding other reasons than his own poor play in his game to blame for his loss."

Kasparov went on to say that leaving the tournament was unacceptable. "Even if Carlsen had proof, and as to the specific game Magnus lost there was no evidence of any wrong-doing, I think that was really bad for chess, it was bad for St. Louis. It's one of the most important tournaments, if not the most important tournament in the world," Kasparov said. For the benefit of the chess lovers and followers, let me explain the matter a bit, as chess is quite a unique sport in many ways. Taking instructions/suggestions/guidance while the game is in progress is strictly forbidden in chess. Such an act has been considered as cheating game to whatever harsher punishment the National Federations / FIDE deem fit. Preventing cheating was reasonably easy in the last century. A player had to refrain from interacting with anyone while the game was 'in progress' and leaving the playing arena was also not permissible while the game was 'in progress'. But things changed considerably about 15 years ago, when the chess playing engines (computers) started playing better than the strongest human beings. The ready availability of chess playing engines created a new cheating possibility -- taking help of an engine 'while the game is in progress'. Since it did not need communication with any other human, cheating became easy and therefore, a serious menace. FIDE, being more organised than most of the International sports federations, has always taken necessary steps to keep Chess a 'Clean Sport'. In fact, specific rules to prevent cheating with 'Computer help', were implemented over 15 years ago and have been made stricter from time to time. For example, no player is allowed to carry any electronic device to the tournament hall. If a player, spectator or an arbiter suspect that some player is carrying such a device, formal complaint may be lodged by any person with any of the Arbiters. The Chief Arbiter is to make a note of the complaint and is expected to find out the truth Immediately on the end of the game. The player, who has been allegedly carrying any electronic device, may be frisked and questioned by the Chief Arbiter for investigation.

In accordance with the findings of the search, the Organising Committee is expected to take a decision in the matter. However, after the game has actually ended and the player has left the tournament hall, the player is not liable to be questioned in any way, since the player has a right to carry electronic devices when the game is not in progress.

Now let us come to the behaviour of the World Champion Magnus Carlsen. Apparently, Carlsen got suspicious of Niemann cheating in some way in the game played on September 4, 2022 in the Sinquefield Cup tournament. However, he did not make any formal / informal complaint. Even after the game ended, the World Champion didn't make any representation. Later in the day, he chose to withdraw from the tournament, the reason for which he never made public. If someone had cheated, the opportunity to 'catch the cheat red-handed' had been lost and it wasn't certainly an appropriate behaviour by the Champion. After one sided mud-slinging by some 'third party' players (as I call them), I decided to check the game with an intention of forming my own opinion about cheating with engine help during the said game'. However, I didn't find any reason to believe that Niemann took the help of a chess engine to defeat Carlsen. FIDE, of course, will have the last word of the topic. But the controversy has necessitated the concern for a full-proof mechanism to check cheating in this game of chequered squares.
