Pb Cabinet approves policy to regularise services of adhoc, temporary teachers

On a decision set to benefit more than 10,000 teachers, the Cabinet approved formation of a policy for regularising the services of ad-hoc, contractual and temporary teachers working in Government Department, the Education Department under the Ministry of Education, the Higher Education Department under the Ministry of Higher Education, the School of Education (B.Ed) and conduct of the exam, to ensure that such teachers are absorbed in the regular cadre. The Cabinet also approved the formulation of a policy for regularisation of contractual teachers working in various departments as per the suitability conditions, in service for a minimum period of 10 years. The policy will not apply to those contractual teachers, who had attained the age of superannuation or whose services have not been extended for more than 5 years, in the current recruitment. The policy will be applicable on an honorary capacity or for the purpose of engaging in an honorary capacity, and the teacher must have been engaged on a contractual basis on the recommendation of the Group D posts of the respective departments. The policy aims at regularisation of services, an employee shall be granted on contract or temporary basis.

Gorbachev, the man who oversaw the collapse of the erstwhile USSR. His method? No more. His intentions are not concealed.

Mikhail Gorbachev’s (1931-2022) life history is reserved for the annals of the world in a matter of months, if not weeks. His rise to power had been marked by the backing of the West, and the collapse of such a revolution in so short a span of time is an ignominious fact known to the whole world. Russia and the countries formed from the old Soviet Union are now left with a different future, and they have to be prepared for it. Gorbachev’s leadership, while widely admired, did not have the same effect on the East as it did on the West. The revolution in Europe was marked by the collapse of the East Bloc, which led to the reunification of Germany and the creation of the European Union.

Unfortunately, anti-BP parties are accusing the soft-line policies of carrying out the so-called Operation Lotus—this is the campaign to remove anti-BP governments in states. The BWP would not deny such an assertion, as there is a lot of milk in the political arena; it reeks of corruption and shenanigans. The scheme, however, does not remain confined to the arena of power, it permeates all spheres of life. This has no analogy with conventional verbs.

State-cum-police, agencies and politicians are closely seen as acting at the behest of their political masters, and the Centre and state governments, the allegiances of which are known, are used to advance their political goals. The government of the office of governor: the BWP has continued the tradition. And last, but not the least, people’s faith in the political system is ending. This doesn’t augur well for the world’s political order and the long-term well-being of the system. It could seriously undermine our democracy.

Gorbachev came to power in 1982 and worked to modernize the state and change society. He had set out to make the Soviet Union a more open and liberal society. He introduced economic reforms, known as perestroika, and political reforms, known as glasnost.

Unfortunately, Gorbachev’s policies do not coincide with China’s economic strategy of reducing government interference and increasing market competition. The Chinese government has a more centralized approach to economic planning, with a focus on state-owned enterprises and state control over the economy. The Chinese government has been successful in maintaining economic growth and stability, but it has also been criticized for its lack of innovation and its reliance on state-owned enterprises.

Gorbachev’s policies, on the other hand, were aimed at reducing state control over the economy and increasing competition. He introduced market-oriented reforms and encouraged private enterprise. However, these reforms were met with resistance from the Soviet Union’s powerful industrial complexes and political elites.

The Excitement or the Exile: For What Mikhail Gorbachev Was Led by the Roots of the Ideal of the Marxist

Economically, Gorbachev’s policies have been a mixed bag. He introduced market-oriented reforms and encouraged private enterprise, but the transition to a market economy was slow and painful. The Soviet Union’s economy was heavily dependent on state-owned enterprises, and the transition to a market economy was difficult. The transition was marked by high inflation, unemployment, and economic instability.

One of the most significant aspects of Gorbachev’s reforms was the introduction of market-oriented reforms. The Soviet Union’s economy was heavily dependent on state-owned enterprises, and the transition to a market economy was difficult. The transition was marked by high inflation, unemployment, and economic instability.

DONATE EYE PROMOTION NEEDS INFRASTRUCTURE

Many people feel hesitant to donate eyes. The general lack of awareness is a critical factor behind ignorance and the hesitance to donate. EYEDONATE has launched an awareness campaign stressing the importance of eye donation. In addition to that, a detailed amount of assistance and counselling given to the local hospital staff can further enhance the initiative. The situation is also worsened because of the lack of trained cornea specialists and graft coordinators. They are often left to struggle alone after they collect the eyes from hospitals, and an insufficient number of corneal microsurgery surgeons are available to transplant these. This situation is particularly severe in parts of the country, where the cost of training cornea surgeons is high. EYEDONATE is a part of the Hospital Cornea Retrieval Program (HCRP) launched in 1996. The program provides preoperative counselling to the deceased family and endeavors to encourage them to donate the eyes of the deceased with a more positive outcome. It is also required for a robust eye donation system so that the people feel easier while donating the vital organs.

As per a study, only 12.1 per cent of these grief counsellors had ever experienced an eye donation before. The study also recommended setting up a proper mechanism by a government or by a private organization. An eye donation committee should be formed to run the program in conjunction with the medical associations and hospitals.

While eye donation is indeed a noble cause, many people still feel hesitant to donate their eyes due to a lack of proper information and transparency in the process. It is the need of the hour to ensure proper integration between all the stakeholders (governments, eye donation agencies, etc.) to improve awareness, especially in the grass roots that will help to build the necessary infrastructure across the country.

Don’t need to make a move to get more food grains

Q: Does India have a scheme that guarantees food security to the people? A: Yes, India has a scheme that guarantees food security to the people, which is called the National Food Security Act (NFSA). Under this act, the Centre provides food grains to the people at a subsidized rate. This scheme is run under the Ministry of Food and Civil Supplies.

Under the NFSA, the Centre directs the states to provide food grains to the people at a subsidized rate. The Centre also provides financial assistance to the states to cover the cost of food grains provided under the scheme. The scheme is run under the Ministry of Food and Civil Supplies.

The scheme provides 5 kg of food grains to each person per month at a subsidized rate. The states have the freedom to decide the number of beneficiaries under the scheme. As of now, around 80 crore people are covered under the scheme.

The scheme is intended to ensure that the people get food grains at a subsidized rate, which allows them to have a healthy and nutritious diet. The scheme also helps in reducing poverty and malnutrition in the country.

Since the implementation of the NFSA, the Centre has decided to extend the scheme to more people. As of now, around 80 crore people are covered under the scheme.

Discourages holiday travel following outbreak of Covid in 33 cities, including provincial capitals.

The Chinese government has announced new restrictions on travel for 33 cities across the country. These restrictions are in response to a recent COVID-19 outbreak, which has prompted concerns about the spread of the virus. As a result, many people are being discouraged from traveling during the upcoming holidays.

China has been grappling with a new wave of infections, which has led to increased concerns about the potential for a widespread outbreak. In response, the government has implemented strict measures to contain the spread of the virus. These measures include lockdowns in affected areas, mass testing, and restrictions on travel.

The government has also called on individuals to avoid non-essential travel and to stay home if they are feeling unwell. This advice is particularly important for people who live in the affected areas, as they are at a higher risk of contracting the virus.

The government has also emphasized the importance of vaccinations. China has one of the highest vaccination rates in the world, with over 80% of the population having received at least one dose of the vaccine. This has helped to contain the spread of the virus, but the government is urging people to continue to get vaccinated to ensure that they remain protected.

In addition to the travel restrictions, the government has also called on people to practice good hygiene habits, such as wearing masks and washing their hands regularly. These measures are aimed at reducing the risk of transmission and preventing a potential surge in cases.

The government has also advised people to avoid large gatherings and to maintain social distancing. This advice is particularly important for people who are celebrating the upcoming holidays, as they may be tempted to gather with family and friends.

Overall, the Chinese government is taking a measured approach to managing the COVID-19 outbreak. By implementing strict measures and encouraging good hygiene habits, the government is working to contain the spread of the virus and prevent a potential surge in cases.

As the rupee rallied against the dollar, the Indian government must ensure that the upward revision in fuel prices is not passed on to the consumer, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Monday.

On Monday, the rupee opened at 79.84 against the dollar.

NEW DELHI

The rupee closed at 79.82 per dollar on Friday.

The rupee began the day on a strong note, in the wake of a strong showing in the foreign exchange market, and was trading 8 paise higher at 79.82. The rupee strengthened after the government indicated that the fuel price hike would be revised in line with market conditions.

The fuel price hike was increased by 25 paisa per litre to Rs 105.25 per litre for petrol and Rs 91.25 per litre for diesel.

Sharmila Prasad, senior economist at CRISIL, said: “The government is doing all it can to reduce its fiscal deficit. But the rupee is taking a beating and the measures taken by the government have not been able to support it.”

The rupee has lost 2 paise against the dollar since Friday.

Krygeois stuns world No.1 Medvedev

AT NEW YORK

Daniil Medvedev said Nick Kyrgios’s "incredible levels" in this year’s US Open were the reason he had not performed well in previous Grand Slam tournaments.

"I’ve been playingNick Kyrgios in the Grand Slams and Rafael Nadal. Daniil Medvedev is a US Open Champion on Sunday by Kyrgios in the Australian Open the last few years and he is gifted. He is a bit of a different player."

The 28-year-old reached his first Grand Slam final of his career and has yet to set a date and lost the semi-final to Kyrgios.

Garcia, who is reaping the benefits of a strong start to the season, says she is proud of her and her team's performance.

"I think it proves that my level and I am very happy with my performance," she said. "I am proud of my team and I am glad I am working on improving my game."

"I am working on improving my game and I am looking forward to the next steps," she said. "We are very determined to stay on top and competing for the top spots."

"I think that we are still learning and improving very quickly," Garcia said. "We have a very strong team and we are looking forward to the next steps."
Made concrete effort to bat at swiftest pace but... Kohli

Viral Kohli says he made a concerted effort to bat at a quick pace in the 53rd over against New Zealand in the Asia Cup final, but was unable to put many runs on the board due to a lack of support.

"Today I was making a conscious effort to bat a little higher pace," Kohli said in the post-match press conference. "When we lost our openers, there was a certain amount of pressure. I aimed to go off/on and change things around." But again, I ended up being in the same tempo and tried to manage with it. Somewhere, in the middle overs, the run rate dropped."

Kohli had some advice for batsmen who want to do justice to their team's cause. "I think 60-65 balls is the right number. We need to have a partnership after that. But as of now, it was a conscious effort to bat at a nice tempo."

Kohli backs Archdeep

Kohli had comforting words for left-arm pacer Archdeep Singh, who had a difficult time against Bangladesh and Afghanistan in the Asia Cup.

"Under pressure, anyone can get overawed," Kohli said. "Archdeep was a little bit nervous at the start. He was having a good start as a readymade medium-pace unit. Hopefully, he will be at it every time."

It’s the fault of the bowling crew

"It’s a high pressure game and you must win Super 4 game in the Asia Cup when they clash with Sri Lanka in their final race," Kohli said. "I thought it was a good game. All the credit goes to our bowlers."

"Hopefully, we can build on this momentum," Kohli concluded.
