Temperature to dip significantly in State

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The residents of Odisha would witness chilly weather conditions in the coming days as the night temperature is likely to fall significantly by 3 to 5 degree Celsius, said the Regional Office of the India Meteorological Department (IMD) here on Friday.

Shallow to moderate fog is also likely to occur at some places in the districts of the State.

The current night temperature is 2 to 3 degree more than normal due to cloudy conditions. However, it would drop further after the skies get clear.

As per the IMD, the State is likely to see dry weather for the next five days as rains subsided on Friday. Maximum and minimum temperatures are very likely to be around 28 degree and 17 degree, respectively, in the next 24 hours.

The IMD has predicted a milder winter for the country from December 2023 to February 2024. The forecast indicates that the intensity and frequency of cold waves are expected to be lower than usual in Odisha.

Mahua Moitra Expelled from Lok Sabha, Exposed

DEEPAK KUMAR JHA ■
NEW DELHI

Trinamool Congress leader Mahua Moitra was expelled on Friday from the Lok Sabha after the House adopted the report of its Ethics Committee that held her guilty of accepting gifts and illegal gratification from a businessman to further his interest.

After a heated debate over the panel report during which Moitra was not allowed to speak, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi moved a motion to expel the TMC member for "unethical conduct", which was adopted by a voice vote and the House was adjourned immediately. The Ethics Committee report found Moitra guilty of 'unethical conduct' and contempt of the House for sharing her Lok Sabha credentials, including the user ID and password of the Lok Sabha Member's portal, with unauthorised persons. This had an irrepressible impact on national security. Moitra received backing of her party as well members of the INDIA Bloc of Opposition parties on the action without giving her a chance to defend herself in Parliament.

TMC supremo West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee denounced the expulsion of her MP from the Lok Sabha and termed the move as a 'betrayal' of India's parliamentary democracy. Mamata expressed her disappointment as Prime Minister Narendra Modi did not intervene in the matter. The motion moved by Joshi said Moitra's "conduct has further been found to be unbecoming as a Member of Parliament for accepting gifts and illegal gratification from a businessman to further his interest which is a serious misdemeanour and highly deplorable conduct" on her part. Joshi urged the House to accept the recommendation and finding of the committee and "resolve that continuance of Moitra as member of Lok Sabha is untenable and she may be expelled from the membership of the Lok Sabha". Ethics Committee chairman Vinod Kumar Sonkar tabled the first report of the Committee on the complaint filed by BJP member Nishikant Dubey against Moitra.

Modi may launch Mission 2024 from Kashi

BISWAJEET BANERJEE ■ LUCKNOW

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is set to launch Mission 2024 from his parliamentary constituency, Kashi, following the Bharatiya Janata Party's resounding victories in the recent State elections of Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, and Chhattisgarh.

"This marks a significant moment as the Prime Minister has chosen Kashi for the kickoff of his Lok Sabha election campaign in 2024. Modi is scheduled to engage in various programmes during his 43rd visit to the city on December 17 and 18," Vijay Bahadur Pathak, a senior BJP leader said. Kashi has been important centre for the BJP as any election campaign from this city is bound to affect the whole of eastern Uttar Pradesh which has 28 Lok Sabha constituencies. During this two-day visit, the Prime Minister is slated to present projects amounting to ₹1,000 crore to the public. Among the projects, the inauguration of the Swaraveda Mahamandir, recognised as the country's largest meditation center, is anticipated. Additionally, Modi will inaugurate and lay the foundation stone for several projects, including the Phulwaria Four Lane, Amul Plant, and Sarnath Beautification. Having been elected as the Member of Parliament from Varanasi in the 2014 Lok Sabha elections, Modi has cultivated a strong bond with Kashi, making a total of 43 visits over the past nine years of his tenure as the Prime Minister. The upcoming visit on December 17-18 is particularly significant following the BJP's remarkable success in the Assembly elections of Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, and Chhattisgarh. The Prime Minister's Office (PMO) has communicated the primary details of the visit to the district administration and BJP leaders. The visit will be centered around various development projects in Varanasi. Dilip Patel, the BJP Kashi area president, stated, "The PM will arrive at Babatpur airport by special plane on the afternoon of December 17." On the first day of his visit, the PM is scheduled to visit Chhota Cutting Memorial School grounds, where an exhibition based on 'Vikas Bharat Sankalp Yatra' for the urban area will be showcased. Later, he will interact with the beneficiary class. In the evening, Modi will attend the Kashi Tamil Sangamam program at Namo Ghat, meeting South Indian guests and participating in the Ganga Aarti. ## BJP selects its observers to appoint Chief Ministers

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

Amid a prolonged deliberation over the appointments of new heads for the States won by the BJP last week, the party appointed Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar, and Union Tribal Affairs Minister Arjun Munda as central party observers for the election of legislature party leaders in Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, and Chhattisgarh, respectively. The legislature party leaders will become Chief Ministers of the three States and the meetings to elect them may take place over the weekend. There is a view within the party that its leadership may usher in fresh faces at the helm of these States. Singh will be joined by the party's vice president Saroj Pandey and its general secretary Vinod Tawde as central observers for Rajasthan amid an intense buzz within the BJP that the leadership will bring in a new leader, ignoring the claim of two-time former Chief Minister Vasundhara Raje. Sources said Raje has been making efforts to get onto the hot seat and in this regard she called on Party chief JP Nadda. The choice of Singh, one of the senior most BJP leaders and a Rajput leader, is likely to help build a consensus around the leadership's chief ministerial choice among MLAs, a number of whom are seen as supporting Raje. Khattar will be joined by the party's OBC Morcha head K Laxman and its secretary Asha Lakra for the Madhya Pradesh legislature party meeting, while Union Minister Sarbananda Sonowal and BJP general secretary Dushwant Kumar Gautam will be central observers for Chhattisgarh along with Munda. In Madhya Pradesh where the BJP scored its biggest victory among the three States with a two-thirds majority, current Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan's stake has gone up with the win but there is a view that the party leadership is looking at a leadership change after his 18-year uninterrupted stint in power except for 15 months after the 2018 Assembly polls.

Putin hails PM Modi as a force to reckon with

AGENCIES ■ MOSCOW

Russian President Vladimir Putin praised Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday, highlighting the progressive development of relations between India and Russia under Modi's guarantee. Putin also said he was "surprised" by Modi's tough stance on defending the national security interests of India. While addressing the "Russia Calling!" Forum, Putin said Modi cannot be intimidated by any pressure from unfriendly countries, reported TASS news agency. "I want to say that relations between Russia and India are developing progressively along all trajectories, and the main guarantor of this is the policy pursued by Prime Minister Modi," the Russian leader said at the event. Speaking on international pressure, Putin said he "cannot imagine that Modi could be frightened, intimidated or forced to take any actions, steps, decisions that would be at variance with the national interests of India and the Indian people". "I just look at what is happening from the outside, and sometimes, frankly speaking, I am even surprised at his tough stance on defending the national interests of the Indian state," Putin further noted in his praise of Modi at the investment forum. The Russian President also asserted the importance of increasing settlements in national currencies between Russia and India, emphasising that Russia stands for a "truly democratic model" of global economic development, reported Sputnik.

Heritage left unattended, history threatened

ARCHANA JYOTI ■

India's invaluable treasures, the monuments of national importance, stand as cultural gems shielded by vigilant guards to prevent any harm or encroachment. Keeping this in mind, currently as many as 248 monuments/museums of national importance under the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) have security guards, as per the Government data. However, a significant number of them i.e. 94 per cent are left unattended, lacking security personnel. There are a total 3,693 Centrally protected monuments (CPMs) across the States.

Expressing its dismay over the low percentage of CPMs that have security guards and the insufficient number of personnel to meet the requirements, a Department-related Parliamentary Panel on Transport, Tourism and Culture has asked the Government to ensure adequate funds so as to ensure safety of these heritage structures as well as safety of tourists visiting these spots. In its report tabled in Parliament on Friday, the panel noted that security guards are posted at only 248 CPMs/sites/museums i.e. less than about 6.7 per cent of the total number of CPMs. "Also, out of the total requirement of 7,000 personnel for protection of monuments, the Government could provide only 2,578 security personnel at 248 locations due to budgetary constraints," said the panel led by Rajya Sabha member V Vijayasai Reddy. Taking the stringent view that budgetary constraints should not be an excuse for not providing security guards to protect our rich cultural heritage, the panel reminded the authorities that, "it is the duty of the Government of the day to protect our cultural heritage sites." The Committee, therefore, recommends that a budget may be provided by the Government to appoint 7,000 personnel for protection of the monuments or as per the study conducted by IIT, Delhi. The Committee also suggested the Union Culture Ministry overseeing the ASI to conduct an urgent thorough assessment of the security requirements and budgetary allocation required for the same and "a strong case may be made to the Ministry of Finance requesting allocation of additional funds for this purpose so as to ensure a basic state of protection for all the monuments across the country to preserve them for generations to come."

IT raids in Odisha

BJP alleges Minister's link with liquor manufacturer

Demands CBI probe

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The seizure of over Rs 200-crore unaccounted cash by the Income Tax (IT) department from liquor manufacturers in Odisha has heated up the political climate in the State with the BJP and the BJD trading charges on the issue.

On Friday, BJP spokesperson Manoj Mohapatra alleged that Transport Minister Tukuni Sahu, who represents Balangir district's Titilagarh constituency, had links with one of the Balangir liquor manufacturers who is now under the IT department scanner for alleged tax evasion.

Mohapatra showed a photograph of the minister with the liquor manufacturer Dipak

Sahu.

"The BJD must clarify as to the money belongs to whom. How can a liquor trader stock so much cash? What were the intelligence, excise and vigilance departments doing? Was the money stocked to be used in the 2024 elections? The State Government must come clean on the issue by ordering a probe by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) into the hoarding of such a huge volume of money by liquor traders," Mohapatra said.

The photo in question is said to be from the Ravan Podi Mahotsav at Titilagarh where liquor manufacturer Dipak Sahu, Minister Tukuni Sahu and a number of government officials shared the dais.

Denying the allegations, BJD MLA Satyanarayan Pradhan said, "No leader from our party is involved in this. Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik would never allow such kind of behaviour."

About the photo, Pradhan said, "Some leaders might have met some businessmen during a social gathering. That does not prove anything."

The liquor manufacturer in question is a stakeholder of Baldeo Sahu & Group of Companies, one of the biggest country liquor manufacturing and selling companies in western Odisha. The Income Tax has raided the offices and residences of all the persons linked to this group.

IT per sonnel have been raiding various establishments of the Boudh Distillery Private Limited, a subsidiary of Baldeo Sahu Infra Private Limited, at various locations in Odisha since Wednesday.

Crores bungled in name of Jaga-Akhada makeover

Puri civic body executing MUKTA project under cloud

SAROJ KUMAR MISHRA

■ PURI

Beautification works of Jaga-Akhadas (traditional gyms) made under Mukhya Mantri Karma Tatparata Abhiyan (Mukta) have led to huge bungling with the Puri Municipality authorities under cloud.

Many Akhadas were found lying in haphazard condition even after the renovation work. The State Government has spent more than Rs 15 crore this year, but one can clearly see how huge funds have been misappropriated in the name of beautification.

As part of renovation and beautification, as many as 39 Jaga Akhadas in the city were taken up by the Municipality in 2022. The Jaga Akhada has a close link with the Jagannath culture. The aim was to facilitate the youngsters for doing physical exercises and traditional martial arts with state-of-art facilities.

The projects include repair of Jaga Ghars, shrines and gyms provided with modern physical equipment, renovation of old ponds, construction of road, park equipped with lawn, chairs, cradles, fountain, wall paintings, play kits, besides development of periphery areas. Construction of parks was to attract especially the housewives and children.

By November this year, the Municipality had spent over Rs 15.66 crore in the first phase with another Rs 26 crore sanctioned to complete the projects. However, ironically, many Jaga Ghars were found lying in poor condition with some witnessing either sub-standard work or just whitewashing despite expenditure of such a huge amount. In many cases, the parks developed have turned into a grazing field for stray cattle and a safe shelter for drug addicts after sunset due to damage of lighting arrangements. More amazing is that the civic body has incurred twice at a single project in two different names. Even a Jaga Ghar having annual rituals of Lord Lokanath is being used as a stockroom for construction materials after expansion of its building.

Vikashit Bharat Sankalp Yatra

Modi Govt determined to make India 'developed nation'

Under the Vikashit Bharat Sankalp Yatra, the Modi Government on a mission mode has geared up all its Ministries, departments and agencies to reach every nook and corner of the country, while inviting active cooperation from all State Governments. For many decades after independence India, despite its enviable natural resources and vast manpower endowed with hereditary skills, had been unfortunately relegated to the status of 'developing country' along with the third world countries. Network of Pradhan Mantri Sadak Yojana and rural electrification to cover the entire land had been a herculean task, which being accelerated significantly during the NDA regime, thanks to popularization of mobile phones and the internet; progress in the fields of education, science and technologies, atomic power and space-craft, produced quantum leaps in all spheres, elevating India to a superior military and economic power classed among the world's advanced nations today.

Though this hugely impacted the standard of life of its citizens, but at the same time, a large chunk of its people in remote regions, away from the centers of power, continued to remain in poverty. They remained inaccessible to the benefits offered by the Government machineries for various reasons, primarily because of their lack of awareness.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi possessing a vast and varied experience of working with the masses in the remotest areas, before entering political life, and also after, was aware of the uncharted zones lacking accessibility, and the dire poverty of its dwellers. The foundation of a developed India has been laid by the Modi Government through the creation of DMF funds with several projects like providing dwelling houses under Prime Minister Housing Schemes, toilets in the Swachha Bharat Yojana, cooking gas in the Ujjala Yojana, Kisan Credit Card, PM Svanidhi Yojana and several other schemes for the poor and economically backward.

Significantly, launching the VBSY on the November 15 from Khunti of Jharkhand the birth place of legendary Birsa Munda, the Prime Minister urged the Union Ministers to actively participate in the mega outreach campaign aimed at highlighting all Central schemes designed to benefit various sections of society. It targeted to cover nearly 2.55 lakh Gram Panchayats and around 18,000 locations in urban areas. As part of the Yatra more than 2,500 mobile performing vans and over 200 mobile theater vans have been pressed into service to cover all the Gram Panchayats and clusters in all cities and towns of the country. These hundreds of vehicles styled as Vikash Rath are moving from J&K, Ladakh to Tamilnadu and Kerala in the South and from Gujarat, Rajasthan to the North Eastern States on the eastern border. The Ministers, MLAs and officials travelling in the vehicles are apprising the masses regarding the Government's multiple schemes launched to benefit everybody concerned, making them comprehensible through audio visuals and personal interactions, leaving virtually no stones unturned. The Yatra has been designed, so as to usher in maximum public participation and involvement, and practically this is visible on the field when enthusiastic masses everywhere offering it a grand reception with traditional play of drums, cymbals, Sankha dhvani, dance and music.

Aspiring to transform Bharat into an Atma Nirvara, and highly developed nation, with total eradication of want and poverty by 2047, when Bharat would celebrate 100th year of its Independence, the Prime Minister seeks to focus on women, youth, farmers and the poor people, considering them as the four pillars of support of the developed nation. The campaign, apart from the material gains being made available to the deserving and needy people, also would strive to inculcate among all Indians, a noble spirit of patriotism, a love for our motherland, cutting across party lines, and overcoming barriers of cast, creed and religion. Inspired by the glorious past and the immortal heritage of the sacred land, the people would be encouraged to make dedicated effort, to make our country march ahead, so that, it can virtually be a beacon before the community of world nations, the proverbial Viswa Guru, as has been predicted by prophets and seers like Swami Vivekananda and Sri Aurobindo.

It has been also a part of the campaign to bring to lime-light, and honour, the surviving ones among the numerous great persons, whose suffering and selfless sacrifice for the freedom and development of the country remains unrecognized. The campaign will officially be completed on January 25, 2024, on the eve of our next Republic Day.

After the astounding success in the PM's Jan Dhan Yojana and transfer of all monetary benefits to individual bank accounts bypassing unscrupulous agents and eliminating ghost beneficiaries, the capacity of common Indian villager is never to be underrated.

Recently participating in VBSY at the Kundukila Panchayat in Sundargarh Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan stressed how it embodies the pulse of New India and how Digital India has triggered a financial revolution across India. Further how home-grown technology is fuelling aspirations, bridging digital divide and creating multiple pathways to prosperity.

Addressing at the NIT Rourkela the Minister urged to further inculcate the spirit of research, innovation and entrepreneurship, to contribute to the prosperity of Odisha and to the transformative journey towards a Vikasit Bharat. Earlier in the presence of President Droupadi Murmu and Governor Raghubar Das, the Minister gracing the inaugural ceremony of National Education Campaign organized by Prajapita Brahmakumaris at Sambalpur highlighted features of "New Education For New India." These projects would further strengthen the teaching-learning innovation and skilling environment. # India looking to take giant leap in AI to empower citizens: Modi

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday said India is looking to take a giant leap in Artificial Intelligence(AI) to empower its citizens and asserted that it will not be an exaggeration to say the country achieved in a few years with technology what took others a generation.

In a LinkedIn post inviting people to the Global Partnership on Artificial Intelligence Summit 2023, which he described as a fascinating programme celebrating strides in AI and innovation, the prime minister said India is poised to be an active contributor to the evolution of AI as the world leaps into a not-so-distant future. The Prime Minister will inaugurate the two-day summit here starting December 12.

India is one of the youngest nations with a vibrant start-up ecosystem and a talented workforce, he said, adding that it offers solutions that are scalable, secure, affordable, sustainable, and replicable on a global scale. India's Digital Public Infrastructure initiative is a prime example of such pioneering efforts, Modi said.

"In the last nine to 10 years, India and its citizens have leapfrogged with the help of technology. It won't be an exaggeration to say that India achieved, in a matter of few years, what took other countries a generation," he said. This was possible through the fast-paced penetration of mobiles along with internet connectivity and scalable models for digital inclusion, Modi added. "Similarly, in the field of AI, India is looking to take a giant leap to empower its citizens. Be it serving citizens in their language or making education easier and personalised." The prime minister spoke about the goals of making healthcare more accessible and making agriculture more informed and added that India is using AI for various productive purposes.

The world today is witnessing that when India grows, it does so to ensure an equitable and inclusive model of growth, Modi said.

"When India innovates, it does so to ensure that no one is left behind. When India leads, it does so to ensure that it can take everyone along towards the goal of the greater good," he said.

With the same spirit in the realm of AI, India's approach has been to enable a universal understanding and a conducive environment, steering the use of AI towards the betterment of humanity, Modi added.

Noting that the world is living in a very interesting time, Modi said decades of fast-paced innovation and the power of human endeavour have brought to life what was once considered to be only in the realm of imagination.

In this whirlwind of rapid advancement, AI is one area where its applications are expanding at an exponential rate, he said, adding this revolutionary technology is now in the hands of a new generation -- young and brilliant minds who are swiftly enriching its vast potential.

The prime minister said forums such as the Global Partnership on Artificial Intelligence (GPAI), of which India is a co-founder, are crucial. The GPAI brings along 28 member nations and the EU as its members to guide the responsible development and use of AI.

Since its inception in June 2020, India has made significant contributions to GPAI, actively engaging in various initiatives to foster the development, deployment, and adoption of open, safe, secure, and accountable artificial intelligence, the prime minister said.

"India's election to this Council in November 2022 reflects its dedication to Safe and Trusted AI. As the Lead Chair of the GPAI, India reaffirms its commitment to harnessing technology, particularly AI, for the welfare of people, ensuring that nations of the Global South are not the last to reap its benefits," he said.

Asserting that India is dedicated to clearing the path for a regulatory framework that ensures safe and trusted AI, Modi said it will bring all nations together for widespread and enduring implementation.

The summit will have many interesting sessions, including the AI Expo, which will have 150 startups showcasing their strengths, he added.

Goyal, Vaishnaw seek action against Rajya Sabha members making false charges in garb of questions

NEW DELHI

Leader of House in the Rajya Sabha Piyush Goyal and Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on Friday demanded that Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar take action against members who make false allegations and sensationalise issues without basis in the garb of asking questions.

Goyal termed it as "shoot and scoot."

The two ruling party members were reacting to what they called false allegations by opposition members Saket Gokhale(TMC)and John Brittas(CPM)on two different matters raised during the question hour.

Gokhale had sought to know the reasons for many states rejecting dal (pulses) and other grains supplied under the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana (PMGKAY). Brittas said elderly passengers were facing difficulties due to the "discontinuation" of concessions for senior citizens by the railways. He also said "there is a premium tatkal which has been brought in to fleece the passengers" and that sleeper and general compartments have been replaced with AC coaches, and asked if the railway minister "will review his stand?"

In response, Vaishnaw said, "The honourable member could not ask a question. He has made some comments, which are very misleading comments and I fully, fully refute all the points that he has made."

The minister further said if Brittas had any specific matter related to the particular question being discussed, he was most welcome to come forward and discuss.

Immediately, Goyal stood up and said, "This is the second instance in one day that a member shoots and scoots. First I had the case of dal and now we have the case (pointing to Vaishnaw)...I want a ruling on what will happen to a member who makes false allegations or just sensationalises an issue to draw your attention to something which is not factual. If found so what action will be taken against such a member?"

Vaishnaw also chipped in, saying "this is a matter of great importance. If any honourable member in the garb of asking the question is plainly making allegations which are baseless, absolutely false, have absolutely no direction then what should be the treatment, what should be the punishment to that particular honourable member?"

In response, Dhankhar said, "Let me take the House into confidence. I will look into all aspects."

Earlier during the question hour, Gokhale said a lot of states, especially during COVID-19 and even after that, have rejected dal and other grains supplied under the PMGKAY.

"I would like to ask the minister what were the reasons for states rejecting foodgrains that have come under this yojana and what steps have been taken to ensure that high-quality food is now being supplied to different states under the scheme," he asked.

When minister of state of the department concerned was about to respond, Goyal, who is also the Cabinet Minister of Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution, intervened and said, "I don't think there is any incident of rejection of dal because we don't supply dal under PMGKAY. There is no such incident that is reported to us."

He further said, "The states have rejected the foodgrains. In fact most states, they themselves are procuring the foodgrains and distributing it in their states. I think the honourable member may kindly place some specific incident where there is a rejection of dal or whatever foodgrain he is claiming to have been rejected." If at all there is any misdemeanour at the fair price shop level, certainly the state governments should investigate that, Goyal said while asserting that "no incident of FCI sending any material which has got rejected is currently available with us. If he gives us some specific details we can respond to it".

The chairman then asked Gokhale to share with the Leader of the House if there is an instance. In response, Gokhale said, "Tamil Nadu is one example. What had happened was after the foodgrains were rejected, they went to NAFED, they instituted a committee and NAFED thereafter changed the procurement process wherein out of 100 per cent that is given by millers, 70 per cent is taken and the OTR (out-turn ratio) lower limit was removed."

He further said, "...I would request the honourable Leader of the House to kindly let the minister whose jurisdiction it is to respond because he does not seem to be aware of the fact."

To this, Goyal said, "I strongly rebut what has been said by the honourable member... I would like him to place that on record on the table of the House since he has made a very grave allegation against a very reputed organisation." Dhankhar responded by saying the "member (Gokhale) has put in a firm perspective and assertion which has been disputed by the Leader of the House. The honourable member may put it on the table of the House. We will examine it."

Golden future awaits Indian youths, says Shah

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Friday said a golden future awaits the country's youths as corruption, nepotism and casteism have been replaced by growth and development in the last 10 years.

Speaking at the inauguration of the Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad's (ABVP) national conference at Burari here, he said education is not just for shaping careers but also for nation building.

A golden future awaits the country's youths. In the last 10 years, great changes have taken place in the country with corruption, nepotism and casteism replaced by growth and development, Shah said.

Youth power is the backbone of the country and drives its growth and development, he said.

"India's time has come and the whole world looks up to it for solutions to various problems," he added.

Conserving cultural heritage and development are not contradictory. No one believed the Ram temple could be constructed in Ayodhya, the minister said.

Lauding the ABVP, Shah said it has not only struggled against imperfections of the education system but also helped in character building of students.

Time of post lunch session of Rajya Sabha changed

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

Rajya Sabha Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar on Friday said the time of the post-lunch session of the House has been changed to 2 pm from 2.30 pm on Fridays earlier in line with the Lok Sabha schedule.

He made this assertion after T Siva(DMK)in the morning session of the house pointed out the change of time printed on the business schedule of the day and wanted to know the reason.

"The convention is that on Friday the afternoon session convenes at 2.30 pm. But today in the revised list of business, we have received it as 2 pm. When such a decision was arrived at, the members were not aware. We would like to know why there was such a change," Siva remarked.

To this, the chairman said the time was changed by him during the last session itself as the afternoon session in the Lok Sabha starts at 2 pm.

"This is not being done for today. This has already been done earlier by me. And the reason was given. Lok Sabha sits at 2 pm. Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha being integral parts of Parliament need to adhere to the same time to the extent possible. Therefore it was 2 pm on earlier occasion as directed by me. So this is not a beginning today," Dhankhar said.

Meanwhile, another DMK member M.M Abdullah stood up and pointed out that the 2.30 pm time for post-lunch session was kept so that Muslim members could offer prayers on Friday.

Responding to his statement, Dhankhar said, "Both Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha have members drawn from all sections of the society. Lok Sabha sits at 2 pm. There are members from every segment. Consciously, after due deliberation, I had effected it, indicated to the House and this was already in place in the last session."

The chairman reiterated that the Rajya Sabha will meet after lunch at 2 pm, being in line with the time frame indicated by the Lok Sabha.

'2.63 crore kids received measles vaccine between April 2022 and March 2023'

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

More than 2.63 crore children across the country received the first dose of measles-containing vaccine (MCV) between April 2022 and March 2023, Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya told the Lok Sabha on Friday.

Mandaviya was responding to a question on whether an estimated 11 lakh children in India missed their first measles vaccine dose in 2022, as stated in a report by the World Health Organisation and the US Centres for Disease Control and Prevention.

"While the World Health Organisation (WHO) publishes various reports on Immunisation, under Universal Immunisation Programme (UIP), data regarding Measles Containing Vaccines (MCV) administered free of cost to all eligible children is captured in the Health Management Information System (HMIS).

"As per HMIS, a total of 2,63,63,270 children received 1st dose of MCV throughout the country against the estimated target of 2,63,84,580 children in the period between April 2022 to March 2023," Mandaviya said.

Listing steps taken by the government in coordination with the states and union territories to ensure that all eligible children receive missed or due doses of vaccines, including MCV, Mandaviya said that special catch up campaigns of Intensified Mission Indradhanush (IMI) are carried out in areas of low immunisation coverage to vaccinate all unvaccinated or partially vaccinated children.

Also, IMI 3.0 and IMI 4.0 were carried out in select districts with low immunisation coverage whereas IMI 5.0 was carried out in all districts of the country. In IMI 5.0, the age for administration of missed doses of MCV was increased from 2 years to 5 years.

Additionally, states and union territories have conducted Outbreak Response Immunisation (ORI) and Supplementary Immunisation Activities (SIA) to increase the coverage of MCV, Mandaviya stated.

Mandaviya's junior Minister of State for Health SP Baghel in a written reply in the Lower House said that investigations into the reported data breach on the CoWIN portal have ascertained that there was no bulk data download from its beneficiary database.

The CoWIN portal of the Union health ministry already has adequate security measures and safeguards for data privacy with Web Application Firewall (WAF), Anti-DDoS and SSL/TLS (regular vulnerability assessment) identity and access management, the minister said.

The CoWIN portal is the repository of all data of people who have been vaccinated against COVID-19. "There were media reports of apparent breach of CoWIN data of beneficiaries who have received Covid vaccination in the country. The matter was investigated and analysed by CERT-In under the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology and it was ascertained that there was no bulk data download from Co-WIN beneficiary database," Baghel said. In view of media reports on CoWIN data breach, additional steps have been taken to strengthen data safety on the portal, he said.

Modi for more weddings in India

PTI ■ DEHRADUN

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday said India needs a movement like ‘Wed in India’ on the lines of ‘Made in India’ and asked affluent industrialists to hold at least one destination wedding in their families each year in Uttarakhand saying it will help the hill state emerge as a wedding destination.

Addressing the inaugural session of the Uttarakhand Global Investors Summit at the FRI here, he said it has become fashionable among millionaire and billionaire business families to go abroad for destination weddings.

Modi had given a similar call during his last Mann Ki Baat programme to affluent business families to hold destination weddings in the country instead of going abroad.

“There is an old saying that marriages are made in heaven. But then why are young couples going abroad for their wedding instead of coming to the land of gods (Devbhoomi). My prescription to the young and rich couples is that there should be a movement like ‘Wed in India’ on the lines of ‘Made in India,’ he said.

“Wed in India,” Modi said, adding if the practice of holding destination weddings in Uttarakhand begins and continues for five years it will emerge as an international wedding destination.

“If rich business families start holding their family marriages in Uttarakhand once a year for the next five years and even if

5,000 marriages start taking place here in a year, a suitable infrastructure will grow and it will emerge as a major wedding destination,” he said.

“India has great power. If you decide collectively and make a beginning, anything can happen,” he said.

Addressing a press conference soon after the swearing-in ceremony here, the 73-year-old leader announced 12 priority programmes of his government to be implemented in the next 100 days.

“Our Zoram People's Movement (ZPM) government will buy four local products from farmers such as ginger, turmeric, chilli and broomsticks by fixing minimum prices. Farmers will have the choice to sell their products on their own or to the government. This is our topmost priority,” he said.

The former IPS officer-turned-politician said his government will also accord priority to anti-corruption measures and will invite the CBI to probe graft cases in the state.

“The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) will be given general consent to probe corruption cases in the state.

The government will also assess whether the state's Lokayukta needs to be strengthened and upgraded,” he said.

Protests held in parts of Maharashtra against Priyank over Savarkar remarks

PTI ■ NAGPUR

The BJP and its youth wing on Friday held protests in parts of Maharashtra, including Mumbai and Nagpur, to condemn Karnataka minister Priyank Kharge's remarks against Hindutva ideologue V D Savarkar.

Kharge, a Congress leader, on Thursday said it would be appropriate to remove the portrait of Savarkar from the chamber of the Karnataka assembly, and if allowed, he would remove it.

“Who gave the title Veer to Veer Savarkar? There is no clarity on it. If they (BJP) know, let them tell. Whether Savarkar was taking pension from the British or not? Did he write an apology letter (to the British) five to six times or not? Did his family write the apology letter or not,” he asked.

Condemning his remarks, the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP)

legislators in Maharashtra staged a protest outside the Vidhan Bhavan, the state legislature complex in Nagpur, where the winter session of the legislature is currently underway.

Several BJP MLAs gathered on the steps of the legislature complex, raised slogans condemning the Karnataka minister's comment and demanded responses from Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray on the issue.

In Mumbai, the Bharatiya Janata Yuva Morcha (BJYM), the BJP's youth wing, held a demonstration against Kharge at Dadar in central Mumbai. In neighbouring Thane, a protest was held outside the collector office.

In Nashik, the BJYM activists took out a symbolic funeral procession in the Red Cross signal area to denounce Kharge's remarks against Savarkar. “Everyone knows Congress' hatred towards Savarkar.

Uddhav Thackeray and Sanjay Raut should clear their stand about the Congress which consistently makes controversial statements against Savarkar. Hindutva as per their convenience and double standards about Congress, which hates Savarkar, is the real face of Thackeray's lust for power,” BJYM's Nashik city unit president Sagor Shelar said during the protest.

The BJYM activists warned the Congress leaders to stop making objectionable statements against Savarkar and said those supporting such people should be alert or else they will have to face their wrath.

Tiranga my identity, Hindustan my country: Kashmiri rappers set internet on fire with rap song

PTI ■ SRINAGAR

Two rappers from Kashmir have taken the musical route to highlight the “transformation” of the valley following the abrogation of Article 370 that provided special status to Jammu and Kashmir.

The video of the rap song “Badalta Kashmir” has become a hit on social media, garnering over two million views.

The over three-minute-long song is by the rappers Raasiq Sheikh (MC Raa) and Humaira (8MR). It was released on Youtube on December 3.

Those who have shared the song include Corps Commander of the Srinagar-based 15 or Chinara Corps, Lt Gen Rajiv Ghai.

“Good to see this... The young here are remarkably talented and music has always resonated in Kashmir... Power to the youth,” Ghai said in a post on X.

The track highlights the positive transformation in Kashmir after the abrogation of Article 370 in August 2019. The song also talks about religious inclusiveness and freedom of girls to wear the clothes they like. It also references tourist seasons, the Amarnath yatra, Srinagar Smart City and Digital revolution.

The youngsters sing about how people in the valley were proud to be Indian. “Tiranga is in my heart, it is my identity, Hindustan is my country,” the lyrics read. The idea of the song, Sheikh said, came after observing the changed situation and development in the valley.

“Every hip-hop artist observes things minutely. I saw the transformation in Kashmir like smart-city, G20, and other developments, and that was my inspiration. I wanted to vent my feelings,” Sheikh, a resident of south Kashmir's Shopian, told PTI.

Expelled JD(S) Karnataka president to conduct party's national convention

PTI ■ BENGALURU

Expelled JD(S) Karnataka Estate president C M Ibrahim is gearing up for a major showdown against JD(S) supremo H D Deve Gowda and his family by organising party's national convention in Bengaluru on December 11.

In his capacity as the 'state president', the 75-year-old leader has convened a national level meeting in Bengaluru. He claimed that the party members and leaders from across the country will participate.

“We are organising a national level meeting where we will provide accommodation. State presidents from Gujarat, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Telangana, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Kerala leaders, Rajasthan and all over the country are coming here,” the former Civil Aviation Minister told reporters here.

According to Ibrahim, the agenda is 'Stand for Secularism'. Ibrahim who was expelled for rebelling against the party leadership for forging an alliance with the BJP for the Lok Sabha election, said, “I am an elected man. They can't remove me. My father has not appointed me as a president. I have been elected by the voters of the Janata Dal (Secular) leaders.” The convention is aimed at aligning the party with the INDIA bloc instead of BJP led NDA. He also said he is in touch with like-minded people such as Akhilesh Yadav, Nitish Kumar, RJD leaders, K Chandrashekar Rao of BRS,

M K Stalin and Pinarayi Vijayan.

Noting that Congress MP Rahul Gandhi is contemplating contesting in the Lok Sabha election from Karnataka, he welcomed the decision. He added that 'his party' will back him.

“Former Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and her daughter-in-law Sonia Gandhi had contested from Karnataka and now her grandson will be contesting from here. We will welcome him here. Let him choose whichever constituency he wants. We will support him,” Ibrahim said.

The expelled JD(S) leader alleged that the BJP won in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh due to EVM hacking. Ibrahim demanded that the Election Commission of India conduct elections using ballot papers.

DEEPAK KUMAR JHA ■ NEW DELHI/PATNA

Amidst the mushrooming private universities across the country and footfall of students from across the States including Bihar increasing every academic session, a state of the art university in the heart of Mithila region in Bihar now aims to 'contain' the students within the educationally rich State.

Over the years students of Bihar have been 'migrating' to other states for higher and technical education causing loss to Bihar exchequer and also denting the progress of land of Nalanda, Takshashila and Vikramshila as the students who turn professionals seldom do get back to their parent State.

Understanding the importance of technical education renowned personality of Mithila region Dr. Sandeep Jha established the Bihar's first state-of-the-art private university in Madhubani district of Bihar in the years 2017.

Although, there are many private universities in other states of India where students from Bihar are obtaining degrees in technical education; yet in a state like Bihar, the need for this was being felt for a long time,” said Jha, who is founder Chairman of the Sandeep University.

Within five years of its inception the graduates of this university are now on the rolls of MNCs at India and abroad.

Well known companies like TCS, Amazon, Cognizant, Asian Paints, Godrej and others organises campus placement drives and offers constructive opportunity to job aspirants every year.

He said country aims to establish its own identity in the world by becoming a centre of innovation, entrepreneurship and economic development in near future.

“To achieve this goal, the most important requirement is to create a large pool of professionals through technical education who can meet the huge need of skilled quality professionals in various sectors of the Indian economy, including manufacturing and infrastructure,” added Jha.

He mentioned that the university is approved by UGC and AICTE as well bringing a larger academic interest within the state.

Establishing this university in the heart of Mithila has a fantastic impact on the educational landscape by creating an atmosphere for innovative teaching techniques, a curriculum to nurture bright minds of Bihar. State of the art facilities and updated laboratories contribute to the all round development of students promising highly qualified professionals. By nurturing the talents and aspirations of young students, the university plays important role in empowering local population of the state.

By introducing latest technologies and methods of teaching, the university is trying its best to connect students with professionals for job opportunities. As per the latest brochure placement ratio of the university is remarkable with cent percent assistance in Management and Engineering courses in recent years.

“Young minds and their parents often consider placement facility as one of the crucial aspects in the selection of the academic institutions and this aspect gives us edge over other universities.

Himanta stresses on region-specific urban planning policies

PTI ■ GUWAHATI

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Friday stressed on the need to formulate region-specific policies for urban planning, especially for the Northeast due to its peculiar topography and geographical constraints.

Delivering the inaugural address at the 'North East States Conclave on Urban Planning' here, he highlighted the importance his government has put on urbanisation, particularly in Guwahati.

Sarma called upon policymakers to take into consideration the peculiar topography and geographical constraints of the Northeastern states while formulating urban planning and development policies.

He emphasised the need to depart from the often-practiced “one size fits all” philosophy while formulating policies as what is workable in one region may not provide fruitful results in another.

He expressed hope that while formulating national policies, policymakers would consider drawing “regional and sub-regional policies” too.

The chief minister said Guwahati has the potential to transform itself into the 'Gateway to South-East Asia', and necessary works and planning in this regard have been undertaken at a massive scale for the last couple of years.

He said urban planning in Guwahati required crossing numerous barriers as there is very little scope for expansion of the city's geographical expanse owing to natural barriers such as rivers, hills, reserve forests and water bodies.

Sarma also referred to the state government's tie-up with Singaporean consultancy firm Surbana Jurong for the development of the city.

Delegates from the Northeastern states, chairman of the High-Level Committee of the Union Housing and Urban Affairs Ministry Keshav Verma and Urban Planning expert PSN Rao were among those present at the programme, an official statement said.

HC reserves judgment in Gyanvapi mosque case

PTI ■ PRAYAGRAJ

The Allahabad High Court reserved its judgment on Friday in a petition challenging the maintainability of a suit seeking “restoration” of a temple at the site of the Gyanvapi mosque in Varanasi.

Justice Rohit Ranjan Agrawal reserved the judgment after hearing the counsel for the parties.

The future date in the case would be decided by the court.

The Anjuman Intezamia Masjid Committee of Varanasi as well as the Uttar Pradesh Sunni Central Waqf Board have challenged the maintainability of the original suit filed in the matter in 1991 in the Varanasi district court.

The suit seeks restoration of an ancient temple at the site where the Gyanvapi mosque currently stands. It has been claimed in the suit that the mosque was a part of the temple.

By an order dated August 28, the then Chief Justice Pritinkar Diwakar had transferred the case from Justice Prakash Padia to himself, saying the “single judge continued with the hearing of these cases for more than two years, even though he had no jurisdiction in the matter as per the roster.”

He had further said the decision to withdraw the case from the single-judge bench to the chief justice's court was taken on the administrative side in the interest of judicial propriety, judicial discipline and transparency in the listing of cases.

Justice Diwakar retired on November 22 and after his retirement, the case was listed before Justice Agrawal.

The counsel for the Anjuman Intezamia Masjid Committee, S F A Naqvi, said the petition also challenges a Varanasi court direction to the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) to conduct a comprehensive survey of the Gyanvapi mosque. The order was passed on April 8, 2021.

The authorities were not geared to deal with cyclone Michaung despite early warnings on path, intensity

The devastation caused in Chennai recently by Cyclone Michaung, despite early alerts and enough time to be safe and secure, is proof enough that the Tamil Nadu Government is a very slow learner, if not altogether dyslexic. Just eight years back, a similar situation was witnessed during the infamous Chennai floods but nothing to help address the residents' woes has been done since 2015. Despite early warnings predicting the cyclone's path and intensity, the State Government's lack of preparedness has resulted in widespread suffering for the coastal city. Meteorological agencies had been closely monitoring Cyclone Michaung for days, providing timely and accurate information but the Government failed to take proactive measures. All it did was to declare a public holiday in four districts when the cyclone hit the coast with unprecedented force, leaving behind a trail of destruction. One of the key areas where the Government exhibited lapses was in planning. Many vulnerable, low-lying areas were not evacuated in time; then the lack of coordination between authorities and residents led to chaotic evacuation efforts.

As the cyclone made landfall, it became evident that the relief measures and existing shelters were woefully inadequate; these were overcrowded, lacking basic amenities such as water and sanitation, besides medical aid. Power lines broke down, leading to widespread outages and disrupting communication. Roads were flooded, making it difficult for emergency services to reach the affected areas.

The lack of investment in resilient infrastructure has proved to be a significant shortcoming. A city's drainage, which is the most important aspect in such situations, is still a mess with clogged sewers and overflowing wastewater drains. Another critical aspect was the delayed response in initiating rescue operations even after the cyclone made landfall and there were clear indications of stress among the residents, which cost precious lives. The toll could have been much higher had there been no early warning: Now there are modern machines and technology to correctly predict such natural calamities, the authorities need to only show the will and determination, besides acting on the information in a timely manner. The cyclone, now weaker, has moved to Andhra, but leaves behind many questions. In the aftermath of the cyclone, there is a growing call for accountability and a thorough investigation into the lapses. It is imperative that lessons are learned from this apathetic attitude to ensure better preparedness for natural disasters. Moving forward, it is crucial for authorities to prioritise investment in infrastructure, improve coordination in evacuation and relief efforts and foster a culture of preparedness to protect communities from the increasingly unpredictable forces of nature.

Use AI tools with caution; it is a double edged sword

Nature of AI will be inherently changing the face of work and we have to understand the technology behind it and be careful in how we use it Back in late 2022, few were surprised to learn that someone in Silicon Valley had finally managed to build a better chatbot. A chatbot that could actually raise the bar in terms of what consumers should expect? Many agreed that it was about time. What almost no one had prepared for, on the other hand, was a chatbot of the kind eventually unveiled. ChatGPT, it soon became clear, as hundreds of thousands of people gave the tool a try, was more than just the latest iteration of artificial intelligence (AI) - powered customer-assistance software. Many used the word "revolutionary" to describe what the system was capable of doing. Others said the technology seemed sentient like they were interacting with another human and not a machine.

And now, attention is turning to the technology's next phase: the one where businesses put it to work. Across industries and at companies of all types and sizes, there are already countless examples of ChatGPT deployments in action. From 'wow' to 'wait and see'

In nearly every case, business leaders acknowledge that it's still early days for ChatGPT. They're trailing the technology, "playing with the tool," getting a feel for what it can and cannot do. According to the Dell Technologies 2023 Innovation Index report, 59% of Indian businesses are currently investing or exploring the feasibility of investing in AI to advance innovation. Many say they've already seen enough to know that they could be onto something big. In a report on generative AI that McKinsey published soon after ChatGPT was made available to the public, they pointed out that the technology is one of several recently released platforms that make up the "latest class" of deep learning systems.

Challenges and opportunities

Platforms like ChatGPT are trained on data from the internet, not on information held by individual businesses. This is getting underlined starkly with businesses not knowing how to fully extract value from data coming through AI channels employed across supply chains. The chatbots also come with their limitations. They will be vulnerable to inaccurate information and bias if the input is not tailored to these chatbots. The rampant use of ChatGPT might also open channels to security threats.

ChatGPT is exciting for Indian businesses but it is changing every day. The nature of AI will be inherently changing the face of work. We have to understand the technology behind it and be careful in how we are using it. ChatGPT might be very smart but it is far from perfect.

BJP juggernaut rolls in Hindi Heartland

The BJP fought the Assembly elections on Modi charisma and won but it may have to rework its strategy in the South for 2024

BJP will go into 2024 polls with more aggression, renewed strength and confidence which will be laced and embedded in Modi Magic and center's ten-year achievements but its southward journey has been stopped by Congress in Telangana though it has won 8 seats in the House 119. Earlier, BJP had to face defeat in Karnataka and the loss of its ally, AIADMK in Tamil Nadu had also put the saffron party in a dilemma. It was all the way Modi through collective leadership led by the PM did wonders for the BJP in these poll-bound states. A huge gamble and risk was taken by RSS and BJP's high command to make Modi as face of these assembly polls but it paid rich dividends.

It did help in generating the trust of voters who did not hesitate in reposing faith in his leadership though the situation would have been different had CM candidates been declared by BJP. Modi's outreach to tribals also created history as they shifted their loyalty from Congress and supported Modi who promised to look after their welfare in future.

The caste census narrative of Congress was neutralized by PM who stressed the need to have faith in four castes viz. women, youth, farmers and the poor, such connotation worked to the hilt. PM's focus on the Congress party's image of corruption also neutralized the anti-incumbency factor in MP besides women voters' overwhelming support of welfare schemes of the Shiv Raj Singh government.

Contrary to it, Hindutva's dose in Rajasthan bore the fruit which was compounded by the fielding of ministers and MPs who influenced surrounding assembly segments. It was true in MP also which is considered the factory of experimentation of Hindutva politics. The well-oiled machinery of RSS strengthened the killing spirit of BJP cadres in these poll states besides vast resources at BJP's command.

Last but not least, the poll management and strategy of Union Home Minister Amit Shah and party president, J.P. Nadda, was successful in putting the rivals on the mat which matters a lot in winning the elections.

BJP May Re-Work Its Strategy For South. While riding high on the extreme popularity of Modi coupled with the Ram Temple-led Hindutva campaign, the BJP may rework its poll game plan for the south to improve its performance in 2024.

According to national president, J.P. Nadda, BJP will focus on the new game plan to have allies in the south and people will vote for PM Modi owing to their faith in his guarantee to fulfil poll promises, unlike the opposition which believes in misguiding the voters to win elections. Nadda is confident about victory in 2024 as cracks have appeared in INDIA which happens to be the group of contradictions and satraps of inflated egos. Congress' defeat may be a good omen for INDIA. The experts feel that Congress party's defeat in Madhya Pradesh and its failure to retain Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh may act as a blessing in disguise for the future of INDIA. First, Congress's victory could have enhanced its bargaining power but defeat has snatched it from the grand old party. Second, it will bring Congress to at equal playing level with other constituents of INDIA

K S TOMAR

BIHAR CHIEF MINISTER, NITISH KUMAR WAS FEELING ALIENATED DUE TO POLITICAL MANEUVERING BY CONGRESS WHICH WAS AIMING FOR A PIVOTAL ROLE IN THE INDIA BLOC

thereby neutralising any iota of arrogance and inflexibility. Third, the jolt to Congress will act as an eye-opener to leaders like Kejriwal, Mamata Banerjee, Akhilesh Yadav etc. who may be forced to shed anti-Congress rhetoric and see reasoning in 2024 polls while agreeing to the seat-sharing formula in states like Delhi and Punjab (AAP) and West Bengal (TMC) and Samajwadi Party (UP) respectively. Fourth, the critics of Kejriwal and Mamata argue that both leaders may face corrupt cases and land in jail if Modi returns to power for the third time which may be the predominant reason for their desire to be part of the INDIA alliance.

Fifth, Bihar chief minister, Nitish Kumar was feeling alienated due to political maneuvering by Congress which was aiming at a pivotal role in the new INDIA Bloc. One cannot deny the fact that it was Nitish Kumar who had been responsible for bringing warring regional straps to one platform but hurdles were created in assigning him the important position of convenor of INDIA. Now Congress president, Mallikarjun Kharge has convened the meeting of INDIA to iron out differences and move forward with an eye on 2024. The biggest challenge INDIA faces relates to seat sharing and the finalisation of the common minimum programme. The glitches are huge and may require flexibility and a broad-minded spirit of 'Give and Take' to make the INDIA alliance a reality because it is still confined to paper only.

Congress was optimistic about metamorphosis in its fortune as it expected to retain Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh and snatch power from the saffron party in Madhya Pradesh. Modi factor has dashed their hopes to the ground as BJP has performed exceedingly well in three states. But BJP proved an outside ring player in Telangana and it will have to console with an increase of its one-seat tally to 8.

The BJP and RSS will bank on the Modi factor and the centre's ten-year performance to win in 2024 but there will be a dire need to formulate a new poll strategy for the South as dominance in Hindi states may not be sufficient. The scare of Modi's return to power for 3rd successive time may contribute to this phenomenon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

STAY ALERT IN WINTER

Sir — Even as temperatures have started to dip, cardiologists have called on people, especially those with pre-existing heart conditions, to be mindful of the winter season, which is known to increase the risk of heart attacks. Cold weather can exacerbate cardiovascular conditions, posing significant risks, particularly for individuals with pre-existing heart issues. The drop in temperature prompts physiological changes, leading to increased blood pressure and heart rate. It is imperative that everyone, especially those with known heart conditions, take proactive measures during the winter months. It is crucial to adhere to prescribed medications, maintain regular follow-ups with your healthcare provider, and adopt lifestyle adjustments such as staying physically active, managing stress, and adhering to a heart-healthy diet. The disruption to the sleep cycle and hormonal balance impacts cardiovascular health, and shovelling snow, engaging in winter sports, and other activities common in cold weather can further stress the heart. The role of "traditional food habits with a higher intake of salt and lipids of animal origin. It is also possible that the influence of day duration and lack of sunlight or UV light in this season stimulates the synthesis of vitamin D3 in the skin and liposoluble cholesterol sulphate, whose deficiency can favour atherosclerosis and inflammation, and be the cause of higher incidence and increased mortality during winter.

KASHMIR: NEHRU'S BLUNDER?

Sir — Under the present dispensation, the more you imprecate Nehru, the more nationalist and patriotic you are. True to form, Amit Shah has blamed Nehru for his blunders over the Kashmir issue. To be fair to Nehru, he was the PM of India at a time when the PM's job was an unenviable one, what with the horrors of partition and abject poverty casting an ominous dark shadow.

Textile industry suffers losses

The onslaught of the coronavirus has had a drastic impact on the global textile industry as well as the Indian textile industry. Even though several sectors like industrial, medical, education, etc. were subjected to a major setback during the pandemic, the textile industry in India was massively affected in terms of productivity, functioning, and employee relations since the entire workforce involved the supply chain. In the last few years, the Indian textile industry has witnessed a huge downfall, particularly in the domestic garment market, with plenty of cancellations in orders and no fresh orders coming through either.

This has resulted in the workforce getting hugely affected, leaving millions of skilled and unskilled labourers with no option but to migrate to their native countries. The Union government should consider the industry's demands and take steps to support them. This should include temporary relief from the import duty on cotton, especially during the off-season. The government should also invest in research and development to help the industry produce cotton more efficiently and sustainably, which will enable it to create more job opportunities, boost exports, and grow the economy. One hopes that the Union government will support this industry to the maximum and revive it soon to get back to its halcyon days. After all, 'cloth' is one of the three immediate and fundamental needs for human life.

Ranganathan Sivakumar | Chennai

This was the age of a trillion problems and not about making India a $5 trillion economy. So why does the BJP always behave like an eczema patient who loves to scratch old wounds? "Never be a prisoner of your past. It was just a lesson, not a life sentence." The BJP would do well to read this quote, abide by it, and will continue this.

WASTEFUL EXPENDITURE IN MARRIAGE

Sir — The wedding season has started. According to data from various cities in the country, at least 38 lakh marriages will occur in the next few days, and at least Rs 4.74 lakh crore will be spent on them. The cultural richness and traditional rituals should indeed be celebrated, but the excessive emphasis on material grandeur can weaken the sanctity of the marital bond, as the economic strain caused by unnecessary expenditure at weddings can have far-reaching consequences.

Therefore, it is important to think about the growing culture of unnecessary expenditure at weddings. At weddings, people spend their entire life savings, but extravagant spending only for sheen and reputation is not sensible. Still, people do it for their reputation among their relatives.

These festivals can be celebrated while still sticking to their traditions with a practical approach to spending, which is not only culturally enriching but also economically responsible. By reevaluating our priorities and embracing the beauty of simplicity, we can ensure that weddings remain a true celebration of love, unity, and cultural richness without the unnecessary burden of financial stress. This practice will help aged people and parents to save more for their twilight of life.

OVERCOME MENTAL APARTHEID

RAVI VALLURI

We must lead a disciplined life and adopt spirituality to tap the law of attraction

The human mind is cannonaded with innumerable thoughts. It is estimated that around sixty thousand thoughts arise in our mind, on any given day. When the human mind is not at rest or lacks peace, this acts as an obstruction in the pursuit of spiritual growth.

The Banana Swing bowler
Accuracy and rigour were the forte of the master swing bowler John Kenneth Lever. This ubiquitous workhorse for Essex had the uncanny ability to prodigiously bring the ball into the right-handed batsman (universally termed the Banana Swing) with quotidian ability.

The infamous Vaseline incident
However, in 1976, this consummate fast bowler was charged with applying Vaseline on the red cherry to produce English-like conditions at the arid Feroze Shah Kotla grounds in Delhi. It was perhaps the first recorded incident of ball doctoring. The then Indian captain Bishan Singh Bedi vehemently opposed this blatantly unethical method deployed but Lever was acquitted of the charges. One can safely argue that had bowlers from subcontinental countries resorted to such unethical tactics against teams like England, Australia, South Africa, and New Zealand (SENA teams) it is quite likely that deservedly rasping punishment would have been meted out. This is a crystal-clear case of mental apartheid.

Monetary figures from international economics
It will be noteworthy to peruse the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) figures of two Asian giants, India and China as calculated by Professor Angus Maddison, Emeritus Professor at the University of Groningen, Netherlands. The figures are quite revivifying and inspiring. India's share of world GDP was slightly more than a quarter of the total in the year 1000 AD, and just a little less than a quarter between the years 1500 AD and 1700 AD.

Reclaiming a piece of the pie: It is indeed revealing that the Oriental world, in particular, India and China had acquired a significant world share of wealth and economy. Thus, several European trading companies, following the doctrine of Gold, Glory, and God – adopted overt and covert methods to target these gargantuan economies. Over time they successfully subjugated and enslaved these economies. Meanwhile, India's share of world GDP dropped to an insignificant 3.65%. How did things come to such a state? The vastly superior Indian culture reached a plateau.

Yogic power and spirituality: our salvation: However, many Indians themselves condemn and denigrate it, no matter how much the people disparage it, yet it is the Yogic power (Shakti), techniques of meditation and our spirituality which has again catapulted India to the status of prima donna and helped the country scale exalted heights. The contribution of Maharishi Patanjali, our Vedic literature, the splendidous epics of Mahabharata and Ramayana, various philosophical schools and the contribution of Jainism, Buddhism and subsequently of Islam and Sikhism had all made India the hub and cradle of mental invigoration and wondrous contribution. It is indeed the very same mental invigoration that led to the discovery of the concept of zero or even the existence of galaxies in the universe. We were then not victims of mental apartheid.

Way out: Today the world has become a yoga mat. Indians must strive beyond Hatha Yoga repose faith from within and work on certain cardinal principles that have stood the test of time. These are to lead a regulated life and endorse the belief that life is something sacred and precious, acquire spiritual wealth and understand the universal law of attraction. It is only then that we can unshackle mental apartheid.

Inclusivity for visually impaired is still a dream

Visually impaired experts need to be involved at every stage of decision making on inclusion and accessibility!

The recent news that Fssai has asked food operators to have QR codes on their products, is certainly very encouraging and reassuring, for making this disabling world, somewhat enabling, for people with total blindness and low vision! However, I have a few very pertinent reservations and questions about independent shopping for the visually impaired here: Does every blind or low-vision person own a smartphone, and are they all trained and able to use this gadget properly to be able to avail of this facility? Are there alternatives there for those blind or low-vision persons who are not technology savvy? How will the information, that every food product label has a QR Code printed on it, and the blind and low-vision persons can access the same independently, while shopping; reach all end users? How can a totally blind or a low vision person, in the first place, be able to locate and reach the store where the food products with printed QR Codes are available? How will the visually impaired person, thereafter, find and then reach independently, the shelves or areas, where these food products with QR Codes printed, are placed in the store or shop? Will these shelves have any indications for the visually impaired to pick up the food product on their own, without obstruction or accidentally dropping other products that may be lying around the same area? My request is that we need to think more comprehensively, so all kinds of visually impaired persons are able to shop independently. For, these visually impaired persons include the entire spectrum in our population, ranging from children right people who have lost their sight due to age-related issues and have very little support. I would also like to state here; that inclusion is slowly being thought about, all it needs is to include the end-users at all stages from planning to execution of any such initiatives for them; so we come up with effective, simple and comprehensive solutions to make our environment inclusive! Awareness needs to be created and please do not exclude the end users at any stage of how the existing environment can be made inclusive for all! The solution lies in acknowledging a simple fact; "this world was and is made by sighted people for sighted people, and the blind and low-vision people were completely left out"! And, believe me, we are still left out! A little bit here and there is done, that too, hardly scratches the surface of the disabling environment that we are still forced to live in! It starts with our families, and the mainstream society and goes up to enabling full participation for the visually impaired, we continue to be called as special people with special needs!

We talk about the needs of the disabled as special, because, everything was, is and is being designed for only those who have all parts of the body working perfectly! We are still not provided the same services or facilities in anything; including education, employment or should I say, everything that a non-disabled person enjoys! We are supposed to sit and wait on the margins and wait for things to come to us, that is, if at all someone around feels that that particular thing, knowledge or activity, according to them, is something that could be important for the disabled person/child there! If we are not given the opportunity to learn and to participate in life equally, then how are we ever expected to

SC should declare poll freebies a corrupt practice

UTTAM GUPTA

When a candidate uses his money to bribe the voter, it is treated as corrupt practice, but when his party bribes voters using 'public money' it is not treated the same way

Taking a cue from the practice of mesmerizing voters with freebies - an acronym for "something is given free of charge" - started by the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) in the February 2020 Delhi elections, early this year, in Karnataka elections, the grand old party (GOP) gave five guarantees (a more respectable nomenclature for freebies) on a grand scale. These delivered the intended result.

In the just concluded elections in Madhya Pradesh (MP), Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Telangana, the guarantees have occupied the centre stage in the manifestos of all parties expanding their 'scope' and 'scale'. Apart from free electricity, subsidized gas cylinders, free smartphones and tablets, free education/access to English-medium schools, OPS (old pension scheme) etc, the parties have tried to outsmart each other by promising cash transfers.

In Rajasthan, the GOP promised Rs 10,000 every year to the female head of the family under the Griha Lakshmi Yojana. In MP, BJP has promised Rs 1,250 per month under Ladli Behna Yojana; the amount will gradually be hiked to Rs 3,000 per month. Additionally, under the Ladli Lakshmi Yojana, girls will get Rs 200,000/- till they get married. In Chhattisgarh, the BJP has promised Rs 12,000 per year to married women under the 'Mahtari Vandan Scheme'. In Telangana, the GOP has gone a step ahead by promising 10 grams of gold in addition to Rs 100,000/- cash to women getting married.

In the past, farm loan waivers have been a favourite with most parties. This time, they have also gone for a hefty increase in the minimum support price (MSP) for farmers. In MP, BJP has promised MSP of wheat at Rs 2,700 per quintal - 27 per cent higher than the current Rs 2,125 per quintal (fixed by the Centre). For paddy, it has promised an MSP of Rs 3,100 per quintal - 42 per cent higher than the current level of Rs 2,183 per quintal; ditto in Chhattisgarh.

The guarantees are being justified as welfare schemes. This is a farce. A welfare scheme is rooted in three basics viz. the state assistance goes to persons who are poor and primarily focused on bare essentials such as food, fuel, water, housing, education and health; it should be backed by well-orchestrated efforts to garner revenue so that budgetary position is not destabilized; finally, it is given for a 'limited period' after which the beneficiaries should stand on their own.

Mooted with an eye on winning elections, freebies defy these cardinal principles. Barring a few instances where the poor tag is appended to the Scheme, most of them are given to all and sundry. The parties promising these freebies don't even make an assessment of the funding required forget making efforts to garner resources. Finally, no party ever whispers about exiting from the scheme.

In such a scenario, destabilisation of the State budgets is inevitable. In Karnataka, the five guarantees promised by the GOP imposed additional liabilities of around Rs 62,000 crore thereby doubling its fiscal deficit (FD) to over Rs 120,000 crore. The precariousness of the situation can be seen from a comment by the Deputy CM "The government has no money to give to the MLAs for carrying out development work; courtesy the poll guarantees'.

In MP, at the current rate of Rs 1250 per month to 12.5 million beneficiaries, the Ladli Behna Yojana costs the state exchequer about Rs 18,750 crore per annum. This will go up to Rs 45,000 crore per annum as the quantum of assistance eventually goes up to Rs 3,000 per month. Meanwhile, the promised hike in MSP to farmers in MP and Chhattisgarh will dent their budgets. For instance, MP will have to spend Rs 5000 crore more on its purchase of paddy.

Unlike any well-intentioned scheme that could have a sun-set, a poll-induced guarantee once given, is more likely to stay eternally and over time, the quantum of assistance will only increase. Besides, it will have repercussions at the all-India level.

For instance, in view of the impending Lok Sabha elections next year, there could be pressure on Modi to give a similar hike in MSP as promised by MP and Chhattisgarh. That will upset the Centre's budget drastically. Since 2021-22, the tax revenue of both the Centre and states have been increasing at a rapid pace and this is helping them rein in their FD levels. If the taxpayers realise that their contributions are being used to indiscriminately give poll-bound freebies to all and sundry, it may even trigger non-compliance amongst them.

The giveaways covering a wide spectrum of items besides large-scale cash transfers also become a breeding ground for corruption. This is evident from the inclusion of millions of ineligible or fake persons in the list of beneficiaries. For instance, during scrutiny of the Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi (PM-KISAN), 24 million ineligible farmers were found to have received income transfers in 2021-22 under the Scheme.

The biggest damage freebies inflict is to change the mindset of people in a way that makes them complacent towards work. When, people get access to most of their basic needs free of charge that too 'perpetually', they won't be inclined to make efforts. Whichever way one looks at it, freebies are a recipe for economic disaster. The only way to avoid it is to prohibit parties from promising doles. The question is: who will do it?

In an order in S Subramaniam Balaji vs the Government of Tamil Nadu & Ors in July 2013, the Supreme Court (SC) observed that the distribution of freebies of any kind influences all people. "It shakes the root of free and fair elections to a large degree." Yet, it held:-

"the promises in the election manifesto cannot be construed as 'corrupt practice' under the Representation of People Act (RPA), or any other prevailing law and, hence, distribution of freebies can't be stopped when the ruling party uses public funds for this purpose through the passage of Appropriation Acts in the state Assembly".

After nearly nine years, of hearing a PIL seeking directions against 'freebies' on January 25, 2022, the SC observed "This is no doubt a serious issue, budget for freebies is going above the regular Budget. This disturbs the level playing field". Yet, on August 3, 2022, it threw the ball in the court of political parties asking them to enact a law on curbing freebies. When the latter are deeply rooted in this practice, why would they enact a law to curb it?

A big deterrent is none other than the SC order of July 2013 which says "... it can't be construed as corrupt practice..." Within the meaning of section 123(1)(A) of the RPA, 1951, the expression 'bribery' has been defined to mean any gift, offer or promise by a candidate or his agent or by any other person with the consent of a candidate or his election agent of any gratification with the object of inducing an elector as a reward to his candidature.

The irony is when a candidate uses his own pocket money to bribe the voter, it is treated as corrupt practice, but when the party on whose symbol he is seeking election bribes voters using 'public money', the top court doesn't treat it that way. Currently, a three-judge bench, headed by CJI is hearing a plea to take a re-look. Will it alter its stance?

“THE PARTIES PROMISING THESE FREEBIES DO NOT EVEN MAKE AN ASSESSMENT OF THE FUNDING REQUIRED AND FORGET TO MAKE EFFORTS TO GARNER RESOURCES. FINALLY, NO PARTY EVER WHISPERS ABOUT EXITING FROM THE SCHEME”

Israel’s war against Hamas enters 3rd month

Palestinians crowd into ever-shrinking Gaza areas

AP ■ RAFAH (GAZA STRIP)

Desperate Palestinians fleeing Israel’s expanding ground offensive crowded into an ever-shrinking area of the Gaza Strip as the Israel-Hamas war entered its third month on Friday. The United Nations warned that its aid operation is “in tatters” because no place in the besieged enclave is safe. Israel’s military assault on Gaza, a tiny, densely populated territory, has led to widespread civilian casualties and mass displacements, triggering international alarm. The Israeli army said Friday that over the past day the military had struck about 450 targets in the Gaza Strip by air, sea and ground, signalling the continued intensity of its campaign. Palestinian TV stations reported airstrikes on various parts of the territory. “Airstrikes and random artillery shelling have continued intensely since last night until this morning,” said Hassan Al Najjar, a journalist speaking by phone from northern Gaza. Earlier this week, UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres used a rarely exercised power to warn the Security Council of an impending “humanitarian catastrophe”, and Arab and predominantly Muslim nations have called for a vote on Friday on a Council resolution to demand an immediate cease-fire. The United States, Israel’s closest ally, appears likely to block any UN effort to halt the fighting, which was triggered by the deadly October 7 attack by Hamas militants on southern Israel. Still, US concern over the devastation is growing. US officials told Israel ahead of the expansion of its ground offensive to southern Gaza several days ago that it must limit civilian deaths and displacement, saying too many Palestinians were killed when it obliterated much of Gaza City and surrounding areas in the north. On Thursday, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken said in a call with Israeli Minister of Strategic Affairs Ron Dermer that casualties are still too high, a senior State Department official said. Blinken told Dermer that Israel must also do more to allow humanitarian aid into Gaza. The official spoke on condition of anonymity to discuss the private diplomatic discussion. Israel insists it must crush the military capabilities of Hamas, which rules Gaza, and remove it from power following the group’s October 7 attack. In the first stage of the war, Israel’s air and ground campaign focused on the northern half of Gaza, leading hundreds of thousands of residents to flee south. Intense battles continued in parts of the north in recent days, while troops there have rounded up hundreds of Palestinian men. In photos and video published on Thursday, dozens of men are seen sitting in rows on a street in northern Gaza, stripped down to their underwear with their heads bowed as they are being guarded by Israeli troops. The images were the first showing such detentions in the war. Israeli military spokesman Daniel Hagari said troops have detained and interrogated hundreds of people in Gaza suspected of militant links. UN monitors said troops reportedly detained men and boys from the age of 15 in a school-turned-shelter in the town of Beit Lahiya, in the north. During the war, there has also been a dramatic surge in deadly military raids and an increase on restrictions on Palestinian residents in the occupied West Bank. Israeli forces stormed into a refugee camp in the West Bank on Friday to arrest suspected Palestinian militants, unleashing fighting with local gunmen in which six Palestinians were killed, health officials said. The Israeli military did not respond to a request for comment on the operation. Over the past week, Israeli forces expanded their ground offensive into southern Gaza, with a focus on Khan Younis, the territory’s second largest city. On Friday, the Palestinian Red Crescent Society said Israel’s air force attacked a home facing the society’s office in the city of Khan Younis in southern Gaza. It did not give details about casualties. Medhat Abbas, a spokesperson for the Health Ministry in Hamas-controlled Gaza, reported a strike in the city of Deir al-Balah in central Gaza, saying it killed and wounded a number of people but gave no exact numbers. The military says it makes every effort to spare civilians and accuses Hamas of using them as human shields as the militants fight in dense residential areas. With the entire Gaza Strip under military assault, tens of thousands of people displaced by the fighting have packed into the border city of Rafah, in the far south of the Gaza Strip, and Muwasi, a nearby patch of barren coastline that Israel has declared a safe zone.

‘94 media workers killed this year, mostly in Gaza’

AP ■ BRUSSELS

A leading organisation representing journalists worldwide expressed deep concern on Friday at the number of media professionals killed around the globe doing their jobs in 2023, with Israel’s war with Hamas claiming more journalists than any conflict in over 30 years. In its annual count of media worker deaths, the International Federation of Journalists said 94 journalists had been killed so far this year and almost 400 others had been imprisoned. The figure for deaths is up from 67 in the same period of 2022 — including 12 killed in Ukraine — and double the total of 47 recorded for the whole of 2021.

The group called for better protection for media workers and for their attackers to be held to account. “The imperative for a new global standard for the protection of journalists and effective international enforcement has never been greater,” said IFJ President Dominique Pradalié. The group said 68 journalists had been killed covering the Israeli-Hamas war since Hamas attacked Israel on October 7 — more than one a day and accounting for 72 per cent of all media deaths worldwide this year. It said the overwhelming majority of them were Palestinian journalists in the Gaza Strip, where Israeli forces continue their offensive. “The war in Gaza has been more deadly for journalists than any single conflict since the IFJ began recording journalists killed in the line of duty in 1990,” the group said, adding that deaths have come at “a scale and pace of loss of media professionals’ lives without precedent”. Ukraine also “remains a dangerous country for journalists” almost two years since Russia’s invasion, the organisation said. It said three reporters or media workers had been killed in that war so far this year.

The organisation also deplored media deaths in Afghanistan, the Philippines, India, China and Bangladesh. It expressed concern that crimes against media workers are going unpunished and urged governments “to shed full light on these murders and to put in place measures to ensure the safety of journalists”. It noted a drop in the number of journalists killed in North and South America, from 29 last year to seven so far in 2023. The group said the three Mexicans, one Paraguayan, one Guatemalan, one Colombian and one American were slain while investigating armed groups or the embezzlement of public funds.

Rocket attack targets US Embassy in Baghdad

Baghdad (AP): A rocket attack on the sprawling US Embassy in Baghdad caused minor damage but no casualties Friday morning, US and Iraqi officials said. The attack is the first on the embassy located in the heavily fortified Green Zone of Iraq’s capital to be confirmed since the beginning of the Israel-Hamas war. The Green Zone houses Iraqi government buildings and embassies on the west bank of the Tigris River. Iran-backed militias in Iraq have claimed responsibility for dozens of attacks that targeted bases housing US troops in Iraq and Syria since Israel declared war on Hamas two months ago. The US military says 78 attacks have been carried out against US facilities over the past weeks, of which 37 were in Iraq and 41 in Syria.

An Iraqi security official said 14 Katyusha rockets were fired on Friday, of which some struck near one of the US Embassy’s gates while others fell in the river. The official said the rocket attack caused material damage but no casualties. A US military official said a multi-rocket attack was launched at American and coalition forces in the vicinity of the embassy complex and the Union III base, which houses offices of the US-led coalition. The official added that no casualties and no damage to infrastructure were reported. An embassy spokesperson said the US Embassy was attacked by two salvos of rockets at approximately 4:15 a.m. (0215 GMT). “Assessments are ongoing, but there are no reported casualties on the embassy compound,” the official said, adding that no specific group had claimed responsibility for firing the rockets as of Friday morning but early indications pointed to Iran-aligned militias. “We again call on the government of Iraq, as we have done on many occasions, to do all in its power to protect diplomatic and Coalition partner personnel and facilities,” the official said.

UK says it has paid Rwanda $300 mn for a blocked asylum deal

AP ■ LONDON

Prime Minister Rishi Sunak was under pressure on Friday to explain why Britain has paid Rwanda 240 million pounds (USD 300 million) as part of a blocked asylum plan, without a single person being sent to the East African country. The total is almost twice the 140 million pounds that Britain previously said it had handed to the Rwandan government under a deal struck in April 2022. Under the agreement, migrants who reach Britain across the English Channel would be sent to Rwanda, where their asylum claims would be processed and, if successful, they would stay. The plan was challenged in UK courts, and no flights to Rwanda have taken off. Last month, Britain’s Supreme Court ruled the policy was illegal because Rwanda isn’t a safe country for refugees. Despite the ruling and the mounting cost, Sunak has pledged to press on with the plan. The Home Office said it had paid a further 100 million pounds to Rwanda in the 2023-24 financial year and expects to hand over 50 million pounds more in the coming 12 months. Junior Immigration Minister Tom Pursglove defended the cost, saying the money would ensure “all of the right infrastructure to support the partnership is in place”. “Part of that money is helpful in making sure that we can respond to the issues properly that the Supreme Court raised,” he said. The opposition Liberal Democrats said it was “an unforgivable waste of taxpayers’ money”. The Rwanda plan is central to the UK government’s self-imposed goal to stop unauthorised asylum-seekers from trying to reach England from France in small boats. More than 29,000 people have done so this year, compared to 46,000 in 2022. Since the Supreme Court ruling, Britain and Rwanda have signed a treaty pledging to strengthen protections for migrants. Sunak’s government argues that the treaty allows it to pass a law declaring Rwanda a safe destination. The law, if approved by Parliament, would allow the government to “disapply” sections of UK human rights law when it comes to Rwanda-related asylum claims and make it harder to challenge the deportations in court. The bill, which has its first vote scheduled in the House of Commons on Tuesday, has roiled the governing Conservative Party, which is trailing the Labour opposition in opinion polls, with an election due in the next year. It faces opposition from centrist

Conservative lawmakers who worry about Britain breaching its human rights obligations. Former Conservative Solicitor-General Edward Garnier said the bill was “trying to define things when there is no evidence, or no safe evidence, for that being the case”. He told the BBC that changing the law to declare Rwanda a safe haven is “rather like a bill which says that Parliament has decided that all dogs are cats”. But the bigger danger for Sunak comes from Conservatives on the party’s authoritarian right wing that views curbing immigration as essential to the government’s pledge to “take back control” now that Britain has left the European Union. They think the bill is too mild and want the UK to leave the European Convention on Human Rights. Almost every European country, apart from Russia and Belarus, is bound by the convention and its court. Immigration Minister Robert Jenrick piled pressure on the prime minister when he quit the government this week, saying the bill did not go far enough. Sunak insists the bill goes as far as the government can without scuttling the deal because Rwanda will pull out of the agreement if the UK breaks international law. The party differences erupted on social media after the party posted an attack ad aimed at Labour, using an image of a BBC presenter caught making a rude gesture to camera this week. While some Tory lawmakers retweeted the middle-finger image approvingly on X, formerly known as Twitter, others called it crass. “Amazed this has not – despite requests – been taken down, it is beneath us,” Conservative legislator Alicia Kearns posted.

Hunter Biden indicted on nine tax charges

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Hunter Biden was indicted on nine tax charges in California on Thursday as a special counsel investigation into the business dealings of President Joe Biden’s son intensifies against the backdrop of the looming 2024 election. The new charges — three felonies and six misdemeanours — are in addition to federal firearms charges in Delaware alleging Hunter Biden broke laws against drug users having guns in 2018. They come after the implosion of a plea deal over the summer that would have spared him jail time, putting the case on track to a possible trial as his father campaigns for reelection. Hunter Biden “spent millions of dollars on an extravagant lifestyle rather than paying his tax bills”, special counsel David Weiss said in a statement. The charges are centred on at least USD 1.4 million in taxes Hunter Biden owed during between 2016 and 2019, a period where he has acknowledged struggling with addiction. The back taxes have since been paid. If convicted, Hunter Biden, 53, could a maximum of 17 years in prison. The special counsel probe remains open, Weiss said. In a fiery response, defense attorney Abbe Lowell accused Weiss of “bowing to Republican pressure” in the case. “Based on the facts and the law, if Hunter’s last name was anything other than Biden, the charges in Delaware, and now California, would not have been brought,” Lowell said in a statement. The White House declined to comment on Thursday’s indictment, referring questions to the Justice Department or Hunter Biden’s personal representatives. The charging documents filed in California, where he lives, details spending on everything from drugs and strippers to luxury hotels and exotic cars, “in short, everything but his taxes”, prosecutor Leo Wise wrote. The indictment comes as congressional Republicans pursue an impeachment inquiry into President Biden, claiming he was engaged in an influence-peddling scheme with his son. The House is expected to vote next week on formally authorising the inquiry. No evidence has emerged so far to prove that Joe Biden, in his current or previous office, abused his role or accepted bribes, though questions have arisen about the ethics surrounding the Biden family’s international business. The separate, long-running criminal investigation into Hunter Biden had been expected to wind down with a plea deal where he would have gotten two years’ probation after pleading guilty to misdemeanor tax charges and avoided prosecution on the gun charge if he stayed out of trouble. The agreement was pilloried as a “sweetheart deal” by Republicans, including former President Donald Trump. He is facing his own criminal cases, including charges that he plotted to overturn the results of the 2020 election. Rep. James Comer, R-Ky., the chairman of the House Oversight Committee, gave credit for the new charges on Thursday to two IRS investigators who testified before Congress that the Justice Department had mishandled and “slow walked” the investigation into the president’s son. Justice officials have denied those allegations. The two IRS employees, Gary Shapley and Joseph Ziegler, said the indictment was “a complete vindication of our thorough investigation”. The new charges against Hunter Biden include filing a false return and tax evasion felonies, as well as misdemeanor failure to file and failure to pay. The defence signalled that it plans to fight the new charges, likely at least in part relying on immunity provisions from the original plea deal. Defence attorneys have argued those remain in force since that part of the agreement was signed by a prosecutor before the deal was scrapped. Prosecutors have disagreed, pointing out the documents weren’t signed by a judge and are invalid. Lowell said he’s also planning to push for dismissal of the gun charges next week, calling them “unprecedented and unconstitutional”. The three federal gun charges filed in Delaware allege Hunter Biden had lied about his drug use to buy a gun that he kept for 11 days in 2018. Federal law bans gun possession by “habitual drug users”, though the measure is seldom seen as a stand-alone charge and has been called into question by a federal appeals court. Hunter Biden’s longstanding struggle with substance abuse worsened after the death of his brother Beau Biden in 2015, according to court documents and his memoir “Beautiful Things”, which ends with him getting clean in 2019. His gross income nevertheless totalled some USD 7 million between 2016 and 2020, prosecutors said, pointing to his roles on the board of the Ukrainian energy company Burisma and a Chinese private equity fund as well as his position at a law firm.

Judge rules against Prince Harry in early stage of libel case against Daily Mail publisher

London (AP): Prince Harry lost a preliminary round on Friday in his libel case against the publisher of the Daily Mail tabloid over an article that said he tried to hide his efforts to retain publicly funded protection in the UK after giving up his status as a working member of the royal family. A London judge said the Duke of Sussex failed to knock out Associated Newspaper Ltd.’s defence that its article reflected an honest opinion. A hearing is scheduled Tuesday to discuss the consequences of the ruling. Justice Matthew Nicklin said in that ruling that “it is not fanciful that the Defendant will be successful, at trial”. He scheduled a hearing on Tuesday in the High Court to discuss the consequences of the ruling. The ruling comes just a day after another judge concluded three days of arguments — mostly behind closed doors — over whether the government unfairly stripped Harry of his security detail after he and his family moved to the US in 2020. Harry, 39, the younger son of King Charles III, is challenging the government’s decision to provide security to him on a case-by-case basis when he visits Britain. Harry has said hostility toward him and his wife on social media and relentless news media hounding threatens their safety.

The Mail on Sunday and Mail Online published an article in February 2022 about the issue headlined: “How Prince Harry tried to keep his legal fight with the government over police bodyguards a secret ... then — just minutes after the story broke — his PR machine tried to put a positive spin on the dispute.” Harry claims the article was “fundamentally inaccurate” and the newspaper libelled him when it suggested he lied in his initial public statements about his case challenging the government.

Greece may be able to benefit from Turkish power plant

Ankara (AP): Türkiye is considering allowing neighbouring Greece to benefit from a nuclear power plant it plans to build near its Black Sea coast, Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan was quoted as saying on Friday. Erdogan made the comments on his return from a visit to Athens on Thursday, where longtime regional rivals Greece and Türkiye took significant steps toward mending their troubled ties. “We strive to develop and expand cooperation with Greece not only in the field of energy but also in all areas, including nuclear energy,” Erdogan told a group of journalists on his flight back. “For example, we can provide Greece the opportunity (to benefit) from energy from our nuclear power plant to be built in Sinop (Province).” His comments were reported by state-run Anadolu and other media on Friday. During Erdogan’s visit on Thursday, Greece and Türkiye signed more than a dozen cooperation deals on trade, energy and education and announced a roadmap for future high-level consultations aimed at avoiding crises. Erdogan travelled to Greece promising to pursue a “win-win” approach that could lay the foundation for broader cooperation. “I believe that my visit, which took place in a very positive atmosphere, will open a new page in Türkiye-Greece relations,” Erdogan said. Longstanding disputes have led Athens and Ankara to the brink of war three times in the past 50 years. The latest flare-up occurred in 2020, when Greek and Turkish navy ships shadowed each other in the eastern Mediterranean over a dispute

French teens await verdict over their alleged roles in killing of teacher

AP ■ PARIS

A French juvenile court is handing down a verdict on Friday for six teenagers accused of involvement in the killing of teacher Samuel Paty, who was beheaded by an Islamic extremist after he showed caricatures of the Prophet Muhammad to his class for a debate on freedom of expression. Paty, a history and geography teacher, was killed on October 16, 2020, near his school in a Paris suburb by an 18-year-old of Chechen origin who had become radicalised. The attacker, Abdoulakh Anzorov, was then shot dead by police. Paty’s name was disclosed on social media after a class debate on free expression during which he showed prophet caricatures published by the satirical newspaper Charlie Hebdo. The publication had triggered a deadly extremist massacre in the Charlie Hebdo newsroom in 2015. All those on trial were students at Paty’s school. If convicted, they face up to two-and-a-half years in prison. Five of the defendants, who were 14 or 15 at the time of the attack, are accused of staking Paty out until he left school that day and identifying him for the attacker in exchange for promises of 300-350 euros (USD 350-400). Investigators found that the attacker wanted to target Paty but didn’t have the means to identify him. The five are facing charges of criminal conspiracy with the aim of preparing aggravated violence. The sixth defendant, who was 13 at the time, is accused of wrongly claiming that Paty had asked Muslim students to raise their hands and leave the classroom before he showed the class the prophet cartoons. She was not in the classroom that day, and later told investigators she had lied. She is facing a charge of making false allegations. Her father shared the lie in an online video that called for mobilisation against the teacher. He and a radical Islamic activist who helped disseminate virulent messages against Paty are among eight adults who will face a separate trial for adults suspected of involvement in the killing, expected late next year. In sometimes tearful testimony, the teenagers on trial said they had no idea the teacher would be killed, according to French media reports. The trial has been held behind closed doors, and the media are not allowed to disclose the defendants’ identities according to French law regarding minors.

‘Increasing Covid-19 cases put strain on S’pore hospitals’

Singapore (PTI): Covid-19 infections and hospitalisations are increasing and putting a strain on hospitals in Singapore, the Ministry of Health warned on Friday. Though the health ministry has raised the alert, it has also reassured people that the numbers are not as high as during the pandemic and that the circulating variants are not known to cause more severe illness. In the week ended on December 2, as many as 32,035 people were diagnosed with COVID-19 — the highest number of infections recorded this year, according to a report by The Straits Times newspaper. The previous high was 28,410 infections a week in March, the Ministry of Health (MOH) said. The latest number is almost 10,000 more than the 22,094 diagnosed the previous week. The number of weekly infections has been hovering around 15,000 infections over the past two to three months. The number of people being hospitalised and needing intensive care treatment has also gone up, it said. An MOH statement on December 8 said the average daily COVID-19 hospitalisations rose to 225 from 136 the week before, and the average daily intensive care unit (ICU) cases increased to four compared with one case in the previous week. It said: “This has added workload to our hospitals, which are already busy.” Nine people severely ill with Covid-19 were admitted to a hospital in ICU in the week of November 26 to December 2, up from four the previous week.

Putin aims to extend his rule of over 2 decades

AP ■ MOSCOW

Vladimir Putin on Friday moved to prolong his repressive and unyielding grip on Russia for at least another six years, announcing his candidacy in the presidential election next March that he is all but certain to win.

Putin still commands wide support after nearly a quarter-century in power, despite starting an immensely costly war in Ukraine that has taken thousands of his countrymen's lives, provoked repeated attacks inside Russia — including one on the Kremlin itself — and corroded its aura of invincibility. A short-lived rebellion in June by mercenary leader Yevgeny Prigozhin raised widespread speculation that Putin could be losing his grip, but he emerged with no permanent scars. Prigozhin's death in a mysterious plane crash two months later reinforced the view that Putin was in absolute control.

Putin announced his decision to run in the March 17 presidential election after a Kremlin award ceremony, when war veterans and others pleaded with him to seek reelection in what Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov described as "spontaneous" remarks. "I won't hide it from you — I had various thoughts about it over time, but now, you're right, it's necessary to make a decision," Putin said in a video released by the Kremlin after the event. "I will run for president of the Russian Federation."

Tatiana Stanovaya of the Carnegie Russia Eurasia Centre noted that the announcement was made in a low-key way instead of a live televised speech, probably reflecting the Kremlin's spin effort to emphasize Putin's modesty and his perceived focus on doing his job as opposed to loud campaigning. "It's not about prosperity, it's about survival," Stanovaya observed. "The stakes have been raised to the maximum."

About 80 per cent of the populace approves of Putin's performance, according to the independent pollster Levada

Centre. That support might come from the heart or it might reflect submission to a leader whose crackdown on any opposition has made even relatively mild criticism perilous. Whether due to real or coerced support, Putin is expected to face only token opposition on the ballot.

Putin, 71, has twice used his leverage to amend the constitution so he could theoretically stay in power until he's in his mid-80s. He is already the longest-serving Kremlin leader since Soviet dictator Josef Stalin, who died in 1953.

In 2008, he stepped aside to become prime minister due to term limits but continued calling the shots while his close associate Dmitry Medvedev served as a placeholder president. Presidential terms were then extended to six years from four, while another package of amendments he pushed through three years ago reset the count for two consecutive terms to begin in 2024.

"He is afraid to give up power," Dmitry Oreshkin, a political analyst and professor at Free University of Riga, Latvia, told The Associated Press this year. At the time of the amendments that allowed him two more terms, Putin's concern about losing power may have been elevated: Levada polling showed his approval rating significantly lower, hovering around 60 per cent.

In the view of some analysts, that dip in popularity could have been a main driver of the war that Putin launched in Ukraine in February 2022.

"This conflict with Ukraine was necessary as a glue. He needed to consolidate his power," said commentator Abbas Gallyamov, a former Putin speechwriter now living in Israel. Brookings Institution scholar Fiona Hill, a former US National Security Council expert on Russian affairs, agreed that Putin thought "a lovely small, victorious war" would consolidate support for his reelection.

"Ukraine would capitulate," she told AP earlier this year. "He'd install a new president in Ukraine. He would declare himself the president of a new union of Belarus, Ukraine and Russia over the course of the time leading up to the 2024 election. He'd be the supreme leader."

The war didn't turn out that way. It devolved into a grueling slog in which neither side makes significant headway, posing severe challenges to the rising prosperity integral to Putin's popularity and Russians' propensity to set aside concerns about corrupt politics and shrinking tolerance of dissent.

For the first time, voting in the presidential election will take place over three days from March 15 to 17, 2024, including in four regions of Ukraine partially and illegally annexed by Russia. The election commission argued that the practice of multi-day voting, used in other elections since the COVID-19 pandemic, is more convenient for voters.

Putin's rule has spanned five US presidencies, from Bill Clinton to Joe Biden. He became acting president on New Year's Eve in 1999, when Boris Yeltsin unexpectedly resigned. He was elected to his first term in March 2000.

Although Putin has long abandoned the macho photo shoots of bear hunting and scuba diving that once amused and impressed the world, he shows little sign of slowing down. Photos from 2022 of him with a bloated face and a hunched posture led to speculation he was seriously ill, but he seems little changed in recent public appearances.

"He's a wartime president, is mobilizing the population behind him," Hill said. "And that will be the message around the 2024 election, depending on where things are in the battlefield."

Pak EC issues notice to PTI on plea against intra-party polls

Islamabad (PTI): Pakistan's election commission on Friday issued a notice to jailed former prime minister Imran Khan's Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf party on a petition challenging its recent organisational polls, which were termed as "rigged and fraudulent".

The Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI), held its election on December 2 following a ruling by the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) for fresh intra-party polls to elect its chairman and other key officer-bearers to retain the cricket bat as its election symbol. The same day, the party announced that it had elected Imran Khan's nominee, Barrister Gohar Khan, as the party Chairman.

Gohar, 45, was hand-picked by the 71-year-old cricketer-turned-politician after consultation with his loyalist lawyers who frequently meet him in jail where he has been kept since being arrested on August 5 after conviction in the Toshakhana corruption case. Khan himself avoided filing the nomination due to conviction and disqualification.

However, one of its founding members, Akbar S Babar, who developed differences with the party years ago, filed a petition with the ECP, terming the exercise as "rigged and fraudulent" with a plea for fresh organisational elections. At least 13 other PTI members joined Babar in challenging the election. The members in the petition maintained that no schedule was given before the elections and the voter lists were also not released. "There was no activity in the PTI central secretariat related to elections," the plea said.

Separately, the country's mainstream parties, including the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) and Pakistan Peoples' Party (PPP), also questioned the legitimacy of the intra-party elections. A five-member ECP panel, led by Chief Election Commissioner Sikandar Sultan Raja, conducted the hearing on the petition. Babar's counsel implored the commission to declare the PTI's polls null and void and to mandate a fresh conduct of the elections.

Chinese military surveillance balloon seen in Taiwan Strait

AP ■ TAIPEI

Taiwan's Defence Ministry says a Chinese military surveillance balloon was spotted in the Taiwan Strait, as well as a large-scale movement of military aircraft and ships. The ministry said the balloon passed southwest of the northern port city of Keelung on Thursday night, then continued east before disappearing, possibly into the Pacific Ocean.

However, there seemed to some uncertainty about whether the balloon was operated directly by the People's Liberation Army, the military branch of China's ruling Communist Party. The ministry referred to it both as a "PLA surveillance balloon" and as "1 PRC's balloon", using the acronym for the People's Republic of China, China's official name.

A Defence Ministry spokesperson said they had no additional information.

China has long blurred the lines between military and civilian functions, including in the South China Sea, where it operates a huge maritime militia — ostensibly civilian fishing boats that act under government orders to assert Beijing's territorial claims.

Taiwan has threatened to shoot down such balloons, but the ministry did not say what, if any, action was taken. It said the balloon was monitored flying at an altitude of approximately 6,400 metres (21,000 feet). It also said 26 Chinese military aircraft were detected, along with 10 Chinese navy ships, in the 24 hours before 6 am on Friday.

Of the aircraft, 15 had crossed the median line that is an unofficial divider between the sides, but which Beijing refuses to recognise. Some also entered Taiwan's self-declared air defense identification zone outside the island's airspace, which encompasses the 160 kilometer (100 mile) - wide Taiwan Strait. Taiwan's military monitored the situation with combat aircraft, navy vessels and land-based missile systems, the ministry said. The incident came just over month before Taiwan is to hold elections for president and the legislature and raises questions about possible Chinese efforts to influence the vote.

Such incursions occur regularly as a means of advertising China's threat to use force to annex the self-governing island republic it considers its own territory, wear down Taiwan's military capabilities, and impact morale among the armed forces and the public, who remain largely ambivalent to China's actions.

The Chinese missions have also prompted Taiwan to up its purchases of aircraft from the United States, its chief ally, and revitalize its own defence industry, including producing submarines. Beijing strongly protests all contacts between the island and the US, but its aggressive diplomacy has helped build strong bipartisan support for Taipei on Capitol Hill. US President Joe Biden vowed sharper rules to track, monitor and potentially shoot down unknown aerial objects after three weeks of high-stakes drama sparked by the discovery of a suspected Chinese spy balloon transiting much of the country early in the year.

Japan's leader grilled in parliament over widening fundraising scandal, link to Unification Church

AP ■ TOKYO

Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida and several key Cabinet ministers were grilled by opposition lawmakers in parliament on Friday over a widening fundraising scandal and an alleged connection to the Unification Church which threaten to further drag down the government's sagging popularity.

Support ratings for Kishida's government have fallen below 30 per cent because of public dissatisfaction over its slow response to rising prices and lagging salaries, and the scandal could weaken his grip on power within the governing Liberal Democratic Party. Still, the long-ruling party remains the voter favourite in media polls because of the fragmented and weak opposition.

Dozens of governing party lawmakers, including Cabinet members, are accused of failing to fully report money they received from fundraising. Kishida has acknowledged that authorities are investigating the scandal following a criminal complaint.

The party's largest and most powerful faction, linked to late former Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, is suspected of failing to report more than 100 million yen (USD 690,000) in funds in a possible violation of campaign and election laws, according to media reports. The money is alleged to have gone into unmonitored slush funds. Kishida has instructed party members to temporarily halt fundraising parties. "It's a first step," he said on Friday. "We will thoroughly grasp the problems and the cause and will take steps to regain public trust."

Kishida also said he will step down as head of his own party faction while serving as prime minister to show his determination to tackle the problems. Kishida was bombarded with questions from senior opposition lawmakers about the scandals during Friday's parliamentary hearing.

He separately faces allegations related to a 2019 meeting with former US House Speaker Newt Gingrich, who visited him with top officials from the Unification Church, a South Korea-based religious group that the government is seeking to dissolve over abusive recruiting and fundraising tactics that surfaced during an investigation of Abe's assassination last year. The investigation also led to revelations of years of cozy ties between the governing party and the Unification Church.

Kishida said he was asked to meet with Gingrich as a former foreign minister and that he did not remember the other guests. Photographs in Japanese media show him exchanging business cards with Unification Church officials.

"I don't see any problem with that," Kishida said. "If there were church-related people in the group, that does not mean I had ties with the Unification Church."

Yukio Edano, a lawmaker for the main opposition Constitutional Democratic Party of Japan, accused Kishida of lax oversight and of attempting to distance himself from the fundraising scandal by withdrawing from leadership of his faction.

Media reports say Chief Cabinet Secretary Hirokazu Matsuno allegedly diverted more than 10 million yen (USD 69,000) over the past five years from money he raised from party events to a slush fund.

Matsuno was a top official in the Abe faction from 2019 to 2021 and is the first key minister implicated in the scandal by name.

ADB approves US $200 mn loan to debt-stricken SL

Colombo (AP): The Asian Development Bank said on Friday that it has approved USD 200-million concessional loan to debt-stricken Sri Lanka to help stabilise the country's finance sector following an unprecedented economic crisis that engulfed the Indian Ocean island nation last year.

The bank's announcement comes as Sri Lanka is awaiting International Monetary Fund approval for the second installment of a USD 2.9-billion bailout package to rescue the country from bankruptcy.

The ADB said its Financial Sector Stability and Reforms Program for Sri Lanka includes two subprogrammes of USD 200 million each that would help strengthen the stability and governance of the country's banking sector, and deepen sustainable and inclusive finance, particularly for women-led micro, small, and medium-sized enterprises.

"The programme's overarching development objective is fully aligned with the country's strategy of maintaining finance sector stability, while ensuring that banks are well-positioned for eventual recovery," Takafumi Kadono, ADB's director for Sri Lanka, said in a statement.

He added that the "expected development outcome is a stable financial system providing access to affordable finance for businesses in various sectors of the economy".

Sri Lanka plunged into an economic crisis in 2022, creating severe shortages and drawing strident protests that led to the ouster of then-President Gotabaya Rajapaksa. It declared bankruptcy in April 2022 with more than USD 83 billion in debt — more than half of it to foreign creditors.

The IMF agreed in March to a USD 2.9-billion bailout package, releasing the first payment shortly thereafter. However, the IMF delayed the second tranche, citing inadequate oversight and debt restructuring.

S Korea's defence chief vows strikes on North if provoked

AP ■ SEOUL

South Korea's defence minister on Friday vowed massive retaliatory missile strikes on "the heart and head" of North Korea in the event of provocation, as the rivals escalate their rhetoric over their respective spy satellite launches in recent days. The South Korean warning — unusually fiery rhetoric by Seoul directed at Pyongyang — came as the top security advisers from South Korea, the US and Japan gathered in Seoul for talks to discuss North Korea's evolving nuclear threats and other issues.

During a visit to the army's missile strategic command, South Korean Defence Minister Shin Wonsik ordered command officers to maintain a readiness to fire precision-guided and powerful missiles at any time, according to his ministry. Shin said the main role of the command is "lethally striking the heart and head of the enemy, though the types of its provocations can vary," a ministry statement said.

Animosities between the two Koreas deepened after North Korea launched its first military reconnaissance satellite into space on Nov. 21 in violation of U.N. bans. South Korea, the U.S. and Japan strongly condemned the launch, viewing it as an attempt by the North to improve its missile technology as well as establish a space-surveillance system. South Korea announced plans to resume front-line aerial surveillance in response. North Korea quickly retaliated by restoring border guard posts, according to Seoul officials. Both steps would breach a 2018 inter-Korean deal on easing front-line military tensions.

Last week, when South Korea also launched its first military spy satellite from California's Vandenberg Space Force Base, North Korea slammed the US for alleged double standards and warned of a possible grave danger to global peace. In a statement Friday, Jo Chol Su, a senior North Korean Foreign Ministry official, said the North would make all available efforts to protect its national interests in the face of threats by hostile forces. The national security advisers from South Korea, the U.S. and Japan are to hold their first trilateral meeting in six months in Seoul on Saturday.

Ahead of the three-way meeting, South Korean national security adviser Cho Tae-yong and his Japanese counterpart, Takeo Akiba, met bilaterally on Friday and reaffirmed a need to strengthen their cooperation with the U.S. to cope with provocations by North Korea. Cho and U.S. national security adviser Jake Sullivan also met and affirmed that Seoul and Washington remain open to diplomacy with North Korea, according to South Korea's presidential office.

Taiwan prez candidates to hold televised debate as race heats up

Taipei (AP): The three candidates running in next month's Taiwanese presidential election will hold a televised debate on December 30 as the race heats up under pressure from China. The outcome of the January 13 election could have a major effect on relations between China and the United States, which is bound by its own laws to provide Taiwan with the weapons it needs to defend itself and to regard threats to the self-governing island as a matter of "grave concern."

Differences over Taiwan, which China claims as its own territory, are a major flashpoint in US-China relations. The debate will feature current Vice President William Lai of the Democratic Progressive Party; Hou Yu-ih, a local government leader representing the main opposition Nationalist Party, or KMT; and former Taipei mayor Ko Wen-je, of the smaller Taiwan People's Party. Lai, whose party favours the status quo of de facto independence, is favoured to win the election, ensuring that tensions with China will likely remain high. The KMT, which formerly ruled in China before being driven to Taiwan amid the Communist takeover of the mainland in 1949, formally backs political unification between the sides, a prospect most Taiwanese reject. Ko, who briefly flirted with an alliance with the KMT, has advocated restarting talks with China. "The whole world wants to know whether the people of Taiwan will continue to move forward on the path of democracy in this major election, or whether they will choose to rely on China, follow a pro-China path, and lock Taiwan into China again," Lai said in a recent speech.

Dutch police arrest Syrian accused of sexual violence

The Hague (AP): A Syrian refugee was arrested on Friday in the Netherlands on suspicion of crimes against humanity including sexual violence while he was allegedly head of an interrogation team in a militia aligned to the government of President Bashar Assad.

The arrest of the 55-year-old man marks the first time Dutch authorities have charged a suspect with sexual violence as a crime against humanity, the National Public Prosecution Service said in a statement. He is the latest suspect charged in the Netherlands with crimes committed during Syria's grinding civil war. Under universal jurisdiction, the Netherlands can prosecute certain crimes even if they were committed abroad.

The Netherlands and Canada have also taken Syria to the United Nations' top court, accusing Assad's administration of a years-long campaign of "institutionalised" torture

Post-summit news conferences highlight divide between China, EU

AP ■ BEIJING

From trade to human rights, the leaders of China and the European Union differed on a wide range of issues at a summit this week in the Chinese capital. China, which sees Europe as an important export market, raised concerns about trade protectionism and "de-risking", the EU initiative to reduce its reliance on any one country — such as China — for vital raw materials and products.

The EU, which sees imports from China as a potential threat to companies and jobs, pressured China on its large trade surplus with Europe and its de facto support for Russia in the war in Ukraine. Separate post-summit news conferences on Thursday evening highlighted the divergent positions. Wang Lutong, the director general for European affairs, spoke to journalists at China's Foreign Ministry. Then EU Commission President Ursula von der Leyen and EU Council President Charles Michel held a joint news conference at the European Union office in Beijing.

TRADE IMBALANCE
VON DER LEYEN: "If you just look at the last two years, the trade deficit has doubled. This is a matter of great concern for a lot of Europeans. Such imbalances are just unsustainable. The root causes are well known, and we discussed them. They range from a lack of market access for European companies to the Chinese market to preferential treatment of domestic Chinese companies and overcapacities in the Chinese production."

WANG: "Sometimes the EU relates the imbalance of trade between us to overcapacity and subsidies. But we don't think there is overcapacity in such areas like green energy and clean energy. ... China could be very useful to the green transition not only of the EU but also the whole world. So if you want us to support the EU in green transition, do not be protectionist. You make the choice between being protectionist and encouraging China to participate in your goal in order to achieve that green transition."

TRADE SUBSIDIES
WANG: "The Chinese side has expressed concerns to the EU side on its de-risking and restrictive economic and trade policies, including the anti-subsidy investigation against Chinese electric vehicles as well as its 5G policies. The Chinese side has urged the EU to ensure openness of its trade and investment market, provide an equitable and non-discriminatory business environment for Chinese enterprises and be prudent in using trade remedies."

VON DER LEYEN: "Politically, European leaders will not be able to tolerate that our industrial base is undermined by unfair competition. We like competition. It makes us better; it lowers prices; it is good for the consumers. But competition needs to be fair. ... Europe does not want to decouple from China. ... What we want is de-risking. De-risking is about managing the risks we see, addressing excessive dependencies through diversification of our supply chains ... and thus increasing our resilience. And this is not exclusive to China."

UKRAINE
VON DER LEYEN: "Russia's war of aggression is a blatant violation of international law and the UN Charter, and it is a serious threat to European security. And this is why we recalled the need for China to use all its influence on Russia to stop this war of aggression and to engage in Ukraine's peace formula. We also reiterated (to China) to refrain from supplying lethal equipment to Russia and to prevent any attempts by Russia to undermine the impact of sanctions."

WANG: "Sometimes European politicians said to us that China needs to speak to Russia, you need to speak to President Putin about withdrawing their soldiers. This is a very independent sovereign nation. President Putin is making his decision based on his own national interest and security. So that's why we are also urging Europeans to speak to Russians about it. We think ... it's important that Europeans and Russians talk about the possible security architecture in Europe and it's also important that Russians and Americans talk about the possible strategic stability."

Stock markets hit new peaks

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Benchmark Sensex and Nifty rebounded to close at their new lifetime highs on Friday after the Reserve Bank raised the growth forecast for the current fiscal and kept policy rates unchanged, triggering heavy buying in banking and other rate-sensitive stocks. The 30-share BSE Sensex rose 303.91 points, or 0.44 per cent, to hit its new peak of 69,825.60. The index touched the highest intra-day level of 69,893.80. The broader index Nifty also climbed 68.25 points or 0.33 per cent to reach a fresh record high of 20,969.40. Among major Sensex movers, HCL Tech logged the biggest gain of 2.69 per cent, followed by JSW Steel (2.44 per cent) and Infosys (1.67 per cent). Other gainers included HDFC Bank, Titan, Axis Bank and ICICI Bank. In contrast, ITC, Mahindra & Mahindra and Bajaj Finance were among the laggards. “The RBI took a balanced approach by raising the economic growth forecast and also expressing concern on food inflation, which may have an elevated trajectory in the short term. A drop in rabi sowing and dipping reservoir levels provides a perception that foodgrain prices can rise. The impact was visible on FMCG stocks, which underperformed today,” said Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services. Foreign institutional investors sold shares worth Rs 1,564.03 crore on Thursday, according to exchange data. The six-member Monetary Policy Committee of the RBI on Friday decided to keep the benchmark repurchase (repo) rate at 6.5 per cent. The central bank raised its forecast for economic growth to 7 per cent from 6.5 per cent, maintaining India's position as the world's fastest-growing major economy, after a stronger-than-expected 7.6 per cent growth in the July-

September quarter. Elsewhere in Asia, Shanghai Composite gained 0.11 per cent, while the Nikkei 225 and Hang Seng fell by 1.68 per cent and 0.15 per cent, respectively. European markets were trading higher with France's CAC 40 gaining by 0.91 per cent and London's FTSE 100 rising by 0.55 per cent. Germany's DAX was trading 0.39 per cent higher. The US markets ended with significant gains in overnight trade on Thursday, with the Nasdaq rallying more than 1 per cent. Global oil benchmark Brent crude was trading 1.62 per cent higher to USD 75.25 a barrel. On Thursday, the 30-share index fell 132.04 points, or 0.19 per cent, to close at 69,521.69. Nifty declined 36.55 points, or 0.17 per cent, to settle at 20,901.15.

Crossborder remittances using e rupee to halve cost of such payments to 3 per cent: Ajay

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC) or e-rupee can help halve the cost of cross-border remittances to 2-3 per cent, an official said on Friday. Economic Affairs Secretary in the Finance Ministry Ajay Seth said CBDC can be used for trade, remittances, or any other cross-border payment. “At the moment, cross-border payment is not a very efficient system, it takes time. At the same time, there is cost factor,” Seth said. Giving data, he said remittances to India is around USD 100 billion annually and compared to the global level of 8-9 per cent, the cost in India is low at 5 per cent of each transaction value. “So, for cross-border payments, CBDC can be very effective to bring down cost further to the range of 2-3 per cent,” the Secretary said at the Ficci Annual Convention here. The introduction of CBDC was announced in the Union Budget 2022-23 by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman. The RBI began the pilot wholesale CBDC project on November 1, 2022, while the pilot on retail version was launched on December 1, 2022. The e-rupee is in the form of a digital token that represents legal tender. It is being issued in the same denominations as the paper currency and coins. It is being distributed through financial intermediaries, i.e., the banks. Users are able to transact with e-rupee through a digital wallet offered by the participating banks.

India urea production rises to 284.95 L tonne in 2022-23

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

India's urea production has increased to 284.95 lakh tonnes last fiscal from 225.08 lakh tonnes in 2014-15, the government informed Lok Sabha on Friday. In written replies, Minister of State for Chemicals and Fertilisers Bhagwanth Khuba said the central government ensures adequate availability of urea to meet the requirements of states/Union Territories. To increase the availability of urea through indigenous sources, the Centre announced New Investment Policy (NIP) - 2012 to facilitate fresh investment in the urea sector and to make India self-sufficient in the sector. “A total of 6 new urea units have been set up under NIP - 2012, which together have added 76.2 lakh tonnes per annum in the existing indigenous urea production capacity of the country. “In addition, Government of India also introduced the New Urea Policy (NUP)-2015 on 25th May, 2015 with one of the objectives of maximising indigenous urea production. As a result, the indigenous production of the country increased from 225.08 lakh tonnes in 2014-15 to 284.95 lakh tonne in 2022-23,” Khuba said. The minister also said that the gap between demand (requirement) and production of fertilizers is met through imports. Under the Urea Subsidy Scheme (USS), urea is provided to the farmers at a statutorily notified

Maximum Retail Price (MRP). Besides, under the Nutrient Based Subsidy Policy, a fix amount of subsidy is notified on annual/semi-annual basis, which ensures availability of P&K fertilizers at reasonable prices to farmers. Urea is imported on government account. However, all P&K (phosphatic and potassic) fertilizers (DAP, MOP and NPK) are covered under Open General License (OGL) under the Nutrient Based Subsidy (NBS) Scheme and they are imported by the fertilizer companies on commercially viable terms. According to the data, imports of urea fell to 75.8 lakh tonnes in 2022-23 from 91.36 lakh tonnes in the previous year. Imports of Di-ammonium phosphate (DAP) rose to 65.83 lakh tonnes from 54.62 lakh tonnes, while the inward shipments of MOP fell to 18.66 lakh tonnes from 24.6 lakh tonnes. NPK imports increased to 27.5 lakh tonnes from 11.7 lakh tonnes.

IIFL Securities stock settles 5 per cent higher

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Shares of IIFL Securities settled 5 per cent higher on Friday after the SAT set aside Sebi's order prohibiting the company from onboarding new clients for two years. The stock of the brokerage firm rallied 5.13 per cent to settle at Rs 124.05 apiece on the BSE. On the NSE, scrip of IIFL Securities jumped 4.20 per cent to close at Rs 122.85 per piece. During the day, shares of brokerage firm IIFL Securities touched a 52-week high of Rs 134.40 each on BSE and NSE. On the volume front, 1.02 crore shares were traded on the NSE, while 8.10 lakh shares exchanged hands on the BSE, during the day.

At the close of the session, the 30-share BSE Sensex bounced 303.91 points or 0.44 per cent higher to settle at 69,825.60, while NSE Nifty rose 68.25 points to close at 20,969.40. On Thursday, the Securities Appellate Tribunal (SAT) set aside the market regulator Sebi's order prohibiting IIFL Securities from onboarding new clients for two years, and slashed the fine levied on the brokerage house to Rs 20 lakh from Rs 1 crore. The order came after IIFL Securities, earlier known as India Infoline Ltd., filed an appeal against the order passed by the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) in June. The capital markets regulator, in June, prohibited IIFL Securities from taking up new clients for two years for alleged mis-utilisation of client funds.

Setting aside Sebi's order, SAT Presiding Officer Justice Tarun Agarwala and technical member Meera Swarup said, “There has been no misuse of client funds and by wrongly considering the non-funded portion of the bank guarantee as per the 2016 circular, an attempt has been made out to show that there was a misuse of client funds which, in our opinion, is patently erroneous”. Further, it said that there was no failure on the part of the appellant (IIFL Securities) to segregate the money of the client. It is not that these monies have been misused for their purposes, and so no penalty under the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act (SCRA) could be imposed.

India has 3 years window to attract companies moving out of China: NITI Aayog

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

India has a two-to-three-year window to capitalise on the global strategy of de-risking from China and the government needs to be very alert to come up with a set of policies that make the shift of businesses to India attractive and easier, NITI Aayog CEO Subrahmanyam said on Friday. Addressing CII Global Economic Policy Forum 2023, Subrahmanyam further said India is in a sweet spot due to the outcome of geopolitics and the fact that the country has a young working-age population. “So I think, in the next 15 to 20 years time span, India has an opportunity in manufacturing. But the opportunity and the window for India is at best two to three years, because supply chains are unwinding, they're becoming shorter, and they're looking for new geographies. “This is going to be a two-three year phenomenon, and then supply chains will get frozen,” he said. Subrahmanyam pointed out that it is not just non-Chinese companies but even Chinese companies which want to move out of China because of labour shortages. “They are having a shortage of demand because there is a population shift in terms of the age, a shortage of labour supply, the rising cost of labour and the stressed capital markets,” he said. Noting that the capital market system is under stress in China, Subrahmanyam also said it is a very clear signal to big MNCs from their capitals that de-risk from Beijing. “So even if global trade does not grow in total, there could be a shift in trade from one geography to the other. So that is something which India can capitalize in the short run,” he emphasised. The NITI Aayog CEO opined that to attract businesses from China, India will have to compete with Vietnam, Indonesia, Turkey, Mexico and Bangladesh. “So I think ... We need to be very alert to come up with a set of policies, a set of programs to make doing business and shifting business to India attractive,” he said. Subrahmanyam also pointed out India's customs rule does not allow import of used goods when companies shift the factory as they move pre-owned stuff. “So you need to allow that to happen as there are half-a-dozen other countries who are going to be competing with you to get the shift out of China,” he said. On the carbon border adjustment mechanism (CBAM), Subrahmanyam said Indian companies need to adapt fast to the carbon tax if the major markets are moving in that direction. “The fights will be fought by the government at the international level. But at the bottom level, for survival's sake, I think companies will need to adjust and the government would have to come up with policies to facilitate that,” he added.

Nayara to start polypropylene plant

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Nayara Energy, India's second-largest private oil firm, on Friday said it will start operations of a new polypropylene plant in the first half of next year, marking its entry into the lucrative petrochemical sector. In the last financial year (April 2022 to March 2023), India's consumption of polypropylene stood at 6.4 million tonnes, of which around 1.6 million tonnes or around 25 per cent was imported. With wide applications in segments like packaging, automotive applications, consumer durables and lifestyle products, the demand for polypropylene (PP) is projected to rise. “Nayara is well on track for its entry into the petrochemicals sector with its upcoming 4,50,000 tonnes per annum polypropylene plant expected to be commercially operational during H1 2024 - when Nayara expects the demand to accelerate and margins to kick in,” the firm said. As India's GDP grows, the demand for polypropylene is expected to grow to around 7.5 million tonnes in the next two years, creating sufficient room for new and upcoming domestic capacities. Nayara said it will be the first polypropylene (PP) producer in the country using the latest phthalate-free catalyst for the entire PP production. Phthalate-free grades will provide cleaner PP for pharma, health and hygiene applications. “Our customers are also expected to achieve higher throughput, quality consistency and smooth processing with our PP grades produced using advanced catalyst and technology platform,” it said. “We will be packaging our products in pilferage-contamination proof HDSS bags. Our customers will also have the advantage of our all-India sales distribution network and strong technical support. We believe it will be the best product in India for food applications.” Presently, refinery-based PP economics are lower due to strong fuel cracks and lower PP prices (which have fallen significantly in the last 18 months). This is the cyclical nature of the business and the long-term prospects of the industry remain bright. Importantly, integrated refineries with Petchem portfolios are expected to achieve margin resilience through business cycles as compared to stand-alone refiners. “At the same time, we are actively considering increasing investment in the India growth story, especially in the petchem sector,” Nayara said. With its strategically located refinery at Vadinar in Gujarat, which is the largest petrochemical consumption region in the country, the company is positioned to make a strong entry into this high growth segment. Nayara operates a 20 million tonnes a year oil refinery at Vadinar and also has more than 6,500 petrol pumps in the country. It delivers about 8 per cent of India's refining output.

Sebi considering to create new asset class

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Capital markets regulator Sebi is looking to create a new asset class -- which lies between mutual funds and portfolio management services (PMS) -- and the new product can cater to high-risk investors, its chief Madhabi Puri Buch said on Friday. The Sebi chief said that there is a spectrum of asset classes for investors. Of these, “mutual funds are the highly retail investors, then you have in between a PMS and then you have AIF (alternative investment fund) for private equity”. “We feel there is room for an additional asset class somewhere between mutual funds and PMS... Sebi is looking into a whole new asset class,” Buch told reporters here at the sidelines of a CII event. In October, mutual funds industry body AMFI clarified that the idea of introducing a new asset class, which lies between mutual funds and PMS, was at a “very nascent stage”. According to the industry body, there was a deliberation within the industry for an instrument that caters to investors who are looking for an intermediate investment product between mutual funds and PMS. When asked about the total expense ratio (TER), she said that a lot of back-testing is happening and co-creation is happening. In May, Sebi floated a consultation paper and proposed a uniform total expense ratio across mutual fund schemes in a bid to bring in transparency in the costs charged to unitholders. TER is a percentage of a scheme's corpus that a mutual fund house charges towards expenses, including administrative and management.

GDP growth of 7 per cent in FY24: RBI DG Michael Patra

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Reserve Bank Deputy Governor Michael Patra on Friday termed the revised 7 per cent growth expectation of the RBI as a “conservative estimate”. Speaking to reporters after the announcement of the bi-monthly policy review, Patra said the real GDP growth in the first half of the fiscal year has beat all estimates, including the RBI's. Patra said if one were to add the RBI's estimates for the second half, the GDP growth for FY24 will come at 6.9 per cent. But, the high frequency data for October and November points to robust economic activity. “So at the current time, 7 (per cent) is like a conservative estimate,” the Deputy Governor in-charge of the important monetary policy department said. Earlier in the day, the Reserve Bank sharply revised up its GDP estimate for FY24 to 7 per cent from the earlier expectation of 6.5 per cent. Many watchers were expecting the RBI to do the revision, but the 0.50 per cent push was not expected by any analyst. On growth, Governor Shaktikanta Das said that the demand for two-wheelers is high as seen in over 20 per cent growth during the festive season and also added that fast moving consumer goods companies are also reporting a turnaround in rural demand. He added that private capex is also showing signs of revival, particularly in sectors like petroleum, steel cement and chemicals, and pointed out that capacity utilization has reached a threshold at 74 per cent. “It has reached a point where we can expect private investment also to start picking,” he said. “Many companies in the manufacturing sector are using their own internal reserves and surpluses to invest. They're not approaching the bank or they're not resorting to any other kind of borrowing or raising funds. They're using their own internal reserves and surplus for investment,” Das said. Das also said that there is growing international confidence in India's economy, and he has seen the same in interactions with governors of other central banks, other regulators and foreign investors.

CCI conducting market study on artificial intelligence

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Fair trade watchdog CCI is conducting a market study to assess the impact of artificial intelligence on the competition landscape, the regulator's chief Ravneet Kaur said on Friday. In recent times, there has been an increasing use of artificial intelligence (AI) applications in several sectors. “We are doing a market study on artificial intelligence... In that study (we will) try to understand the dynamics better. We can differentiate what kind of AI that we would like to support and which one is stifling competition,” Kaur said at an event organized by industry chamber FICCI here. This can provide valuable insights into the competitive landscape. The CCI has the mandate to curb unfair business practices in the marketplace across sectors and also promote fair competition. Since its inception, the CCI has cleared 1,000 combinations, mergers & acquisitions cases, Kaur said. The CCI has played a key role in regulating and ensuring a competitive market in the country.

Junior Women Hockey World Cup

India beat Korea 3-1 in classification match

PTI ■ SANTIAGO (CHILE)

India came from behind to outwit Korea 3-1 in the 9th-12th place classification match of the Junior women's hockey World Cup here. Ropni Kumari (23rd minute), Mumtaz Khan (44th) and Annu (46th) scored for India, while Jiyeun Choi (19th) was the goal-getter for Korea on Thursday. In the opening quarter, Korea dominated possession and secured the first penalty corner, but they could not utilise the chance.

India, opting for counter-attacks, kept Korea's defence busy but couldn't convert their promising entries to the opposition circle, resulting to a goal-less deadlock after the first 1quarter. The second quarter mirrored the intensity of the first, with India and Korea persisting in their attacking plays. Choi broke the deadlock with a precise penalty corner strike, but India swiftly responded through Ropni, who equalized from another penalty corner. Korea, desperate to regain the lead, ramped up their aggression. Despite their fervent efforts, India's solid defence thwarted Korea's advances and counter-attacked skillfully, keeping the pressure on their opponent's defensive line. However, no more goals were scored in the second quarter as both teams entered the half-time break with the score levelled at 1-1. In the third quarter, India dominated the proceedings by keeping possession and troubling Korea's defence rigorously. The strategy paid dividends as Mumtaz brilliantly slotted the ball home from a penalty corner to give her team the lead. The penultimate quarter ended 2-1 in favour of India. India intensified their attacks and extended their lead early in the fourth and final quarter of the game as Annu netted a superb field goal, securing a two-goal advantage for her team. India continued to unsettle Korea's defence, maintaining their momentum and denying any chance of a comeback. The victory means that India, who had earlier bowed out of the title contention after finishing third in Pool C, will stand a chance to finish ninth in the tournament when they take on either Chile or USA in their last match on Saturday.

Suárez wins the golden ball

AP ■ SAO PAULO

Uruguayan striker Luis Suárez, a former teammate of Lionel Messi at Barcelona, won the golden ball as the player of the season in the Brazilian league. The 37-year-old Suarez, who played with Messi in Spain after several seasons at Liverpool and Ajax, scored 17 goals for Brazilian league runner-up Gremio. The season ended Wednesday with Palmeiras defending its title. Suárez scored two goals on the final day of the season in a 3-2 victory over Fluminense at the Maracana Stadium in Rio de Janeiro. The Brazilian league's top scorer was Atletico Mineiro forward Paulinho with 20 goals. Suárez said many times he feared he could not finish the season in Brazil because of intense knee pain and the hassle of long flights, but a selection of journalists voted for him to win the golden ball award.

Suárez played 53 matches for Gremio and scored 26 goals in three competitions this season. "I am almost 37 years old, this is the year I played the most times in my career. It was also the year I was most often distant from my family. This award belongs to them," a tearful Suárez said Thursday after receiving the trophy from former national team teammate Diego Lugano. When asked about his future, however, Suárez did not respond. But he said he will remember not only Gremio fans, but also those of other clubs who respected him as an opponent. "It is hard to see rival fans here applaud you when you play, and that did happen to me in some places," Suárez said. "This is all about the player's mind, it doesn't matter how old they are. It could be Endrick at age 17, Hulk, Suárez ... The mindset and the commitment have to be there for you to play and do what you like."

Soccer fans take legal action

To stop French authorities from banning away supporters at games

AP ■ PARIS

An umbrella organisation for soccer fan groups has taken legal action aimed at stopping French authorities from banning away supporters attending some games this weekend. The National Supporters' Association said Friday it has referred the matter to France's highest administrative court as it seeks to challenge bans targeting four matches, including two in the top-tier of the French league. The bans ordered by the French government and local authorities followed the death of a supporter in Nantes last weekend. Sports minister Amelie Oudea-Castera said this week that preventing supporters from traveling to rival clubs could help restore calm following a series of incidents this season. "These appeals are in no way intended to minimize the seriousness of last Saturday's tragedy," the group said. "No one can doubt the immense sadness in the French stands. Nor can anyone doubt our sense of responsibility." The group argued that it's essential to let away fans attend the matches involving Reims, Lens, Auxerre and Bordeaux to guarantee safety for all, especially because many fans are already on site. "The aim of our approach is to ensure that these matches can take place in an atmosphere of respect and freedom," the group said. Reims said this week that its fans were not allowed to travel to Nice because their French league match on Sunday has been identified as "at risk" of violence. Lyon fans were not allowed to attend Wednesday's 3-0 loss at Marseille and Lens supporters have been banned from travelling to Friday's match in Montpellier. In France, travelling fans are regularly banned from high-risk games such as those between bitter rivals Paris Saint-Germain and Marseille. But Oudea-Castera suggested the measure could be used more often. Marseille fans at their Stade Velodrome deployed banners protesting such bans before their team's match against Lyon. "Banned from travelling in the country of freedoms. Today more than ever, freedom for ultras," their message read, in a reference to diehard fans often described as "ultras." The National Supporters' Association said it decided not to challenge the bans imposed on away fans for matches between PSG and Nantes, Saint-Etienne and Nimes, Lorient and Marseille, as well as Lyon and Toulouse. "These orders are highly questionable. But (these matches) will attract very large crowds. It's too late to change their framework," the group said. The Nantes fan who died last week was killed following a fight between supporters before the club's 1-0 win over Nice. The public prosecutor's office has launched an investigation into voluntary manslaughter.

Naruka, Raiza unstoppable in shooting trials

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Hangzhou Asian Games silver medalist Anantjeet Singh Naruka was unchallengeable in the men's skeet national selection trials 1, while Raiza Dhillon overcame national champion Ganemat Sekhon in women's skeet at the Karni Singh range here on Friday. Rajasthan's Naruka and Haryana's Raiza, both shot down 58 clay targets in the 60-shot final to register victories. National champion Naruka, following his exploits in Hangzhou, shot 24 early in the morning in the final qualification round to finish on top in the 40-strong field with a score of 121 out of a possible 125. He missed a target on his very first station in the six-man final, but only one more after that, to leave behind Sheeraz Sheikh comfortably in second place. Sheeraz shot 56, while Gurjaot Khangura was third with 45-hits in the first 50 targets.

Sheeraz, on a comeback trail, also kept his poise throughout the day, coming second in a four-man shoot-off for two final qualification spots. Gurjaot won the shoot-off to take the other spot. In women's skeet, Raiza was in sublime form throughout the three-day competition and shot three rounds of perfect 25s to top the qualifiers with a score of 122. She would have broken Ganemat's current national record by two had the scores of the trials been considered. Indian No. 1 Ganemat shot a perfect 25 on the day to get into the finals in second place with a score of 120. There was no stopping Raiza, however, as she shot down 58 targets as against Ganemat's 54 in the finals, to win. Rajasthan shooter Maheshwari Chauhan finished third with a score of 43. The skeet finals concluded the first shotgun national selection trials and the second is due to take place in Bhopal from December 15-21.

Jon bolts for LIV Golf in stunning blow to PGA Tour

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Masters champion Jon Rahm bolted for Saudi-funded LIV Golf for what's believed to be more money than the PGA Tour's entire prize fund, a stunning blow that deepens the divide in golf as the two sides were negotiating a commercial deal. Rahm confirmed the move in an interview with Fox News on Thursday. Wearing a black letterman's jacket with the LIV logo, he said it was not an easy decision. "I've been very happy," Rahm said. "But there is a lot of things that LIV Golf has to offer that were very enticing." He said he would keep private how much the deal was worth amid reports that put his compensation in the $500 million range, which likely would include equity in his new team.

The PGA Tour's total purse in 2023 was about $460 million. The development comes 25 days before the deadline for the PGA Tour and Saudi Arabia's Public Investment Fund try to finalize their June 6 agreement to become commercial partners in a for-profit enterprise, along with the European tour. Talks have been going slowly, and Tiger Woods said last week there were a lot of moving parts. The biggest moving part turned out to be the 29-year-old Rahm, the No. 3 player in the world and a two-time major champion approaching his prime, being the latest to defect. Rahm had been adamant that he has enough money and that he cares only about history and legacy. He recently said he "laughed" whenever he saw his name linked to LIV. "It was a great offer. The money is great, obviously it's wonderful," Rahm said.

"But what I said before is true: I do not play golf for the money. I play golf for the love of the game and for the love of golf. But, as a husband, as a father and as a family man I have a duty to my family to give them the best opportunities and the most amount of resources possible and that is where that comes in." He remains eligible for the majors for the next five years - the Masters for life, the U.S. Open until 2031. Still to be determined is how the move affects his eligibility for the Ryder Cup. "It's hard to sit here and criticize Jon because of what a great player he is," Rory McIlroy said in an interview with Sky Sports. "Jon is going to be in Bethpage in 2025 (for the Ryder Cup). Because of this decision, the European tour is going to have to rewrite the rules. There's no question about that." Rahm's addition gives LIV Golf seven of the last 14 winners at the majors. "LIV Golf is here to stay," Lawrence Burian, the COO of LIV Golf, said in a news release sent out after Rahm's appearance on Fox News. PGA Tour Commissioner Jay Monahan had been scheduled to meet this week with Yasir Al-Rumayyan, the head of the PIF. The meeting was delayed until next week, but it wasn't clear if it was still on or how Rahm's announcement affects the negotiations. Since the stunning commercial partnership was proposed on June 6, the tour has also entertained offers from private equity groups. Those include Fenway Sports Group and Acorn Growth, which includes former AT&T Chairman Randall Stephenson. He resigned from the PGA Tour board out of protest with its deal with Saudi Arabia. The agreement originally included language to end the poaching of players, but that was removed when the Justice Department had antitrust concerns. Signing with LIV is counter to everything Rahm has said about the league. He has declared his support for the PGA Tour dating to February 2022, and as recently as August he told a Spanish podcast that "I laugh when people rumor me with LIV Golf. I've never liked the format." He had said 54 holes with no cut and a shotgun start "is not a golf tournament."

Lake Placid offers proposal to host sliding sports for 2026 Winter Games

AP ■ LAKE PLACID (US)

Lake Placid has put forth an offer to host sliding sports for the 2026 Winter Olympics, which are scheduled to take place in Italy, where organizers are struggling to provide a venue for bobsled, luge and skeleton racing. The U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Committee announced the bid after its quarterly meeting Thursday, only two days after the chief of the Milan-Cortina Games said it is possible the hosts could come up with a new proposal to build a track. In October, organizers told the IOC the Italian government had ordered them to move the events due to cost overruns involved in renovating the Cortina sliding track. Sliding centers in Switzerland and Austria were considered the best options. Lake Placid hosted the Winter Olympics in 1932 and 1980 and, as home of a U.S. Olympic Training Center, has a state-of-the-art sliding center. Last year, a $104 million renovation of the Olympic center was wrapped up in time for Lake Placid to host the FISU World University Games. USOPC CEO Sarah Hirshland said Olympic organizers invited the proposal from Lake Placid. "At this stage, our role is simply to help them present a proposal and to endorse that proposal and ensure that we have the broad support required from the municipalities as well as from the athlete and (national governing body) community," she said. Milan-Cortina is hopeful of not becoming the first Winter Games to hold events outside the host nation's borders, though it's not unheard of on the Summer side: Next year's surfing competition for the Paris Olympics will be held in Tahiti.

HI names 22-member Indian women team

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Goalkeeper Savita Punia will continue to lead the Indian women's hockey team, while veteran forward Vandana Katariya will be her deputy as the national federation on Friday announced a 22-member team for the upcoming 5-Nation Tournament in Spain. India will play against Ireland, Germany, Spain and Belgium in the tournament which is scheduled to be held from December 15 to 22 in Valencia. It will serve as the preparatory assignment ahead of the all-important Olympic Qualifiers in Ranchi beginning from January 13. "We are going with a well-balanced, strong team," Indian women's hockey team chief coach Janneke Schopman said in a release from HI. "The tournament gives the players an ideal platform to build on the recent performances and keep themselves in the right frame of mind heading into the all-important Olympic Qualifiers. "The matches against the top European teams will also help us identify areas that need improvement ahead of the tournament, and we are looking forward to making the most out of the opportunity." The Squad: Goalkeepers: Savita (Captain), Bichu Devi Khairabam Defenders: Nikki Pradhan, Uditia, Ishika Chaudhary, Gurjit Kaur, Akshata Abaso Dhekale Midfielders: Nisha, Vaishnavi Vitthal Phalke, Monika, Salima Tete, Neha, Navneet Kaur, Sonika, Jyoti, Baljeet Kaur Forwards: Jyoti Chhattri, Sangita Kumari, Deepika, Vandana Katariya (Vice-Captain), Beauty Dundung, Sharmila Devi.

FIA ends its conflict of interest investigation into Toto, Susie

AP ■ PARIS

Formula One's governing body has dropped its probe of a potential conflict of interest between Mercedes team principal Toto Wolff and his wife Susie Wolff, who works for F1's management group. The FIA's compliance department had been looking into the Wolffs following allegations of a conflict of interest and whether they have shared confidential information. "The FIA can confirm that there is no ongoing investigation in terms of ethical or disciplinary inquiries involving any individual," the organization said in a statement on Thursday. Susie Wolff is the managing director of the all-female series F1 Academy. She had rejected the claims "in the strongest possible terms" and said she was "deeply insulted." The probe began after a report in BusinessF1 magazine that rival team executives raised concerns about whether Toto and Susie Wolff passed on information discussed in private meetings. Susie Wolff reports to F1 chief executive Stefano Domenicali.

The BusinessF1 report said team officials were alarmed when Toto Wolff made comments in a recent meeting that included details they felt could only have come from F1. The report did not detail what was discussed. The Mercedes team and Formula One Management, which runs the commercial side of F1, denied any allegations of improper sharing of information or conflict of interest. "Following a review of Formula One Management's F1 code of conduct and F1 conflict of interest policy and confirmation that appropriate protective measures are in place to mitigate any potential conflicts, the FIA is satisfied that FOM's compliance management system is robust enough to prevent any unauthorized disclosure of confidential information," the FIA's statement said on Thursday. On Wednesday, nine Formula One teams released nearly identical statements denying they had complained to the FIA about an alleged conflict of interest. The flurry of statements followed an appearance by Red Bull team principal Christian Horner on Sky Sports in which he denied instigating the investigation.

'NO COACH CAN CREATE ARTIST LIKE SHAMI'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Mohammed Shami possesses a rare ability of landing the ball in an upright seam position every single time and no coach in the world can create such a fast bowling "artist", gushed India's bowling coach Paras Mhambrey. Shami, who finished on top of the bowling charts with 24 wickets from seven matches in the ODI World Cup, has been India's go-to bowler in ODIs and Tests. Mhambrey, one of the quietest back-room workers in the current Indian set-up, doesn't want to take any credit for Shami's success. Will India get another talent like Mohammed Shami? "Well, if I tell you that coaches could create a bowler like Shami, then I would be lying. If a bowler can land it on upright seam every time then every other bowler in the world will be Shami," Mhambrey told PTI in an exclusive interview before leaving for the tour of South Africa.

"It is a skill that Shami has acquired with tremendous hardwork and developed himself into the bowler that he is. "Bowling ball after ball on the seam and with that perfect wrist position and getting it to move either ways is a rare skill set. A lot of bowlers, even if they land deliveries on the seam, will see the ball straightening up after pitching," Mhambrey said.

The former India pacer also spoke about another brilliant operator Jasprit Bumrah in the same vein.

"Even Bumrah with his unusual action gets the ball to move in or away with same action. This is an art and lot of hard work and dedication goes into perfecting the art."

The way Shami and Bumrah have managed to dominate the batters around the world is something that has surprised Mhambrey. Many would be envious of their success. "I think in Test matches, we had Bumrah, Shami and Ishant (Sharma), who created this kind of magic but frankly speaking, if you ask me now if I would have expected this kind of dominance, I wouldn't have dreamt of this level of performance."

"I mean to bowl out Sri Lanka for 50 and then to repeat it against a team like South Africa, score 320 odd and bowl them out for 80. That was surreal. Obviously with an attack like ours, we expected them to do well but to put up such a performance on the biggest stage for such a sustained period was something that was really commendable." The goal to create perfect bench-strength

Mhambrey, who came on board along with head Rahul Dravid was asked to assess the performance of Indian bowlers in the two-year cycle that ended with World Cup. He spoke about the takeaways, like qualifying for WTC final, beating a strong Australian team and also becoming the first Indian team to win ODI series in England. However Dravid and his team never lost sight of bigger picture, which is to create a bench strength.

“When we took over, we needed to see that two years down the line, we have also created a sufficient bench strength in every format. We had to identify at least 3-5 bowlers from next batch and also ensure that they get enough game time and are ready for the challenges of international cricket. Rahul, Vicky (Rathour), myself and (T) Dilip got together and identified the bowlers.”

Veda desperate to revive cricket career

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Tragedies and snubs are nothing new for Veda Krishnamurthy as she has seen it all in the last three years, but the out-of-favour India cricketer is desperate to make a fresh start and has pinned her hopes on the upcoming WPL to regain her spot in the national women's side.

Having got a snub in the inaugural Women's Premier League auction earlier this year, a leaner and much fitter Veda is now hoping to earn a WPL contract on Saturday, an opportunity which can open the national team's door for her.

"I feel that the ability and experience I have will not take much time for me to get into a system and adjust again. It is all about going there and showcasing whatever I can," Veda told PTI in an exclusive interview.

"Definitely, it's (WPL) a great platform for players, especially who are on the same boat like me. I haven't played international cricket for the last three years, so this is a platform where you want to do well, and if you are able to perform in situations and platforms like this it opens up the door for the Indian team as well.

"We have seen that happen in men's cricket. So that is something which I will have in my mind."

Veda, who has played 48 ODIs scoring 829 runs with a best score of 71, was an integral part of the Indian team that finished runner-up in the 2017 Women's ODI World Cup final, losing to hosts England by just nine runs at Lord's.

Veda was also part of India's squad for the 2018 and 2020 ICC Women's World Twenty20 tournaments in the West Indies and Australia respectively. But twin personal tragedies halted her career in 2021 when she lost her mother and elder sister to COVID in a span of two weeks, and it took her a long time and effort to come out of that.

"Very difficult, honestly, because suddenly when you have been shaken you don't know what to do. There was a lot of mental health issues I faced because I didn't know how to live with the grief. There was a lot of anxiousness, there was a lot of depression. I was not sleeping well. You want to come out of it but it's not that easy. I used to be awake till 5-6 in the morning, I used to be scared of closing my eyes," she said.

"It took me close to one-and-a-half years to get back to normal without any medicine. It still kind of comes back and haunts you, but you need to keep that side and focus of the physical aspect. It feels good to be back in shape," added the right-handed batter, who featured in 76 T20s for India scoring 875 runs. Once she managed to defeat her inner demons, Veda concentrated on reviving her career to be in shape for the WPL auction slated for Saturday and all she wants is an opportunity to showcase her mettle.

"I have been putting a lot of hours in my practice. I have become a lot fitter, lot leaner in the last four months. I have been hitting the ball really well. So, now, just hoping what happens on December 9."

Indian women's team faces stern challenge against England

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Eying to keep the three-match series alive, India will look for an improved show, especially in the bowling and fielding departments, when they take on a rampaging England in the second women's T20I here on Saturday.

England extended their dominant run against India with a comprehensive 38-run win which gave them a 1-0 lead in the three-match series. It also was England's 21st victory in 28 T20Is against India and eighth in 10 matches in the country.

India failed to read the conditions adequately and also made glaring errors in the first game which turned out to be a one-sided affair. On a flat pitch not offering much to the bowlers especially in the first innings, India used four different spinners - including the rookie Kanika Ahuja - and England took them apart, scoring 121 runs from a collective 12 overs for three wickets. India handed debuts to two left-arm spinners Shreyanka Patel (2/44) and Saika Ishaque (1/38) but both were wayward and expensive in their respective four-over spells. Senior spinner Deepti Sharma (0/28) was not even trusted with completing her quota of overs. Indian spinners bowled short as well as full tosses at times for England batters to dominate, whereas their fielders did not support them enough. Both Danni Wyatt and Nat Sciver-Brunt were given lifelines which proved to be costly for the home team.

ICC rates Ahmedabad pitch which hosted ODI World Cup final as average

NEW DELHI, DEC 8 (PTI)

The pitch at the Narendra Modi Stadium in Ahmedabad, which hosted the ODI World Cup final between India and Australia on November 19, has been rated "average" by the International Cricket Council (ICC). ICC match referee and former Zimbabwe batter Andy Pycroft, however, rated the outfield as

“very good”. Australia had won the World Cup final after beating India by six wickets on a pitch which was slow and sluggish. Opting to bowl, India could score just 240 in 50 overs with Australia achieving the target in 43 overs, with opener Travis Head making a 120-ball 137. The pitches used in India's league matches against South Africa, England, Pakistan and Australia in Kolkata, Lucknow, Ahmedabad and Chennai respectively were also rated as 'average' by the ICC. However, the Wankhede Stadium pitch on which India faced New Zealand in the semi-finals received a 'good' rating. There were media reports ahead of that match suggesting that the hosts had switched pitch, offering a used surface instead of a fresh one.

The ICC also gave an "average" rating to the Eden Gardens pitch in Kolkata which hosted the second semifinal between Australia and South Africa. It turned out to be a low-scoring match where Australia dismissed South Africa for 212 in 49.4 overs. Australia then managed to overhaul the target in 47.2 overs, losing seven wickets. ICC match referee and former India pacer Javagal Srinath, however, gave a "very good" rating to the outfield at Eden Gardens. According to the ICC, a pitch is rated average if it "lacks carry, and/or bounce and/or occasional seam movement, but consistent in carry and bounce. A degree of turn, but with average bounce for the spinner. Falling significantly short of 'very good' with respect to carry, bounce and turn."

Phillips helps New Zealand hit back on Day 3

PTI ■ MIRPUR (BANGLADESH)

Glenn Phillips played an attacking knock as New Zealand hit back strongly on Day 3 of the rain-affected second cricket test against Bangladesh on Friday to leave the game evenly poised. Phillips struck a 72-ball 87 to help New Zealand put up 180 in its first innings and take an 8-run lead, and then New Zealand's bowlers left Bangladesh on 38-2 before play was called off due to bad light. Bangladesh was dismissed for 172 in its first innings. After the entire second day and the first session of the third day were washed out, Phillips led the charge with one-day style batting as New Zealand resumed at 55-5. Phillips hit nine fours and four sixes in his innings and was particularly harsh on Mehidy Hasan, hitting three fours and one six in his first three overs to keep the runs flowing. Phillips formed two crucial partnerships - 49 with Mitchell for the sixth wicket and 55 with Kyle Jamieson for the eighth to help New Zealand earn the lead. Mitchell was struggling against the spinners and eventually was caught out by Mehidy at long-on for 18 off offspinner Nayeem Hasan's first over. In his next over Nayeem, who took 2-21, dismissed Mitchell Santner for 1 to leave New Zealand at 97-7 but Phillips got the support of Jamieson to keep Bangladesh at bay. Shoriful (2-15) broke through with the wicket of Jamieson, who made 20 with three boundaries. Skipper Tim Southee hit a four and a six for his 14 as New Zealand went past Bangladesh's total. With Phillips attacking relentlessly on a tough wicket, New Zealand appeared set to take a substantial lead. But his knuck came to an end when he edged a delivery of Shoriful behind. Tajiul (3-64) removed Southee in the next over, to limit the lead to single digits.

Everyone entitled to their opinions: Warner to Johnson

PTI ■ MELBOURNE

Veteran opener David Warner on Friday ignored former Australia pacer Mitchell Johnson's scathing attack on him for setting his own retirement date, saying that "everyone's entitled to their opinions." In a newspaper column, Johnson had questioned whether Warner had been in strong enough form to set his own retirement date. Johnson had also opened up old wounds by referencing Warner's role in the ball-tampering saga in South Africa.

The 37-year-old Warner had expressed his desire for a Sydney farewell after the third and final Test against Pakistan starting from January 3, 2024. The three-match Test series starts in Perth on December 14.

Warner, who has scored 8,487 runs from 109 Tests since making his debut in 2011, refused to be drawn into the controversy, saying his former teammate is entitled to his opinions, however scathing.

"It wouldn't be a summer without a headline, would it?" he asked at the launch of Fox Cricket's summer coverage in Parramatta on Friday, according to cricket.Com.Au.

"It is what it is. Everyone's entitled to their own opinions," the explosive opening batter said in his first comments after Johnson's scathing attack on him. "Moving forward, we're looking forward to a nice Test over in the west."

Since the summer of 2020-21, Warner has managed one Test century from 25 matches -- a memorable double-hundred against South Africa in his 100th Test at the MCG in 2022.

England withdraw Emma from Test against India

England batting all-rounder Emma Lamb was on Friday withdrawn from the upcoming one-off Test against India to be played here from December 14-17.

The 25-year-old has suffered back injury and will be returning home to consult with a spinal surgeon, according to England Cricket.

Middle-order batter Maia Bouchier and left-arm spinner Kirstie Gordon have been added to the Test squad, stated ECB.

"Emma Lamb has been withdrawn from the England Women Test squad to play India due to a back problem. Lamb has returned home to the UK where she will see a spinal surgeon to determine next steps," ECB said in a statement.

While Gordon played her only Test against Australia Women four years ago in Taunton, Bouchier is yet to make her debut in the conventional format but has played 22 T20Is and three ODIs for England Women.

Squad: Tammy Beaumont, Danni Wyatt, Maia Bouchier, Alice Capsey, Kate Cross, Charlie Dean, Sophia Dunkley, Sophie Ecclestone, Lauren Giler, Kirstie Gordon, Amy Jones (wk), Bess Heath (wk), Heather Knight (c), Nat Sciver-Brunt, Lauren Bell.
