SAD, AIMPLB oppose; Cong, JD(U) say bid to divert attention from price rise, unemployment; AAP lone voice of support to Modi's suggestion

PNS NEW DELHI

day after Prime Minister ANarendra Modi made a strong pitch for the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) and for ending the "duality of laws" in the country, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) on Wednesday announced support to it, while major Opposition parties dubbed it as a diversionary ploy. The All India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIM PLB) and Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) outright rejected it.

The Congress and Janata Dal (U) have taken a potshot at the PM for raising the issue of the UCC, saying it was an attempt to divert attention from issues of price rise and employment.At the same time, Sharad Pawar-led NCP said broaching the issue of a UCC ahead of elections was a polit-ical ploy and that such deci-sions should not be rushed through Modi's comments on the stance on the UCC, citing Article 44 of the Constitution as a reason for its support. AAP Rajya Sabha MP Sandeep Pathak, though, emphasised the need for wider consultation before implementing the UCC, considering its implications for all religions.

"The Aam Aadmi Party supports the ideological stance of the UCC. Article 44 also states that there should be a Uniform Civil Code. However, the Aam Aadmi Party believes that consensus should be reached after discussions with all religions and political par-ties before implementing it," Pathak said.

The SAD said the UCC would have an adverse impact on minority and tribal communities. SAD leader Daljit Singh Cheema said that the party believed that faith, belief, caste, and customs impact laws in the country. These were different for different religions, he added

The Opposition party in Punjab also criticised the rul-Punjab also criticised the run-ing AAP for extending "in-principle" support to the UCC and said it will oppose the law both in Parliament and in front of the 22nd Law Commission.

past several years, politicians have been raising the issue of the Uniform Civil Code just Former Union Minister and senior Congress leader P Chidambaram said the Prime Minister was batting for UCC to divert people's attention before the elections. This time from issues of unemployment, price rise, and hate crimes. He He said that the Board has decided to fight the proposal tooth and nail and is in the also alleged the BJP was using UCC to polarise the society. "The Hon'ble PM is making it appear that UCC is a simple egy to counter the proposed exercise. He should read the report of the last Law move of the Government "by presenting our view in front of Commission that pointed out it was not feasible at this time. The nation is divided today owing to the words and deeds of the BJP. A UCC imposed on the people will only widen the divisions," Chidambaram said.

The Congress also hit out at Modi for drawing a comparison between a family and the nation to justify UCC. In a tweet, the former Union Minister said, "The Hon'ble PM has equated a nation to a family while pitching for the Uniform Civil Code (UCC). While in an abstract sense, his comparison may appear true, the reality is very different. A family is knit together by blood relationships."

Chidambaram said a nation is brought together by a Constitution which is a political-legal document and the UCC cannot be forced. "Even in a family, there is diversity. The Constitution of India recognised diversity and plurality among the peo-ple of India. A UCC is an aspiration. An agenda-dri-ven majoritarian Government cannot force it on the people." AIMIM president Asaduddin Owaisi has targeted Modi for backing UCC claiming the Prime Minister was trying to bring in a 'Hindu Civil Code.' 'India's Prime Minister is now talking about Uniform Civil Code. Are you going to snatch away pluralism, diversity in the name of Uniform Civil Code?" Owaisi said. "They will treat all Islamic references of practices as illegal and the Prime Minister will protect Hindu practices under the law," he said.

Ahead of the forthcoming Assembly elections in Chhattisgarh, the Congress has appointed veteran leader TS Singh Deo as the Deputy Chief Minister of the State. The decision aims to quell a potential rebellion within the party, which has been brewing for the past few years, and avoid a situation similar to the ongoing controversy in Rajasthan involving Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot and former Deputy CM Sachin Pilot.

The Congress is keen to prevent any factional disputes that could jeopardise its unity and electoral prospects. The defection of Jyotiraditya Scindia in neighbouring Madbua Pradeeb, which led to Madhya Pradesh, which led to the downfall of the Kamal Nath-led Government, serves as a cautionary tale for the KC Venugopal announced the appointment, stating, "The honorable Congress president has approved the proposal for the appointment of TS Singh Deo as the Deputy Chief Minister of Chhattisgarh."

THE BULL'S EYE HITTING Car Festival crowd be restricted as per containment capacity

the Lord, Shree Narsinhdasji

Maharaj, had begun the year witnessed unprecedented crowds choking the little town of Puri so badly as cannot be described. As if the RathYatra was happening for the first time, people from all over including foreign lands kept dropping in Puri. The town has a wide enough road between the main shrine and the Gundicha Temple believed to be the birthplace of the deities. The wide three-km passage is called 'Grand Road' meaning only a 'majestic'. This whole road space can contain at the most 5 lakh people at a time. But during the opening day of the festival, several colourful and amusing rituals occur in front of the temple across the Lions Gate. The three decorated cars are parked there to have the sibling deities ceremonially carried and mounted on them. This area can only contain comfortably 10,000 onlookers or 15,000 tightly, exceeding which would result in suffocation particularly if the weather is hot and humid like it happened this season. If the crowd got unruly, killer stampedes might happen too.

BISWARAJ PATNAIK

In the 1920s, the population of undivided India was only 25 crore and what was then the Odiaspeaking region had less than one crore people, mostly living in villages. Only 10 to 15 thousand people from all over the country used to land in Puri to witness the Car Festival, which fell during the onset of monsoon. So, life was good as neither heat nor torrential rains ever showed marred the spirit of any. Besides, Puri used to be a temperately cool place throughout the year, for which the first

Lieutenant Governor of separate Bihar-Odisha province, just carved out of Bengal, chose to set up an office in Puri. This government house was built in 1912-13. Ranchi was the administrative capital and Puri the summer capital. So cool and beautiful was Puri then!

RathYatra today is a punishing event. In days of yore, only the truly devout pilgrims undertook unspeakable physical pains to reach Puri on foot after crossing several rivers by boat. Not a single attendee was a merrymaker. It was strongly believed that the deities of Puri were very special and unique because one single glimpse of them ensured salvation. People then also knew that plain divine thoughts in heart were enough to get all the blessings provided. They followed the Sanatana faith which meant they were kind to all creations and discriminated against none irrespective of what faith the others espoused. Even if they could never make a visit, the Lord was still pleased with them. One little legend: About 146

Ahmedabad RathYatra after being ordered in dream to set up a Jagannatha temple in the historic city. He put up a beautiful temple. The deities on chariots then were pulled by elephants and humans replicating their journey in Puri. It was believed then that Lord Krishna's mortal remains were believed to have come to rest after being consigned to the oceans on the east and west coasts. At the end of the festival, the chariots were dismantled and their wood was used as fuel in the temple kitchens, believed to be the largest in the world that cook 56 things every day and feed anywhere between 2,000 to nearly 200,000 people. The festival always had elephants playing stellar roles. The Gajapati King of Utkal residing at Puri had elephants at all times. Now, no one cares to have at least one elephant to justify Gajapati's name or title as 'Gaja' means elephant. In impoverished times there were elephants. Now in years ago, one Gujarati disciple of prosperity, they do not get one!

The 146th Ahmedabad Rath Yatra was witnessed by 20 lakh people live and on television. There were 18 elephants, 101 trucks, 30 Akharas and the three Raths of Jagannath, Subhadra and Balbhadra traversing along an 18km route in the heart of Ahmedabad. These numbers reflect the magnitude of the event and the unique policing challenges it poses.

The Rath Yatra, a tradition which dates back to 1878, bore the consequences of communal clashes breaking out in 1946, 1985, 1986 and 1992. In 1985, considering the charged atmosphere, permission to conduct the annual event was denied by the police commissioner, but the Yatra was forcibly taken out, ultimately leading to stone pelting and larger communal violence all across the State. Such is its significance that even today any untoward incident during the event has larger and year-round ramifications across Gujarat. For long, Ahmedabad maintained the elephant tradition.

But the Gajapati King of Puri doesn't once express desire to have an elephant at the festival. He is, incidentally, the head of the temple management committee that sits several times prior to the festival occurrence to ensure that the festival at the original abode of the deities goes well. The Car Festival is so heavy in the minds of the government that the Chief Minister too takes part in the preparatory meetings. They discuss only public order, cleanliness and hygiene apart from routine traffic control and free shelter-food issues. Little do they bring to mind the containing capacity of the Grand Road and the town at large. On the contrary, government officials methodically publicise the festival as a grand global event with the sole view to luring more and more people to Puri irrespective of harsh weather conditions like it happened in 2023. The ordeal and predicament that ensued need not be explained any further.

The Supreme Court order has forced the State Government to put a full-time chief temple administrator. But a dull, halfbaked chief has come in place, who hardly has the age or energy to pick skills and lead a team. As people believe rightly, only a very few State-cadre officers live up to IAS level mindset that makes one clearheaded and daring. The government better put a direct younger IAS official, no matter if female.

The last words would have to be on the decision-makers to consider restricting the number of Car Festival visitors or pilgrims to a maximum 5 lakh provided the weather forecast is fine. If the weather is expected to be hot or inclement, the number be reduced to 2 lakh based on a prior registration mode which is plain and simple given the technology available at hand. Online registration is so easy. Check and scrutiny at the entry points will be easy to identify and let in the permitted ones to the city. The rest of the aspirants can have television pilgrimage staying in the comfort or happy of homes neighbourhoods.

June 29 Nat'l Statistics Day Empowering statistics key to growth of nation

^ ince 2007, June 29 is beserved as the National Statistic Statistics Day to commemorate the birth anniversary of a renowned statistician late Professor Prasanta Chandra Mahalanobis, the father of Statistics in India. The Government of India, by an Act of Parliament, resolved to celebrate the day nation-wide as a mark of tribute to such a great son of the soil.

Ever since, the day has been receiving national importance with a specific year-wise theme determined by the Union Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation (MoSPI).

Contributions of Statistics has been immense over centuries. We are currently living in an era of information technology where information in some form or other is ruling the roost. Recently, we had reasons to feel happy when statistics revealed that our country is an emerging economy, i.e., the fifth largest economy in the world, having GDP growth of 7.2 per cent during the financial year ending March 2023 and were desperate when it was shared that ours was one of the poorest countries in terms of per capita income. To become world's most populous country is a virtue and a vice as well: Virtue because we are at the top so far as human resources are concerned and vice when problems of their sustainability Prabodh Chandra and Nirodbasini Mahalanobis on assume significance for a developing country like June 29, 1893 in Kolkata, India.When the entire world Prasanta Chandra, after his was reeling from the shock of schooling from Brahmo Boys' the dreaded pandemic School, graduated with honours in Physics from the "COVID -19", statistics was the order of the day, providing Presidency College, Calcutta in 1912, followed by degrees hopes and confidence for a better future. All these things in mathematics and natural are possible because of very science from the King's efficient and effective College of the Cambridge University. He joined as a statistical systems followed faculty of Physics in the world over.

Even though the origin of Presidency College in the year statistics dates back to the 1915. Prasanta Chandra soon set up the Statistical Laboratory in the Presidency College in the early 1920s. His early researches include areas of anthropometry, meteorology and problems of flood control in North Bengal and Odisha. Going a step forward, he laid the foundation of the Indian Statistical Institute (ISI), Calcutta on December 17, 1931 for advanced research and training in statistics, and in 1933, he introduced Sankhya, the Indian Journal of Statistics, a journal soon recognized all over the world. It is worth underlining here that Mahalanobis perceived statistics as 'a key technology' and 'a universal tool of inductive inference, research in natural and social sciences, technological and applications. Mahalanobis strongly advocated the fact that "Statistics must always have purpose, either in the pursuit of knowledge or in promotion of human welfare".

Mahalanobis enriched statistics by way of his contribution to knowledge on D2- Statistics, known as 'Mahalanobis Distance', and the innovative techniques of sample survey such as optimum sample design, interpenetrating network of samples and pilot surveys which are considered today as his most valuable and lasting gifts to statistical science. His work on "Large Scale Sample Survey" was impactful so much so that he became a Fellow of the Royal Society, London in 1945. Mahalanobis was a great visionary, a fact that could be ascertained from his overall contributions to the statistical system in India. In 1950, he established the National Sample Survey, which subsequently, in 1972, got the recognition of being a separate organization of Government of India called the National Sample Survey Organization (NSSO), now the National Sample Survey Office and continued to function within ISI for periodic collection of socioeconomic data through successive rounds of sample died on June 28, 1972.

The journey of statistics went on beyond Mahalanobis when a worthy successor was found in Professor Calyampudi Radhakrishna Rao, the former Director of ISI, Calcutta, the former National Professor of India and one of the world's most honoured statisticians. Prof Rao whose specialization was in mathematical statistics has made pioneering contributions to statistical theory and applications. A number of statistical results bear his name; Cramer-Rao Raoinequality, Blackwellisation, Fisher-Rao theorem, Rao's U-Test, Rao's quadratic entropy, Rao's score test, to name a few only.

Prof Rao, a 102-year living legend of statistics, after his superannuation from ISI, went to the United States and is currently Eberly Professor at the Pennyslavania State University, contributing continuously and consistently to the growth of statistics

Recently, the statistician non-pareil, Prof Rao reached the pinnacle of his career when he was awarded the 2023 International Prize in Statistics - the equivalent of the Nobel Prize for statistics. In an exclusive interview with the Economic Times published in its Ahmedabad edition on December 17, 1994, Prof Rao highlighted on various issues and challenges faced by statistics. While considering statistics as the median of all endeavours, he revealed the irony that the use of statistics is not generally recognized by other scientists, at least by the or administrators.

Today, on this auspicious day of 130th birth anniversary of Prof PC Mohalanobis, we, the Indians in general and the statistics fraternity in particular, ought to pay our heart-felt obeisance to such a legendary statistician for his profound contribution to the nation-building. During India's G-20 Presidency, if it is resolved to give statistics its due, wonders are going to take place from the standpoint of all-round national growth. Thus, empowering statistics is the need of the hour.

India, USA can work together to resist Chinese coercion: Garcetti

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI

With China flexing its mus-cle in the Indo-Pacific, US Ambassador to New Delhi Eric Garcetti said here on Wednesday India and the US can work jointly in resisting "coercion" and deploy ships and air forces together in the Indo-Pacific to ensure freedom of the skies and the seas. In an address at an event in IIT-Delhi, the envoy said the two countries are poised to further deepen co-production of military equipment and cited the planned work in aeroengines, artillery and ground vehicles as just a few examples. Touching on the issues relating to human rights, Garcetti said the US will continue to engage with India on it "as we have always done, and as we do in all countries around the world." He also quoted Mahatma Gandhi: "Our ability to reach unity in diversity will be the beauty and test of our civilization?

The US ambassador said India and the US together can build a bulwark against the "might makes right" mentality, in comments seen as an oblique reference to China.

He said Prime Minister Narendra Modi's state visit to Washington last week "crys-talised" that the India-US partnership is accelerating at "breathtaking speed" and is hav-ing "undeniable impact". The US and India have the power to set an example and build a more peaceful world, in the Indo-Pacific region and beyond. A key component of peace is protection," he said.

Experts find flaws in key components of Dhruv ALH

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI

Following a spate of crashes Dhruv advanced light helicopters (ALH), experts have identified critical flaws, including metallurgical and design issues, in a key component. Prompt actions are now being taken on a priority basis to address these concerns and enhance flight safety, reliable sources said here on Wednesday. The army, air force, navy and coast guard operate more than 330 ALHs, sources said here on Wednesday. The helicopters are indigenously designed and manufactured by the public sector aerospace conglomerate Hindustan Aeronautics Limited(HAL). The helicopters are now getting clear-ance for flying in batches for urgent missions after comprehensive checks, sources said. In the past five years, the ALH was involved in 12 accidents, including the crash-landing of an army helicopter in Jammu and Kashmir on May four this year in which a soldier was killed and two pilots were injured.

Earlier, a Coast Guard ALH made a forced landing in Kochi on March 26, and a Navy ALH ditched (emergency landing in water) into the Arabian Sea on March 8.

As specified in a govern-ment letter dated May 22, the resumption of urgent flights followed the prescribed "satisfactory conduct of independent maintenance flight safety audit of critical items and systems, and compliance with safety-related special technical instructions and alert notices" issued by technical authorities.

Sources said the helicopters are being operated again, but the parts are being changed on a priority basis and their flying life has been reduced from what it was earlier.

With growing assertiveness of China in the South China Sea, the Philippines has "repeatedly" challenged its presence and will continue to do so, its Foreign Secretary Enrique A Manalo said here on Wednesday.

He also said his country wants to develop a "very robust" defence partnership with India and is looking forward to procuring military hardware from it. The visiting minister is scheduled to hold talks here with External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Thursday.

The defence and security ties between India and the Philippines are on an upswing. In January last year, the Philippines concluded a USD 375 million deal with India for the procurement of three batteries of the BrahMos cruise missile.

Govt nod to PM-PRANAM to boost balanced use of fertilisers by farmers

PTI 🔳 NEW DELHI

The Centre on Wednesday approved a new scheme PM-PRANAM to incentivise states to promote alternative fertilisers and reduce the use of chemical fertilisers and also decided to continue the current urea subsidy scheme for three years ending March 2025, with an outlay of Rs 3.68 lakh crore.

That apart, the Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs (CCEA), chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, approved an outlay of Rs 1,451 crore subsidy to promote organic manure, taking the total package to over Rs 3.70 lakh crore.

The CCEA also decided to introduce sulphur-coated urea (Urea Gold) in the country for the first time to address sulphur deficiency in the soil.

Briefing media, Union Chemicals and Fertilisers Minister Mansukh Mandaviya said the CCEA has approved a scheme PM-PRANAM (PM Programme for Restoration, Awareness, Generation, Nourishment and Amelioration of Mother Earth).

"PM-PRANAM is aimed at saving the soil and promote sustainable balanced use of fertilisers. The scheme involves the participation of the state governments," he said.

Under the scheme, Mandaviya said that the states, which will adopt alternative fer-tilisers will be incentivised with the subsidy that is saved by reducing the use of chemical fertilisers.

Citing example, suppose a state is using 10 lakh tonne of conventional fertiliser, and if it reduces its consumption by 3 lakh tonne, then the subsidy saving would be Rs 3,000 crore. Out of that subsidy savings, the Centre will give 50 per cent of it -- Rs 1,500 crore to the state for promoting the use of alternative fertiliser and other development works, he added.

The scheme was announced by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in her Budget speech in February.

According to an official statement, the CCEA approved a "unique package" of innovative schemes for farmers with a total outlay of Rs 3,70,128.7

"The bouquet of schemes is focused on the overall wellbeing and economic betterment of farmers by promoting sustainable agriculture. The initiatives will boost farmers' income, strengthen natural/organic farming, reju-venate soil productivity and ensure food security," it added. The CCEA approved the continuation of the urea sub-

Uniform Civil Code

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is rooting for the Uniform Civil Code, but is it actually feasible?

he Prime Minister has once again made a strong pitch for implementing a uniform civil code in the country. He recently reiterated his views on the subject, saying a country cannot function when there are two sets of laws and that it was sanctioned in the Constitution itself. This in fact opens a Pandora's box as this topic is sure to generate a lot of heat and arguments. The recent proposition by the Prime Minister for a uniform civil code has ignited a contentious debate within our society. While the concept of a uniform set of laws for all citizens might seem appealing at first, it is crucial to examine its potential ramifications. We must carefully consider the implications of such a code, particularly on personal rights and cultural diversity of minority communities. The protection and preservation of individual rights and cultural autonomy should always take precedence over any drive towards uniformity. In the first place, the Prime Minister has always been in favour of one nation, one election, one leader, one party and what-have-you. But this is not such a great idea for a diverse country like ours. Plurality is what makes the Indian democracy work. If it were not for the system's flexibility, it would have crashed long back. Interestingly, the country does have a uniform civil code; only personal laws such as marriage are governed separately. Even if you had a uniform civil code, you would have to give latitude to regional and cultural differences. Any diverse and pluralistic society thrives when it recognises and respects the individual rights of its citizens. The idea of a uniform civil code may seem egalitarian on the surface, but it must not be pursued at the cost of compromising people's personal rights. Our Constitution guarantees the freedom to practice and uphold one's cultural and religious beliefs but the introduction of a uniform civil code erases these differences as these are a direct infringement on such fundamental rights. India's diversity has been the bedrock of our nation, fostering tolerance and inclusivity. A uniform civil code threatens to homogenise this rich cultural tapestry and suppress the unique identity of minority communities. Personal laws, shaped by religious and cultural practices, have played a crucial role in safeguarding the rights and interests of minority communities. These laws have evolved organically, considering the specific needs and aspirations of these communities. Imposing a uniform civil code would risk negating these protections and imposing a one-size-fits-all approach, which may not adequately address the concerns of all citizens. Therefore, rather than imposing a uniform civil code, the focus should be on fostering dialogue and understanding among different communities. It is through open conversations and mutual respect that we can bridge the treacherous gaps and find common ground. Collaboration and consensus-building should be the guiding principle as we work towards creating a just society that respects individual rights while cherishing our diversity. Maybe we need to ultimately go down this path, but let's find another way.

The 'Amul Girl' cries for the first time

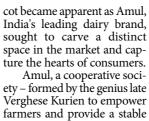

A tribute to Sylvester daCunha, the man who created 'Amul Girl' campaign to take Dr Kurien's cooperative movement forward hether or not Oxford has included the word 'sadilicious' in its dictionary, I am taking the liberty of expression to write: "Utterly Butterly, sadilicious". I am feeling sad, and perhaps many of us. For, a generation that has grown up seeing the smile in the eyes of the 'Amul Girl' for over five decades since her inception in 1966, has seen tears dropping down. The "Utterly Butterly Delicious' girl has cried for the first time. She bereaved her creator the iconic advertising veteran Sylvester daCunha who died on Tuesday, June 20, leaving a void in the world of creativity. Sylvester was

In all these years, the 'Amul Girl campaign has not only stood the test of time but has also become a symbol of creativity, wit, and effective brand communication. With its ingenious use of humour, satire and social commentary, the brand Amul has successfully captured the hearts of the Indian audience, making it one of the most beloved and memorable and longest-running advertising campaigns ever.

The year was 1966 when Sylvester daCunha, the mastermind behind the 'Amul Girl' campaign, teamed up with artist Eustace Fernandes to create a character that would capture the essence of Amul's brand philosophy. The idea was to craft a mascot that would embody the purity, richness, and taste of Åmul butter, while simultaneously appealing to the masses through humour and relatability. The result was the birth of the 'Amul Girl', a cherubic, polka-dotted little girl, wearing traditional attire, who would go on to become the face of the brand for decades to come. Her mischievous smile and clever one-liners became synonymous with the brand and its tagline, "Utterly Butterly Delicious... Amul" However, this iconic creation was not a random stroke of advertising genius but a strategic market for their milk - needed a compelling and memorable advertising campaign to differentiate itself from other brands and establish a strong foothold in the market with two-fold objectives. First, to create a visual identity that would resonate with consumers and evoke positive emotions associated with the brand, and second, to communicate the key attributes of its flagship product, 'Amul Butter', in a simple yet effective and appealing manner, both catering to the taste, quality, and richness of Amul butter and simultaneously capturing the attention and imagination of the Indian audience. Dr Kurien's unwavering commitment to the cooperative movement and his passion for empowering farmers found expression in the 'Amul Girl' campaign through the ingenuity of Sylvester. Their collaboration was the icing on the cake. By featuring a young girl, the campaign celebrated the their families and conveyed the message that Amul, as a cooperative society, was dedicated to supporting and uplifting the lives of farmers, ensuring their prosperity and well-being.

The clever wordplay and topical references employed in the ads over the years have made a deep bonding with the audience, making the brand's messaging memorable and shareable. The 'Amul Girl' soon became a ubiquitous presence in the lives of Indians. Without any exaggeration, it can be said that through these ads, Amul not only promoted its products but also fostered a sense of social consciousness WITH THE INDIAN and encouraged public discourse.

By leveraging the topical-ITS ABILITY TO ity of its ads, Amul has managed to stay relevant and cap-EVOKE ture the imagination of the Indian audience to date. The LAUGHTER, STIR 'Amul Girl' has often been depicted alongside famous EMOTIONS, AND personalities from various fields, including sports, enter-DELIVER tainment, and politics. These MEMORABLE ads not only celebrated the MESSAGES achievements of these legends but also served as a testimony to the brand's association with the cultural fabric of the counal century or other promotions and political campaigns, Amul has consistently struck a chord with the Indian audience due to its ability to evoke laughter, stir emotions, and deliver memorable messages. Over the years, the brand 'Amul' has managed to maintain its distinct identity while adapting to changing times and consumer preferences. Amul has also been quick to adapt to the changing media landscape. It has effectively utilized digital platforms and social media to amplify its campaigns and engage with a wider audience. Simultaneously, by adapting to diverse cultural nuances and crafting campaigns that reflect the aspirations, concerns, and shared experiences of the people, the 'Amul Girl' has also transcended the boundaries of being just another brand and becoming an integral part of the Indian identity.

While the void left by the death of the doyen of Indian advertising Sylvester daCunha is hard to be filled, one may rightfully say that the enduring 'Amul Girl' will continue to be a symbol of wit, charm, and social commentary and will keep us entertained and smiling again. #### PM PUSHES UNIFORM CIVIL CODE

Sir - Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday pitched for a Uniform Civil Code (UCC) across the country. He said that running a country with multiple sets of laws is impractical and reiterated the need to provide equal rights as enshrined in the Constitution. But what is UCC and why it is necessary to be brought? The Constitution states that there should be no discrimination against any citizen on the basis of caste, religion, colour, or language. If the same crime is committed by criminals belonging to two different communi-ties, both will get the same punishment. According to section 494 of the IPC, no man or woman can remarry without divorcing the wife or husband. If he does so, he can be sentenced to seven years. But this section does not apply to the Muslim community because, according to the personal law of Muslims, they have the right to do 4 marriages. Communities that have their own personal laws continue to oppose the Uniform Civil Code. They believe that the Uniform Civil Code is tantamount to interfering in their religious affairs. It is believed that after its arrival, the condition of Indian women will improve. The rights of women are limited by the personal law of some communities. After the implementation of UCC, uniform rules will apply on issues like marriage, rights to ancestral property and adoption. There may have been a political tussle in the country regarding the UCC, but there is also a state in the country where the Uniform Civil Code has been in force since 154 years ago. It is Goa. ## FIRSTCOLUMN ARE WE LACKING COMMUNICATION?

Communicate well to express yourself and to know the expectations of others

SAKSHI SETHI

In the words of Theo Gold, "Communication is the ticket to success if one pays attention and learn to do it effectively." Friendships and romantic relationships make the lives of an individual go merry-go-round. Without them, their lives would be dull and lonely. Communication means understanding that people will not know what they think unless one tells them. It is one of the most important things that one needs to establish in all relationships. When one talks about communication, it means one is talking about telling the people around them, their wants, their needs, their likes and dislikes. The importance of communication can never be ignored. One needs to understand that communicating effectively depends on more variables and how we manage them. Quite often an individual misses out on communication because of little time to spare and thinks that chat mode is a much quicker way of communicating even on the go but some situations need to be more personal.

Communicating effectively depends on many more variables and how one manages it can have vastly different outcomes. Effective communication boosts productivity but poor communication can be disastrous. Remember, lack of communication leaves room for imagination because instead of knowing how the other person is feeling, an individual just ends up assuming. The worst part is that the individual already plays the other party's role in the conversation that never took place and creates emotional responses to it. Also, it breeds assumptions about what the other person is thinking or feeling resulting in room for doubt. Lack of communication arises when someone experiences challenges with effectively communicating their needs and expectations.

Instead of pumping more subsidies the Government should push for nano fertilisers which are efficient and cost-effective he Union Minister of Health and Family Welfare and Chemicals and Fertilizers Mansukh Mandaviya has stat-A mansukh Mandaviya has stat-ed that during 2023-24, around Rs 46,000 crore would be need-ed for fertilizer subsidy payments over and above Rs 175,000 crore being the budget estimate (BE) given by the Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in the budget presented on February 1, 2023. On the other hand, the Ministry of Finance (MoF) feels, payments could be even less than BE.

Fertilizer subsidy is payments made to manufacturers or importers to cover the excess of the cost of production/import and distribution (or cost of supply) over a low maximum retail price (MRP) they are directed by the Union government to charge from the farmers. The subsidy on each ton of fertilizer produced (or imported) and sold is the difference between the cost of supply and MRP. Multiplied by the total quantity of fertilizer sold, it gives aggregate subsidy payments.

In the case of urea, MRP is under 'statutory' control. The excess cost of supply over MRP is reimbursed to the manufacturer as a subsidy which varies from unit to unit depending on the cost. These reimbursements are made under the so-called New Pricing Scheme (NPS). For non-urea fertilizers which are de jure decontrolled, the MRP is 'indi-rectly' controlled. The government gives a 'uniform' subsidy on a per-nutrient basis to all manufacturers and importers under the Nutrient Based Scheme (NBS). The latter must deduct this from the cost to arrive at the MRP. All these exercises/determinations are made by the fertilizer ministry and arrive at the tentative estimates of subsidy requirements under each category viz. urea and non-urea fertilizers. The precise number is finalized in consultation with the MoF.

What makes the fertilizer minister feel that the actual requirement will be more than the BE for 2023-24? For a better understanding, we need to look at both the financial years 2022-23 and 2023-24. For 2022-23, against BE of Rs 105, 000 crore, Sitharaman put the revised estimate (RE) at Rs 225,000 crore. This was based on actual payments during the first 10 months of the FY and likely outgo during the remaining two months i.e. February and March 2023. The actual was even higher at Rs 253,000 crore Under a business-as-usual scenario, if the allocation for 2022-23 had remained frozen at the level of RE i.e. Rs 225,000 crore, the shortfall of Rs 28,000 crore would have to be carried forward to 2023-24 and paid for from the current year's budget. Now, that full amount has been provided in 2022-23 itself, hence no spillover, Rs 28,000 crore need not be paid from the 2023-24 budget. Subsidy payments during 2022-23 leapfrogged to a peak of over Rs 250,000 crore because global fertilizer prices increased sharply. For instance, in April 2022, the price of urea touched US$980 per ton while that of di-ammonium phosphate (DAP) - a widely used fertilizer in the non-urea category - was US$925 per ton. The price of phosphoric acid and ammonia - raw materials (RMs) used in the production of nonurea fertilizers - were US$1,530 per ton and US$1,050 per ton respectively. The price of muriate of potash (MOP) was US$590 per ton. The price of imported LNG -

it meets over one-third of natural gas requirements for domestic production of urea – was at a high of around US$24 per million Btu (British thermal unit) in April 2022. The price of domestic gas (it supplies the remaining two-thirds) for old and regulated fields was US$ 6.1 per mmBtu whereas for supplies from diffi-SIGNIFICANT cult deep water and ultra-deep-water (D/UD) fields, it was US$ SAVINGS IN 9.92 per mmBtu. From October 2022, these prices increased to SUBSIDY SHOULD US$8.57 per mmBtu and US$12.6 per mmBtu respectively.

BE POSSIBLE BY Since last year, there has been by farmers (read: MRP), the lower cost should lead to a corresponding reduction in subsidy outgo.

Accordingly, on May 19, 2023, the Union Cabinet approved a significant cut in the per kilogram subsidy rate for nitrogen (N), phosphorus (P), and potash (K) for the Kharif 2023 season (April-September) under NBS for P&K fertilizers. The subsidy outgo during this period will be Rs 38,000 crore down from Rs 61,000 crore spent during the last Kharif 2022 season. Given the continuing reduction in prices, there may be a further sizeable reduction in subsidies under NBS during the second half of the current FY.

During 2023-24, the Indian Farmers Fertilizer Cooperative (IFFCO) which has developed the technology, plans to produce 50 million bottles of nano-DAP. This will replace 2.5 million tons of conventional DAP resulting in significant savings. Following the commissioning of three plants in the public sector (April 2023), domestic production of urea is expected to increase by 2-3 million tons. This will result in an equivalent reduction in import and turn, subsidy payments. All the above factors point towards containing subsidy outgo within the BE of Rs 175,000 crore. Then, why does the fertilizer minister say 'more will be needed?

Healthy communication in any relationship – be it marriage, friendship or workplace helps create space for people to share their thoughts and feelings, express their needs, set healthy boundaries, learn to deal with relationship conflicts together and resolve issues as and when they arise so that they don't become problematic. If there is a problem, one should learn to speak up and tell.

Improving communication skills is an ongoing process and just like most learned skills, the more time and practice an individual puts into it the more improvements can one see. Remember, people who communicate well can clearly express themselves and their needs and understand the expectations that others have set for them. But this isn't a skill that always comes naturally rather it can take time and practice to truly master. Poor communication doesn't have to signal the end of a relationship instead it can be used as an opportunity to practice and improve.

Meanwhile, the government has also reduced the subsidy rates for January – March 2023 'retrospec-tively' to reflect the reduction in global prices for those three months. This will be adjusted against payments to manufacturers/importers during the current Significant savings in subsidy should be possible by promoting the use of nano-fertilizers. These are fertilizers in the form of nanoparticles and are applied in liquid form. Their efficiency is many times more than conventional fertilizers. For instance, a 500-ml bottle of nano-DAP is equivalent to a 50-kg bag of conventional DAP. The former is available to farmers for Rs 600 without any subsidy support, against the latter being available at more than double this price or Rs 1,350 and that too with substantial subsidy support.

He argues that at the begin-ning of the current FY, manufacturers were holding inventories stuff that was purchased during 2022-23 at high prices - which should be eligible for subsidy at higher rates. This is a flawed argument. This is because when prices rise and the government gives higher subsidies (for instance, in the second half of 2021-22), it didn't mop up the benefit accruing to manufacturers on the inventory that was earlier bought at a lower price. Likewise, there isn't merit in another argument for a 'less than required cut in subsidy rate' just because they suffered some loss during the second half of 2022-23. To conclude, MoF shouldn't agree to the fertilizer ministry's demand for more funds towards subsidy payments. The latter should make efforts to keep the actual lower than BE.

Indian prime minister Narender Modi's recent visit to the United States assumes a lot of importance for the rest of the world when US President, Joe Biden says that two great friends, two great powers and two great friends can outline the course and path of the 21st century. "For us, the priority is to secure the entire amount of USD 2.5 billion," sources were quoted as saying by the report, adding the authorities pitched a higher amount for SBA but perhaps that was asking for too much.

But to achieve this, the government may have to increase the petroleum levy by up to Rs 5 per litre in the coming pricing review to secure at least an average of Rs 55 per litre petroleum levy for the year and commit to the expedited regulatory process for rebasing of electricity tariffs by Rs 5-8 per unit with effect from July 1 even if its approval takes a couple of weeks.

Both EFF and SBA windows are similar in nature except that EFF has a longer (3-4 year) tenure to address the medium-term balance of payment challenges while SBA is generally short-term (9-24

Eid ul-Adha, also called the festival of sacrifice, will be celebrated on Thursday. Pakistanis are expected to sacrifice millions of animals and terror groups disguised as charities collect animal hides and sell them to raise funds. The Home Department of Pakistan's Punjab province published a notification with a list of 84 organisations in the local newspapers with a warning that those providing any financial assistance (cash or sacrificial animal hides) to these banned organisations will be booked under the Anti-Terrorism Act. The notification specifically mentions that 10 of the 84 banned organisations are charity offshoots of JuD. Addressing a town hall in Hollis, DeSantis vowed to "actually" build the US-Mexico border wall that Trump tried but failed to complete in his first term while pledging to tear down Washington's traditional power centres in ways that Trump fell short.Speaking later at a Republican women's luncheon in the state capital of Concord, Trump countered that DeSantis was being forced to settle for second place in the primary and accused the governor of supporting cuts to Social Security, Medicare and other entitlement programs as a way to tame federal spending. Beyond the rhetoric, the asked about people who had twice voted for Trump over his promises to "drain the swamp," used his answer to draw some of his sharpest contrasts yet with the former president. "He didn't drain it. It's worse today than it's ever been," DeSantis said. He added that such promises don't go far enough because a subsequent president "can just refill it." "I want to break the swamp," DeSantis said, pledging to take power out of the nation's capital by instructing Cabinet agencies to halve the number of employees there.

dent civil society organisation. In some cases, children are forcibly conscripted, he said. In others, minors sign up because they or their families need the salary. Some join for ideological reasons, or because of familv and tribal lovalties. In some cases, children are sent out of Syria to fight as mercenaries in other conflicts. Attempts to end such recruitment have been complicated by the patchwork of armed groups operating in each part of Syria. In 2019, the SDF signed an agreement with the UN promising to end the enlistment of children younger than 18 and set up a number of child protection

The US State Department defended its ally in a statement, saying, that the SDF "is the only armed actor in Syria to respond to the UN's call to end the use of child soldiers." Nodem Shero, a spokesperson for one of the child protection offices run by the SDF-affiliated local administration, acknowledged that children continue to be recruited in areas under SDF control. ### RUSSIA-UKRAINE WAR

'Local man directed missile strike at Pizza outlet'

AP KYIV

m krainian}$  authorities on Wednesday arrested a man they accused of helping Russia direct a missile strike that killed at least 11 people, including three teenagers, at a popular pizza restaurant in eastern Ukraine.

The Tuesday evening attack on Kramatorsk wounded 61 other people, Ukraine's National Police said. It was the latest bombardment of a Ukrainian city, a tactic Russia has used heavily in the 16-month-old war.

The strike, and others across Ukraine late Tuesday and early Wednesday, indicated that the Kremlin is not easing its aerial onslaught, despite political and military turmoil at home after a short-lived armed uprising in Russia last weekend.

There has been no apparent military push by Ukraine to exploit that turmoil, though the government has been tightlipped about recent battlefield developments as it seeks to gain momentum in its recently launched counteroffensive. The Kremlin reeled from the weekend mutiny led by Yevgeny Prigozhin, owner of the Wagner private army of prison recruits and other mercenaries. Wagner has played a key combat role for Russia in Ukraine. The rebellion posed the most serious threat so far to Russian President Vladimir Putin's grip on power.

Prigozhin went into exile in neighbouring Belarus on Tuesday, according to Belarus Alexander President Lukashenko, after Russia said he wouldn't face charges for the revolt. Prigozhin's whereabouts could not be independently confirmed. Two sisters, both age 14, died in the Kramatorsk attack, the city council's educational department said. "Russian missiles stopped the beating of the hearts of two angels," it said in a Telegram post. The other dead teenager was 17, according to Prosecutor General Andrii

The attack also damaged 18 multistory buildings, 65 houses, five schools, two kindergartens, a shopping centre, an administrative building and a recre-ational building, regional Governor Pavlo Kyrylenko said.

Rescuers are still searching the rubble for bodies and more survivors. Officials initially blamed the strike in Kramatorsk on an S-300 missile, a surface-toair weapon that Russia's forces have repurposed for loosely targeted strikes on cities, but the National Police later said Iskander short-range ballistic missiles were used. Kramatorsk is a front-line city that houses the Ukrainian army's regional headquarters. The pizza restaurant was frequented by journalists, aid workers and soldiers, as well as local residents. The Security Service of Ukraine said the man it detained, an employee of a gas transportation company, is suspected of filming the restaurant for the Russians and informing them about its popularity. It provided no evidence for its claim. Russia has insisted during the war that it doesn't aim at civilian targets, although its air strikes have killed many civilians. Kremlin spokesperson Dmitry Peskov repeated that claim on Wednesday. Kramatorsk is in Donetsk, one of four Ukrainian provinces that Russia annexed last September but does not fully control. Russia has also occupied Crimea since 2015. Ukrainian-held parts of the partially occupied provinces have been hit especially hard by Russian bombardment, and are a central point of dispute in the war. The Kremlin demands that Kyiv recognize the annexations, while Kyiv has ruled out any talks until Russian troops pull back from all occupied territories. Russia has stepped up its air campaign in Ukraine while fighting continues along the front line. Russian forces on Tuesday and overnight also shelled 16 settlements in the southern Zaporizhzhia region, the Ukrainian presidential office reported.It said a 77-year-old civilian was killed in the frontline town of Orikhiv, and that Russian shelling wounded three people in a nearby village recent-ly retaken by Kyiv. Also, a Russian supersonic cruise missile slammed into a cluster of holiday homes in central Ukraine, sparking a fire which injured a child, the presidential office said.

In other developments: Pope Francis' peace envoy, Italian Cardinal Matteo Zuppi, was to meet with an aide to President Putin, Yury Ushakov, in Moscow on Wednesday. Kremlin spokesperson Dmitry Peskov said the talks would include "possible ways of political-diplomatic settlement"

Francis dispatched Zuppi, a veteran of the Catholic Church's peace initiatives, to Moscow in hopes of helping spur peace negotiations after his visit to Kyiv earlier this month. At the Vatican on Wednesday, Francis again appealed for an end to the war, praying that Ukrainians "may soon find peace: There is so much suffering in Ukraine, let us not forget that."

'Belarusian leader approved forced transfers of Ukrainian children'

AP TALLINN (ESTONIA)

Belarusian opposition activist says that A Belarusian opposition activise on periode the International Criminal Court with materials allegedly detailing President Alexander Lukashenko's involvement in the forcible transfer of Ukrainian children to Belarus, accusations angrily rejected by Minsk. Lukashenko has been Moscow's closest ally, allowing the Kremlin to use Belarusian territory to send troops and weapons into Ukraine, welcoming a con-tinued Russian military presence in Belarus and the deployment of some of Russia's tactical nuclear weapons there.

The authoritarian leader has also agreed to a "union state" project that has seen Moscow and Minsk tighten their economic, political and defense ties, while so far stopping short of a full merger.

Pavel Latushka, a former Belarusian culture minister, said Tuesday that the materials he has handed over to the ICC indicate that more than 2,100 Ukrainian children from at least 15 Russia-occupied Ukrainian cities have been forcibly taken to Belarus with Lukashenko's approval.

Latushka voiced hope that the materials would prompt the ICC to issue a warrant for Lukashenko's arrest, as it did with Russian President Vladimir Putin. The court's prosecution office on Wednesday didn't immediately confirm receipt of the naterials described by Latushka.

In March, the ICC issued warrants for both Putin and his commissioner for children's rights, Maria Lvova-Belova. Judges in The Hague said they found "reasonable grounds to believe" that the two were responsible for the war crimes of unlawful deportation of children and unlawful transfer of children from occupied areas of Ukraine to Russia. Moscow has angrily rejected the move.

<sup>4</sup>Ukrainian children, who were under the guardianship of the Ukrainian state, including orphans, children with disabil-ities and those whose parents were stripped of their parental rights, have been illegal-ly transferred into the territory of Belarus," Latushka told The Associated Press. "The materials handed over to the prosecutors prove that Lukashenko has personally signed the documents under the auspices of the so-called union state of Russia and Belarus that provided a basis for organising and funding the transfer of Ukrainian children to Belarus," he added.

In an online statement published Tuesday, Latushka's anti-Lukashenko National Anti-Crisis Management Group claims to have gathered evidence that the Ukrainian children were placed in five Belarusian summer camps and health resorts.

In a phone interview, Latushka charged that the documents point to Ukrainian children held in Belarusian facilities undergoing ideological brainwashing and "Russification" before being sent to Russia for adoption, activities he said could amount to war crimes.

Materials published online by the National Anti-Crisis Management Group include a video that shows an entertainer on stage wishing death on US President Joe Biden and Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, to cheers and applause from several dozen children gathered in the audience.

Tokyo (AP): Japanese regula tors began the final inspection Wednesday before treated radioactive wastewater is released from the wrecked Fukushima nuclear plant into the Pacific Ocean.

The inspection began a day after the plant operator Tokyo Electric Power Company Holdings had installed the last piece of equipment needed for the release the outlet of the undersea tunnel dug to discharge the wastewater 1 kilometre (1,094 yards) offshore.

TEPCO said the Nuclear Regulation Authority inspectors were to examine the equipment related to the treated water transfer and its safety systems as part of their three-day inspection through Friday. The permit for releasing the water could be issued about a week later, and TEPCO could start discharging the water soon after, though an exact date has not been decid-

The plan has faced fierce protests from local fishing groups concerned about safety and reputational damage. The government and TEPCO in 2015 promised not to release the water without consent from the fishing community, but many in the fishing community say the plan was pushed regardless. Neighboring South Korea, China and some Pacific Island nations have also raised safety concerns.

Government and utility officials say the wastewater, currently stored in about 1,000 tanks at the plant, must be removed to prevent any accidental leaks and to make room for the plant's decommissioning. They say the treated but still slightly radioactive water will be diluted to levels safer than international standards and will be released gradually into the ocean over decades, making it harmless to people and marine life.

Akey US automotive industry organisation says it will set performance standards for Tesla's electric vehicle charging cords in another move toward using the Tesla plug on all EVs.

The move on Tuesday by SAE International, formerly the Society of Automotive Engineers, comes just weeks after Ford, General Motors and Rivian said they would join Tesla's large Supercharger network and adopt its North American Charging Standard connector in new versions of their electric vehicles. ## Govt seeks industry feedback on PLI scheme to enhance effectiveness

he Government has sought feedback from the industry on the production linked incentive (PLI) scheme with a view to enhancing its effectiveness, according to an official statement issued on Wednesday.

The commerce and industry ministry, which coordinates the scheme, also urged PLI beneficiaries to take up any procedural challenges/ issues with the respective implementing ministry or department so that positive reforms can be brought about and the scheme can be made more efficient and effective.

Issues pertaining to the scheme were discussed in a workshop called by the Commerce and Industry Ministry on June 27 here.

Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal stated that the government is committed to fostering a conducive business environment and accelerating growth in PLI sectors. "The minister encouraged industry's feedback and collaborative engagement to shape the policies, procedures and effectiveness of the PLI scheme," the ministry said in a statement. The government announced the PLI (production-linked incentive) scheme in 2021 for as many as 14 sectors, such as telecommunication, white goods, textiles and pharma with outlay of Rs 1.97 lakh crore. The meeting assumed significance as the government has disbursed only Rs 2,900 crore till March 2023, out of Rs 3,400 crore claims received under the scheme. The minister asked the implementing departments to hold regular consultations and roundtables with their respective PLI beneficiary to resolve their issues. The objective of the workshop was aimed to bring all the key stakeholders on a single platform so that they can exchange their knowledge and experiences to ensure effective implementation of the schemes under 14 key sectors.

The Workshop witnessed participation from 10 implementing central departments, companies/ PLI beneficiaries under 14 key sectors, various Project Management Agencies (PMAs) like IFCI (Industrial Finance Corporation of India), Small Industries Development Bank of India (Sidbi), Metallurgical and Engineering Consultants (MECON), Indian Renewable Energy Development Agency (IREDA), and Solar Energy Corporation of India (SECI), select industry associations and relevant export promotion councils.

Representatives were also there from Wistron, Foxconn, Samsung, Dell, Wipro GE, Dr. Reddy's, Tata Motors, Mahindra & Mahindra, Nokia Solutions, ITC, Dabur, JSW, and Reliance among others.

"Key executives from these companies, along with Government officials, were actively involved in a collaborative open discussion, interactive session, and presentations throughout the workshop," the ministry said adding the workshop provided a unique forum to exchange insights on the impact of the schemes.

The workshop agenda covered various aspects related to PLI schemes, including their scope, eligibility criteria, incentives, and the roadmap for successful implementation including grievance redressal mechanism provided by concerned central departments and PMAs.

"Key topics included fac-tors/ policy nuances contributing to Schemes' success, enhancing domestic value addition, and capitalizing on emerging technologies," it said.

Actual investment of Rs 62,500 crore has been realized (till March) which has resulted in incremental production/ sales of over Rs 6.75 lakh crore and employment generation of around 3,25,000.

PLI schemes have played a significant role in promoting domestic value addition (DVA) in various sectors. It has led to increased value addition in the electronics sector and in smartphone manufacturing, 23 per cent and 20 per cent respectively, from negligible in 2014-15. "Up to 80 per cent, DVA has been reported in various products under pharmaceuticals.

Formal employment generation rate insufficient; need to create more quality jobs: Jayant Sinha

Ruling BJP lawmaker Jayant Sinha on Wednesday said the rate at which India is creating formal jobs is insufficient and there is a need to focus on opening up quality employment avenues for the people.

Speaking at a youth conclave organised by IMC Chamber of Commerce, Sinha said creating quality jobs is a major challenge for India at a time when technologies like artificial intelligence and machine learning are staring at us, which can be argued as "job diminishing" ones, the member of Parliament from Hazaribagh said.

"We... Need to do a much better job of creating high quality employment for our young people... We have to be able to create high quality, formal jobs very very quickly and that rate is not sufficient right now," the former Union minister said.

Over the last three years, the global economy has been navigating suc-cessive high-amplitude shocks: the COVID-19 pandemic waves; protracted geopolitical hostilities; rapid mon-etary policy tightening; and the recent banking turmoil.

Economic fragmentation is threatening macroeconomic prospects, especially among emerging market and developing economies (EMDEs), he said. Since the last issue of the FSR in December 2022, the global and Indian financial systems have charted somewhat different trajectories. The global financial system has been impacted by significant strains since early March 2023 from the banking turmoil in the US and Europe. Earlier this year, US-based Silicon Valley Bank and Signature Bank collapsed. It was followed by the bailout of UBS, the Switzerland's largest bank, by Credit Suisse in March.

Since the last issue of the FSR in December 2022, the global and Indian financial systems have chart-

Both banking and corporate sector balance sheets have been strengthened, engendering a 'twin balance sheet advantage' for growth, he said, adding, the reach and depth of financial intermediation are being aided by technology and growing digitalisation, which provide new opportunities for growth and financial inclusion. As the recent banking turmoil in certain advanced economies (AEs) suggests, new risks have necessitated reassessment of global standards on financial sector regulations, he said. While international cooperation among regulators on these issues is of paramount importance, he said, so far as India is concerned, both regulators and regulated entities need to stay the course with an unwavering commitment to ensuring a stable financial system. It has to be remembered that seeds of vulnerability often get sown during good times when risks tend to get overlooked, he said.

International cooperation and regulatory focus are also needed to tackle other challenges such as cyber risks and climate change, he said.

Through its G20 presidency, India is striving to improve the efficacy of multilateralism in several such areas. These efforts are fittingly captured in India's theme for G20: One Earth, One Family, One Future.

The Artificial Intelligence-first business strategy adopted by Infosys is working well for the company despite unresolved ethical and IPR issues around the technology, Infosys Chairman Nandan Nilekani said on Wednesday.

In his address at Infosys' 42nd Annual General Meeting, Nilekani said the company has to be more efficient while nurturing readiness for growth, given its performance in challenging scenarios created by inflation, interest rates, geopolitics, demand volatility and supply chain dislocations. "Several practical, ethical and intellectual property-related issues, when it comes to AI remain unresolved. We also know that the motto of scaling AI in the enterprise is far from simple. And yet, the AI-first strategy we're embracing already working for us," Nilekani said. Infosys had long ago donated funds to the development of OpenAI but holds no stake in the platform after it became a for-profit entity.

Responding to a share-holder's query, Nilekani said AI has the potential to make a big improvement in the productivity of people. "Ŷou can derive more benefit from AI like automatic code generation and all that. So, definitely, pro-

Nishant Sindhu also contributed to the total with an unbeaten 76 after NE Zone fielded by choice in the morning.

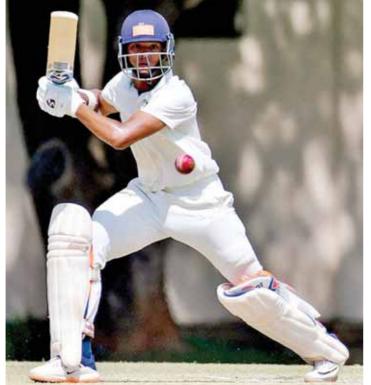

Delhi man Shorey was in wonderful touch coming into this match after aggregating 859 runs from seven matches in the 2022-23 Ranji season at an astounding average of 95.44 with three hundreds.

In fact, the 31-year-old was the fourthhighest run-getter of Ranji Trophy the previous season, and all of that form and experience reflected in his innings on the day.

Shorey took his time to settle on a clement Bengaluru day as the NE pacers, Jotin Singh, Palzor Tamang and Dippu Sangma, found some help.

They did not have the pace to rattle Shorey and his partner Prashant Chopra, but kept them honest with just enough movement away from the batters.

In fact, the first 15 overs produced just 29 runs. However, once they sussed up the conditions and bowlers, both Shorey and Chopra played more freely.

North Zone went into lunch at 115 for 2 in 34 overs and even those wickets were a result of batsmen's indiscretion. Chopra tried to leave a ball from Jotin but his attempt to withdraw the bat was delayed, resulting in a played on. Left-handed Ankit Kalsi could have easily avoided the poke he made against a delivery from Jotin miles away from the off-stump as he had to walk with a golden duck.

In the post-lunch session too, NE got a couple of fortuitous wickets as Prabhsimran Singh's desire to dominate Imliwati Lemtur resulted in a catch by Kishen Mietam. A little later, Ankit Kumar was snaffled by Sangma as North Zone looked a tad shaky at 162 for 4 in the 46th over. However, Shorey and Nishant milked 80 runs for the fifth wicket in about 22 overs that released the pressure on North to a good extent.

Left-arm spinner Kishan Singha inflicted two blows in as many balls, jettisoning Shorey and captain Jayant Yadav to reduce North to 242 for 6.

Still nearly 30 overs remaining, North needed a rescue act and it came from Nishant and Pulkit Narang for the seventh wicket, an association that was worth 64 runs. It took North to a healthy position when the play for the day was called off due to bad light.

Manchester City on Tuesday announced they had completed the signing of Croatia midfielder Mateo Kovacic from Chelsea following the loss of captain Ilkay Gundogan.

Marta leads Brazil squad for women's World Cup

AFP RIO DE JANEIRO

 $V_{\rm faced}^{\rm eteran}$  forward Marta will lead a fresh-faced Brazil looking to pull off an upset to win its first women's World Cup when the tournament kicks off next month, coach Pia Sundhage announced Tuesday.

At age 37, the legendary number 10, considered by many the greatest female footballer ever, will be playing in her sixth World Cup in Australia and New Zealand after battling back from a knee injury that sidelined her for nearly a year.

"Marta is the 'Queen', the icon, and just to be around her is contagious," Sundhage told reporters as she announced her 23-player squad.

"In the final pass, she is one of the best. Would she start in the line-up? I don't know yet." Copa America champions Brazil are at a generational crossroads, and not tipped to lift the trophy. Sundhage picked 11 players who will be making their World Cup debuts — though the Swedish coach also included tournament veterans such as goalkeepers Leticia and Barbara, defenders Kathellen, Rafaelle and Tamires, and forwards Bia Zaneratto, Andressa Alves and Debinha.

Brazil, who are in Group F with France, Jamaica and Panama, will kick off their World Cup campaign against Panama in Adelaide on July 24.
