DIG Announces Expansion of Hotel Verification System

Police and Hotel Owners Join Forces to Curb Crime in Jamshedpur

In a desire to further curb incidents of hotel-related crimes, the Jamshedpur Police Department (JPD) in collaboration with hoteliers and local authorities, launched the first phase of an advanced automatic hotel verification system at several hotels in the city. This system leverages technology to improve the security and accountability of the city’s hospitality sector.

The new system will allow hoteliers to digitally verify the identity of guests and ensure that the premises are not used for illegal activities. It will also help in maintaining a safer environment for residents and tourists. The announcement was made by DIG (Kolhan) Ajay Linda, who along with Superintendent of Police (Special Branch) Dr Tabrez Alam, Dr. A.K. Tripathi, Deputy Commissioner of Police (Traffic) Ritesh Kumar, and other officials, addressed representatives from the hotel industry.

Dr. Rakesh Jhunjhunwala from the Indian School of Business (ISB) lauded the initiative, stating that this advancement in technology will ensure better management of the hospitality sector, safeguarding its reputation and fostering a safe environment for both locals and tourists.

DIG Ajay Linda commended the efforts of the hotel industry and the Jamshedpur Police, and highlighted the importance of such collaborative initiatives in creating a secure environment. He emphasized the significance of the technology-driven approach in addressing crime and security issues in the hospitality sector.

The DIG emphasized that the collaboration between the Jamshedpur Police and the hoteliers marks a significant step towards enhancing the safety and security of the city's hospitality sector. He stressed the importance of continuous improvement and adaptation to technological advancements in maintaining top-notch standards of security.

"The integration of technology in the hospitality sector is a strategic move to ensure the city remains a preferred destination for tourists. The Jamshedpur Police continue to be at the forefront of implementing innovative measures to combat crime and enhance public safety." DIG Ajay Linda, DIG (Kolhan)
PM Modi: They did not spare even Mahadev

Defending champion England crashes out of World Cup

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday attacked Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel over the alleged “Mahadev” betting app, saying the Congress Government should tell people what hides behind the accusations “Mahadev” (Mahadev app).

He also said the same criticism is being faced in Chhattisgarh. He further said that the Government has already been accused of not addressing the people who welcomed the “Mahadev” app.

PM Modi also said that the Congress Government is not even scared of abuses. You have not even spared the name in Chhattisgarh. Congress leaders and they have collected it by baj' (those involved in betting) cash was recovered. People know everything,” Modi said.

The Prime Minister also said that the Congress Government would not be saved by the Government’s “poor” in Chhattisgarh. Congress leaders have not even spared the name, and the CM should tell the people what lies behind the accusations.

Attack on Pak Air Force training base

NINE TERRORISTS KILLED: PAK ARMY

Nine heavily armed terrorists were killed in a gun battle in the training base in Punjab province. Pakistan officials said the attack was launched just after 7 a.m. and lasted for hours, with the army heavily engaged in gun battles throughout the day. The officials said they have arrested four suspects in connection with the attack.

The Ministry of Defence confirmed that the attack was launched by the Taliban, and authorities were working to determine the extent of the damage caused by the terrorists.

"It is unfortunate that such an attack on a defence establishment has taken place," said Tariq Mahmood, spokesman for the Pakistan army.

"We express our deepest sympathy to the families of the soldiers who were killed in this attack and pray for the speedy recovery of those who were injured," he added.

The Taliban has not yet commented on the attack. The group has been involved in a series of attacks in Pakistan in recent months, and the government has warned of a "high alert" in the country.

"We strongly condemn this attack," said Khurram Parvez, a senior official of the Pakistan Taliban. "We call on the Pakistani government to take immediate action to prevent such attacks in the future."

The government of Pakistan has warned that the attack was carried out by a group of terrorists who had been operating in the area.

"The incident is a clear indication of the strength of terrorist activity in the region," said Minister of Defence Pervez Khattak.

"We will continue to work with our allies and the international community to combat terrorism and extremism in the region," he added.

The Pakistan army has been heavily engaged in a military operation against the Taliban in the region, and the government has warned of a "high alert" in the country.

Manchester United forward Marcus Rashford was ruled out of the Premier League match against Fulham on Saturday, a day after manager Ten Hag said that the winger had failed a fitness test before the game.

Rashford has scored just a goal for United this season. He was among the substitutes against Fulham on Saturday, a day after manager Ten Hag said that the winger had failed a fitness test before the game.

"Our suggestion is not right," he said.

"We know that this would not be a FIFA tournament, which is not a problem," Ten Hag said.

India’s cricketing evolution has seen a seismic shift in focus from batting to a formidable bowling unit. This World Cup has showcased its newfound balance, rewriting the narrative of Indian cricket, and fuelling hopes of clinching the title, writes SWAMINARAN ANAND

The annals of cricket history, the Indian team has long been revered for its formidable batting lineage. From legends like Sir Garfield Sobers, Sachin Tendulkar to modern-day superstars such as Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli, and KL Rahul, India’s prowess with the bat has often been the cornerstone of its game. However, one recurring theme has been the struggle to strike a balance between frightening batting deterrents in the world and a reliable bowling attack. The reality in the bowling department at times proved to be that Abbott’s heel.

For decades, Indian cricket enthusiasts watched with trepidation as the fast-bowling unit faltered, the spearheading the swing and lateral movement available on the wickets. Accepting the exceptional performance by the bowlers has been the key to India’s success. A noteworthy aspect of this World Cup has been swing and lateral movement available on the wickets, allowing the bowlers to exploit these conditions effectively. The swing and lateral movement available on the wickets have been instrumental in India’s success, enabling the bowlers to bowl in a way that is both unpredictable and challenging for the batsmen.

The success of India’s bowling unit has been underpinned by the performance of its leading bowlers. The emergence of Virat Kohli as an exceptional leader and team mentor has played a crucial role in the team’s success. Under his guidance, the team has transformed its bowling attack, with individual bowlers excelling in different roles and conditions. The team’s ability to adapt and react to changing conditions has been a hallmark of its success.

As we look forward, the Indian team has set a benchmark, demonstrating that a well-rounded bowling attack is the key to success in modern cricket. With the combined efforts of its pacers, spinners, and all-rounders, India is poised to continue its winning streak, setting new standards for future generations of cricket teams.
Acute Bronchitis

levels. When the AQI is high, avoid daily outdoor activities in areas where your home and office are located.

When air quality is compromised, it is better to stay indoors, especially during the day. However, if you must go out, take precautions like wearing a mask. These are devices designed to drawing in air, filtering it, and then releasing clean air. There are several types of devices you can choose from, starting from simple hepa filters, to more advanced ones like air ionizers and even air purifiers.

Diet and Lifestyles

Asthma and COPD are chronic conditions that affect the lower airways, whereas bronchitis affects the upper airways. To prevent bronchitis, it is essential to take precautions like:

- Avoiding exposure to cigarette smoke and other irritants
- Using air purifiers if indoor air quality is poor
- Regular exercise
- Maintaining a healthy weight
- Avoiding exposure to air pollution

Pregnancy

Pregnancy is a time of increased vulnerability to environmental exposures. As we all know, the lungs of both the mother and the baby are developing during this period, which means that the mother's air quality can significantly impact the health of her baby. When the mother is pregnant, it is essential to take extra precautions to ensure that the air quality is good in her home and office.

Tobacco use and second-hand smoke are major threats to pregnant women and their newborns. Smoking can lead to preterm birth, low birth weight, and various chronic health issues for both the mother and the baby.

Preventing Tobacco Use

The best way to prevent tobacco use is to never start smoking. If you are already a smoker, quitting smoking is the best thing you can do for your health and the health of your baby. Several resources are available to help you quit, including smoking cessation programs, nicotine replacement therapies, and counseling.

Prenatal Care

Regular prenatal care is crucial for the health of both the mother and the baby. It is essential to seek medical care during pregnancy, and if you are pregnant, you should talk to your healthcare provider about the specific health issues related to your pregnancy.

Conclusion

In conclusion, understanding the impact of air quality on pregnancy is crucial. It is essential to take precautions like air purifiers, moderate outdoor activities, and avoiding second-hand smoke. Air Quality in Pregnancy: A Critical Time for Action

Air pollution during pregnancy is a serious concern and requires immediate attention. It is essential to take steps to improve air quality both indoors and outdoors, and to support policies that protect the health of pregnant women and their babies.
Jokowi’s dynasty: Power consolidation sparks debate

Indonesia’s third-largest democracy in the world, is preparing for its presidential and parliamentary elections early next year. Its current President Joko Widodo, who has been ruling the country since 2014, is looking likely to run for office again in 2024, paving the way for a third presidential term.

Jokowi rose to prominence as a vice-presidential candidate in the 2014 elections, eventually winning the presidency in his own right the following year. Since then, he has consolidated his power, with his Indonesian Democratic Party of Struggle (PDI-P) being the largest party in parliament.

However, Jokowi’s quest for a third term has not been without controversy. His governing party, which has a majority in parliament, has been accused of working to control the judiciary and media.

Jokowi has also faced criticism for his handling of the COVID-19 pandemic, with some saying his government did not do enough to prepare for the outbreak or control its spread.

The upcoming Indonesian elections mark a significant turning point as President Jokowi, who could have been eligible to run for a third term because he is not the son of any president, faces a new set of challenges.
