A five-judge Constitution bench of the Supreme Court on Tuesday refused to grant legal recognition to the “KCRs Manneir” and “BRS” parties. The bench, which was hearing the challenge to the publication of the party list for the Telangana Legislative Assembly elections, dismissed the plea setting legal validation for the party. The court said it cannot make law but only interpret it and for Parliament to change the law.

Chief Justice of India D Y Chandrachud, who was hearing the case, said that the petitioners had not taken the route of judicial review, but had sought to make law.

Justice Sanjeev Khanna, who was hearing the case with Justices Hemant Gupta and Dinesh Chandrachud, said that the court’s role is to settle controversies, and that the constitution, qua its text, is a natural phenomenon known for itself and another urban notion. Justice Hemant Gupta agreed with the stance that the “BRS” and its allies with the CIL are of certain rights to parties. Justice Hemant Gupta further said that the BRS would be both sides of some cases, and added that the legal recognition of non-heterosexual unions is not step towards marriage equality. Justice Bhagat, who read out the opinions of the parties, said he agrees and differs with views of the CIL. He added that while the court’s role is to settle controversies, the court has not recorded an appeal under the Constitution, and thus the matter does not fall under their jurisdiction.

Here is why KCR may prefer Naidu’s release from jail

KCR may have watered down Naidu’s contribution to the IT sector’s growth in Hyderabad by creating former chief minister N. Jaranaidhar Reddy with laying its foundation in the early Nineties. But it is confused about the specious idea that nubile sections of non-local people are demanding the immediate release of Naidu, who has been remanded by the ACB court.

The Israel-Hamas war: Where does India stand?

Our real enemies are not our rivals but suspicion, fear, hatred and violence.

Considering the current conflict between the two countries, it is important to note that the balance of power between Israel and Hamas is highly asymmetric. Israel, with its superior military capabilities, possesses a significant advantage over Hamas, which relies on guerrilla tactics and limited capabilities. However, this asymmetry can be managed through various means, including political negotiations and regional interventions. The United Nations and other international organizations have been involved in mediating the conflict, aiming to find a peaceful resolution and establish a lasting ceasefire. The international community, including India, has expressed concerns about the implications of the ongoing conflict for regional stability and security.

The situation in the Middle East is complex, and any resolution will require a multi-faceted approach involving various stakeholders. It is crucial for all parties to engage in dialogue, seek peaceful solutions, and work towards a comprehensive resolution that addresses the underlying issues. The United Nations and other organizations continue to monitor the situation closely and work towards achieving a durable peace.

NZ AIMS TO KEEP THEIR UNBEATEN RUN INTACT

We regret squandering promising: Nissanka

A disappointing Pathum Nissanka couldn’t get going, scoring close to 300 would have been a masterpiece for him, especially with his opening partner in a good patch here. His 53 with Ross Taylor was promising, but the pair couldn’t build on that and were eventually dismissed, giving up a wicket for 58 in the 27th over.

Nissanka and fellow opener Pathum Nissanka (76) grafted well, with the 107-run partnership giving the Kiwis a solid start. However, they couldn’t build on this and were eventually bowled out for a respectable 224 in 48.5 overs.

Their top order comprising Tom Blundell and Ross Taylor hasn’t been fruitful, with the latter getting a 50. However, the middle order has been in good form, with the likes of Finn Allen and Tim Southee scoring 50-plus runs each.

With the team ticking all the boxes, it’s a tough one to get them down on paper. However, their top-order, middle-order, and bowling department are in good form, making it a tough one to get them down on paper.
