India's inaugural Regional Rapid Transit System (RRTS) service was recently launched between Ghaziabad and the Delhi Metro, connecting the Delhi-Ghaziabad-Meerut corridor. The service is spearheaded by the National Capital Region Transport Authority (NCRT), with the Delhi Metro handling operations.

Upon full implementation, the RRTS service, designed with an aerodynamic shape, will be every 5-10 minutes, making it an efficient, swift, secure, and comfortable mode of travel. The service will have two trains running on parallel tracks, with 15-minute intervals.

The RRTS trains are equipped with a range of passenger comfort features such as tinted windows, air conditioning, and charging facilities for mobile phones. Additionally, each train will have a seating capacity of 400 passengers, offering wider seats, increased legroom, and coat hangers, along with vending machines for added convenience.

Officia officials have indicated that the trains will ply this route, accommodating up to 1,500 passengers per hour, extending from Noida to Ghaziabad and beyond. The RRTS trains are expected to be a major component of India's urban transport infrastructure.

The journey typically takes over 35 minutes by road. Upon full implementation, the project will boast two multi-modal transport systems, offering commuters a seamless travel experience.

The initial phases of the Delhi-Ghaziabad-Meerut corridor will be ready by the year 2018, with the full network expected by 2022. The RRTS service will run from 8 am to 8 pm daily.

Development of Argumentative skills with Moot Courts

In a bid to improve the argumentative skills of budding lawyers, law colleges and schools across India are choosing ‘Moot Court’ competitions.

Developing argumentative skills with Moot Courts

T he rivalry of the law universities features dynamic performances. Their debates and discussion are the palaver, their pulpitory prose, the marks scored in, playing a crucial role in determining the grade in which the students stand out of the 100 degree examination. Personified in the legal literature of law colleges monikers that watch over them are.

"Though most Courts are as old as history itself, Mohanlal v. C.M. (Olympian)," said Prof V R Jain, principal, Government Law College, Thiruvananthapuram, who successfully conducted an all India Moot Court event in his college in the last week of September. Though planned as a low profile event the Thiruvananthapuram Moot Court Competition saw 43 teams from different parts of the country walk away with the faucet and in the midst of a pandemic, the lawyers walked away with the trophy. The competition was a unique competition, as participating undergraduates debated over one subject that was the question of law with drugs and pace. No one can deny a system where law background what most people want it in court about, chances are that you will get a group of well-informed individuals because the system is designed to be well-informed. Moot Courts are held in law and college in all universities, and in many, these are the backwaters of the legal system. For those interested in the field of law, Moot Courts are a great opportunity to improve their oral communication skills and develop critical thinking abilities.

Muslim parents called to a report after being found with their child

United Nations (PTI): The Israeli army killed a 5-year-old Palestinian boy in the besieged Gaza Strip before dawn yesterday, Palestinian officials said. The young child was among several Palestinian civilians killed by the Israeli army in Gaza yesterday, according to the Palestinian Red Crescent Society.

The attack was carried out by the Israeli army as part of a military operation in response to yesterday's rocket attack from Hamas militants in the Gaza Strip.

The Israeli army said the attack was launched in retaliation for yesterday's rocket attack from Hamas militants in the Gaza Strip.

Hamas militants have been engaged in a series of rocket attacks against Israeli cities, following a tense situation in the region. The Israeli army has also responded with military operations to target Hamas militants in Gaza.

The Palestinian Red Crescent Society said that at least 13 people were killed in the Israeli army attack on the Gaza Strip yesterday. The organization said that the attack was the result of a rocket attack launched from Gaza towards Israeli territory.

The Israeli army has been engaged in a series of military operations in Gaza in response to rocket attacks launched by Hamas militants. The tension in the region has escalated in recent months, following a series of clashes between Israeli forces and Palestinian militants.

The attack came amid rising tensions in the region, with the Israeli army continuing to carry out military operations in Gaza.

The Palestinian Red Crescent Society called on the international community to take urgent action to end the violence in Gaza and to call for an immediate cease-fire.
Kenya seeks more loans despite rising public debt

In a letter to the editor, the writer comments on the growing public debt in Kenya and the potential risks it poses to the country's economic stability. The writer argues that while the government needs to borrow to fund essential projects, it is crucial to ensure that the loans are used efficiently and that the country's financial sustainability is maintained. The letter highlights the importance of transparency and accountability in the borrowing process to avoid future economic crises.

The writer also praises the efforts of the government in diversifying the economy and reducing the dependency on foreign loans. The writer suggests that the government should focus on generating more domestic revenue through tax reforms and efficient mass transit systems. The writer concludes by calling for a balanced approach to borrowing that prioritizes long-term economic growth and sustainability.

Experts see WPI inflation rising by half this fiscal

The Wholesale Price Index (WPI) in India is likely to rise in the second half of the ongoing fiscal year on account of global commodity prices, experts said on Monday.

Inflation in food products, particularly grains and vegetables, could lead to an increase in international oil prices, geopolitical conflicts in Russia and the Middle East could add to overall inflation, they said. Economists were of the view that a cut in the repo rate by Reserve Bank of India (RBI) will be a challenge.

The survey showed that the inflation rate is expected to go up to 6.3 per cent in the first half of next fiscal year, said Sivasubramanian Ramann, managing director and principal economist of SBI Research.

However, the survey showed that the inflation rate is expected to reduce to 4 per cent by the end of the fiscal year, he said.

"The survey showed that inflation is expected to go up to 5.7 per cent in the first half of the next fiscal year, which is below the RBI's target. In the second half, inflation is expected to go up to 6.3 per cent, which is also below the RBI's target," he said.

Sivasubramanian Ramann told NDTV that the survey showed that inflation is expected to go up to 5.7 per cent in the first half of the next fiscal year, which is below the RBI's target. In the second half, inflation is expected to go up to 6.3 per cent, which is also below the RBI's target.
