Modi lauds BJP workers

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

Calling upon Uttar Pradesh BJP and West Bengal booth workers to focus on young voters and women, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday said Opposition leaders develop cold feet seeing the enthusiasm of BJP workers, and asked them to work with a resolve to break all old poll records. While virtually interacting with BJP workers from West Bengal through the NaMo app, Modi said the entire country has witnessed how the Trinamool Congress (TMC) has resorted to violence to stop BJP workers, but the saffron workers fearlessly stood their ground. Modi said he remains committed to taking action against corruption, emphasising that those engaged in corruption have two options left — jail or bail. Addressing a digital rally of Uttar Pradesh BJP workers at 22,648 booths in 10 Lok Sabha seats, Modi said new records are being made in polls due to the hard work of BJP workers. “The soul of victory in elections lies in the victory of the polling booth,” he said while stressing that they “will have to work with a resolve to break all old records of the polling booths”. The Prime Minister also advised BJP booth workers to remain active on social media and make reels of beneficiaries as this would help fetch votes. Modi also personally spoke to some of the party workers and sought information about the activities of the party. The Prime Minister emphasised the role of BJP karyakartas as canvassers, urging them to enlighten people about financial transactions and apprise them of the Government’s welfare schemes. He asked the workers to inform farmers that the Modi Government had sent enough money in their bank accounts which earlier used to be siphoned off by middlemen. In his 44-minute interaction with booth in-charges, panna pramukhs and workers, the Prime Minister instructed booth in-charges and workers to visit villages and interact with voters. Just distributing pamphlets will be of no use, he cautioned. The Prime Minister directed them to inform voters while visiting their homes about the Government schemes and their benefits. “If they are not getting the benefits, tell them about Modi’s guarantee of ensuring benefits to them. “Our target is to add 370 votes per booth compared to previous elections, with focus on women and first-time voters,” he said. Modi asked the BJP workers to focus on youth voters, particularly first-time voters, and make them aware of the corruption and other misdeeds of the previous Governments. Referring to the construction of the Ram temple in Ayodhya, he said now Ramlalla is seated in the temple, Article 370 has been abolished and law against triple talaq is in place. “He said the law against triple talaq has given security to Muslim families. Earlier, elderly persons in families remained worried that after marriage their daughters might return home due to triple talaq,” he said, adding, “when intentions are clear, good results come”. This time voters are saying “Phir ek baar Modi sarkar” (Modi Government once again), the Prime Minister said. During the programme, the PM spoke to booth heads of Etah, Agra, Hathras and Bareilly and directed them to involve party supporters as campaigners to achieve the target.

Congress launches Ghar Ghar Guarantee campaign

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

To woo the voters particularly unemployed youth and women, the Congress on Wednesday launched the party’s ‘Ghar Ghar Guarantee’ campaign, an outreach programme that aims reaching the doorsteps of eight crore families over the next few weeks with a message about what the party would do for the people if it comes to power. Among the guarantees is a guaranteed apprenticeship with stipend of Rs one lakh per annum for every educated youth, Rs one lakh every year to the woman head of every poor family, loan waiver and legal guarantee of MSP in accordance with the Swaminathan formula for farmers, Rs 400 minimum wage which would apply to MNREGA, too, and caste census. The guarantee card represents the Congress’s main election plank for the coming Lok Sabha polls. It seeks to set a narrative that the people are in great distress and facing injustice in various ways, and how the Congress and the INDIA Bloc would seek to alleviate their problems. It also runs counter to the BJP’s ‘Modi ki Guarantee’ campaign. The Congress’s poll pitch is centred around “Panch Nyay” or five pillars of justice — “Yuva Nyay”, “Naari Nyay”, “Kisaan Nyay”, “Shramik Nyay” and “Hissedari Nyay” — as well as the guarantees it has given to people under these heads. The grand old party is scheduled to release its Lok Sabha poll manifesto on Friday, with its top leaders addressing mega rallies in Jaipur and Hyderabad the next day.

Centre issues high risk warning for Apple users amid standoff

DEEPAK KUMAR JHA ■
NEW DELHI

A “virtual” confrontation between the Centre and US-based tech giant Apple escalated on Wednesday after the Government agencies issued a ‘high risk’ warning for users of Apple’s iPhones, MacBooks, iPads and Vision Pro headsets highlighting a critical vulnerability, identified in connection to “remote code execution” in various Apple products. The Indian Computer Emergency Response Team (CERT-In) has issued a high severity warning for users of Apple products in India. The agency has found multiple vulnerabilities that could allow hackers to access information on a user’s device. This year a massive controversy erupted after some Opposition leaders claimed that they had received a message from Apple that the users iPhone could become a victim of State sponsored hackers which the Government rejected and a related probe is underway.

HC reserves order on plea by Kejriwal

NEW DELHI: The Delhi High Court on Wednesday reserved its verdict on a petition by Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal challenging his arrest by the Enforcement Directorate in a money-laundering case linked to the alleged excise policy scam. “I am going to reserve judgement,” said Justice Swarana Kanta Sharma after hearing the senior counsel appearing for the AAP leader as well as the agency. The AAP national convener, who arrested by the ED on March 21, questioned the “timing” of his arrest and said it was in contravention of the basic structure of the Constitution, including free and fair elections and level playing field.

EC bolsters border security ahead of Lok Sabha elections

RAJESH KUMAR ■
NEW DELHI

With the first round of Lok Sabha elections due within a fortnight time, the Election Commission (EC) on Wednesday directed the State authorities to initiate strict vigil along international borders like India-China, India-Nepal, India-Pakistan in close coordination with security agencies like Border Security Force (BSF), Assam Rifles (AR), Sashastra Seema Bal (SSB), Indo Tibetan Border Police (ITBP) Coast Guard and intelligence wings of Intelligence Bureau and external intelligence agency. The Commission has directed Central agencies to strict vigil along Indo-Myanmar border by Assam Rifles; Indo Nepal Border by SSB especially in areas having porous border with Nepal; Indo-Bangladesh border and western borders by BSF; Indo-China border by ITBP, and in States with coastal area by Indian Coast Guard. These directions came after the EC meeting with all States/Union Territories (UTs) to review and assess the law and order situation, prevention of illicit activities, seizures and strict vigil across inter-State and international borders in the ongoing Lok Sabha and State Legislative Assemblies polls for a free, fair, peaceful and inducement free elections. India shares borders with Pakistan, Nepal, Bangladesh and China. Nepal shares a border of over 1,850 km with five Indian States — Sikkim, West Bengal, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand. Myanmar border shares a border of 1,643 km in length and runs from the tripoint with China in the north to the tripoint with Bangladesh in the south.

Bangladesh shares a 4,096-kilometre-long international border, the fifth-longest land border in the world. India and China share a 3,800 km (2,400 mile) border — much of it poorly demarcated — over which they also fought a bloody war in 1962 while Pakistan shares 3,323 km. Recent violence and turmoil in Manipur and its ramifications for the conduct of a peaceful election were also addressed, with the EC urging for swift action to assist internally-displaced persons and ensure their participation in the electoral process, the EC said. “The purpose of the combined review was to bring all concerned stakeholders together on the same platform for a seamless coordination and cooperation amongst officials of the neighbouring States/UTs along with central agencies guarding the borders. The commission, in detail, reviewed critical issues pertaining to each State/UT,” the EC said in a statement. The commission has directed SSB to keep strict watch over international borders with Nepal and Bangladesh for any illicit activity, especially before 72 hours of the poll. The poll body has also directed Assam Rifles to hold regular joint security coordination meetings with State Police, Central Armed Police Force “Ensure area familiarisation for newly inducted CAPF companies in coordination with civil administration and establish Joint Check Posts in coordination with State Police,” it said.

Witty cartoon by BJP on the Gandhis injects humour in UP poll battle

BISWAJEET BANERJEE ■
LUCKNOW

As the electoral battle heats up in Uttar Pradesh, political adversaries are resorting to unconventional means to target each other, with social media emerging as a new battleground. In a recent development, the Uttar Pradesh BJP launched a satirical attack on the Congress leadership through caricatures shared on its social media platform ‘X’, targeting Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi. One of the cartoons portrayed the Gandhis siblings with the caption, “Aa Ab bhag chaley” (come on, let’s run!), accompanied by the names of Raebareli and Amethi. The cartoon shows that the sister-brother duo is walking away from Amethi and Raebareli with a trolley bag. There was a mixed reaction as some netizens hailed this cartoon while some criticised it. Some said, “They are going on a tour to Italy” while one questioned the cartoon and wrote, “sharafat bhi ghok pe gaye”. These constituencies have historically been strongholds of the Gandhi family. The move stirred a flurry of reactions on social media, with opinions divided between support for the BJP’s tactic and criticism of its approach. The timing of these cartoons is noteworthy, especially amidst speculation regarding Rahul’s candidacy from Amethi and Priyanka’s potential contest from Raebareli. While Sonia Gandhi has opted out of the electoral fray in favour of a Rajya Sabha seat, the Congress is yet to officially announce the candidacies for these key constituencies.

Vote from home initiative for citizens aged 85 and above

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

The Election Commission’s initiative to introduce the ‘Vote From Home’ scheme, specifically targeting citizens aged 85 and above and those with more than 40 per cent disabilities, has sparked a diverse array of opinions and experiences among eligible voters. Take the case of Preeti Monga, a 60-year-old totally visually impaired person and the CEO of Silver Linings - an organisation dedicated to advocating for inclusive education — who acknowledges the intrinsic value of physically visiting the polling booth as an act of inclusion within mainstream society. “As far as I am concerned, I would prefer to visit the booth and vote because that is what is called inclusion. I want to be a part of mainstream society as much as possible. However people with disabilities (PwDs) who have difficulty in reaching the polling booth can be due to anything, so I think postal ballots are wonderful. It shows that they are not excluded from very important activities. That will be wonderful,” she said. For Monga, the opportunity to exercise one’s voting rights with complete dignity, regardless of physical limitations, is paramount. Also, searing heat as predicted by the IMD may restrict many PwDs and old people to visit the polling booths, she said. However, she appreciated the

EC for promotion of the scheme among those for whom it is meant. Samuel Mani, a 47-year-old with Cerebral Palsy shares his enthusiasm for the ‘Vote From Home’ option. “This means my old mother who is bed-ridden can also participate in the world’s largest democratic exercise. By bringing the voting process directly to their doorstep, the scheme ensures that even those confined to their homes due to disabilities can contribute to shaping the nation’s future,” he said in broken words.

However, as far as he is concerned, he would prefer to be at the ‘happening venue’ on the D-Day along with his old father (83) and his wife Meenu Mani. The founders of an NGO ‘Yes, We Can’, the couple have similar neurological conditions and rely on wheelchairs for mobility. Rajesh Singh, an 87-year-old retired teacher residing in Mumbai too was equally enthusiastic at the ‘Vote From Home’ scheme. He cited age-related health challenges that render visiting polling booths as a daunting task.

Cooch Behar braces up for Modi, Mamata rallies

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Even as Cooch Behar in North Bengal braced up for two back-to-back rallies of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, another political stalwart from the State Adhir Chowdhury, the Pradesh Congress president, said the Left-Congress was fast coming up as a "third force" in Bengal offering the people with a third option. Modi is likely to campaign from junior Home Minister Nisith Pramanik at Rash Leela Ground in this small princely town once ruled by the Maharaja of Cooch Behar and the ancestor of Maharani Gayatri Devi who was later married off to a prince of Rajasthan. This, whereas the Chief Minister's rally will precede that of the Prime Minister's, sources in the administration said adding Modi's meeting is slated at 3 pm. This is the first rally of the Prime Minister in Bengal after the elections were declared. Cooch Behar has become a prestige constituency and a hotbed TMC-BJP clashes. Both Pramanik and local TMC MLA from Dinhatia — a sub-divisional town in Cooch Behar and State minister — Udayan Guha have been involved in verbal exchange of words often causing the TMC-BJP clashes even in the presence of the two ministers.

Guha has apparently been entrusted by the Chief Minister to win Cooch Behar back for the TMC which has nominated Jagdish Basunia a Rajbangshi candidate and an MLA. Once a Left stronghold from 1977 to 2009 Cooch Behar was won by the TMC in 2009 and 2016 (by-elections). Subsequently it went into the hands of the BJP when Pramanik — who had left the TMC to join the saffron party — won the seat in 2019. Meanwhile, PCC president Adhir Chowdhury on Wednesday iterated that the Left and the Congress would jointly come up as a third force in Bengal. "There is no doubt about the fact that the Left and the Congress are jointly coming up as a third and alternative force in Bengal," he said removing doubts that the unlike the Left voters the supporters of the Congress do not always transfer their votes to the Marxists. "There have been allegations that the Congress voters do not always reciprocate to the Left supporters voting for the Congress ... but that is a thing of the past ... with the change of time people have realized that there is no way that the TMC and the BJP can be kept away other than joining hands ... so according to changing times the Congress voters too will vote for the Left," he said.

PDP to go solo on all three seats in JK

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Leaving INDIA Bloc in tatters, the Chief of Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) and former Chief Minister Mehbooba Mufti Wednesday 'explicitly' turned down the proposal of Omar Abdullah to remain united in their fight against the BJP-led Government at the centre during the Lok Sabha polls. Addressing a press conference in Srinagar, PDP Chief announced her party's decision to go alone and contest against the National Conference candidates on all three Kashmir valley Lok Sabha seats. With this final announcement, PDP has finally sealed the fate of the INDIA bloc in Jammu and Kashmir. On Tuesday Omar said that the People's Democratic Party may not field candidates against his party in the Kashmir Valley and that both parties are integral part of the INDIA alliance. The announcement by the PDP to go alone has also left behind the Congress leadership in the lurch. The arch-rivals -- National Conference and the PDP were both banking on the support of the Congress party in the polls. In the coming days, the Congress party is expected to take a final stand on whether they wish to remain non-partisan or willing to support either of the two during the Lok Sabha polls. Meanwhile, addressing a press conference in Srinagar on Wednesday Mehbooba Mufti told reporters that the NC has left her party with no other option other than to contest the election on the three Lok Sabha seats in Kashmir. "They (NC) have left no option for us other than to field candidates and contest the elections," Mufti said. The party's parliamentary board would take a final call on the candidates, she added. In response, Omar Abdullah maintained that the PDP was going back on the understanding reached between the constituents of the People's Alliance for Gupkar Declaration (PAGD) for the District Development Council (DDC) elections in 2020. "What can I say about this? It is their own will. How can I stop them? We announced candidates for the three seats of Kashmir based on their formula," the former chief minister of J-K said.

SDPI offers support to Congress led UDF in Kerala

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ KOCHI

The Social Democratic Party of India (SDPI), the political outfit launched by the banned Popular Front of India, announced on Tuesday that it would offer unconditional support to the Congress-led UDF in the Lok Sabha election. This was disclosed by Ashraf Moulavi, president of the SDPI while addressing the media on Tuesday. "There was no discussion between the UDF and the SDPI in this regard. Our party is of the view that the Congress is the only political party in India which could take in Hindutva and that is the reason why we took a decision like this," said Moulavi. He said in the all India level, it is Congress which is leading the battle against the Hindutva forces that include the RSS and the BJP. Even the CPI(M), the ruling party in Kerala is a constituent of the Congress-led INDIA alliance in the national level, said the SDPI chief. The SDPI has emerged as a strong political group despite the ban on PFI. But the party may not be able to score seats on its own if contested separately and chances are that the anti-BJP votes would get split. The Congress, which was caught in a Catch-22 position following the public announcement by the SDPI, chose not to react to the decision. M M Hassan, the president of the KPCC, told reporters that there was nothing surprising in the SDPI's declaration. "It is for them to take a decision regarding the support to be extended to any political parties. We have not approached them with request to help us," said Hassan.

Vote from home initiative...

For individuals like Singh, the convenience and accessibility afforded by the option to cast their vote from the comfort of their homes represent a significant relief, eliminating the need to rely on external assistance for voting, he said, echoing many from the sector. In contrast, Neha Patel, a 45-year-old individual with physical disabilities from New Delhi, harboured reservations about the concept. While recognising its potential for convenience, Patel voices concerns regarding privacy breaches and potential coercion within the confines of the home environment. The sanctity of the voting process, she contends, could be compromised in settings where external influences hold sway. Sanjay Sharma, a person with a 40 per cent disability, called upon the Election Commission to address logistical challenges and provide adequate support to facilitate seamless voting procedures for elderly and disabled citizens, thereby ensuring their full participation in the electoral process. Having encountered difficulties accessing polling booths in previous elections due to mobility issues, Anita Singh (70) welcomed the initiative as a positive stride towards promoting greater engagement among marginalised communities. The initiative would allow more than 85 lakh senior citizens and 88.4 lakh persons with disabilities to cast their votes. Dr Satendra Singh, a well-known disability rights activist, shared about the process of the scheme, that entails booth level officers reaching out to eligible voters within a specified timeframe, accompanied by a team comprising poll officials, a videographer, and security personnel. Ensuring timely response to these visits is paramount, as failure to do so could result in the loss of the opportunity to cast one's vote, whether through postal ballot or Electronic Voting Machine (EVM), he echoed many enthusiastic voters from the sector.

Mamata interacts with tea workers in North Bengal

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Desperately in need to wrest back the lost seats of North Bengal, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday engaged in public relations exercise meeting tea workers, preparing hot mountain brew at tea shops and learning a trick or two about how the Gorkhas prepare their steaming momos. All these while she spoke to the random villagers at Chaulsha and Lataguri the two most sought after destinations of tea tourists and forest and mountain lovers. At Ivil Tea estate a leisurely

Chief Minister joined hands with the women plantation workers and plucked fresh leaves while gathering information in the midst about their socio-economic conditions. Apparently not keen to rely on the ground reports from the bureaucrats and the party leaders Banerjee chose to inquire things for herself even as she asked the people, particularly the women about their financial situations. "Didi (Chief Minister) asked them about their daily chores trying to know in between their income levels," said a source close Gautam Deb a minister from North Bengal adding, "she also tried to learn the process of tea harvesting from the workers who were plucking tea leaves." "She asked them whether they got the benefit of the government schemes like Kanyashree, Laxmir Bhandar," he said. She was told about the elephants and leopards that often venture inside the tea estates, sources said. At a tea stall outside the plantation she spoke to a group of villagers about whether the government officials were available round the year. Subsequently TMC's official handle posted how the Chief Minister "brings warmth and conversation to a local tea stall, embracing the spirit of the residents over a steaming cup of tea in Jalpaiguri," and added how she was "connecting with the brilliant young minds in Jalpaiguri. Their innocence and curiosity ignite our optimism for a better future!"

Ajai Rai, the Uttar Pradesh Congress president, emphasised the sentiment among the electorate in Amethi and Raebareli, asserting that the people desire the Gandhis to contest from these constituencies, given their historical significance. Rakesh Tripathi, spokesperson for the BJP in Uttar Pradesh, defended the party's cartoons, suggesting that the Gandhi family's reluctance to contest from these constituencies indicates a retreat from the State. Tripathi pointed to Rahul's previous abandonment of Amethi and speculated that the impact of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath is compelling the Gandhis to shy away from Uttar Pradesh. He hinted at a potential exodus of prominent Opposition leaders from the State. Responding to these jabs, senior Congress leader Amarnath Agarwal questioned the BJP's narrative, highlighting Modi's candidacy from Varanasi in Uttar Pradesh. He emphasised the national stature of Priyanka and Rahul, asserting their capability to contest elections from any part of India. Agarwal dismissed the BJP's insinuations, questioning whether Modi would dare to contest from Tamil Nadu, underlining the popularity of the Gandhis nationwide. As political rhetoric intensifies and social media becomes an increasingly potent tool, the electoral landscape in Uttar Pradesh continues to witness unconventional manoeuvres and sharp exchanges between rival parties.

The commission underscored the importance of strict vigilance to curb the movement of contraband items, including narcotics, liquor, arms and explosives, across the international borders. It also sought identification of the entry and exit points for the movement of liquor and cash along the borders and curbing of illegal ganja cultivation in some States. The commission reviewed the support from the Indian Air Force and State Civil Aviation departments for sorties to ferry polling teams in challenging regions of 11 States, including Arunachal Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and Maharashtra. Directions were given for adequate security measures to safeguard political functionaries and poll candidates based on their threat perception, particularly in states like Chhattisgarh and the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir. Top officials of Central forces, the Coast Guard, State Chief Secretaries and representatives of the Defence Ministry and railways attended the hybrid meeting. Key issues discussed during the meeting included the need for enhanced coordination among neighboring States/UTs, diligent deployment of CAPF provided adequately in all States/UTs; logistical support for movement and transport on CAPF personnel in bordering poll going State/UT; identification and monitoring of flashpoints in border areas that may have ramifications on the election process; preemptive measures to address communal tensions based on past experiences, and the imperative of securing porous borders against illegal activities. The commission directed States and UTs to share intelligence on criminals and antisocial elements between bordering districts. "Sealing of inter-State borders for preventing bogus voting during the last 48 hours; Action against absconders, history sheeters, criminals involved in election related offences and adequate security cover to political functionaries/ candidates based on threat perception," the EC said in its directive. It further said strict vigil along helipads, airports, bus stations and railway stations. "Strict action against liquor and drug ginpings; curtail flow of country made liquor; establish forward and backward linkages to plug it systemically," the EC said.

The BJP workers from Sambhal, Badaun, Bareilly, Aonla, Etah, Hathras, Agra, Fatehpur Sikri, Firozabad, and Mainpuri Lok Sabha seats were involved in the interaction. While appreciating the workers, the PM said, "I am happy to see your enthusiasm in this meeting. I am sure that the leaders of other parties would develop cold feet after seeing the level of your dedication." Lastly, he said, "I am confident that all the BJP workers of UP have worked hard to ensure victory in every seat and each polling booth." The Prime Minister slammed the TMC and Congress-Left alliance fighting against each other in Bengal polls as all the "superficial fight" as all the three parties are the same. "There is a superficial conflict between the Left, TMC and Congress in Bengal. They are all allies. This is an alliance of the corrupt. Those parties which are friends in other states, act as foes here. Their fight is not against each other, but against the BJP, as the BJP government is acting against their corruption. Let them do whatever they want as Modi will not stop taking action against corruption," he said. "The corrupt have come together and keep abusing Modi. For these corrupts, there are only two options left - jail or bail," he said. Referring to poll violence, Modi said electoral violence is the biggest challenge in Bengal. "The biggest challenge in West Bengal elections is electoral violence, but the Election Commission has made arrangements for the security and safety of the people. We all also monitor the events that unfold in West Bengal. We have to reach every voter's house and encourage them to vote fearlessly," he said. Modi claimed that before every election, the TMC tries to stop the BJP workers by hook or by crook. "The country has seen how BJP karyakartas have worked despite the threats. The TMC tries to stop the BJP by resorting to violence. The country has also seen how BJP workers fearlessly stood in their booths. We are confident of winning more seats this time," he said. Lauding the role of the BJP workers in serving the people of the state, Modi said, "It is due to these sustained efforts by the BJP workers that the faith of the people in the BJP is increasing with every passing day." "It is laudable how BJP karyakartas of West Bengal manage to work in a hostile environment. Our workers are putting themselves in danger and working for the people. I am confident that time we will win more seats than we had won the last time," he added.

Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge launched the campaign in the North East Delhi parliamentary constituency in the national Capital by distributing the Congress Guarantee card, which lists out five Nyay and 25 guarantees. Congress workers over the next few weeks will reach out to eight crore families and distribute the guarantee cards printed in 14 different languages. The guarantees were announced by Kharge and former Congress president Rahul Gandhi during the recently concluded Bharat Jodo Nyay Yatra. At the launch of the campaign in Usmanpur area of North East Delhi, which was, at one time, the Congress's stronghold and which predominantly comprises resettlement colonies, Kharge said, "We are distributing this guarantee card to take our Panch Nyay Pachees Guarantee to the people. All Congress leaders and workers will tell the people about what our alliance government will do when it comes to power."

"Modi talks about Modi ki Guarantee, but his guarantees never reach the people, they are never fulfilled," Kharge said. Under the "Yuva Nyay", the party has promised "Bharti Bharosa" -- 30 lakh new Central Government jobs, according to a jobs calendar. Under "Pehli Naukri Pakki", the Congress has promised a one-year paid apprenticeship for all educated youngsters at Rs 1 lakh a year or Rs 8,500 a month. It has promised a law to ensure that Government recruitment examination question papers are not leaked and also, better working conditions and social security for gig workers. Under its "Yuva Roshni" guarantee, the party has promised Rs 5,000-crore start-up fund for youngsters. As part of "Nari Nyay", the Congress has promised the "Mahalakshmi" guarantee of Rs 1 lakh a year for a woman in every poor family. It has promised 50 per cent reservation for women in new Central Government jobs and doubling the Centre's salary contribution for all ASHA, anganwadi and mid-day meal workers. The party has promised "Adhikar Maitri" in every village to ensure that women get their legal rights. It has also promised to double the number of hostels for working women. Under "Kisaan Nyay", the Congress has promised a legal guarantee to an MSP for crops following the Swaminathan formula, and a standing loan-waiver commission for farmers, if it comes to power. It has also guaranteed insurance payment within 30 days of crop loss and a stable import-export policy to benefit farmers. The party has also promised no GST on inputs for farming. The party has promised a national minimum wage of Rs 400 a day, including for all MGNREGA workers. Under "Hissedari Nyay", the Congress has promised a social, economic and caste census. It has also promised removing the 50 per cent cap on SC, ST and OBC reservation through a constitutional amendment and a special budget for the SCs and STs, equal to their share of the population.

CERT-In or Apple to take proactive measures against emerging threats and ensure the ongoing security of your devices. According to sources, Kejriwal said by accessing his mobile phone data and chats, the ED would be privy to details of AAP's "election strategy" and alliances. In 2016, Apple CEO Tim Cook had told his employees that the refusal to cooperate with a US Government to unlock an iPhone used by Syed Farook, one of the two shooters in the San Bernardino attack, was a "defence of civil liberties".

Union IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw in the midst of Budget Session had asked the Opposition to submit their phones and cooperate in investigation to find the truth over Apple allegedly sending a message to them about "State-sponsored hackers" trying to attack their iPhones. While Vaishnaw asserted that only making allegations will not work and there must be cooperation with the law-enforcement agencies, at the same time Apple released a clarification such advisories have been sent to people in 150 countries.

Interestingly while other confrontations between the Centre and social platforms like Facebook, Twitter (now X), YouTube were sorted out after the latter 'conceded' to all the Government's directives, Apple has maintained that helping any probe agencies world over including the FBI to crack data of its users will set a dangerous precedent. The latest confrontation between the Centre and Apple comes a day after the Enforcement Directorate (ED) request to 'unlock' the data of the iPhone of liquorgate scam accused Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal was turned down by the iPhone manufacturer. The CERT advisory said the vulnerability affects a range of Apple software and hardware, including Apple Safari versions prior to 17.4.1, Apple macOS Ventura versions prior to 13.6.6, Apple macOS Sonoma versions prior to 14.4.1, Apple visionOS versions prior to 1.1.1, Apple iOS and iPadOS versions prior to 17.4.1, and Apple iOS and iPadOS versions prior to 16.7.7. This vulnerability poses a significant threat as it allows remote attackers to execute arbitrary code on the targeted systems. The exploit leverages an out-of-bounds write issue in WebRTC and CoreMedia, enabling attackers to compromise devices remotely. According to the advisory, users of iPhone XS, iPad Pro 12.9-inch, iPad Pro 10.5-inch, iPad Pro 11-inch, iPad Air, iPad, and iPad mini are susceptible if their devices are running iOS and iPadOS versions prior to 17.4.1. Additionally, iPhone 8, iPhone 8 Plus, iPhone X, iPad 5th generation, iPad Pro 9.7-inch, and iPad Pro 12.9-inch 1st generation users are at risk if their devices are not updated to iOS and iPadOS versions 16.7.7 or later. Court reserves verdict on Kejriwal plea against ED arrest

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI
The Delhi High Court on Wednesday reserved its verdict on Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal's plea seeking immediate release from the custody of the Enforcement Directorate in the liquorgate policy scam case. The team Kejriwal claimed that his arrest was aimed at "demolishing his party" before the Lok Sabha election and the agency was "trying to play" a "fixed match" while the ED said "someone who loots the country" cannot claim immunity citing polls. Kejriwal's counsel further stated the arrest was based on uncorroborated statements of co-accused turned approvers.

subsequent remand to the ED in the case till March 28 after hearing both the sides at length. During the arguments, Senior advocate Dr Abhishek Manu Singhvi, who appeared for Kejriwal, said, "This case reeks of timing issues which ensures that Kejriwal is unable to participate in democratic activity and to try to disintegrate the AAP before the first vote is cast." During the hearing in the Delhi high court, additional solicitor general (ASG) SV Raju, argued on behalf of ED saying that Kejriwal has "so much influence and has copies of chargsheets, relied and unrelayed documents". The ASG resorted to clever word play using Kejriwal's party name, AAP to argue that everybody has to be treated equally and someone who loots the country cannot claim immunity citing upcoming elections. "Aam aadmi has to go behind bars if he has committed a crime but because you are a Chief Minister you can't be arrested? You will loot the country but no one can touch you because the elections are coming?" the ASG asked. In response to Kejriwal's argument that the arrest was politically motivated in view of the Lok Sabha elections, the ASG said, "Take a case of terrorist who is also a politician. He blows up army vehicle and says I want to contest elections so you can't touch me? What kind of argument is this," the ASG asked. He further said that whether the statements made by witnesses against Kejriwal are true or not is a matter of trial. "Whether the statements are to be believed or not to be believed is a matter of trial. The Court cannot substitute itself in the place of the investigating officer. The statements of witnesses... there are statements to show that outsiders were involved from the drafting of the policy to its formulation," it was submitted. Notably the ASG also said that a person responsible for the affairs of the party would be liable and his personal role might not be relevant. "Forget his role, role is not required to be looked at. What is required to be looked at is that he was responsible for the affairs of the company/party." "We have demonstrated that Arvind Kejriwal was responsible for the affairs of company (AAP) at the time when the offence of money laundering was committed. Tomorrow if we feel that others were also responsible for it, we will make them responsible as well," the ASG said. Seeking the relief of Kejriwal's release, senior advocate Abhishek Singhvi contended there was no necessity to arrest the AAP politician in violation of the provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act a year and a half after the probe was initiated by ED in August 2022. "The timing of arrest reeks of basic structure issue," he said, adding the agency was suppressing exculpatory statements of witnesses while "turning the criminal law on its head" by adopting a "completely biased approach". He also said the "belated" statements of approvers Raghav Magunta and Sarath Reddy cannot be relied upon as the latter even donated to the ruling party through electoral bonds and the ED's argument of "non cooperation" by Kejriwal was a "nice prejudice". "This is reprehensible conduct by the prosecutor," Singhvi said. ED's senior counsel also said the petition has only assailed the first remand order passed against the petitioner, which sent him to the agency's custody till March 28, and not the subsequent orders. Raju said the agency was "not shooting in the dark" and there was income tax data, WhatsApp chats and statements of "hawala operators".

Delhi CM lost 4.5 kilograms: AAP; jail authorities dismiss claim

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

After the Aam Aadmi Party on Wednesday claimed that Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal lost 4.5 kg in jail and was not keeping well, the Tihar Jail authorities issued a statement countering the claim and said the Chief Minister's weight is unchanged at 65kg. Tihar jail sources have provided Kejriwal's weight since his arrival in the jail on April 1 while AAP claimed that the chief minister lost 4.5kgs since his arrest on March 21. "Arvind Kejriwal ji is a severe diabetic. Despite health issues, he remained engaged 24 hours a day in the service of the country. Since his arrest, Kejriwal's weight has decreased by 4.5 kg. This is very worrying. The BJP is putting his health at risk by putting him in jail," Atishi wrote in a post in X. "If something happens to Arvind Kejriwal, not just the whole country, even God will not forgive them, she added. When asked about Tihar authorities denying the claims about Kejriwal's health, they said, "He has been in Tihar for a couple of days. We are talking about the time since he has been arrested by the ED. In ED custody, his sugar levels went down, which was a severe health risk." However, the Tihar jail authorities, where Kejriwal is lodged till April 15, said his weight has been constant since his judicial custody began. A senior Tihar jail official said the chief minister's vitals are normal. Sources said on April 1, his weight was 65kg, sugar level 139 (RBS), and Blood Pressure (BP) was 120/82. On April 2, his weight remained 65kg whereas his sugar level found to 182 (RBS), and Blood pressure (BP) 121/83. On Wednesday, his weight remained 65kg, sugar level 140 (RBS), and blood pressure (BP) 116/82. Tihar jail authorities said, "Upon arrival on April 1, Kejriwal was examined by two doctors and all vitals were normal. Also, his weight is constant at 65 Kg, since his arrival in jail and till date. Home-cooked food is being provided as per court order. His vital statistics are normal." "Arvind Kejriwal ji is a severe diabetic. Despite health issues, he remained engaged 24 hours a day in the service of the country. Since his arrest, Kejriwal's weight has decreased by 4.5 kg. This is very worrying. The BJP is putting his health at risk by putting him in jail," she alleged in a post on X in Hindi. If something happens to Arvind Kejriwal, not just the whole country, even God will not forgive them, she added. Later, at a press conference, the Delhi minister said, "Today, the Delhi High Court will hear a plea challenging his arrest by ED. After the court decides on it, we will seek legal help over his health situation." Alleging that Kejriwal has been put behind bars in a "false case", Atishi said they are closely monitoring his health condition. "The whole country is watching. For a severely diabetic patient, if their sugar levels fall below 50 mg/dL, it is extremely worrying. While he was in ED custody, his sugar levels fell thrice, including one time when it came down to 46 mg/dL," she said. Atishi claimed that in the last 12 days, his weight has reduced by 4.5 kg, which poses a health risk. Addressing a press conference, AAP MLA Dilip Pandey reiterated Atishi's claims and said it was on record that Kejriwal's weight has gone down to 65 kg from 69.5 kg. "He is a severe diabetic. Diabetes is not just one disease. It can also lead to other severe illnesses. In the last 12 days, his weight has gone down from 69.5 kg to 65 kg. This is on record. We want that there should not be any irresponsible behaviour regarding his health," he said.

APP members to hold fast on April 7 in CM support

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Aam Aadmi Party members will gather at Jantar Mantar and stage a fast on April 7 to protest against the arrest of Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal. Announcing this, Delhi Minister and State unit convener of the AAP, Gopal Rai on Wednesday, gave a call for a nationwide fast against the arrest of the party national convener. "If you are against the arrest of Delhi Chief Minister, you can fast against it on April 7. You can hold the collective fast anywhere — at home, in your city, anywhere," he said. Rai said that the top leadership of the party was arrested with an "aim to finish AAP". "As the clock strikes 11 am on April 7th, Delhi's political landscape will witness a united front as ministers, MLAs, MPs, councilors, officials, and workers gather at Jantar Mantar to observe the collective fast, sending a powerful message of solidarity and defiance against authoritarianism.. This will be an open event and student organisations, farmer bodies, traders can come and participate in it," he said. Rai clarified that this is not a AAP's personal program, but a program for all patriotic people who love the country. "You may be associated with any political party or organization, but if you believe that the BJP and Modi government are engaging in tyranny, spreading terror in the country, committing injustices, and you want to raise your voice against it, then you should definitely participate in this collective fasting program," he said. Talking a dig at the AAP, Delhi BJP Spokesperson Praveen Shankar Kapoor has said that the announcement of samhuik upvas (fast) by Aam Aadmi Party to protest against arrest of Arvind Kejriwal is one more drama to be in news. "AAP tried to hold demonstrations against Kejriwal's arrest but could not gather Party workers anywhere in Delhi, then they held a Rally at Ramlila Maidan but 61

AAP MLAs couldn't muster 6100 people from Delhi, whatever little crowd came was from Punjab & Haryana," he said. Delhi BJP Spokesperson further said that the Samhuik Upvas (fast) too will prove a flop show with hardly any workers coming forward to join it like in the case of demonstration calls. "The Modi government, for the past two years, has been running a conspiracy to eliminate the AAP and Arvind Kejriwal by orchestrating a fake liquor scam in Delhi. The BJP has used the ED-CBI as its tools to systematically arrest each leader of the AAP based on false allegations. First, Satyendar Jain, then Manish Sisodia, and Sanjay Singh were arrested. Now, the Chief Minister of Delhi, Shri Arvind Kejriwal, has also been arrested," Rai said.

Jail directed to provide electric kettle, table, chair to Kejriwal

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

A city court on Wednesday directed Tihar jail authorities to provide an electric kettle to Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal in view of his "medical condition" and a table and a chair for reading books. The court had on April 1 sent Kejriwal to judicial custody till April 15 in the money laundering case linked to the alleged excise policy scam. Special judge Kaveri Baweja passed the directions on an application moved by Kejriwal's lawyer, who claimed the Aam Aadmi Party convener required an electric kettle for heating water and for having tea. "However, the jail provides tea in accordance with the Jail Rules only," the application said.

The counsel said when the judge had forwarded Kejriwal to jail on April 1, an application was moved for providing him a chair and table but no directions were issued. "Keeping in view the medical condition of the accused, the request for providing electric kettle is allowed... Having considered the request made that the table and chair is required by the applicant for the purpose of reading the books which have already been permitted, the concerned Jail Superintendent is directed to provide a chair and a table to the accused, in accordance with the Jail Manual," the judge said. The judge also directed the jail superintendent to permit the authorised counsel for Kejriwal to provide him a copy of the jail manual.

BJP issues defamation notice to Atishi over poaching claim

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The BJP on Wednesday sent a defamation notice to Delhi minister Atishi after the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) leader on April 2 called a press conference and claimed that she was asked to join the saffron party to safeguard her political career or face arrest. "This time we won't let her escape. She has to answer and provide evidence for what she is claiming. We asked her to apologise by the evening (Tuesday). She didn't and so we have sent her a legal notice to which she will have to reply within 15 days," Delhi BJP chief Virendra Sachdeva said, retorting that the party did not have any vacancy for a leader like Atishi. After sending the legal notice, Delhi BJP said if Atishi did not reply to the notice within the stipulated time, there would be legal actions against her. The BJP leaders outrightly refuted the statement and said Atishi should reveal the name of the person. As per the defamation notice, by Delhi BJP leader Praveen Shankar Kapoor, the party has made claims that the Delhi Minister has 'deliberately and with malicious intent made statements which are not only false, scandalous, concocted and illusionary, but defamatory to harm the reputation of BJP but also of its members.' According to the notice, Atishi has 'neither revealed specific information about the source of information nor given any details about the act of BJP'. The notice reads, "Devoid of any specificity your statement is an intentional endeavour to reflect your own imagination and apprehension. To call for a press conference and specifically name the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) without disclosing the nitty-gritties portrays your malafide intentions to demean the reputation of the BJP and my client." The party has accused the AAP leader of tarnishing the image of the BJP leader while asserting that it has become a 'habit of AAP leaders to side step the main issues by accusing BJP of poaching.' "That it appears that it has become a habit of the leaders / workers of your party to side step the main issues by every time alleging that BJP has been attempting to poach your MLAs / leaders by promising to pay huge amounts of monies. None of such allegations have been ever substantiated through any cogent evidence," the notice reads. The controversy erupted following the AAP leader's statement about the BJP in a press conference, where she claimed that the party has either asked to join them or face the ED. Atishi remarked, "The BJP, through one of my close aides, approached me to join their party to save my political career, and if I do not join the BJP, then in the coming month, I will be arrested by the ED." She further said that she won't be scared of the BJP and claimed to be Kejriwal's soldiers, alleging that in the coming two months before the Lok Sabha elections 2024, total four leaders will be arrested including herself, Durgesh Pathak, Raghav Chadha and Saurabh Bharadwaj by the central probe agency. BJP has asked her to immediately withdraw the said speech and telecast her apology on television and social media failing which the party will initiate, both civil and criminal, proceedings against the AAP leader.

Olympian boxer Vijender quits Congress, joins BJP

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Vijender Singh, India's first Olympic medallist in boxing who took a plunge in politics in April 2019 by joining the Congress, switched to the BJP on Wednesday.

Addressing a joint press conference with BJP leaders at the party headquarters here, he praised Prime Minister Narendra Modi and said the respect for Indian sportspersons has increased in the country and abroad since the BJP came to power at the Centre.

"I am the same old Vijender. Whatever I would feel wrong, I would call it wrong. I will call it right if I feel it is right," said Singh who had been a vocal critic of the BJP and had come out in support of farmers' protests and wrestlers' stir, often expressing his views on social media.

A number of leaders have switched their parties ahead of Lok Sabha elections though Singh's entry into the BJP is among those that may have surprised many.

Vijender joined the BJP in the presence of party national general secretary Vinod Tawde and other senior leaders of the party at its headquarters here.

"I am joining the BJP today under the leadership of Prime Minister Modi, Home Minister Amit Shah and party president JP Nadda. In a way it is my 'ghar wapas' (homecoming)," he said, adding "There is a saying in English - 'Good to be back'. I am feeling very good".

Singh contested the 2019 Lok Sabha election unsuccessfully from the South Delhi constituency on a Congress ticket. His name was doing the rounds for the last few days as the party's nominee from Mathura, from where actor and incumbent MP Hema Malini has been fielded again by the BJP.

He comes from the Jat community, which has political influence in a large number of seats in Haryana, his home state, western Uttar Pradesh and Rajasthan.

"When we travelled abroad to fight (participate in matches) in the UK, Dubai, Ireland and other places, many times there used to be so many things at the airport. Since the BJP came at the helm under Prime Minister Narendra Modi, it has become easier for us to go anywhere," Singh said.

The 38-year-old trailblazing boxer had delivered India's first Olympic and men's world championship medals back in 2008 and 2009 and joined professional boxing in 2015. Vijender said he would work for the welfare of the people.

Tawde said it was a matter of great joy that Vijender, who has brought glory to the country, has joined the BJP family. "Under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, our government has taken many meaningful steps for the welfare of youth and sportspersons in the last 10 years due to which Vijender ji has joined us," he said, adding it would add strength to the resolve of making 'viksit Bharat (developed India).

"The BJP will certainly utilise his (Singh's) strength in Delhi, Haryana, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and all other regions. I am confident that the BJP will succeed in achieving its target more firmly with his joining the party," he said.

Union minister Kiren Rijiju welcomed Singh into the party fold. "Welcome to the party which loves sports. Brother, you wasted your precious time in a party that has nothing to do with sports," Rijiju, who earlier held the sports portfolio, posted on X.

The move is expected to help the BJP consolidate votes from the Jat community, which is especially important in Haryana and Western UP. The boxer is expected to campaign extensively for the BJP in these two areas.

Vijender was the first Indian boxer to win an Olympic medal - a bronze - at the 2008 Beijing Olympics. He also won silver medals at the 2006 and 2014 Commonwealth Games and bronze medals at the 2010 edition of the Games as well as the 2009 World Championships.

Home Ministry cancels registration of five NGOs

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Home Ministry has cancelled the registration of five NGOs for alleged violation of various provisions of the Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA).

The NGOs whose registrations have been cancelled are CNI Synodical Board of Social Service, Voluntary Health Association of India, Indo-Global Social Service Society, Church's Auxiliary for Social Action, and Evangelical Fellowship of India, it was learnt.

With the cancellation of their Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA) registration, these NGOs will no longer be able to receive foreign contributions nor utilise the existing available funds.

Sources said the home ministry cancelled the FCRA registration of the NGOs for allegedly utilising funds for works that were not in their mandate. The NGOs violated the laws by being involved in activities that are contrary to the provisions of the FCRA, they said.

There were 16,301 NGOs with valid FCRA licences as on July 17, 2023. The Centre has cancelled the FCRA licences of more than 6,600 NGOs in the last five years for violation of the law. Overall, FCRA licences of 20,693 NGOs have been cancelled in the last decade.

According to data disclosed in Parliament last year, Rs 55,741.51 crore was received in foreign contributions by 13,520 FCRA-registered associations or NGOs between the 2019-2020 and the 2021-2022 financial years.

The Centre has tightened the FCRA since 2020 by making several amendments and even cancelling licences of various NGOs, including Rajiv Gandhi Foundation (RGF), Rajiv Gandhi Charitable Trust (RGCT), and Centre for Policy Research (CPR), in the last few years accusing them of violating the law.

The FCRA unit of the MHA carried out inspections or audits of at least 335 NGOs and associations registered or granted prior permission under FCRA between 2019 and 2022 to see if foreign funding rules were being followed by them.

The FCRA Act, which was amended in September 2020, barred public servants from receiving foreign funding and made Aadhaar mandatory for every office-bearer of the NGOs.

The amended law also bars organisations from using more than 20% of foreign funds for administrative purposes. The limit was hitherto 50%.

Congress and two from the Rashtriya Janata Dal, the Rajya Sabha Secretariat said. Three of the 12 MPs are from Bihar, two each from Maharashtra and Madhya Pradesh, and one each from Gujarat, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Karnataka and Uttar Pradesh.

As many as 54 members of the Rajya Sabha retired on April 2 and 3. While 49 completed their tenure on Tuesday, five, including former prime minister Manmohan Singh, will end their stint in the Rajya Sabha on Wednesday.

Two days coastal security exercise held in Lakshadweep

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

A two-day Coastal Security Exercise 'Sagar Kavach 01/24' involving all maritime security agencies was conducted in Union Territory of Lakshadweep from April 01-02, navy said here on Wednesday.

Giving details, officials said assets of Indian Navy, Coast Guard, Marine Police, Fisheries, Customs and other security agencies were engaged in the exercise. Validation of effectiveness of coastal security mechanism while dealing with asymmetric threat emanating from the sea were undertaken. The exercise witnessed enhanced preparedness, response mechanism, surveillance capabilities and coordination between the coastal security stakeholders.

Two variants of lumpy skin disease virus caused outbreak: Study

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

Two distinct virulent variants of the Lumpy Skin Disease Virus (LSDV) were responsible for the catastrophic outbreak of lumpy skin disease that swept among the livestock in India, claiming approximately 1,00,000 cows across the country in 2022, scientists from the Bengaluru-based Indian Institute of Science (IISc) have revealed in a study.

The outbreak had severely affected India's agricultural sector, leading to staggering economic losses. "It was a calamity in some ways ... a national emergency," said Utpal Tatu, Professor in the Department of Biochemistry, Indian Institute of Science (IISc) who was part of the multi-institutional team that decided to probe the cause of the outbreak.

These variants, characterized by a high number of genetic variations, are associated with increased disease severity, said the study, underscoring the critical role of genomic analysis in understanding and combating emerging infectious diseases affecting livestock.

The study is published in BMC Genomics. A viral infection caused by the Lumpy Skin Disease Virus (LSDV), the disease is transmitted by insects like flies and mosquitoes. It causes fever and skin nodules, and can be fatal for cattle. There have been two major outbreaks of this disease in India, the first in 2019 and a more severe outbreak in 2022, infecting more than two million cows.

To investigate the current outbreak, the team collected skin nodules, blood and nasal swabs from infected cattle in various states, including Gujarat, Maharashtra, Rajasthan and Karnataka, in collaboration with veterinary institutes. They performed advanced whole-genome sequencing of DNA extracted from 22 samples.

"The biggest challenge was the lack of an established LSDV genome sequencing and analysis pipeline. We had to adapt techniques from COVID-19 research," explained Ankeet Kumar, from IISc and co-lead author. "Data was also limited, so we compiled all available global LSDV genome sequences to make our analysis robust."

The genomic analysis revealed two distinct LSDV variants circulating in India, one with a low number of genetic variations and another with a high number of variations, similar to strains from a 2015 Russian outbreak. Kumar noted the surprising finding of highly varied LSDV strains in India, given the generally stable nature of DNA viruses like LSDV. The team identified over 1,800 genetic variations, including deletions, insertions, and single-letter changes in DNA. The samples with high variations, however, turned out to be similar to LSDV strains from an outbreak in Russia in 2015.

Kumar said that there are no previous reports of such highly varied LSDV strains in India. Viruses that have DNA as the genetic material - like LSDV - are generally more stable than RNA viruses. Therefore, finding so many genetic variations was quite surprising, and could explain the severity of the disease, he added. The variation was as high as 1,800. Importantly, the scientists also found a large number of genetic variations in viral genes critical for binding to host cells, evading immune response, and replicating efficiently. This likely enhanced the virus's ability to cause disease. "Cattle developed more severe symptoms in areas where we found highly diverse strains. This suggests that the genetic variations could elevate virulence," warned Kumar.

Now, Bhaichung Bhutia joins war against vaping

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

After prominent women personalities like Paralympic medallist Deepa Malik and Bollywood actor Neha Dhupia, it is now former footballer Bhaichung Bhutia who has joined the ranks in the fight against vaping and the promotion of new-age tobacco products among Indian children and youngsters.

Bhutia's endorsement adds substantial weight to the cause of Mothers Against Vaping, said the group, a united front of concerned mothers that aims to combat the promotion of e-cigarettes, vapes, electronic nicotine delivery systems and heat-not-burn products among Indian youngsters.

The group said, "His (Bhutia) involvement is anticipated to amplify the impact of the cause, shedding more light on the escalating problem of new-age tobacco device usage among the country's youth."

This collaboration aims to raise awareness, garner support and foster a collective effort to protect the wellbeing of the younger generation from the hazards of these devices, they said.

Bhutia said, "I have been working with children to nurture future football talents and it is a great feeling to see their spirit on the field. So, for me, it is very disheartening that children and youngsters are falling prey to these harmful habits."

"At an age where our children should be immersed in an environment that nurtures their dreams and aspirations, it is sad to witness the havoc that these new-age tobacco devices are wrecking on their health and ultimately their lives," the former Indian football team captain said.

He also praised the efforts of Mothers Against Vaping in raising awareness, calling it "truly commendable".

According to Mothers Against Vaping, rising addiction among children to new-age tobacco devices is fuelled by the aggressive efforts of big tobacco companies to establish a new market and cultivate future consumers. "Despite a nationwide ban, international manufacturers are leaving no stone unturned to promote these new-age tobacco devices with a specific focus on Indian children and youngsters as they desperately seek out new markets against the backdrop of tightening regulations," said the group.

"As a responsible mother, I wholeheartedly support the cause. The issue is deeply alarming and all mothers should be concerned as it directly impacts the health of our children," Dhupia said. "The use of vaping and e-cigarette devices has been linked to various harmful effects, ranging from extensive lung damage to environmental harm through improper disposal, the group said.

Vistara faces flight disruptions due to crew shortage; DGCA demands daily updates Flight operations of Tata Group's Vistara Airlines, which has earned a reputation for its premium services and reliability in the Indian aviation sector, have of late been marred by cancellations and delays. Vistara, a joint venture between Tata Sons and Singapore Airlines, has attributed the disruptions to a shortage of flight crew. Passengers have been left stranded and inconvenienced, with some facing difficulties in rebooking their travel plans at short notice. Vistara's troubles come at a time when the aviation sector is recovering from the impact of the pandemic, with domestic travel demand showing signs of revival. The airline industry has been navigating a delicate balance between scaling up operations to meet growing demand while managing operational constraints and ensuring passenger safety. In response to the crew shortage crisis, Vistara has assured passengers that it is working diligently to address the issue and minimise disruptions to flight services. The airline is actively recruiting and training additional crew members to augment its workforce and improve operational resilience. For passengers affected by flight cancellations and delays, Vistara has offered options for rebooking or refunding tickets, along with assistance in making alternative travel arrangements. The airline has reiterated its commitment to prioritising customer satisfaction and minimising inconvenience caused by the disruptions.

The Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has stepped in, demanding daily reports from the airlines regarding the status of flight operations, crew availability and measures taken to mitigate the impact of disruptions on passengers. The crew shortage issue highlights the challenges faced by airlines in managing their workforce in the midst of evolving dynamics of the aviation industry, particularly in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. Domestic flights have been reporting disruptions, including layoffs, furloughs and changes in travel demand patterns, much to the consternation of passengers. The incident underscores the importance of effective workforce management and contingency planning for airlines to ensure smooth and uninterrupted flight operations. As the aviation industry strives to rebound from the challenges posed by the pandemic, maintaining a robust and adequately trained workforce is critical to meeting the evolving needs of passengers and sustaining growth. This is what DGCA must be concerned about and has taken up on priority. As Vistara endeavours to overcome the crew shortage crisis and restore normalcy to its flight operations, the incident serves as a reminder of the complex and dynamic nature of the aviation industry. Effective collaboration among airlines, regulators and stakeholders is essential to address challenges promptly and ensure the seamless functioning of the aviation ecosystem.

The escalating perils of global terrorism

SUDHIR HINDWAN

The recent ISIS-K attack outside Moscow has elicited widespread condemnation and intensified global anxieties surrounding terrorism

The recent ISIS-K (Khorasan) claimed attack outside Moscow, resulting in over 130 deaths and more than 100 injuries, warrants strong condemnation. Khorasan, a splinter unit of ISIS with roots in Iran, Turkmenistan, and Afghanistan, highlights four critical lessons. Firstly, politics, as observed by Thomas Hobbes in 'Leviathan,' remains deeply intertwined with human nature, with greed and fear driving conflicts. Despite global changes, power struggles persist, leading to conflicts like World War I and II. The post-World War II era witnessed the emergence of non-state actors, exacerbated by the Cold War and subsequent conflicts.

Secondly, intervening in internal conflicts, such as Russia's support for Assad against ISIS, can breed enmity and fuel terrorism. Thirdly, while international terror groups may appear subdued, they can resurge with renewed vigour, forming clandestine links in Central Asian Republics. Lastly, any retaliation against ISIS should involve cooperation with neighbouring countries to prevent spillover effects. This attack is reminiscent of past incidents in Russia, such as the 2002 Moscow theatre hostage crisis and the 2004 Caucasus hostage tragedy. The recent attack underscores vulnerabilities in Russia's security apparatus, with terrorists exploiting the ability to choose the time and place of their attacks for maximum media impact.

The global criticism of the attack reflects widespread concern over combating international terrorism. The US, despite geopolitical tensions, has shown commitment to addressing terror threats worldwide. However, trust deficits between major powers hinder cooperation efforts. While Ukraine denies involvement, the Federal Security Agency (FSB) is apprehensive about Ukrainian links to the attack, potentially complicating the ongoing conflict. China's expanding influence in Central Asia further complicates regional dynamics. Central Asian Republics (CAR) face increasing terrorism threats, with non-state actors exploiting cultural ties for nefarious purposes.

es. This underscores the need for multilayered security cooperation and technological innovation to combat terrorism effectively. Despite efforts by intelligence and security agencies, challenges remain in dealing with terrorists driven by religious misinterpretations. The influx of refugees from neighbouring countries adds complexity to the security landscape. Efforts to combat terrorism through collaboration, such as the Samarkand meeting, offer hope for regional stability. However, economic disparities and inconsistent Government policies contribute to vulnerabilities in the region. The presence of international Islamist terrorist organisations like Hizb Ut-Tahrir poses significant security challenges. Despite anti-terrorist drives, Central Asian states have attempted to export terrorism to conflict zones like Iraq, Afghanistan, and Syria. The recent influx of illegal migrants and increased terrorist activities have compelled China and Russia to seek cooperation in tackling transnational terrorism. Rise of fundamentalism in Central Asia poses an international reality, fueled by disgruntled groups and external influences. Central Asia's strategic importance and rich resources make it crucial for global security. The US has recognised CAR's strategic significance for regional stability. Efforts to improve economic prowess and security capabilities in Russia and CAR require coordinated action and cooperation. Economic transformation hinges on fighting inflation and developing robust anti-terrorism mechanisms. It's crucial to recognise that the issues of law and order differ from those of terrorism, despite often being conflated. Policymakers must understand the diverse security threats facing nations today and adapt strategic policies accordingly. Modern terrorists are highly organised and professional, necessitating a shift towards more vigilant and assertive intelligence, police, and paramilitary networks. Many recommendations from various committees may not align with current realities, especially considering India's struggles with terrorism, nationalism, and insurgency. It's outdated to attribute terrorism solely to societal conditions or structural adjustments. Instead, a thorough analysis of the psychological factors driving terrorism can offer deeper insights and guide effective counterterrorism strategies. Understanding the financial links between terrorism, organised crime, arms dealers, drug traffickers, and smugglers is crucial. Special forces should be deployed to counter terrorist activities in regions where violence is endemic. Collaborative efforts among nations are essential to develop strategic mechanisms for combating international terrorism, with the United States and India playing pivotal roles. Addressing the multifaceted challenges posed by terrorism demands a nuanced approach that differentiates between law and order issues and acts of terrorism. Policymakers must acknowledge the evolving nature of security threats and adapt strategic policies accordingly. Vigilant and assertive intelligence, police, and paramilitary networks are vital in countering the sophisticated tactics employed by modern terrorists. Understanding the financial networks that sustain terrorism is equally crucial for effective counterterrorism efforts. As terrorism continues to pose a global threat, collaborative efforts among nations are essential. In this endeavour, the US and India can play pivotal roles, leveraging their resources and expertise in the fight against terrorism.

MODERN TERRORISTS ARE HIGHLY ORGANISED AND PROFESSIONAL, NECESSITATING A SHIFT TOWARDS MORE VIGILANT AND ASSERTIVE INTELLIGENCE, POLICE AND PARAMILITARY NETWORKS

KATCHATHEEVU CONTROVERSY

Madam — Apropos news article "Katchatheevu takes centre stage in TN" published on April 02, this is my response. It is indeed hilarious to note how the powers demanding "farsightedness" enough to predict 400 plus seats in their favour (even before the first vote is cast) by gauging the "national mood," blatantly resemble a bunch of drowning lot clutching at a straw! So despite India and Sri Lanka being bound under the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties 1969 revolving around the Katchatheevu island; how ridiculously can it be brought into the discourse by making a mockery of mutually accepted international agreements framed around half a century ago?

Instead of making a mountain out of a molehill, amidst the waters of Palk Strait, located outside the maritime boundary of India; would the "nationalists" act "kind" enough to enlighten the country about the latest status of Chinese occupation in Ladakh following the fatal assault upon Indian soldiers in Galwan! Why doesn't the self-declared "patriotic" brigade concentrate its time energy and resources to protect the North-West boundary of the nation to ensure that Pathankot Gurdaspur Uri Pulwama does not get repeated on Indian soil in future? Last but not the least. Would the current powers care to applaud the stalwarts of Congress for ensuring the inclusion of Jammu & Kashmir Goa Daman Diu Sikkim into the Indian fold, though the said regions were not part of the national territory at the stroke of independence?

SC REPRIMANDS PATANJALI

Madam — Apropos news article "Patanjali advertisements: SC comes down hard on Ramdev, Acharya Balkrishna for 'absolute defiance'" published on April 02, this is my response. If the product that Yoga Guru Ramdev and Patanjali's MD Balkrishna are making is about as good and authentic as they say it is, then they didn't have to apologise and could have won the case on its

RBI's role and challenges

Apropos news article "PM: Growth should be RBI top most priority next decade" published on April 02, this is my response. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI), established in 1935, has been instrumental in guiding India's economic trajectory through various transitions. From steering the country towards a market-oriented economy to embracing digitalization, the RBI has demonstrated adaptability in the face of numerous challenges. Despite setbacks like the 2008 financial meltdown and the implementation of demonetization, the RBI has implemented measures such as the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code to address issues like bad loans, showcasing its resilience and proactive approach to crisis management. It is crucial to address evolving macroeconomic and regulatory challenges. Specifically, enhancing banking regulation and supervision and improving oversight mechanisms is imperative, especially in light of recent episodes involving financial institutions like YES Bank and Infrastructure Leasing & Financial Services Ltd. Transparency in dealing with regulated entities, such as Paytm Payments Bank, also remains a significant concern. Looking ahead, empowering the RBI with necessary legal changes for effective banking regulation and respecting its institutional position will be vital. Additionally, maintaining low fiscal deficits is essential to prevent potential fiscal dominance of monetary policy, thus ensuring the RBI can effectively fulfil its mandate of maintaining price stability and fostering economic growth.

merits. They were scolding people in the name of Ayurveda. Like law-abiding citizens, the Supreme Court also wondered and pulled up the Centre, asking why the Ministry of AYUSH "chose to keep its eyes shut when Patanjali was going to town saying there were no remedies for COVID in allopathy."

Ramdev was promoting his concoction CORONIL for the treatment of COVID when India was entering the most lethal COVID wave which killed thousands. People expected that the SC would give exemplary punishment to Patanjali in its next hearing on 10 April, instructing both Ramdev and Balkrishna to be present.

CANCER AMONG WOMEN

Madam — Apropos news article "Taboos fuel breast cancer silence" published on April 01, this is my response. For years breast cancer has been a major health issue among Indian women. It accounts for 14 per cent of all cancers among our women. Statistically, one in every 28 women in India is at risk of developing breast cancer in her lifetime. And, unfortunately, in our country, the number of breast cancer cases reported each year is rising at higher rates than ever. Numerous studies have shown that regular screening of women with no symptoms of breast cancer has lowered the number of women who die from the disease. Increased body weight and weight gain as an adult, are linked with a higher risk of breast cancer after menopause. The American Cancer Society recommends women stay at a healthy weight throughout their life and avoid excess weight gain by balancing their food intake with physical activities. Diet plays a very small but measurable role in breast cancer prevention. However, women who adhere to a healthy diet should still take other preventive measures, such as having regular mammogram tests.

Synergy between man and machine

Ambient Computing brings many positive workplace outcomes, from reducing operational costs to human creativity and innovation in production

Industry 4.0 is enabling new concepts and technologies that make factories smarter. It begs the question: how do we create stronger synergies between humans and machines to improve production efficiencies, while progressing the creative cognition of human potential? This question gained traction after the global pandemic. The industry started to emphasise socio-technical considerations to enable new use cases around asset management, workplace well-being and process control, requiring ambient computing at the manufacturing edge.

What is Ambient Computing: Ambient computing is a form of ubiquitous computing, a subset of edge computing. It uses computing power to exhibit human-like intelligence in perceiving, processing and taking actions based on available data and information. In simple terms, ambient computing enables a smart agent - think of an Alexa and Siri optimised for manufacturing processes - to collaborate with people, operational technologies and assets, such as machines and autonomous mobile robots, to mitigate disruptions at the manufacturing edge. The fusion of AI into the manufacturing edge also helps drive continuous improvement and introduces innovation of new products and services.

Working with People, Assets and Processes: Ambient computing let organizations focus on growth and innovation by bringing agility to the manufacturing edge where people, assets and processes are working together in unison to deliver required yield and throughputs.

Cybersecurity and Industry 4.0: Industry 4.0 essentially has three components: How machinery communicates in a production process, how info a system, and how information is shared throughout the manufacturing lifecycle. Learn how your cybersecurity needs to account for all three.

Ambient computing can be applied to the following: Assets monitor themselves and schedule maintenance based on wear and tear. A smart meter system (water, air, gas, electricity and steam) manages the production environment to reduce waste and drive efficiencies by automatically adjusting its end devices such as thermostats and valves.

Automated guided vehicles and mobile robots self-manage routes and tasks based on product, people and environment. Production and assembly floor environments monitor themselves to ensure safety and security of people, products and assets. Smart devices such as notebooks, phones, tablets, wearables and stand-alone devices collaborate with people on risks, issues, continuous improvement and production optimization.

By transforming the manufacturing floor to be automated and self-sustainable, ambient computing can reduce operational costs, improve product quality and time-to-market and empower employees to work smarter.

With access to real-time information, organizations can improve how they handle market and ecosystem disruptions with better and faster collaboration between humans and systems.

Adopting Ambient Computing: It requires seven core elements to fully embrace ambient computing, fostering data availability and enhancing collaboration across people, applications, assets, and devices:

1. Edge computing for real-time decision-making and collaboration.
2. Data-as-a-service to meet evolving needs.
3. Digital twins for predictive insights.
4. Cognitive automation for continuous learning.
5. Connectivity to facilitate constant communication.
6. Quality of experience (QoE) to cater to diverse needs.
7. Trusting systems to perform reliably.

Ambient computing represents a transformative concept that is propelling Industry 4.0 towards the realisation of smarter factories. (The writer is cofounder Raising superstars; views are personal)

ADHERE TO DHARMA AND SATYA

Dharma and Satya have profound implications on our actions and beliefs

AJIT KUMAR BISHNOI

These two words sometimes confuse about what they convey. What is the relationship between these two? Don't they sound similar? They do. Then, there is 'kartavya' (duty). This word also is interlinked with these two. I will try to unravel their mystery in this article. Beginning with their definitions, dharma is what applies to everyone. For example, the nature of fire is to burn and cause it to burn. Similarly, dharma sustains life, virtue and moral duties on the planet Earth. The word Satya simply means facts like the Sun rising in the East. Some examples will shed more light on these two words. Starting with dharma, what is our svadharma or duty (kartavya)?

Lord Krishna has explained that when we are born we have certain qualities due to which we are suitable naturally to do certain activities. (4.13) This is our svadharma, i.e. our dharma. Some children are naturally inclined to play sports, and if allowed to do so excel. This is his dharma by which he entertains others and also earns his livelihood. Arjuna, who was a Kshatriya had a specific dharma due to his birth, which he was supposed to uphold. He spoke about protecting family dharma (values). If not practised, it could have caused many horrible consequences. (1.38-1.45) Svadharma defines an individual's duties.

Dhrtarashtra was born blind. Therefore, he was unfit to rule even though he was the elder brother. His younger brother Pandu was enthroned by the king. Upon his untimely death, Dhrtarashtra was made a stopgap king till the eldest son of Pandu gained adulthood. This was a factual position, i.e. Satya. Dhrtarashtra's lineage was not entitled to be made king. But he refused to accept this fact, which was against dharma even though his eldest son Duryodhana was unfit to be made king. This resulted in the Mahabharata War, and his family was justly punished for trying to undo dharma. Dharma is worth practising for our good. It is meant for everyone to honour; one should follow it as far as feasible. Dharma is supreme; it is above everything. Satya has also many dimensions. It is a fact that all are similar souls. Satya should be used for correct behaviour, i.e. our activities should be based on it. For example, God should be worshipped by one and all. Satya is frequently situational. For example, children should study in school, but once at home should play. It changes or appears to change in our eyes or vis-à-vis our resources. For example, how much to eat? If not so hungry eat less and if quite hungry more. Similarly, if there is scarcity, the use of resources should be restricted. We have to always see what suits us and is appropriate. Our behaviour should match with the prototype in this matter. Truth is also what we perceive. Because we are too small to know the truth in its entirety, reality or essence. Truth can be known from scriptures like the Bhagavad-Geeta. Still, truth is limited; knowledge takes us to the level of humility, to be modest – a high quality.

Now let us turn to the relationship between dharma and Satya. Truth is an instrument; dharma is the system. Truth should always support dharma because truth is the basis of dharma. Earlier, i.e. in Sattvayuga and Treta yuga, truth and dharma were synonymous. Lord Krishna changed it in Dwaparyuga and made dharma superior to truth because truth is not habitually spoken in this yuga. That is the reason Yudhishtir was asked to speak the confusing truth – "Ashavathamatha it; narova kunjaro-va". Because dharma was at stake. The same rule applies today. We must always go by dharma; truth can be sacrificed for it. Let's, therefore, make dharma the basis of all our acts.

What is the conclusion? Both dharma and truth are important, but dharma is more important. Truth can be sacrificed for the sake of dharma, but only temporarily, not permanently.

Curb malpractices within private banks

Reports reveal widespread irregularities and malpractices, including gross misuse of public funds by top management, highlighting the urgent need for banking reforms

SUBHASH CHANDRA AGRAWAL

Several private banks in India are indulging in massive irregularities and malpractices with some of these irregularities highlighted in the Inspection-Reports of these banks ever since the Supreme Court ordered the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to make such Inspection-Reports of banks public under the RTI Act. But now even RBI is reluctant to disclose these Inspection Reports public under the RTI Act. RBI should remove all confusion by complying original Supreme Court verdict in letter and spirit by making of Inspection Reports of all banks public on the RBI website. Moreover, it should be mandatory for all banks to put their respective Inspection Reports on their websites including all the previous ones. Considering the vast participation of public money in private sector banks, all private sector banks must be under the purview of the RTI Act. Already all employees up to the highest post of CMD are public servants according to section 46A of the Banking Regulation Act. RBI had to impose restrictions on the withdrawal of money for some time on a prominent private sector bank. The former CMD of another prominent private sector Bank is under arrest for serious charges of misappropriation of public money in the Bank. Inspection Reports of private banks revealed under the RTI Act by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) reveal gross misuse of public money by top management. Another private sector bank is renowned for a large number of Non-Performing Assets (NPAs). Heavy fluctuation in share prices of certain private sector banks tends to doubt regarding safety of public money in private sector banks. Deposit Insurance and Credit Guarantee Corporation (a subsidiary of RBI) has to pay a maximum rupees five lakhs from state funds to each depositor of the bank including those in the private sector that collapse due to massive irregularities, which is public funding to declare private sector banks as "public-authorities" under section 2(h) of RTI Act. An example is the closure of a private PMC Bank in Maharashtra which even caused the fatalities of several depositors. Many banks to boost their business provide excessively secured loans more than the real market value of the mortgaged property even though rules allow only some portion of the assessed value of the property for loan purposes. This can and must be effectively checked by formulating a rule with retrospective effect whereby banks may be required to close the loan account in case the borrower surrenders vacant possession of the mortgaged property unconditionally. Strict action under section 46A of the Banking Regulation Act should be taken against officers sanctioning excessive loans higher than the recovered amount by the sale of a mortgaged property when the concerned bank is already in the advantage of having sufficient margin money. A study may be made if some ban can be imposed on giving loans on self-occupied residential properties because, in case of default, the family of the loan-taker is the sufferer for fault/default of the loan-taker. It is quite usual that many private banks often get blank papers, loan kits and cheques signed by the borrower and his family members as guarantors to misuse as per their convenience in case of default of loans. Borrowers generally sign such blank documents without realising the consequences in a hurry to get loans. Erring banks do not give consumer copies of the loan kit to the borrowers who are thus always practically financial slaves of such banks. The system should be that a copy of the duly filled loan kit and cheques may be compulsorily sent by Registered Post to the borrowers, guarantors and a specially set-up section of RBI within seven days of loan disbursement to ensure that banks may not be able to misuse any other paper earlier got signed blank in case of default. The same should be applicable for non-banking financial companies (NBFCs).

The rule should be that all bank accounts of Government offices, Public Sector Undertakings (PSUs) and state-run corporations (both central and state Governments) must be compulsorily only in public sector banks. Rather their employees should also have their salary accounts in any of the branches of the same public-sector bank for getting salaries through simple bank transfers. Government employees thereafter may shift funds to any bank of their choice. There were serious allegations of favouritism with a particular private bank for having salary accounts of employees of a Government department in Maharashtra because the wife of a heavyweight political ruler was a senior executive in that private bank. Maharashtra has otherwise also the unique facility of having the smallest public-sector bank having a widespread network of branches all over Maharashtra. Bank of Maharashtra was not merged with any larger public-sector bank only to retain its identity as a state-specific bank in Maharashtra state. Governments both central and state should be duty-bound to promote public sector banks. Using public-sector banks will increase deposits and profitability of public-sector banks and ensure the safety of public money.

RBI bonds issued by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) should be issued only through public-sector banks and companies. Once there was a news item that China Central Bank had tried to raise its stake in HDFC Bank from 8 percent to 1.1 percent with China Central Bank already holding about 17.5 million shares in HDFC Bank. Even though the Indian Government subsequently tightened rules for increasing such stakes by neighbouring companies, the episode developed a feeling of uncertainty amongst investors in RBI bonds made through HDFC Bank. There should be provision of auto-renewal in RBI bonds at the interest rate prevailing at the time of maturity.

Frauds are reported through some bank employees misappropriating funds in such inoperative accounts where the amount is large. RBI should direct all banks to inform account holders about their existing balance and to approach banks either to make accounts operative or close these in a time-bound period after which all such balances may be transferred to Depositor-Educative-Awareness-Fund (DEAF). With the private sector dominating the banking sector, public money lying in inoperative accounts must not be retained by banks.

Frequent changes of account numbers by banks should be prevented by making it mandatory for all banks to allot 15-digit account numbers. Confusing and frequently changing account numbers result in the bouncing of electronic fund transfers. Rather such a 15-digit account number should be a unique one with banks being recognised by the first two digits of the account number. Such 15-digit account numbers should also be for Public-Provident-Fund (PPF) and Senior Citizens Savings Schemes (SCSS) and other such deposit accounts under Government schemes.

Cover-page of pass-books of all banks should compulsorily have all details submitted in account-opening forms including nominee-details. The inclusion of nominee details on pass-books will allow nominees to claim rights on the death of the account holder by going through left-out important documents including pass-books after the death of the account holder. All banks especially public-sector ones should have a common and uniform style of forms used for various banking purposes with provision to download the same after filling on the computer like is a facility available for application forms for passports. Additional facility to email computer-filled forms with necessary enclosures like copies of ID proof, PAN-card etc to the Bank can save huge man-hours of bank staff in re-filling all details on the computer apart from eliminating any chance of wrong/incomplete entry in computers. Customers can go to banks just to put signatures on such emailed computer-filled forms. A system should be formulated whereby all requirements like Minimum Balance, interest rates, bank charges and other procedures may be uniform for all public-sector banks.

The rise of 'water aunties' and sustainable solutions

There is a critical correlation between clean water access, conflict, cooperation and climate change; water for all is imperative

This year, the theme for World Water Day is "Water for Peace". It renews the world's focus on clean, safe, and affordable drinking water and its complex relationship with conflict, cooperation, and climate change. About 2 billion people still lack access to safe water worldwide.

India, too, has been addressing the water needs of its citizens with the promise of tap water in each home, especially in the last decade, where nearly piped water access has reached 75% of India's homes. Community-based water treatment plants help purify groundwater to serve such civilian needs. Decentralised Safe Water Enterprises (SWEs), popularly called Water ATMs, have provided low-cost, 24x7, safe drinking water access solutions for quality-affected communities and consumers on the go. In 2018, Haryana became the first state to develop a policy to put a water ATM every 400 m in public places in its cities. The Delhi Government also announced 500 similar water ATMs in slums and other densely populated areas in 2023.

The Water Aunties Safe Water Network India

(SWN), through its Water ATMs called ijal Stations, helps provide safe water access to over 1.3 million people in India across Telangana, Maharashtra and Western Uttar Pradesh. In 2023, consumers bought over 350 million litres of water from its ijal stations, which had an uptime above 98 per cent around the year. Nearly 56 per cent of these 350 Water ATMs are managed and operated by women affectionately called Water Aunties by their communities.

The consumers collect safe water in their 20-litre cans from these ijal Stations. This prevents the scourge of single-use plastic bottled water, provides freedom and livelihood to low-income communities, negates the endless wait for the water tankers, and serves localities with contamination-free potable water.

"The stations have proven to be an oasis, especially in the scorching heat and severe drought conditions," said Sinduja, a Water Auntie in Telangana. India is now home to around 65,000 Water ATMs set up by 30 national-level implementers and State Governments.

The Cost Burden The buck does not stop just with the provision, access, or management of safe drinking water. For instance, the revenue from these Water ATMs is turning out to be unsustainable for many of the implementers at the grassroots level, according to a report of the three-year project named Sustainable Enterprises for Water and Health (SEWAH) carried out by SWN in collaboration with United States Agency for International Development (USAID) and data from ten other implementers.

The study found that the water revenue in these water ATMs, priced affordably at Rs 1 per litre and Rs 5 per 20 litre, barely met the current local operating costs, such as raw water, electricity, and operator salaries. The field service costs, such as the technician's fee and high-value spare parts, overburden the operator's expenditure. The implementers also do not cover expenses relating to cluster supervision, quality monitoring, equipment or facility upgrades, etc. Time For An Uptime Model The SWN's report, called Financial and Operating Performance of Water ATMs in 2023, warranted a relook at the sustainability of Water ATMs in India. This time, through a new lens, that would shift the total cost burden away from the operators and onto the taxpayers' rupee for govt-funded systems or CSR grants of willing companies for grant-funded systems. The report specifically proposed a result-based funding model in which SWEs received funding depending on the volume of water sold, facility up-time or revenue collected, and quality compliance.

A global result-based funding organisation, Uptime Catalyst Facility, selected SWN's ijal Stations for a sustainable performance-based incentive model for the implementers.

The ideal Stations proved to be apt differentiators because their remote monitoring system and water metres provide real-time data on plant performance, the volume of water produced and sold, and the revenue collected. The revenue collected is easily monitored since the water is purchased using pre-paid RFID cards, digital QR codes, or coin dispensing. Looking at over a decade of operating experience, the Government of Karnataka selected SWN to help operationalize more than 18,000 Community Water Treatment Plants (or Water ATMs) in the state by training the village Panchayat, operators, contractors, and the Rural Development and Panchayati Raj staff at the district level. The project brought in the best practices of training, monitoring, and operating the plant for four years during the peak of COVID, starting in 2019.

A Digital Platform is now tested across states, and hundreds of systems are now export-ready on parameters that include physical and training components and Information Education and Communication campaigns to train at the grassroots level where semi-skilled operators. It is poised for replication in 17 countries, West Africa and five South Asian countries. SWN also has vast experience and training materials for training last-mile operating professionals for Water ATMs.

Bodies of aid workers slain in Israeli strikes transported out

AP ■ RAFAH

The bodies of six foreign aid workers killed in a series of Israeli strikes were transported out of the Gaza Strip and into Egypt on Wednesday ahead of their repatriation, Egypt's state-run Qahera TV reported.

The deadly strikes have renewed criticism of Israel's conduct in the nearly six-monthlong war with Hamas, and highlighted the perilous conditions aid workers face in trying to deliver food to the besieged enclave, where experts say nearly a third of the population is on the brink of starvation.

The three British citizens, a Polish citizen, an Australian and a Canadian American dual citizen worked for World Central Kitchen, an international charity founded by celebrity chef José Andrés.

Their Palestinian driver was also killed, and his remains were handed over to his family for burial in Gaza.

Joe Biden: Not enough done to protect civilians

Washington: US President Joe Biden has criticised Israel, saying it has not "has not done enough" to protect civilians as he expressed "outrage" over the deadly strike that killed seven aid workers, including one American, in Gaza. Seven aid workers who were working for the World Central Kitchen, a charity delivering food to besieged Palestinians, were killed in the Israeli airstrike in Gaza on Tuesday. The victims comprised three British nationals, an Australian, a Polish national, an American-Canadian dual citizen and a Palestinian. In a statement on Tuesday, Biden said he is "outraged and heartbroken" by the tragic incident. AP ven into Egypt through the Rafah crossing.

The seven were distributing food that had been brought into Gaza through a newly established maritime corridor late Monday when Israeli airstrikes targeted their three vehicles, killing everyone inside.

Israel said it carried out the strikes by mistake and that it has launched an independent investigation into how it happened.

Some of Israel's closest allies, including the United States, condemned the deaths, which led the World Central Kitchen and other charities to suspend food deliveries, citing the dire security situation.

Cyprus, which has played a key role in setting up the maritime corridor, said the ships that had arrived Monday were returning to the Mediterranean island nation with some 240 tonnes of undelivered aid.

But it also said the sea deliveries would continue.

Israel faces growing isolation as international criticism of its Gaza assault has mounted. RISHI SUNAK DEMANDS 'TRANSPARENT' PROBE

British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak spoke to his Israeli counterpart Benjamin Netanyahu to demand a "thorough and transparent" investigation into the circumstances around the killing of three British aid workers, the latest victims of the raging Israel-Hamas conflict in Gaza.

According to a Downing Street statement on Tuesday, Sunak told the Israeli leader that the situation in the region is becoming "increasingly intolerable" as he stressed immediate action to ensure better aid flow into Gaza. It came as John Chapman, James Henderson and James Kirby were named as the British nationals part of the security team for the World Central Kitchen charity and among seven international aid workers killed after a convoy they were travelling in was hit earlier this week.

Strongest quake in 25 yrs rocks Taiwan 9 killed, 70 workers trapped in quarries

AP ■ HUALIEN

The strongest earthquake in a quarter-century rocked Taiwan during the morning rush hour Wednesday, killing nine people, trapping dozens in quarries and sending some residents scrambling out the windows of damaged buildings. A tsunami warning was triggered but later lifted.

The quake, which also injured hundreds, was centred off the coast of rural, mountainous Hualien County, where some buildings leaned at severe angles, their ground floors crushed.

Just over 150 kilometres away in the capital of Taipei, tiles fell from older buildings, and schools evacuated their students to sports fields, equipping them with yellow safety helmets.

Some children covered themselves with textbooks to guard against falling objects as aftershocks continued. Television images showed neighbours and rescue workers lifting residents, including a toddler, through windows and onto the street, after doors fused shut in the shaking. All appeared mobile, in shock but without serious injuries. Taiwan is regularly jolted by quakes and its population is among the best prepared for them, but authorities said they had expected a relatively mild earthquake and accordingly did not send out alerts.

The eventual temblor was strong enough to scare even people who are used to such shaking. "I've grown accustomed to (earthquakes). But today was the first time I was scared to tears by an earthquake," said Hsien-hsuen Keng, a resident who lives in a fifth-floor apartment in Taipei. "I was awakened by the earthquake. I had never felt such intense shaking before." Nine people died in the quake, which struck just before 8 a.m., according to Taiwan's national fire agency. The local United Daily News reported that three were hikers killed in rock-slides in Taroko National Park, which is in Hualien, and that a van driver died in the same area when boulders hit the vehicle. Another 934 people were injured. Meanwhile, authorities said they had lost contact with 50 people in minibuses in the national park after the quake downed phone networks. In addition, 64 people were trapped in one rock quarry, and six in another, the fire agency said.

Finland shooting suspect told police he was bullied

AP ■ HELSINKI

A 12-year-old student suspected of fatally shooting a classmate and wounding two others in Finland told police that he was bullied at school, officials said on Wednesday, as a nation shocked by the attack held a day of mourning.

The suspect, a sixth grader who attended the school in the city of Vantaa, just outside Helsinki, was apprehended less than an hour following the shooting on Tuesday morning. The shooter and the victims were all classmates, police said. "The motive for the act has been found to be bullying," the Eastern Uusimaa Police Department, which is in charge of the investigation, said in a statement.

"The suspect has said during interrogations that he was the target of bullying, and this information has also been confirming in the preliminary investigation by the police. The suspect had transferred to Viertola school at the beginning of this year."

The minimum age of criminal liability in Finland is 15 years, which means the suspect cannot be formally arrested. A suspect younger than 15 can only be questioned by the police before they are handed over to child welfare authorities. On Wednesday, Finnish blue-and-white flags were hoisted at half-staff and scores of people including parents, teachers and fellow students laid flowers and lit candles in the snowy landscape near the school building where the shooting occurred.

Police said one of the wounded girls has a dual Finland-Kosovo citizenship. The deceased boy died instantly after being shot, police said. The suspect was detained in the Helsinki area less than an hour after the shooting with a "a revolver-like handgun" in his possession.

The gun was licensed to a relative of the suspect who was not immediately identified. Police said he admitted to the shooting in an initial police hearing.

Finland has witnessed two major deadly school shootings in 2007 and 2008. In their wake, the country tightened its gun laws, raising the minimum age for firearms ownership and giving police greater powers to perform background checks on individuals applying for a gun license. The nation of 5.6 million has more than 1.5 million licensed firearms, and about 430,000 license holders, according to the Finnish Interior Ministry. Hunting and gun-ownership are deeply rooted traditions in this sparsely-populated northern European country, where target practice is also a widespread hobby.

Biden and Trump win presidential primaries in four more states

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

US President Joe Biden and his Republican rival and predecessor Donald Trump have easily won their presidential primaries in four more states as they are set for a 2020 rematch in November.

On Tuesday, hundreds of delegates were up for grabs in Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York and the crucial battleground state of Wisconsin. Multiple names remained on the presidential ballots in the four states, though neither Trump, 77, nor Biden, 81, faced any major challenger.

In all the four states where the primaries were held Tuesday, Trump bagged more than 75 per cent of the votes, while Biden, a Democrat, received more than 80 per cent of the votes.

Trump with four wins now has 1,860 delegates. Biden has so far won 3,030 delegates as against the minimum requirement of 1,968 delegates.

Biden and Trump have already amassed enough delegates to win their respective nominations. But the turnout could provide more clues about the election on November 5.

Their rematch is expected to mirror the 2020 campaign, though Trump will run this time under the spectre of 91 felony charges.

Their nominations will be confirmed at the Republican National Convention in Milwaukee in July and the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in August.

Connecticut and Rhode Island allowed voters to vote "uncommitted" in the primary, while Wisconsin offered a similar option of "uninstructed delegation". There was an effort in Wisconsin on Tuesday by anti-Biden protesters to encourage people in the Democratic primary to pick the "uninstructed" option in opposition to Biden's policies on the Israel-Hamas war.

Pressure has been growing on Biden especially, to push harder for a ceasefire in Gaza, with some states, including Michigan, fostering similar campaigns for residents to submit "uncommitted votes" for the president.

These victories offer insights into base voter enthusiasm for the upcoming 2020 rematch, particularly in Wisconsin, a crucial November battleground.

Biden and the Democratic National Committee have outpaced Trump and the Republicans in fundraising. Biden claimed the largest single-event fundraising record last week when he received USD 26 million at a star-studded New York event. Trump hopes to bring in USD 33 million at a Palm Beach, Florida fundraiser.

Meanwhile, CNN reported that Democrats have been growing increasingly anxious about public polls showing Trump making unprecedented inroads among Black and Hispanic voters. "But there may be reasons for Republicans to feel uneasy about these polls too," it said, adding that surveys now consistently show Trump leading President Joe Biden nationally and in almost all of the key swing states.

'3 suspects of Iranian journo stabbing fled UK after attack'

London (AP): British counterterrorism police investigating the stabbing of a journalist who works for a TV channel critical of the Iranian government said that three suspects had fled the country within hours of the attack.

Pouria Zeraati, a presenter at London-based Iran International, was stabbed in the leg Friday afternoon outside his home in London. Police said Zeraati, who has been released from a hospital, was attacked by two men who fled in a car driven by a third man.

"We have established that after abandoning the vehicle, the suspects travelled to Heathrow Airport and have left the UK," Commander Dominic Murphy, head of the Metropolitan Police Counter Terrorism Command, said in a statement late Tuesday. "We are now working with international partners to establish further details."

Police said that while the motivation for the attack is still unclear, Zeraati's occupation, together with recent threats to UK-based Iranian journalists, triggered a counterterrorism investigation.

Iran International, a satellite news channel that broadcasts in Farsi, has previously received threats due to its coverage of Iran.

Mehdi Hosseini Matin, Iran's charge d'affaires in the UK, has said "we deny any link" to the incident.

Police say they have disrupted "a number" of plots to kill or kidnap people in the UK who were seen as enemies of the Iranian government. Officers are working with intelligence agencies to disrupt future plots and provide protection for the targeted organisations and individuals, police said.

Early last year, Iran International temporarily shut down its operations in London and moved to studios in Washington, D.C., after what it described as an escalation of "state-backed threats from Iran."

'North Korea tests new missile with hypersonic warhead'

AP ■ SEOUL

North Korea said Wednesday it tested a new hypersonic intermediate-range missile powered with solid propellants, extending a run in weapons demonstrations that's deepening a nuclear standoff with neighbours and the United States.

With the supposed success of the test, North Korean leader Kim Jong Un declared his country had acquired the ability to build solid-fuel, nuclear-capable systems for missiles of all ranges as he pursues an arsenal that could viably threaten rivals in Asia and the United States.

The report by North Korean state media came a day after the South Korean and Japanese militaries detected the North launching a missile from near its capital toward its eastern sea. North Korean state media said the test was supervised by Kim, who described the Hwasong-16B missile as a key piece of his nuclear war deterrent he vowed to further build up to counter his "enemies," a reference to the United States, South Korea and Japan.

Kim said the North has now developed nuclear-capable, solid-fuel systems for "all the tactical, operational and strategic missiles with various ranges," the Korean Central News Agency said.

In recent years, North Korea has been focusing on developing more weapons with built-in solid propellants. Those weapons are easier to move and hide and can be made to launch quicker than liquid-propellant missiles, which need to be fuelled before launch and cannot stay fuelled for long periods of time.

North Korea last year tested a solid-fuel intercontinental ballistic missile for the first time, adding to its arsenal of long-range weapons targeting the US mainland. The country also has an extensive lineup of short-range and mid-range solid-fuel missiles that can be fired from land vehicles, ships and submarines and are potentially capable of reaching targets throughout South Korea and Japan. The North in recent months demonstrated some of these missiles in drills it described as simulated nuclear strikes while issuing provocative threats of nuclear conflict. The North has since 2021 also been testing hypersonic weapons designed to exceed five times the speed of sound. If perfected, such systems could potentially pose a challenge to regional missile defence systems because of their speed and manoeuvrability. However, it's unclear whether the North's hypersonic vehicles consistently maintained a desired speed exceeding Mach 5 during tests in 2021 and 2022.

During Tuesday's test, the missile's hypersonic glide warhead after being separated from the launch rocket reached a peak altitude of 101 km (62 miles) and flew about 1,000 km (621 miles) while performing various flight maneuvers before landing in waters between the Korean Peninsula and Japan, the KCNA said.

The South Korean and Japanese militaries had assessed that the missile flew around 600 (372 miles) although Japan's Defence Ministry announced a similar apogee with the North Korean report. The North had also tested a purported hypersonic IRBM in January, which came years after it flight-tested liquid-fuel IRBMs. Experts say such weapons if perfected is potentially capable of reaching remote US targets in the Pacific, including the military hub of Guam.

Kim Dong-yub, a professor at the University of North Korean Studies in Seoul, said the missile tested on Tuesday was likely different from the system tested in January, which state media didn't name but would likely be the Hwasong-16A.

Prosecutors chide judge over 'fundamentally flawed' order

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Federal prosecutors chided the judge presiding over former President Donald Trump's classified documents case in Florida, warning her off potential jury instructions that they said rest on a "fundamentally flawed legal premise."

In an unusual order, US District Judge Aileen Cannon had asked prosecutors and defense lawyers to file proposed jury instructions for most of the charges even though it remains unclear when the case might reach trial.

She asked the lawyers to respond to competing interpretations of the law that appeared to accept the Republican ex-president's argument that he was entitled under a statute known as the Presidential Records Act to retain the sensitive documents he is now charged with possessing.

The order surprised legal experts and alarmed special counsel Jack Smith's team, which said in a filing late

TRUMP'S CLASSIFIED DOCUMENTS CASE

Tuesday that the 1978 law — which requires presidents to return presidential records to the government upon leaving office but permits them to retain purely personal ones — has no relevance in a case concerning highly classified documents.

Those records, prosecutors said, were clearly not personal and there is no evidence Trump ever designated them as such. They said that the suggestion he did so was "invented" only after it became public that he had taken with him to his Mar-a-Lago estate in Palm Beach, Florida, after his presidency boxes of records from the White House and that none of the witnesses they interviewed in the investigation support his argument.

"Not a single one had heard Trump say that he was designating records as personal or that, at the time he caused the transfer of boxes to Mar-a-Lago, he believed that his removal of records amounted to designating them as personal under the PRA," prosecutors wrote. "To the contrary, every witness who was asked this question had never heard such a thing."

Smith's team said that if the judge insists on citing the presidential records law in her jury instructions, she should let the lawyers know as soon as possible so they can appeal.

The filing reflects continued exasperation by prosecutors at Cannon's handling of the case. The Trump-appointed judge has yet to rule on multiple defense motions to dismiss the case as well as other disagreements between the two sides, and the trial date remains in flux, suggesting that a prosecution that Smith's team has said features overwhelming evidence could remain unresolved by the time of the November presidential election.

Cannon, who earlier faced blistering criticism over her decision to grant Trump's request for an independent arbiter to review documents obtained during an FBI search of Mar-a-Lago, heard arguments last month on two of Trump's motions to dismiss the case: that the Presidential Records Act permitted him to designate the documents as personal and that he was therefore permitted to retain them.

Istanbul nightclub fire was likely caused by welding sparks: Turkish media

AP ■ ISTANBUL

A fire that spread through an Istanbul nightclub during renovations, killing 29 people, was likely caused by welding sparks igniting combustible material, a newspaper reported on Wednesday, citing fire department officials.

The fire engulfed the popular Masquerade nightclub on Tuesday, trapping workers and club employees inside. It left 29 people dead and another person with serious injuries. Authorities have detained nine people for questioning, including club managers and people in charge of the renovation work.

The club, which was closed for renovations during the holy month of Ramadan, was located on the ground and basement floors of a 16-story residential building in the Besiktas district on the European side of the city bisected by the Bosphorus Strait. It had planned to reopen on April 10.

Gov. Davut Gul told reporters that the cause of the fire was under investigation. The government assigned prosecutors and investigators to probe the incident.

The Yeni Safak newspaper, which is close to President Recep Tayyip Erdogan's government, said the fire is believed to have been caused by sparks from a welding machine being used to install sound insulation and decoration material. It reportedly set off an explosion which in turn set that the area where the renovation work was taking place was like a "labyrinth", making it difficult for the victims to find their way out.

The victims included Gokhan Tevlek, a club DJ, Atanur Aladag, who was employed as a cook, and Akin and Yilmaz Kibri, a father-and-son team of welders, according to Turkish media reports.

Video from the scene showed flames billowing from the side of the building, firefighters dousing an entrance to the club and people carrying a victim on a stretcher toward an ambulance.

"After the fire brigade arrived, bodies started to come out of the nightclub," state-run Anadolu quoted witness Sema Soganci as saying. "People were screaming, everything happened so suddenly. The flames were like crazy." "I started to cry, I was nervous," she said.

Another witness, Mehmet Cengiz, told Anadolu, "We saw firefighters entering and coming out all blackened."

The nightclub had a capacity of 4,000 guests, according to its website. The manager of the residential building told reporters on Wednesday that the premise was originally designed as a cinema. Istanbul Mayor Ekrem Imamoglu said the club had not obtained the required permits to conduct renovations.

'US shares blame for deadly concert hall attack'

AP ■ TALLINN

The head of Russia's national security council on Wednesday contended that the United States shares blame for the attack by gunmen on a Moscow concert hall that killed 145 people, even though a branch of the Islamic State group has claimed responsibility. Since the March 22 attack at the Crocus City Hall, the deadliest on Russian soil in two decades, Russian officials including President Vladimir Putin have repeatedly claimed, without presenting evidence, that it was organised by Ukraine, which has been fighting a Russian invasion for more than two years.

An affiliate of the Islamic State claimed responsibility for the attack and Kyiv has consistently denied involvement. "They are trying to impose on us that the terrorist act was committed not by the Kyiv regime, but by supporters of radical Islamic ideology, perhaps members of the Afghan branch of IS," security council head Nikolai Patrushev said at a meeting in the Kazakhstan capital Astana of security councils of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation. The SCO is a nine-country regional security and economic bloc that includes China, India and Iran. "However, it is much more important to quickly establish information about the planned attacks was passed on to Russian officials. Putin spokesman Dmitry Peskov on Wednesday declined comment in a conference call on a report in the Washington Post that US officials had specifically identified Crocus City Hall as a potential target, saying that was a matter for security services. Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Maria Zakharova disdained the report, telling journalists at a briefing that "I would really like to ask you to receive factual material on this topic from the American side. That is, when and to whom did they transmit this information." Also Wednesday, the Russian prosecutor-general's office sent information requests to the US, Germany, France and Cyprus over Western countries' potential involvement in terrorist attacks on Russia, state news agency Tass reported.

who is the customer and sponsor of this monstrous crime. Its traces lead to the Ukrainian special services. But everyone knows that the Kyiv regime is not independent and is completely controlled by the United States," Patrushev said. Four suspected gunmen were captured the day after the attack in the Bryansk region, which borders Ukraine. Putin and other officials claim that the gunmen had arranged for passage into Ukraine. Six other suspected accomplices have also been arrested. Russia's emergency ministry gave the death toll in the attack as 144, but children's rights ombudsman Maria Lvova-Belova said on Wednesday that a sixth child injured in the attack had died. The attack came two weeks after the United States Embassy in Russia issued a warning that it was monitoring reports of planned terrorist attacks on public targets. The US State Department said

Ukraine lowers military conscription age to 25

AP ■ KYIV

Ukraine on Wednesday lowered the military conscription age from 27 to 25 in an effort to replenish its depleted ranks after more than two years of war following Russia's full-scale invasion. The new mobilisation law came into force a day after Ukraine President Volodymyr Zelenskyy signed it. Ukraine's parliament, the Verkhovna Rada, passed it last year.

It was not immediately clear why Zelenskyy took so long to sign the measure into law. He didn't make any public comment about it, and officials did not say how many new soldiers the country expected to gain or for which units. Conscription has been a sensitive matter in Ukraine for many months amid a growing shortage of infantry on top of a severe ammunition shortfall that has handed Russia the battlefield initiative. Russia's own problems with manpower and planning have so far prevented it from taking full advantage of its edge. The average age of Ukrainian soldiers, like those on the Russian side, is around 40, military analysts say. Some Ukrainians worry that taking young adults out of the workforce will backfire by further harming the war-ravaged economy, but the problem reportedly has become acute as Kyiv girds for an expected summer offensive by the Kremlin's forces. Zelenskyy has rarely mentioned the mobilisation issue, and parliament has held long and inconclusive debates about it in recent months.

'About 10 mn at risk of slipping into poverty in Pak'

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD

The World Bank has painted a grim economic picture of Pakistan in its biannual report, cautioning that over 10 million more people are at risk of descending into poverty in the cash-strapped country. The Washington-based lender's apprehension comes from a sluggish economic growth rate of 1.8 per cent, coupled with soaring inflation, a staggering 26 per cent in the current fiscal year. The World Bank's biannual Pakistan Development Outlook report painted a grim economic picture, indicating that the country is set to miss almost all major macroeconomic targets. The international lender said the country is anticipated to fall short of its primary budget target, remaining in deficit for three consecutive years, contrary to the International Monetary Fund's stipulations mandating a surplus.

Sayed Murtaza Muzaffari, lead author of the report, said despite a board-based yet nascent economic recovery, poverty alleviation efforts remain insufficient. The economic growth is projected to stagnate at a paltry 1.8 per cent while maintaining the poverty rate at around 40 per cent, with approximately 98 million Pakistanis already grappling with poverty, the World Bank report said. The report underlined the vulnerability of those hovering just above the poverty line, with 10 million individuals at risk of slipping into poverty. The report said that the poor and vulnerable are likely to have benefited from the windfall gain in agricultural output, but these gains were offset by continued high inflation and limited wage growth in other sectors that employ many of the poor, such as construction, trade, and transportation. The wages of daily labourers increased only five per cent in nominal terms during the first quarter of this fiscal year when the inflation was above 30 per cent, it said. The persisting cost-of-living crisis, coupled with rising transportation costs, could potentially lead to an increase in out-of-school children and delayed medical treatments, particularly for worse-off families, warned the World Bank. At the same time, it added that food security remains a concern in parts of the country. Among 43 rural districts across Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Sindh, and Balochistan, many of which were impacted by the 2022 floods, the prevalence of acute food insecurity is also projected to increase from 29 per cent to 32 per cent in the third quarter of this fiscal year, the report said. "Poverty reduction is projected to stall in the medium term due to weak growth, low real labour incomes, and persistently high inflation," said the World Bank. Chronic inflation in the absence of substantial growth, along with policy uncertainty, could cause social discontent and have negative welfare impacts, warned the global lender. "Despite some recovery, Pakistan's economy remains under stress with low foreign reserves and high inflation.

Policy uncertainty remains elevated, and economic activity is subdued, reflecting tight fiscal and monetary policy and import controls," the World Bank said. The Washington-based lender said growth is projected to remain below potential with heightened social vulnerability and limited poverty reduction in the medium term. "Financial sector risks, policy uncertainty, and stronger external headwinds pose significant risks to the outlook," it added. Pakistan's current account deficit (CAD) narrowed to USD 0.8 billion in the first half of the current fiscal year from USD 3.6 billion in the first half of the last fiscal year, on import controls, reduced domestic demand, and lower global commodity prices, the report said. Meanwhile, official remittances fell by 6.8 per cent year-on-year in the first half of the current fiscal year due to exchange rate rigidities earlier in the year. For the next fiscal year too, the World Bank projected a 15 per cent inflation rate.

"Inflation is projected to remain elevated at 26 per cent in FY24 due to higher domestic energy prices, with little respite for poor and vulnerable households with depleted savings and lower real incomes," it said. The World Bank said the fiscal deficit is projected to increase to 8 per cent of GDP or Rs 8.5 trillion in this fiscal year due to higher interest payments, which is far higher than the official target of 6.5 per cent. It said that the deficit will only gradually decline over the medium term as interest payments decrease and fiscal consolidation measures take hold. As against the IMF target of a primary budget surplus of Rs 400 billion, the World Bank said there will be a primary deficit of 0.1 per cent of GDP in this fiscal year. It has projected the deficit for the next two fiscal years as well. Pakistan's economy is expected to grow by only 1.8 per cent in the current fiscal year ending June 2024, whereas the official target is 3.5 per cent, the World Bank said.

Three judges of Lahore HC receive threatening white-powder letters

PTI ■ LAHORE

After the Islamabad High Court judges, three judges of Pakistan's Lahore High Court on Wednesday received threatening white-powder letters, said the court's Registrar Office. The judges who received the letters are Justice Shujaat Ali Khan, Justice Shahid Bilal Hasan and Justice Alia Neelum. Lahore police and the Counter-Terrorism Department (CTD) senior officers reached the LHC and took the letters into custody and launched an investigation. Security of the LHC judges has been enhanced following the incident. The police took the employee of the courier company who delivered the letter into custody and shifted him to an undisclosed location for interrogation. The white powder is suspected to be anthrax. "The powder has been sent to a laboratory for examination whether it is anthrax," a Punjab police spokesperson said. A day earlier, all eight judges of IHC, including Chief Justice Aamer Farooq, received "suspected anthrax-laced letters." The threatening letters to high court judges surfaced after the Supreme Court took suo motu notice and formed a seven-member bench chaired by Chief Justice of Pakistan Qazi Faez Isa to hear the case of six IHC justices who accused spy agencies, including ISI, of meddling in judicial matters. The IHC judges had alleged that their bedrooms were bugged, and their relatives were abducted and tortured by the intelligence agencies' personnel to get desired verdicts. Imran Khan's Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) has demanded a thorough and immediate investigation into the threatening letters with white powder sent to IHC and LHC judges. A PTI spokesperson said that prima facie, the letters containing deadly and poisonous substances were intended to intimidate the judges. He said that after these letters, the decisive investigation and action in the matter of interference in judicial affairs increased manifold. "Special measures should be taken for the safety and security of the judges and their families," he said. He urged the chief justice of Pakistan to refer the six judges' letter to the full court sans any further delay to take the matter to its logical conclusion through open proceedings to ensure judicial independence and protect judges from bullying and threats. Meanwhile, Chief Justice Isa on Wednesday vowed to thwart any attack on the judiciary's independence as he indicated that a full court would hear the case about alleged interference in the judicial affairs by the powerful intelligence agencies.

Indonesian president-elect vows to further strengthen ties with Japan

AP ■ TOKYO

Indonesian President-elect Prabowo Subianto said he wants to "further strengthen" relations with Japan as he met with Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida on Wednesday on the heels of a visit to China.

Subianto, who's currently defence minister, told Kishida that the two countries are longtime friends who have built a cooperative relationship, and that he hoped to further strengthen the relationship. Japan has been seeking closer ties with Southeast Asian countries, especially in maritime security and defence, in the face of China's increasingly assertive military presence.

Subianto, who will succeed Joko Widodo in October, chose Beijing for his first official overseas trip after his February election victory in a bid to emphasise steady ties with China amid rising tensions in the South China Sea, where China and the Philippines have had repeated high-seas confrontations. his meeting with Chinese President Xi Jinping, Subianto pledged a continued friendly policy toward China. China is Indonesia's largest trading partner, with Beijing investing in major infrastructure projects, and Indonesia has maintained a relatively neutral stance amid rising tensions between China and the Philippines over rival territorial claims in the South China Sea. Kishida welcomed Subianto's early visit to Tokyo, telling his future counterpart that the two countries are longtime friends that share basic values and principles, and that Japan hoped to further strengthen cooperation in regional and global issues as "comprehensive and strategic partners". Kishida said Japan hopes to contribute to Indonesia's development in areas including infrastructure and energy, while stepping up cooperation in security and defense.

Senegal swears in youngest elected president, rising from prison to palace

AP ■ DAKAR

Senegal inaugurated Africa's youngest elected leader as president on Tuesday, as the 44-year-old and previously little-known Bassirou Diomaye Faye completed a dramatic ascent from prison to palace within weeks.

Hours later, Ousmane Sonko, the popular opposition figure who helped catapult him to victory, was named as the country's new prime minister. Last month's election tested Senegal's reputation as a stable democracy in West Africa, a region rocked in recent years by coups and attempted coups. Both Faye and Sonko were released from prison less than two weeks before the vote following a political amnesty announced by outgoing President Macky Sall. Their arrests had sparked months of protests and concerns that Sall would seek a third term in office despite term limits. Rights groups said dozens were killed and about 1,000 were jailed. In his first speech as president, Faye remembered those killed and arrested during the protests and promised to deliver greater sovereignty for Senegal while working to build prosperity. "I am aware that the results of the elections express a profound desire for systemic change," he said. "Through my election, the Senegalese people have committed to building a sovereign, just and prosperous Senegal in a progressing Africa." This is the first elected office for Faye, a former tax inspector. His rise has reflected widespread frustration among Senegal's youth with the country's direction — a common sentiment across Africa, which has the world's youngest population and a number of leaders widely accused of clinging to power for decades. "It's the culmination of a long struggle for democracy and the rule of law," said Aissata Sagna, a 39-year-old factory worker who worked on Faye's campaign. "This is a day of celebration for us, even if we have lost young people killed during the demonstrations." Unemployment rates are high. The war in Ukraine has helped drive up the price of food and energy. Like residents of other former French colonies, Senegalese are increasingly disaffected with France, often accused of exploiting its long-standing ties with West Africa. Faye campaigned on promises to clean up corruption. Ahead of the election, he released a declaration of his assets and called on other candidates to do the same. It listed a home in Dakar and land outside the capital and in his small hometown. His bank accounts totaled roughly $6,600. A practicing Muslim, Faye has two wives, both of whom were present on Tuesday.

"I think the first challenge is the formation of his (Faye's) government," said Alioune Tine, founder of the Senegalese think tank Afrikajom Center. "This will be the first concrete message he sends to the Senegalese people. The size, diversity and profiles will be analyzed with a fine-tooth comb to see if they meet the demand for a break with the past." Allies are closely watching Faye's economic policies following his promise to improve the management of natural resources. Senegal has made new oil and gas discoveries in recent years, but the population has yet to see any real benefit. Analysts warn, however, that renegotiating deals could turn investors off. Faye on Tuesday offered reassurance that change would not come at the expense of Senegal's reputation as a stable democracy in a troubled region. "In this work of building a new Senegal, I shall work tirelessly to preserve peace and national cohesion," he said. "I bear in mind that our most precious resource remains our country's political stability."

Over 3.5 lakh devotees visited first Hindu temple in Abu Dhabi

PTI ■ ABU DHABI

Over 3.5 lakh devotees visited the first stone Hindu temple in Abu Dhabi within a month of its opening for the public, according to temple authorities. The iconic temple which was inaugurated in February by Prime Minister Narendra Modi was opened for visitors on March 1. "In the first month, there were approximately 350,000 devotees and visitors, 50,000 of whom visited each weekend (Saturday-Sunday). It's important to note that on Mondays the Mandir conducts private prayers and is closed to visitors, meaning the complex was accessible for only 27 out of the 31 days in March," a temple spokesperson told PTI. "Every evening from Tuesday to Sunday, Ganga aarti is performed at 7.30 pm on the banks of the Swaminarayan ghat, which has been created using holy water from Ganga and Yamuna transported from India," he added. The grand temple was inaugurated during a dedication ceremony attended by over 5,000 invitees on February 14. The temple has been built by the BAPS Swaminarayan Sanstha on a 27-acre site in Abu Mureikha, near Al Rahba off the Dubai-Abu Dhabi Sheikh Zayed Highway, at a cost of around Rs 700 crore. Constructed with 18 lakh bricks and 1.8 lakh cubic metres of sandstone sourced directly from Rajasthan Abu Dhabi's first Hindu temple has been made in the Nagara style of architecture, just like the Ram Temple in Ayodhya which was inaugurated earlier this year. The BAPS Hindu Mandir is the largest in all of the Gulf region.

The UAE has three other Hindu temples in Dubai. "Since the temple is little on the outskirts and in the middle of a desert, public bus service from the city has been started for weekends to allow visitors to easily come to the temple," the spokesperson said. During Prime Minister Modi's two-day visit to the Gulf nation in 2015, the UAE allocated land for constructing a temple in Abu Dhabi. This visit held significant diplomatic importance, as Modi became the first Indian Prime Minister since Indira Gandhi to visit this strategically vital Gulf nation in 34 years. The construction of the temple began in 2019. The UAE has at least 3.5 million Indians who are part of the Indian workforce in the Gulf. The land for the temple was donated by the UAE government. Seven spires representing seven emirates of the UAE, carvings of camels, and national bird falcon, are part of the architecture of the first Hindu stone temple in Abu Dhabi, to give equal representation to the host country. To give equal representation to the host country, along with animals that occupy an important place in Indian mythology like elephants, camels and lions, the UAE's national bird, the falcon, has also been included in the design. Apart from 15 tales from India, including the Ramayana and Mahabharata, stories from Mayan, Aztec, Egyptian, Arabic, European, Chinese and African civilizations have also been depicted in the temple. While the outer walls of the temple are made using sandstone from India, the interior, made of white Italian marble, is adorned with intricately designed and carved columns and walls.

Other Noteworthy architectural elements include two ghumats (structures), 12 samrans (dome-like domes) and 402 pillars. The two ghumats are the "Dome of Peace" and "Dome of Harmony". Over 300 high-tech sensors to measure temperature and monitor seismic activity, fly ash in the foundation to reduce carbon footprint, 18 million bricks, nano heat resistant tiles and no usage of iron and steel — the temple has been built using ancient architectural methods clubbed with scientific techniques. The temple's facade features exquisite marble carvings set against a sandstone backdrop, crafted from more than 25,000 pieces of stone by skilled artisans from Rajasthan and Gujarat. A substantial number of pink sandstone were transported from northern Rajasthan to Abu Dhabi for the temple.

Haiti's surge in violence led more than 53,000 to flee

AP ■ PORTAU-PRINCE

More than 53,000 people have fled Haiti's capital in less than three weeks, the vast majority to escape unrelenting gang violence, according to a United Nations report released Tuesday. More than 60 per cent are headed to Haiti's rural southern region, which worries UN officials. Our humanitarian colleagues emphasised that these departments do not have sufficient infrastructure, and host communities do not have sufficient resources, to cope with the large number of people fleeing Port-au-Prince," said UN spokesman Stephane Dujarric. The southern region already hosts more than 116,000 Haitians who previously left Port-au-Prince, according to the report by the UN's

International Organisation for Migration. The exodus from the capital of some 3 million people began shortly after powerful gangs launched a series of attacks on government institutions at the end of February. Gunmen have burned police stations, opened fire on the main international airport that remains closed and stormed Haiti's two biggest prisons, releasing more than 4,000 inmates. More than 1,500 people have been reported killed up to March 22, and another 17,000 have been left homeless, according to the UN. Among the rare travellers trying to head north instead of south from the capital were Marjorie Michelle-Jean, a 42-year-old street vendor, and her two children, ages 4 and 7. "I want to see them alive," she said, explaining that stray bullets keep hitting the tin roof of their home. Last week, they tried twice to travel to her hometown of Mirebalais in central Haiti but were forced to turn back because of roadblocks. "I will definitely try again," she said. "It's absolutely not safe in Port-au-Prince." Of the 53,125 people who fled Port-au-Prince from March 8-27, nearly 70 per cent already had been forced to abandon their homes and were living with relatives or in crowded and unsanitary makeshift shelters across the capital, the UN found. More than 90 per cent of Haitians leaving the capital have been crowding into buses, risking travel through gang-controlled territory where gang rapes have been reported and gunmen have been known to open fire on public transport.

RBI panel starts discussion on monetary policy

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The Reserve Bank's rate-setting panel on Wednesday started its three-day deliberations on the next set of monetary policy amid expectations that the central bank would once again keep the key interest rate unchanged and focus more on inflation control as concerns over economic growth is abating.

The decision taken at the meeting of the Reserve Bank Governor Shaktikanta Das-headed Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) will be announced on Friday (April 5).

It is the first bi-monthly monetary policy of 2024-25. A total of six MPC meetings are scheduled for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 2024.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) last hiked the repo rate to 6.5 per cent in February 2023 and since then it has held the rate at the same level in its last six bi-monthly policies.

Experts said the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) may take cues from the central banks of some major economies, such as the US and the UK, which are apparently in wait-and-watch mode on interest rate cuts.

Switzerland has become the first major economy to cut interest rates, while Japan, the world's third-largest economy, ended its eight-year period of negative interest rates regime.

"We believe the (monetary policy) stance should continue to be withdrawal of accommodation," said research report of the country's largest lender State Bank of India (SBI).

It further said there is strong evidence of central banks in emerging economies rate actions are predated by such actions by central banks in advanced economies.

"India is an exception... First RBI (rate) cut in Q3FY25," it added.

On expectations from the RBI, Group CEO of Housing.Com Dhruv Agarwala said the central bank is likely to maintain a status quo on key policy rate in its April 5 policy amid strong economic growth.

"Even though the year-long downward trend in core inflation is encouraging, inflation is still close to the upper band of the apex bank's 2-6 per cent target, leaving little room for any rate cut during this policy cycle," he said, adding considering interest rates are likely to remain stable, the demand for housing in the country would continue to get a boost. On the other hand, Vivek Singhal, CEO, Smartworld Developers an interest rate cut in the upcoming RBI meeting will augur well for India's real estate market.

A rate cut will lower borrowing costs, stimulate demand, and foster investor confidence.

"Such a move has the potential to unleash a wave of growth and revitalisation in the sector. As consumers prioritise stability and security in their investment decisions, a lower interest rate environment would greatly enhance homebuyer sentiment and bolster affordability — a critical determinant within the housing market landscape," he said. India posted an 8.4 per cent economic growth in the December quarter of the previous fiscal year. The National Statistical Office (NSO) has revised GDP estimates for the first and second quarters of this fiscal to 8.2 and 8.1 per cent from 7.8 per cent and 7.6 per cent, respectively.

Other members of Governor Das headed MPC are Shashanka Bhide, Ashima Goyal, Jayanth R Varma, Rajiv Ranjan, and Michael Debabrata Patra.

The government has mandated the RBI to ensure retail inflation based on Consumer Price Index (CPI) remains at 4 per cent with a margin of 2 per cent on the either side.

The retail inflation was 5.1 per cent in February.

Vistara cancels 26 flights, holds meeting with pilots

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Amid flight cancellations due to non-availability of crew, Vistara's top officials on Wednesday held a meeting with pilots where discussions were held on new contracts and rostering issues, according to sources.

The Tata Group airline cancelled around 26 flights on Wednesday, the sources in the know said. With a section of pilots reporting sick to protest against the revised pay structure, Vistara cancelled over 100 flights in the last two days and aviation regulator DGCA has asked the carrier to submit a daily report on the cancellations and delays.

The sources said top officials of Vistara, including CEO Vinod Kannan, held a virtual meeting with pilots to discuss their problems. Officials of human resources among other departments attended the meeting.

There was no official statement from Vistara on the meeting with the pilots. Flight operations are returning to normalcy and the number of flights cancellations has come down, the sources said. On issues related to rostering and stretched working hours, the airline officials have assured the pilots that they will be sorted out by May, the sources said. They also claimed that the current situation was mainly due to higher utilisation of the available pool of pilots.

Vistara, which is in the process of getting merged with Air India, has around 1,000 pilots, including about 200 who are at various stages of training. In the summer schedule that started from March 31, the airline is to operate a little over 300 flights daily.

Planters oppose notification to sell 100 per cent tea through auction

PTI ■ GUWAHATI

An association of tea planters in the north-east region has opposed the central government's directive to sell 100 per cent of dust tea and 50 per cent of other grades produced in a calendar year through auction as it will be "detrimental" to the survival of the industry.

In a liberalised and globalised economy, there is "no need for the government to issue a notification to compulsorily sell a certain percentage of tea through a public auction", North East Tea Association Advisor Bidyanand Barkakoty said in a statement on Wednesday. "The government should not try to regulate one particular segment of the trade, and in this case, tea producers have no control over the market forces. We earnestly request that the notification should be withdrawn in the best interests of the tea industry," he said.

A gazette notification, Tea (Marketing) Control (Amendment) Order, 2024, issued on February 26, directed that not less than 50 per cent of the total tea manufactured in a calendar year and 100 per cent of dust grades tea manufactured in a calendar year in units located in Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Himachal Pradesh, Meghalaya, Mizoram, Nagaland, Sikkim, Tripura, Uttarakhand and West Bengal must be sold through public tea auctions but it does not apply to a mini tea factory.

"The basic principle of our objection is that since the government cannot guarantee the price realisation and the time taken for sale through auction, it should not intervene but leave it to producers to sell their produce in whatever way they feel comfortable," Barkakoty said.

Tea producers have a "huge risk and responsibility of paying wages to workers on time and also to small tea growers who sell their green leaf to factories", he said.

Coal blocks output surged 27 per cent in FY24: Joshi

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Captive and commercial coal blocks produced 147 million tonne coal in financial year 2023-24, registering a year-on-year growth of 27 per cent, Union Minister Pralhad Joshi said on Wednesday.

The mines had produced 116 MT coal during 2022-23. Out of 147.2 MT, power sector captive mines produced around 121.3 MT, non-power sector mines produced 8.4 MT and the production from commercial mines was 17.5 MT, Joshi said in a post on X. The production from power sector captive mines in FY24 rose 19 per cent as compared to the previous year. In non-power captive mines, the production growth was 63 per cent year-on-year.

Output from commercial coal mines registered the highest year-on-year growth of 93 per cent in FY24. Dispatch from the mines during FY24 was 143 MT as against 110 MT in FY23. A total of 9 new coal mines commenced production during FY24 which includes 4 captive mines and 5 commercial mines.

"The Ministry extends its appreciation to all stakeholders for their dedication and efforts in achieving these milestones. The increased coal production not only reinforces India's energy security but also fosters economic growth and industrial development across sectors," Joshi said.

Toyota Kirloskar Motor is looking to drive in more premium models in the country with customers gradually moving towards bigger-sized vehicles in the market, according to a senior company executive.

The company, which sells models like Innova and Fortuner, on Wednesday expanded its range in the country with the introduction of entry-level SUV Urban Cruiser Taisor.

In an interaction with PTI, Toyota Kirloskar Motor Deputy Managing Director Tadashi Asazuma (Sales and Marketing) said the company aims to cater to the diverse customer requirements in the market.

He noted that the company also plans to have models with diverse powertrains, including hybrid and battery electric vehicles in its portfolio in the country.

Asazuma said customers are shifting from small cars to bigger cars gradually and that is one reason the company is even expanding its production capacity with a new manufacturing plant to offer new models.

Toyota looks to introduce more premium models in India

When asked if the company would look at bringing in more premium cars in the market, he noted, "We think it should be necessary".

He further said: "Last year, we announced (plans) to build a new plant in Bidadi. That is a preparation for meeting with the customer demand." The new plant is expected to commence production in 2026, Asazuma noted.

The share of sports utility vehicles has risen to 50 per cent of overall wholesales in FY24 while the share of entry-level and sedans has reduced in the same period.

On being asked if the company would focus on hybrid technology or battery electric vehicles in the market, he stated that the company has all kinds of technologies and the strategy is to "meet customer requirements".

He said, "As of now, in the case of India, we believe that strong hybrid vehicles are a practical solution. But of course, with more and more customer requirements coming in we will think about it (BEVs)." On the timeframe for introducing its first BEV in the country, he declined to share details. Asazuma said the Indian market is very important for Toyota globally and that the automaker aims to grow along with the auto market which has now become the third largest globally.

On the introduction of Urban Cruiser Taisor, Asazuma said the model would help the company to bring in more customers to its fold.

The Urban Cruiser Taisor is TKM's version of Maruti Suzuki's Fronx.

The automaker, a joint venture between Toyota Motor Company and Kirloskar Group, has also introduced a new scheme for online sales.

"We are now piloting it in Bangalore. If it is successful, it can be introduced at other locations as well. We do not have a detailed plan yet," Asazuma said. TKM currently has around 647 touchpoints across the country.

Shareholders nod to Vodafone Idea to raise ₹20,000 crore

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Vodafone Idea Ltd (VIL) on Wednesday said its shareholders have approved a proposal to raise up to Rs 20,000 crore by issuance of securities.

An extraordinary general meeting (EGM) seeking shareholders' nod for raising capital was held on Tuesday.

VIL in a BSE filing informed about the voting results of the EGM, where 99.01 per cent of the overall votes were cast in favour of the resolution pertaining to "issuance of securities up to an aggregate amount of Rs 20,000 crore".

The approval comes at a time when the debt-laden firm is planning to raise Rs 45,000 crore through a mix of equity and debt with hopes of matching services offered by rivals Reliance Jio and Bharti Airtel, and arresting an alarming and prolonged subscriber churn. The fundraise will arm VIL to improve competitive positioning in the Indian telecom market, where it trails Jio and Bharti Airtel, by a wide margin.

In February this year, the company's board had approved raising up to Rs 20,000 crore in equity from promoters and other investors by June, as it looked to shore up finances for the much-delayed 5G rollout and strengthening 4G services. Vodafone Idea — where the government now also holds just over 33 per cent equity stake — has been fighting a desperate battle for survival. It has a debt of Rs 2.1 lakh crore, is reporting quarterly losses, and haemorrhaging subscribers month after month.

AT 96, OLDEST RUNNER DATTATREYA TAKES ON NEW CHALLENGE

PTI ■ BENGALURU

Age is just a number for 96-year-old NS Dattatreya who will be participating in the 'TCS World 10K Bengaluru 2024' as the meet's oldest runner. Dattatreya is an avid distance-runner and had previously participated in this Gold Label race scheduled to be held on April 28. Having begun his distance running journey in January 2019, the nonagenarian has taken part in dozens of marathons and walkathons. "After I ran my first marathon, I knew this was something I wanted to continue doing. It started with just wanting to keep fit and soon it turned into a lifestyle," he said.

"There's no point in having a lot of money if you aren't able to enjoy it," he added, underlining the need to pay attention to one's health and lifestyle. "The first thing a friend asks you when they meet you is about your health and not the money you have."

In an age where the virtual world is slowly taking over, Dattatreya believes it is important to indulge in some form of physical activity, so as to not become a burden on one's family. His day begins at 5.30am with a bit of warm-ups followed by cycling for about an hour.

In the evening, he is on his treadmill, joined by his son Murali after getting home from his work. "I used to play football when I was much younger. Now I run. I have always ensured that I maintained a healthy lifestyle. "I believe there are two things that parents can give their children — quality education and preventing themselves from becoming a burden on their family by taking care of their health through physical exercise of some form or the other." Dattatreya has been a part of this event for the past few years and loves every bit of it.

Hardik credits uncle Jugraj for shaping his career

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

If it was not for a timely advice from his uncle and former India drag-flicker Jugraj Singh, men's team vice captain Hardik Singh would have shifted to the Netherlands back in 2017 when he was striving hard to kick open the door of national camp for himself without success. Hardik, a star midfielder from Khusrapur village near Jalandhar in Punjab, says he was on the verge of giving up his dream of playing for India if his maternal uncle Jugraj had not motivated him to stay focussed. "I progressed from the sub-junior level to the senior level at a good pace after I joined the Mohali Hockey Academy as a 14-year-old. But after a few years, I found myself in a situation where I had lost confidence after being ignored for the national camp. "At that time, way back in 2017, I thought of shifting base to the Netherlands to play club hockey there. I gave up hope of representing India. If he (Jugraj) had not guided me at that time, I wouldn't be here now. When you are doing well, you need good guidance," Hardik told PTI in an exclusive chat. "He advised me to explore hockey in the country more and improve my game. That time I was 18-19 year old. So I thought let me give me some more time and explore my hockey in India," he added. "He (Jugraj) told me you have age on your side. You have the game, you can shine even by staying back in India. Play for domestic teams and show your skills so that people can know about you," he said. "If not for his guidance I wouldn't have been here today because I didn't have so much patience." Hardik's decision to stay back yielded desired results as he went on to become the mainstay in the Indian team's midfield and was also a part of the Tokyo Olympics bronze medal-winning squad besides being a member of the Hangzhou Asian Games gold medal-winning side. He was also part of the silver medal-winning side of 2022 Birmingham Commonwealth Games. Recently, Hardik was named FIH Player of the Year as well Hockey India Player of the Year. "As an individual I am happy about the awards, but our greater focus is on the team as hockey is a team game. If one player out of the 16-member squad doesn't play well, it will harm the team," he said. Jugraj said as an athlete, Hardik too had his setbacks but he just reminded him about the significance of representing the national flag and that motivated the star midfielder. "It is a proud feeling for the entire family about what he has achieved so far but the journey is not over yet. So I advised him to work hard and he will get the results. He also did a lot of hardwork," Jugraj told PTI. "But in between some moments come when one suffers setbacks. In 2017 there were some setbacks for him but the entire family backed him and made him understand. "He was dropped from two camps so he thought he would never be called back. I just told him that you can earn anything outside the country, but the feeling of representing the tri-colour is different. That thing got stuck on his head and after that he never looked back."

IOC sets deadline of early 2025 to keep boxing in Olympics

AP ■ LAUSANNE (SWITZERLAND)

The International Olympic Committee on Wednesday said it needs to find a suitable new international boxing body by early next year or risk boxing dropping out of the Olympics for the Los Angeles Games in 2028. The IOC stripped the International Boxing Association of the right to run the Olympic boxing tournaments in Tokyo in 2021 and Paris this year. On Tuesday, the Court of Arbitration for Sport upheld the IOC's decision to formally de-recognize the IBA, cutting it out of the Olympic movement altogether. The IOC has long cited concerns about the IBA's governance and the integrity of how boxing matches are refereed and judged. It also accused the IBA's Russian president Umar Kremlev of using "violent and threatening language" about IOC personnel last year. "Because of the universality and high social inclusivity of boxing, the IOC wants it to continue to feature on the program of the Olympic Games," the IOC said Wednesday. "Unfortunately, this is far from certain for the Olympic Games LA 2028 because, for governance reasons, the IOC is not in a position to organize another Olympic boxing tournament. To keep boxing on the Olympic program, the IOC needs a recognized and reliable International Federation as a partner, as with all the other Olympic sports." The IOC called on national boxing bodies and Olympic committees to help set up a new international governing body for boxing. To keep boxing in the Olympics for Los Angeles, "the IOC needs to have a partner International Federation for boxing by early 2025," it said. The IOC didn't name any candidates but the likeliest might be World Boxing, a breakaway body backed by boxing officials in the United States and Britain which split from the IBA last year and elected its president, Boris van der Vorst of the Netherlands. World Boxing has started hosting its tournaments and said it had members from 27 nations and territories when it held a congress in November. The IBA said Wednesday it was considering whether to file an appeal to the Swiss Supreme Court against the CAS ruling, which it said had failed to appreciate the IBA's reforms. "The IBA feels that disregarding these and other improvements suggests a biased view," the IBA said.

Chennaiyin FC, Norwich City FC join forces to work on grassroots

PTI ■ CHENNAI

Chennaiyin FC have entered into a strategic partnership with English Championship side Norwich City FC to foster mutual growth, innovation, and football collaboration. Both clubs signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) on Wednesday here and the deal is expected to bring in a wealth of experience, expertise, and unique footballing philosophies, along with the knowledge exchange, technical expertise, coaching methodologies, and player development strategies. Commenting on the partnership, CFC vice-president Ekansh Gupta stated, "We are delighted to unveil our collaboration with Norwich City. Let me be clear: this is far from a mere marketing ploy. "We anticipate significant advancements for our developmental teams through this partnership. I am confident that we can assist Norwich City in achieving their aim of establishing a presence within the Indian sports ecosystem." With this tie-up, CFC are eager to facilitate cultural exchange programs and collaborate on joint marketing initiatives to engage diverse audiences and promote the vision of both clubs, the club said in a statement. Norwich's technical expertise and involvement in workshops and seminars are expected to play an important role in enhancing the coaching standards and methodologies at CFC. Also, active participation in youth development programs, including talent identification processes and coaching clinics, is further expected to strengthen the partnership's impact. Under this agreement, the two clubs are also expected to engage in periodic friendly games and training camps. Norwich's Commercial Director Sam

Jeffery remarked, "This is an extremely exciting moment for Norwich City as we enter into our partnership with Chennaiyin FC and, with it, the Indian football market. "India has the fastest growing sports economy in the world, and football is the fastest growing participation sport here too. "We believe there's significant commercial opportunity in this fantastic part of the world, and we're really excited to build a mutually beneficial and culturally authentic collaboration with our friends at Chennaiyin FC." Norwich are a two-time winner of the English League Cup, besides finishing third during the 1992-93 season of the FA Premier League (now EPL). They are currently playing in the EFL Championship and placed sixth in the league table, having previously won the title in 2018-19 and 2020-21. As for CFC, they are placed ninth in the ongoing ISL season, having won the title in two instances (2015 and 2017-18).

PTI ■ ASTANA

Young Indian shuttler Anmol Kharb overcame a strong challenge from country-mate and top seed Malvika Bansod to enter the women's singles pre-quarters of the Kazakhstan International Challenge here on Wednesday. The World No. 333 will take on Indonesia's 21-year-old shutter Nuran Ratu Azzahra in the last-16 round. Earlier in the two qualification rounds, Anmol got a walkover from Kamila Smagulova of Kazakhstan before beating Cassey Rynn Rompong of Malaysia 21-9 21-9 to secure a place in the main draw. Jessica beat Amanda at Charleston Open

AP ■ CHARLESTON (S.C)

Top-seeded Jessica Pegula rallied from a set down and beat fellow American Amanda Anisimova 3-6, 6-4, 7-6 (3) in a second-round match at the Charleston Open on Tuesday night. Pegula had seven aces in the match and won despite capitalizing on 4 of 15 break points. Anisimova converted on 4 of 8 break points. Pegula said Anisimova is tough to play because she is a great ball striker, and she can take the racket out of an opponent's hands. "I just kind of had to buckle down, and I think I started being a little bit more active with my feet and pressuring her a little bit more and being able to move her and kind of scrap out a few points as well," Pegula said. "So, yeah, I just kind of found a way today, but it was a really great match, I thought, especially the last set was super high level." Third-seeded Maria Sakkari of Greece also advanced to the third round with a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Viktoriya Tomova of Bulgaria, while Magda Linette of Poland lost the first set at love and came back to beat No. 13 seed Dayana Yastremska of Bulgaria 0-6, 6-4, 6-3 in a second-round match. Earlier in the day, Miami Open champion Danielle Collins and Sloane Stephens won first-round matches. Collins beat Paula Badosa 6-1, 6-4 at the clay-court tournament, while Stephens, the 2017 U.S. Open champion, defeated Magdalena Frech 6-0, 6-2. Collins has disclosed this will be her finish season on tour. She has endometriosis, an ailment that affects the uterus. "I'd rather like to go out with a bang, you know, than the other way," Collins said. "I know everybody has a different way of ending their professional career, and for me I want to go out playing my best tennis." Stephens is playing on her favorite surface. "It's more athletic. It's more running, more sliding, just a lot more adversity I feel like, but in a good way," she said. "When you think the point is over, it's never over." Other winners Tuesday included Taylor Townsend, Astra Sharma, Caroline Dolehide, Ashlyn Krueger and Elisabetta Cocciaretto.

Cristiano nets another hat trick in Saudi Arabia

AP ■ ABHA (SAUDI ARABIA)

Cristiano Ronaldo notched his second hat trick in the space of 72 hours as Al-Nassr routed Abha 8-0 in the Saudi Pro League on Tuesday. The five-time Ballon D'Or winner scored three goals and recorded two assists in the first half for the nine-time Saudi Arabian champions. The hat trick was his third of the league season following his treble in Saturday's 5-1 win over Al-Tai. The Portugal star leads the league with 29 goals. Ronaldo's first two goals Tuesday came from free-kicks. With 11 minutes on the clock, he opened the scoring with a low shot from a central position just outside the area. The second came 10 minutes later when he curled the ball around the wall from the left side. Ronaldo then assisted Sadio Mané for Al-Nassr's third just after the half-hour, pulling the ball back from the left for the former Liverpool forward to score. Three minutes before the break, Ronaldo then completed the hat trick with a beautiful chip from outside the area as he ran toward goal.

There was still enough time in the first-half for Ronaldo to slip the ball to his right for Abdulmajeed Al-Sulayhim to score into an open goal from close range. The star was taken off at the break though Al-Nassr continued to find the target. Saudi Arabian international Abdulrahman Ghareeb added a sixth soon after the restart and substitute Abdulaziz Al-Aliwa scored two more. Despite the win, Al-Nassr is still in second, 12 points behind runaway leader Al-Hilal with eight games remaining. Al-Hilal announced earlier in the day that striker Aleksandar Mitrovic, second behind Ronaldo with 22 goals, is likely to miss the rest of the season through injury.

Spanish police detain former soccer federation head Rubiales

AP ■ BARCELONA

Spanish police detained former soccer federation president Luis Rubiales on his return to the country amid an ongoing corruption probe, Spain's Civil Guard said on Wednesday. The Civil Guard said that Rubiales is being questioned by police at Madrid's airport after he was detained on exiting the plane that brought him back home from the Dominican Republic. Police have 72 hours to hand Rubiales over to a judge or release him. Rubiales was returning to Spain amid a judicial probe into the business deal to hold the Spanish Super Cup in Saudi Arabia. Rubiales was in the Dominican Republic two weeks ago when police raided a property belonging to him in Granada and the offices of the Spanish Football Federation in Madrid as part of a corruption and money laundering investigation that included the Super Cup among other deals. Seven people were detained by police and Rubiales was identified as one of five additional individuals under investigation. Rubiales stepped down as president of the federation in September after causing an international scandal for kissing Spain player Jenni Hermoso without her consent at the Women's World Cup final.

Rayudu blames RCB title drought to senior players

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

If a title triumph has eluded Royal Challengers Bengaluru since the inception of the Indian Premier League (IPL), it is because highly-paid international stars have always buckled under pressure, leaving the juniors to do all the heavy lifting, says former India batter Ambati Rayudu. Rayudu, who has won multiple IPL trophies with both Mumbai Indians and Chennai Super Kings, didn't take any names but probably he was hinting towards team's three premier batters - Virat Kohli, Glenn Maxwell and Faf du Plessis. RCB have lost two out of their three IPL games this season and while Kohli has scored 203 runs at a strike-rate of 140 plus, he hasn't exactly set the stage on fire during Powerplay. Du Plessis has managed 65 runs in four games while Maxwell has contributed only 31 runs so far in as many games. "RCB's bowlers always concede over par runs and their batting unit performs under par," Rayudu told Star Sports after RCB lost to LSG on Tuesday. "Who are all batting in pressure situations? The young Indian batters and Dinesh Karthik. The big international names, who are supposed to take the pressure, where are they? All are back in the dressing room," Rayudu said. He was referring Mahipal Lomror, who has come in as Impact Sub in a few games and scored at a strike-rate of 230 plus and Karthik, whose cameo was instrumental in their only win of the season so far against Punjab Kings. Rayudu termed it as a convenient option for senior batters, who are consuming all the Powerplay overs, where scoring runs is easy with field restrictions in place. "Sixteen years. This is the same story of RCB, when there is pressure, no big name is ever found standing. All youngsters are playing at the back-end and all the big guns bat at the top of the order and they whip off the cream from the cake and that is the reason this team has never won IPL," said the 38-year-old firebrand batter, who played 55 ODIs and six T20Is for India between 2013 and 2019.

Mayank impresses all with raw pace, accuracy

SAMAR PANDEY ■ NEW DELHI

The sensational 21-year-old Mayank Yadav from the Lucknow Super Giants has stormed into the limelight of the Indian Premier League with an extraordinary start to his career. With two consecutive Player-of-the-Match awards in his first two IPL games, Mayank has already carved a place for himself in elite territory, showcasing his exceptional talent and skill on the ground. Mayank has also etched his name in the IPL record books by consistently bowling deliveries exceeding the 155 kilometers per hour mark. His lightning-fast pace was evident in his delivery clocked at 156.7 kilometers per hour, which stands as the fourth fastest in the history of the IPL. Mayank's recent match-winning performances against the Punjab Kings and the Royal Challengers Bangalore have been nothing short of sensational. His searing spell of 3 for 14 in four overs at the Chinnaswamy Stadium left the opposition batsmen in awe, including the dismissals of hitters like Glenn Maxwell and Cameron Green, as well as the well-set Rajat Patidar. Reflecting on his early success, Mayank expressed his delight in contributing to his team's victories and emphasised his long-term aspiration to excel for his country. Despite his individual achievements, Mayank remains focused on the collective goal of winning matches for his team, highlighting his maturity and dedication to the sport. Speaking about his favourite wicket, Mayank recalled the dismissal of Cameron Green, where a lightning-fast delivery rattled the stumps and cleared the boundary on the first bounce, showcasing the sheer pace and power of his bowling. Mayank attributed his ability to bowl at such high speeds to a combination of factors, including his disciplined diet, sleep, and his training regimen. He emphasised the importance of maintaining perfection in every aspect of his preparation, including post-match recovery routines such as ice baths. KL Rahul, captain of the Lucknow Super Giants, has praised Mayank for his remarkable perseverance and dedication. He highlighted Mayank's resilience in overcoming previous injuries and his continuous pursuit of self-improvement. Fellow teammate Quinton de Kock praised Mayank's express pace and simplicity in approach, highlighting his ability to remain focused and deliver under pressure. Despite his youthful age, Mayank has shown maturity beyond his years, earning the respect and admiration of his peers and opponents alike. RCB captain Faf du Plessis acknowledged the challenge of facing a young fast bowler with a unique action, noting the difficulty for batsmen to judge and adjust quickly. Du Plessis commended Mayank's pace and accuracy, underscoring his potential to become a formidable force in the cricketing world. As Mayank continues to make waves in the IPL with his exceptional performances, cricket fans eagerly anticipate witnessing his continued growth and success on the international stage. With his raw talent and determination, Mayank is assured to leave a permanent mark on the world of cricket for years to come.

Mavi ruled out of IPL due to injury

PTI ■ LUCKNOW

Lucknow Super Giants' pacer Shivam Mavi has been ruled out of this season's Indian Premier League after he failed to recover from his rib injury. The 25-year-old, who last played competitive cricket in August 2023, missed the entire domestic season for Uttar Pradesh but did turn up for Lucknow Super Giants' pre-season training only to be told that he would not play any part in this edition. He had suffered a rib stress fracture in August last year. "The talented right-arm fast bowler joined us after the auction in December and has been part of the camp from pre-season. He has been a key part of the squad for the season, hence we as well as Shivam are disappointed that his season has come to an end so soon," the press release from LSG stated. Mavi, who has played six T20

Internationals for India, also didn't get to play a single game for Gujarat Titans in 2023, and in the last auction, LSG roped him for Rs 6.4 crore to fill the void created by Avesh Khan leaving for Rajasthan Royals. "The franchise will continue to support Shivam and is committed to aiding him in his recovery process. We wish him a swift and complete return, and are sure he will be back fitter and stronger," LSG stated. Mavi, on his part, vowed to come back stronger. "I thought I will play matches and do well for my team but unfortunately I have to go because of injury. "A player needs to be mentally strong and also know what are the areas one needs to focus on during rehabilitation. We have a good team here," he said in a video posted on LSG's official 'X' handle.

Suryakumar clears most fitness tests, to play either on April 7 or 11

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Mumbai Indians will soon get the much required batting boost as the world's No.1 ranked T20 batter Suryakumar Yadav has cleared almost all the fitness tests at National Cricket Academy and is very close to playing his first IPL game of the season. Suryakumar had undergone multiple surgeries — one for grade 2 ankle tear and another for sports hernia — and he last played in the T20 series in South Africa. "Surya has cleared all but one routine tests which are mandatory to get RTP (Return To Play) certificate from the NCA. There is one more test left to be conducted on Thursday, after which a clearer picture would emerge," a senior BCCI source told PTI on the condition of anonymity. "He is batting comfortably and has done all simulations," he added. Asked if Suryakumar will be able to play the Mumbai Indians' home game on April 7 against Delhi Capitals, the source said: "The clearer picture will emerge after tomorrow's tests. There's still three days before the next game but since it's a comeback after a long time, it could also be April 11 at home against RCB." The swashbuckling batter has been MI's most prolific performer for the past four to five seasons and his absence from the playing XI has been felt by the team that has lost its first three matches this season. His replacement Naman Dhir, the player from Punjab, is yet to measure up and beleaguered skipper Hardik Pandya would certainly need 'Mr 360 degree' to stem the rot. As far as the BCCI's medical team is concerned, the clear mandate was to ensure that India's premier T20 batter is completely fit for the T20 World Cup in the USA and West Indies, and also make sure that there are no premature breakdowns during the IPL.

Could have been handled better with clear communication SHASTRI ON PANDYA CAPTAINCY ROW

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Former India coach Ravi Shastri feels the fan backlash towards Hardik Pandya could have been avoided had Mumbai Indians shown "clarity in communication" while announcing him as captain. Shastri also advised Pandya to stay calm and weather the storm with solid performances. "This is not the Indian cricket team that's playing. This is franchise cricket. They have paid top dollar. They are the bosses. It's their entitlement as to who they want as captain. Okay, where I think this could have been handled better was with more clarity in communication," Shastri told Star Sports' 'Cricket Live Show'. "If you wanted Hardik Pandya as captain, then say that we are looking at the future. We are looking to build. Rohit has done a fabulous job, as everyone knows, and we want him to help out Hardik in these next three years as the team progresses. "That communication, that clarity should have come out a little more for all this to die down. So it's not a case of you saying, 'No, we don't want

Rohit Sharma,' or 'He was treated badly,' and all the things that are coming out in social media," he added. Shastri expects the tide to turn once Mumbai Indians start winning. The team is currently on a three-match losing streak. "So, my advice to Hardik would be to be calm, patient, ignore, and just focus on your game. Get a couple of performances going. Mumbai Indians is a terrific side. If they get on a roll, they win three or four matches on the trot, everything will subside," he said. "At the end of the day, nothing beats results. You win matches, and things will change. There's a lot of bull crap out there as well. You know, and some of the stories are just planted. A lot of it is just planted on other people's names, including my name," he added. Former Australia batter Matthew Hayden also felt that fans' affection for Rohit is understandable given his 11-year tenure as MI captain. "See the fans are the biggest stakeholders in this and they often don't have the politics, the insights, but they want to understand this, they love Rohit Sharma."

Punjab Kings batters to face different challenge against Gujarat Titans

PTI ■ AHMEDABAD

Bruised by Mayank Yadav's scorching pace, Punjab Kings' batters will face an altogether different challenge when Gujarat Titans' bowling unit tries to take the pace off deliveries on a slightly tricky Motera track in their IPL match here on Thursday. The Kings have lost their last two away games and another slip-up against Titans will lead to further loss of momentum which tends to shift very quickly due to lack of turnaround time. Titans, on the other hand, are brimming with confidence after beating Sunrisers Hyderabad comprehensively by seven wickets in their last game. In the previous match, Kings were completely undone by Mayank's speed and most of their top-order batters looked ill-equipped to face the fast bowler, who was regularly clocking 150 clicks and more importantly, aiming to bowl into the body of the batters. However, the scenario will be completely different when veteran Mohit Sharma comes calling at the back-end, presenting a palate of variations. Mohit uses knuckle balls, slow bouncers and wide yorkers to good effect and this year's IPL trend has shown that save Mayank, all speedsters, who have been able to take pace off their deliveries, have been more successful. It will pose a different kind of challenge for the likes of Shikhar Dhawan, Jonny Bairstow and Jitesh Sharma, all of whom like the ball to come on to the bat. If Liam Livingstone is unavailable for Thursday's match after sustaining a hamstring niggle in the last game, it will spell doom for Punjab as they would then happen to lose their key enforcer during the death overs. Punjab will also have to deal with the accuracy of the incomparable Rashid Khan and the guile of Noor Ahmed, former's left-arm alter-ego. The third Afghan in the lineup, Azmatullah Omarzai's all-round skills will also be a challenge for the team. More than Punjab's batting, it is their bowling, especially at the death, that has been a cause for concern. Harshal Patel, one of their million dollar buys, has had a pathetic season so far going for an economy rate of 11.41 runs per over, having bowled his quota in all three games. Equally disappointing has been leg-spinner Rahul Chahar, who has conceded runs at an economy rate of 11.37, and hasn't been able to complete his quota of overs. Arshdeep Singh, India's designated death overs yorker specialist, has also been profligate to a certain extent and it has once again compounded Kings' worries. For Titans, the performance
