The New Delhi Municipal Council (NDMC) has decided to provide 'Eidgahs' to the people of Delhi this year to ensure proper social distancing during the festival amid the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic. The move was announced by the Council's President, Vijay Khandelwal, in a press conference.

Mr. Khandelwal said that the decision was taken after consulting with the relevant authorities and taking into consideration the safety and security of the people. He added that the NDMC would ensure that all necessary arrangements are made to provide a safe and comfortable environment for the devotees.

The President further mentioned that the NDMC would also provide free parking facilities and clear signage to guide the people to the nearest 'Eidgah'. He urged the people to adhere to the Covid-19 protocols and maintain social distancing while offering prayers.

The NDMC has also instructed its field staff to ensure that all hygiene and safety measures are followed during the festival.

Excise department الحملّان: ‘Stop violence against farmers’

STAFF REPORTER | NEW DELHI

The excise department has launched a campaign to stop violence against farmers. The campaign, called ‘Stop Violence against Farmers’, aims to raise awareness among the public about the importance of respecting farmers and their work.

The excise department has urged people to report any incidents of violence against farmers to the police. It has also appealed to the people to support farmers and buy their produce to help them sustain their livelihood.

The campaign comes in the wake of several incidents of violence against farmers across India. The excise department has been working with the farmers’ organizations to address their concerns and provide them with a platform to voice their grievances.

The department has also called on the people to support the farmers and join hands to fight against violence against them. It has urged the people to follow the rules and regulations set by the government to ensure that the farmers are not subjected to any form of violence.

The excise department has also appealed to the government to take strict action against those who indulge in violence against farmers. It has called on the government to provide adequate security to the farmers and to ensure that they are not subjected to any form of harassment.

The campaign has been launched in collaboration with the farmers’ organizations and the excise department has urged the people to support the campaign and help in creating a和谐 environment for the farmers. A fresh round of tag goes on between the TMC supremo and West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, who has accused the TMC supremo of trying to polarise the CAA, NRC and the Citizenship (Amendment) Act. The CAA and NRC are two laws that were passed in 2019, which have been a source of controversy in India. The TMC supremo, who is the leader of the Trinamool Congress (TMC) party, has been critical of the BJP government and its policies.

The TMC supremo has also been involved in a legal battle with the West Bengal government. The TMC supremo has been accused of trying to influence the results of the recent West Bengal Assembly elections, which were won by the TMC. The TMC supremo has denied these allegations.

Former Congress spokesperson Rohan Gupta joins BJP

Rohan Gupta, Congress's senior spokesperson from the state, has joined the Bhartiya Janta Party (BJP). His entry into the party is a significant development as it comes ahead of the upcoming elections in the country. Gupta, known for his articulate and incisive commentary on political issues, is expected to bring a new dynamic to the BJP's campaign strategy. His presence is likely to energise the party's base and attract a wider audience.

Gupta's decision to join the BJP is seen as a strategic move given the political climate. The Congress, which was once a dominant force in Indian politics, has been facing intense pressure from the ruling party and other opposition parties. Gupta's entry into the BJP is likely to be closely watched by political analysts and media houses.

The move has also sparked debate within the party ranks. Some within the BJP have welcomed Gupta's entry, seeing it as a sign of a broader, more inclusive approach. However, others have raised concerns about the potential for internal divisions and the challenge of maintaining ideological coherence.

Gupta's decision to join the BJP marks a significant shift in his political career. He has been a key figure in the Congress, serving in various capacities and playing an active role in party politics. His entry into the BJP is likely to have implications for the political landscape in the country, influencing the dynamics of the upcoming elections.

The BJP, on the other hand, has been on a winning streak, capitalising on the challenges faced by the Congress and other opposition parties. Gupta's entry is expected to add firepower to the BJP's campaign and could influence the outcome of the elections.

Overall, the entry of Rohan Gupta into the BJP marks a significant development in Indian politics. It is a reminder of the constantly evolving nature of political affiliations and the fluidity of political power in the country.
BJP plays RJD leader Misa for remarks against PM Modi

Praful lying on Sharad 50 per cent readiness to go with BJP (NCP(S))

The BJP lashed out at RJD leader Misa Bharti on Thursday for making remarks against Prime Minister Narendra Modi. A senior NCP leader, senior party leader Misa Bharti issued a puppy to BJP leader Rahul Gandhi and told him to do away with PM Modi. There was no mention of the letter by Misa Bharti on Thursday. The two leaders are scheduled to meet at the time of the Jathy election.

Praful is the son of Sushil Chandra, the head of the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) and Congress leader Rahul Gandhi.

The letter to Rahul Modi raised concern in the government as it was the first time in history that a leader of the opposition would make such remarks against the PM. The BJP leaders have also been raising concern about the comments made by the Opposition leaders.

The letter was addressed to Rahul Gandhi and was signed by Praful Modi. The letter read, “I am writing to you to express my disappointment and concern about the recent comments made by you and the members of your party against Prime Minister Narendra Modi.”

The letter went on to say, “I have been a loyal supporter of your party and have always worked towards strengthening the party. However, I am disappointed to see your party leaders making such false and malicious allegations against the Prime Minister.”

The letter further said, “I urge you to reconsider your stance and to respect the democratic process. Your party’s attacks on the Prime Minister are not only divisive but also serve to undermine the stability of the country.”

The letter concluded with the request that Rahul Gandhi should not make such comments in the future.

The letter was made public by the BJP on Friday.

The September security grid across Jamu and Kashmir, high alert ahead of Modi rally

The security grid across Jamu and Kashmir has been stepped up as a high alert has been issued ahead of the Prime Minister’s visit to the region.

The security grid has been stepped up in the wake of recent threats made by terrorist groups in the region. The security forces have been put on high alert to prevent any terrorist activity.

LEDS International Court steps in

Arvind K. Kejriwal

A reader’s query appears to reflect a lack of faith in the judiciousness of international law. It is true that international law is not a ‘man-made’ system, it has evolved over centuries, as a result of human actions, decisions and opinion, to reflect the ethical and moral standards of the societies that have formed international law. The International Court of Justice (ICJ) is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations, established under the United Nations Charter. It has the power to settle international disputes in accordance with international law and to give advisory opinions on legal questions submitted to it. The ICJ is composed of 15 judges, who are elected by the United Nations General Assembly from a list of candidates provided by the Security Council. The judges serve nine-year terms, and the election process is designed to ensure international representation. The ICJ’s precedent-setting decisions have had a profound impact on international law, and it is widely regarded as the highest court on international law. It is true that the ICJ is bound by the principle of sovereign immunity, which means that it cannot hear cases involving the governments of states without their consent. However, this principle is not absolute, and there have been cases where the ICJ has been able to hear cases involving states, albeit with the consent of those states. The ICJ’s decisions are binding on the parties to the case, and it is widely considered to be an authoritative source of international law. It is up to the states to ensure that the principles of international law are respected and applied, and the ICJ plays a crucial role in this process. It is true that the ICJ has a limited number of staff and resources, but this is a reflection of the challenges and complexities of international law. The ICJ is a vital institution for ensuring the peaceful resolution of international disputes and the development of international law.
India is on the Western wave with several high-profile visits to and from the Asian country. This week US Treasury Secretary Yellen visited the country, where she was firm and polite with Chinese government officials regarding the deep concerns the US has with the nation on several trade-related issues. This time, China is both pushing its mega-dollar-backed US trade practices, changing US interests and impacting the global economy. China is also pushing the equipment and infrastructure that the region needs to track. Beijing is likely to warn of the challenges that some policymakers in Asia have about the US$800 billion deficit it generates annually. It may also warn about the US$2 billion tax gap created by the gigantific manufacturing companies in China. She said that large quantities of cheap Chinese products flooded the world market in the past few decades. As a result, American manufacturing output fell in the world around the planet. The US government's industrial policy was subtly influencing the prices of several items around the world. The US government is likely to bay in the US market for the products that have been produced in several industries in the US and the world and a repeat of the same would not be tolerated.

With a menu that has seen minimal changes over decades, eschewing cutlery in favour of a hands-on dining experience, Bukhara at ITC Maurya boasts a cult following among both foreign tourists and local patrons, says PAWAN SONI

Bukhara, the iconic restaurant at ITC Maurya, New Delhi, recently celebrated its 45th year of success, and I had the privilege to be a part of the festivities. As I immersed myself in the celebrations, one question lingered on my mind: Is Bukhara truly the most iconic restaurant in India? Bukhara undoubtedly claims this title when considering factors like its illustrious list of state head visitors and its perpetually bustling ambiance that doesn’t even waver during renovations. With a menu that has seen minimal changes over four and a half decades, eschewing cutlery in favour of a hands-on dining experience, Bukhara boasts a cult following among both foreign tourists and local patrons. What truly astonishes me is Bukhara’s enduring success despite unconventionalism. Despite its somewhat Spartan seating and amidst a sea of North Indian and North-West Frontier cuisines in the city, Bukhara maintains its allure with a unique menu. Despite high pricing at par with other five-star establishments, Bukhara continues to thrive, with a list of over 1000 monthly visitors and an ever-growing fanbase.

Perhaps the secret lies in its simplicity, a limited menu, and the rich history that Beacon patronizes. In an era where maintaining consistent taste across shifts is a challenge, Bukhara has maintained the same quality of flavors for 45 years, a remarkable achievement. Sure, servers have been recognized regularly by name, earning a passionate following. Dishes like the Naan Bukhara, a massive order of tangy flatbread, or the famous Dahi Bukhara, a generous portion of Dal Bukhara, are served in an ornate copper and steel serving boat, a crockery for more of its simple yet enticing flavors. And it is not only Chef JP Singh who has raved about the restaurant. It has been praised by my assumption of a new chef in 2024, who has dedicated 32 years to the establishment, making it the original OG even before the ITC hotel opened.

The fame of Dal Bukhara, in particular, has reached such heights that many smaller establishments make claims to the original recipe, calling it “Dal Bukhara.” But what sets Bukhara apart is the hands-on experience that is minimal ingredients is the secret behind its success. I can assure you that the next time you try Dunmoy’s famous poor, you will notice the subtle differences between the two. Bukhara continues to thrive, with a list of over 1000 monthly visitors, an ever-growing fanbase and a signature in its own right, crafted with utmost care and consistency. Taste may be subjective for a low patron but one can be assured of some flavors whenever they return. I could almost store with Chef Gill. While I enjoy exploring new restaurants and their offerings, Bukhara remains a place of comfort and nostalgia, beckoning me back time and time again. This Do it yourself (DIY) twist to the guest experience is what truly sets Bukhara apart. The place has a captivating ambience that blends modern aesthetics with warmth. The contemporary decor and inviting atmosphere create a perfect backdrop for memorable moments shared with friends and family. The service is highly professional as the servers may talk about the grilling and flavor infusion to create a unique menu. Gillard is certainly a hidden gem in the commercial hub that has a special place in the heart of many.

Gurugram’s ever-stretching frontiers

Stand alone restaurants in the Delhi NCR region are carving out a unique niche for themselves, says KARAN PURI

Gurugram, a bustling metropolis located in the north of India, has been growing at an unprecedented pace due to the massive digitalization and transformation in recent years. Of late, a plethora of options from commercial hubs to malls have mushroomed in the area. Stand-alone restaurants, particularly in the Delhi NCR region, are carving out a unique niche for themselves, says KARAN PURI, Chief Executive, ITC hotels.

The project features a stunning glass façade, state-of-the-art kitchen, and a wide range of facilities that cater to the diverse needs of businesses. The project is strategically located on Golf Course Extension Road, making it easily accessible from various parts of the city and its surrounding areas. It boasts of having leading restaurants like Desi khumb, Air Bar, Reflex brewery, and One 8 Commune, which is fast becoming the heart of business establishments. The place has a captivating ambiance that doesn’t even waver during renovations.
