Economists and marketers in a sinking ship: Supply chain disruptions, high inflation and demand for something unseen, which is still beyond the reach of policymakers.

In today's world, every government, whether in India or Pakistan, is grappling with the challenge of maintaining economic stability. The recent surge in inflation has put pressure on policymakers to act quickly to prevent a potential stagflation crisis. Stagflation, a combination of high inflation and low economic growth, can lead to a situation where prices are rising and output is declining simultaneously. This can have profound effects on the economy, making it difficult for businesses and individuals to plan and make decisions.

Pakistan's latest inflation figures show a sharp increase, with the consumer price index (CPI) rising to 11.1% in August 2022, from 7.8% in the previous month. This rise in inflation is largely due to increased fuel costs, higher international oil prices, and supply chain disruptions caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. The government has been working to address these issues, but the challenges are significant.

On the other hand, India's inflation rate has been relatively stable, with the CPI remaining below 6% in recent months. This is largely due to the country's diversified economy and the government's efforts to maintain economic stability. However, the recent surge in fuel and food prices has put pressure on the central bank to raise interest rates, which could have implications for the economy in the long term.

Regardless of the differences, both countries need to work together to address the challenges posed by inflation. This could include coordinating monetary policies, ensuring supply chain stability, and working to reduce the impact of external factors on the economy. By doing so, both countries can help ensure a smoother transition to a period of sustained economic growth.

The ancient city of Ayodhya, now Ayodhya, is ready to welcome the Ram Mandir on Monday after a wait of five centuries. Today, it narrates the story of Shri Bharat Mata Mandir, both with the manuscripts beginning at the confluence of the two rivers, the Ganges and the Yamuna, and the hallowed precincts, where the very soul of this divine odyssey. Temples and pilgrimage centres of Ayodhya, with its geographical origin in the story of communal feasts, come to life in the hallowed precincts, Pratistha ceremony of Ram Mandir, creating an atmosphere of spiritual fervour and communal harmony. Amid this sacred atmosphere, Ram Mandir, Ayodhya glimpses the dawn of a new era, where Lord Ram and Lord Ravana’s journey: “Our ancestors bore witness to the construction of a mosque five centuries ago. My father witnessed the demolition of the mosque and the subsequent construction of a mosque across the Ram Temple. He feels fortunate to witness the construction of the Ram Temple.”

Give peace a chance

As the rift in US-Israel ties gets more pronounced, the chances of peace in West Asia turn bleak

I

The Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has unequivocally rejected the idea of a state-to-state settlement to Palestine after the resolution of the ongoing war. This stance seems to not only put any hope for an early resolution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict in jeopardy but also indicates a widening rift between Israel and its ally, the US. The statement is significant because it may be the start of a new trend of the US ignoring a lasting solution to the decades-old conflict. Netanyahu, known for his strong conservative stance, has asserted that the establishment of an Arab state would jeopardize Israel’s security and territorial integrity. This is not only a departure from the earlier stand but also in stark contrast to the approach taken by other Israeli leaders who have at times engaged in discussions about a Two-State Solution. Netanyahu’s statement further complicates an already intricate problem. But what must come as a setback for peace advocates is the US move to de-Judeaize its West Asia approach. Historically, the US has been a key ally and supporter of Israel. However, over the years, several factors have influenced this relationship. A unilateral declaration of independence on September 11, 2001, led to a conundrum for the US policy, given the heavy impact on the Middle East. This declaration initiated a wave of anti-American sentiments that affected the US relationship with its allies in the region. After the US-led invasion of Iraq in 2003, the US became a more prominent player in the Middle East. This became evident after the US support for the establishment of a Palestinian state in 2009. The US was heavily involved in the Israeli-Palestinian peace process. This stance continued after the US recognized Jerusalem as the capital of Israel in December 2017. The US move to de-Judeaize its West Asia approach was further confirmed by the Secretary of State’s declaration that the US will no longer recognize the Palestinian Authority as the representative of the Palestinian people. This move indicates a shift in the US approach to the Middle East, away from the traditional policy of supporting a two-state solution. This change in policy will likely play a crucial role in mediating and fostering dialogue among the underlying issues fueling the conflict. The future of the region depends on the ability of global actors to discuss and resolve this conflict. Peace advocates must work towards a comprehensive solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

As election pledges of freebies escalate, Modi Government issues a warning to States at the third National Conference of Chief Secretaries

The third National Conference of Chief Secretaries was held on 28th and 29th December 2023 in Mumbai. In his address to the Chief Secretaries, Finance Minister Nawaz Munda, who is also the Finance Minister of Jharkhand, discussed the challenges in implementing welfare schemes and stressed the importance of distinguishing between welfare schemes and freebies.

Munda urged the States to avoid making election pledges that are not viable or sustainable. He pointed out that the Centre has been providing subsidies to States for welfare schemes, and it is important for States to ensure that they are not providing freebies that are not justified.

Munda also warned that frequent changes in election pledges can lead to confusion and mistrust among the public. He emphasized the need for clear and transparent communication about the benefits of welfare schemes.

He urged the States to ensure that the beneficiaries of welfare schemes are those who need them the most, and that these schemes are not used as a tool for political gain.

Munda highlighted the importance of monitoring and evaluating the performance of welfare schemes, and suggested the use of performance indicators to assess the effectiveness of these schemes.

The Finance Minister also urged the States to work closely with the Centre to ensure that welfare schemes are implemented effectively, and that the benefits reach the intended beneficiaries.

In conclusion, Munda emphasized the need for a clear understanding of the difference between welfare schemes and freebies, and urged the States to be cautious in making election pledges that are not viable or sustainable.

Gavaskar backs Viratball to counter Bazzaball in 5 Test series

PTI NEW DELHI

Indian great Sunil Gavaskar has backed ‘Viratball’ to counter ‘Bazzaball’ against England in the five-Test series.

Gavaskar, who missed the five-Test series against Pakistan in late 2022, told Star Sports: “The way he’s (Virat Kohli) been playing for the last few years, when India have played against the West Indies and New Zealand, he has shown that he is the driver’s seat against Goa. The 33-year-old hadn’t batted at their lowest of the series after their loss in the five-match series. The 59-year-old backed ‘Viratball’ to counter ‘Bazzaball’ against England in the five-Test series.

He said: ‘With the form that he’s in, we have a chance of winning the five Tests. With the way he’s been playing days. It’s up to the captaincy. The Test series promises an exciting contest of hundreds and fifties, that is what we all want to see.’

But Kohli looked disjointed even in decent batting conditions and was bowled out for 135 after 244 overs. He was dismissed by Craig Overton for 51.

For England, George Bess made a half-century and took three wickets. He was joined by Dan Lawrence, who made 37. The visitors were 2 for 58 at lunch, and 104 runs for a win, and they did not need to take any risks to score the runs needed to win.

Middle-order batsman Dan Lawrence hit a 52-run half-century as England batted their way to 270 for 3 in their first innings against South Africa at the Wanderers on Saturday.

The openers’ stand of 78 was enough to settle any nerves after a thin start as Leach dropped in for 20. England would have begun with their batting line-up. The tourists, who were led by the experienced Jack Leach and Joe Root in their second Test in a row, lost the first wicket in the fourth over from Mohammad Rizwan for 17.

Lawrence, 20, made four and then raised the tone of his innings, scoring 52. He was bowled out by the off-spinner for 52. England finished the day on 193 for 4, with 92 runs to still get to win.

India vs New Zealand

Delhi: India were 151 for 4 in their first innings against New Zealand in the first Test in the series on Saturday. India had 126 for 3 in their first innings against New Zealand in the first Test in the series on Saturday. India had 126 for 3 at lunch, and 116 runs for a win, and they did not need to take any risks to score the runs needed to win.

For New Zealand, Tim Southee took two wickets. He was joined by Tim Seifert, who made 35. The visitors’ opening wickets fell to James Anderson and Axar Patel, who bowled them out for 104 runs for a win, and they did not need to take any risks to score the runs needed to win.
