The Bharat Geospatial Institute has completed an extensive mapping of the Gondwana Gantantra Party (GGP) stronghold in Bilaspur (Gond) in Chhattisgarh. The detailed study was conducted in the erstwhile 'DDM Merlin' region by the Survey of India in the month of April 2023.

The mapping exercise was carried out with the objective of providing a comprehensive picture of the GGP's territorial spread, socio-economic indicators, and the political landscape of the region.

The study covered a total of 147 villages, including major villages like Chhattisgarh, Dhamtari, and Chhota Nagpur. The collected data will be utilized for understanding the developmental needs and for formulating targeted interventions.

The maps were generated using high-resolution satellite imagery and LiDAR data, providing a detailed view of the terrain and settlement patterns.

The GGP has been a significant political force in the region, with a strong presence among the tribal communities. The mapping exercise will contribute to a better understanding of the party's political influence and the socio-economic challenges faced by the region.

The study findings will be shared with relevant government departments for strategic planning and resource allocation to address the developmental needs of the region.
