Geeta Koda falls to JMM's political 'Chakravyuh' in Singhbhum

In a dramatic turn of events, West Singhbhum MLA Geeta Koda could not avert her defeat to the Mahagathbandhan candidate, reflecting the party's political weakness and the resilient campaign strategies employed by the opposition. Singhbhum Lok Sabha constituency's election results confirmed that the robust campaign strategies of the JMM played a significant role in securing a major victory over the Congress and other candidates, notably Geeta Koda, who was defeated by a margin of 47,480 votes.

The Mahagathbandhan's joint candidate, Joba Manjhi, secured 40,027 votes, while Koda managed 11,250 votes, with other candidates securing very limited votes. This outcome signals a significant shift in the political landscape of Singhbhum, with the Mahagathbandhan—consisting of Jharkhand Mukti Morcha, Congress, CPI(M), Jharkhand Jan Adhikar Party, and Socialist Party—demonstrating strong support among the electorate.

The defeat of Geeta Koda, a prominent political figure in Singhbhum, highlights the challenges faced by the Congress party in retaining its grip on the state. The result underscores the need for the party to strategize effectively and address concerns raised by the electorate to regain its lost strength. This electoral result is a stark reminder for political parties to focus on strengthening their base and ensuring successful outcomes in future elections.

NML sponsors Project Affected Youth for Skill Development training at CIPET, Ranchi

On World Environment Day, held annually on June 5th, to emphasize the importance of protecting the environment, NML organized a plantation drive at CIPET Ranchi. This initiative aimed to promote the growth of a green environment and instill the spirit of conscientiousness among the youths. The drive was aimed at planting 1,000 trees within public areas, including the campus, in collaboration with the Department of Science and Technology, Government of India. This campaign not only contributed to environmental sustainability but also aligned with the United Nations' goal of planting 1 trillion trees by 2030 as part of the initiative to address climate change and the loss of biodiversity.

Plantation Drive at Birla Temple

In celebration of World Environment Day, the Birla Temple organized a plantation drive, aiming to revive the surrounding environment and promote greenery. The event was a collaborative effort, involving the participation of local residents and the temple's管理。 The drive was part of a larger initiative to emphasize the importance of environmental conservation and sustainability. This event serves as a reminder of the collective responsibility we all hold in preserving our natural resources for future generations.
BJP debacle in tribal seats raises questions on leadership issue

K Jharkhand has one seat each in the 41-seat Jharkhand Assembly. On Thursday, senior BJP leader and Union Minister for Tribal Affairs Mukul Mody sought to project the BJP’s tribal seat tally as a victory, saying it had made inroads in the tribal belt which was traditionally under the control of the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM). In the recent Lok Sabha elections, the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM) won the seats of Dumka, Chaibasa, Koderma, Anasapurna, Pakur, Giridih and Khunti. The BJP, however, managed to win Deoghar, Singhbhum and Godda.

Mody sought to project the Tribal Development Ministry’s allocation of Rs 23.02 crore for the state as a significant achievement, saying it would help in the development of the tribal areas.

"The Tribal Development Ministry has allocated Rs 23.02 crore for the state, which will be utilized for the development of tribal areas," he said.

Mody also sought to project the BJP’s tribal seat tally as a victory, saying it had made inroads in the tribal belt which was traditionally under the control of the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM).

"We have made inroads in the tribal belt which was traditionally under the control of the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM)," he said.

Mody further said that the BJP’s performance in the recent polls was a result of the party’s efforts in the tribal areas.

"We have worked hard in the tribal areas and our performance in the recent polls is a result of that," he said.

Meanwhile, the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM) leader and former Chief Minister Hemant Soren on Thursday accused the BJP of trying to turn Jharkhand into Manipur and torture of Hemant inside jail.

Soren wrote on Twitter, "BJP tribal leaders matches with the arrest of Fr Swamy, signifies that if suitable trees are not available in the forest plantation should be done in the open air, this is the only way to protect and preserve the environment..."

In a social media post featuring a picture of a tree, Soren said, "Sitting in the open air, I urge our entire political system to please respect the nature and is also the basis of human rights..."

The party Candidate said that Hemant Soren was under trial and nothing could be done while in the Central Jail and that he could not meet with Soren while in the Central Jail as he was under trial.

India's green power policies come of age

India emerged as the third largest solar power generator in 2023, thanks to its ambitious policies and regulations.

F rom the Green Revolution to the Nuclear Power Act of 2008, India has made significant strides in renewable energy. The country's commitment to green energy has not only been reflected in its policies and regulations but also in the implementation of large-scale projects. India is now recognized as a leader in renewable energy, with a goal of achieving net-zero emissions by 2070. This article explores India's green power policies and regulations, and how they have contributed to its position as a global leader in renewable energy.

The Indian government has set ambitious targets for renewable energy, with a goal of 450 GW of installed capacity by 2030. The country has made significant progress in achieving these targets, with solar power playing a major role. India has the world's third-largest installed solar capacity, and its solar sector has grown rapidly in recent years. The government has implemented several policies to support the growth of solar power, including the Solar Parks Scheme, the National Solar Mission, and the Renewable Energy Certificate (REC) mechanism.

The government has also taken steps to encourage the development of wind power, with policies such as the Wind Power Purchase Agreement (WPPA) and the Wind Power Policy of 2019. These policies have helped to drive the growth of the wind power sector in India, with the country now having the world's fifth-largest wind power capacity.

India has also made significant progress in the development of biomass and small hydro power. The government has implemented policies such as the Biomass Power Plant Scheme and the Small Hydro Power Policy to support the growth of these sectors.

In addition to these policies and regulations, India has also implemented several initiatives to promote the adoption of green energy. The government has launched several programs, such as the National Electric Vehicle Mission (NEVM), the National Urban Mobility Mission (NMM), and the National Urban Infrastructure Mission (NUI), to encourage the use of electric vehicles and public transport systems.

India's green power policies and regulations have not only contributed to the growth of the renewable energy sector but have also helped to create jobs and reduce the country's carbon footprint. The government has set a goal of creating 5 million jobs in the renewable energy sector by 2022.

In conclusion, India's green power policies and regulations have played a crucial role in the country's transition to renewable energy. The government's commitment to green energy has not only helped to create jobs and reduce the country's carbon footprint but has also contributed to its position as a global leader in renewable energy. India's green power policies and regulations are a testament to the country's commitment to sustainability and the fight against climate change.

ORAKA SOKIALA FACED CRISIS

Oraka Sokiala, President of the Union of the Old People of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, has expressed his concern over the situation in the country. Sokiala said that the government's failure to address the needs of the elderly population has led to a crisis in the country. He called for immediate action to address the crisis and ensure the well-being of the elderly population.

Sokiala said that the government has failed to implement policies to support the elderly population, which is a vulnerable group in the country. He said that the government has not provided adequate support to the elderly population, who are often left to fend for themselves.

He called for the government to take immediate action to address the crisis and ensure the well-being of the elderly population. He said that the government should provide adequate support to the elderly population, including access to healthcare, nutrition, and social security.

Sokiala said that the elderly population is a valuable asset to the country, and their well-being is essential for the development of the country. He called on the government to prioritize the well-being of the elderly population and implement policies to support them.

Bjp’s clean sweep in Delhi

The victory of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) in the recent Delhi Assembly elections is a testament to the party’s strong base and its ability to connect with the voters. The BJP’s influential leaders, including Shahnawaz Hussain, have played a crucial role in the party’s success.

At the same time, the results also highlight the challenges faced by the opposition parties. The Congress Party, which has been the ruling party in Delhi for several decades, suffered a significant setback in the election.

The results of the election are a clear indication of the public’s support for the BJP and its policies. The party’s strong performance in the election is a reflection of the public’s trust in the party’s ability to deliver on its promises.

The BJP’s victory is also a reflection of the country’s political landscape, where the party has gained significant momentum in recent years. The party’s strong performance in the election is a clear indication of its ability to attract voters across different sections of society.

In our minds, we need to create a space where we will accept all the qualities (be they acceptable or not) of a person. Only through this, can we live in the present moment. A mediated role would be to be tolerant to situations, conditions and people. The locale and circumstances changing our minds, should be taken in a manner, that is to accept those situations. As Buddha says, the only permanent thing in life is its impermanence. By not accepting situations and people we are shutting off our minds, and not accepting ourselves. Some situations keep creeping up in our system as to what else our parents would do without dis-proving the fact that the Maslow individual is not even bothered about what our State of mind is.

To my mind, all religions and faiths need to accept each other to maintain a sense of peace. Social work needs to address the issues of globalization and technology. The world has become ‘Flat’, thus individ-border, in order to avoid the conflict. We need to intellectually and emotionally accept people from different cultures.

With the women's tournament of the French Open having entered its third week, Andrea Andreescu is looking to make her mark with a strong showing. The 17-year-old Canadian, who made waves in the 2019 US Open, is eager to continue her impressive run in Paris.

Andreescu, who captured her maiden Grand Slam title at the Rogers Cup in Toronto last year, is in the mix for a place among the top-10 world players. Her performances have been consistently high, with the Canadian having notched up three top-10 finishes this season.

The French Open has always been a special tournament for Andreescu, with the teenager having reached the quarter-finals in 2017. She is looking to improve on that performance this year and make a statement in her home country.

Andreescu will face a tough challenge in the penultimate round, with the top-10 player in the world, Karolina Pliskova, standing in her way. The Czech has been in excellent form lately, with a win at the Rogers Cup and a semi-final appearance at the Italian Open.

Andreescu believes she has the skills and the mental strength to match Pliskova, and is fully prepared for the battle. She knows that she will have to be at her best to have any chance of progressing to the final.

Andreescu's confidence is high, but she also knows that she cannot afford to take her foot off the pedal. She plans to focus on her game and not get distracted by the hype and the pressure.

The French Open is a tournament that means a lot to Andreescu, and she is determined to make the most of her chances this year. With a strong showing in the semi-finals, she could be on the cusp of another major title.

Man City: How Premier League rule change could alter the face of English soccer

The Premier League is set to introduce a new rule that will limit the amount of time that managers can spend preparing the team before matches. The new rule, which will come into effect from the 2023-24 season, is expected to significantly alter the way managers prepare for games.

Under the new rules, managers will only be allowed to spend three hours preparing the team before a match, down from the current six hours. This will be in place for all matches, including those that take place on a Friday.

Man City manager瓜迪奥拉 (Guardiola) has called for the new rule to be introduced, saying it will be good for the game. He believes that managers should not have too much time to prepare, as it gives them too much time to plan and strategize.

The new rule is expected to have a significant impact on the way teams are prepared for matches. Managers will need to be more efficient with their preparations and make the most of their limited time.

Pakistan cricketer Rehman was ruled out of the first World Cup T20 against India with a suspected knee injury during the Pakistan Super League in Dubai on Monday.

The 24-year-old, who was the leading wicket-taker of the PSL last season with 26 wickets, was ruled out due to a suspected left knee injury.

Rehman, who also plays his club cricket for Karachi Kings, had been a part of Pakistan's squad for the T20 World Cup in Australia, where they are scheduled to play against India on Wednesday.

His absence is a big blow for Pakistan, who are looking to recover from their loss to India in the previous World Cup final in 2019.

Rehman had been a key player for his team in the PSL, creating pressure on batsmen with his accurate bowling.

Pakistan coach Misbah-ul-Haq said Rehman's absence would be a challenge for the team.

"We have to find a way to fill the gap," Misbah said.

India's opening bowler, Virat Kohli, who also plays for Karachi Kings, said Rehman's absence would be missed.

"We're looking forward to having Rehman in our team," Kohli said.

India and Pakistan are set to play their first World Cup T20 match at the Optus Stadium in Perth on Wednesday.
