Mamata's claim came a day after she told another rally that the first four phases of have clearly indicated that the weather for the BJP is changing and that INDIA Bloc would win 315 seats against 195 that would fall in the saffron party's bag. State "Didi is also afraid because she is thinking that if the INDIA Bloc comes to power, then she might have to turn to them to save her leaders, her nephew, and herself. So, she is trying to separate the national leadership and the State leadership of the INDIA parties. However, they are not fools. She has managed to save herself by striking a deal with Modi, but after there is no BJP in Delhi, she will have to answer for her misdeeds," said CPI(M)'s Bikash Ranjan Bhattacharya. Back to the rallies both Mamata and Union Home Minister Amit Shah traded relentless fire.

Shah referred to the Sandeshkhali incident saying the Chief Minister had developed her own modus operandi where "she lets her men first commit crimes... and to hide it she gets more committed... crimes Sandeshkhali is a classic example of this."

On the other hand, Mamata

the US, which have impacted thousands of employees, including Indians.

The USČIS clarified that laidoff H-1B visa holders could stay in the US beyond the 60day period. To remain in the US beyond the grace period, the laid-off

H-1B workers can apply for a new employer, change visa status, or adjust their visa status. H-1B non-immigrants can work for a new employer after filing a new H-1B petition. Tech companies like Google, Meta, Apple, Dell, Amazon, Twitter, and Microsoft, among many others, have terminated

However, the USCIS has clarified this in its latest statement. He claimed that the construction of the Ram temple in Ayodhya will have a significant impact on the voters of his constituency, who will vote for him to give Prime Minister Narendra Modi a third term in a row.

The sitting MLA from Badarpur and Leader of the Opposition said Congress leader Rahul Gandhi is not an alternative to Modi. Having an experience in the political domain for 53 long years, Bidhuri told The Pioneer in the midst of his campaign that people have made up their minds.

"They are going to vote for Modi above caste, religion and community. In front of people, there is no alternative to Modi. Rahul tries to be his alternative but people are not taking him seriously. I believe that last time, the BJP candidates had 57 per cent to 60 per cent votes. This time, BJP is going to get more than 70 per cent votes. BJP is winning all seven seats in Delhi because people have a lot of faith in Modi," he said. Born and brought up in a family of farmers in South Delhi's Tughlakabad village, he said he will get votes in the elections to make Modi secure a third term again, who he claims will get the same respect from the countrymen as Lord Ram and Krishna got.

Uttarakhand Chief Secy feels SC heat | Police warn about cyber

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Clamming the Uttarakhand SGovernment for "lackadaisical" approach in controlling forest fires, the Supreme Court on Wednesday directed the State's Chief Secretary to personally present himself before it on May 17 to give explanation, including on utilisation of funds and vacancies in forest department. Terming it a "very sorry state of affairs", the apex court said the State was just trying to find some excuse or the other.

A bench headed by Justice B R
Gavai directed that the staff and vehicles of the forest departments of States shall not be requisitioned for election purposes or any other purposes like the 'Char Dham Yatra'.

"We are at pains to say the approach of the State of Uttarakhand in controlling the fires is, to say the least, lackadaisical. Though action plans have been proposed and finding." have been prepared and finalised, no steps are being taken for implementation of the same," said the bench, also comprising Justices SVN Bhatti and Sandeep

Mehta. The top court was hearing a plea on raging forest fires in Uttarakhand. The bench said funds from Afforestation Compensatory Fund Management and Planning Authority (CAMPA) were available and also sanctioned by the Central authority, it saw no reason as to why only ₹3.41 crore out of the ₹9.12 crore was utilised for forest related activity in Uttarakhand in 2023-24.

The bench observed it also saw no reason as to why the balance amount was not utilised for "Another issue that needs to be addressed is with regard to huge vacancies in the forest department of the State of Uttarakhand," it said. The bench noted that one of the grievances raised by the state was regarding failure of timely disbursement of the national disaster management fund or state disaster management fund.

'We fail to understand as to how the State could have grievance with regard to the disbursal of state disaster management funds in as much as it is within the domain of the state to disburse the said funds," it said.

"It is further pertinent to note that at one hand, the state contends that the resources, that is, manpower and vehicles are not available, and on the other hand, keeps a large number of the importance of controlling forest fires in Uttarakhand, the apex court had requested Additional Solicitor General (ASG) Aishwarya Bhati to take instructions with regard to disbursement of funds for financial year 2023-2024.

The bench said in so far as CAMPA funds are concerned, it has been submitted that these funds are lying with the state and it was for the state to release them for works undertaken by the forest department.

It noted that as far as exemption of field officials of the forest department from election duty, Char Dham yatra and other related activities was concerned. the Election Commission by various orders has already exempted its staff and vehicles from elections and allied purposes.

Be that as it may, we direct that in all the states, the forest staff as well as the forest vehicles shall not be requisitioned for election purposes or any other purposes like 'Char Dham Yatra," the bench

2,620 hectares. Standing ruined, the lake has now been deserted even by migratory birds, which are now seeking other sites for breeding and resting purposes. It used to be home to several aquatic flora and fauna.

To add to the woes of this water body which was once sprawled over 7,000 hectares, is the construction of embankment on the near-by Burhi Gandak river that has choked the major water inlet to the wetland.

Poaching of migratory birds, once abundant in the area, further ecological exacerbates the imbalance and undermines conservation efforts.

It was first declared a protected area by the State government in 1986, and later, a sanctuary by the Central Government, to prevent poaching of birds.
Oxbow lake like shape is typically crescent-shaped and common features in floodplains and low-lying areas near rivers, like in the cases of this water body also famously known as Kanwar Lake. It is formed by meandering Gandak River. The site lies in Bihar which is one of the most productive flood- plains of the world and accommodates a large oopulation.

Intriguingly while the Centre identified it as Bihar's first

Ramsar Site in a bid to put it on the global map, tourists coming here express disappointment when they see the condition of the lake, which bears no resemblance to the descriptions they have read or heard about, according to reports.

Such has been the apathy of the authorities that despite being declared a protected area by the Bihar Government in 1986 and a bird sanctuary by the Centre in 1989, overall, there has been a large-scale reduction in wetlands in Bihar as low as 2620 hectares. Even though locals depend on farming, encroachment has been growing. Due to the encroachment of the wetland for agricultural practices, Kabartal wetland's declining ecosystem is visible, as is the ongoing loss in the wetland area. Despite the proclamation of a bird sanctuary, numerous birds have been designated as fragile or endangered negatively impact species, according to a study 'Kabartal (Kanwar) Lake: First Ramsar Wetland Site of Bihar' published in ResearchGate. It was presented Bihar' at the 9th International Multidisciplinary Conference on Current Research Trends-2023,

Naveen accuses BJP of telling lies for votes

Intensifies BJD campaign in W Odisha

ROURKELA

Further intensifying the Biju Janata Dal's (BJD) campaign for the twin elections in Odisha, party chief and Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik on Wednesday addressed a series of rallies and mounted a scathing attack on opposition par-

Beginning his campaign at a public meeting in Rourkela, he stepped up his attack on opposition parties, mainly the BJP, and accused them of telling lies to the people.

Accusing the Opposition of shedding crocodile tears for the people, Patnaik appealed to people to vote for the BJD without relying on the Opposition's narratives.

"Electricity is provided to schemes, the BJD has tried to tricity announcements in its manifesto. The BJD should issue a clarification in this regard

He accused the BJP-led Central Government of neglecting Odisha and its people. Stating that the Bharatiya

Janata Party (BJP) had made a number of promises to the people of Odisha before previous elections, he alleged that despite being in power at the Centre for the last ten years, it has done nothing for the State and its development.

Reiterating the BJD's promise of providing free power up to 100 units, Patnaik reminded that if the regional party is voted to power, the people would not get electricity bill from the month of July this year. "This will be Naveen Patnaik's electricity guarantee," he said.

Listing out the development and welfare schemes being implemented by the BJD government, the CM sought people's opinion about the Biju Swasthya Kalyan Yojana (BSKY), Mission Shakti, Mamata Yojana, Laxmi Bus and Kalia scheme for farmers. He sought to know whether people consider these schemes good.

After the campaign in Rourkela, Patnaik proceeded to attend poll rallies in three Assembly segments under the Sambalpur Lok Sabha constituency.

Accompanying Patnaik VK Pandian said the Chief Minister has taken Rourkela to the top of development. A new Rourkela would be built by Naveen Patnaik.

Accusing Opposition leaders of visiting Odisha only during elections like tourists, he said they make false promises before leaving. After the election, they are no longer seen while the CM is always with the people.

'Stop tree felling on Kathajodi, Mahanadi banks'

PNS CUTTACK

Denizens of Cuttack have written a letter to CM Naveen Patnaik, urging him not to fell trees on Kathajodi and Mahanadi banks for roads.

Letter urges CM

"For the last several days, intense heat-wave has been prevailing in the whole of the State rendering life unbearable. Unabated felling of trees in the twin cities of Cuttack and Bhubaneswar as elsewhere in the State has made the situation complicated. Cutting of trees from the banks of the rivers Mahanadi and Kathajodi, which surround the city of Cuttack, is in full swing. Trees of antiquity ranging from 50 to 100 years that existed on the banks of Kathajodi (near Khannagar) and Mahanadi (near Madhusudan Selu) are no more there," lamented educationist Narayan Mohanty and several other eminent citizens in their letter.

They further said that there are several alternative methods of constructing roads without felling trees. These alternative methods are followed in the developed countries of the world and developed States of our country. Of course, roads are built for the use of man, but roads would be of no use if the users go extinct. They urged the CM to use alternative means and ban further felling of trees in the road construction works to save the earth from abnormal weather conditions.

Operation White Spider 80 drug dealers held in 4 months by CP

PNS BHUBANESWAR

The Commissionerate police (CP) have arrested 80 drug peddlers or smugglers involved in illegal drug trading under Operation White Spider. From January till April 30, 2024, 80 drug dealers linked with 46 narcotics seizure cases have been arrested, police said.

During the period, the police registered 20 cases of drug peddling and 35 people linked to such cases were produced in court. Police seized 352.840 grams of brown sugar, cash worth Rs 3.50 lakh, 11 cell phones and 13 motorcycles.

Police registered 25 cases in connection with ganja peddling and 43 accused were produced in court. A total of 297.720 kg of ganja, cash of Rs 75,080, 12 phones and nine bikes were seized.

Moreover, two persons were arrested and 168 litres of cough syrup were seized. DCP Prateek Singh said, "A host of measures are being taken to stop the illegal trade of drugs. All police stations have special teams which are gleaning information about drug suppliers, peddlers and buyers. he BJP on Wednesday termed the BJD's announcement to provide 100 units of free power as misleading and asked the latter to clarify on it. BJP leader Samir Mohanty alleged that the BJD through its advertisements earlier announced to provide free electricity, but now it is saying to provide only 100 units free.

"The party should clearly state how many units will be provided free to the consumers," said Mohanty. Odisha has coal and power plants, but power is being provided to Chennai at lower rates while the domestic consumers are bearing the brunt and paying more, said Mohanty further. He said the BJP in its manifesto has pledged to provide free electricity to consumers under the PM Suryaghar scheme.

> at the best opportune time, turned overambitious and messed up his own prospects of remaining in power for long. Today, he is lost in the crowd for locking horns with VK Pandian and his team on issues that do not really matter much. Besides, Soumya lacks battling skills. VK, as is well-known, has been given unbridled powers to run the administration only because he has proven before Naveen that he is serious, diligent, extremely hardworking and above board. Even if there are 'off the track' steps taken once in a while, that is all for the common good.

2012, the party was directionless for a while. Naveen found a great aide in VK as he was exceptionally trusting and diligent. He handed over most critical decision-making tasks to the young administrator so as to be free to think clearly on other big issues.

Now, VK is a fulltime politician. The boss is keen that he runs the party as well as the State as he thinks fit. Evidently, VK has been the man behind the incredible success of the BJD at polls in the two previous elections. When in 2019 circumstances turned difficult with Modi rising, VK devised strategies in such a manner as never to taste defeat. It is not surprising that handling too many jobs would have a few errors being committed. VK cannot be blamed for that.

In the current elections, the BJD is doing far better than expected. The BJP, believed to have an undercurrent of mass support, seems to be losing out only because of infighting and internal discord.

few highly-educated visi tors to Odisha were in need A tors to Odisna were in necessary of some emergency medical help. Someone known locally took them to the age-old Capital Hospital known for long as a lousy, unkempt place where doctors hardly did their job. Much against their will, they went there to get the biggest shock of life. The campus was spick and span; the doctors were unimaginably caring and highly efficient. Most significantly, it has been acclaimed as a centre of excellence by way of a PG medical college with superb teaching doctors and state-of-the-art equipments and best available gadgetry. The visitors were so impressed with the magnificently State-run hospital as to sing praises for a whole day. Further, the cardiology department now has one of the best experts in the world, Dr PK Das, who has been brought away from the Sai Hospital in Prashanti in Puttaparthy. Dr Das is known as a demigod doing service to mankind without taking money more than required just for a healthy survival.

The curious individuals discovered that the hospital can outclass any frontline corporate hospital in

People also need to know that the BSKY health insurance scheme is one of the best in the world. No other State has such a hassle-free smart card for providing best available healthcare without transacting a rupee in cash. All BPL and other less-advantaged families are now benefitting like in paradise. Families have a Rs 5-lakh coverage whereas women patients can avail up to 10 lakh rupees for any critical healthcare.

The Taldanda Canal and the city bus terminus in Cuttack are now places of tourist interest. Once filthy and detestable, the canal has been transformed and beautified with great care to outshine the Thames in London. Cuttack, which lost much of its glitter and glamour in the last thirty years, has sprung back to life with a few most wonderful settings and outfits including the Maritime Museum that makes Odias proud as that showcases the glorious past of trading adventure of the great race. Sambalpur has become more beautiful than ever before because the temple of the principal deity Goddess Samalei shrine has been facelifted incredibly. Similarly, all famous mosques and churches too have been beautified beyond compare. Though beautification of places of worship do not indicate human development in any manner, yet by having done so, the BJD government has done many wonderful things that make language eloquently, better than Odisha look more tempting for both tourists and traders. The State is also the sports capital of India with international athletics, bigtime hockey and football events having been organised from time to time. The whole State is now a preferred destination for doing business by setting up shops that generate a huge number of jobs for the youths. No need to mention that behind all these commendable projects and schemes VK Pandian's contribution has been immense. He picks his team of select group of bureaucrats and active political guys to get things delivered perfectly and on time.

Pandian has come to Odisha way back in 2000 and is to remain in place until retirement around 2034. He chose for wife colleague Sujata Rout, who is an Odia girl. His children have grown in an Odia environment and speak Odia as their first language. VK too has mingled well with the Odia community and picked the language quite impressively. He speaks the many western region inhabitants, some of whom purposefully hate chaste Odia as they nurture parochial sentiments with an intention of seceding from the mainland Odisha. VK has never let that happen. He keeps all happy and in good spirit. Whole Odisha is now one happy State. In the last twenty-four years, the

BJD has left countless footprints of true human development, particularly in domains of poverty alleviation and curbing of corruption by the political animals, which had never ever happened before. The 15-year rule of Congress under JB Patnaik witnessed unprecedented political corruption. Many of JB's relatives, far and near, who had been struggling to make a decent living, are all billionaires now. The only impressively educated Soumya Ranjan truly revolutionised the print media by setting up fantastic outfits that has been churning out countless journalists even until now. But then, Soumya, who had joined the BJD

Unfortunately, a few of the native Odias have begun reacting to the Tamil-born VK whipping their 'sons of the soil' elected leaders to keep them on track. 'Modi provides rice to poor; Naveen distributes empty bags'

Shameful that Odisha govt is run by babus: Amit Shah

PNS ■ BRAHMAPUR

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is sending free rice to the poor across the country including Odisha, but CM Naveen Patnaik is misleading people by giving rice in a bag with his own image, alleged Union Home Minister Amit Shah while addressing a public meeting at Sorada in Ganjam district on Wednesday.

Shah said Modi ensured everything to restore Odia pride. Be it the display of the Konark Sun temple wheel as the backdrop of the G20 meeting, the appointment of Droupadi Murmu as the President of India, and the release of a commemorative stamp and coin on the Paika rebellion, Modi has worked hard for the people of Odisha.

"When the entire country was celebrating Ram Lalla's homecoming, the Naveen Patnaik government tried its best to prevent the people of the State from attending the celebrations through various means. Today, I want to tell Naveenbabu that the people of Odisha never forgive the person who stops the Ram Utsav,"

"Bags will be of no use; rather, CM Naveen Patnaik should add 2.5 kg more rice so that it fills empty stomachs here and you get blessings," said Shah and hastened to add, "There is no longer the need for Naveenbabu as BJP will form government here and there will be an Odia CM."

Be it pucca houses, cooking gas, drinking water or the Ayushman Bharat scheme, the people of Odisha are deprived of various schemes including

He said Naveen is not doing anything for the chit fundduped investors. Once the BIP comes to power, those who have looted the money would be taken to task within 18 months. Illegal mining of quartz stones rampant in Birmaharajpur

m With elections going on in the State, all political parties are in need of funds. This has paved the way for rise in illegal mining and smuggling of quartz stones in the localities under Birmaharajpur tehsil in Subarnapur district, sources informed here. Money acquired from such nefarious deals is being used by leaders to fund their campaigns, the sources alleged. According to the information available, the stones are being extracted from quarries belonging to the Odisha Government. Then they are being smuggled outside the State at high rates.

In the process, the Government is losing out on huge amount of revenues, the sources said. An influential racket is allegedly working behind the loot in connivance with the political leaders and officials of the district administration, the sources added.

The absence of a proper office of the Mining Department in the district is another cause behind the rampant increase in illegal mining.

The nearest office of the department is in Bolangir, where a Deputy Director sits. If regular raids had been conducted in the various stockyards in Birmaharajpur tehsil, the rampant looting of quartz stones could have been exposed, the locals said.

Describing the modus operandi, a person on condition of anonymity said that quartz stones are lifted from the quarries and stored in a number of stockyards. Then they are transported to various industries outside Odisha.

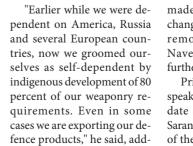

The person pointed out that the transportation of quartz stones in trucks wouldn't have been possible without police

It should be stated here that quartz granules are used to develop slag in blast furnaces in steelmaking units. They also act as a protective cover on steel gutters. Sources said the Mining Department has leased out the quarries in Dadarpali and Bankia villages under Birmaharajpur tehsil.

Arriving in a chopper and landing at NOCCI (North Orissa Chamber of Commerce and Industries) premises, he addressed a selected mass there on the topic 'Vikashit Bharat Vikashit Odisha.' Biral said within 10 years of the Modi Government, India established herself prominently in the defence sector and became selfdependent.

further added. Prior to Birla, several other speakers including BJP candidate and sitting MP Pratap Sarangi addressed the audience of the NOCCI hall highlighting various growth in different sectors and overseas popularity of the Modi Government. He slammed the State Government on various fronts counting failures. Mamata Mohapatra and Mohit Poddar were among others who coordinated the programme. MLA candidates of Remuna and Sadar, Ajay Agarwal and sides Manas Dutta also spoke on the occasion. Notably, Baleswar Parliament seat would witness a tough triangular contest among the BJP, BJD and Congress. Two former Union Ministers, Srikant Jena and Pratap Sarangi of Congress and BJP respectively have filed their nominations, while the BJD has fielded firebrand woman leader Dr Lekhasri Samantsingar after she joined the party defecting from BJP. However, unlike other Parliamentary constituencies, it appears Jena would pose a tough challenge to the other two contestants, Sarangi and Samantsingar.

Deeply saddened: Centre condoles Indian UN worker's death in Gaza

 \mathbf{I} ndia on Wednesday condoled the death of an Indian who was working with the United Nations (UN) in wartorn Gaza. Colonel Waibhav Anil Kale (retd), a 46-year-old former Indian Army officer, was killed on Monday when the vehicle he was travelling in came under attack in Gaza's Rafah region. The United Nations condoled and expressed apologies to India over the killing.

The killing marks the UN's first international casualty since the Israel-Hamas war began last year. The UN has called for a full investigation into his death while Israel has ordered a separate probe into the attack. In its first official reaction, of External Affairs(MEA) said it is deeply saddened by Colonel Kale (retd)'s death.

We are deeply saddened by the death of Colonel Waibhav Anil Kale (Retd.), Security Coordination Officer in the Security (DSS) in Gaza on 13 May 2024. We extend our heartfelt condolences to his family and dear ones," said a

The Indian permanent mission to the UN in New York and its missions in Tel Aviv and Ramallah are helping in bringing back the retired soldier's body, the ministry said. "Our Permanent Mission to the UN in New York and our Missions in Tel Aviv and Ramallah are extending all assistance in the repatriation of mortal remains to India and continue to be in touch with relevant authorities regarding the investigation into the incident," it added.

Colonel Kale (retd) had taken premature retirement from the Indian Army in 2022 and joined as a Security Coordination Officer in the UN Department of Safety and Security (DSS) two months ago, officials said yesterday. He is survived by his wife Amruta and two teenage children, son Vedant and daughter Radhika. The United Nations condoled and expressed apologies to India over the killing of the former Indian Army officer."We also express our apologies and our condolences to the Government and people of

Spokesman for UN Secretary-

General Antonio Guterres, said

at the daily press briefing on has made," he said. Haq said the UN has established a fact-finding panel to look into the deadly attack. "It's very early in the investigation, and details of the incident are still being verified with the Israeli Defence Force (IDF)," Haq said. The fact-finding mission is being set up by the Department of Safety and Security. Haq said a weapon appears to have impacted the back of the white UN vehicle that was carrying the two UN staff members, killing Kale and injuring the other DSS female staff member who is receiving medical attention and "we believe that she will make it through."

'The deceased staff member has been identified. He is and we send our condolences to his family," he said. Haq confirmed that this was the "first international casualty" for the UN in Gaza and added that currently, the world body has 71 international staff in Gaza.

When asked if the UN is in contact with Israeli officials regarding the attack, Haq replied in the affirmative and said, "I think the point is we are in discussion with Israel to determine exactly how this incident happened and the nature of what happened."

"I don't think at this stage we are in doubt about where the shots came from as much as what the circumstances were," he added. Haq said the UN believes the shots came from a tank in the area. When asked that only the IDF have tanks in the region, Haq said, "I think that's a safe assumption to make, yes." He said the convoy was going to the European hospital as "there's regular work that's going on in terms of bringing people to different sites and this if Israel apologised to the UN and if the world body sees this as a deliberate attack, Haq said the case is "still under review". "We'll see what the review results in," he said, adding that "as the review proceeds, we'll need to see what the precise nature of the circumstances were."

The Permanent Mission of India to the UN had said in a post on X that it is "deeply saddened" by the loss of Col Waibhav Kale.

"Our deepest condolences are with the family during this difficult time," it said. UN chief Guterres expressed sadness to learn of Kale's death and injury to the other DSS staffer and condemned all attacks on UN personnel, calling for a full investigation.

Guterres sent his condolences to the family of the fallen staff member. "With the conflict in Gaza continuing to take a heavy toll — not only on civilians but also on humanitarian workers - the Secretary-General reiterates his urgent humanitarian ceasefire and the release of all hostages," Guterres said. He said that more than 190 UN staff have been killed in Gaza. "Humanitarian workers must be protected. I condemn all attacks on UN personnel and reiterate my urgent appeal for an immediate humanitarian ceasefire & the release of all hostages," he said. Trinamool Congress MP Saket Gokhale on Wednesday wrote to External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, urging that the government strongly condemn the killing of a former Indian Army officer in Gaza.

Gokhale said the former Army officer was travelling in a clearly-marked UN vehicle when he was killed. "It is clear from reports that Col.

Kale was killed when his convoy was attacked in a strike by the Israel Defense Forces (IDF). There is well-established international law which prohibits military strikes on UN personnel in a conflict zone," he said in his letter to the minis-

BJP, Congress spar over Modi's remark

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE

The BJP and Congress on Wednesday sparred fol-lowing Prime Minister Narendra Modi's that he will never do Hindu-Muslim politics to assert that he has worked for development of all sections of society with any discrimination.

While BJP leaders cited the Prime Minister's remarks and said he ended communal appeasement with his inclusive governance, Congress, however, claimed that the "outgoing PM" has had no agenda barring Hindu-Muslim politics as 'Modi ki Guarantee' has "fallen flat" and '400 paar' given a "silent burial."

With the Congress and its allies accusing Modi of communal politics in his campaign, the prime minister had told a private television channel on Tuesday that he will not be fit for public life if he starts doing Hindu-Muslim. Former

"Modi ki Guarantee, promoted at tremendous cost to the public exchequer for the last few months, has fallen flat. 400 Paar has been given a silent burial," Ramesh said.

"His last, desperate attempt at having a campaign has been to lie and spread untruths about the Congress Party's and the INDIA janbandhan's agenda for equitable growth for each and every Indian citizen," he said. "The certainty of his exit has now forced him to feign memory loss," Ramesh added.

EC summons Andhra chief secretary, DGP over post poll violence

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI

Taking cognisance of post-poll violence in Andhra Pradesh, the Election Commission (EC) of India has summoned the State's chief secretary and the DGP on Thursday to "personally explain" the administration's failure to contain the incidents, sources said.

Reminding the state government that the Model Code of Conduct is still in force, the EC also asked the chief secretary and the police chief to ensure such incidents are not repeated. The Commission has repeatedly emphasised that there is no place for violence in a democracy and since the announcement of Lok Sabha elections, Chief Election Commissioner Rajiv Kumar has been personally monitoring the election space to ensure peaceful and violence-free conduct of polls, officials pointed out.

When they appear at the EC headquarters here on Thursday, the top Andhra Pradesh officials will be asked to "personally explain" the reasons for the administration's failure to contain the post-poll violence, the sources said. They will also be asked about preemptive steps being taken to avoid any such incidents in the future, the sources said. Post-poll violence was reported in parts of Andhra Pradesh on Tuesday where Lok Sabha and assembly polls were held together on Monday. The leaders of ruling YSRCP and opposition TDP have levelled allegations against each other for the incidents.

India sees highest heatwave deaths globally from 1990 to 2019: Study

India shouldered the highest burden of heatwave-related excess deaths globally accounting for more than 20 per cent of the total 1.53 lakh such mortalities surpassing both China and Russia in this aspect in the last three decades from 1990 to

A research conducted by Australia-based Monash University said that the impact of heat waves on India is particularly severe due to a combination of geographical, climatic, and socioeconomic factors. In contrast, China and Russia, each experienced roughly 14 per cent and 8 per cent of these heat wave-linked excess deaths, respectively. Overall, more than 1.53 lakh deaths a year were associated with heat waves around the world. The study found that heatwave-linked excess deaths accounted for about a third of all heat-related deaths and 1 per cent of total deaths globally. Needless to say, overall 1.53 lakh excess deaths occurred every summer, close to half came from Asia and more than 30 per cent from Europe. Further, the largest estimated death rates (deaths per population) were seen in regions with dry climates and lowermiddle incomes. The findings are published in PLoS

Medicine. The high incidence of heatwave-related mortality in India is reflective of several factors, including the country's large population, its geographical location, and the prevalence of extreme temperatures, particularly during the summer months. Additionally, socioeconomic factors such as poverty, inadequate access to healthcare, and limited infrastructure exacerbate the vulnerability of certain segments of the population, particularly those living in urban slums or rural areas with limited resources. The authors explained that "During the warm seasons from 1990 to 2019, heatwave-related excess deaths accounted for 153,078 deaths per year, a total of 236 deaths per ten million residents or 1 per cent of global deaths." For the study, the researchers used data from the UK-based Multi-Country Multi-City (MCC) Collaborative Research Network that included daily deaths and temperatures from 750 locations across 43 countries including India.

Comparing the decade up to 2019 with that up to 1999, the duration of heat waves each year was found to have extended from 13.4 to 13.7 days on average around the world, with average ambient temperature warming by 0.35 degrees Celsius every decade.

The researchers said that while previous studies have quantified excess deaths due to heat waves locally, they have not compared these estimates across the globe over a prolonged duration.

The authors have called for a "comprehensive approach" tackling not only immediate health risks during heat waves but also implementing longterm strategies to minimise vulnerability and inequalities across communities.

"The strategies include climate change mitigation policy, heat action plans (e.G., heat early warning system), urban planning and green structure, social support program, healthcare and public health services, education awareness, and community engagement and participation," they said. The study echoes findings of a recent report by the World Meteorological Organization (WMO) which said in India alone, severe heat waves in April and June resulted in about 110 reported fatalities due to heatstroke in 2023. Yet another analysis by an international team of leading climate scientists from the World Weather Attribution group has called for urgent measures to mitigate the impact of heat waves which are likely to intensify in coming vears. Some countries, such as India, have comprehensive heat action plans in place. Yet, to protect some of the most vulnerable people, these must be expanded with mandatory regulations.

Workplace interventions for all workers to address heat stress, such as scheduled rest breaks, fixed work hours, and rest-shade-rehydrate programs (RSH), are necessary but have yet to become part of worker protection guidelines in the affected regions," it said.

Secretary General of South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) Md Golam Sarwar paid an official visit to India from May 11-15 and interacted with the authorities of the government on issues of cooperation in SAARC. It was Secretary General's first official visit to any of the Member States of SAARC. Giving details here, Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) said during the visit, the Secretary General was hosted for a working lunch by

Jaideep Majumdar, Secretary

(East), Ministry of External

Affairs. The two sides had detailed discussions on varieration within SAARC. Following this, the Secretary General also called on the Foreign Secretary and Minister of State for External Affairs Rajkumar Ranjan

During the discussions, India reiterated its commitment towards regional cooperation for growth and prosperity of the people of South Asia through SAARC. It was also underlined that India contant regional association for cooperation in South Asia and has been taking several efforts and initiatives to bring the peoples of South Asia closer to each other. The Secretary General also visited the South Asian University (SAU) which is a specialised body of SAARC hosted by India in New Delhi and discussed with its authorities issues concerning the

aunching a scathing attack Lon opposition INDIA bloc, BJP national president JP Nadda on Wednesday said this election is about holding those accountable who oppose the core values of 'Ram', nationalism, reservation, Sanatan Dharma and the Constitution and hinder the Centre's mission to make India 'Viksit Bharat'. He accused the opposition leaders, including RJD, of misleading the electorate in the name of providing employment to youths.

"They will first take the land of the poor before giving them jobs. If anyone can do good for the poor, then it's only the NDA government at the Centre led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi," said Nadda while addressing an election rally here in support of Lovely Anand, the NDA nominee from Sheohar Lok Sabha constituency.

The allusion was apparently to the land-for-jobs scam during RJD supremo's tenure as the railway minister in the Manmohan government. The scam is currently being probed by the Enforcement Directorate

When Sonia Gandhi was the chairperson of UPA, she had raised questions of the existence of Lord Ram and the then government gave an affidavit in the court terming him as fiction (imaginary). Reiterating that the BJP-led NDA will win 400-plus Lok Sabha seats, including all 40 in Bihar, Nadda asserted that the eastern state has developed only under NDA rule. "Bihar is also likely to get Rs 3 lakh-crore aid from the Centre for its overall development", he said.

"Modi's only aim is welfare of every person. But INDIA bloc leaders want to reservation on religious lines. The Congress is giving tickets to those belonging to 'tukde-tukde' gang," Nadda added.

Congress making false promises to win LS polls: BJP

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The BJP on Wednesday accused the Congress of making "false promises" to win the Lok Sabha elections after the main opposition party president Mallikarjun Kharge announced that if the INDIA bloc is voted to power, it will double the quantity of free rations provided by the BJP government to the poor.

'Kharge is lying," senior BJP leader Arjun Ram Meghwal, who is also a Union minister, told reporters here when asked to comment on the Congress president's promise. "They want to come to power_by making false promises. The people will not forgive them and believe in what they say," he added.

Addressing a joint press conference here Party Samajwadi Akhilesh Yadav in Lucknow earlier in the day, Kharge announced that the INDIA bloc will double the quantity of free rations provided by the BIP government to the well," he charged.

You are giving five kg. If INDIA bloc government is formed, we will give 10 kg of ration to the poor," Kharge said, adding "I am saying this with guarantee because we have already done it in the states, including Telangana and Karnataka".

Grand temples will also be built in Mathura and Kashi if BJP wins 400 seats: Assam CM

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Tuesday said here that grand temples will also be built in Mathura and Kashi if the BJP wins 400 seats.

"The BJP government had promised the Ram temple (in Ayodhya) and the government kept the promise. The BJP government led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi has fulfilled all the promises," Sarma further said addressing a public meeting in support of BJP candidate Harsh Malhotra in Laxmi Nagar.

Sarma also that the vice president should take suo motu cognisance of the incident with AAP Rajya Sabha MP Swati Maliwal at Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal's official residence.

'There was an earlier allegation that a Delhi chief secretary was beaten by Kejriwal. Yesterday he also thrashed a Rajya Sabha MP. I think the vice president, who is also the chairman of the Rajva Sabha, should take suo motu cognisance of how a chief minister can beat a Rajva Sabha MP," Sarma told reporters. Maliwal on Monday went to the Civil Lines Police Station and alleged that a member of Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal's personal staff "assaulted" her at the chief Kejriwal's minister's official residence, police officials said.

Attacking the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), Sarma said, "The Lal Qila (Red Fort) and the Qutub Minar are the main attractions of the capital, but the CM of Delhi invites people to show Mohalla Clinics, which are in bad conditions."

He further said that medical colleges are being built in every district of Assam, and if the BJP is voted to power again, the government will build super-specialty hospitals and medical colleges in the national capital. Local MLA Abhay Verma, deputy president of Delhi BJP Lata Gupta and many other BJP leaders and workers were present during the meeting.

Congress leader joins BJP in Chandigarh

Senior Congress leader and former Chandigarh mayor Subhash Chawla Wednesday joined the BJP here. Chawla expressed his dissatisfaction with the Congress-AAP coalition in Chandigarh, citing detrimental effects on the grand old party's standing in the city.

"Leaving the party, which I joined at the age of 21, was a harsh decision for me to take. However, I cannot ignore the damage AAP's presence inflicted on Congress in the recent municipal corporation election," said Chawla, who has also served as president of Congress' Chandigarh wing. Lack of industry, migration of skilled workforce main issues in Kendrapara Lok Sabha seat

PTI KENDRAPARA

 $L_{\text{unemployment}}^{\text{ack}} \circ f^{-i}$ industries, migration of skilled workforce are the main issues in Kendrapara Lok Sabha constituency in coastal Odisha from where BJP national vice president Baijayant Panda is contesting against BJD's Anshuman Mohanty.

Kendrapara parliamentary constituency has sent a galaxy political heavyweights including late Biju Patnaik and former Lok Sabha Speaker Rabi Ray to the Lok Sabha in the past.

This time, the fight is mainly between Panda and Mohanty with Sidharth Swarup Das of Congress also in the fray. Elections to the Kendrapara Lok Sabha constituency will be held on June 1.

This coastal region is primarily an agrarian belt with people largely dependent on farming for sustenance.

The district, despite sending to Lok Sabha and state Assembly, still does not figure in the industrial map though Patnaik Naveen government in December last had approved ArcelorMittal Nippon Steel's proposal to set up a Rs 1,02,275 crore worth mega steel project at Mahakalpara block of Kendrapara district. Migration of skilled workforce is a common factor here as employment opportunities here are few and far. The skilled plumbers from this region have made their presence felt across the globe. The plumbers are much sought-after their workmanship and dexterity. Exodus of plumbers to overseas is a recurring phenomenon. Just like nurses from Kerala, Kendrapara plumbers are much in their professional approach to work. The region, home to Bhitarkanika National Park and Olive Ridley turtle habitat of Gahirmatha marine sanctuary, virgin beaches, is yet to be utilized for ecotourism-related economy.

Though there has been improvement in infrastructure in the form of road infrastructure, river employment opportunities elude the youths here," rued an elderly voter from Kendrapara town, Subhash

Chandra Mohanty. Panda, an industrialist was elected to Lok Sabha twice from the Kendrapara seat in 2009 and 2014 on BJD ticket. He was also a two-time BID

Rajya Sabha MP from 2000 to 2009. Panda was suspended from the Naveen Patnaik-led BJD before the 2019 Lok Sabha polls on charges of antiparty activities and later he resigned from the party as well from Lok Sabha. Panda lost to BJD's Anubhav Mohanty by a margin of 1,81,483 votes in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections.

Mohanty, a Congress deserter and former MLA had joined the BJD days before the polls. The Congress candidate Das is a political greenhorn with zero experience in Vidhan Sabha or Lok Sabha election. The poll fight, according to observers, will be principally between BJP's Panda and BJD's Mohanty, son of veteran

Tejashwi is making baseless statements out of nervousness: Giriraj

PTI ■ PATNA

Aday after RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav claimed that he was getting "full support" from "uncle" Nitish Kumar, senior BJP leader and Union Minister Giriraj Singh on Wednesday said the former is making "baseless statements out of his nervousness".

"After completion of four phases of LS polls in the country, leaders of INDI alliance have realised that they are going to face a humiliating defeat in this polls. The NDA under PM Narendra Modi and CM Nitish Kumar will win 400 plus seats in the country and all 40 Lok Sabha seats in Bihar. RJD leader (Tejashwi Yadav) is nervous now. He is making these baseless statements out of his 'nervousness' only," Singh.

The BJP leader, who is seeking re-election from Begusarai Lok Sabha seat, made the remark when journalists sought his views on former deputy CM Tejashwi Yadav's claim that he was getting "full support" from "uncle" Nitish Kumar.Yadav on Tuesday claimed that he was getting "full support" from "uncle" Nitish Kumar, the JD(U) president who is a BJP ally, in his fight against the saffron party. He said, "chacha (uncle) may have been hijacked by the BJP. But he taught me the importance of driving out of power those whose ascent came in 2014. Deep down, he retains the sentiment".

"I know his blessings are with me because I am carrying forward his fight. Just take note, he has taken ill on the very day Prime Minister Narendra Modi was to file his nomination papers. It is clear I am getting his full support", Yadav had remarked.

Further commenting on Yadav's reaction on PM Modi's roadshow in Patna on May 12 that INDIA coalition will do a 'job show' if it is voted to power, Singh said, "What sort of jobs he (Yadav) is talking about...The RJD can do jungle raj show', 'extortion show' and 'corruption show', and nothing else."

Reacting to the Union minister's comment, Yadav told reporters here on Wednesday, "Whatever he (Giriraj Singh) is saying is baseless. There is no need to react to such things."

Further attacking the PM, Yadav said, "I must tell you people that since Modi ji is going to turn 75 very soon. He must retire at the age of 75. He has decided 75 years as the age for retirement in the BJP for an elected representative. He must join his party's 'Margdarshak Mandal' of senior leaders."

"Our youth is bearing the brunt of Modi government's pathetic apathy... ever-rising unemployment has destroyed their future. Around 25 crore youth in the country are now over-aged due to lack of employment policy of the Central government. Besides, what Agniveers will do who will retire at the age of 23? Therefore, Modi Ji, who can't think for the welfare of the country and youths, should join Margdarshak Mandal," Yadav added.

Bongaon: Muslims divided over CAA narrative in Matua bastion

PTI ■ BONGAON (WB)

party statement.

In the Matua stronghold of Bongaon, considered the cradle of the citizenship movement that shaped the CAA, there's a diverse array of beliefs, aspirations, and divisions within the Muslim community. The Matuas, a Hindu refugee community originally from East Bengal (now Bangladesh), has long been a dominant force in Bongaon's socio-political landscape. With their roots deeply entrenched in the struggle for citizenship rights, the CAA represents a beacon of hope, promising a pathway to citizenship for persecuted Hindu minorities from neighbouring countries like Bangladesh, Pakistan, and Afghanistan.

The Indo-Bangla border region, characterised by lush and tight-knit communities, is currently experiencing a notable split as political parties contrasting positions on contentious issues, with apprehensions of NRC looming large. Juxtaposed against this narrative, Bongaon's Muslim population faces uncertainty regarding the CAA, adding to their challenges.

While some see it (CAA) as a compassionate Act to help persecuted minorities, others regard it as a means of discrimination, worsening existing religious tensions.

'What is the need for CAA when all of us are citizens here. How come we can cast our votes and have all necessary documents," said 62-year-old Amirul Mondal of Mallickpur village along the Indo-Bangla border in Bongaon. Mintu Rahman, a weathered farmer with hands calloused from years of toil, voiced the fears of many. "Why target Muslims," he questioned, "When their roots run deep fabric of the nation. They motherland? discriminatory that in CAA, Muslims have been omitted. All religions should have been allowed under the Act," he

The schism within Muslim community in Bongaon is palpable, mirroring the broader national discourse surrounding CAA. On one end of the spectrum are those who vehemently oppose the Act, viewing it as an assault on the secular

Constitution, thereby marginalising an already vulnerable community. Conversely, there are Muslims in Bongaon who, albeit reluctantly, express tacit support for CAA. Their rationale stems from a pragmatic assessment of the argue that the CAA, by explicitly excluding Muslims, equality enshrined in the socio-political landscape, where aligning with the dominant narrative might offer a semblance of security and acceptance. "CAA is for persecuted minorities from neighbouring countries. The Act is about giving citizenship and not taking it away. Muslims like us who have been living here for generations are citizens of this country," Amirul Dafadar told PTI.

Amirul, BJP's booth president of Sayestnagar in Bongaon, has been tediously reaching out to every Muslim households in his area trying to apprise people about the "negative campaign" going on over CAA.

'It is the TMC which is instigating the Muslims against the CAA. They are misguiding them," he said. Moidul Sheikh echoed similar sentiments, emphasising that as long as their identity and citizenship remained unquestioned, people from the community should not worry about the Citizenship

Amendment Act (CAA) as much as they did about the NRC in Assam.

"If our rights and status are secure, there is no need for undue concern regarding the CAA. We are opposed to NRC but not against CAA," he said. However, this support is often accompanied by a sense of apprehension, as they grapple with the moral implications of endorsing a policy that appears to "disenfranchise their community". "Many people say that we are going against our community but it is not about opposing or supporting anything. It is about a humane approach," Moidul Sheikh said. The recent enactment of the CAA has sparked fears of a potential NRC exercise that could leave many in the Muslim community vulnerable to statelessness. With the implementation of the CAA, there is a looming fear that the NRC might follow suit, subjecting us to scrutiny and uncertainty about our citizenship status," Bapan Sheikh said, echoing the sentiments of many in Bongaon.

A large section of Muslim residents fear that they may face similar challenges in proving their citizenship, especially considering the lack of documentation.

"As Muslims are persecuted minorities, they have all their documents in place. They are said.

very thorough about their documentation. In Assam also, we had witnessed a similar situation where more Hindus got omitted than Muslims," political analyst Maidul Islam said.

Mahitosh Baidya, general secretary of All India Matua Mahasangha, conceded that there is seething anger and confusion among a section of Muslims over CAA.

The Matuas, who are SC with along refugees, constitute around 70 per cent of the approximately 19 lakh electorate of Bongaon, an SCreserved seat. The minorities comprise nearly 25 per cent of the electorate. The BJP is playing a dangerous game in the name of the hoax called CAA. They are dividing the communities for own political gains," senior TMC leader of Bongaon district Ratan Ghosh told PTI. Muslims in this tuency have constituency traditionally voted for the TMC in the last few elections. BJP MLA from Haringhata in constituency Asim Sarkar said the TMC is trying to vitiate the atmosphere by playing a communal card. The TMC knows they will lose in Bongaon that is why they are creating this narrative of NRC after CAA. We have communicated to educated Muslims that CAA

Eating gold

Already costly, food items to be dearer on the back of heatwave, poll expenditures

Iith wholesale inflation hitting a 13-month high of 1.26 per cent in April and the mercury poised to peak in the next two months, stubbornly rising food prices are worrying many a family across the nation. This rise was driven as both food and fuel became dearer. Interestingly, India's retail inflation, measured by the consumer price index (CPI), fell to an 11-month low of 4.83 per cent year-on-year in April 2024, compared to 4.85 the previous month. The Reserve Bank of India primarily considers retail inflation when formulating monetary policy. However, for the average person, the rise in WPI is concerning as it is primarily influenced by food items, both processed and unprocessed, as well as manufactured goods. India is experiencing an ongoing heatwave, which is expected to affect vegetable prices. WPI inflation is forecast to increase to 2-3 per cent in May 2024; it is expected to spiral up and reach its peak in June 2024. WPI food inflation, which includes primary food articles and manufactured food items, increased for the third consecutive month to an eightmonth high of 5.5 per cent in April (compared to 0.4 per cent in April 2023), driven by both manufactured food products (reaching a 15-month high of 1.2 per cent) and primary food articles (reaching a four-month high of 7.7 per cent).

The increase in WPI inflation in April was attributed mainly to fuel and food items. However, there is a silver lining as the outlook for food inflation has improved due to expectations of a normal monsoon, which is anticipated to boost agricultural production. Additionally, commodity prices have rebounded on hopes of increased demand from China. Since it is an election year, there is an automatic push to prices based on market speculation and uncertainty over continuation of governance policies, not to mention that the cost of election is recovered from the common man via higher prices. The funding of political parties by corporates and traders often reflects in the spiralling prices, pre- and post-elections. Logistic bottlenecks, labour shortages and increased transportation costs, thanks to oil prices, all contribute to the overall inflationary pressures, amplifying the challenges faced by food producers and consumers alike. Amid the backdrop of escalating food prices, election discussions revolve around economic policies and their impact. High prices and employment concerns loom large as hot topics, reflecting the broader sentiment of economic anxiety among voters. Generally, the ruling party bears the brunt of inflation as people hold it responsible for not keeping the prices in check. Effectively managing inflation entails employing a comprehensive strategy that harmonises short-term interventions with enduring structural changes. Swift actions, like directed subsidies and mechanisms for stabilising prices, can provide temporary respite to consumers contending with rising food expenses. Until that happens, we can happily fulfil our tax obligations by paying through our nose. Indeed, inflation is taxation without legislation!

BJP retains control, INDIA gains ground

The Opposition's revival from near-disarray presents a formidable challenge but may fall short of the impact needed to dislodge the BJP-led NDA than halfway through the ongoing Lok Sabha polls. There is no denying that the opposition INDIA bloc, led by the Congress, has been able to create a perspective that it isn't a one-sided battle and the fight was on all the seats.

The usual gimmicks of stock market predictions and illegal 'satta' gambling forecasts have started to emerge on social media and private WhatsApp groups. However the underlying message is that come what may, the BJP shall be able to form the Government. This probably emerges from the faith the BJP supporters have in the abilities of Prime Minister Narendra Modi being a leader with gargantuan mass appeal. However, there is also no denying the fact that the opposition was in tatters when the poll campaign started but by the passing of time have been able to create an image of a close fight, which in the end could prove to be just a mirage. Nevertheless, the Congress campaign in the 2024 polls, whatever the results, would remain an area of discussion among the political scientists in the times to come.

Congress's poll preparation could be said to have begun from the conclave it had at Udaipur in 2022. The declarations at the 'Udaipur Shivir' talked talked of building a vibrant organisation. This came in the backdrop of desertions plaguing the party especially from their most prominent leader Rahul Gandhi's coterie. In 2022, when the Congress met in Rajasthan, one right decision it took was to hold the polls for the post of the president of the All India Congress Committee. It did activate the party and in Mallik arjun Kharge, the party has found a good campaigner, who not only campaigns hard but makes a lot of sense with

Strategically, unlike the Vidhan Sabha polls held some months back in the four States, the leadership has consolidated on the the position of a dominant alliance despite the initial hiccup caused by its very convener, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar walking out of the formation. Though some point out that Kharge and not Nitish was foisted as the chair of the alliance, as given his track record, Nitish's opposition to the BJP was always suspect. The second move by Congress has been to channel the strength of the alliance partners to keep itself afloat. To this end, the Congress is contesting just 328 seats this time, much lower than what it had contested in the 2019 polls. Last time it had contested 421 seats. The party would have contested 330 seats this time but for the rejection of the papers of its candidate in Surat and its candidate withdrawing in Indore.

This means that the Congress in INDIA has created an alliance base that is much wider than that of the United Peoples Alliance (UPA). This also means that the party has shrunk from

THE CONGRESS CAMPAIGN IN THE 2024 POLLS. WHATEVER THE RESULTS, WOULD REMAIN AN AREA OF DISCUSSION AMONG POLITICAL SCIENTISTS IN THE TIMES TO COME and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) in Punjab not even entertaining an alliance.

Those in charge of the alliance forging for the party claim that the grouping this time is much more pragmatic than in 2019. The case in point is Uttar Pradesh. The party went into the 2019 polls all by itself. With no major allies and up against the BJP and the SP-BSP alliance, Congress contested 67 of the State's 80 seats. It could win only one: Sonia

Gandhi in Rae Bareli.

This time in alliance with the Samajwadi Party it's contesting just 17 seats, down by 50 seats. People close to poll planning, point out that it has been done to conserve the party resources for more realistic contests. Similarly West Bengal, after contesting 40 seats in 2019 is contesting just 14 seats this time giving the remaining seats to the alliance partner - the Left parties. Similar arrangements have been made in other States. Now how would that affect the final results? The BJP in 2024 wants to equal the performance of the Congress in 1984 when it got more than 400 seats. What's not to be forgotten is that those 400 seats came as a harvest of the sympathy wave in the favour of the party following the assassination of then Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

What makes BJP in 2024 different from Congress in 1984 is that it has delivered on its ideological agenda thus the cadre commitment would be there. Based on that the saffron party has expanded its poll machinery. This could work both ways, if there is an undercurrent, it would bring bonus points and if there is voter indifference, the performance should not fall below, as they say in commerce, the reserve price.

Embracing the joys and wisdom of age

Amidst serene nature, I pondered time's fleeting nature and shifting age perspectives, inspired by three chance encounters spent a memorable week in the mountains last Lyear. Crisp and importantly clean mountain air, long walks along jungle trails, beautiful sunrises and sunsets and views of snow-capped peaks in the distance, were only a few of the bonuses that the place offered.

It was during this trip that three different people, in their way, tried to put us at ease, by referring to the facilities that they offered for the comfort of senior citizens. I would have bristled indignantly at a reference to my advancing age until only a couple of years back. Now I was not offend-

I remember an incident about 25 years back. One evening, a younger engineer, recruited through campus placement and working with me, remarked, "Sir, I am amazed with me, by your energy. You work so hard and such long hours even at this age." At 40, I could not take the Statement as a compliment that he had intended it to be and quipped rather caustically, "What do you mean me, came and stood near dread that many might have back. That was the time I realised the benefits that I was entitled to as I booked my air or train ticket at a discount. I could conveniently travel in the metro trains sitting comfortably on the seats meant for seniors, till someone older than me, or at least someone who looked older than me. Old habits die hard. I would offer my seat to the more needy or gallantly offer the seat to a much younger woman since that is what I was taught. But chivalry still had limits.

I was not prepared to be called an old man or even an uncle by the younger people. Till we faced the onslaught of something terrible four years back covid. It invaded our lives like nothing we had witnessed in our lifetime. I too had my share of the

I live and it accords me the benefit of rambling like an old fool to wide-eyed younger people who in some distant future would be fortunate enough to recount their pearls of wisdom. I hope that some of these gems may have been dispensed by me. I am proud of being called old as I remember the words of Frank Lloyd Wright, "The longer I live, the more beautiful life becomes.'

But let us not forget that getting old also comes with a lot of responsibility towards others. I hope that I can say with hands on my heart when I meet the supreme being, "I lived a life that made a difference to the people around me!" (The author is an electrical

THE ESSENCE OF RAM RAJYA

Madam — Apropos the news article "Ram Rajya will begin in the country now, doesn't mean theocratic State: Rajnath Singh," published on 14 May, this is my response. Defence Minister Rajnath Singh's remarks on the inauguration of the Ram Mandir in Ayodhya and the concept of Ram Rajya reflect a perspective blending faith with civic duty. Singh emphasises that Ram Rajya isn't about establishing a theocratic State but fostering a sense of responsibility among citizens. His call for a return to the essence of politics, where words align with actions, resonates with the public disillusionment with political rhetoric.

Singh's stance on the triple talaq issue underscores a commitment to gender equality transcending religious boundaries. His assertion reflects a broader narrative of social justice and protection of vulnerable individuals, regardless of religious affiliation. As he seeks reelection, Singh's emphasis on fulfilling electoral promises underscores accountability in governance. His track record in Lucknow adds weight to his assertion, aligning action with words. Overall, Singh's discourse encapsulates a nuanced understanding of governance, intertwining religious symbolism with practical governance and societal wel-

KEJRIWAL'S GUARANTEE

Madam — It refers to the article "Kejriwal's bail: Unveiling political prophasis postrelease," published on 13 May. Most of the AAP's guarantees require more funds since most are a burden to the State exchequer. Free electricity, the MSP guarantee, the scrapping of the magnifier and the creation of two crore jobs need heavy payout from the State exchequer. Finding funds without taxing the people is not possible in today's situation. The six guarantees of the Congress remain to be implemented in Karnataka and Telangana. propos the news article "Ladakh stands alone in Lok Sabha roll call," published on 13 May, this is my response. The political landscape in Ladakh has dramatically shifted, morphing a once two-way battle between the BJP and Congress into a three-way challenge. The emergence of local alliances and the entry of an Independent candidate complicates the electoral dynamics, adding layers to an already complex scenario. The contest reflects the region's aspi-

So the charge Modi will not hold elections or tamper with the constitution is without substance and a repeat of what was said in 2019. Furthermore, many politicians, actors and so-called social workers said in 2014 and 2019 that if Modi wins the elections they will move out of the country. Still, they are all here enjoying the fruits of freedom. On corruption, first, let Kejariwal come clean on the Delhi liquor gate scam.

uccessful completion of a task releases endorphins in the body which act as a tonic and an analgesic. "Always bear in mind that your own resolution to succeed is more important than any other," said Abraham Lincoln. Resolution is the positive intent, resolve or aspiration to give a hundred per cent to achieve the targeted goal. Before treading the path, one should remain grateful and blessed for the abundance provided by nature. Half the job gets done by feeling the bless-

Effort, skill and courage are prerequisites for brewing this heady cocktail. Achievers tap the potential from the depths of their minds and hearts and conquer the fear of failure in the process.

The mind is that element of a person that enables him to be aware of the world and its myriad experiences to think positively and to feel the faculty of consciousness simultaneously purging negative thoughts in the bargain. One must dream big, even if ideas may appear outlandish to become high-end achievers and ensure to never kill an idea, however witless it may appear on the surface. That is the Audacity of Hope. Be it a Mandela, a Modi, or an Obama.

"The mediocre teacher tells. The good teacher explains. The superior teacher demonstrates. The great teacher inspires," writes William Arthur Ward. Successful individuals foster friendships and build trust. There is no deficit in trust. They respect colleagues and only symphony is orchestrated in the environment. There is no room for any cacophony.

Gurudev Sri Sri Ravi Shankar always differentiates between mere hearing and the art of listening. Listening is a trait of a humble person; while hearing is the character of a brusque and an inaccessible person. An achiever is available to all his followers 24*7, 365 days a year. Achievers are adaptable to new ideas, thought processes, abstractions and intentions. Their minds are not closeted by achievements or failures of the past and continuously live in the present moment. This is the trademark of their personality.

Those who are high achievers are not driven by amassing wealth. Such trailblasers and trendsetters are continuous learners. Leadership implies 3Ls for them. These are learned, learn some more and learn even more. Top-grade sportsmen, artists and scientists are compulsive learners and are humble about their achievements. There is only one path from the top and that is downhill. High-end achievers never believe that they have reached the summit or the pinnacle or that they are too powerful.

Such a conjecture smacks of capriciousness and arrogance and that would be their nemesis. Every successful career is a lesson in humility. Rewards and recognition are meant to act as motivators, not create a glass ceiling of conceit.

Achievers are surrounded by positive-oriented people and positive thoughts, as negative emotions are a big drain on resources. It is important to ascertain positive feedback and build on the synergy of the group. Understanding group dynamics is an important physical and psychological tool. They glean synergies of any joint venture. Achievers always work with teams and individuals who share their values, they possess long-term vision inherently and believe in themselves and the set goals. They direct the wind and the sails. Such people need to build on their strengths and those of the organisation. It is essential and paramount to prioritise targets, the mission and vision Statements, identify a selfdo list and focus on projects that can be delegated.

Electric tractors for electrifying agriculture

These technological marvels promise not only to rejig farming practices but also to mitigate the industry's environmental footprint limate change is an issue of utmost importance that the world is currently facing and it is a challenge that is complex and multifaceted. Particularly the agriculture sector is vulnerable, as greenhouse gas emissions are being released into the atmosphere, causing extreme weather conditions such as heat waves and floods. conditions such as heat waves and floods. This is directly impacting crop productivity and farmers' livelihoods, which is a significant threat to global food security. To counter this challenge, we must adopt environmentally friendly cultivation and processing methods. Electric tractors are one of the globally emerging excellent alternatives for future farming. It can reduce farming costs and zero emissions effectively addressing the issue of a sustainable environment and reducing our dependence on imports of crude oil.

As the world's largest tractor manufacturer, India sells over 1 million tractors annually. However, the adoption of electric tractors has been slower than other electric vehicles (EVs) like two-wheelers, three-wheelers, passenger cars and electric buses. It's time to take action and promote electric tractors. This will foster an environment for mass adoption and position India as a global exporter of electric tractors. To achieve this, we must integrate electric tractors into incentivised EV policies. It's unacceptable that no incentives are being offered for electrifying tractors.

Electric Tractors Could be Fetched in FAME-3 Scheme: The FAME-2 scheme (April 2019-March 2024) was a central Government subsidy that aims to promote the Fast Adoption and Manufacturing of Hybrid and Electric Vehicles (FAME). The scheme ended on 31st March, with a total outlay of Rs 10,000 crore to support the production of 7,000 electric buses, half a million electric three-wheelers, 55,000 electric passenger cars and one million electric two-wheelers. However, the scheme excludes electric tractors, which means that manufacturers cannot significantly reduce the cost of producing electric tractors.

The Ministry of Heavy Industries has recently proposed the FAME-3 scheme, which has an outlay of Rs 12,600. The scheme is expected to be implemented after the Lok Sabha elections. Farmers are hoping that the scheme will include electric tractors, which will reduce their costs significantly. With a subsidy of up to Rs 2.4 lakh (capped at 40 per cent of the tractor's base price), the burden of high purchasing costs on farmers will be greatly reduced. To promote the use of electric vehicles, several States such as Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Madhya Pradesh offer concessions or a waiver on the road tax between 50 per cent and 100 per cent. Other States, including Delhi, Gujarat, Maharashtra and Rajasthan, offer direct cash incentives on top of the road tax waiver through a similar approach to the central FAME scheme. The incentives range from Rs 2,500 to Rs 10,000 and the subsidy cap ranges from Rs 60,000 to Rs 2.5 lakh, depending on the battery capacity. Punjab and Haryana offer incentives (up to 40 per cent of the ex-showroom price) for e-tractors in their EV policies. Other key agricultural States should consider following this approach to promote sustainable agricultural practices.

Rationalisation of Taxes: Tax rationalisation has proven to be an effective way of promoting electric vehicles through discounted taxes and insurance fees. The existing fiscal incentives provided for zero-emission motor vehicles should be extended to zero-emission tractors as well. While electric vehicles are charged a reduced GST of 5 per cent, e-tractors are still taxed at the same rate as diesel tractors, which is 12 per cent. Additionally, electric vehicles receive a 15 per cent discount on third-party insurance premiums, whereas this provision is not available for e-tractors. The International Council on Clean Transportation (ICCT) has analysed that reducing the GST to 5 per cent or even nil and providing discounted insurance would reduce the cost gap between electric and diesel tractors by almost 40 per cent.

Infrastructure Development: Investing in charging infrastructure for electric tractors, especially in rural areas, is crucial for the rural economy to meet India's development goals by 2047. Using corporate social responsibility (CSR) funds for this purpose and establishing a charging station network with incentives will ensure widespread accessibility and convenience for farmers To increase demand for electric tractors, it's important to introduce them into custom hiring centres for agricultural machinery. This will help farmers experience the benefits of electric tractors and mitigate challenges related to charging and maintenance.

R&D Investments &Training: Allocating funds for research and development in electric tractor technology can lead to innovation, efficiency improvement and cost reduction. Encouraging collaboration between Government agencies, agricultural research institutions such as the Indian Council for Agricultural Research and the manufacturers would speed up technological advancements in the sector. Developing and certifying testing and quality assurance standards for electric tractors can attract manufacturers to this sector, addressing supply-side constraints. Institutes like the Central Farm Machinery Training & Testing Institute can set manufacturing, operational and performance standards for various electric tractors based on power output, design and usage purposes. Training and skill development initiatives for farmers, technicians and service providers on electric tractor operation, maintenance and repair are crucial. Empowering stakeholders with the necessary knowledge and skills will facilitate the transition to electric tractors and ensure their effective use in agricultural operations.

Zero Emissions in Electric Tractor: A study by the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, reveals that the agriculture sector in India is responsible for almost 14 per cent of the country's greenhouse gas emissions, with diesel-powered machinery playing a major role. However, electric tractors could be a solution to these challenges.

India are powered by diesel, which accounts for approximately 7.4 per cent of the country's annual diesel consumption, equivalent to the amount consumed by buses. While incentives have been introduced to encourage the electrification of buses, no such incentives have been introduced for tractors.

The adoption of electric tractors presents some challenges, such as the initial cost, infrastructure development and promoting their use among farmers. Diesel-powered machinery, notably tractors, accounts for approximately 12-15 per cent of the total cost of agricultural production, which varies by crop type and geographical region. However, electric tractors have many advantages, including zeroemission and a reduction in fuel and maintenance costs due to having fewer moving parts.

According to a study by the Indian Agricultural Research Institute maintenance costs by up to 40 per cent over their lifetime, providing a more reliable, environment friendly and cost-effective option for farmers. The Way Forward: India's tractor manufacturers have developed advanced technology and moved beyond incentives to introduce electric tractors. However, the primary challenge at present is the cost. On-road zero-emission electric tractors cost 40 to 50 per cent more than diesel tractors. This high cost could deter farmers, even though electric tractors are more cost-effective when used in the field. Urgent support from the Government is needed in the early stages of the market to bridge the cost gap between e-tractors and diesel-driven tractors.

Central and State-level incentives would send a positive signal to the industry to invest more in zeroemission tractors. Additionally, this aligns with India's goal of improving air quality and energy security Currently, most tractors used in and has the potential to boost India's tractor exports. Countries such as the US, Europe, Japan and Canada have implemented strict regulations for tractor emissions and have expressed interest in decarbonising farm machinery.

The global electric tractor market is projected to grow from USD 0.7 billion in 2024 to USD 3.4 billion by 2030, presenting a strategic opportunity for India to leverage its manufacturing capabilities. It can enhance its economic competitiveness, play a pivotal role in achieving net-zero emissions, strengthen the rural economy and shape a sustainable and resilient farm future.

AI is revolutionising sustainable, tech-driven farming

By harnessing data-driven insights, AI empowers farmers to optimise resource allocation, mitigate environmental degradation and enhance crop yields rtificial intelligence (AI) in agriculture is expected to increase dramatically food waste, climate change and other issues lead approximately one billion people to remain hungry and malnourished even though the globe produces enough food to feed everyone. With 9.7 billion people expected to inhabit the planet by 2050, the agriculture sector is under increasing pressure to provide food with less resource use and less environmental effect. Thankfully, the application of artificial intelligence (AI) in agriculture has promise for revolutionising food systems and mitigating the world food issue. AI can assist farmers in making data-driven choices, optimising resource consumption and minimising environmental effects by analysing data from several sources. According to a World Economic Forum analysis, integrating AI into agriculture might result in a 60 per cent reduction in the use of pesticides and a 50 per cent reduction in water usage.

Market demand analysis is an essential component of contemporary agriculture. In addition to analysing meteo- tative action before the crops photos, AI can assist farmers in choosing the best crop to produce or sell and offer insightful advice on when to plant and what kind of crop to grow. It is possible to forecast market demand for certain crops while optimising profitability by examining data patterns. Farmers may reduce he likelihood of crop failures by using forecasting and pre-dictive analytics. This will create software applications that analyse fruits and vegetables and offer information on their quality, freshness and size using artificial intelligence (AI) and computer vision methods. In addition to identifying flaws and illnesses in crops, these AI technologies allow farmers to take prevenrological data and satellite are impacted. Artificial Intelligence (AI) can assist in the production of crops that are more weather and disease-adapted by gathering data on plant growth. Scientists can use AI to find the best-performing plant kinds and crossbreed them to make even more superior hybrids. AI systems are capable of reliably estimating missing nutrients and performing chemical soil analysis

One of their products, Nutrient Scanner, gathers information from soil samples and gives farmers precise estimations of the nutrients that are lacking and the general condition of the soil. This enables farmers to optimise crop growth and minimise environmental impact by modifying irrigation schedules and fertiliser applications. AI to spot and predict diseases, identify and remove weeds and recommend effective treatment of pests.

It can also suggest the most effective treatment for pests, reducing the need for broadspectrum insecticides that can harm beneficial insects and lead to pesticide resistance. Farmers find it difficult and time-consuming to estimate crop growth and maturity, but AI can complete the work accurately and swiftly. Farmers can accurately forecast when crops will achieve ideal maturity by monitoring and tracking crop changes with the use of AI-powered gear, such as sensors and image recognition tools. According to studies, the accuracy rate attained by can monitor the State of plants maturity was greater than that of human observers. Farmers may benefit from large cost savings and better revenues as a result of this improved precision. Farmers can precisely track the amount of water and nutrients in the soil by integrating sensors and AI sys-

Deploying devices that detect several factors such as temperature, pH levels, nutrient content and soil moisture might be part of the sensor-based soil monitoring process. These sensors relay data back to AI systems, which process it, evaluate it and advise farmers on the best ways to handle their crops in light of the soil conditions they have discovered. AI-powered technologies can help farmers identify plant

Through a linked sprayer, the device could even automate the spraying of pesticides if necessary. AI technology can be used to automate insect or weed control. Robotic weeding is supposed to be extraordinarily accurate with the use of computer vision, saving 90 per cent of pesticide use. These solutions use data analytics to determine how much pesticide is required for each field based on information about crop type, soil condition and field history. In the employing AI to forecast crop illnesses and insects faster upcoming years, artificial intelligence (AI) in agriculture is expected to increase dramatically since it can completely transform the industry by boosting efficiency, decreasing waste and raising crop yields. The market for AI in agriculture is likely to develop rapidly, with a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 35.6 per cent expected to see the market size rise from $2.35 billion in 2020 to $10.83 billion by 2025, according to research by Markets and Markets. This will lead to more informed decision-making and improved crop yields, essential for addressing the global food security challenge. (The writer is research

Biden admin sending $1 bn more Slovakia's prime minister wounded in shooting in weapons, ammo to Israel

AP WASHINGTON

The Biden administration has told key lawmakers it would send more than USD 1 billion in additional arms and ammunition to Israel, three congressional aides have said. But it was not immediately known how soon the weapons would be delivered.

It's the first arms shipment to Israel to be revealed since the administration put another arms transfer, consisting of 3,500 bombs of up to 2,000 pounds each, on hold this

The Biden administration, citing concern for civilian casualties in Gaza, has said it paused that bomb transfer to keep Israel from using those particular munitions in its offensive in the crowded southern Gaza city of Rafah

The package disclosed Tuesday includes about USD 700 million for tank ammunition, USD 500 million in tactical vehicles, and USD 60 million in mortar rounds, the congressional aides said. They spoke on condition of anonymity to discuss an arms transfer that has not yet been made public. There was no immediate indication of when the arms would be sent. Two congressional aides said the shipment is not part of the long-delayed foreign aid package that Congress passed and

Biden signed last month. It wasn't known if the shipment was the latest tranche from an existing arms sale or something new. The Biden administration has come under criticism from both sides of the political spec-trum over its military support for Israel's now seven-month-old war against Hamas in Gaza — at a time when Biden is bat-tling for reelection against for-mer President Donald Trump. Some of Biden's fellow Democrats have pushed him to limit transfers of offensive weapons to Israel to pressure the US ally to do more to protect Palestinian civilians. Protests on college campuses around the US have driven home the message this spring. Republican lawmakers have seized on the administration's pause on the bomb transfers, saying any lessening of US support for Israel — its closest ally in the Middle East —

weakens that country as it

fights Hamas and other Iran backed groups. In the House, they are planning to advance a bill this week to mandate the delivery of offensive weaponry for Israel.

Despite the one-time suspension of a bomb shipment, Biden and administration officials have made clear they will continue other weapons deliveries and overall military support to Israel, which is the largest recipient of US military aid. Biden will see to it that "Israel has all of the military means it needs to defend itself against all of its enemies, including Hamas," national security spokesman John Kirby told reporters Monday.

For him, this is very straightforward: He's going to continue to provide Israel with all of the capabilities it needs, but he does not want certain categories of American weapons used in a particular type of operation in a particular place.

Dutch anti-Islam party nears government tormation

Brussels (AP): Anti-Islam firebrand Geert Wilders is on the verge of brokering a four-party coalition in the Netherlands six months after coming in first in national elections, opening the prospect that yet another European Union nation will veer toward the hard right weeks ahead of EU-wide elec-

Wilders has said he does not expect to become prime minister himself, because he remains too extreme for his coalition partners, but his Party for Freedom would be the driving force in the coalition.

With hard right and populist parties now part of or leading a half dozen governments in the 27-nation bloc, they appear positioned to make gains in the June 6-9 EU polls.

"I hope we will get there. I think we will get there. I cannot see it going wrong," Wilders told the broadcaster NOS early Wednesday after the four parties reached a deal on government financing, the last major stumbling bloc in the talks. It remains unclear who will become prime minister.

"That is still crucial. If you want a government to succeed, you need a prime minister that unites," said Pieter Omtzigt, leader of the centrist New Outgoing prime minister Mark Rutte's center-right People's Party for Freedom and Democracy and the populist Farmer Citizen Movement are also in the coalition talks.

Wilders said Wednesday could become "a historic day" if his party is finally let into a government. It once supported a minority government a decade ago, but was not part of it. Wilders' Party for Freedom won 37 seats in the 150-seat lower house of the Dutch parliament, and the four parties combined hold a comfortable majority of 88 seats.

Palestinians across Middle East mark | Houthi Rebels admit attacking 'catastrophe' with eyes on Gaza war

 $P_{\text{East on Wednesday are}}^{\text{alestinians across the Middle}}$ marking the anniversary of their mass expulsion from what is now Israel with protests and other events across the region at a time of mounting concern over the humanitarian catastrophe in Gaza

The Nakba, Arabic for "catastro-phe," refers to the 700,000 Palestinians who fled or were driven out of what today is Israel before and during the war surrounding its creation in 1948. More than twice that number have been displaced within Gaza since the start of the latest war, which was triggered by Hamas' October 7 attack into

UN agencies say 550,000 people, nearly a quarter of Gazas 2.3 million people, have been newly displaced in just the last week, as Israeli forces have pushed into the southern city of Rafah, along the border with Egypt, and reinvaded parts of northern Gaza. "We lived through the Nakba not just once, but several times," said Umm Shadi Sheikh Khalil, who was dis-placed from Gaza City and now lives in a tent in the central Gaza town of Deir al-Balah

The refugees and their descendants number some 6 million and live in built-up refugee camps in Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and the Israeli-occupied West Bank. In Gaza, they are the majority of the population, with most families having relocated from what is now central and southern Israel.

Israel rejects what the Palestinians say is their right of return, because if it was fully implemented, it would likely result in a Palestinian majority within Israel's borders. The refugee camps in Gaza have seen some of the heaviest

The latest war began with Hamas' rampage across southern Israel, through some of the same areas where Palestinians fled from their villages 75 years earlier. Palestinian militants killed some 1,200 people that day, mostly civilians, and took another 250 hostage. Israel responded with one of the heaviest military onslaughts in recent history, obliterating entire neighbourhoods in Gaza and forcing some 80 per cent of the population to flee their homes. Gaza's Health Ministry says over 35,000 Palestinians have been killed, without distinguishing between civilians and combatants in its count. The UN says there is widespread hunger and that northern Gaza is in a "full-blown famine." Israel says its goal is to dismantle Hamas and return the estimated 100 hostages, and the remains of more than 30 others, still held by the group after it released most of the rest during a cease-fire last year.

US destroyer in Red sea

Yemen's Houthi rebels on Wednesday claimed tar-geting a U.S. Navy destroyer and a commercial ship in the Red Sea. However, the attack on the warship apparently hap-pened nearly two days earlier and saw the vessel intercept the missile targeting it.

The latest statement from the Houthis comes as their attacks on shipping, which have dis-rupted trade through a vital corridor leading onto the Suez Canal and the Mediterranean Sea, have slowed in recent weeks. Though the rebels have not acknowledged the slowdown, the U.S. military has suggested its airstrikes and interceptions of Houthi fire have disrupted their assaults and chewed into their weapon stockpiles. emergency in New Caledonia

French President Emmanuel Macron is considering imposing state of emergency in the French Pacific territory of New Caledonia to curb spiraling violence, the presidency said Wednesday. At least three people were killed and four others, including a gendarme, were seriously injured, according to officials in the territory and French media reports on Wednesday. More than 130 people have been arrested and more than 300 have been injured since Monday, when protests over a constitutional voting reform pushed by Paris turned violent in the archipelago, which has long sought independence. Speaking at parliament, Prime Minister Gabriel Attal, who attended a two-hour meeting with top ministers at the

Elysee, said the aim of the state of emergency would be "to restore order in the shortest time possible."

A decree on the methods to impose the state of emergency is to be presented to the French Cabinet Wednesday afternoon.

In a statement, Macron emphasized the need for a resumption of political dialogue and asked the prime minister and the minister of the interior and overseas territories to invite New Caledonian delegations to

"All violence is intolerable and will be the subject of a relentless response to ensure the return of order," the statement said.

There have been decades of tensions on the archipelago between Indigenous Kanaks seeking independence and descendants of colonizers who want to remain part of France. French Minister of Interior and Overseas Territories Gérald Darmanin said that 100 gendarmes were evacuated during violence overnight following "an attack on their station with an ax and live ammunition.

"Calm must absolutely be restored," Darmanin said in an interview with French broadcaster RTL.

On Tuesday, the French Interior Ministry sent police reinforcements to New Caledonia, which long served as a prison colony and now hosts a French military base. About 1,000 gendarmes and 700 police officers have been deployed and a dozen professionals from a specialized police intervention and riot control unit have also been mobilized, the territory's top French official, High Commissioner Louis Le Franc, said at a news conference in New Caledonia.

The territory's political parties appealed for "calm and reason" with people who support independence and those who want the island to remain part of France."We have to continue to live together," the rival parties said in a joint statement on Wednesday. "Only with dialogue and resilience (we will) get through this situation." Three people were killed and four were seriously injured in the unrest overnight and on Wednesday, French officials said. A fourth person, a member of the gendarmes, was also seriously injured near the southern town of Plum, according to France Info. He was evacuated in critical condition to the medical unit of the Pacific Marine Infantry Regiment, French broadcaster BFM reported.

Le Franc warned that if calm isn't restored, there will be "many deaths" in the area of the capital, Noumea, where protests over the voting rights turned violent on Tuesday. Local authorities extended a curfew until Thursday morn-

Jurors in Trump's hush money trial are getting front row seat to history

AP WASHINGTON

Agag order. The House Speaker turning up outside court. Angry denouncements of the judge overseeing the case. Some of the most explosive moments in Donald Trump's hush money trial have played out for most of the world to see — except for the people who are actually deciding his fate: the jury.

The 12-person panel is shown evidence and witness testimony so they can decide whether the former president is guilty of a scheme to buy up and bury seamy stories in an effort to illegally influence the 2016 presidential election. But it's a highly curated experience; jurors are not getting the full picture seen by those who follow along

They don't even witness Trump enter or exit the courtroom. He's already there by the time they are brought into the room, and he stays until they are dis-

This is by design. Laws carefully govern how a criminal case is tried to ensure that a jury's decision on guilt or innocence isn't affected by fights over evidence or other legal sparring. It's routine to hold back a jury while trial lawyers argue with the judge about what can and can't be included for jurors to see during the trial. And attorneys often gather quietly at the judge's bench to talk about sensitive topics, out of their earshot. Jurors, too, agree to a set of rules when they're chosen for a trial. They can't research the case. They must avoid all news about it. They also agree not to discuss the case outside of court and not talk about it among themselves until deliberations, when all the evidence has been presented and they're deciding whether the defendant should be convicted. If they break any of these rules, they could be kicked off the panel and replaced with an alternate juror, or a mistrial could be declared.

So if they're taking their civic duty seriously, the Trump jury has never heard the Republican presidential candidate criticize Judge Juan M. Merchan as "totally conflicted." They don't know that Trump has been threatened with jail time and and fined USD 10,000 for violating a gag order that bars him from talking about witnesses in the case, including the prosecution's star witness, Michael Cohen. They haven't watched Cohen's TikTok livestreams. They didn't see House Speaker Mike Johnson hold a press conference outside the courthouse this week, using his powerful position to show his party turning against the judicial system by declaring the Manhattan criminal trial illegitimate.

And they're unaware of the hours of legal wrangling over what witnesses can be called to testify, and what they can say when they're called.

Trump has pleaded not guilty to 34 counts of falsifying business records and denies any of the sexual encounters happened. Trump's attorneys, for example, last week asked the judge to declare a mistrial over testimony from a crucial witness, Stormy Daniels, who spoke in discomfiting detail for jurors over the alleged sexual encounter with Trump that prompted the hush money payment just weeks before the presidential election in 2016. Jurors saw Daniels on the witness stand for 7.5 hours over two The panel got sent home early

ing. And then Trump's attorneys argued with the judge the case should be thrown out over her testimony. They took issue with Daniels' testimony describing a power dynamic between her and Trump, and the visceral reaction she had when she says she saw Trump sitting on the bed of his hotel suite stripped down to his boxers and T-shirt.

the day Daniels finished testify-

"That is so prejudicial and so incredible for a jury to hear," Trump's attorney Todd Blanche argued. He blamed prosecutors for asking questions that elicited intimate details of the alleged encounter. Judge Merchan refused to throw out the case. Trump's attorneys also wanted to modify a gag order that bars him from talking about witnesses in the case. "He needs an opportunity to respond to the American people," Blanche argued.

Judge Merchan denied that request too. And an appeals court on Tuesday upheld the gag order; finding that Trump wasn't claiming the restrictions infringed on his right to a fair trial. He was arguing that being prohibited from talking about the case could adversely impact his 2024 presidential campaign.

But Trump's lawyers have won some, too. Merchan said no to prosecutors' request to play jurors a 1999 CNN interview in which Trump discussed his familiarity with campaign finance laws. And just before court let out lastn Friday, Merchan told prosecutors they should inform Cohen "that the judge is asking him to refrain from making any more statements" outside court about the case or about Trump. More routine actions are also decided outside of the watchful eyes of the jury. The judge and attorneys talk about scheduling and days off - including this Friday, when the Republican presidential nominee will be attending his son Barron's high school graduation. And they've talked about potential upcoming witnesses.

Wong sworn in as Singapore's new Prime Minister

?conomist Lawrence Wong Ewas on Wednesday sworn in as Singapore's fourth prime minister in a planned political transition for the island state. Wong, 51, succeeded Lee Hsien Loong, 72, who relinquished his position after two decades; both belong to the ruling People's Action Party (PAP) that has been driving Singapore's economic progress for more than five decades.

Wong, who was the deputy prime minister, will be leading the fourth generation PAP politicians' government as the Prime Minister and the Finance Minister.

President Tharman Shanmugaratnam, 67, administered the oath to Wong, described by the local media as a low-key leadership transition. Wong cited continuity, stability and the need to avoid disruptions as reasons for not making major changes at the minister (cabinet) level.

"With all other ministers holding on to their portfolios across the leadership transition from Lee Hsien Loong's government to Wong's, it also testifies to the consistency in Wong's decisionmaking," a Channel News Asia

In April 2022, Wong was named as the leader of the PAP's fourth-generation, or 4G, team, and in June of that year promoted as the Deputy Prime Minister. Wong is mar-ried to Loo Tze Lui. Prior to entering politics, Wong was a civil servant for 14 years before joining the Ministry of Trade and Industry in 1997.

Minister for Trade and Industry Gan Kim Yong, 65, as his two Deputy Prime Ministers.

President Tharman said he has full confidence in Wong's ability to lead as Singapore ventures into uncharted waters internationally, noting Wong's key role in shaping the country's economic and social policies, Channel News Asia said. "He will be his own person "He will be his own person, with his own approach to building consensus and finding the best way forward for the country. All eyes are now set on the next General Election, which must be held by November 2025, only after which significant changes to the Cabinet are expected. At a press conference earlier this week, Wong said: "Continuity and stability are key considerations (for the cabinet), especially as we are approaching the end of this term of government."

"There is no higher priority for me and that is to form the best possible team to serve Singapore and Singaporeans," he added.

Among Indian PAP parlia-mentarians, Murali Pillai, 56, has been promoted as minister of state in the Ministry of Law and the Ministry of Transport. Pillai, a lawyer, will be sworn in on July 1, 2024. The other Indian origin ministers in the cabinet Vivian Dr Balakrishnan, 63, remains the Minister; Foreign Shanmugam, 65, as Minister of Law and Home Affairs, and Indranee Rajah, 61, as Minister in the Prime Minister's Office. Welcoming Wong as the new Prime Minister, the Singapore Indian Chamber of Commerce and Industry (SICCI) said it is confident that Singapore-India ties will continue to flourish.

This is all the more so since Wong co-chaired the India-Singapore Ministerial Roundtable, which has set the stage and the tone for longterm ties between our two countries," SICCI chairman Neil Parekh said.

Pak conducts successful training launch of 'Fatah-II rocket system

Islamabad (PTI): Pakistan on Wednesday conducted a successful training launch of guided multi-launch rocket system 'Fatah-II', which is capable of engaging targets with high precision up to a range of 400 kilometres, the army said.The launch of Fatah-II Guided Rocket System was aimed at perfecting the launch drills and procedures, the army said in a statement. "Equipped with state-of-the-art navigation system, unique trajectory and manoeuvrable features, Fatah-II is capable of engaging targets with high pre-cision and defeating any missile defence system," it said. Moreover, the army also announced that "Fatah -II is being inducted in Pakistan's Artillery Divisions for standoff, precision engagement of deep targets,".

Zelenskyy postpones foreign visits as Ukraine faces new Russian offensive

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy postponed all his upcoming foreign trips as Ukraine's army battled to contain a front-line push by the Kremlin's forces, as US Secretary of State Antony Blinken on Wednesday visited a drone manufacturing facility in Kyiv on the second day of a visit meant to reassure Ukrainians of continuing American support.

Zelenskyy cancelled all for-eign visits "that were planned for the coming days," his office said Wednesday on Telegram. The head of state instructed his team to reschedule the visits. "We are grateful to our partners for understanding," the announcement said.

Russia prepared to negotiate over Ukraine

Russian President Vladimir Putin says his regime is prepared to negotiate over the conflict in Ukraine in an interview with Chinese media on the eve of visit to partner Beijing that has backed Moscow in its full-scale invasion of its neighbour.

'Radical Saudi Arabia scholar held for years should be tried or released'

Dubai (AP): A radical Sunni scholar whose criticisms of Saudi Arabia's government and the West drew praise from the late al-Qaida founder Osama bin Laden should be immediately tried or released from a yearslong arbitrary detention by the kingdom, independent experts working with the United Nations said Wednesday.

Safar bin Abdulrahman al-Hawali had been one of the prominent voices behind the Sahwa, or "Awakening" movement, in the kingdom, which called for strictly observing hardline Wahhabi beliefs and criticized its royal Saud family. Al-Hawali has been held without trial since 2018 as part of a wider crackdown on all dissent under King Salman and his assertive son, Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman. Al-Hawali, now in his mid-70s, was cited specifical ly by bin Laden in his 1996 declaration of war on the United States as one of the clerics detained by the kingdom purportedly on the order of the Americans. The UN Committee on the security forces were placed on alert in the northern and eastern regions to counter attempts to commemorate LTTE members killed in the group's bitterly-fought conflict for a separate homeland for the minority Tamils, ahead of the anniversary of the long-drawn battle's end. Security forces received information about events being organised throughout the island nation's Tamil-dominated North and East to commemorate the outlawed Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) to mark the 15th anniversary of its final battle.

Rights of Persons with Disabilities called for al-Hawali's release, saying ailments from strokes he suffered in 2005 and 2006 have made it difficult for him to speak or care for himself.

The three-decade-long armed, which started in 1983, was ended by the island nation's military by killing the leaders of the LTTE in 2009. Although the military decided against deploying troops, a special task force of the military and the police would keep a close eye on the possible LTTE commemorations from Wednesday to May 20. Security forces said that the distribution of pro-LTTE literature was seen at several commemorative events. At some events, calls were also made for the revival of the LTTE, which is under proscription internationally, including in India. Police have said that any group trying to commemorate the

US to send an unofficial delegation as Taiwan's president is sworn in

AP WASHINGTON

The White House will send an unofficial delegation to Taiwan this weekend for the inauguration of the island's democratically elected president, the Biden administration announced Wednesday, in a move that is certain to upset China but unlikely to draw excessive responses from Beijing as the two countries try to stabilise relations. A senior White House official said the move is in line with longstanding US practice to send the delegation — which includes two former senior officials and a scholar — to the inauguration ceremony Monday. Lai Ching-te of the Democratic Progressive Party will take office, succeeding Tsai Ing-wen of the same party.Beijing, which sees Taiwan as part of Chinese territory and vows to seize the island by force if necessary to achieve unification, sees Lai as a supporter of Taiwan's independence and has long opposed any official contact between Washington and Taipei."In what ways the US deals with the new Taiwan authorities on May 20 and afterwards will affect (the) cross-Strait situation and also the China-US relations in the future," Liu Pengyu, spokesman for the Chinese

Embassy in Washington, said

Tuesday before the announcement, referring to the Taiwan

"So we urge the US side to act on President Biden's commitment of not supporting Taiwan independence," he said

The US delegation will be in Taipei "to represent the American people," the White House official told reporters on condition of anonymity to discuss details of the trip before it was announced. The official called Taiwan "a model for democracy not only in the region but also globally."

Despite an absence of formal relations with Taiwan, the US is the island's strongest ally and is obligated under a 1979 law to help Taiwan protect itself from invasion.

It's unclear how Beijing would respond to an unofficial US delegation at the Taiwanese inauguration, but "Beijing will be the provocateur should it choose to respond with additional military pressure or coercion," the US official said, adding that the administration is not predicting how China would respond. Beijing has repeatedly warned Washington not to meddle with Taiwan's affairs, which it says are a core interest for China because it is a matter of sovereignty and territorial integrity. Beijing sees Washington's support for Taiwan as provocative. The US insists any differences be resolved peacefully and opposes any unilateral changes by either side to the status quo. We do not support Taiwan independence," the administration official said. "We support cross-Strait dialogue."

Taiwan has topped the agenda in US-China relations, which have soured over issues ranging from trade, cybersecurity and human rights to spying. The Biden administration, in its competition with China, has engaged in "intense diplomacy" aimed at preventing tensions from spiraling out of con-

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen and Secretary of State Antony Blinken have recently visited China in the administration's latest effort to keep communications open and minimize misunderstanding.

Shortly after Lai was elected in January, President Joe Biden sent an unofficial delegation to Taipei to meet Lai, drawing protests from Beijing. Members of Congress also have travelled to Taiwan to meet the president-elect. Plans are underway for a congressional delegation to visit Taiwan shortly after the inauguration. Beijing reiterated its claim over Taiwan immediately after Lai was elected and said "the basic fact that Taiwan is part of China will not change. Days later, Nauru, a tiny Pacific nation, severed its diplomatic ties with Taiwan, which now is recognized by 12 governments,

Gen Zs, millennials globally optimistic about economy, social situation: Survey

More than half of Gen Zs and two-thirds of millennials globally are optimistic about the economic and social situation of the country and expect it to improve further, a Deloitte survey said on Wednesday.

Both generations are optimistic about GenAĬ and its potential benefits in improving the way they work with 4 in 10 undergoing training, the Deloitte's 2024 Gen Z and millennial survey said.

The survey also found that nine in 10 Gen Zs and millennials say the purpose is important for job satisfaction and are likely to reject work or employers that do not align with their ethics and beliefs.

The survey gathers insights from more than 22,800 Gen Z and millennial respondents across 44 countries and explores how Gen Zs and millennials perceive the transformations occurring in the world around them.

Fieldwork for the survey was completed between November 24, 2023 and February 13, 2024. Gen Z respondents were born between January 1995 and December 2005 and the millennial respondents between January 1983 and December 1994.

According to the survey, millennials are feeling more optimistic about the overall economic, financial, and social outlook compared with their global counterparts and this sentiment is boosted by India's sustained economic growth amid a global slowdown.

Two-thirds of millennials (65 per cent) and more than half of the Gen Zs (58 per cent) expect the country's economic outlook to improve in the next one year. It is a significantly better situation compared with the previous year, as more Gen Zs (62 per cent) and millennials (64 per cent) are now confident of their financial situation. As per the survey, both the generations believe GenAI will have a positive impact on their work-life balance and how they work. More than half of the Gen Zs (5) per cent) and millennials (54 per cent) frequently use GenAI at work and strongly feel that it will free up their time for creative and strategic work

However, they are equally convinced that they will need to reskill and GenAI will influence their career decisions and cause some job loss. The survey also highlights how women are more upbeat about GenAI and slightly more comfortable working with it than men. Exports up one per cent in April; trade deficit widens to four months high

India's merchandise exports rose by 1 per cent to USD 34.99 billion in April even as the trade deficit widened to a four-month high of USD 19.1 billion during the month, according to government data. Healthy growth in sectors such as electronics, chemicals, petroleum products and pharmaceuticals has helped in registering positive growth in despite economic uncertainties.

Imports also increased by 10.25 per cent to USD 54.09 billion in the month under review from USD 49.06 billion in April 2023 due to a significant jump in gold imports.

The imports of precious metals more than doubled to USD 3.11 billion in April this year. Crude oil imports rose by 20.22 per cent to USD 16.5 billion. Trade deficit, or the gap between imports and exports, in April 2023 stood at USD

14.44 billion. The previous high in the deficit was recorded in December 2023 at USD 19.8 billion. In March 2024, the outbound shipments dipped to USD 41.68 billion from USD 41.96 billion a year ago. Briefing media on the data, Commerce Secretary Sunil Barthwal said the figures show that the new fiscal year started on a good note and hoped that it would continue.

He informed that the data for the country's total exports in goods and services for 2023-24 has been revised to USD 778.21 billion, which is the "highest" so far. Merchandise exports in the last fiscal was aggregated at USD 437.1 billion, while services exports stood at USD 341.1 billion. In merchandise exports, 13 of the 30 key sectors exhibited positive growth in April as compared to same period last year. These include coffee, tobacco, spices, plastic and handicrafts. According to the commerce ministry data, released on Wednesday, the estimated value of services exports for April is USD 29.57 billion compared to USD 25.78 billion in April 2023.

Imports of services estimated to be increased to USD 16.97 billion during the month as compared to USD 13.96 billion in April 2023.

Is it time to worry about another trial, asks Aman Sehrawat man Sehrawat, the lone male Indian wrestler to have qualified for Paris Olympics, finds it annoying that instead of shifting his focus on preparing for the Games, he still has to worry about cutting his weight to prepare for another round of trials

The 20-year-old Under-23 world champion saved India the blushes by securing a berth in men's freestyle 57kg for the Games at the recent World Qualifiers in Istanbul. In 11 other weight categories where the country's male wrestlers competed, Índia drew a blank as none of them could qualify. "So many times I have cut my weight. How many times I have to do it? It causes a lot of weakness. I don't understand do I think of now winning trials again or start preparing for Olympics. FIFA moves toward ending soccer tradition and letting league games be staged in other countries

AP ■ BANGKOK

 $F^{\mathrm{IFA}}_{\mathrm{toward}}$ ending decades of soccer tradition by reviewing the rules that currently block domestic league games being played in other countries.

Fans are likely to object to their teams' home matches potentially being moved thousands (kilometers) away. The United States and Saudi Arabia are expected to be willing hosts to lure competitive games from top European countries, and FIFA recently agreed to withdraw from an ongoing court case in New York filed by promoter Relevent to challenge the policy. The new FIFA policy will likely be attractive to the growing number of international owners of European clubs, including the wave of U.S. Investors in the English Premier League, Italy's Serie A and France's Ligue 1, and state-backed teams like Abu Dhabi-owned Manchester

City, Qatar-owned Paris Saint-

Germain and Saudi-owned Newcastle. FIFA is now creating a panel of 10-15 people representing soccer stakeholders to advise within months on amending the rules on so-called "out-ofterritory" games. The rules were last amended in 2014.

Attempts since then to have European league games games abroad, including taking Barcelona to Miami in 2019, were blocked as U.S. Promoters seek to give fans more than just preseason exhibition games involving the world's best club teams. FIFA directed its working group, which is yet to be appointed, to consider fairness and giving "advance notice to fans who may miss the opportunity to attend a home or away match in the home or away match in the home territory." Other factors for the FIFA panel include "respect for the recognized structure of international football" and potential disruption to fans, teams and leagues in the country hosting "out-of-territory" games.

Departing Paris Saint-Germain striker Kylian Mbappé was left out of the squad traveling to Nice in the French league because of pain in his left hamstring, the club said. PSG has already secured a 12th league title and plays the Riviera club later Wednesday in a rearranged fixture. PSG will then conclude its league campaign on Sunday at Metz.

PSG also will be missing forward Ousmane Dembélé, who received a knock on his left thigh in the 3-1 loss against Toulouse last weekend. Mbappé grabbed his league-leading 27th goal of the season against Toulouse in what was his last home game for the club.

Mbappé publicly confirmed last week that he is leaving at the end of the season, having already informed the club in February. Although he has yet to announce his destination, Mbappé is widely expected to join Real Madrid.

PSG hopes he will be fit again to feature in the French Cup final against Lyon on May 25 with a chance to add to his club-record tally of 256 goals.
Fifth-place Nice is four points behind Lille and Brest and can still qualify for next season's Champions League.

SUNRISERS LOOK TO SEAL PLAYOFF BERTH

asters of their own fate now despite LV Lbeing erratic, Sunrisers Hyderabad will hope their destructive batting lineup delivers when they take on Gujarat Titans in pursuit of a playoffs berth in the Indian Premier League here on Thursday.

Another win will be enough for Sunrisers to seal a playoff berth as they need only one point to ensure qualification. But the Pat Cummins-led side will also want to challenge for the top two spots, which is a possibility considering they have one more game after this match and a healthy net run rate of +0.406. SRH have 14 points from 12 matches and can reach a maximum of 18 points, which may be enough to ensure a top-two finish if other results go their way. Not only are the Sunrisers players well-rested ahead of the clash against GT as they got a week off, their morale will also be sky high after notching yet another record-breaking win against Lucknow Super Giants

SRH have made a habit of securing unbelievable victories throughout the season but they have also suffered sizeable defeats, including against GT (by 7 wickets) earlier in the competition competition.

The boom or bust approach by the batters has either done exceedingly well or has simply let the side down, including three times in the last five games, where SRH lost to RCB (by 35 runs), CSK (by 78 runs) and MI (by 7 wickets).

The 2016 champions would hope Head and Sharma deliver as SRH are heavily dependent the explosive starts provided by the duo.

They will also want to do a better job at re-building their innings, especially while chasing. The likes of Nitish Reddy, Heinrich Klassen and Abdul Samad need to manage that better.

On the other hand, the Titans, who have only five wins from 13 games and are on 11 points, are out of the reckoning and

With former skipper Hardik Pandya moving to Mumbai Indians this season, GT struggled to find a replacement for the all-rounder who was key to their title-winning run in 2022 and runners-up finish last year.

The absence of pacer Mohammed Shami, who was ruled out of the tournament due to injury, has also hurt them.

Hopefully we get the momentum at the right time: Phil Salt

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Kolkata Knight Riders have been remarkable in the league phase of this IPL season and high hitting and part of the season and high hitting and hitting a and big-hitting opener Phil Salt is now hoping for the side to sustain the momentum and "put our best foot forward" in

Two-time champions KKR are currently at the top of the pecking order with 9 points following nine wins and three losses in 13 matches.

"It's about taking it day by day and hopefully we put our best foot forward and get the momentum at the right time," Salt said on KKR's Knights Dugout Podcast.

Salt has been one of the key players in KKR's impressive run to the play-offs, forming a formidable partnership with fellow opener Sunil Narine by taking the opposition bowling attack to the cleaners.

Left-arm pacer Micthell Starc, Salt's colleague at KKR, said the team is desperate to regain the trophy they won twice in the past.

"I'm excited to get involved here at KKR and hopefully it will be a really successful season for us. We're here to get the trophy and that's what we're aiming for and hopefully we're going to do exactly that," Starc

The Australian pacer also shed some light on his return to IPL after 10 years.

"It's been a while since I've been here. Was supposed to be here with KKR in 2018 but I got injured. So it's exciting to be back and looking forward to

Meanwhile, Salt touched upon his first experience with the England squad.

He went on to share an anecdote about facing Jofra Archer in the nets. "I think Jofra is the fastest I

Abhishek's performance in IPL this season will help him play for India: Markram PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Cunrisers Hyderabad's South African import Aiden Markram believes Abhishek Sharma's destructive IPL form would fetch him an India cap in the not so distant future. Sharma, who is striking at over 200 in the ongoing edition, has 401 runs in 12 matches. He and Australian Travis Head make for an explosive opening pair and most recently chased down over 160 runs in a less 10 overs against Lucknow Super Giants.

Markram, who is the captain of the South African team, described the duo as "brothers of destruction" in an interview to PTI Videos "Abhi (Abhishek) has made massive strides this season. He was showing some really positive signs in the previous seasons and what he's achieved so far this season puts him in good stead for hopefully representing India one day," Markram said of the 23-yearold left-hander.

"He's got a very calm and level head on his shoulders and he'll take everything in his stride. But my fingers are certainly crossed for him to go to higher honours," he added.

IMPACT PLAYER RULE
GIVES FREEDOM: Joining

the debate surrounding the impact player rule, Markram said that the addition of an extra batter in the line-up has allowed teams to adopt a more aggressive approach. "Naturally, when you have that extra batter in your batting line-up, you feel more freedom as a player. And obviously from the start of the innings, the openers feel that extra bit of freedom as well," he explained. "I think we've seen it with quite a few other teams that have been doing it. So I'll definitely say that the impact players have created that and created

Markram also commended the bowling particularly the leadership of Bhuvneshwar Kumar. don't will get better with time: Ganguly

Delhi Capitals' Director of Cricket Sourav Ganguly feels Rishabh Pant is an instinctive captain and his leadership skills will refine with time and experience.

The dashing wicket-keeper batter returned to competitive cricket after a painstakingly long rehab following a horrific car crash in December 2022.

The 26-year-old resumed his duties as the Delhi Capitals captain.

"Pant is a young captain, he'll learn

Pant has time and again showcased his astute captaincy during the IPL, while he has also erred in his decisions a few times.

"With time, he'll become a better captain. Nobody is a great captain from day one, but he is an instinctual captain, he makes decisions on the ground. With more time, he'll get better."

DC ended their league stage with seven wins and seven losses. Although they are still alive in the playoffs race as they have a mathematical chance, but in all probability they have all but played their last game this season. The likes of pacers Mukesh Kumar and Rasikh Dar Salam rose to the occasion a few times this season and Ganguly was lavish in his praise for the duo.
"You've seen Rasikh's development

over time. The more matches he played, the better he got. It's not easy to bowl on the Delhi wicket. This wicket is great, and the ground isn't that big, so I think for any bowler, it isn't easy to bowl here. Rasikh has improved a lot.

"Mukesh has been our best bowler this season. He bowls all the difficult overs, whether at the start or at the death. There has been no match this season where we didn't need his bowling in the death," he said. "We knew that conceding sixes would lead to more losses, so he has consistently delivered there. Our Indian bowlers have been great this season.

Injured Rabada returns home from IPL, impact on T20 World Cup preparation unlikely being out of form.

PTI JOHANNESBURG

South Africa pace spearhead Kagiso Rabada has returned home from the Indian Premier League due to a lower limb soft tissue infection, the country's cricket board said on Wednesday. Rabada represented Punjab Kings in the IPL, taking 11 wickets in as many games. Punjab have already been eliminated from the IPL play-offs race and will play their last league game on May

"The 28-year-old consulted a specialist on arrival in South Africa and is being closely monitored by the Cricket South Africa medical team," said Cricket South Africa (CSA) in a statement.

CSA also said that the injury is unlikely to impact Rabada's preparation for the T20 World Cup in the Americas next month.

"His preparation for the upcoming ICC Men's T20 World Cup in West Indies and USA is not expected to be affected," CSA added.

Ultra aggressive cricket transformed T20 but time will tell if players can do it in WC: Langer

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Ultra-aggressive cricket, especially in the powerplay, has transformed the shortest format but it remains to be seen if the players can replicate it in the upcoming T20 World Cup in the Americas, said Lucknow Super Giants head coach Justin Langer.

IPL teams have scored 200 or more 37 times this season so far but LSG managed to achieve the feat only once against Chennai Super Kings last month — and Langer admitted that they had struggled in the powerplay. "The Lucknow wicket has been a real contest between bat and ball whereas a lot in this tournament has been very one sided towards the bat. So that's certainly, we haven't capitalised in our powerplay like some of the other teams have," Langer said after LSG lost by 19 runs to Delhi Capitals here on Tuccday night Tuesday night.

"...It's been absolutely amazing watching some of these powerplays. It's almost transformed the game. And whether people can continue to do this and whether they can do it during the World Cup, time will tell. But it's certainly been ultra aggressive cricket."

Defending 209, DC had reduced LSG to 71 for 5 but pace all-rounder Arshad Khan gave a real scare when good package," Langer said.

he slammed an unbeaten 33ball 58 before the hosts held their nerves to limit the visitors to 189 for 9.

"I think Arshad is a very good cricketer. You saw that he swung the ball early. He's a good fieldsman and to be able to bat like that, he's a very

"I've thought the whole way through watching this tournament that he's got huge potential and he showed some of that tonight. So when he becomes more consistent, particularly with his bowling, he could be a real handful and a very, very good all-around cricketer. For DC, Tristan Stubbs was sensational as he smashed a 25-ball 57 and then returned to take a wicket. "I think Tristan Stubbs, that wicket was important obviously. We tried (Deepak) Hooda when the two left-handers were in and he got a wicket for us two games ago, he didn't get one this game, whereas Stubbs did," Langer

"So I thought if we had been a little more intelligent with our batting today, that was a chaseable score on this wicket. He's (Stubbs) a very good cricketer. I've been seeing the power plays in the first six, but we're also seeing the way some of these teams are finishing off, and I think Stubbs is an outstanding cricketer."

Talking about the focus on match-ups these days, Langer said: "There's so much data these days, so when you do your analysis leading into every game and what often happens traditionally is left-handers don't have as much impact on the game against off-spin when the ball's spinning away.

"You saw Bishy (Ravi Bishnoi) bowled beautifully when spinning away, when the ball's they're whereas spinning back into the lefthander or the off-spin is spinning back into the righthander, it tends to be more in the arc to be hitting some of these sixes

"So generally the thinking is that the ball that's turning away from the batsman, left or right, is the way that most teams tend to match it up. Often when a wicket quickly falls, you look to get an off spinner on ... And the truth is, there's not too many Ravi Ashwins or Nathan Lyons in the world. So it's a specialist role, that's why often parttimers are used.
