The former Congress president and the BJP have "accepted" in this election that the Congress must fail. In the last election, the BJP won with 302 seats, and the Congress got 80 seats. However, in this election, the Congress is hoping to improve its performance. The current election is seen as a battle between the BJP and Congress. The Congress is hoping to increase its support base and win some crucial seats. The BJP, on the other hand, is looking to retain its majority in Parliament.

Early detection of blood cancer is key to eradicating the disease and ensuring a better quality of life for the affected individuals. The need for early detection arises from the understanding that blood cancer, if detected early, can be treated effectively with a higher chance of remission and survival. Conversely, if left undiagnosed or diagnosed late, blood cancer can lead to severe health complications and, in some cases, be fatal.

The importance of early detection of blood cancer becomes even more critical as the disease affects people across all age groups, from children to adults. Early detection through symptoms or routine health check-ups can significantly improve the chances of treatment success, reduce the financial burden on families, and improve the patient's quality of life.

In the context of India, where the burden of blood cancer is high, especially in certain regions, early detection takes on even greater significance. Initiatives such as awareness campaigns, screenings, and support systems are crucial to ensure that individuals can access the necessary healthcare services in a timely manner.

State health systems play a pivotal role in this regard. They must provide accessible and affordable healthcare services, including diagnostics and treatment facilities, to ensure that people can seek help at the earliest signs of blood cancer. Moreover, partnerships between the public and private sectors, as well as international collaborations, can help in scaling up these efforts and making early detection a reality for more people.

For years, Vietnamese and U.S. officials have been working to finalize a deal to permit the Vietnamese navy to purchase a U.S.-built missile defense system. The agreement, which is expected to be signed next week, would mark a significant step forward in the decades-long ties between the two countries. It would also be a win for President Barack Obama's administration, which has been pushing for increased trade and investment with Vietnam as part of its so-called “pivot” strategy in the Asia-Pacific region. It would also be a boost for the Vietnamese military, which has been modernizing its fleet and expanding its role in regional security. However, the deal also raises concerns about U.S. influence in the region and its potential impact on other countries, particularly China.

Summer can be fun and learning for students
By engaging in innovative and educational activities, children can make the most of their summer break, ensuring both physical and intellectual growth.

School students look forward to summer vacations with a sense of relief and a deal of excitement. That period is also one of the longest periods of a student’s life. It has been observed that several students spend the entire month of July in their virtual classes, leaving them little time for recreational activities.

Instead of following the regular routine, students can take up new hobbies or interests during the summer break. This can help them develop new skills and hobbies, which can be beneficial in the long run.

Small children should not be allowed to engage in complex physical activities as well as academic work. With just 60 days of summer vaca- tion, every day a child should participate in some physical activity or games to remain fit.

The poll's last drafting parties to partners for a honest fight is a classic case of too little, too late

With the Lok Sabha elections approaching the final phases, the Election Commission is preparing to send the final list of candidates to the Opposition parties. The party leaders are making false narratives and making communal utterances. Interestingly, this directive comes after five of the seven poll parties are over. Also, the timing and impact of such narratives are becoming a cause of concern. The party leaders need to focus on free and fair election or electoral violence which has taken a deep root. Though it is an independent institution, its constitutional body, several events that affect its impartiality and functioning. There have been accusations of Government interference, from influencing the timing of elections to being bent towards the BJP while being purely strict with the Opposition. Since 1999, three Opposition par- ties registered 27 complaints against PM Modi but the EC took no action. A scrutiny of these complaints and the EC’s responses has led us to interact with the Prime Minister. The Congress has accused the panel of being “super, super” regarding complaints against Prime Minister Modi and the EC for their delay in the allegations of Modi’s divisive speech in Varanasi. The Congress also alleged the BJP’s complaints against Mallikarjun Kharge and Rahul Gandhi. The EC’s letters mark the first such action against a Prime Minister, but why did the EC take action now?

The priding Indians, one of the largest democratic societies in the world will be in a week or so. A hectic flurry of pending policy decisions is likely to dawn immediately. As the first party comes back, a hundred days action-packed agenda would be met by major government departments, going by PM Modi’s well-wishing wishes to a tumultuous political tide on one side, and the geo-political space, which existed when the elections were announced, turned terminal instantly. It is clear that some of the changes are driven by elections happening all across the globe during 2024, including in Europe and US. While international influence and domestic context are significant drivers, it is clear the world’s major players are concerned.

The cultural upheaval in India over the past few years, has been dramatic and transformed. As the 21st century unfolds, every sector of the Indian economy is witnessing changes and advancements in science, technology and society. The rapid pace of innovation upon which coherent and amiable environment is built and where people do not think that their basic needs have been hit hard. The world has never seen such an intersection of know ledge and technological prowess than it does today but sadly, poverty, violence, food insecurity, violence, exploitation and discrimination continue to seep into the fabric of the globe.

Among the victims of exploitation are the elderly population across the globe. Along with this situation has been the elder abuse issue, which is still not recognized and addressed. The elderly in the family become subject to abuse, neglect, isolation, humiliation and harassment. The increased rate of urbanization, transborder migration, inflation, technological advancement and the urban life style has increased the vulnerability of the elderly being abused. The phenomenon of elder abuse is one of the leading causes of death among the older persons. The Ministry of Family and Senior Citizens Welfare has been working to address this issue.

Russia misses denuclearization deadline

Russian missiles slammed into the second-largest city in the northeast of Ukraine on Thursday, killing at least 16 civilians and wounding 100 others, Ukrainian officials said, as Kyiv’s army commander vowed it would not cross a “red line” crossed by the Russian troops.

The Brisbane attack, which was hit by a barrage of Russian missiles last night, was one of the most intense attacks on a city in Ukraine since the war began in February. The Ukrainian air defenses were reportedly launched to protect the city from further attacks.

A total of 15 missiles were fired at Brisbane, which is located in the industrial region of Donbas, according to the Ukrainian Defense Ministry.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky called the attack a “blatant violation” of Ukrainian sovereignty and said the country would not tolerate such actions.

In response, the Ukrainian Ministry of Defense announced that it had launched a series of counter-battery attacks against Russian positions near the city.

The attack was the latest in a series of recent attacks on Ukrainian cities, including the recent attacks on Kharkiv and Mariupol.

Meanwhile, the United Nations Security Council unanimously condemned the attack, calling it a “grave violation of international law.”

Despite the condemnation, Russian forces have continued to launch attacks on Ukrainian cities and civilians, despite assurances from Moscow that it would not target civilians.

The latest attack came as Ukraine’s armed forces continued to push Russian forces out of the country, with the Ukrainian army making gains in several key areas.

The conflict has already claimed thousands of lives and displaced millions of people, with Ukraine’s economy suffering a severe blow.

Ukrainian officials have estimated that more than 1 million people have been displaced since the start of the war in February.
