USCIS plans extra time for laid off Indian H-1B workers

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE

A possible relief to some laid off Indian workers as the US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced that it is extending the deadline for some workers to file an application for an H-1B visa.

The USCIS clarified that laid-off workers who had previously decided to apply for an H-1B visa could stay in the US beyond the 60 days after the termination of their previous employment. However, the workers will have to file an application before the end of the current fiscal year, which is September 30, 2024.

The USCIS has received a large number of applications from Indian workers who are currently unemployed in the US. The agency has also received a significant number of applications from Indian workers who are planning to return to the US.

The USCIS has also announced that it will be extending the deadline for some workers to file an application for an H-1B visa. The deadline for filing an application will be extended to December 1, 2024, for workers who are currently employed in the US and who have not previously applied for an H-1B visa.

The USCIS has also announced that it will be increasing the number of interviews available for Indian workers who are applying for an H-1B visa. The agency will also be increasing the number of interviews available for Indian workers who are applying for an H-1B visa for the first time.

Punjabi BJP chief lambasts opposition, farm leaders union over disrupted campaigning

Pardeep Singh Kulli, a senior leader of Punjab Khalsa Dharmik Lehar (PKDL), has strongly criticized the ruling Congress party for disrupting the election campaign for the upcoming civic polls, alleging it was against the principles of democracy and the people of the state.

In an exclusive interview with The Tribune, Kulli said that the Congress party had disrupted campaign meetings and rallies in various parts of the state in the name of democracy, which was an insult to democracy.

He said that the Congress party was using the issue to create divisions among the people of the state and to attract attention to itself.

India urges Iran to release 40 Indian seafarers

India has asked Iran to release nearly 40 Indian seafarers who were detained by Iran while onboard a cargo ship. The Indian government has sought the release of the seafarers who were detained over a couple of months ago.

The Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) released a statement on Monday, saying that India has made representations to Iran for the release of the seafarers. The MEA said that the Indian government has been in contact with the Iranian authorities to secure the release of the seafarers.

The MEA statement also said that the Indian government has been urging Iran to ensure the safety and security of all Indian nationals and to uphold the principles of international law.

The Ministry of External Affairs has been in touch with the Iranian authorities to ensure the early release of the seafarers. The MEA said that the Indian government is working on all possible means to secure the release of the seafarers.

The MEA statement also said that the Indian government has been in contact with the International劳里达米亚协会 (ILO) and the International Maritime Organization (IMO) to seek their assistance in the matter.

The MEA statement further said that the Indian government is closely monitoring the situation and will continue to take all necessary steps to secure the release of the seafarers.

The MEA statement concluded that the Indian government is committed to ensuring the safety and security of all Indian nationals and will continue to work towards their early release.

India sees highest heatwave deaths globally from 1990 to 2019: Study

India has seen the highest number of heatwave deaths globally from 1990 to 2019, according to a study published in the journal Nature Climate Change.

The study, which analyzed data from 35 countries, found that India had the highest number of heatwave deaths during this period, with more than 100,000 deaths attributed to heatwaves in India alone.

The study also found that heatwaves were becoming more frequent and intense, with the number of heatwave days in India increasing from 15 in 1990 to 60 in 2019.

The study suggested that climate change was a major driver of these heatwaves, with warming temperatures leading to more frequent and intense heatwaves.

The study also highlighted the need for increased preparedness and adaptation measures to reduce the impact of heatwaves on human health.

The study concluded that urgent action is needed to address the impacts of climate change, including the development and implementation of heatwave mitigation and adaptation strategies.

India should be prioritized for receiving climate finance and technical support to help it prepare for and adapt to the impacts of climate change.

The study called for an increase in global ambition on climate action, with a focus on reducing greenhouse gas emissions and limiting global warming to 1.5°C.

The study also called for increased funding for adaptation and resilience building, including in the health sector, to help countries like India cope with the impacts of climate change.

Embracing the oys and wisdom of age

Amidst serene nature, I pondered the time’s fleeting nature and shifting age perspectives, inspired by three chance encounters.

I expect a memorable week in the great city of Mumbai. Grap and impor- tantly clean mountain air, try to put us at ease, and I will adapt accordingly.

But let us not forget that those 400 seats came as a result of a strong, well-organized campaign. Rajnath Singh’s leadership and the hard work of the party’s cadre was instrumental in achieving this victory. Without their dedication and commitment, this outcome would not have been possible.

I am writing to express my solidarity with the farmers and their struggles. The rollback of the three agricultural laws is a significant step towards justice and equality for all. As a country, we must continue to work towards a just and equitable society, where everyone has a voice and a say in shaping their future.

Electric tractors for decarbonizing agriculture

These technological marvels promise not only to rejuvinate farming practices but also to mitigate the industry’s environmental footprint.

rtificial intelligence (AI) in agriculture is a revolution in progress. However, AI is also part of a broader transformation — the digitalization of agriculture. This digital transition has two main components: data and software. The data component, particularly in the form of remote sensing, is driving down costs and improving the efficiency of agricultural practices at scale. Software, on the other hand, is allowing farmers to make smarter decisions, reducing waste and increasing yields.

Rationalisation of Taxes: Tax rationalisation scheme is expected to be implemented after the cost of producing electric tractors.

To promote the use of electric vehicles, several countries have introduced tax incentives for the purchase of electric vehicles. For example, in the UK, electric tractors are currently subject to the same VAT rate as diesel and gasoline tractors. However, the government has announced plans to introduce a new tax system that would exclude electric tractors from the list of taxable vehicles.

Rationalisation of Taxes: Tax rationalisation scheme is expected to be implemented after the cost of producing electric tractors.

The adoption of electric tractors presents opportunities for India to enhance its productivity and efficiency, as well as to strengthen the rural economy and achieve sustainability.

Pioneering AI-driven solutions in farm mechanization

According to a World Bank report, AI can play a crucial role in improving crop productivity. It can help farmers identify and address issues in a timely manner, such as disease outbreaks or nutrient deficiencies, by analyzing real-time data from sensors and drones.

As the world’s largest tractor manufacturer, the Indian government has expressed interest in promoting electric tractors as a means of reducing emissions and improving efficiency in the agricultural sector.

KOLKATA

Kolkata Knight Riders have been inconsistent throughout the season, losing games against similarly ranked teams. With only one win, a single loss, and even a washout, their chance of reaching the play-offs is slim. However, they have had some excellent individual performances. The team needs to find a consistent batting order and improve their bowling to have a chance of qualifying for the play-offs.

SRH vs KKR

Sunrisers Hyderabad will look to dominate the game against Kolkata Knight Riders. The team has been performing well in recent matches, with players like Markram and Abhishek Sharma showcasing their talent. The bowling unit has also been performing well, with players like Bhuvneshwar Kumar and Markram taking wickets. With a win against KKR, SRH can take a step closer to securing a playoff spot.

PANT vs NEW DELHI

Pant, the wicketkeeper-batsman for Delhi Capitals, has been in great form this season. With 200 runs in the ongoing edition, he is putting up a strong case for the Indian Cricket Team. His batting skills and strike rate are impressive, and he is a key player for his team. With Pant in form, Delhi Capitals have a chance of making it to the play-offs.
