Power hungry but feeling the poll heat

SAUMYA SHUKLA NEW DELHI

prevailing heatwave conditions and high humidity levels in the national Capital, giving a feel of temperatures hovering over 50 degrees Celsius, have not only pushed the peak power demand to an all-time high of 7,717 MW on Tuesday afternoon, but have also forced political parties to hold rallies in the evening to avoid the

Most of the candidates have taken to indoor meetings during the morning and afternoon hours. However, the buzz around the elections on May 25 has been negligible during the day. Political parties are worried of low turnout of voters due to extreme heat and summer vacations in the national

With only two days remaining before the end of campaigning in Delhi, all parties are trying to woo voters with mega roadshows. The weather conditions, however, are leaving the candidates high and dry with a very limited period of time for campaigning only during the evening hours.

The intense heatwave is playing a spoiler for the rallies and roadshows of top political leaders cutting across party lines. The BJP and its star campaigners are holding rallies and roadshows in the evening. The AAP convener

Delhiites use scarfs to shield themselves from the hot summer Ranjan Dimri/Pioneer

Arvind Kejriwal, who is the star campaigner of his party, has also preferred to hold rallies and public gatherings in the evening.
On Tuesday, Kejriwal held a roadshow in support of Congress candidate Kanhaiya Kumar for North East Delhi in Bhajanpura at 8:00 pm. BJP president JP Nadda also held two roadshows in support of his party candidates -South Delhi's Ramvir Singh Bidhuri and Chandni Chowk's Praveen Khandelwal in between 6:00 pm and 9:30 pm.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh also held roadshows during the same time for BJP candidates -Yogendra Chandolia for reserved North West seat and Harshdeep Malhotra for East Delhi, to avoid the scorching heat.

Road Minister Nitin Gadkari also addressed three public meetings for BIP candidates which include West Delhi's Kamaljeet Sehrawat, New Delhi's Bansuri Swaraj and North east Delhi's Manoj Tiwari in the evening.

Likewise, former Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj SIngh Chouhan and Rajasthan Chief Minister Bhajan Lal Sharma have also held roadshows and addressed public gatherings in the national Capital. In the past week, top leaders like counterpart Arvind Kejriwal have organised rallies and roadshows in the national Capital in the evening hours to escape extreme heat.

According to the India Meteorological Department (IMD), the national Capital on Tuesday recorded the maximum temperature of 42.4 degrees Celsius, which is 2.2 degrees Celsius above the normal. The maximum temperature recorded in Najafgarh stood at 43.9 degrees Celsius, Lodi road at 41.4 degrees Celsius, Mungeshpur and Palam at 41 degrees Celsius, Narela and Pitampura at 41.9 degrees Celsius and New Delhi at 41.2 degrees Celsius.

The IMD has also issued a red alert for the next four days. The maximum humidity stood at 62 in the national Capital.

According to the seven-day the forecast, maximum temperature will be in the range of 44 to 47 degrees Celsius when Delhi goes to polls on May 25. A spell of intense heatwave, which has gripped the Capital, could impact voter turnout. In the last Lok Sabha elections, the voting percentage was 60.6 per cent. The mercury on May 12, 2019, was at 39 degrees Celsius. In the 2014 polls, the city saw a higher voting percentage of 65.1 per cent on April 10, 2014, when the day temperature was just 33 degrees

▼harkhand BJP has issued a show-Tharknand BJP has issued a snow-cause notice to sitting Hazaribagh Lok Sabha MP Jayant Sinha for not casting his vote in the election. parliamentary seats, namely Chatra and Koderma,

Ancient patterns in military culture to live again

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI

Tn an effort to highlight India's Army has explored the epic battles of the Mahabharata, heroic exploits of eminent military figures as part of a project that aims to enrich the nation's outlook in the defence domain, Army Chief General Manoj Pande said on Tuesday. General Pande said, "The project 'Udbhav', launched last vear, delved deep into ancient texts such as Vedas, Puranas, Upanishads and Arthashastra and it has revealed substantial intellectual convergences between eminent Indian and Western scholars.

The Army chief made these remarks at a conference titled "Historical Patterns in Indian Strategic Culture". The project "Udbhav" aims to promote indigenous discourse in the Army by integrating India's ancient strategic acumen into contemporary military domain with a focus on making the force "future-"The project has delved deep into ancient texts such as Vedas, Puranas, Upanishads and Arthashastra, which are rooted in inter-connectedness, righteousness and ethical values," the Army chief said.

"Furthermore, it has explored the epic battles of the Mahabharata and the strategic brilliance during the reigns of Mauryas, Guptas and Marathas, which has shaped India's rich military heritage,"

he said. The Defence Ministry last year said project "Udbhav" is designed to weave a strategic vocabulary and conceptual framework that is deeply embedded India's in philosophical and cultural heritage. "It is worth mentioning that project 'Udbhav' has revealed substantial intellectual convergences between eminent Indian and Western scholars, highlighting the resonance between their thoughts, philosophies and perspectives," the Army Chief

US says can't help Iran in crash probe

PTI WASHINGTON

The Iranian Government has requested the US to assist in probing the deadly helicopter crash that killed President Ebrahim Raisi, country's Foreign Minister, and six others but Washington won't assist Tehran largely due to "logistical reasons", according to a senior American diplomat. Raisi, 63, a possible successor for Iran's supreme leader, the 85-year-old Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, his Foreign Minister Hossein Amir-Abdollahian, and six others were found dead on Monday hours after their helicopter crashed in fog, leaving the Islamic Republic without two key leaders as extraordinary tensions grip the wider Middle East.

Department US State Spokesperson Matthew Miller at a Press briefing on Monday said the US when asked for assistance by the Iranian Government made it clear that it was ready to offer assistance, as it would do in response to any request by a foreign Government in this sort of situation, but was not able to provide any help. "I'm not going to get into the details, but we were asked by the Iranian Government for assistance," said Miller.

"We said we would be willing to assist. It's something that we would do with respect to any government in this situation. Ultimately, largely for logistical reasons, we weren't able to provide that assistance," Miller told reporters.

In response to a question on the United States extending official condolences and participating in a moment of silence for Raisi at the UN Security Council, Miller said the US had been quite clear that Raisi was a "brutal participant" in the repression of the Iranian people for nearly four decades but Washington regretted any loss of life in a helicopter crash like incident. "We regret any loss of life. We don't want to see anyone die in a helicopter crash. But that doesn't change the reality of his record both as a judge and as the President of Iran and the fact that he has blood on his hands," Miller said. "Our fundamental approach to Iran has not changed and will not change. We will continue to support the people of Iran, to defend their their human rights, aspirations to an open, free society and democratic participation," he said.

Miller also responded to a remark by former Iranian foreign minister Mohammad Javad Zarif who blamed US sanctions for the incident. Iran has offered no reasons for the crash that brought down the helicopter, which fell into mountainous terrain in a sudden, intense fog. The crash on Sunday killed all eight people aboard a Bell 212 helicopter that Iran purchased in the early 2000s, according to the state-run IRNA news agency.

The Iranian Government has used its aircraft to transport equipment to support terrorism. So, we will continue to fully enforce our sanctions regime, including our sanctions regimes on aircraft for use by the Iranian government. Ultimately, it's the Iranian government that responsible for the decision to fly a 45-year-old helicopter in what was described as poor weather conditions," he said.

Maliwal shared trauma, distress with L-G

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Delhi Lieutenant Governor Vinai Kumar Saxena has for the first time reacted to the alleged assault on AAP leader and Rajya Sabha MP Swati Maliwal on Tuesday, sharing that Maliwal called him a day earlier on Monday out of "sheer Saxena on Tuesday said he was assault on Maliwal and said "deafening silence" of Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal"speaks volumes on his stance on safety of women". It wasn't a long time ago when Maliwal and Saxena were in the cross hairs for the removal of 223 Delhi Commission for Women (DCW), appointed by the former Chairperson of DCW.

In a public statement, the LG said he has been deeply distressed over the unfolding media narrative over the last few days on the issue and shared that Maliwal called him.

"Yesterday, she called me out of sheer anguish, describing at length her traumatic experience and the subsequent intimidation and shaming that she is being subjected to by her own colleagues. She also expressed concerns over reported tampering of evidence and coercion against her," he said. The alleged incident, which reportedly took place when visited the Chief Maliwal Minister's residence alone, has sparked media frenzy and raised serious concerns about the safety and treatment of women in positions of power. Making this assertion in a statement, Saxena also said, "I would have expected that at least for the sake of propriety, my Chief Minister would have come clean, rather than being evasive and dodgy. His deafening silence speaks volumes of his stance on safety of women." Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) said LG's letter has proved that Maliwal is "working for the BIP"

Hitting back, the AAP said LG's letter proves "Maliwal is working at the behest of BJP". Responding to LG's statement, the AAP said the BJP is hatching a "new conspiracy' every day in the lead up to the polls. "Sometimes they rake up the excise policy case, sometimes the Swati Maliwal incident and sometimes the allegation of party receiving foreign funding. BJP will use new tactics against us till polls. BJP is losing the polls badly and they are trying to lift their status using Maliwal issue," the party

In a statement on X by Raj Niwas, Saxena said the Delhi Police is investigating the matter and it will be brought to its "logical conclusion". He also called the alleged U-turn by the party on the matter "baffling".

"I have been deeply distressed over the unfolding media narrative over the last few days on the issue of alleged assault on Ms Swati Maliwal, MP, Aam Aadmi Party, at the residence of Chief Minister, when she went there to meet him all alone," LG said.

"Yesterday, she called me out of sheer anguish, describing at length her traumatic experience, and the subsequent intimidation and shaming that she is being subjected to by her own colleagues. She also expressed concerns over reported tampering of evidence and coercion against her," he said. On Kejriwal, Saxena said, "I would have expected that at least for the sake of propriety, my CM would have come clean, rather than being evasive and dodgy. His deafening silence speaks volumes of his stance on safety of women." Delhi is the national Capital and is home to the entire diplomatic community from around the world safety, tarnishes India's image worldwide," he said. "Had such an incident happened in any other Chief Minister's residence in the country, external forces with vested interests, inimical to India, would have unleashed a scathing global narrative around women safety in India. The absence of any outrage in this case leaves several questions unanswered," he said in the statement

Saxena rooted for Maliwal even, as he said, she has been "vociferous", "hostile" and "blatantly partisan towards me and my office, often criticizing me unjustifiably".

Saxena said it was "most disturbing" that the alleged scene of crime was the drawing room of the Chief Minister, even while he was allegedly present in the house, and that it was carried out by his "closest aide" on a woman who was

India leads campaign to control penguin tourism

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

 A^{s} Antarctica evolves from a scientific haven to a sought-after tourist hotspot, intensifying concerns about its ecological fragility all eyes are now on India which is leading discussions at the ongoing ten days 46th Antarctic Treaty Consultative Meeting (ATCM) in Kerala, on regulating tourism to safeguard the icy continent's pristine wilderness. Similar deliberations are being held at the 26th meeting of the Committee for Environmental Protection (CEP).

Discussions around regulating tourism have been ongoing in the ATCMs since 1966, but so far these have been just centered around agenda items, sessions, papers, or resolutions. This is for the first time a dedicated working group for regulating tourism in the region has been formulated at the 46th

ATCM, hosted by India in Kochi from May 20.

The gathering has over 350 participants from nearly 40 nations, deliberating on the climate change threats exacerbated by the increased tourists' footfalls at the continent's fragile ecosystem. This is leaving the continent's wildlife like Penguins at the receiving end. According to reports, the surge in Antarctic tourism over the past four decades is staggering, with visitor numbers skyrocketing from just a few hundred to over 100,000 in recent seasons, predominantly arriving on cruises. In such a concerning backdrop, it has become crucial upon the countries to ensure comprehensive regulations be framed to ensure the sustainable and responsible exploration of this unique and pristine region. India will be playing a key role as it is expected to bring a series of actionable

As tourism stewards of this extraordinary region, it is our collective impact on the continent's responsibility to ensure that recommendations to be activities, including research and tourism, are conducted in a manner that preserves its ecological integrity for future generations."

Dr Ravichandran said, "India being a committed member of the Antarctic Treaty System recognises the pressing need to address the growing activities Antarctica and their potential fragile environment.' He reiterated that India has always advocated for a comprehensive, proactive, and effective tourism policy anchored in precautionary principles.

The collaborative efforts of nations within the Antarctic Treaty System are crucial in preserving the pristine environment and advancing scientific research Through Antarctica. its leadership and commitment, India continues to play a key role in shaping the future of Antarctic governance," said Ambassador Pankaj Saran, chairperson of the 46th ATCM and 26th CEP.

The ATCM and CEP are high-level global annual meetings conducted the accordance with provisions of the Antarctic Treaty, multilateral agreement of 56 Contracting Parties signed in 1959. An official from the Ministry

With just ten days left until the crucial Lok Sabha elections, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adiyanath, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) president Arvind Kejriwal, and Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) supremo Mayawati are all gearing up to make their presence felt, promising a series of highoctane rallies that could sway the tides of voter sentiment.

The convergence of these political titans for June 1 polls, to be held in the seventh and final phase of voting, promises to electrify the campaign trail. amidst blistering summers.

Prime Minister Modi will kick off his campaign in Punjab with three rallies on May 23 and 24, starting from Patiala. These rallies will virtually mark the beginning of the saffron party's intensive campaign efforts in Punjab, a state where it is grappling to connect with voters amid massive farmer protests.

are encountering widespread resentment from farmers at nearly every campaign stop. In several villages, BJP members are barred from entry and are met with protests, marked by anti-Modi and anti-government slogans and black flags. Farmers are voicing their grievances, questioning the inhumane treatment meted out to them at Shambhu and Khanauri borders, and demanding accountability for unfulfilled promises regarding Minimum Support Price

(MSP), among others. In addition to Modi's itinerary, the BJP is also firming up the agenda for Union Home Minister Amit Shah, slated to visit Ludhiana on May 27. His aim is to bolster support for the stituencies, reinforcing the incumbent MP Ballot Battle and BJP candidate Ravneet Bittu while energizing local BJP supporters. The rally is strategically aligned with broader objectives to fortify the party's foothold in the region, where it is contesting, independently, for the first time. Meanwhile, in a strategic move aimed at ramping up BJP campaign momentum in the state, UP Chief Minister Yogi is also expected to wield his influence in the border state. Punjab BJP is in the process of finalizing a series of high-profile events featuring Yogi in key cities such as Jalandhar, Ludhiana, and Batala — areas noted for their significant migrant population. Notably, Punjab BJP president Sunil Jakhar had extended a formal invitation to Yogi to campaign for the party in the state, highlighting his goverhis letter to Yogi, had emphasized that his presence would significantly boost BJP's campaign in Punjab, marking the party's first solo contest for all 13 Lok Sabha seats in the state.

However, the party's focus currently revolves around the Prime Minister's schedule with senior leaders already camping in Jalandhar, Patiala, and Gurdaspur.

Kejriwal to camp in Punjab after May 25 Delhi polls

Following the completion of polling in Delhi on May 25, AAP supremo and Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal will arrive in Punjab to actively campaign across key conefforts of Punjab

Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann. Ahead of the impending elections on May 10, Arvind Kejriwal, who was granted bail by the Supreme Court, is slated to spend five days in Punjab. Arrested by the Enforcement Directorate on March 21 in a money laundering case related to Delhi's excise policy, Kejriwal is currently out on interim bail until June 1. The Supreme Court's decision of May 10 allowed him to campaign in the ongoing Lok Sabha elections, with the condition to surrender on June 2. During his absence, Puniab Chief Minister Mann led the party's election campaign not only in Punjab but also in Haryana, Delhi, Gujarat, and Assam. With Kejriwal's return, Mann will now focus on Punjab's rural areas, while AAP supremo will target the urban pockets.

president Mallikarjun Kharge on Tuesday said that the UPA government completed two full terms under one PM, Manmohan Singh, suggesting that it could give a stable government amid remarks of the BIP that there is no prime ministerial face of the INDI alliance

Addressing a news conference in Chandigarh, Kharge said "In UPA I and UPA II, we were supported by other parties and we completed full term. For 10 years, there was one prime minister, a person who came from the land of Punjab, ran the country and changed its economy, he said about former prime minister Manmohan Taking a dig at the BJP, he further said, "Whereas they did nothing for 10 years. Accompanied by former Haryana chief minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda, Kharge arrived here after addressing an election rally in Jagadhri in Haryana.

On being asked that the ruling party leaders often ask who the opposition "PM face" is, Kharge said, after the polls, the INDIA alliance partners will sit and decide this (if opposition wins the election).

He said the BJP has been saying that the Congress or the INDIA alliance does not have a face like Modi. They used to say the same thing in 2004 when Atal Bihari Vajpayee was the prime minister, the Congress president said. "After the polls, alliance partners will sit and decide. Like we ran UPA government, in similar manner we will do this," he said. Replying to a question, Kharge claimed that the INDIA bloc has gained good ground in the ongoing Lok Sabha elections. "Everywhere we are gaining and they are losing. Our alliance will definitely stop the Modi government from coming to power," he said, and added, "the people are fighting against Modi and we are sup-

Earlier, addressing an election rally in Jagadhari, Kharge called Prime Minister Narendra Modi 'Jhoothon Ka Sardar' and accused him of lying about Congress's manifesto to mislead the public. Addressing his first rally in Haryana here in Yamunanagar district, Kharge slammed Modi for his saying that the Congress was planning to redistribute wealth and take away women's mangalsutras. "If Congress comes to power, it will snatch away all your properties. After getting X-ray done, where is mangalsutra, where is gold, silver and will take it out, give it to others," he said quoting Modi. "If vou have 2 acres, one acre will be given to others, if you have two buffaloes, one will be given to Muslims. He (Modi) said this ... These are not our words," Kharge said in Jagadhri city. "If a PM sitting in such a position says these things, then what should we say? Should such people be given votes again?" he asked the gathering. "He is a 'jhoothon ka sardar."

Congress candidate from Ambala Lok Sabha seat Varun Chaudhary and AAP's Kurukshetra candidate Sushil Gupta were also present at the rally. Kharge said the alliance will bring a caste census, and it will do it for the good of the public, not to snatch anyone's property. He said the Congress is fighting against the ideology of RSS -- a Hindu right body and the ideological parent of the BJP. "You are snatching the Constitution and we are fighting against it. You want to end democracy and we are fighting it," Kharge said.

Kharge also sought BJP's response on its promise of 2 crore jobs each year, Rs 15 lakh in everyone's bank account, and doubling of farmers' income. "Did you get it?" he asked the gathering. "...Did he give (jobs)... How can a PM tell such a lie?" "The Prime Minister is a liar. Raise your hands, he is a liar," he exhorted the people, adding, "What is wrong if I call such a prime minister 'jhoothon ka Kharge said he is confident that the INDIA bloc will come to power. "The Modi government is not coming, I can say that with certainty.". The Congress leader said the party's election manifesto is for Dalits, the poor, women, weaker and deprived sections, farmers, and the youth. "It is not for any particular community or religion." Himachal Chief Minister Sukhwinder Singh Sukhu on Tuesday claimed that Rs 55 lakh seized in Badsar on Monday belonged to the MLAs who were "purchased" by the BJP.

"Our government has imposed blockade in every area. Crores of rupees given by BJP to the sold MLAs will be confiscated in this manner. Sukhu said that BJP candidate from Hamirpur and Union should tell which projects he brought as a four-time MP. "Anurag should now stop cheating the public and start giving an account of his work. While he was an MP, he could not get the construction work of Hamirpur bus stand done, the foundation stone of which was laid by his father and former Chief Minister Prem Kumar

Punjab farmers to hold peaceful protest against PM Modi during Patiala election campaign

PNS CHANDIGARH/JAGRAON

Amidst a stirring gathering at Jagraon's well-attended 'kisan-mazdoor mahapanchayat', Punjab's farmers on Tuesday made a resolute declaration to hold peaceful protest against the Prime Minister Narendra Modi during his impending visit to Patiala, unfurling black flags as a symbol of their discontent. This gesture, they assert, will serve as a mirror to the treatment meted out to them when they were denied entry into Delhi, now reciprocated by barring BJP candidates from accessing their villages. Their resolve remains unwavering as they affirm their commitment to persist with their protest against the BJP in the lead-up to the critical Lok Sabha elections on June 1.

At the heart of this protest lies a sense of betrayal felt by Punjab's farmers, exacerbated by derogatory remarks made by BIP candidates, including Hans Raj Hans and Ravneet Singh Bittu, against the farming community.

Samyukta Kisan Morcha (SKM), a coalition of over three dozen farmer unions across the nation, has spearheaded this protest, emphasizing the unity of purpose among various farmer groups. Leaders from SKM have announced plans to confront PM Modi unfulfilled promises made to farmers on December 9, 2021 including assurances regarding the implementation of Minimum Support Price (MSP) on all crops, justice for the victims of the Lakhimpur Kheri incident, and the withdrawal of FIRs lodged against protesters during the farm law

The forthcoming Lok Sabha elections in Punjab hold significant weight, with 13 seats up for grabs in the final phase on June 1. PM Modi's itinerary includes rallies in Patiala, Jalandhar, and Gurdaspur on May 23 and 24, respectively. However, the SKM has declared its intention to stage a coordinated protest at all these venues, with leaders affirming their commitment to peaceful dissent despite anticipated security measures.

The atmosphere during the Jagraon mahapanchayat was charged with emotion and determination. Thousands of farmers and labourers, nearly 15,000, from across Punjab converged to voice their grievances and express their unity. Despite scorching temperatures, men, women, and even youth participated actively, symbolizing the intergenerational commitment to the cause. The solidarity displayed was not just confined to the farming community; it res-during his rallies in Punjab, onated across various sections demanding accountability for of society, including labour of society, including labour unions and women's groups.

The speeches delivered during the mahapanchayat echoed the sentiments of the farming community, condemning the policies of the Modi government and the BJP. Leaders criticized the government's pro-corporate stance, highlighting the growing economic disparity and the neglect of farmers' welfare. They emphasized that while the government had granted substantial subsidies and tax breaks to corporate giants, it had failed to address the mounting debts and hardships faced by farmers and laborers.

The demand for the release of Harnek Singh Mehma, the general secretary of the Bharatiya Kisan Union (Ekta-Ugrahan), who was arrested prior to the rally, further fueled the protesters' resolve. Leaders argued that the government's attempts to suppress dissent and stifle democratic rights only reinforced their determination to fight for justice and

A senior SKM member Jagmohan Singh Patiala asserted, "We will show black flags at all the venues of Prime Minister's political rallies", while raising the question of whether the security forces would allow "peaceful" demonstration to reach fruition.

Patiala underscored the solidarity among various farmer groups, including the likes of Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) Ugrahan and Kisan Mazdoor Morcha (KMM) who have also declared similar protest against the Prime Minister — emphasizing their shared objective of holding the Narendra Modi accountable for his "unfulfilled" promises made on December 9, 2021 — the day when the dharna at Delhi borders. Another SKM member Balbir Singh Rajewal, echoed this sentiment, assured that the forthcoming protest in Patiala would maintain its peaceful character, highlighting the unity of purpose as farmers and labourers prepare to converge in significant numbers.

farmers ended their year-long

Meanwhile, the KMM and SKM (non-political) have made it clear that they intend to confront PM Modi on a multitude of fronts, ranging from the implementation of minimum support prices to seeking justice for the victims of the Lakhimpur Kheri tragedy and demanding accountability from BJP leader Ajay Mishra Teni.

Despite the avowed peaceful intentions of the protesters, sources suggest that preemptive arrests of farmers may be imminent, underscoring the heightened tensions and apprehensions surrounding the impending rally.

Iran at crossroads

Ebrahim Raisi leaves behind a rich legacy and an uncertain future for his country

■ ran is grappling with an unprecedented political crisis as both President Ebrahim Raisi and Foreign Minister Hossein Amir-Abdollahian were tragically found dead in a helicopter crash under mysterious circumstances. The sudden loss of these key figures has plunged Iran into uncertainty, creating a significant leadership void and fuelling various speculations and conspiracy theories. Raisi, known for his hardline stance and involvement in controversial actions, leaves behind a complex legacy. His death, alongside Amir-Abdollahian, not only creates a leadership void but also raises questions about the trajectory of Iranian politics and foreign relations. The circumstances surrounding the helicopter crash, which occurred in heavy fog near the Azerbaijan border, have fuelled speculation. Given Raisi's past, including his involvement in mass executions in 1988 and some contentious actions such as uranium enrichment and missile attacks on Israel, the possibility of foul play cannot be easily dismissed. Conspiracy theories abound, ranging from internal power struggles to foreign interference. President Raisi had numerous domestic adversaries, from moderates marginalised by his policies to conservatives critical of his presidency. Israel, a longstanding rival of Iran, also enters the conjecture. Recent escalations, including the assassination of an Iranian General by Israel and subsequent missile exchanges, add fuel to speculations of Israeli involvement. Mossad has conducted such operations, but assassinating a head of state is a risky move even by Israel's standards. Both Israel and US Senate majority leader Chuck Schumer have denied involvement. The big question is Raisi's succession and Iran's trajectory going forward. Md Mokhber has been appointed the Acting President, while Ali Bagheri Kani, who was Deputy Foreign Minister, has been elevated in the Ministry. The election date has been set for June 28. Raisi was a hardliner cleric but by no means a saint. During the summer of 1988, Raisi was a key member of the "Death Commission" responsible for the execution of thousands of political prisoners, primarily members of the People's Mojahedin Organisation of Iran (MEK) and other leftist groups. A prominent figure in Iran's power structure, Raisi was poised for further advancement until his horrifying death. While his demise creates speculation about the successor to Supreme Leader 85-year-old Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, it's unlikely to significantly alter Iran's political trajectory. The conservative-dominated system will prioritise continuity and stability, albeit amidst internal jockeying for influence. Raisi's successor faces a daunting agenda amid economic turmoil and societal discontent, with the spectre of continued international sanctions looming large. With internal dissent simmering and external pressures mounting, the succession process becomes pivotal. The coming days will decide if any discernible change takes place or if the old order continues where moderates and leftists have no role to play.

Can AAP survive its ultimate resilience test?

As Kejriwal presents himself as an underdog fighting against perceived persecution, this election will be pivotal in determining the trajectory of both his career and the AAP elhi's Chief Minister, Arvind Kejriwal, overcome numerous obstacles in the past decade. Yet, his unwavering resilience has been a beacon of inspiration. He and his party are currently facing the biggest crisis in the liquor policy case.

Despite the challenges, Kejriwal's political journey is a testament to his indomitable spirit. From a brief 49-day tenure and losing all seven seats in Delhi in 2014, he orchestrated a remarkable comeback, securing 67 out of 70 seats in the 2015 Delhi Assembly polls.

The arrest of Kejriwal in the Delhi liquor policy case last month, which involves allegations of corruption and misuse of power, has cast a shadow of uncertainty over the future of the Aam Aadmi Party. Will this be the end of the party's road, or can they weather this storm and continue their political journey?

The Apex court's decision to grant bail to Kejriwal, allowing him to campaign for his party in the ongoing elections, is a beacon of hope for Kejriwal's supporters. This positive development paves the way for Kejriwal's success, especially if he garners public sympathy.

Kejriwal presents himself as the underdog, highlighting Prime Minister Narendra Modi's alleged persecution and his colleagues' imprisonment. Kejriwal and his party have been trying to show the public how he was mistreated in prison and how he was denied insulin and his diabetes medication.

Kejriwal's arrest is the biggest crisis for the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) since its founding in November 2012. The party has faced numerous challenges, including internal conflicts, allegations of corruption and the need to maintain its image as a party for the common man. Over the years, many of Kejriwal's associates from the India Against Corruption (IAC) days have been dumped and he remains a desįpt. Kejriwai nas introduced a personality cult centred around him.

In the recently formed INDIA coalition, a significant political alliance that aims to challenge the dominance of the BJP., the AAP. stands out as the only party other than Congress to rule more than one Štate. This alliance could pave the way for his party's expansion beyond Delhi and Punjab.

The AAP. currently holds one seat in the Lok Sabha and ten in the Upper House. The party has expanded its influence to other States and was granted national party status in April 2023.

The Aam Aadmi Party's rise to power in Indian politics is fascinating. Unlike the BJP. or the Left parties, it has no solid ideological stance. It has not relied on regional or socialist backgrounds like the AIADMK, DMK, Samajwadi Party, Biju Janata Dal, or Rashtriya Janata Dal. Instead, it has gained power by championing development and the freebie culture.

The AAP is now contesting elections in Delhi with the Congress party, while Punjab is contesting 13 seats independently. These alliances offer a promising outlook for Kejriwal's political journey. These promises reflect Kejriwal's focus on national issues. The Delhi liquor policy case has become inconvenient for the AAP. and convenient for the BJP. as elections are underway. It raises questions like, is it the end of the road? Can the second rung of leaders like Gopal Rai, Saurabh Bhardwaj, Sandeep Pathak, Raghav Chadha and Atishi Run the party, or will Kejriwal, with his usual luck, return? Kejriwal is optimistic and hopes that luck will be on his side. This positive outlook has served him well so far. MALIWAL CASE

Madam — Apropos the editorial, "An Intricate Puzzle," published on May 20. Wherein the Pioneer has truly asserted that the incident is likely to have ramifications beyond immediate political dynamics, potentially influencing voter perception and future elections. The cases booked under IPC Sections 308 (attempt to commit culpable homicide), 341 (punishment for wrongful restraint), 354D (stalking), filing the FIR under sections 506 (punishment for criminal intimidation) and 509 (word, gesture or intent to insult) against Bibhav Kumar aide Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal in connection with the attack on Kajya Sabha MP Swati Maliwal reflect seriousness.

Picking up Bibhav Kumar from the official residence of the Chief Minister and seizing CCTV, DVR, mobile etc. can prove helpful in revealing the secrets of the crime. But it seems that as part of a conspiracy, Bibhav Kumar was hiding at Chief Minister Kejriwal's house and was engaged in destroying the evidence. Delhi Police should make every effort to collect crime data by using the latest digital technology and present concrete evidence before the court. So that the perpetrators of this serious crime can be punished as per the rule of the law.

RISING LIFE EXPECTANCY

Madam — An individual's life span is dictated by a myriad of factors. According to the Global Burden of Disease(GBD) study, global life expectancy is expected to increase by 4.9 years in men and 4.2 years in women by the year 2050. From 73.6 in 2022, there may be a jump to 78.1 in 2050. This trend will tend to be more exemplified in nations with a history of very low life expectancy. It is no secret that nowadays people are more cautious about their health. While diseases and disorders have taught them lessons, mortality and morbidity around them have disciplined their lives. Past pandemics, in particular

Secularism over politics

THE EDITOR

propos the news article, "Economic crisis takes a backseat in elections", published on May 20, this is my response. It is a pity that religion rather than economic issues take the stage in the election campaign for the ruling party at the Centre in our secular country. Earlier in feudalism, a king or a feudal lord used to favour his religion over other religions. History witnessed that such a practice spelt disaster on every occasion. An extended lifespan increases susceptibility to non-communicable diseases like cancer, diabetes and hypertension. As life expectancy in India is projected to rise, addressing behavioural and metabolic risks is crucial for healthy aging over the next two decades. Health outcomes can be significantly improved by efficiently addressing the risk factors. Furthermore, a safe environment and adequate vaccina-

HAPPINESS IS A SKILL

Madam — Apropos the feature article, "Connecting the Mind and Body," by Ravi Valluri, published on May 20, this is my response. Happiness is a skill that human beings must teach themselves. A lot of people spend so much time ruminating about the past or thinking about the future that they forget to enjoy the most beautiful gift they have received from God—the present moment. Our society is structured COVID-19, have instilled a sense of fear in a way that keeps reminding us of our tion of religion from politics. This gave birth to secularism. All modern progressive nations have embraced secularism after learning how painful it would be to deviate from its path.

Mixing religion and politics destroys accountability, enables corruption and favours one religion over others, undermining democracy. Politicians should be elected based on policy, not religion and churches should focus on spirituality, not politics. It divides the citizens and damages the unity and integrity of the country. It does not allow the policymakers to follow the progressive ideals of equality and fraternity. Rather, it attracts negative things such as discrimination, marginalisation, conflict and unrest. Some of our neighbouring countries have experienced the danger of not walking in the path of secularism. India must follow secularism and let religion be a personal matter between God and a person.

failures in the past and makes us anxious about our future. We need to consciously make efforts to silence our minds by incorporating daily practices into our daily routines. Spending time in nature is one of the bestknown ways to reconnect with your inner self. Meditating for 20 - 30 minutes daily can also provide you with a treasure trove of peace. Journaling can help you manage your emotions and teach you to focus on the present moment. Expressing gratitude to loved ones for being a part of your lives also goes a long way in nurturing the relationships you have with peo-ple that eventually become a source of joy for you. Exercising daily is also a good way to take care of your health. Staying away from social media and all the unrealistic expectations it imposes on you is imperative. All these practices when done every day can help you augment your happiness levels and enjoy life to the fullest.

SPIRITUALITY CAN HELP US AVOID DEAD ENDS

Through spiritual purity, we can rise above limitations and obstacles

AJIT KUMAR BISHNOI

e all end in death, i.e. our material bodies must die at some time in future, but we should avoid a dead end also, i.e. that leads to something not so good. We, souls, will go on in new bodies, but the problem is in what bodies and where. Are we going to a place where there is perpetual unrest? There are many areas in the world, which are in perpetual turmoil. Place of birth is one problem. Then, in what bodies are we born? Even in human bodies, there can be many handicaps like deformities, genetic defects and surely not-so-good looks, personality, level of intelligence, etc. There is a world of difference between ourselves and our material bodies. We, souls, are journeying eternally in various bodies, but our bodies have limited lifespans only. This thought should be uppermost in our minds. We should try to make sure that we make progress and avoid our end in a worse situation, condition, form

Let us see how we can ensure it. We, souls, are parts of God. (The Bhagavad-Geeta 15.7) What does this mean? That we are very special, being parts of God. Imagine being the son of a very rich and cultured person. God is infinitely superior than any parent can be. God will always be favourable to us if we take His shelter because we have free will. In the case of parents, we receive shelter automatically, but in the case of God, it is a matter of choice. It shouldn't be too difficult to make this choice, but it is. Why? Taking shelter requires some basics. We must give up our egos; we need to do spiritual practices to qualify for God's attention. There is another big problem. Our lives are almost entirely controlled by our fate, which is what we have accumulated in our previous life/lives. One may question this premise. Yes, there is free will and liberty to do what we desire, feel or decide. But all these are controlled by our natures, which again are parts of our fate. What is the evidence? A person given to get angry readily continues to do so throughout his life, unless God intervenes on his or her behalf. And God wouldn't unless we take His shelter. Where does it leave us? In not a pleasant place. Life will go on almost automatically with not much improvement.

Are we doomed? We are not. God is very kind; He has left an opening for us; we just have to get started. We must have a desire. God has arranged to preach everywhere. If we bother to go and listen, we will be convinced. And the start is very simple. We just need to become better in whatever we do, not just in our work. In spiritual parlance, we must try to increase the mode of goodness in ourselves. Our whole being is made up of three modes, which are goodness, passion and darkness. They are in different percentages, with the mode of passion being predominant in most of us. It is no wonder that we are quite passionate about what we think, do, etc. Now we should try to be good in everything. For example, if we are habituated to eating foods, which are bitter, sour, salty, very hot, pungent, horse, etc. (17.9), we should choose tasty, not dry, not having too much liquid foods. (17.8) Similar improvements are required in what we speak, see, hear, etc. As purity increases, we will begin to get attracted to God and spiritual acts.

The next big decision is to control our egos. This is the biggest hindrance in taking shelter from God. Arjuna had a similar problem. His ego would not allow him to accept God's instructions. Lord Krishna had to warn him, "If you will not heed on account of the feeling of being the doer, you will perish." (18.58) Is this not the fate of almost all of us? Who can change fate? God can and only He can in a substantial way. There is no one to share one's tough times. The solution again suggests itself. Love God and you will be able to love others as well. You won't always look for faults in others. This attitude change will help in becoming friends with family members. The conclusion is: that God is the solution if we wish to avoid the dead ends of our lives. Will we take God's shelter? (The writer is a spiritual guide; views are personal)

Raisi's tragic demise clouds Iran's future

The enigmatic President of Iran breathed his last in a helicopter crash, leaving behind a legacy as complex as the country he governed n the heart of the Middle East, where history and geopolitics are deeply intertwined, a towering figure met a tragic end, sending shockwaves across the globe. Ibrahim Raisi, the enigmatic President of Iran, breathed his last in a helicopter crash, leaving behind a legacy as complex as the region he governed. Raisi's rise to power was nothing short of remarkable. Born in 1960, he emerged from humble beginnings to become one of Iran's most influential figures. His journey began in the hallowed halls of Tehran's judiciary, where he earned a reputation for his unwavering commitment to Islamic principles and his uncompromising stance against corruption.

Raisi truly made his mark on the political stage. In June 2021, he ascended to the presidency, promising to usher in a new era of prosperity and stability for his beloved nation. His tenure was marked by bold foreign policies and ambitious domestic reforms, as he sought to solidify Iran's position as a regional powerhouse. At the heart of Raisi's vision was irans role as a champion of Shia Islam, a beacon of resistance against oppression and injustice. Under his leadership, Iran forged alliances with like - minded nations, offering support to movements and groups fighting for their rights across the Middle East.

However, amidst the triumphs and accolades, tragedy struck with devastating force. On a fateful day, as Raisi embarked on a routine journey to Azerbaijan, fate intervened. His helicopter plummeted from the sky, claiming his life and those of several others onboard. The crash sent shockwaves rippling through Iran and beyond, leaving a nation in mourning and the world reeling from the loss of a visionary leader.

As the dust settled and the wreckage was cleared, the full extent of Raisi's legacy came into focus. His death left a void in Iran's political landscape, one that would be difficult to fill. But beyond the borders of his homeland, Raisi's impact was felt far and wide. In the halls of power as a stalwart ally, a steadfast defender of Iran's interests on the global stage. Russia and Turkey had lent their support to the rescue efforts, a testament to the enduring bonds forged between nations in times of crisis.

Meanwhile, in distant New Delhi, Raisi's passing was met with a mixture of sorrow and reflection. India had enjoyed a burgeoning partnership with Iran under his leadership, particularly through collaborative efforts at the Chabahar Port. His absence would be keenly felt in the corridors of diplomacy, where his influence had helped shape the course of history. But perhaps most intriguing were the whispers of conspiracy surrounding Raisi's untimely demise. Some speculated that external forces were at play, seeking to destabilise Iran and undermine its leadership. Mossad, Israel's intelligence agency, was mentioned in hushed iones, its snadowy nand suspected of orchestrating the tragedy.
As the world mourned the loss of Ibrahim Raisi, it also grappled with the uncertainty of what lay ahead. His death cast a pall of uncertainty over Iran's future, raising questions about the country's leadership and its place on the global stage. But amidst the darkness, there remained a glimmer of hope, a testament to the resilience of the human spirit. For in the legacy of Ibrahim Raisi, there lay the seeds of inspiration, a reminder that even in the face of tragedy, the indomitable spirit of humanity endures, ready to rise again, stronger and more determined than ever before.

Raisi's sudden demise not only revealed the depth of his ultraconservative beliefs but also showcased his unwavering commitment to populism, positioning him as a champion of the people and the right-hand man of Ayatollah Khamenei. As the Ayatollah's trusted confidant, Raisi wielded immense influence, shaping Iran's domestic and foreign policies with a firm hand. His presidency was marked by a series of initiatives aimed at strengthening Iran's economic independence and reducing reliance on foreign powers. He focused on bolstering the country's industrial base, improving infrastructure and promoting technological innovation. On the international front, Raisi pursued a policy of strategic partnerships, particularly with Russia and China. These alliances were seen as a counterbalance to Western influence and as a means of securing economic and military support. Raisi's administration also prioritised the expansion of Iran's influence in regional conflicts, providing support to allied groups in Lebanon, Syria and remen. His efforts to position Iran as a regional leader were often viewed through the lens of resistance against Western hege-

Despite his achievements, Raisi's tenure was not without controversy. His hardline stance on social and political issues drew criticism from both domestic and international observers. Human rights organisations frequently condemned his administration for its treatment of political dissidents and minority groups. The suppression of protests and the enforcement of strict social codes were seen as hallmarks of his governance.

Raisi's death left a nation at a crossroads. The mourning period was marked by both grief and reflection, as Iranians contemplated the future of their country without the man who had steered it through turbulent times. The question of succession loomed large, with potential candidates vying for the position of leadership. The uncertainty surrounding Iran's political future was palpable, with analysts speculating on the potential shifts in policy and power dynamics. In the international arena, Raisi's passing was met with a range of reactions. Allies expressed their condolences and reaffirmed their commitment to maintaining strong ties with Iran. In contrast, adversaries viewed his death as an opportunity to reassess their strategies towards the country. The geopolitical landscape of the Middle East, already fraught with complexity, faced the prospect of further upheaval. Despite the challenges, there was a sense of resilience among the Iranian populace. The nation's history of overcoming adversity served as a reminder of its enduring strength. Raisi's legacy, with its blend of conservatism, populism and strategic acumen, would continue to influence the country's trajectory. His vision of an Iran that stands firm against external pressures and champions the cause of Shia Islam would remain a guiding principle for future leaders. As the world continued to navigate the aftermath of Raisi's death, one thing was clear: his impact on Iran and the broader Middle East would be felt for years to come. The region, shaped by his policies and leadership, would continue to evolve, reflecting the enduring legacy of a man whose life and career were as multifaceted as the history of the land he loved. In the end, Íbrahim Raisi's story was a testament to the complexities of leadership in a region where past and present are forever intertwined.

Rajasthan healthcare challenges despite Government efforts

The Government's health programmes fail to sufficiently support rural women and girls affected by anaemia, a significant public health concern

n Rajasthan, the healthcare system is facing significant challenges, particularly in rural areas. Despite numerous Government initiatives aimed at improving healthcare access and quality, the benefits of these programs are not reaching their intended targets.

This issue is especially pronounced among women and adolescent girls suffering from anaemia. While the State Government has enacted the Right to Health Act and conducts monthly campaigns to combat anaemia, these efforts have yet to bring about substantial improvements in the health sector across rural Rajasthan.An example of this can be seen in the village of Manoharpura located just four kilometres from the heritage city of Udaipur. This village falls under the Badgaon Panchayat and has a population of around one thousand.

Predominantly inhabited by Scheduled Tribes, the village has a low level of education, which impacts the awareness of its residents. Despite its proximity to the district headquarters, Manoharpura lags significantly in the health sector. Many families in the village lack even basic identification documents, which prevents them from accessing healthcare services.

The reason for not having documents is that most children in the village were born at home rather than in hospitals, resulting in the absence of birth certificates and Aadhar cards. For young girls and women, the State Government has launched the 'I Am Shakti Udaan Yojana.' This scheme aims to empower economically weaker women and girls and the goal is to include about 2.8

million women and adolescents in this benefit by 2024. As part of this scheme, menstruating girls and women aged 11 to 45 receive sanitary pads. However, most adolescent girls and women miss out on this benefit. Due to both a lack of awareness and poverty, many girls still use dirty clothes during menstruation instead of buying pads. Additionally, about half of the adolescent girls and women in the village suffer from anaemia, despite the State Government's monthly Shakti Diwas events aimed at eradicating anaemia in Rajasthan.It is important to note that various activities are organised under this campaign to reduce anaemia rates among children, women and adolescents. 'Shakti Diwas' events are held at Anganwadi centres, Government schools, health and wellness centres, sub-health centres, primary health centres, CHCs, dispensaries and sub-district and district hospitals. These department's monthly review events include anaemia screenings, haemoglobin tests and treatment, distribution of iron tablets and activities to raise awareness and promote behaviour change regarding anaemia.

On 'Shakti Diwas,' targeted activities are conducted for children aged 6 months to 59 months, out-of-school children aged 5 to 9 years, adolescents aged 10 to 19 years and married women aged 20 to 24 years. Efforts are also made to combat anaemia in pregnant women and breastfeeding mothers.

However, this issue extends beyond Manoharpura village to the entire Udaipur district, where ineffective implementation has affected district rankings. During the health meeting last November, the CEO Kirti Rathore expressed dissatisfaction with the situation. She emphasised the urgent need to ensure that benefits reach all children, adolescents and women and to strictly enforce measures to make the district anaemia-

These shortcomings reveal that Manoharpura residents are still not receiving full healthcare benefits and the village has not met its health targets. Addressing this requires both administrative action and increased community awareness, involving as many families as possible.

Mourners begin days of funerals for Iran's pres killed in chopper crash

Mourners in black began gathering Tuesday for days of funerals and processions for Iran's late president, foreign minister and others killed in a helicopter crash, a government-led series of ceremonies aimed at both honoring the dead and projecting strength in an unsettled Middle East.

For Iran's Shiite theocracy, mass demonstrations have been crucial since millions thronged the streets of Tehran to welcome Grand Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in 1979 during the Islamic Revolution, and also attended his funeral 10 years later. An estimated 1 million turned out in 2020 for processions for the late Revolutionary Guard Gen Qassem Soleimani, who was slain in a US drone strike in

Prosecutors already have warned people over showing any public signs of celebrating his death and a heavy security force presence has been seen on the streets of Tehran since the crash. But Raisi, 63, had been discussed as a possible successor for Iran's supreme leader, the 85-year-old Ayatollah Ali Khamenei. That shrine has long been a center for pilgrims and sees millions visit each year. Over the centuries, its grounds have served as the final burial site for heroes in Persian history. Across Iran, its rural population often more closely embraces the Shiite faith and the government. The monthslong security crack-down that followed the demonstrations killed more than 500 people and saw over 22.000 detained.

Universities, student groups lobby PM Sunak to protect post-study visa offer

PTI LONDON

Universities and student groups on Tuesday urgently lobbied British Prime Minister Ŕishi Sunak to safeguard the country's post-study visa offer, which has been dominated by Indians to gain work experience for around two years at the end of their university degree. Amid reports that Sunak is considering either restricting or ending the Graduate Route to curtail soaring migration statistics ahead of a general election, a group of nearly 30 university vice-chancellors and the National Indian Students and Alumni Association (NISAU) UK have issued detailed letters of appeal to 10 Downing Street. They list a series of factors in favour of keeping the Graduate visa scheme unchanged, including the benefits that international students bring to the UK economy in a competitive global higher education marketplace. 'Modelling by consultancy

London Economics shows that a single cohort has a net economic benefit of GBP 37 billion to the UK economy; as well as through the soft power that Britain's international graduates generate for the country over time, including through furthering ties of trade and diplomacy," reads the NISAU UK letter addressed to Sunak. "Indeed, 70 per cent of Indian students have told us that the ability to gain meaningful work experience is a critical element in their decision to choose between competing international destinations, of which the UK is one... the Graduate Route allows the opportunity to gain this work experience for a temporary period. It is nonextendable and does not count towards permanent settlement. This means that neither students nor Graduate visa holders should be considered 'immigrants' in the context of the longterm picture of migration," it

Their appeal comes a week after the influential Migration Advisory Committee (MAC) advised the government to let the scheme continue as it found no abuse of this post-study work offer. It also confirmed that Indians topped its tally, accounting for 89,200 visas between 2021 and 2023, or 42 per cent of the overall grants, and were likely to be "most affected by any restriction on the Graduate Route". In their letter to Sunak, universities in the north of England - from Sunderland to Sheffield, Leeds to Lancaster, Liverpool to Teesside, Bradford to Huddersfield, and York to Newcastle - said they will all be harmed by the removal or reduction of this visa as it is an "intrinsic part of the educational offer that has made the UK so attractive to brilliant students from all around the world".

'The Graduate Visa Route is regarded by students in key markets like India as an integral part of their educational experience. The MAC review made clear that the removal of this route would make the UK less attractive and thus would cause considerable financial detriment to universities around the country," reads their joint letter.

"International student tuition fee income has long cross-subsidised underfunded research and has increasingly become critical to cross-subsidise the teaching of UK undergraduate students because of the frozen tuition fee. Universities cannot continue to absorb the costs of teaching UK undergraduates without some form of alternative funding source," they caution. On top of their visa fees, international students who find work and start businesses contribute billions of pounds in income tax national insurance and VAT annually. The university chiefs point out that they are also usually net contributors to the National Health Service (NHS) through the NHS surcharge. The Russell Group of the UK's leading universities issued its appeal over the weekend, with CEO Tim Bradshaw warning that there has already been a 10 per cent decline in international applications for post-graduate

Greek judge dismisses case against nine in shipwreck

Greek judge dismissed Acharges against nine Egyptian men accused of causing a shipwreck that killed hundreds of migrants last year the European Union's border protection and asylum operations, after a prosecutor told the court Greece lacked jurisdic-

Shortly after the trial opened in the southern Greek city of Kalamata, public prosecutor Ekaterini Tsironi recommended that the charges be dismissed, saying that Greek jurisdiction could be established because the overcrowded trawler sank outside Greek territorial waters. More than 500 people are believed to have gone down with the fishing trawler, which had been travelling from Libya to Italy. Following the sinking, 104 people were rescued — mostly migrants from Syria, Pakistan and Egypt — and 82 hodies were recovered. Supporters clapped and cheered as the judge announced the dismissal of a case that had faced criticism from international human rights groups, who argued that was compromised because they faced judgment while an investigation into the Greek coast guard's rescue attempt is still under way.

Earlier, a small group of protesters clashed with riot police outside the courthouse. There were no reports of serious injuries but two people were détained. Officers from the special police forces maintained order in the courtroom. The defendants, most in their 20s, faced up to life in prison if convicted on multiple criminal charges over the sinking of the "Adriana" fishing trawler on June 14 last year off the southern coast of Greece.

Congo names third American in foiled coup plot ongo's army spokesman on Tuesday released the name of the third American involved in a foiled coup plot in Kinshasa, while family members in Utah gathered to mourn Christian Malanga, the eccentric leader of the brazen and illfated attack targeting the presidential palace over the weekend. Brig Gen Sylvain Ekenge told The Associated Press the third American was Taylor Thomson. It wasn't immediately clear whether Thomson was among those arrested or killed on Sunday morning following the attack on the palace and another on the residence of a close ally of President Felix Tshisekedi.

Malanga, described as a naturalized American by Ekenge, was killed in a shootout at the palace after resisting arrest. The State Department said it could not confirm Malanga was a US citizen. The other two Americans involved were a convicted marijuana trafficker and Malanga's 21-year-old son, Marcel. Authorities were still trying to untangle how the young man went from playing high school football in Utah to allegedly trying to unseat the leader of one of Africa's largest countries.

British man dies, passengers hurt in Singapore airlines turbulence

An elderly British man died and more than two dozen passengers were injured when a Singapore Airlines flight from London was struck by severe turbulence and plunged 6,000 feet in the span of some a few minutes Tuesday over the Indian Ocean.

The flight was then diverted and landed in stormy weather in Bangkok. Authorities said the British man may have suffered a heart attack, though that has not been confirmed. His name was not immediately released.

Amnesty chief criticises military trial of civilians in Pakistan

Military courts in Pakistan should not try more than 100 people for their alleged role in attacks on army installations during the riots that followed former premier Imran Khan's arrest on May 9 last year, Amnesty International chief has said, urging the govern-ment to uphold its international obligations.

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights clearly state that civilians should not be tried by military courts, Amnesty International's Secretary General Dr Agnes Callamard said.

The Amnesty chief, who is on her first regional visit to South Asia, was on Tuesday quoted by Dawn News as saying that although military trials for civilians are a "no-no" under international law, "sadly it has happened throughout Pakistan's political history... [and] is not a novelty".

Pak court rejects petition to disqualify Imran over election nomination allegations

The petition filed by an individual, Mohammad Sajid, had alleged that the 71-year-old Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder had not disclosed his alleged daughter —

Callamard, emphasising the principles of transparency, due process and judicial independence, urged Pakistan to uphold its international obligations and safeguard constitutional guarantees ensuring the elections, the Geo News reported.

Khan's PTI party won the 2018 general elections and the former cricketer-turnedpolitician served as the prime minister of Pakistan from August 2018 to April 2022. Sajid alleged that Khan provided incorrect information while submitting his nomination papers for the general elections held in 2018.

Regarding the ban on X (formerly Twitter) in Pakistan,

Callamard said Amnesty was quite alarmed by the shrinking space for freedom of expression in the country.

Calling the ban "disproportionate, unnecessary and against international law", Callamard said it was particularly bad for individuals unable to access Virtual Private Networks (VPNs). "Everything is being targeted, the means of expression and the people who are expressing themselves. This includes journalists." "The space for free speech in Pakistan is shrinking," Callamard said, noting that criticism of state institutions did not constitute a crime under international law.

Germany's foreign minister visits Kyiv

Germany's foreign minister arried in Kyiv on Tuesday in the latest public display of support for Ukraine by its Western partners, although deliveries of promised weapons and ammunition from NATO countries like Germany have been slow and have left Ukraine vulnerable to a recent Russian push along parts of the front line Annalena Baerbock renewed

Berlin's calls for partners to send more air defense systems, as Russia pounds Ukraine with missiles, glide bombs and rockets. Germany is the second-biggest supplier of military aid to Ukraine after the United States. Ukraine's depleted troops are trying to hold off a fierce Russian offensive along the eastern border in one of the most critical phases of the war, which is stretching into its third year. Germany recently pledged a third US-made Patriot battery for Ukraine, but Kyiv officials say they are still facing an alarming shortfall of air defenses against the Russian onslaught. The Kremlin's forces have used their advantage in the skies to debilitate Ukraine's power grid, hoping to sap Ukrainian morale and disrupt its defense industry. Baerbock, accompanied by Ukrainian Energy Minister Herman Halushchenko, toured a thermal power plant in central Ukraine that was heavily damaged on April 11. In the plant's scorched interior, workers of Centrenergo, a state company that operates the plant, were still scooping up rubble several weeks after it was hit.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said the Kremlin's forces are still focusing their efforts on the eastern Donetsk province and northeastern Kharkiv region, where explosive-laden Russian glide bombs are wreaking destruction on military and civilian areas. "This brings us back again and again to the need for air defense for additional defense systems that could significantly mitigate the difficulties for our warriors and the threat to our cities and communities," Zelenskyy said late Monday on social media. Zelenskyy claimed Ukraine's forces are still in control of the contested areas, though Russia says it has captured a series of border villages. It was not possible to independently verify either side's battlefield claims. Baerbock had planned to visit Kharkiv on Tuesday but the trip had to be called off for security reasons, German news agency dpa reported. Almost 11,000 people have been evacuated from Kharkiv there on May 10. A Russian overnight drone attack hit transport infrastructure in Kharkiv city, the regional capital, damaging over 25 trucks, buses, and other vehicles, regional Gov. Oleh Syniehubov said Tuesday. Seven people were injured, he

Ukraine's general staff said the frequency of Russian attacks in Kharkiv slowed on Monday, though fighting continued. Russian troops are also conducting reconnaissance and sabotage raids in Ukraine's northern Sumy and Chernihiv regions, shelling border settlements and laying more minefields, according to Dmytro Lykhovii, Ukraine's general staff spokesman. The front line is some 1,000 kilometers (620 miles) long. Baerbock was due to meet with Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmytro Kuleba in Kyiv. German Chancellor Olaf Scholz has been resisting appeals from Ukrainian officials to provide Taurus missiles, which are equipped with stealth technology and have a range of up to 500 kilometers (300 miles).

The German- and Swedish-made missiles would be able to reach targets deep in Russia from Ukrainian soil. But Berlin has balked at that prospect, saying that sending the missiles would bring a risk of it becoming directly involved in the war.

The restriction on not allowing Ukraine to fire at Russia has denied Kviv the ability to strike at Russian troops and equipment massing for attacks on the other side of the border, a Washingtonbased think tank said.

4.4 magnitude quake hits Italy, prisoners evacuated

Awomen's prison near Naples was evacuated as a precaution Tuesday following a 4.4 magnitude quake with an epicentre at an active volcano west of the southern Italian port city that forced hundreds of residents to sleep in tents or cars. No injuries and only minor damage was reported following the Monday evening temblor. The quake was the strongest in recorded history around the Phlegraean Fields, a sprawling area of ancient volcanic centres near the Tyrrhenian Sea in a zone that encompasses western neighbourhoods of Naples and its suburbs, said Giuseppe De Natale, a volcanologist of Italy's INGV National Geophysics and Volcanology Centre.

During the last major event in 1984, 40,000 residents were evacuated during a period of intense seismic activity as a precaution against a feared eruption that did not occur.

Some 140 inmates at a women's prison in the Pozzuoli suburb were evacuated while officials

A dozen apartment buildings also were evacuated for structural checks, displacing about 40 families, RAI state TV reported. Some 150 smaller tremors overnight kept the population on edge. At least 500 people slept in tent cities erected by the civil protection agency, while others stayed in cars. Major traffic jams were reported as people tried to flee the area. The area around the Phlegraean Fields is both seismically and

The surface has been pushed up 1.3 metres since 2006, which is higher than prior to the last major event in 1984, but De Natale emphasised it was impossible to predict when an eruption or stronger quake might occur.

At least 500,000 people live in the zone most at risk should the volcano erupt, and the INGV is calling for a governmental plan to ensure that structures can withstand a quake of at least a

Vatican makes fresh overture to China, reaffirms that Catholic Church is no threat to sovereignty

AP MOSCOW

The Vatican made another big overture to China on Tuesday, reaffirming it poses no threat to Beijing's sovereignty and admitting that Catholic Western missionaries had made "errors" in past centuries in their zeal to convert the Chinese faithful.

The Vatican hosted the head of China's bishops conference to an unprecedented, high-level commemoration of a landmark 1924 meeting that affirmed the need for foreign missionaries in China to give way to local leaders of the Catholic Church. The presence of Shanghai Bishop Joseph Shen Bin alongside the Vatican secretary of state, Cardinal Pietro Parolin, at the Pontifical Urbaniana University was in itself noteworthy. It marked the first time in memory that a mainland bishop has been allowed by Beijing to participate in a public Vatican event as the keynote speaker. It was also significant given the controversy over Shen's 2023 appointment. Pope Francis in July was forced to recognize China's unilateral appointment of Shen as bishop of Shanghai. The appointment seemingly violated the Holy See's 2018 accord with Beijing over bishop appointments. Francis video message in which he made no mention of recent troubles but instead pointed to the 1924 meeting in Shanghai as a turning point for Vatican-China relations. The first and only Chinese church council, he said, recognised that the church in China must "increasingly have a Chinese face". "But the Council of opened the conference with a Shanghai did not only serve to forget the erroneous approach es that had prevailed in previous times," Francis said. "The participants of the first Chinese Council looked to the future And their future is our present."

It was a reference to the French, Italian and other Western missionary religious orders that evangelised China over the centuries but refused to cede leadership authority to local Chinese clergy. Their atti-tudes helped fuel the anti-Western and anti-Christian sentiment behind the Boxer Rebellion, which aimed to rid China of foreign influences.

The Vatican has been working for years to try to improve relations with China that were officially severed over seven decades ago when the Communists came to power. The aim is to unite the country's estimated 12 million Catholics, who were divided into an official, state-recognised church and an underground church that stayed loyal to

Trump campaign calls 'The Apprentice' 'blatantly false,' director offers to screen it for him

AP CANNES

Donald Trump's reelection campaign called "The Apprentice," a film about the former US president in the 1980s, "pure fiction" and vowed legal action following its pre-miere at the Cannes Film Festival. But director Ali Abbasi is offering to privately screen the film for Trump.

Following its premiere Monday in Cannes, Steven Cheung, Trump campaign spokesperson, said in a statement that the Trump team will be file a lawsuit "to address the blatantly false assertions from these pretend filmmakers."

This garbage is pure fiction which sensationalises lies that have been long debunked, Cheung said.

Seoul summit opens with Google, Meta pledging safe Al development

The world's leading artificial Intelligence companies pledged at the start of a mini summit on AI to develop the technology safely, including pulling the plug if they can't rein in the most extreme risks.

World leaders are expected to hammer out further agreements on artificial intelligence as they gathered virtually Tuesday to discuss AI's potential risks but also ways to promote its benefits and innovation

The AI Seoul Summit is a low-key follow-up to November's highprofile AI Safety Summit at Bletchley Park in the United Kingdom, where participating countries agreed to work together to contain the potentially "catastrophic" risks posed by breakneck advances in AI.

The two-day meeting — co-hosted by the South Korean and UK governments — also comes as major tech companies like Meta, OpenAI and Google roll out the latest versions of their AI

They're among 16 AI companies that made voluntary commitments to AI safety as the talks got underway, according to a British government announcement. The companies, which also include Amazon, Microsoft, France's Mistral AI, China's Zhipu.ai, and G42 of the United Arab Emirates, vowed to ensure safety of their most cutting edge AI models with promises of accountable governance and public transparency. The pledge includes publishing safety frameworks setting out how they will measure risks of these models. In extreme cases where risks are severe and "intolerable," AI companies will have to hit the kill switch and stop developing or deploying their models and systems if they can't mitigate the risks Since the UK meeting last year, the AI industry has "increasing-ly focused on the most pressing concerns, including mis- and dis- information, data security, bias and keeping humans in the loop," said Aiden Gomez CEO of Cohere, one of the AI companies that signed the pact. "It is essential that we continue to consider all possible risks, while prioritising our efforts on those most likely to create problems if not properly addressed.

On Tuesday evening, South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol and British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak are to meet other world leaders, industry bosses and heads of international organisations for a virtual conference. The online summit will be followed by an inperson meeting of digital ministers, experts and others on Wednesday, according to organ-

"It is just six months since world leaders met at Bletchley, but even in this short space of time, the landscape of AI has changed dramatically," Yoon and Sunak said in a joint article published in South Korea's JoongAng Ilbo newspaper and the UK's online news site Monday. "The pace of change will only continue to accelerate, so our work must accelerate too."

While the UK meeting centred on AI safety issues, the agenda for this week's gathering was expanded to include "innovation and inclusivity," Wang Yun-jong, a deputy director of national security in South Korea, told reporters

Wang said participants will subsequently "discuss not only the risks posed by AI but also its positive aspects and how it can contribute to humanity in a balanced manner."The AI agreement will include the outcomes of discussions on safety, innovation and inclusivity, according to Park Sang-wook, senior presidential adviser for science and technology for President Yoon.Last year's Bletchley meeting attracted world leaders and tech luminaries like Elon Musk and OpenAI CEO Sam Altman. The Seoul summit, serving as an interim meeting until another in-person event next year in France, drew less important representatives from government and tech companies.

China, which attended the Bletchley gathering, isn't joining the virtual summit though it will send a representative to Wednesday's in-person meeting, the South Korean presidential office said. Governments around the world have been scrambling to formulate regulations for AI even as the technology makes rapid advances and is poised to transform many aspects of daily life, from education and the workplace to copyrights and privacy. There are concerns that advances in AI could take away jobs, trick people and spread disinformation. This week's meeting is just one of a slew of efforts to draw up AI guardrails. The UN General Assembly has approved its first resolution on the safe use of AI systems, while the US and China recently held their first high-level talks on AI and the European Union's world-first AI Act is set to take effect later this

Rupee rises 6 paise against US dollar as crude oil prices ease

The rupee appreciated 6 paise to close at 83.31 against the US dollar on Tuesday following a weak greenback against major currencies overseas and softening crude oil prices in international markets.

However, a sluggish trend in the domestic equity markets restricted the sharp upside in the local currency, forex traders said.

At the interbank foreign exchange market, the local unit opened strong at 83.32 and touched an intraday high of 83.26 and a low of 83.36. The domestic unit finally settled at 83.31 (provisional), a gain of 6 paise from its previous close.

On Friday, the rupee had settled at 83.37 against the US dollar. The forex market was closed on Monday on account of general elections. "A decline in crude oil prices

WFI EXEMPTS OLYMPIC QUOTA WINNERS FROM TRIALS BUT WILL ASSESS THEM IN HUNGARY

he Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) on Tuesday decided to exempt all six Olympic quota winners from selection trials but their form and fitness will be assessed at the upcoming Ranking Series event and the subsequent training camp in Hungary.

The WFI said the decision to not hold trials has been taken under peculiar circumstances and should not be used as a precedent in future.

The WFI also made it clear that if any wrestler is found to be lacking in fitness, the federation would consider a replacement through trials before July 8, the deadline for sending entries.

India have got six quotas for the Paris Games where Aman Sehrawat (57kg) will be the lone male wrestler in fray from the country.

Vinesh Phogat (50kg), Antim Panghal (53kg), Anshu Malik (57kg), Nisha Dahiya (68kg) and Reetika Hooda (76kg) are the women wrestlers who have

The wrestlers had requested the WFI not to hold trials, arguing that it could lead to injuries and the selection committee, led by President Sanjay Singh, accepted the plea. "We discussed the issue and both chief coaches were also of the view that trials could lead to injuries and impact India's medal chances. So we have decided not to hold trials," Sanjay Sngh told PTI after the

The quota winners will compete in a UWW Ranking Series in Budapest from June 6-9 and will also participate in a training camp after the conclusion of the tournament from June 10-21.

The WFI decision has shut the Paris Olympic door on Tokyo Games silver medallist Ravi Dahiya (men's 57kg) and World Championship bronze winner Sarita Mor in women's (57kg) who were represented for (57kg), who were preparing for trials

It also means that Vinesh Phogat will now have to compete in women's 50kg event only. She had the chance to compete in 53kg also if she defeated Antim in trials.

London Olympic bronze medallist Yogeshwar Dutt, former wrestler Geetika Jakhar, WFI vice-president and Olympian Jai Prakash, WFI treasurer Sandeep Deshwal also attended the meeting. Geetika attended the meeting through video call.
