Baked Delhi waits to exhale

SAUMYA SHUKLA ■ NEW DELHI

It's raining fire in the national Capital as the city recorded its highest temperature of 46.8 degrees Celsius on Wednesday, surpassing its 79-year-old record of 46.4 degrees Celsius set in 1945. While Mungeshpur logged the highest ever temperature in the city at 52.9 degrees Celsius, 13 degrees above normal, areas like Narela and Najafgarh saw temperatures reaching 49 degrees Celsius. To get relief, heat-stricken residents were seen drinking ORS-laced drinks, using wet towels, and taking multiple baths a day. Delhi broke all previous records in the country as the previous highest temperature in India was recorded in Rajasthan's Phalodi in 2016 at 51 degrees Celsius.

It is also just 3.8 degrees behind the highest temperature ever recorded on Earth of 56.7 degrees Celsius at the Greenland Ranch in California's Death Valley, which is now aptly referred to as the Furnace Creek Ranch. The maximum temperature in Delhi was recorded at 46.8 degrees Celsius, which is six degrees above the normal, while the minimum temperature settled at 29.4 degrees Celsius.

However, the weather experienced a sudden change on Wednesday evening as the sky turned cloudy and witnessed light drizzling in some parts, providing short relief to Delhiites. But the short respite was followed by more discomfort due to the humidity caused by light rain.

The roasting heat has led to the Delhiites taking several measures to ensure their well being along with trying to stay indoors as much as possible. However, some residents said it is not easy to be indoors all the time as one has to go and earn a livelihood. People were seen flocking air conditioned buses and preferring the metro for their journey while also spending their time inside air-conditioned shopping malls.

In Delhi ITO metro station, many, who came to get their passports from the office nearby, were seen taking refuge in the station to beat the heat amid long queues. A 40-year-old woman sitting at the entry passage said it is the best way she could escape the scorching summer heat.

With temperatures nearing 50 degrees Celsius in Mungeshpur and Najafgarh in the last few days, residents said they have been constantly falling ill despite taking many measures to beat the heat.

Reprieve, heat, repeat

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

Northwest and Central India, which have been in the grip of unprecedented heatwave conditions in the last few days, may get some respite gradually from Thursday. However, don't breathe a sigh of relief as unfortunately, after the respite, the region will again witness a higher number of heatwave days in June. "Normally, northwest India and the adjoining areas record two to three heatwave days in June. But this time, we expect four to six days of heatwave in this region," said IMD chief Mrutyunjay Mohapatra. The IMD has issued a red warning for six States in the region — Rajasthan, Punjab, Haryana, Delhi-NCR, East Uttar Pradesh, and Madhya Pradesh — indicating severe heatwave conditions. It downgraded the red alert to an orange alert over these States on May 30 but it will persist in Punjab, Haryana, and Delhi-NCR until May 31, as per the IMD. Heatwave to severe heatwave conditions are very likely in most/many parts of Punjab, Haryana-Chandigarh, Delhi, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh on May 29 and gradual reduction thereafter with heatwave conditions in isolated/some parts till June 1, 2024, as per the IMD.

Why can't Modi meditate in private, Oppn seethes

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Opposition parties, including Congress and Trinamool Congress, are to approach the Election Commission to first restrict and secondly prevent media publicity of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's meditation plans at Rock Memorial, a monument built in tribute to Swami Vivekananda, in Kanyakumari following the culmination of the Lok Sabha polls campaign on Thursday. West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee said the Trinamool Congress will complain to the Election Commission if Prime Minister meditation in Kanyakumari is televised, claiming that it would be a violation of the election Model Code of Conduct (MCC). The Congress said the Election Commission should not grant permission for the PM's programme, as the model code of conduct was in force. "Such a move was an attempt at 'indirect campaigning' after the end of canvassing of votes," Tamil Nadu Congress chief K Selvaputhurthagai alleged. The PM will meditate from the evening of May 30 to the evening of June 1 at Dhyan Mandapam, the place where Vivekananda — a spiritual icon admired by Modi — is believed to have had a divine vision about 'Bharat Mata', BJP leaders said.

The Prime Minister had gone on a similar meditation exercise in a Kedarnath cave after the 2019 poll campaign. "We will complain. He can meditate, but it cannot be aired on television," Mamata said, claiming that this will amount to "violation of the MCC." "Does anyone have to get cameras for doing meditation?" she asked, claiming that it was a way of canvassing during the silence period between the end of campaign and the poll date. All arrangements, including heavy security, are in place for Modi's 45-hour stay at the Rock Memorial. The district in the country's southernmost tip will see a strong posse of 2,000 police personnel and various security agencies maintaining a tight vigil during the PM's event. Tirunelveli range DIG Pravesh Kumar accompanied by superintendent of police E Sundaravathanam had inspected the security arrangements at the rock memorial, boat jetty, helipad and the State guest house in Kanyakumari. Even as the Prime Minister's core security team reached the venue, a trial of helicopter landing had also been conducted at the helipad. As per his tentative schedule, Modi is expected to arrive at Kanyakumari late afternoon on May 30 for the spiritual sojourn. He would later proceed to the memorial.

RAJESH KUMAR ■ NEW DELHI

The epic campaign for the seven phase 2024 general elections spanning for about two months now amid intense heatwave will come to an end on Thursday evening for the last phase voting on Saturday to seal the fortunes of Prime Minister Narendra Modi in Varanasi, Bollywood actress Kangana Ranaut, Union Minister Anurag Thakur, National Conference leader Omar Abdullah, actor turned politician Ravi Kishan and TMC leader Abhishek Banerjee. The voting schedule period for the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, spread over 44 days, which is the second longest after the first parliamentary elections of 1951-52, which lasted for more than four months but then that time it was through ballot papers and the counting of votes lasted for 4/5 days.

Interesting slogans ranged from 'God of the Gods' to 'Lord Jagannath' and 'Mujra', 'disco', 'Bhangra', 'Bharatnatyam' to Minimum Support Price (MSP) to farm loan waiver and Muslim appeasement dominated in this phase that sparked controversy. Besides the Congress's khatakhata, khatakhata has become the buzz phrase so much so that even Modi used it to attack the Opposition. Khatakhata khatakhata has also spawned its own family of buzz phrases. Congress leaders, including Priyanka Gandhi, started using khatakhata khatakhata, a Hindi onomatopoeia that signifies something being done fast in a repeated movement. Everyone

immediately took a liking to the buzz phrase khatakhata khatakhata with an addition of 'Good Bye Tata' a day earlier by Congress' Rahul Gandhi. The high decibel campaign also saw political engagements on remarks like India racism and redistribution of wealth by then Congress Overseas Incharge Sam Pitroda leading to his removal from the post and the zenith was a sex scandal involving JD(S) leader Prajwal Revanna who is seeking reelection from his Parliamentary constituency Hassan. The seventh phase of polling will be held across 57 parliamentary constituencies, covering eight States and Union Territories on June 1. The stakes are high for the BJP in this phase as it has won 30 seats of the total 57 in 2019. All seats in Punjab and Himachal Pradesh will go to polls in the seventh phase, along with the remaining seats in Bihar, Jharkhand, Uttar Pradesh, Odisha, Chandigarh and West Bengal. Data shows of the 57 seats, the BJP won 25 in both, the 2014 and the 2019 elections. Meanwhile, the Congress won only three seats in 2014 and eight in 2019. In terms of vote share, the BJP clocked more than 40 per cent in 28 seats and between 30 and 40 per cent in 12 seats. In contrast, Congress received a vote share of less than 10 per cent in 18 seats. Altogether, 24 seats are strongholds of different parties. The Trinamool Congress and the BJP have eight strongholds each. The remaining eight strongholds belong to the Biju Janata Dal, the Congress, the Janata Dal (United), and the Shiromani Akali Dal. There are 904 candidates are now left in the fray. 328 candidates from Punjab and 144 from Uttar Pradesh are in the fray for 13 seats each, respectively. 134 candidates are contesting on eight seats from Bihar, 66 from Odisha on six seats, 52 from Jharkhand on three seats, 37 from Himachal Pradesh on four seats and 19 from Chandigarh for one seat. Punjab had a maximum of 598 nomination forms from 13 Parliamentary constituencies (PCs), followed by Uttar Pradesh with 495 nominations from 13 PCs before scrutiny and withdrawals. Constituency wise, 36 Jahanabad Parliamentary Constituency in Bihar received a maximum of 73 nomination forms, followed by 7-Ludhiana seat in Punjab with 70 nomination forms.

Police personnel and civilians near the escort vehicle, part of the convoy of Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh's son and BJP leader Karan Bhushan Singh, that allegedly hit a biker, in Gonda, on Wednesday. At least two people were killed in the accident, according to officials

SUV in Brij Bhushan son's convoy mows down two, injures 2

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

In an incident similar to that reported in Lakhimpur Kheri in which Union Minister of State for Home Ajay Mishra Teni's son went crushing farmers, a vehicle of the convoy of the son of Bharatiya Janata Party MP from Kaiserganj in Gonda district, Brij Bhushan Saran Singh, crushed two youths, including a 17-year-old, to death and critically injured an old woman. As Brij Bhushan, the former president of Women's Wrestling Federation, is facing charges of sexual assault of women wrestlers, the BJP gave its ticket for the Kaiserganj Lok Sabha seat in the ongoing elections to his son Karan Bhushan Singh. According to eyewitnesses, the convoy of vehicles was of BJP candidate from Kaiserganj, Karan. A large number of policemen are deployed at the spot. Police have seized the SUV involved in the accident and have also arrested the driver of the escort vehicle. There is no confirmation yet whether Karan was travelling with the cavalcade at the time of the accident. Reports said Karan was going to Huzurpur with his convoy of vehicles that included a Fortuner with 'police escort' written on it. When the convoy reached near Chhatarpurwa on Bahraich Huzurpur road, the Fortuner, in an attempt to overtake other vehicles, crushed two youths - 17-year-old Rehan and 21-year-old Shahzad Khan - who were coming to Karnailganj market on a motorcycle from Nidura village to purchase medicines. The Fortuner later broke the electric pole and also crushed 60-year-old Sita Devi, who was sitting in front of her house, critically injuring her. She has been admitted to hospital.

In Jalandhar Ex-CM, three ‘turncoats’ locked in a four-way battle; BSP may play spoilsport

In a close-contest, former CM Channi is facing AAP's Tinu, BJP's Rinku, and SAD's Kaypee with BSP's Kumar set to disturb political equations

By Monika Malik

In Jalandhar, the electoral battleground is intensifying with a high-stakes contest featuring a former Chief Minister and three notable political ‘turncoats’. The Congress is pinning its hopes on former Dalit Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi, while other major parties have nominated candidates who have switched allegiances, leaving voters in a state of uncertainty. AAP's sitting MP Sushil Kumar Rinku is now the BJP's candidate, SAD's former MLA Pawan Kumar Tinu is running on AAP's ticket, and Congress' former MP Mohinder Singh Kaypee is standing for SAD.

Adding a layer of personal intrigue, the race pits two former Congressmen-cum-relatives, both influential Dalit leaders, against each other. Kaypee's daughter is married to Channi's nephew, highlighting the familial connections that complicate this political rivalry. Each candidate in Jalandhar wields considerable influence, making the race even more intense.

The Jalandhar Lok Sabha constituency has a rich electoral history, marked by fierce competition and significant political shifts. Traditionally a Congress stronghold, the party has won the seat 13 times since independence, dominating the seat since 1999. Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) and Janata Dal have secured victories twice each. The constituency underwent a significant change in 2008 when it was re-demarcated as a reserved seat for Scheduled Castes (SC), adding new dynamics to its electoral profile.

Congress' defeat in 2023 bypoll, necessitated following the sudden demise of sitting MP Santokh Chaudhary, marked a significant shift when the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) won by over 58,000 votes, demonstrating a notable change in voter sentiment — prompting the grand old party to strategize extensively to reclaim its position, focusing on the Dalit vote bank.

Despite facing strong internal dissent from within, the Congress decided to lay its bet on the former Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi, party's prominent Dalit leader. Dissidence stems from bypassing other local leaders in favour of Channi, causing friction among the party ranks, especially the Chaudhary family, leading to the departure of Santokh Chaudhary's widow Karamjit Kaur Chaudhary to BJP, coupled with suspension of their son and Congress MLA from Phillaur Vikram Chaudhary for opening a front against Channi.

The Chaudhary family wields considerable influence in the Dalit politics of the Doaba region, with a political legacy dating back to 1936. Master Gurbanta Singh, a prominent Dalit leader in Punjab, was the patriarch of this influential clan. The family has maintained close ties with Dera Sachkhand Ballan, a religious institution with substantial sway over the Dalit-majority Jalandhar constituency. This connection makes the direction of the Dera vote a critical factor in the upcoming election. Given these dynamics, it remains to be seen whether the Chaudhary family might undermine Channi's campaign. Despite these challenges, Channi has, as of now, emerged as a frontrunner on the seat.

Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), contesting polls independently this time, fielded sitting MP Sushil Kumar Rinku, earlier a Congress MLA, and later AAP MP Rinku's latest switch to the BJP, days after AAP announced his renomination, marked his third political allegiance, creating voter disillusionment and internal challenges within the BJP. Rinku's campaign focused on development and infrastructure improvements, targeting the business community and urban voters. However, BJP faces significant resistance in rural areas where farmers, especially in Shahkot, Nakodar, and Phillaur, oppose the BJP candidate.

Balancing urban support with efforts to gain rural votes has emerged as a critical challenge for the BJP. Moreover, its reliance on consolidating Hindu votes in urban areas contrasts with its struggle in rural regions. The BJP is focusing on urban areas, leveraging the support of migrant labour and local traders.

Rinku's journey began as a councillor in Jalandhar Municipal Corporation, and he first became an MLA on a Congress ticket in 2017. Despite a defeat in the 2022 assembly elections, Rinku managed to secure the Lok Sabha seat for AAP in 2023 by-election.

Left in the lurch following Rinku's departure, the ruling AAP poached SAD's former MLA and its probable candidate from Jalandhar Pawan Kumar Tinu — a seasoned politician with a history of party switches. Tinu's entry into AAP and subsequent candidacy have been met with skepticism, questioning his loyalty and ability to unify AAP's support base. AAP is targeting urban voters with promises of improved governance and accountability. Tinu's campaign is centered on transparency and anti-corruption measures, appealing to younger voters and the urban middle class. AAP is also addressing social justice issues to attract Dalit voters.

SAD, this time, is contesting independently, unlike previous alliances with BJP till previous Lok Sabha polls, or BSP like in 2022 state assembly polls. A former Congress MP and state Congress' former president, Mohinder Singh Kaypee, now with SAD, focused his campaign on rural areas and Dalit communities.

port from the Dalit community, having served as a Minister and winning this Lok Sabha seat in 2009. However, his recent switch from Congress to SAD added complexity to his campaign. His challenge will be to overcome his previous defeat and leverage his political experience to gain voter trust.

Adding another dimension to the four-way contest, the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) has fielded a prominent Dalit activist Balwinder Kumar, who secured a significant number of votes in the 2019 elections — 2.13 lakhs. A former journalist with a national daily and a practicing lawyer, Kumar owns two PG degrees — one in English and the other in journalism. His focus on Dalit issues and community support could be pivotal in the upcoming election. His past performance and strong educational background position him as a formidable candidate — poised to disrupt the political dynamics of the main contenders.

Past elections

In the first election after becoming a reserved seat, Congress candidate Mohinder Singh Kaypee emerged victorious, securing the seat with a margin of 37,000 votes. This victory underscored Congress' stronghold in the region, especially among the Dalit community. Congress retained the seat in 2014 with Santokh Chaudhary, but the margin of victory narrowed to 70,000 votes. SAD showed significant resilience, indicating growing support among voters dissatisfied with the Congress. The 2019 elections saw Congress winning again, but with SAD significantly increasing its vote share by 50,000 votes compared to the previous election. It was the 2023 bypoll that marked a significant shift when AAP defeated Congress by over 58,000 votes, demonstrating a notable change in voter sentiment.

Voter demographics

Jalandhar's voter demographics play a crucial role in determining the election outcome. The constituency has a substantial Dalit population, with nearly 37 percent of the electorate, making their vote pivotal. Of these, nearly five lakh are from the Adidharam, Ravidasia or Ramdasias community, and 2.7 lakh from the Valmiki or Majbhi Sikh community. Each candidate is strategizing to win over these crucial voters, with promises of better representation and development.

Religious and social institutions, or Deras, also influence the Dalit vote significantly. Dera Sachkhand Ballan and Valmiki Ashram of Baba Pargat Nath in Nakodar are particularly influential, guiding the voting preferences of their followers. Their support could be a deciding factor in the election.

Urban areas in Jalandhar, with a significant migrant labour population, are crucial for BJP. However, rural areas have shown resistance to BJP, particularly among farmers. A significant section of Dalits in Jalandhar follows Christianity and regularly visits Pentecostal churches, with pastors close to BJP. The consolidation of Hindu votes is critical for BJP's strategy in urban areas, balancing its support base with efforts to mitigate rural opposition.

The Issues

Economic issues, including job opportunities and infrastructure improvements, are central to voter concerns in Jalandhar. Each candidate is promising economic growth and development projects to attract votes. Social justice and equality are significant concerns, especially among the Dalit community, with candidates emphasizing policies and initiatives that address these issues. Besides, Jalandhar's sports goods manufacturing industry, a long-standing employment source, has been in decline since the Covid-19 pandemic; and the voters have demanded solutions from the candidates, yet no action has been taken.

The city's poor road infrastructure is also a major concern for commuters, who have criticized the use of substandard materials in road construction. Numerous accidents and injuries have resulted from hazardous conditions, with countless pits making travel perilous. Worsening traffic congestion is another significant issue, mainly due to non-functional traffic lights, encroachments, lack of parking lots, haphazard parking, dug-up roads, and poor management.

Garbage dumping and mountain-sized landfills are emerging in Jalandhar in a manner reminiscent of Delhi, much to the dismay of residents. Protests have erupted, particularly against the garbage dump near 66 ft road, as the community demands better waste management solutions.

Constituency at a Glance

The constituency comprises of nine assembly segments, of which, five — Phillaur, Shahkot, Jalandhar North, Jalandhar Cantt, and Adampur — are represented by the Congress, while remaining four — Kartarpur, Jalandhar West, Jalandhar Central, and Nakodar — are in AAP's share. However, AAP's Jalandhar West (SC) MLA Sheetal Angural has shifted loyalties towards the BJP.

The constituency, with more than 16 lakh voters, showcases a diverse demographic landscape. Constituting 40 percent of the electorate, SC voters exercise significant influence in this region. The constituency is characterized by a balanced mix of rural and urban voters, with 48.7 percent residing in rural areas and 51.3 percent in urban settings. The religious composition reflects the cultural mosaic, with Sikhs comprising 32.75 percent of the electorate, and Hindus at 63.56 percent. Muslims form a smaller but notable portion, accounting for 1.4 percent of the voter base.

PNS ■ LUDHIANA/PATIALA

Amidst the ongoing protests by the farmers demanding legal guarantee on MSP, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Wednesday promised to waive farm loans “not once or twice but whenever farmers required”, besides promising to legally guarantee Minimum Support Price (MSP) for crops.

In high-octane rallies during the last leg of the campaigning for the seventh and the final phase of voting, Rahul Gandhi addressed packed rallies at Ludhiana and Patiala, connecting with the constituents to drum up support for the Congress party candidate for upcoming Lok Sabha elections. His journey started with a massive rally at Dana Mandi in Dakha, Ludhiana, followed by a visit to Patiala, where he made powerful promises and sharp criticisms aimed squarely at the BJP and its policies.

At the heart of Rahul Gandhi's message was a robust pledge to the farmers of Punjab: perpetual farm loan waivers. “As soon as the INDI alliance government is formed, we will waive the loans of farmers, just like they (referring to BJP) have waived the loans of millionaires,” Rahul Gandhi declared to a cheering crowd in Ludhiana. He outlined plans for the creation of a ‘Kisaan Karza Maafi Aayog’ — a commission dedicated to ensuring continuous loan relief for farmers. “We will not just waive farmer loans once; we will do it whenever the farmer needs it,” he vowed, signaling a long-term commitment to agricultural welfare.

Furthermore, Rahul Gandhi promised to legally guarantee Minimum Support Price (MSP) for crops, a long-standing demand of farmers from Punjab and Haryana. “Farmers are the backbone of our nation, and it's time we give them the security they deserve,” he said, addressing the need for sustained financial stability in the farming community.

Mincing no words in his critique of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's government, Rahul Gandhi accusing it of serving the wealthy elite at the expense of ordinary citizens. “Modi has put money into the pockets of billionaires, who then spent it in London, Dubai, and other foreign locales. We will instead put money directly into the accounts of farmers, women, and the elderly,” he promised, highlighting a vision of inclusive economic growth.

He lambasted the economic policies of demonetization and GST, arguing that they have crippled the economy. “Demonetization and GST have put our economy to sleep. We will wake it up and create opportunities for employment by reopening companies that have shut down,” he asserted, promising economic revival and job creation.

The Agniveer scheme, aimed at recruiting young soldiers on a short-term basis, was another focal point of RaGa's critique. “Modi has divided the army into two. Our government will scrap the Agniveer scheme and ensure pensions for all,” he declared, pledging to restore respect and stability to military careers. “We will fill 30 lakh government jobs and hand them over to the people,” he added.

Rahul Gandhi emphasized the ideological battle between the INDIA alliance and the BJP, portraying it as a fight to protect the Indian Constitution. “This is a battle to save our Constitution. The INDIA alliance is dedicated to this cause, while the BJP and NDA are trying to destroy it,” he said. He praised India's rich diversity, stating, “Our Constitution protects the myriad languages and cultures of India. BJP wants one leader, one language, but we must defend our constitutional values.”

Gandhi also tackled the pressing issue of drug addiction in Punjab, condemning the AAP Government for its inadequate response. “The cases of drugs are increasing in Punjab. Strict action should be taken against this menace. Punjab must fight against drugs with all its might,” he urged, reflecting concerns about the deteriorating law and order situation under the current administration.

Concluding his address, Gandhi outlined a vision for economic revival that includes putting money back into the hands of the common people. “Modi put money into the pockets of billionaires, but we will put it into the accounts of farmers, women, and the elderly. This will boost the market and reopen companies closed by GST, creating jobs and speeding up our economy,” he asserted.

RaGa paid tribute to Moosewala at Ludhiana rally

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Wednesday paid floral tributes to singer-rapper Sidhu Moosewala on his second death anniversary and met his father Balkaur Singh in Ludhiana during a campaign rally. Sidhu Moosewala's large picture was also placed prominently at the rally stage.

Later, Gandhi met Balkaur Singh separately and shared a video of his meeting on Instagram with the late singer's popular song 295. The two talked about the leadership that Punjab needs as the video played shots of Sidhu Moosewala's father walking along with him during the first leg of the Congress leader's Bharat Jodo Yatra.

Rahul Gandhi captioned the video, describing Sidhu “a promising artist, passionate young leader and a kind-hearted person”. “The world will remember Sidhu Moosewala something like this. Emotional tribute,” he wrote. Shubdeep Singh Sidhu, popularly known as Sidhu Moosewala, was shot dead in Punjab's Mansa district on May 29, 2022.

Punjab's All Polling Booths to be Tobacco-Free: CEO Sibin C

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Punjab's Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Sibin C on Wednesday declared that all polling booths in the state will be tobacco-free for the Lok Sabha Elections 2024. The use of cigarettes, bidi, and other tobacco products will be prohibited in all polling booths, he said, adding that the presiding officer of each polling booth has been nominated as the nodal officer to ensure the tobacco-free status at the respective polling booths.

This significant step underscores the Office of CEO's commitment to promote public health and creating a safe and healthy environment for voters. “The aim of declaring polling booths tobacco-free is to protect non-smokers from secondhand smoke exposure and encourage a healthier lifestyle among the people. This initiative also aligns with broader public health campaigns and legislative efforts to reduce tobacco use and its associated health risks including cancer, cardiovascular diseases, chronic lung disease, blindness, etc,” he added.

Priyanka Gandhi assails BJP Over Himachal Tourism Woes

PNS ■ SHIMLA

Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi on Wednesday accused the BJP government at the Centre of harming small and medium businesses, including the tourism sector in Himachal Pradesh. Claiming that demonetisation and Goods and Service Tax (GST) implementation hit the tourism industry of the state, she promised to strengthen the sector with a focus on small and medium businesses if the Congress was voted to power in the Lok Sabha elections.

Addressing an election rally in Kullu, Gandhi accused Prime Minister Narendra Modi of handing over public property of the country such as ports, airports and coal mines to “his industrialists friends”.

“Even in Himachal today, maximum cold stores are owned by Adani who decides the rate of apples and the fate of apple-growers,” the Congress general secretary alleged. In addition, Gandhi claimed that import duty on apples coming from the US has been reduced, while local producers have to pay the GST imposed on agricultural implements and equipment. Due to this, apple-growers in the state are affected by the imported apples from the US that have flooded the markets, she added.

She also alleged that people are now “dying due to the Covid vaccine” and that the BJP had taken a Rs 52-crore donation from a manufacturer. Despite being in power for 55 years the Congress could not become the richest party but the BJP has become the richest party in the world in just 10 years, she said.

Speaking at a public rally seeking support for Congress's candidate from Mandi parliamentary constituency Vikramaditya Singh, Gandhi said if the INDIA bloc comes to power, poor women in the state will get Rs 10,000 every month --- Rs 8,500 as promised in the Congress manifesto for the Lok Sabha polls and Rs 1,500 promised by the party's government in Himachal Pradesh.

Himachal Pradesh is beautiful and a “symbol of cultured politics”, Gandhi said, urging people of the state to guide the politics of the country in the right direction. Attacking the prime minister, Gandhi said, “Modi ji calls Himachal as his second home but he neither gave any special package to the state nor did he declare the worst ever monsoon as a national disaster.” Instead, he made every effort to topple the democratically-elected Congress government in the state, she said.

Gandhi was referring to the political crisis involving the six Congress rebels who voted in favour of the BJP in the Rajya Sabha elections and later joined the party. They are now contesting the assembly bypolls as BJP candidates.

“During the worst monsoon disaster in the state last year, people saw the difference between the Congress and the BJP, when every Congress leader and worker was on the ground while the BJP was seen nowhere,” she said. The Congress leader also claimed that the BJP-led Centre did not release funds deposited under the National Pension Scheme when the state's Congress government restored the Old Pension Scheme in Himachal Pradesh to make it unsuccessful.

She also targeted the BJP government for the Agnipath scheme, saying it would lead to more unemployment, which is the “highest in the last 45 years with 70 crore youth waiting for jobs”. Speaking at the rally, Congress's Lok Sabha candidate from Mandi Vikramaditya Singh said her BJP rival Kangana Ranaut was a “parachute candidate”. Ranaut has no knowledge of the state, no affinity with it and remained absent during last year's floods, Singh said.

He said channelisation of Beas river, promotion of tourism, making Mandi a smart city were his main priorities and said he would raise the issue of increasing import duty on apples at the Centre.

Singh also claimed that Himachal Pradesh was the first state to bring an anti-conversion law during the tenure of his father, former chief minister Virbhadra Singh. “We do not need a certificate of Hindutva from the BJP,” he said, and ended his speech with “Kullu ki janta ko Jai Shri Ram”.

4 days after LS Polling, Haryana CEO comes out with 64.80 per cent voting

lowest voting percentage in 25 years

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

In the revised polling percentage released on Wednesday, the Haryana Chief Electoral Officer Anurag Agarwal said that an average voter turnout of 64.80 percent was reported in all the 10 Lok Sabha Constituencies of Haryana. The polling in Haryana was held on May 25. In the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, the overall voting percentage was 70. Agarwal said that the voter turnout in Haryana was slightly lower this time than in previous elections due to the heatwave. For the last many days, the maximum temperatures in the state have remained in the range of 45 to 48 degrees Celsius at many places.

According to the Election Commission, the counting of votes will take place nationwide on June 4. Agarwal said comprehensive arrangements have been made to ensure smooth counting in the state, including a two-layer security system in the EVM strong rooms.

He commended the voters of Haryana for their cooperation with the commission's staff in conducting a free and transparent election. Agarwal said that Sirsa Lok Sabha constituency recorded the highest voter turnout at 69.77 percent. Similarly, in Ambala voter turnout was 67.43 percent.

The lowest voter turnout in Haryana was in Faridabad and Gurugao. In Gurugao Lok Sabha constituency, voter turnout was of 62.03 percent while in Faridabad it was 60.52 percent.

The voting turnout is the lowest since 1999, when the voting percentage was 63.68. In the 2004 and 2009 Lok Sabha elections, the voting percentages were 65.72 and 67.46, respectively. The turnout jumped to 71.45 per cent in the 2014 parliamentary elections and in 2019, the voting percentage dipped marginally to 70.34.

cial handle with a hashtag #PunjabMaiChalegiHaad, features Mann's face superimposed on Mario's character as he traverses various challenges akin to those in the Mario game. In each level, Mann confronts adversaries representing issues such as the “sand mafia”, “drugs mafia”, the rival political parties “Congress”, and “Akali Dal”, symbolizing the hurdles his Government has overcome during its two-year tenure.

Accompanied by upbeat music and sound effects reminiscent of classic video games, Mann can be seen jumping, running, and shooting his way through obstacles, symbolizing his administration's efforts to combat corruption and uplift Punjab. The video highlights key achievements of the AAP Government, including the launching of anti-corruption helpline, implementation of “zero bijli bill” schemes, the establishment of 829 Aam Aadmi clinics, setting up of Schools of Eminence, Pachhwara Coal Mine, providing 43000-plus government jobs, rolling out Ghar Ghar Ration scheme, Sadak Surakhiya Force (SSF), “nehri paani” (canal water), and the initiation of Mukhya Mantri Tirath Yatra Yojana.

The clip culminates with Mann successfully completing the level, symbolizing the completion of AAP's mission with a resounding message, “Mission AAP 13-0”. The video serves as a creative and engaging way to communicate the party's vision for Punjab's future and rally support for the upcoming elections.

By harnessing the nostalgia and familiarity of the Mario game imagery, the AAP aims to capture the attention of voters and underscore its commitment to ushering in positive change and transformation in Punjab. As the political landscape heats up, Mann's portrayal as the ‘Super Mann of Punjab’ adds a playful yet powerful dimension to the party's campaign efforts, resonating with audiences across generations.

MANOJ KUMAR ■ CHANDIGARH

In Chandigarh Lok Sabha Constituency while the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is pulling out all stops to retain the seat for the third time, the Congress, with its united face, is giving it jitters.

This constituency witnessed a 70.62% voter turnout in the year 2019. This time, the election officers in Chandigarh are making all efforts to improve voter turnout in the Constituency.

In this election, two-time Member of Parliament from Ludhiana and Anandpur Sahib, Congress' Manish Tewari is slugging it out against BJP's Sanjay Tandon, a Lok Sabha poll debutant. The Congress candidate is being backed by the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), its INDIA bloc partner.

Born and brought up in Chandigarh, Tewari (58) did his schooling at St. John's High School in Sector 26, graduated from DAV College, Chandigarh, and received a Bachelor of Laws (LLB) from the University of Delhi.

The BJP has dropped two-time sitting Member of Parliament Kirron Kher and decided Sanjay Tandon as its candidate. Tandon (60) is the son of a BJP leader from Punjab and former governor of Chattisgarh Balramji Das Tandon has also been the longest-serving Bharatiya Janata Party Chandigarh president from 2010 to 2019.

During his election campaign, Tandon says that Chandigarh needs a person who is one of them and who has been with them through thick and thin. He said that a strong Modi wave will help him score a landslide victory. Tandon took a dig at Congress candidate Manish Tewari, who fought the 2009 and 2019 Lok Sabha polls from Ludhiana and Anandpur Sahib in Punjab and said that he is an outsider while Tewari tells people that he was born in Chandigarh whereas people here know me. He said, if 50 people come to meet him, he knows the names of 40 of them. Tewari alleged that the BJP does not want democracy but dictatorship and autocracy in the country, whose traits it has been displaying in the last ten years. He said that BJP had promised ‘Mono Rail’ in Chandigarh in its 2019 manifesto. Neither there was Mono Rail, nor was there any progress on the Metro project, Tewari pointed out, while adding, with the result the city's roads remained clogged due to heavy traffic.

Tewari also said that a vote for his BJP challenger Sanjay Tandon will be a vote for Anil Masih who “slaughtered democracy in Chandigarh by subverting the mayoral polls.

Of the 19 candidates in the fray now, three candidates are from national parties, 12 are independents and four from unrecognised parties. Only two women — Ritu Singh from BSP and independent candidate Rajinder Kaur — have thrown their hat into the ring this time.

As per available ECIs data, the total number of voters enrolled in Chandigarh is 6,59,805, which is an increase of 7 percent from the total voters in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls. As many as 12,514 new voters registered in the city since the implementation of the model code of conduct on March 16.

The number of first-time voters, aged 18 and 19, has also risen from 12,094 to 17,977 since the last elections. Also, 4,698 voters are above the age of 85, while the number of disabled voters stands at 3,816, who have been offered the vote-from-home facility.

With over one-third of the total voters in Chandigarh from Uttarakhand, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh, these four states may end up deciding the fate of the lone Chandigarh Lok Sabha seat. These voters or their families have migrated to the city over the years. Of around 6.5 lakh voters in the city, 1.5 lakh are from Uttar Pradesh and Bihar. Similarly, Himachal and Uttarakhand origin voters are estimated to be around 1 lakh. Some areas like Mauli Jagran, Dhanas, Vikas Nagar etc still have high concentration of some of these groups.

In 2014 Lok Sabha polls, BJP's Kirron Kher got 1.91 lakh votes and defeated Congress leader Pawan Kumar Bansal who got 1.21 lakh votes. The AAP candidate Gul Panag fared well as she got 1.08 lakh votes and was in third position. In 2019, the BJP once again nominated Kher and she won with 2.31 lakh votes while Bansal got 1.84 lakh votes. Harmohan Dhawan of AAP got 13,781 votes. As the elections approach, the dynamics of a two-way contest suggest that Tandon will face a formidable challenge from Tewari.

MICROMANAGEMENT AND UNDERMANAGEMENT

It is crucial to balance these extremes by ensuring employee empowerment

In the realm of leadership and management, micromanagement and under management represent two extreme ends of a spectrum posing significant challenges to organisational success. While micromanagement leads to decreased autonomy, innovation and job satisfaction, under management results in a lack of direction, motivation and accountability. By understanding the impacts of these management styles and implementing strategies that balance oversight with empowerment, organisations can foster a productive, innovative and satisfying work environment. Micromanagement involves excessive control and oversight while under management is characterised by a lack of adequate supervision and support. In the spectrum of management styles, micromanagement and under management represent two extremes, each with distinct characteristics and consequences for the workplace. In an organisation, if one is micromanaging the team and not giving its employees the freedom to work, will eventually drive away great talent while settling for mediocrity resulting in fostering anxiety and ultimately leading to negative impacts on overall organisational productivity and job satisfaction. Along with this, decreased employee morale, reduced creativity and innovation, lower productivity, increased stress and burnout, high turnover, poor performance and accountability are some of the impacts of both micromanagement and undermanagement that can be detrimental even though they manifest differently. Various research studies have shown that micromanagement stifles creativity and innovation.

It is negatively correlated with job satisfaction and positively correlated with stress and burnout. Employees under micromanagement reported lower engagement and higher intentions to leave their jobs. While on the other hand, the effects of under management found that employees lacking adequate supervision and feedback exhibited lower job satisfaction and performance. It becomes of utmost importance to strike a balance between the two by adopting management practices that provide appropriate oversight while empowering employees. Balancing between micromanagement and under management involves adopting a management style that provides appropriate oversight while empowering employees. By fostering a culture of trust and empowerment; setting clear goals and expectations; and promoting a results-oriented culture can help the organisation create a positive and productive workplace where both managers and employees thrive. There is no denying the fact that balancing micromanagement and undermanagement is crucial for creating a productive, positive and effective workplace. By finding the middle ground, managers can provide the necessary support and oversight while empowering employees to take initiative and innovate. Remember, be it micromanagement or undermanagement, both can have far-reaching negative effects on both the employees as well as the organisation. By understanding the causes and impacts and then implementing strategies to promote trust, autonomy and effective communication, organisations can create a more positive and productive work environment. Moving away from micromanagement not only enhances employee satisfaction and performance but also contributes to the long-term success and health of the organisation. Micromanagement and undermanagement, as opposite ends of the management spectrum, both present significant challenges to organisational effectiveness and employee well-being. While micromanagement stifles autonomy and innovation through excessive control, under management leaves employees directionless and unsupported. Both styles can lead to significant issues within an organisation, highlighting the need for a balanced approach to effective leadership.

Relevant skill sets can combat unemployment

The rapid digital shift necessitates comprehensive strategies to address skill gaps and ensure inclusive growth. Public-private partnerships are essential

The service sector has undeniably been the primary driver of India's growth since 2000. The exceptional performance of certain modern services has unequivocally contributed to the creation of more productive and decent employment. The reliance on services for economic growth unequivocally demands a fully developed job market, enabling a free flow of the workforce. The absence of such mechanisms will undoubtedly lead to rigidity in the services sector, curtailing growth against the backdrop of the increasingly important position of the services sector. The key focus areas include the pivotal role of technology in shaping the services sector and stimulating job growth in other sectors through multiplier effects.

The momentous transformation of the Indian economy is irrefutably being spearheaded by the service sector, which unequivocally contributes more than 50 per cent of the GDP. The sector's expansion is not happening in isolation but is deeply intertwined with global technological advancements. Technological progress has undeniably been a catalyst for efficiency, customer satisfaction, market expansion and data-driven decision-making within firms. It has also undeniably given rise to new service categories, such as e-commerce and other tech-based services like Artificial Intelligence (AI) and the Internet of Things (IoT), revolutionising the sector. The relationship between the service sector's growth and technological innovation is undeniably mutually beneficial. As the service sector expands, it undeniably fuels further innovation in technology-based solutions. New ventures and their technological needs undeniably push for continuous technological advancements to gain the competitiveness needed to maintain their foothold in the dynamic industry. This competition and need for differentiation undeniably lead to increased investments in research and development (R&D) and open innovations, benefiting both the firms involved and the public. The introduction of 5G and the ongoing development of 6G technologies have significantly enhanced connectivity, service delivery speed and overall efficiency in India. Efforts to improve digital literacy have further accelerated technology adoption, with 70 per cent of businesses identifying as "Digital Businesses" and the country exhibiting the highest fintech adoption rate at 87 per cent. The application of AI in business operations has markedly improved operational efficiency, customer satisfaction and decision-making, positioning India as a global leader in AI adoption. However, the rapid digital transformation necessitates a balance between creating employment and providing the relevant skill sets for technology-demanding jobs for a new generation is a national need. The service sector unequivocally offers both abundant opportunities and formidable challenges. Addressing challenges demands a resolute, comprehensive approach with astute policies and unwavering implementation. Public-private partnerships and policies aimed at bridging the skill gaps must be executed with unwavering effectiveness. Educational institutions must urgently revamp their curriculum to directly align with the market's skill demands. Technological advancement, while propelling economic growth, undeniably necessitates relentless skill development. To fully exploit technological progress, educational institutions must steadfastly ensure their curriculum is consistently updated and in sync with the latest innovations. Skill Gap: In India, the skill gap in the labour force is a significant challenge, with only 51 per cent of the youth deemed employable due to a lack of necessary skills. This issue is exacerbated by the country's diverse socio-economic conditions, particularly affecting those in rural areas and from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, who lack access to quality education and training. This situation perpetuates cycles of poverty and aggravates wage inequality. Moreover, inadequate emphasis on developing non-technical skills such as communication, critical thinking and leadership, which are increasingly in demand, further compounds the problem. The absence of these skills from the curriculum of most educational institutes compels employers to choose candidates only from a handful of premier institutes. Additionally, there is a significant mismatch between the skills taught and those required by employers, leading to unemployment even among the formally educated. Efforts to bridge this gap must include public-private partnerships (PPPs), such as the initiative to upgrade Industrial Training Institutes (ITIs) and the National Skill Development Corporation (NSDC) to train 150 million people by 2024. These initiatives are crucial steps toward aligning educational outcomes with market needs, emphasising the vital importance of both technical and non-technical skills development to enhance employability. Gender Inequality: Female employability in India has consistently exceeded male employability from 2020 to 2023, but there was a drop in 2024. Furthermore, it has been higher for seven out of eleven years of the Wheebiz India Skills Reports. However, there has been a persistent gap between female and male labour force participation, indicating a clear bias against employing women over men. This bias is diminishing as female labour force participation has risen over the years, but substantial improvement is still necessary. The Indian Government has implemented various initiatives to foster gender-inclusive employment, aiming to bridge the gender gap in the workplace, making employing female labourers more lucrative while also ensuring it does not come at the cost of pay disparity. One significant legislation is the Equal Remuneration Act of 1976, designed to eliminate the wage gap between genders by ensuring equal pay for equal work. However, the act faces challenges, such as the narrow interpretation of the same work or work of a similar nature and the onus on employees to prove discrimination, which is difficult due to workplace power dynamics and legal complexities. Additionally, the Government has launched schemes like Mission Shakti and the Deendayal Antyodaya Yojna-National Rural Livelihoods Mission (DAY-NRLM), focusing on women's skill development and employability. These initiatives include exclusive training institutes for women, industry-oriented courses and partnerships with private sector bodies and NGOs. To encourage female participation in skill development, 30 per cent of seats in ITIs and ITCs are reserved for women. These measures represent a comprehensive and assertive approach to promoting gender equality in employment, highlighting the crucial importance of legislative support, skill development and financial empowerment in achieving a more inclusive workforce. These unwavering steps will guarantee the complete realisation of the Indian economy's potential and the equitable distribution of the benefits of skills development.

The dawn of AI: Balancing innovation and prudence

As AI advances, it is essential to strike a balance between harnessing its advantages and addressing its challenges to ensure a sustainable future

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is the ex-novo computer technology that essentially deals with developing machines capable of imitating human behaviour. The Encyclopedia Britannica defines AI as the "ability of a computer or robot to perform tasks commonly associated with intelligent beings such as perception, critical thinking and decision-making". As far as the human mind is concerned, first, it processes the information, analyses the processed information from various angles and finally arrives at a logical conclusion. On the contrary, AI is a software programme that solely relies on pre-fed computer data to answer a query. In the entire process, the computer system behaves like a human mind. AI is the order of the day and admittedly, holds the potential to bring about revolutionary changes in communications, defence, healthcare and agriculture. In fact, till recently, the task that was considered impossible even for a machine to perform now AI has turned into a reality. AI has considerably brought computers very close to imitating the human mind, thus, diminishing the gap between man and machine. Today AI has found its application in a variety of fields such as education, finance, defence, agriculture and healthcare. Leading medical research institutions use AI for experiment, diagnosis, treatment and monitoring of deadly diseases. AI facilitates high-quality tissue sample analysis that paves the way for precise prognosis. In this day and age pharmaceutical companies are using AI for drug discovery and chemical analysis. With the help of AI doctors and healthcare professionals can precisely diagnose serious medical conditions such as cancer and stroke. In the education sector too, AI plays an important role. AI has proved to be an extremely handy tool to develop study material, student evaluation, grading and monitoring. Thus, teachers save their precious time which they can utilise in productive academic pursuits as well as engage in meaningful discussions with students. AI-powered virtual educator robots substantially improve teaching and learning outcomes. Now let us see some of the imminent dangers of AI. The picture is not as rosy as it appears for the AI. Widespread indignation use of AI in almost every sphere of human activity is bound to raise some serious concerns concerning privacy, data security and transparency. Psychological well-being and social issues warrant our immediate attention. Companies are gradually replacing humans with AI-powered robots to perform specific tasks at the workplace. This causes anxiety among employees and adversely affects their mental and emotional well-being. The technical dexterity of computers also is a major challenge for humans in the workplace. Of late AI AI-driven Deepfake videos and online Bots have spread at an alarming pace. Deepfake videos and online Bots are capable of orchestrating a fabricated consensus and manipulating public opinion. Fake news spreads like wildfire disturbing peace and leading to social unrest. Another disadvantage of AI is that it makes it extremely tough to distinguish between the original and the fake. AI-induced human rights violations should be stopped at the earliest. AI-powered changing technology landscape has jeopardised data security, privacy, dignity, employment, equality, political rights and secrecy. Experts and sociologists have expressed reservations regarding the detrimental impacts of over-reliance on AI and human robots in important sectors like healthcare, law, marketing, accounting, education, management, technology and workplaces. AI's technological diligence, incredible analysis power and the ability to perform repetitive tasks may lead to huge layoffs. Consequently, this gives rise to a disproportionately high unemployment rate. Employees and the labourers may be subjected to discrimination and disparities and their professional and social security may be at stake. To check the AI misuse a well-defined and comprehensive technological-labour policy is the need of the hour. Some of the measures that help workers survive in the AI-driven landscape are regular up-gradation of employee skills through appropriate training, honing up of technical skills and developing Soft skills. Lo and behold! Let's not lose sight of the fact that AI is completely devoid of human temperament, comprehension and creativity. The human mind is blessed with infinite creative power and Higher Order Thinking Skills (HOTS). These supreme attributes propel human beings to an elevated plane and place them on a higher pedestal than machines. On the contrary, AI is data-driven and follows a defined trajectory, thus, fails to capture human emotions, perception and the ability to perform tasks by adapting to a given environment. Since AI is in its nascent stage, therefore, it is too soon to assume that AI can take over humans shortly as humans continue to be the fons et origo of originality and innovation. Another threat that scares us is that if ever in the future technologically advanced machines take Man as their enemy then the entire human race may face existential crises. Pre-empting these dangers the US and the European countries have taken a locus standi to oppose AI and have taken stringent legal measures to curb AI's capricious use. # Georgian parliament overrides presidential veto

AP ■ TBILISI (GEORGIA)

The Georgian parliament on Tuesday overrode a presidential veto of the “foreign agents” bill that has prompted weeks of massive protests by critics who say it will restrict media freedom and obstruct Georgia’s chances of joining the European Union. The legislature, controlled by the ruling Georgian Dream party, dismissed the veto of President Salome Zourabichvili, an independent. The president now has five days to endorse the bill. If she doesn’t do so, the parliament speaker will sign it into law. The bill that was approved by the parliament earlier this month requires media, non-governmental organizations and other nonprofit groups to register as “pursuing the interests of a foreign power” if they receive more than 20 per cent of their funding from abroad. Zourabichvili, who is increasingly at odds with the governing party, vetoed the bill on May 18. She has accused the governing party of jeopardizing the country’s future and “hindering the path toward becoming a full member of the free and democratic world.” The veto was rejected by an 84-4 vote in a contentious parliament session, during which a Georgian Dream deputy doused the leader of an opposition party with water while he spoke from the rostrum. Opponents of the bill thronged outside the parliament building and some shouted “Slaves!” as the vote was announced. The crowd swelled in the evening and a lengthy procession of protesters marched past Georgian Dream headquarters. “We have realized that our government is ready to throw this country off a cliff. The feeling, when I talk to my friends and people here, is that in the 21st century, our country is once again going under Soviet occupation,” said demonstrator Giorgi Natroshvili. The government says the bill is needed to stem what it deems to be harmful foreign actors

FOREIGN INFLUENCE BILL

trying to destabilize the South Caucasus nation of 3.7 million, but many Georgian journalists and activists argue that the bill’s true goal is to stigmatize them and restrict debate ahead of parliamentary elections scheduled for October. Opponents denounce the legislation as “the Russian law” because it resembles measures pushed through by the Kremlin to crack down on independent news media, nonprofits and activists. Critics say the measure may have been driven by Moscow to thwart Georgia’s chances of further integrating with the West. Prime Minister Irakli Kobakhidze, however, contended the law will aid that integration. “The law on transparency will create better grounds for ensuring the membership of Georgia in the EU,” he told a news conference after the vote, adding that the law would strengthen Georgia’s sovereignty. But opposition parliament member Khatia Dekanoidze said: “Now we have an absolutely new reality ... Probably, the window for integration into European Union will be closed.” The bill is nearly identical to one that the ruling party was pressured to withdraw last year after massive street protests. Renewed demonstrations again gripped Georgia as the bill made its way through parliament. Demonstrators scuffled with police, who used tear gas and water cannons to disperse them. The European Union’s foreign policy arm has said that adoption of the law “negatively impacts Georgia’s progress on the EU path.” Last week, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken announced that travel sanctions would be imposed on Georgian officials “who are responsible for or complicit in undermining democracy in Georgia.” He noted that “it remains our hope that Georgia’s leaders will reconsider the draft law and take steps to move forward with their nation’s democratic and Euro-Atlantic aspirations.” The EU offered Georgia candidate status last December, while making it clear that Tbilisi needs to implement key policy recommendations for its membership bid to progress. The opposition United National Movement has described the bill as part of efforts by Georgian Dream to drag the country into Russia’s sphere of influence — claims it vehemently denies. Georgian Dream was founded by Bidzina Ivanishvili, a former prime minister and billionaire who made his fortune in Russia. Zuka Elbakidze, a student who was among protesters rallying in Tbilisi ahead of Tuesday’s vote, said “this day will determine the fate of our country,” adding that “we are making a choice between Europe and Russia, and all the people gathered here, except the policemen, want Europe and the West.” “We are physically witnessing, literally witnessing, how Georgian citizens, how members of the Georgian Parliament are selling out our country,” said another protester, Mariam Geguchadze. Russia-Georgia relations have often been rocky since Georgia became independent after the 1991 collapse of the Soviet Union. In 2008, Russia fought a brief war with Georgia, which had made a botched attempt to regain control over the breakaway province of South Ossetia. Moscow then recognized South Ossetia and another separatist province, Abkhazia, as independent states and strengthened its military presence there. Most of the world considers both regions to be parts of Georgia. Tbilisi cut diplomatic ties with Moscow, and the regions’ status remains a key irritant even as Russia-Georgia relations have improved in recent years.

Missing Kashmiri poet traced to PoK police custody

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD

A missing Kashmiri poet has been traced to be in the custody of police in the Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK), the Islamabad High Court was informed on Wednesday, two weeks after he disappeared from Rawalpindi. Ahmad Farhad’s wife had filed a petition in the Islamabad High Court (IHC) claiming that he had been abducted from his home. When neither police nor any intelligence agency claimed responsibility for his custody, Justice Mohsin Akhtar Kayani, who was hearing the case, on May 24 issued an eight-page written order, summoning Law Minister Azam Tatar along with the sector commanders of the Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI), Military Intelligence (MI) and director of Intelligence Bureau (IB) as well as the defence and interior secretaries in person before the court on May 29. On Wednesday, the officials of intelligence agencies did not appear but Attorney General Mansoor Usman Awan told the court that Farhad was currently in the custody of Kashmir police. Awan also presented a police report from Dhirkot police station in PoK, which had registered a case against him. The Islamabad police chief told the court that since the poet was in the custody of Kashmir police, the area was out of the jurisdiction of the Islamabad police. During the hearing, Justice Kayani ordered the Attorney General to ensure that “no one gets picked up from Islamabad.” “If a person is not recovered, it will be a failure of the state,” the judge said. The judge also observed that he would dispose of the case if Farhad’s family was satisfied but the case about the missing persons would continue. “I will send the file for the formation of a larger bench on the missing person’s issue,” Justice Kayani remarked before adjourning the hearing. In conversation with journalists outside the IHC, Law Minister Tatar said the police are investigating the Kashmiri poet’s case. “Ahmad Farhad is in PoK, I assisted on constitutional matters as a judicial assistant,” he said, explaining his presence at the court. Farhad, known for his defiant poetry, was allegedly abducted and his location was not shared with the court until the judge showed his mettle to summon the powerful intelligence agencies.

Former Thai PM faces indictment for royal defamation: Prosecutors

AP ■ BANGKOK

Thai prosecutors said Wednesday former Prime Minister Thaksin Shinawatra will be indicted for defaming the monarchy, three months after he was freed on parole on other charges. Thaksin will not yet be indicted because he had filed a request to postpone his original appointment on Wednesday with proof that he has COVID-19, Prayuth Bejraguna, a spokesperson for the Office of the Attorney General, said at a news conference. The attorney general’s office scheduled a new appointment for Thaksin’s indictment on June 18, Prayuth said, adding that Thaksin will also be indicted for violating the Computer Crime Act. The law on defaming the monarchy, an offense known as lese majeste, is punishable by three to 15 years in prison. It is controversial not only because critics consider it harsh, but also because they charge it is used for political purposes to punish government critics.

Thaksin was ousted by a military coup in 2006. His opponents then had accused him of disrespecting King Bhumibol Adulyadej, who died in 2016. Thaksin’s ouster set off years of struggle between his supporters and his opponents, who were generally staunch royalists. The political polarization led to unprecedented public debate about the monarchy’s role, which sharpened when student-led protests for greater democracy took the streets in 2020. Thaksin had been in self-imposed exile since 2008, but returned to Thailand in August last year to begin serving an eight-year sentence on charges related to corruption and abuse of power. He was released on parole in February from the hospital in Bangkok where he spent six months serving time for corruption-related offenses. On his return, he was moved almost immediately from prison to the hospital on grounds of ill health, and about a week after that King Maha Vajiralongkorn reduced his sentence to a single year. Thaksin was granted parole because of his age - he is 74 - and ill health, leaving him free for the remainder of his one-year sentence. Thaksin’s return was interpreted as part of a political bargain between the Pheu Thai Party, the latest in a string of parties that he has supported, and their longstanding rivals in the conservative establishment to stop the progressive Move Forward Party from forming a government after its victory in last year’s general election. But shortly after his return, the attorney general’s office said it had revived an investigation into whether Thaksin almost nine years ago violated the law against defaming the monarch. Thaksin was originally charged in 2016 with violating the law for remarks he made to journalists when he was in Seoul, South Korea, a year before that, but the investigation could proceed only after he was presented with the charge in person in the hospital in January, officials said. Thaksin had denied the charges and submitted a statement defending himself.

Europe’s cybersecurity chief says disruptive attacks have doubled

AP ■ ATHENS (GREECE)

Disruptive digital attacks, many of which have been traced to Russia-backed groups, have doubled in the European Union in recent months and are also targeting election-related services, according to the EU’s top cybersecurity official. Juhan Lepasaar, head of the European Union Agency for Cybersecurity, or ENISA, told The Associated Press in an interview that attacks with geopolitical motives have steadily risen since Russia’s full-scale invasion of Ukraine on Feb. 24, 2022. “The number of hacktivist attacks (against) European infrastructure — threat actors whose main aim is to cause disruption — has doubled from the fourth quarter of 2023 to the first quarter of 2024,” Lepasaar said late Tuesday at the agency’s headquarters in Athens. “It’s quite a significant increase,” he said. Citizens from the EU’s 27 member states will vote June 6-9 for lawmakers in the European Parliament in an election that will also shape the EU’s executive branch, the European Commission. Elections, also due in the United States, Britain and multiple other countries, have alerted security agencies to the threat of disruption campaigns funded by adversaries. ENISA has led exercises and intense consultations to harden the resilience of election-related agencies in the EU for the past seven months. In an annual report for 2023, the agency noted a surge in ransomware attacks and incidents targeting public institutions. Lepasaar said that attack methods — while mostly unsuccessful — were often tried out in Ukraine before being expanded to EU countries. “This is part of the Russian war of aggression, which they fight physically in Ukraine, but digitally also across Europe,” he said. Experts warn that artificial intelligence tools are also being used to target Western voters at accelerating speed and scale with misleading or false information, including hyperrealistic video and audio clips known as deepfakes. “It’s been emphasized, also by member states’ cybersecurity agencies, that AI-enabled disinformation and information manipulation is a big threat,” Lepasaar said. His comments echo a warning made this month by US Director of National Intelligence Avril Haines that technological progress will make more nations and groups able to launch effective disinformation campaigns. US and European experts are helping security agencies to try and anticipate emerging digital threats and vulnerabilities over this decade, with ENISA identifying food production, satellite management and self-driving vehicles as areas requiring attention. Cybersecurity, Lepasaar argues, will inevitably need to become second nature to designers and consumers. “I do believe that we have a societal challenge ahead of us to understand digital security in the same way that we understand, security in the everyday traffic environment,” he said.

Bushra Bibi’s ex-husband assaulted by Imran’s lawyers outside court

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD

The ex-husband of Imran Khan’s third wife Bushra Bibi was attacked by one of the lawyers of the former Pakistan prime minister outside a court here as he appeared for a hearing on appeals against the couple’s conviction in the un-Islamic marriage case. Khan, 71, and Bibi, 49, were sentenced to seven years in prison each on February 3 by a trial court for contracting the marriage during iddat, a mandatory period for a woman in Islam to wait before a second marriage after the death of her husband or divorce. The case was filed by Bushra’s ex-husband Khawar Maneka against the couple in November 2023, alleging that they married without Bushra observing the mandatory waiting period of iddat. He asked the court to declare the marriage null and void. The court, on May 23, reserved the verdict on the appeals which was to be announced on Wednesday. During the hearing of appeals filed by Bushra and her husband and Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder Khan against conviction in the case, Islamabad District and Sessions Judge Shahrukh Arjumand went into his chamber without announcing the verdict. Following the development, PTI lawyers hurled bottles in the courtroom which prompted Maneka’s lawyers to escort him out. However, while being escorted out, a PTI lawyer attacked Maneka within the court premises after which he fell to the ground. The couple had married in 2018, the year Khan went on to win elections and become prime minister. Bushra was ostensibly his spiritual guide but the two developed affection for each other during their meetings. She got a divorce from her husband of 28 years with whom she had five children. She is the third wife of Khan, a former cricketering hero, who during his heydays of sporting career had a playboy reputation.

28 killed in Pak bus mishap

PTI ■ KARACHI

At least 28 people, including women and children, were killed on Wednesday in Pakistan after a speeding passenger bus veered off the road and fell into a ravine in the remote Balochistan province, according to media reports. The bus, heading from Turbat to Quetta, fell into the ravine near Washuk town, around 700 kilometres from Quetta, the capital of Balochistan province. The accident was a result of overspeeding, according to the report, which said that women and children were among the deceased. The accident took place after the tyre of the passenger bus burst, Geo News reported quoting rescue officials. About 22 people sustained injuries in the accident.

S Africans begin voting in crucial elections

AP ■ JOHANNESBURG

South Africans began voting Wednesday at schools, community centers and in large white tents set up in open fields in an election seen as their country’s most important in 30 years. It could put the young democracy in unknown territory. At stake is the three-decade dominance of the African National Congress (ANC) party, which led South Africa out of apartheid’s brutal white minority rule in 1994. It is now the target of a new generation of discontent in a country of 62 million people — half of whom are estimated to be living in poverty. Africa’s most advanced economy has some of the world’s deepest socioeconomic problems, including one of the worst unemployment rates at 32 per cent. The lingering inequality, with poverty and joblessness disproportionately affecting the Black majority, threatens to unseat the party that promised to end it by bringing down apartheid under the slogan of a better life for all. “I take voting as something serious because as communities, it is difficult to complain about services when you have not voted,” said Samuel Ratshalingwa, who was near the front of the queue at a school in the Johannesburg township of Soweto, where President Cyril Ramaphosa was expected to vote. “Our main issue here in our community is the lack of jobs. We have to use the vote to make our voices heard about this problem,” said Ratshalingwa. After winning six successive national elections, several polls have the ANC’s support at less than 50 per cent ahead of this one, an unprecedented drop. It might lose its majority in Parliament for the first time, although it’s widely expected to hold the most seats. The ANC won 57.5 per cent of the vote in the last national election in 2019, its worst result to date and down from a high of nearly 70 per cent of the vote 20 years ago. Ramaphosa, the leader of the ANC, has promised to “do better.” The ANC has asked for more time and patience. Any change in the ANC’s hold on power could be monumental for South Africa. If it does lose its majority, the ANC will likely face the prospect of having to form a coalition with others to stay in government and keep Ramaphosa as president for a second term. The ANC having to co-govern has never happened before. South Africans vote for parties, not directly for their president. The parties then get seats in Parliament according to their share of the vote and those lawmakers elect the president after the election. The ANC has always had a majority in Parliament since 1994. The election will be held on one day across South Africa’s nine provinces, with nearly 28 million people registered to vote at more than 23,000 polling stations. Final results are expected by Sunday. The opposition to the ANC in this election is fierce, but fragmented. The two biggest opposition parties, the Democratic Alliance and the Economic Freedom Fighters, are not predicted to increase their vote by anything near enough to overtake the ANC. The DA is part of an agreement with other smaller parties to combine their vote in an effort to remove the ANC completely, but that’s not seen as likely. Disgruntled South Africans are moving to an array of opposition parties; more than 50 will contest the national election, many of them new. One is led by South Africa’s former President Jacob Zuma, who has turned against his former ANC allies. Zuma was disqualified from standing as a candidate for Parliament but his MK Party is still contesting and is the wild card.

The ANC says it is confident of retaining its majority and analysts have not ruled that out, given the party’s decades of experience in government and its unmatched grassroots campaigning machine. It still has wide support, especially among older voters and those in more rural areas. “I woke up at 4 am this morning, took a bath and made my way,” said 68-year-old Velaphi Banda, adding he has voted for the ANC since 1994 and would do so again. “I was never undecided about which party I will vote for. I have always known.” Ramaphosa has pointed out how South Africa is a far better country now than under apartheid, when Black people were barred from voting, weren’t allowed to move around freely, had to live in certain areas and were oppressed in every way. This election is only South Africa’s seventh national vote in which people of all races are allowed to take part.

IMF upgrades forecast for China’s economy

AP ■ NEW YORK

The International Monetary Fund has upgraded its forecast for China’s economy, while warning that consumer-friendly reforms are needed to sustain strong, high-quality growth. The IMF’s report, issued late Tuesday, said the world’s second-largest economy will likely expand at a 5% annual rate this year, based on its growth in the first quarter and recent moves to support the property sector. But it warned that attaining sustained growth requires building stronger social safety nets and increasing workers’ incomes to enable Chinese consumers to spend more. The IMF also said Beijing should scale back subsidies and other “distortive” policies that support manufacturing at the expense of other industries such as services.

The ruling Communist Party has set its annual growth target at “around 5%,” and the economy grew at a faster-than-expected 5.3% in the first quarter of the year, boosting the global economy. The IMF said its upgraded forecast also reflects recent moves to boost growth, including fresh help for the property industry such as lower interest rates and smaller down-payment requirements on home loans. But it said risks remained, with growth in 2025 forecast to be 4.5%. The IMF praised the Chinese government’s focus on what it calls “high quality” growth, including increased investment in clean energy and advanced technology and improved regulation of financial industries. But it added that “a more comprehensive and balanced policy approach would help China navigate the headwinds facing the economy.” Job losses, especially during the pandemic, and falling housing prices have hit the finances of many Chinese. The report echoes opinions of many economists who say more must be done to provide a social safety net and increase incomes for workers so that Chinese families can afford to save less and spend more. The IMF report’s longer-term assessment was less optimistic. It said it expected China’s annual economic growth to fall to 3.3% by 2029 due to the rapid aging of its population and slower growth in productivity as well as the protracted difficulties in the housing sector. Use of industrial policies to support various industries such as automaking and computer chip development may waste resources and affect China’s trading partners, it said, alluding to a key point of contention between Washington and Beijing.

BBMB Celebrates International Menstrual Hygiene Day Under Swachhta Pakhwada Campaign.

Chandigarh: BBMB celebrated International Menstrual Hygiene Day on May 28, 2024, as part of its Swachhta Pakhwada campaign. International Menstrual Hygiene Day is an annual event aimed at raising awareness about the importance of good menstrual hygiene. On this occasion, reusable eco-friendly sanitary napkins were distributed to women residents of Bhaskar Colony, Sector 25, Chandigarh by the officials of Bhakra Beas Management Board. The initiative was supported by Municipal Corporation of Chandigarh and M/s Versatile Enterprises, through its CSR project Amodini. M/s Versatile Enterprises partnered with BBMB to enhance awareness about menstrual hygiene and women's health. Mr. Arun Seth, MD of Versatile Group, launched this project in 2016 to address menstrual needs and dispel myths. Mrs. Geetanjali Seth, Compliance Coordinator at Versatile Group, educated the women of Bhaskar Colony on sanitary waste management and the importance of maintaining sanitary hygiene. Additionally, the Indian Women Network (IWN) of the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) also supported the cause. Mrs. Ruby Ahuja, Consultant & Clinical Psychologist at CII IWN, attended the event and provided valuable insights into health issues related to sanitary hygiene. Sh. Manoj Tripathi, Chairman, BBMB, stated, "BBMB has initiated various new measures under Swachhta Pakhwada to promote cleanliness and the general well-being of the community. This event underscores BBMB's commitment to health, hygiene, and the empowerment of women in the community."

SAIF Zone highlights opportunities for Indian companies to expand business globally through UAE

Chandigarh: The Comprehensive Economic Cooperation Agreement (CEPA) signed by India and the UAE in May 2022 is an important milestone in trade relations between the two countries. The businesses from both countries have already started leveraging upon the duty waivers and enhanced market access offered under the CEPA, resulting in not only boosting bilateral trade but also two-way investment flows. In line with this, ASSOCHAM organized One to One Meetings in Chandigarh between delegates from Sharjah Airport International Free Zone, Govt. of Sharjah, UAE and ASSOCHAM Members from Chandigarh. These meetings were organized with the support of BNI Chandigarh; Derabassi Small Scale Industry Association; Industries Association of Chandigarh; Panchkula Chamber of Commerce and Industries and World Sikh Chamber of Commerce and Industry. The meetings aided Chandigarh Industries in comprehending the advantages of the India-UAE CEPA and the ways in which Indian businesses can grow into international markets by forming subsidiaries and branches and utilizing the UAE as a base to export to other Gulf nations, Africa, and Europe, among other regions. More than 70 companies attended the meetings.

Praggnanandhaa loses to World Champion Liren

PTI ■ STAVANGER (NORWAY)

Indian Grandmaster R Praggnanandhaa lost to World Champion Ding Liren in the Armageddon tie-breaker after the two played out a draw under normal time control in the second round of the Norway Chess tournament here. The second round of the prestigious event saw all three classical games ending up in a draw once again. Magnus Carlsen, Alireza Firouzja and Liren won with white in the subsequent Armageddon games to grab 1.5 points each. India's prodigy Praggnanandhaa, who went with a 2-0 head-to-head lead against Liren, played out his first classical draw in the main event. But the Chinese GM then emerged victorious in the Armageddon tie-breaker. In the highly anticipated pairing of the day, Carlsen and Hikaru Nakamura played out a closely contested classical game that ended in a draw. Carlsen, demonstrating his exceptional skill under pressure, managed to secure a crucial victory, adding to his impressive Armageddon record and taking the lead of 3 points in tournament standings. Meanwhile, Firouzja and Fabiano Caruana also drew their classical game after a complex struggle. Firouzja's abilities in speed chess shone through in the Armageddon game as he bagged crucial 1.5 points. In the women's section R Vaishali defeated fellow Indian Koneru Humpy to register her first classical win in the tournament.

Despite Humpy's slight advantage in the opening, a critical blunder under time pressure allowed Vaishali to claim victory, and claimed her first ever win against India's number one female player. With the win, Vaishali became India's number two female player on the live rating list. The other two classical matches between Lei Tingjie and Pia Cramling along with Ju Wenjun and Anna Muzychuk ended up in hard-fought draws. The Chinese duo of Wenjun and Tingjie emerged victorious in their respective Armageddon games.

Vaishali beats Humpy to move into sole lead at Norway chess

PTI ■ STAVANGER (NORWAY)

India's R Vaishali came up with a stupendous effort to beat compatriot Koneru Humpy and jump into sole lead in the women's section of the Norway chess tournament here. With each victory under classical time control worth three points, Vaishali got an early advantage moving to four points after the second round and her first-round loss against Wenjun Ju of China under faster time control does not matter so much right now. India's third and latest Grandmaster among women, Vaishali with four points is at the helm followed by the Chinese duo of Tingjie Lei and Ju, Anna Muzychuk of Ukraine and Pia Cramling of Sweden share the fourth spot in the six-players double round robin event, while Humpy currently is languishing at the bottom on 1.5 points. In the men's section, World number one Magnus Carlsen emerged as the sole leader on another day that had only Armageddon to decide the winners. The Norway Chess features a distinctive format where drawn classical games lead to Armageddon tiebreakers to ensure a winner after every round. While 10 minutes are provided to white, black gets 7 minutes to determine the winner of the contest. Black pieces win if the game ends in a draw. Carlsen proved superior than Hikaru Nakamura of United States in the Armageddon. It is no secret anymore that the world's best player and five times world champion does not enjoy Classical chess as much as before. Carlsen drew in the Classical for the second day in the running and then romped home in the faster time control over Nakamura. The lone Indian aspirant Praggnanandhaa had a tough day in office as he lost to reigning World champion Ding Liren of China in the tiebreaker. After drawing the first game confidently, Pragg somehow could not resist the perseverance of Liren who was like a man on a mission.

Later this year, Ding Liren is set to play a match against D Gukesh of India for the world championship crown. Carlsen took his tally to three points in all and came across as the sole leader after the second round thanks to all results going his way. India's Praggnanandhaa lost to Liren in the faster game, which left him with 2.5 points out of the opening round. Having Carlsen in front on three points, Praggnanandhaa is close behind on 2.5 along side Firouzja Alireza of France, Nakamura, and Liren. Fabiano Caruana is currently at the bottom on two points. Firouzja and Caruana also drew their classical game after a complex struggle but the former's abilities in speed chess shone through in the Armageddon game as he bagged crucial 1.5 points. The highlight of the day was Vaishali's fine victory over Humpy in an actual game. Humpy is known to be the queen of Indian chess for over a decade now and she was also ranked number two in the women's candidate that finished recently. Playing the white side of an Italian opening, Vaishali did not get much with her first move advantage and cashed in when the strongest ever Indian woman player made an error to find her queen entrapped. Vaishali also became the first player to score a victory in either section. The other two classical matches between Lei Tingjie and Pia Cramling along with Ju Wenjun and Anna Muzychuk ended up in hard-fought draws. The Chinese duo of Wenjun and Tingjie emerged victorious in their respective Armageddon games. Results men: Magnus Carlsen (Nor, 3) beat Hikaru Nakamura (USA, 2.5) 1.5-1 ;Ding Liren (Chn, 2.5) beat R Praggnanandhaa (2) 1.5-1; Firouzja Alireza (Fra, 2.5) beat Fabiano Caruana (Usa, 2) 1.5-1. Women: R Vaishali (Ind, 4) beat K Humpy (Ind, 1.5); Tingjie Lei (Chn, 3) beat Pia Cramling (Swe, 2); Wenjun JU (Chn, 3) beat Anna Muzychuk (UKR, 2).

Arundhati advances to pre quarters, Narender bows out of Olympic qualifiers

PTI ■ BANGKOK

Reigning national champion Arundhati Choudhary registered a convincing victory to move to the 66kg pre-quarterfinals while Asian Games bronze medallist Narender Berwal (+92kg) bowed out of the second Boxing World Olympic Qualifiers here on Wednesday. While Choudhary won by a 5-0 unanimous decision against Stephanie Pienheiro of Puerto Rico, Berwal went down 2-3 to Ecuador's Gerlon Gilmar Congo Chala. Choudhary began her campaign with a clinical round 1 against her opponent. She was slightly conservative in Round 2, consolidating her position before again dominating the next round to get a unanimous verdict in her favour. Later, Berwal put up a strong fight but it was not enough to advance to the next round. The 2022 Asian Games bronze winner started slow in round 1 and was then forced to catch up. He did well to impress three of the five judges with his punches in the second and third round of the round of 32 bout. However, his efforts were not enough to overturn the overall deficit. In the evening session, Ankushita Boro, will face Rimma Volossenko of Kazakhstan in 60kg pre-quarters while Nishant Dev (71kg) will be up against Thailand's Peerapat Yeasungnoen to earn a spot in the quarterfinals.

Djokovic begins his bid for a 25th Grand Slam title with a first-round French Open win

AP ■ PARIS

Ignore the straight-set score: Novak Djokovic was not quite at his impervious best in the first round of the French Open, and his 6-4, 7-6 (3), 6-4 win over Pierre-Hugues Herbert was not enough to alter the defending champion's "low expectations" at this tournament. "I don't want to get too excited," Djokovic said. "I thought it was a good performance for me. Solid. Of course, I could have done better, I think, on return games, but also credit to him for serving very well, for changing things up." It's been a rougher-than-usual season so far for Djokovic, and while there were some signs of breaking out of his 2024 funk during the course of the contest at Court Philippe Chatrier, he still has room for improvement as he attempts to become the first player in tennis history to claim 25 Grand Slam singles trophies. There's no doubt he cares about such things. "Grand Slams are the ones that are basically getting me up from the bed every day. Knowing that I have to hit the practice courts, I always think about what I can do in Grand Slams," he said. "So here I am. Hopefully I can have another deep run." That's what Herbert expected to see. "I knew, from the beginning," Herbert said, "that I'm going to have in front of me the Novak of the Grand Slams: ... It's just the intensity of concentration." Djokovic is a three-time title winner at Roland Garros who needs to return to the final to retain his No. 1 ranking. But he arrived in Paris without having done that at any tournament this year. He is 0-3 in semifinals - including a loss last week at the lower-tier Geneva Open on red clay - and this victory across 2 1/2 hours only served to make his overall record 15-6. So when he spoke at a news conference on Sunday, Djokovic described his mindset heading into the French Open this way: "Low expectations and high hopes." Then he pointed out, "Anything but a title, for me, is not satisfactory," which is understandable given his remarkable resume. "In the moments when it mattered, I think I delivered. Played a great tiebreak. Stayed focused," Djokovic said about Tuesday's performance. "I'm glad that I started the way I started, the way I felt on the court. Comparing to the previous weeks of tournaments I played, I felt good. Better. So I'm moving in a positive direction. Yeah, it's just the beginning." He seemed a bit edgy at moments against Herbert, a 33-year-old Frenchman who owns a career Grand Slam in doubles but never has been past the third round at any major in singles and is currently ranked 142nd. The home crowd tried to push Herbert, repeatedly calling out his name, even imploring him in English at one point by chanting, "Let's go, Pierre-Hugues! Let's go!" They jeered Djokovic late in the third set when he went to the sideline to towel off after he slipped, stumbled and tumbled onto the clay chasing a ball. A day after sitting in the Chatrier stands to watch rival Rafael Nadal's first-round loss against Alexander Zverev, Djokovic was competing in the chill of a 60-degree evening (15 Celsius), and he did not always look happy. He rolled his head back after one miss while making four groundstroke mistakes to get broken early in the second set. He repeatedly gestured to ballkids to give him tennis balls so he could prepare to serve. Although Herbert's game did not demand a maximum expenditure of energy from

Olympic boxing medalists in Paris promised cash prizes by rogue governing body

AP ■ GENEVA

The boxing governing body declared rogue by the International Olympic Committee said Wednesday it will pay $50,000 in prize money to each gold medalist at the Paris Games.

The cash promise is doubly confrontational for the IOC, which has severed ties with the International Boxing Association and does not approve of governing bodies paying prize money to Olympic medalists.

The IBA said it has a $3.1 million prize money fund for each male and female boxer who reaches the quarterfinals in 13 total weight classes, plus their coaches and national teams. The coach and national team of each Olympic boxing champion will both get $25,000, and the scale of payments goes down to $10,000 in total for each quarterfinalist.

The source of the money is unclear but the IBA led by its Russian president Umar Kremlev has been supported by the country's state energy firm Gazprom. The IBA promised $200,000 for gold medalists at its 2023 world championships and committed to future increases.

"As IBA president, I will always fight for our athletes' well-being, and this step is consistent in terms of the existing commitments we have already taken," Kremlev said in a statement.

The Olympic body did not support a pledge in April by World Athletics to pay $50,000 prize money to each of the 48 gold medalists in track and field in Paris. It has promised also to pay silver and bronze medalists in 2028 at the Los Angeles Olympics. The IOC has de-recognized the IBA, which will not be involved in organizing bouts in Paris for the second straight Summer Games. The IOC cited its concerns about the boxing body's governance, reliance on funding from Gazprom, and the integrity of judges and bouts at the 2016 Rio de Janeiro Olympics. Those games were organized when the boxing body was led by a longtime IOC member, C. K. Wu. Paris medalists are set to be rewarded at "a special awards ceremony," IBA said, after "successful passing of respective anti-doping procedures." The IOC was contacted for comment.

Prize money to Olympic medalists has traditionally been paid by state governments and national teams though not directly from money sourced to the IOC, which prefers governing bodies invest in developing their sport below the elite level. World Athletics said its $2.4

million prize fund for champions in Paris would come from its share of the IOC's revenues. Track's $39.5 million payment for the Tokyo Olympics held in 2021 was the largest amount of a $540 million fund allocated by the IOC. Boxing's share of Olympic revenues from Tokyo was due to be more than $17 million but was held back by the IOC, which had to oversee running the qualifying and finals tournament bouts. The IBA also will not get money from the IOC's Paris revenues and a rival organization of national federations, called World Boxing, is being established to become the recognized governing body of Olympic boxing. "We are setting a clear example for many," the IBA's chief executive Chris Roberts said, "on how international federations should be treating their champions."

India bids to host Gukesh-Liren World Chess Championship match

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

India has submitted its bid to host the much-anticipated World Chess Championship clash between teen sensation D Gukesh and defending champion Ding Liren of China in November-December this year. The 17-year-old Gukesh became the youngest ever challenger for the world title by winning the Candidates Tournament last month. He will face Liren between November 20 to December 15 in Chennai if the country gets the hosting rights. The bid has been submitted by the Tamil Nadu government. "We have received the bid from India," Chess' global governing body FIDE CEO Emil Sutovsky told PTI. As of now, FIDE hasn't received any other bids but the deadline to enter the race is May 31. It is learnt that Singapore is expected to compete with India but has not yet officially submitted the bid documents. "As of now no other country has bid for it but the deadline is till end of this week. Post that we will have a FIDE Council meeting next week. And after that due procedure will be followed and we will decide about the hosting rights," Sutovsky added. If AICF wins the bid, it will have to shell out close to Rs 71 crore.

The basic criteria outlined by FIDE for a prospective bidder for the 2024 edition is a budget of Rs 8.5 million (Rs 71 crore approx) and a facilitation fee of USD 1.1 million (Rs 9 crore) for the global body. The duration of the tournament is 25 days and approval of regulations will be completed by July 1. The total prize money awarded by FIDE would be around USD 2.5 million (Rs 20 crore plus) after the fund was increased from the USD two million (Rs 17 crore) in 2023. Gukesh's historic achievement at the Candidates has spurred a renewed wave of interest in chess. The Chennai-based teen, who has been mentored by five-time world champion Viswanathan Anand, bettered Russian legend Garry Kasparov's 40-year-old record to become the youngest Candidates champion. The Russian great was 20 when he qualified in 1984 to clash with compatriot Anatoly Karpov. India has hosted the prestigious showpiece in 2000 and 2013. In the 2000 edition, Viswanathan Anand claimed the first of his five world titles by winning the event played in a tournament format with 100 players. Anand defeated Alexei Shirov in the final. In 2013, Anand lost to Norwegian challenger Magnus Carlsen.

FINAL CHANCE FOR KOHLI, ROHIT TO GIVE INDIA ICC TROPHY AFTER 13 YEARS

PTI ■ BENGALURU

It's tough to find two cricketers who are so different from each other yet so closely intertwined by the same thread of fate as Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma. Rohit's initiation into top-flight cricket came at the idyllic Belfast in 2007 and Kohli's a year later at the more conventional Dambulla. Another intriguing chapter of this journey together will potentially come to an end next month in the stunning Caribbean Isles. The next T20 World Cup is in 2026, to be jointly hosted by India and Sri Lanka, but Rohit would be touching 40 then and Kohli would be 38. The 50-over version is a further one year away. It's hard to see them playing in any of those, considering the increasingly strike-rate orientated nature of the game. So, both Rohit and Kohli will want to leave the stage with the winner's medal around their neck next month. Should they achieve that, it would be their second each after the 2007 T20 World Cup (Rohit) and the 2011 50-over showpiece (Kohli). And it will be a perfect send off for two players who have had an immeasurable impact on India's white-ball fortunes in the last 17 years.

However, the Kohli-Rohit story is not one of bromance. It's based more on mutual respect and the awareness that they should not step into each other's space. Kohli has talked about the admiration he has had for Rohit since the very beginning of their careers. "I was filled with curiosity about a player. People kept on saying - 'This is one player who is rising rapidly'. I used to wonder that even though I am a young player, no one talks about me, then who is this player. "But when he (Rohit) stepped out to bat, I was all quiet. It was amazing to watch him play. In fact, I haven't seen a player time the ball better than him," Kohli had said in 'Breakfast With Champions'. Contrasting in nature, their batting has been high art for the masses to which they added a dash of modernity later. Of the two, Kohli is the more all-format batter, who has adapted more fluently with the changing face of the game. He has scored in every corner of the cricketing world in a show of consistency that was rarely witnessed after the halcyon days of Sachin Tendulkar. While Rohit built his own edifices in white-ball formats, the Mumbai-man remained a reluctant visitor in Test cricket's elite corridors for the better part of his career. A move up to the opener's role helped Rohit unshackle himself a bit in Tests in the later part of his career. But for now, Kohli and Rohit will have to lean on their vast experience in T20 cricket to fuel India's run in the World Cup. Rohit will certainly open and if his approach in last year's World Cup and in the just-concluded IPL can be taken as a sign, the skipper will continue his selfless, aggressive approach. Herein, Rohit has an inherent advantage. His natural big-hitting abilities will help him pursue his batsmanship without many improvisations. That one-legged pull of his is a cosy meeting point between elegance and malevolence. But Kohli's game is slightly different. He can pull off those occasional big hits - a swat-flick six or a flat-bat smash over bowler's head. A quick rewind to his pick-up shot off Pakistan pacer Haris Rauf during the 2022 T20 World Cup will vouch for that. Still, there is a sore point. Kohli has often struggled to score off spin, especially against the left-arm variety. His career strike-rate against slow bowlers hovers around mid-120s in T20s.

Several times, it has impeded his progress in the middle innings but during this year's IPL, he seemed to have found a solution. He brought out the slog-sweep against spinners, and it had a healthy influence on his strike-rate as Kohli made 260 runs from 188 balls and struck 15 sixes against them. His strike-rate against spin touched 139, a marked improvement from his overall IPL strike-rate of 124. "It was me mentally putting myself in that situation. I did not practice that at all," he explained. "I know I can hit it because I have played that shot a lot in the past. So, I just felt like I needed to take a bit more risk," Kohli said of his new approach against spin. This might come in handy for him in the T20 World Cup where the pitches are expected to become progressively slow, increasingly bringing spinners into the game. Beyond the realm of cricket, the two veterans' final charge at an ICC trophy — personally and for the team — would be a captivating sight. For the fans, this World Cup would be about drinking it in as much as they can because once this duo leaves the stage, there will be an immense emptiness.

Only Bumrah is executing yorkers consistently: Lee

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Legendary Australia speedster Brett Lee feels Lapart from Jasprit Bumrah, pacers are failing to nail yorkers effectively in the death overs and he wants them to master the pivotal delivery. Bumrah is one of the most complete bowlers in world cricket at the moment. He can bowl wicket-taking deliveries without leaking runs but the most lethal weapon in his armoury is his toe-crushing yorker, which he, more often than not, executes perfectly in the death overs. "On a general rule, other than Bumrah, we haven't seen enough fast bowlers nailing their yorkers recently. "I want to see fast bowlers bowl more yorkers. I still don't reckon they execute enough yorkers at the death," Lee said at the launch of the Legends Intercontinental T20 league recently. With the recently concluded IPL featuring scores in excess of 200 regularly, Lee believes the fast bowlers would be more economical had they nailed yorkers. "If you look back at 17 years of Indian Premier League, on average a yorker goes for a strike rate of less than 100. Which tells me that one run or less per bowler that's executed. "Now, when you bowl a yorker and you've got guys who can go down and scoop you over the head, well that puts pressure on you as a bowler. "You've got to set in the right field and put two men back, third man fine and back and then bowl," Lee added. As T20 cricket progresses, the game is tilting more and more towards the batters. With the 'Impact Player Rule' and flat decks, bowlers struggled in the IPL. Lee, like several other former players, called for a balance between bat and ball. "I'm all for batters smoking the ball all over, but there has got to be something for the bowlers too. I'm not asking for a green top, where teams bowled out for 110, because that's not good for cricket either. "You want a good total, I think. Anywhere around that 185 mark to 230 is a good score. We've seen scores now of 265, 270, 277. "It's really hard because most bowlers now are going for 45 to 50 off their four overs," he said. WARNER HAS EARNED THE RIGHT TO GO ON HIS OWN TERMS: Australia's charismatic young batter Jake Fraser-McGurk set the stage ablaze in his debut IPL season with many calling for his inclusion in Australia's T20 World Cup squad.

However, the selectors decided to go with veteran opener David Warner, who is set to retire after the tournament, Travis Head and Mitchell Marsh in the top-order. McGurk, who is a top order batter and Warner's Delhi Capitals teammate, though has been named as a travelling reserve. "David Warner has earned that right to go out on his own terms. And if things don't happen for whatever reason, then he's (McGurk) definitely there to take part," Lee said. Although Warner did not have a particularly great IPL as he missed several matches due to an injury, the Southpaw has scored 834 runs in T20 cricket since 2021 at a strike rate of around 150. He was woefully out of form ahead of the 2021 T20 World Cup but ended up being the player of the tournament, playing a vital role in Australia's maiden World Cup win in the shortest format. On the other hand, 22-year-old McGurk, who was called in as a replacement for Lungi Ngidi at Delhi Capitals, gave an excellent display of explosive batsmanship, smashing four half-centuries in nine games at an astronomical strike rate exceeding 234. "I think if you go over there as a reserve batsman, you definitely have a chance to get an opportunity. "That happened this year with the Delhi Capitals, he wasn't even picked in the squad. "Ricky Ponting rang him up late night and said come in and had a few injuries. So right time, right place. "But the advice to him, and he articulated it beautifully to say that he's only 22 years of age (araam se araam se). He's got time. There's no point rushing it," Lee said.

ABD laments racial quota chatter around SA T20 World Cup squad

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

As de Villiers is not surprised that just days before South Africa renews its quest for an elusive World Cup, the talk back home is all about racial quota in the team. It's a rinse-and-repeat sort of situation and de Villiers, who retired in 2018, is glad that he is a mere spectator to the situation now. "...It's a shame going into a tournament to have the focus on that. I mean it's nothing new, it's just a shame, lamented one of the greats of South African cricket. "Luckily this time around, I've had nothing to do with anything over there. I'm just a spectator," the 40-year-old said in an interaction with PTI facilitated by 'Jo Cinema'. The cause of outrage is the presence of just one black player in the squad for the T20 showpiece that will take place in the Americas from June 1. Considered the perennial bridesmaids, who tend to choke in crunch situations, South Africa somehow are always in the pre-tournament favourites bracket without actually living up to the tag. And having a deeply divisive topic take centre-stage just days before they begin their campaign is a far-from-ideal build-up for a country that has a troubled past when it comes to race relations. The Proteas will start off against the Netherlands in New York on June 8. Over the course of a season, six players of colour are required to be in the South Africa playing eleven including two from the black African community as per the policy introduced in 2016. With Kagiso Rabada being the only black African in the T20 World Cup squad, the national team is set to miss its target. Another black-African, Lungi Ngidi, is part of the travelling reserves. The other players of colour include Reeza Hendricks, Bjorn Fortuin, Keshav Maharaj, Tabraiz Shamsi and Otttniel Baartman. "There are controversial moments back home as per usual with the South African squad just before a World Cup," de Villiers said. "I think it's a good team. It's a shame about Lungi... (he) lost a bit of form, had a couple of injuries. Otherwise, he most probably would have been in the squad and there wouldn't have been any controversial stuff back home," he added. At the moment, Cricket South Africa doesn't have a committee of selectors and the team is picked by head coaches Shukri Conrad (Tests) and Rob Walter (white-ball cricket). "Sometimes these things happen and it puts you under a bit of pressure as a selection panel and as a coach and a captain," de Villiers said. "From what I remember is with the quota system, it's an average team, an average number over the season and they don't really look at every series, but as journalists sometimes enjoy steaming up things a bit," he tried to put things in context. Following the selection of the squad earlier this month, former Sports Minister Fikile Mbalula and former CSA and ICC president Ray Mali questioned the composition of the side.

Selector, head coach take field for nine men Australia in T20 World Cup warm up

PTI ■ PORT OF SPAIN

Short of players, a nine-man Australia needed as many as four support staff members on the field, including chief selector and head coach, in their T20 World Cup warm-up against Namibia but that did not change the expected outcome of the game. Australia won the game by seven wickets with impressive performances from David Warner (54 not out off 21 balls), fit again Josh Hazlewood (2/5) and leg-spinner Adam Zampa (3/25). They chased down Namibia's 119 with 10 overs to spare. With the likes of Pat Cummins, Travis Head,

Mitchell Starc, Cameron Green, Marcus Stoinis and Glenn Maxwell given extra time at home following the two-month long IPL, chief selector and former captain George Bailey and head coach

Andrew McDonald were among the support staff who were forced to take the field. 46-year-old fielding coach Andre Borovec also took the field alongside Bailey when skipper Mitchell Marsh opted to bowl against Namibia. When Marsh and Hazlewood went back to the dressing room, McDonald and 49-year-old batting coach Brad Hodge had to step on the field. Hazlewood, playing his first game in three months, looked in good rhythm.

India getting used to cooler temperatures, playing white ball games in morning

PTI ■ NEW YORK

After two months of intense competitive cricket under night lights, the Indian cricket team, sans Virat Kohli, began its preparations for the T20 World Cup with a morning training session here, keeping in mind the 10.30am starts for all its preliminary games. Kohli took a break for personal work after RCB's IPL ouster and in all likelihood, he will join the squad by Friday. But it is not clear if he would be able to take part in the only warm-up game against Bangladesh on Saturday after a long flight. Having played 90 per cent of the matches under lights in the scorching Indian summer, the idea would be to adjust to pleasant mornings where temperatures will hover between 25 to 27 degree celsius with very less humidity. A white kookaburra in slightly windy mornings could be a challenge and to be prepared for that, the severely jet-lagged bodies need to get used to morning conditions. And this is why the support staff, before initiating the skills training (net sessions) on the practice pitches at a ground on the outskirts of the city, have decided to help the players acclimatise with the conditions. With 14 players checking in, there was light jogging, routine shuttle runs, and a bit of foot volley to get into the groove. "They have been away two and half months from us and getting to know where they stand and what needs to be done before the World Cup is the goal. The (first) goal is to spend 45 minutes in the heat to get going," Strength and conditioning coach Soham Desai told bcci.Tv. "We came in the day before yesterday and we just eased into our routines here, the players are just getting used to the time zone. Today we are having our first ground session," he added. As far as the players are concerned, there is an element of curiosity about playing cricket in New York. The Indian teams, over the years, have played primarily in Florida at the Fort Lauderdale ground during their tours of the West Indies. "First time we are going to play cricket in New York, it's going to be fun," all-rounder Ravindra Jadeja said. "We have not yet played cricket, came here for a team activity today. Hopefully, it will be good. The weather is really good, so we are looking forward to it." Skipper Rohit Sharma's deputy Hardik Pandya seemed excited with the "bright sunshine" and "good vibes" while Suryakumar Yadav wanted to know more about the the diaspora's cricket interests.
