Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, who has been campaigning consistently every day in Amethi and Rae Bareli, is simultaneously highlighting the strength of the Congress and its leaders in the state. "The Congress has the most people from the middle class in Uttar Pradesh," she said.

Priyanka Gandhi said the old guard follows the ideals of Mahatma Gandhi who always supported farmers. "The farmers of Uttar Pradesh have been suffering for a long time, " she said.

She added, "We are fighting for the rights of the farmers of Uttar Pradesh." She accused the state government of being偏向 the rich and not taking into account the farmers' needs.

She also urged the voters to vote for the Congress in the upcoming elections.

Priyanka Gandhi also highlighted the party's commitment to the farmers, saying, "We will support and stand with the farmers in their struggle for a better future."
 Defence Minister Rajnath Singh has said that while India is a nuclear-armed state, it will continue to follow the principle of ‘no first use’ in any country.

“Most of the countries in the world are not nuclear-armed, and there might be different principles followed by different countries,” he said.

The statement comes after Prime Minister Narendra Modi had said that India would continue the non-first use policy, under which India would only use nuclear weapons in self-defence.

Prime Minister, along with other leaders such as Adityanath, will be in Lucknow on Thursday.

Unifying Paradise

Pointing to people’s anger and civil unrest in PoK, Amit Shah says it will be reclaimed as part of India.

As peace and tranquility envelope the syrian landscape of Kashmir in perfect harmony, the Indian and Pakistani Occupied Kashmir (PoK), India’s Home Minister Amit Shah has reiterated that the region ‘follows the success of its Operation’. Nothing is to change with the comment has negated the disputed region on the historic truths, thereby, raising the issue with serious ramifications. Following the principle of the status quo, both countries agree to refrain from using nuclear weapons. Pakistan, however, reserves this right to take any option to accede to India or Pakistan. Maharaj Hari Singh, then ruler of Jammu and Kashmir, initially sought to remain neutral but, amid military intervention by both the countries, had to accede to India in October 1947. It led to the first India-Pakistan War, which saw a United Nations-brokered cease-fire, the LoC, which divided the region into the Indian J&K and PoK. While white lines trace the border of the territory, Pakistan retained approximately one-third of it, which is known as the Azad Jammu & Kashmir (AJK) and Gilgit-Baltistan. Therefore, from an Indian and Pakistani perspective, the annexation and its inclusion in India’s territorial claims is based on historic, legal and moral grounds. However, the time and practice of the Hifasah Islam policy seems disputable: bringing up such critical matters in public space, especially during elections and when they involve a nucleonic neighbor, is not of the best kind.

For its part, Pakistan considers PoK as a ‘liberated territory’ pending a plebiscite promised by the UN Security Council. This, however, is yet to be held.

In this given situation, the status quo maintained over seven decades keeps the two countries from going to war. The larger question is, do we want to go to war with Pakistan?

This is a question that has been asked repeatedly. The answer is a clear no. It would mean we would have to consider the ramifications of such a war, which could be devastating.

In the meantime, Pakistan must be prepared to deal with any situation that arises. The country must remain vigilant and ready to act if necessary.

The new educational landscape must integrate skill-based learning into formal education systems, fostering an approach to learning and livelihood that is new to the landscape. There is more to be done and more ways to earn with it than before.

This has widened and decentralized the nature of learning, which by far is more encompassing and has been addressed as educational. The emphasis on skill is not new; it is a shift in the perception of skills from being a part of education to having its own merit.

Modi filing nomination boosts BP morale

Varanasi electrified as Narendra Modi filed papers, underscoring UP’s centrality and Modi-Yogi alliance’s lasting impact on national politics

Narendra Modi filed the nomination papers for the upcoming Lok Sabha polls on Monday before the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections on April 11.

The announcement was made by the BJP, which leads a strong majority in the state legislature, and is set to win around 200 seats in the upcoming polls. The party is banking on its leader of the pack, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is expected to do well in Varanasi, currently held by Arun Jaitley.

The filing of Modi’s nomination is significant because it underscores the BJP’s confidence in winning the state and increasing its majority in the Lok Sabha.

The state, which is a key battleground for national politics, has witnessed a surge in anti-incumbency sentiments in recent months. The BJP, however, has been able to maintain its momentum, largely due to the popularity of its leader, Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

The filing of Modi’s nomination is expected to boost the morale of the BJP candidates and party workers in Uttar Pradesh, who are gearing up for the upcoming polls.

Modi’s filing of nomination is also seen as a strong message of confidence from the party to its supporters in the state, who have beenbuffeted by the current economic slowdown and other challenges.

A recent conference on medical oncology highlighted the importance of addressing the emotional and psychological well-being of patients undergoing cancer treatments. The conference emphasized the need for multidisciplinary approaches to care, including psychological support, to help patients navigate the challenges associated with cancer. Attendees discussed the importance of early intervention and the potential benefits of integrating mental health services into cancer care programs. The event underscored the need for ongoing support and resources for both patients and their families during the cancer journey. The conference was part of a larger effort to improve the quality of care for cancer patients and their families, and it provided a platform for sharing best practices and innovative approaches in oncology care.

The conference also highlighted the role of technology in enhancing patient care. Digital tools and telemedicine were discussed as ways to improve access to care, particularly for patients living in remote areas or with limited mobility. The integration of digital health technologies was seen as a means to support remote monitoring, personalized care plans, and improved communication between patients and healthcare providers.

The conference concluded with a call to action for healthcare providers and policymakers to prioritize investment in cancer care infrastructure and research. Attendees called for a greater focus on patient-centered care, the development of new therapeutic options, and the need for continued support for cancer research.

The event was organized by the International Cancer Union and supported by several leading organizations in the field of oncology. The conference attracted a diverse audience of oncologists, researchers, and healthcare professionals from around the world, who came together to discuss the latest advancements and challenges in cancer care.

The conference was held in a state-of-the-art conference center, providing attendees with modern facilities and a conducive environment for learning and networking. The organizers were commended for their efforts in creating a stimulating and inclusive atmosphere, which facilitated meaningful discussions and collaborations.

As the conference approached its conclusion, there was a sense of optimism and renewed commitment to advancing cancer care. The attendees were encouraged to continue their work in improving the quality of life for those affected by cancer and to work towards a future where cancer is preventable, treatable, and curable.
A recent criticism of Prime Minister Narendra Modi was made by Agriculture Minister Sharad Pawar, who has repeatedly criticized the NCP chief for undercutting his role in agriculture. The latest round of criticism comes after Modi's recent visits to Israel and Afghanistan, where he was accused of not addressing the problems of farmers.

Modi has been accused of not visiting his home state of Madhya Pradesh in the recent months, which has led to a surge in protests. The government has blamed the NCP for the political crisis in the state, while the NCP has accused Modi of neglecting the agrarian sector.

Pawar has also accused Modi of not taking action against the BJP's alleges of cow slaughter and cow smuggling. He has also accused Modi of not taking action against the BJP's alleged linkage with the RSS and the VHP.

In a recent interview, Pawar said that he wants to see the Congress along with the LJP and the RLSP in the next Lok Sabha elections. He also said that the NCP will not support the BJP in the next elections.

However, Pawar has been under pressure from the NCP's allies, who have demanded that he support the Congress in the next elections.

Pawar has also accused Modi of not taking action against the Indian Orthodox Church, which he has accused of being a threat to the country's secularism.

India are currently second in Group A and currently sits as the fourth in the list of goal scorers. He is also third in the list of goal scorers for India’s all-time top scorer and most-capped player.

Chhetri, who made his debut in 2015, became a national hero and has been a key player for the Indian national team. He has scored over 70 goals for his country, making him the country's most-capped player.

Chhetri is not only a gifted striker but also a vital leader on and off the pitch. His dedication, work ethic, and commitment to the game have made him a role model for the younger generation of Indian footballers.

Despite facing challenges and setbacks, Chhetri's passion for the game remains undiminished. His inspiring journey is a testament to the power of determination and hard work in achieving success in the competitive world of professional football.

Chhetri's final match will be played at Jamshedpur on Saturday and it is appropriate that he will end his career on his home turf. He has played a lot of his football wherever he has been. In India, he is currently second in goals scored for the national team and third in all-time goals scored for the team.

Chhetri's national team career began in 2013 when he was included in the squad for the FIFA U-20 World Cup. He has represented India at various levels, including the senior team.

India's national team has had its fair share of success, including reaching the semi-finals of the AFC Asian Cup in 2019. The team has also qualified for the FIFA World Cup once in 2022.

Chhetri is a product of the Indian footballing ecosystem, which has produced several talented players in recent times. He has been an integral part of India's footballing journey and has contributed greatly to the country's development in the sport.

Chhetri's farewell match is expected to be a流量盛宴, with many Indian football fans expected to attend. The match will be a testament to Chhetri's contribution to Indian football and his legacy will continue to inspire future generations of footballers.

SRH qualifies for IPL playoffs after rain washes out match against GT

Tension on Hyderabad backfired for the Indian Premier League (IPL) as the rain washed out the match between Sunrisers Hyderabad and Gujarat Titans here on Sunday.

The match was abandoned due to persistent downpour, which washed out the play for the second straight day.

SRH now have 14 points from 13 matches and are currently at the third position in the points table with a net run-rate of 0.63.

With this result, GT are now at 15 points from 13 matches and are currently at the second position in the points table with a net run-rate of 0.77.

Gujarat Titans have already been eliminated, on May 19 at the smallest margin of 12 points from 13 matches.

The focus of the match would have been on Sunrisers Hyderabad and Gujarat Titans as both teams are currently in the playoff race.

The match was scheduled to start at 2:30 pm on Sunday but due to heavy rains, the match was abandoned.

Gujarat Titans were ahead by 12 runs in the 17th over when rain forced the umpires to abandon the match.

SRH were looking to make inroads into the playoffs after a poor start to their campaign.
