Rural tourism helps Yunnan combat poverty

To turn land resources and rural tourism into viable assets in poverty-stricken areas, an important way is to develop tourism in Yunnan, which has a rich variety of natural and cultural resources. To develop rural tourism and boost local economies, the provincial government has been promoting rural tourism in poverty-stricken areas.

In recent years, the government has implemented several measures to promote rural tourism in poverty-stricken areas. The government has provided financial support for the development of rural tourism, and has encouraged local residents to participate in tourism activities. The government has also provided training and support to local residents to improve their tourism-related skills.

The government has also implemented policies to protect local cultures and natural environments. These policies have helped ensure the sustainable development of rural tourism.

In the past few years, rural tourism has become one of the main sources of income for many rural residents in Yunnan. The residents have been able to earn income from tourism-related activities, such as提供住宿、餐饮服务、手工艺品销售等。This has helped reduce poverty in the region.
